Local Happenings Told In Short Paragraphs

There's one thing about the Christmas spirit. It produces neither a sweetheart nor pocket book.

Lies are great travelers and welcome visitors in a good many homes and no questions asked. Truth travels slowly, has to prove its identity and then a lot of people hesitate to make room for it.

William Hager has received notice from the head office of the Eminent Ladies, Auxiliary to Knights of the Globe, that the policy held by his wife, lately deceased, has been ordered paid. Amount $1,500.

One of our citizens was overheard advocating a curfew law, lately. A curfew law is, in some respects, a good thing, but the best kind is that enforced by the old mom in his own home and with a gad, if necessary.

Fred T. Hoffman, formerly of this village, now conducting the Gazette at Spring Valley, Ill., was here on a brief business call Monday. Fred reports prosperity coming his way and the addition to his fa ally of a daughter.

The ladies of St. Ann's church met Wednesday afternoon and organized a sewing society. They will hold their first meeting Tuesday, January 3, at the residence of Mrs. T. C. Dolan when a permanent organization will be perfected.

L. B. Lines, genial host of the Commercial Hotel, won the big turkey and trimmings offered by Alverson & Groff to the person guessing nearest the number of seeds in the big pumpkin exhibited at their market. Mr. Lines guessed 455 and that is the number found in the pumpkin.

The youthful sleigh-rider who sneaked out of Powers' store on Tuesday afternoon with a couple of glass jars of candy grabbed from a show case, is well known to Mr. Powers, and if such a thing occurs again she will receive an unsought introduction to the constable her father voted for last spring.

While the majority of parents are desirous of giving their children all the educational privileges possible, not all are able to send them away to school. But in this day and age there are few too poor to furnish their family with plenty of good reading matter. And the right kind of reading is as education in itself.

The Soldiers Monument committee met Thursday evening Dec. 15 in the G. A. R. hall for the purpose of organizing, and the following officers were elected: President, Geo. H. Comstock; Secretary-Treasurer, F. A. Lagerquist. The committee will meet once a month and will be pleased to receive contributions from all. It was decided not to erect a monument that would cost less than $1,500.00.

A Barrington mother came out from Chicago Monday loaded with gifts for her little angel. After she had gotten clothes straightened, from a contact with the State street crush, she said: "I've got a locomotive, a wagon, a mechanical contortionist and an automobile. That ought to satisfy our pet." "It ought to but it won't," said her husband. "You want to get him a hammer so he can smash them quick."

Monday will be observed as the Christmas holiday by banks and the clerks of Chicago. C. F. Hall Co., Dundee

The holiday display at this mammoth store is more extensive than in any past year and their ample facilities for showing goods are taxed to the utmost. Familiar as most of our readers are with the interior of this building it may be surprise to some to learn that it has a floor space of nearly half an acre, and that in addition to the store proper, the basement and second floor are taken largely used for the storage of reserve stock. The quantity of goods is in part explained by the work of a mail order department, the extent of which is little realized in Dundee except by those connected with the postoffice. Seventeen persons are now employed by the C. F. Hall Co. in addition to the three members of the firm, and the system of profit sharing introduced by Mr. Hall three years ago has contributed to an unusual an efficiency among them and a cordiality between employer and employe that is met with but too rarely. This is however but one of a number of directions in which this firm has taken advanced ground. Their lecture course of a year ago will be remembered as a unique piece of advertising which-met with the warmest appreciation from the public. This place of business, both as regards its equipment and the throngs which frequent it, is more suggestive of a metropolis than of a country village, and they announce it as their purpose to bring it up in all particulars to the standard of the phrase in which it has so aptly been described, "a city store in a country town."

Announcement

The annual convention of Corn Growers and Stockmen will be held in the Agricultural Building of the University of Illinois from Monday, January 23, to Friday, February 3, inclusive. This convention is held under the auspices of the Corn Growers and Stockmen of Illinois. It consists of general sessions at which addresses are given by experts in corn and stock growing, and of special sessions on various lines, including regular courses in corn judging, stock judging, dairying and farm mechanics.

This meeting offers a special opportunity to the farmers of the state, inasmuch as it gives them a chance to become familiar with the work of Experiment Stations and of the most advanced practical men in the various lines of agriculture. This annual convention is the most opportune time for farmers to visit the University of Illinois, and also to learn the experience of one another.

In connection with this convention, the dairymen of Illinois will hold their mid-winter meeting and offer class work in different lines of dairying, and lectures will be given by experts in this and other states.

The Illinois Life Stock Breeders' Association will hold their annual during the last week of this convention, as they did last year.

These attractions insure an interesting and profitable time for all who attend the convention. The program will be so arranged that it will be possible to attend classes in any one, or in all, of the subjects, during the same days. Those who can attend for the entire two weeks, will be well repaid; but it will be well worth while to attend it for only a few days.

Those who desire programs of this convention should address College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois.
