Will Turn Switch on New Ornamental System Feb. 9th

Public Invited to Witness Ceremony—Banquet at the Greengard Grill

Barrington's ornamental street lighting system will be turned on for the first time at 7 o'clock on next Monday night.

To celebrate the completion of this important municipal project, village officials and civic organizations ask citizens to congregate around the central light at the triangle downtown to witness the lighting up of the system.
The American Legion drum and bugle corps will lead a parade to form at 6:30 which will terminate at the triangle.

Banquet at Greengard's

Following the ceremony of turning on the lights, a celebration banquet will be served at the Greengard Grill at 7:15 for members of the village board, Barrington Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Barrington
Lions Club, and property owners whose holdings front along the new light district. There will be entertainment and a few short talks. A charge of $1.00 a plate will be made.

All who are planning to attend the banquet must notify the secretary of their respective organization or the Greengard Grill not later than Monday noon. Only those who have made reservations will be admitted, as it is expected that the number desirous to attend will be large compared to the space available.

Lions Stage Banquet

The Barrington Lions Club had a leading part in securing the new light system, and it is this club that is making arrangements for the banquet.

Catlow Presents "Min and Bill" for Local Legion

Male Dresler and Wallace Berry, as a double team provide the central features for "Min and Bill," a vivid drama of the waterfront, which will be shown at The Catlow theatre tonight and Friday night at a benefit show for the local American Legion.

New Stars Appear

The story depicts the struggle between a foster mother and natural mother for the happiness of a girl, and the tremendous banishment that solves the problem is a decidedly new note in the drama of the screen. There is not a letup in the breathless interest in this astounding story, and despite its poignant drama there are many comedy moods, as well as a charming love romance, to lighten its more sombre moments.

Patrons of The Catlow theatre this Saturday night will get their first glimpses of three new talking picture stars, Spogene Tracy, Claire Luce and Joan (Cherie) LaVies, who are portrayed featured characters in the laugh-provoking motionette "Up The River."

A new idea in talking pictures will be offered to local movie fans next Sunday and Monday nights when "Just Imagine" will be screened at The Catlow theatre.

It is said in a 1930 setting, when the world has changed materially in virtually every element except romance. The story of the love of the "Lindbergh of 1930" in the person of John Garrick or Maureen O'Sullivan is set with the traditional difficulties of romance of all time, but, of course, this being a musical comedy, true love conquers in the end.

Elli Brendel, the hilariously funny Swedish comedian has the principal role and moves in and out of the story at frequent intervals, providing a generous portion of comedy. He is ably

Bandits Get $2,000 at Bensenville Bank

Two youthful bandits held up the First State Bank of Bensenville southeast of Arlington Heights last Saturday morning and escaped with $2,000.

Shooting into the bank with drawn revolvers, the two hold-up men forced the cashier to open the door to his cage, scooped the money out of a cash drawer, jumped into a small automobile parked at the curb, and fled towards Chicago.

Four employees were in the bank.
One of them ran out the rear door and telephoned for help, but the bandit did not stop so fast that they were out of town before help arrived. In the hurry they left several thousand dollars in the vault.

John F. Meyer of Norwood Park, a collector for Chicago-Barrington Suburban trains of the Chicago and Northwestern, 57 years retired on pension Saturday, January 30 after 47 years railroad service.

Meyer was received as an institution by Barrington commuters. It was more than 20 years ago that he was a collector on suburban trains turning around at Barrington and for 17 years he has had a permanent

Barrington run. The last 10 years he has been a collector on train 638, leaving Barrington at 7:24 in the morning and returning at 7:35 in the evening. There is hardly a man or woman in Barrington who does not know John Meyer and who will not miss his friendly greeting.

Meyer started work for the Chicago and Northwestern on June 2, 1882. He estimates that in his nearly half a century as a railroad man, he has traveled more than one million miles, put "without going anywhere." He has four children, two of whom share his home at Norwood park.

Mr. Meyer said,

"nor am I insensible to the fact that every citizen owes it to his fellow citizens to lay aside personal considerations, should it appear that he can render a service by becoming a public servant.

"More than one problem of grave import will face the next mayor and members of the village board and their positions will not be enviable ones.

I have been reminded that I have the necessary time to give to the office and have had much experience in local public affairs. These things I think, but there are plenty of time to reach a decision. The job is one of great responsibility, and it of any advantage to me. However if I become convinced that I can be of any service to the people of Barrington

I shall not hesitate on that account. I shall probably reach a definite decision within the next few weeks."

Mr. Plage has been a lifelong resident of the Barrington community.
For many years he was manager of Plage & Co., building material and coal dealers, of which The Shurtliff Co. is the successor. He was a member of the firm from the time it was established in 1890 until it was sold to Fred Homuth and William Gottschalk in 1922. He was the town clerk of Cuba township from 1906 to 1912, and served as a member of the village board for 6 years. Mr. Plage is the present building commissioner of Barrington, having been appointed to that office when the building code was enacted four years ago. He has been treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce for the past three years.

Mr. Jardine will run on the same ticket as Attorney John E. Heinrich, the mayoral candidate. It is understood that new petitions have been prepared bearing the names of the two candidates, and that these petitions will be placed in circulation within a short time.

Mr. Jardine is general manager of Metcalf Stationery Co., a Chicago printing and engraving concern of high standing with which he has been associated for the past thirty-five years. He has been a resident and taxpayer of Barrington for the past six years, but has been well acquainted with the town and a keen observer of its progress for a much longer period, he said yesterday in conversation with a Review reporter.

He has been approached on several occasions, he stated, with the proposition to align himself with some political group or faction and receive the support of its members, but has refused to consider all such offers, believing that if elected to office as an independent candidate, he will be able to render much more valuable service to the taxpayers and citizens of the village.

Thus far John E. Heinrich, who announced himself a candidate for mayor several weeks ago, has been without opposition, but as the time for the first day of filing approaches, rumors of other candidates become more persistent and it seems probable that they will be several in the race before the filing closes.

Urban Plage to Run

One of the two who is most promi-nently mentioned for the office of mayor is Frank H. Plage of 140 W.
Russell street. Mr. Plage is almost candida for the office, but he is as yet uncertain, he told a Review reporter

A motion picture entitled "The Legacy" was a feature of the program given Monday, Feb. 2, at the meeting of the student body of Ela Township high school.

This film, which was obtained through the courtesy of B. I. Dubout of Nemours, and Company, Inc., of Wilmington, Del., tells a story of a boy, a city man, who inherits a run-down farm, is able through the application of modern methods in agriculture, and the correct use of explosives, to turn this property into a paying proposition.

The work of the extension division of the state college is pointed out in the picture as is that of the county agent.

The assistant county agent and the local leader of the community both play important parts in showing the new farmer not only methods of land clearing, but also modern crop and dairy practices. At the end of the second year, when a satisfactory profit is shown on the farm, the farmer's wife steps forward and shows how she plans to spend part of this money on home improvements.

She has learned of modern home conveniences at a home demonstration meeting in the neighborhood. Just a bit of romance is injected into the film through the love affair of the farmer's daughter and the young assistant county agent.

This picture is the first of a series of films relating to the use of explosives in agriculture which will be released by the DuPont company.

MILK COWS INCREASE 2 PER CENT OVER NUMBER YEAR AGO

Cattle on Illinois farms slightly increased, loss the same and numbers of other classes of livestock are some what less than those of a year ago, according to the annual livestock report issued jointly by the Illinois and federal department of agriculture.

The state wide survey made as of January 1 indicates an increase of 2 per cent in all cattle, due largely to an increase of 2 per cent in the number of milk cows compared with the number on farms a year ago. Decreases are reported of 3 per cent for horses, 5 per cent for mules and 2 per cent in sheep numbers. Decreases in hog numbers in the southern section of the state due to drought, have been offset by increases in the north and central areas and numbers on hand January 1 are reported the same as last year.

All classes of livestock show reduced average value per head compared with those of last year. Horses and cattle and milk cows show the lowest average value per head for

January 1 since 1926, while the previous low figure for hogs was in 1924, for sheep in 1922, and mules in 1923, when the average value for mules was almost as low on January 1, 1922.

The total value of all classes of livestock in Illinois on January 1, 1921, is placed at $221,934,000, a year ago at $228,462,000, and for 1920 at $228,211,000 for 1923 and $270,300 on January 1, 1922.

Barrington has been solicited by the national committee of the Red Cross to help in the drive for funds for the people in the drought stricken areas of the South. A more detailed report of the plan for raising the money here will be given in this column next week. However, if you had planned to make a contribution to this fund, won't you wait and make it through your local chapter, so that Barrington will be credited with your generosity?

Plans are already underway for the club's reciprocity day, which will be on February 18th. An unusual and interesting program with Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Robertson Hale as the speaker will be offered when the center of the other seventh district clubs are our guests.

Mrs. R. G. Plage was asked to speak on Tuesday afternoon to the members of the newly organized Pioneers' Woman's Club. The occasion was the club's initial meeting; and Mrs. Plage chose as the subject for her talk, "The Purpose of Women's Clubs."

The women of the seventh district are planning a valentine party on February 12th for the veterans at Elgin. Some of the members of our own club have offered to furnish cookies and cigarettes to help make the party a success.

BARRINGTON REVIEW, BARRINGTON, ILL., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1931

JUDGEMENT IS GIVEN AGAINST MOTORIST WHO CAUSED ACCIDENT

When the case of Daniels & Williams against Kurt Meister of Melrose Park, in a suit for $325 to cover damages to the Daniels & Williams ambulance, was called in the court to Justice Harry L. Hammond, Meister did not appear. Judgment was entered by default.

Damage to the ambulance was caused the Sunday of the Norge Ski Club tournament at Fox River Grove when Meister pulled out of line in heavy traffic, forcing the ambulance into a ditch. He was recently fined in Justice Hammond's court on a charge of violation of motor traffic laws. It is reported that he will appeal both cases.

FIND YOUNG GIRL UNCONSCIOUS IN ROAD

Peter J. Balmes and Herbert Neher, returning from a trip to Whitemet, yesterday afternoon, found a 15-year-old girl unconscious lying on a road connecting Dundee road and Northwest highway in Forest View subdivision.

Blood spattered the ground, and believing that the girl was a victim of a hit-and-run driver, they summoned State Officer James Bailey and the Danielson & Willmette ambulance. Later it was found that the girl was an epileptic. She was taken to the home of her parents, who reside in the subdivision.

COMPEL ALL TRAINS TO STOP BEFORE CROSSING STREET IN PANAMA, ILL.

Springfield, Jan. 31.—All trains of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad must come to a full stop before crossing State street, in Panam, Ill., the Illinois Commerce Commission has decided. The commission's ruling was made in the interest of public safety and to protect pedestrians and motorists at the intersection. The street, the commission found, carries considerable traffic passing from state route 24 to state route 16, coal mine offices and other buildings obstructing the view at the crossing. This being sufficient protection, in the opinion of the commission, the request of the City of Panam for flashlight signals and watchmen at the crossing was denied. The railroad proposed the full-stop measure after the city had requested flashlight signals and watchmen.

PLEASING BOTH SIDES

One of the most contradictory reports ever made by a responsible body was that of the Wickerham Commission on prohibition submitted a few days ago. So far from agreement were the members of the commission that separate individual reports were made by several of them in addition to the ambiguous document presented by the commission as a whole.

Briefly summarizing the individual opinions expressed by the eleven members, it may be said that none give permanent approval to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law. Five members advocate giving the present law a further trial, four members favor immediate revision, and two members favor repeal.

All in all, the various views expressed would seem to muddle the situation, rather than clarify it. There is little indication that they will have much effect upon public opinion one way or another. The main report is rather "dry" in its conclusions; while the individual reports are preponderantly "wet."

That enforcement has been far from satisfactory is admitted by all members, while six of the eleven seem to feel that adequate enforcement of the present law is impossible.

Senator Borah aptly described the reactions of wets and drys by saying that the commissioners' general conclusions were very satisfactory to the drys, while the conclusions of individual members were very satisfactory to the wets.

BEGIN CHARITY AT HOME

In spite of the present unfavorable economic situation, there is still heard in some quarters continued agitation for the cancellation of war debts owed to the United States by foreign nations. There is no justification for such cancellation at this time, when our own people are laboring under heavy taxation and other burdens that can not be escaped.

Compromises with the nations which owe this country have reduced the principal of these debts to less than one-half of their original amount, and to that extent these obligations have been cancelled already. In making these compromises Uncle Sam has been most generous, both in determining the sums to be paid and in permitting payments to be made over a long period—22 years.

The money which these debts represent was borrowed by the United States government from its own people and loaned to the allies. It must be repaid from the federal treasury, whether foreign nations pay or not. This means that any further cancellation of war debts will increase the burden of domestic taxpayers accordingly.

Economy in government administration is just now the outstanding need. Congress and other legislative bodies are giving away a lot of money as it is, but when it goes to aid our own people it is not entirely unjustified. Under present conditions, especially, charity should begin at home, and it would be well to draw the line there.

A RECORD HARD TO BEAT

The formation of a new French cabinet a few days ago again calls to mind the exceptional record held by Aristide Briand, who for the 10th time becomes minister of foreign affairs, and for the 25th time a cabinet member.

Since March 14, 1906, the date of M. Briand's debut in ministerial affairs, his time in the government service totals 15 years and four months, of which five years were in the position of president of the council, certainly a record hard to beat.

For several years he has made notable efforts in behalf of world peace, and it was his suggestion that inspired the Kellogg-Briand peace pact, whereby 62 nations formally renounced war as an instrument of national policy. Recently M. Briand has put forward a plan for forming a United States of Europe as a further means for promoting peaceful international relations. He was awarded the Nobel peace prize in 1926.

Admirers throughout the world will wish for this distinguished statesman many more years of useful service such as he has rendered so effectively in the past.

FEW STRIKES IN 1930

Although periods of hard times are usually marked by serious industrial conflicts, the year 1930 showed fewer strikes than any year since authoritative records have been kept, averaging only 47 a month.

Contrasted with 82 strikes a month in 1929, 108 a month in 1925, and 302 a month in 1919, the record for last year is extremely gratifying. If the number of men involved in the record is even more impressive less than one-twentieth as many having been on strike in 1930 as there were in 1919.

All this is evidence of the better understanding between employers and employees that has been brought about in recent years. As a recent survey points out:

"Absence of industrial disputes has undoubtedly strengthened our industrial and social structure and should be an important factor in increasing the possibility of a more rapid economic recovery."

DEATH RATE LOWER

For the first time since records have been kept, the death rate in 81 principal cities of the country fell below 12 per 1,000 population during 1930, according to the Census Bureau. The rate for the year was 11.9.

The best health years previously were 1921 and 1927 with 12 and 12.3 per 1,000 respectively. The highest death rate recorded was 13.6 in 1918, when influenza swept the country. In the last 10 years the highest rate was 13.2 in 1926. The city death rates are slightly higher than those for the entire country, but less than 1 per 1,000 higher.

The United States average of approximately 12 deaths per 1,000 population is about the same as that of England, Germany, Sweden and Switzerland; a small fraction higher than that of Norway and the Netherlands, but lower than the rest of Europe. The rate in Soviet Russia is the highest of any country for which statistics are available, being about 25 per 1,000, or more than twice as great as that of the United States.

LIBRARY NEWS

The library is a busy place these days. This is not surprising for the book committee takes pains to supply books for all tastes. Here Mother finds the latest books by her favorite author, Father a thrilling mystery story. Sister one of those charming books written for girls of junior high school age. Brother the latest books on aviation, and little brother and sister find delightful books written especially for them.

The circulation for the month of January was 1,808 books and the largest daily circulation was 211. New books are purchased each month and in addition the library is enlarged by gifts. A large number of books were donated recently by Leo LaPidge and some from Mrs. Robert Work. The latter is a frequent donor.

This month material on Washington and Lincoln is being shown on the special display.

Brass Handles Were Quite Irresistible

By RONALD WARREN

DANCING heat waves rose from the black oiled pavement that stretched endlessly through yellowing country roads. A hot south wind was parching the earth and shriveling the corn in the fields. It was a New England summer day.

Doris Newman leaned forward to free her sheer silk dress from the sticky clutch of the roadster's black leather cushions. "Dick dear, we've been driving for seven hours. Let's stop in the next handy place and cool off. I don't see what fun it is to go on a vacation in the country and then drive every minute of the time."

Dick chattered. "Well, Dody, seems to me it was you who planned our vacation. If you say stop, by golly we'll stop."

He pushed in the clutch and the roadster idled to rest in the shade of a giant elm. "Want to get out and stretch your legs?" he continued. "There's a farmhouse across the fields. They might have some antiquities; though I guess every dealer in Boston has scoured this country at some time or other."

He slid from under the wheel and opened the door for Doris.

"If they've got anything, they won't sell it, but we'll ask just once more," she conceded. "This is the tenth place we've tried this week."

Together they struck off across the wide lawn that separated the rambling old farmhouse from the road.

"Just crazy about each other and about antiques," was the way friends catalogued the pair. Dick's home was in Boston, an antiquities were an old story to him. Doris, however, was a Texas girl only recently come East. To her Dick's mother's home had been a fairyland. She gasped in admiration at the "panther-back" chairs and the "grandfather's" clock in the hallway and went into ecstacy over the polished walnut, and rounded brass pulls with reverent hands.

"Better get out of here before the family comes back," said Dick.

"But, Dick, look at those brass handles; they'd be just perfect for that swell-front bureau of your mother's—that she's got on it since we spent hours together in the Boston library poring over 'Antique' and 'The Blue China Book'."

But it was without much hope that Dick now ascended some stone steps at the back of the house and knocked vigorously on a screen door. There was no response.

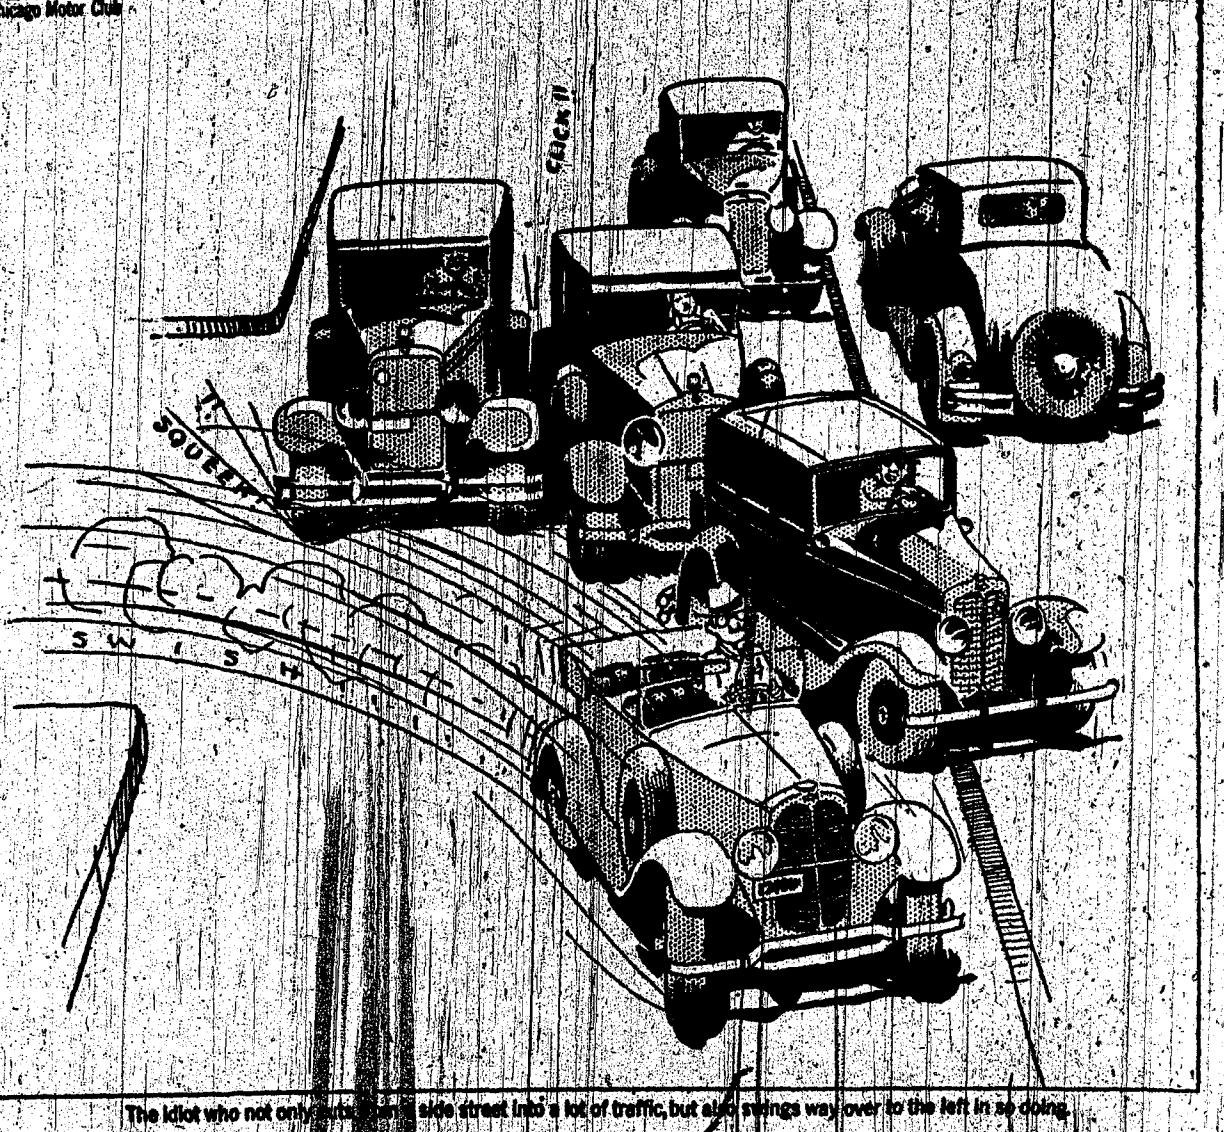

"Guess it's no use, Dody, nobody home." He peered inside. "Gee, and there's an old big boy in there, sure as shooting!"

Doris mounted the steps and flattened her nose on the screen. "Oh, Dick, it's an old one; just look at those lines! Oh! I wish we could look at it!" In her excitement Doris pulled the screen door, which swung open.

"Let's go in and look at it; any way, Doris handed him the two handles she had already loosened. "Put these in your pocket, way there's nobody here and I've got to see it," whispered Doris. She pulled Dick's hand and drew him protestingly into the house.

Lovingly Doris ran her fingers over the polished walnut, and took the note on the table and Doris pulled him toward the door.

A minute later she stepped back triumphantly. "There we are, Dick, now you put a ten-dollar bill on the table and let's get out. Hurry."

"All right, here it is; but I still feel like a criminal," said Dick, placing the note on the table and Doris pulled him toward the door.

Outside everything was quiet and peaceful; the sun still shone brightly, and the lawn was still an emerald green. Their car was as they left it. Feeling like escaping criminals, they sank into the deep upholstery. Dick stepped on the starter and with a screeching of gears the roadster scuttled up the road.

Local Basketeers Join Chicago Team in Fast Cage Tilt

Four Barrington boys—Frank Schroeder, Emmet Altenberg, James Falkenberg, and Hay Tate, on invitation, journeyed to Chicago Tuesday evening to play with the Chicago Eagles, a team composed of former Chicago high school stars. The invitation was extended because two of the Eagles were taken ill with influenza, and two others have moved and dropped from the team.

The opposing team was the Finnish American A. C., one of the fastest association teams in Chicago, playing such teams as the Majestics and Lake View All Stars. The game was played at the Finnish American club house.

The playing of the Barrington boys reached the point of brilliancy and M. Higgin, manager of the Eagles, asked them to play with the Eagles permanently. The first quarter ended with the Eagles trailing by a score of 16 to 3. It appeared to be an overwhelming defeat; but in the second quarter the Barrington boys got red hot, and couldn't seem to miss the basket. The half ended with the score tied at 20 all. The third quarter was a frenzy of excitement; thrill after thrill was supplied by the guarding of Falkenberg, Altenberg, and Mueller; by Schroeder's fast floor work and passing; by the sharpshooting of Tate and Boers. The quarter ended with the Eagles leading to the tune of 30 to 28. In the fourth quarter, the game went along at a terrific clip, the score tied at 34 all. Just before the end of the game, Murray of the Finns sank two baskets from the center of the floor winding the game 38 to 34.

Hay Tate was high score man of the evening, sinking nine baskets. Orville Wente of Barrington was the official timekeeper.

Jewel Quintet to Meet Crystal Lake Here Friday Night

On Friday, Feb. 6, the Jewel Tea basketball team will play a double header with the Crystal Lake Merchants at the Barrington high school gym.

The last meeting of these two teams resulted in a draw, the lightweights winning 18 to 12 and the heavies losing 27 to 26. The addition of Paul Boyd in the heavy-weight line-up for Friday night should throw the necessary fear into the invaders to make this an interesting and enjoyable game. As in previous games, the lightweights will attempt to put on another thrilling battle, the kind that has characterized their play all season.

Tuesday, Feb. 10, will again see these two teams in action. The lightweights will attempt to down the strong Lake Zurich five, meeting in mixed teams in the opening battle at 7:30. The heavier play Woodstock in the second game. Woodstock will be remembered as the team with a perfect record last season until Capt. Beidick and his Jewel team administered to them their only defeat of the season.

SCOUTS TO ROUND UP FORMER MEMBERS

Scouts are now occupying positions of responsibility and trust where they are in position to estimate readily the value of the training they received as boys under Scout auspices.

Send in Coupon

Every man or boy who has been a Scout or leader at any time during the history of the movement is urged to send in the coupon to be found in this paper. They will receive in return a small Scout button which they are requested to wear during anniversary week which opens next Sunday and continues for the following six days. Many of the local troops are cooperating and will reach all of their former members. There are many others that have been in Scouting in other communities and the local officials are to get all of these listed in the roundup as well as those who have been members of local troops. Those in charge of the roundup give the assurance that those who register will be under no obligation, inasmuch as the project is for information alone.

February Poster's Pertinent Query

DO YOU LOOK BOTH WAYS BEFORE CROSSING?

"Do You Look Both Ways Before Crossing?" is the timely caption on the February safety poster just issued by the accident prevention department of the Chicago Motor Club to more than 40,000 Illinois and Indiana school pupils.

The poster portrays two girls, looking in opposite directions, before venturing across an intersection. They are used by the teachers as subjects for general class discussions and competitions, and are intended to supplement safety instruction received by children from their parents.

Libertyville Wins School Conference Cage Tournament

The Libertyville Wildcats won the coveted championship trophy in the annual Northwest Conference tournament last week when they came from behind to nose out the Arlington Cardinals in an overtime game. It was a thriller and the finish had all the fans on their feet yelling like they were crazy.

Arlington had a nice lead most of the time but Libertyville climbed up on them and with the elongated Flyer was ejected on personals in the last quarter there was no Arlington man big enough to stop Jamison from scoring the winning points.

Reserve secured third place by defeating Antioch in the consolation game which was also an interesting contest. It was the first time in the history of the conference that Antioch has not captured first place.

Barrington Out Thursday

Barrington was eliminated on Thursday night when they met Coach Giese's Cardinals. The Bronchos made a scare into their confident opponents and were leading at the end of the first quarter. At the half they were still in the race but in the second game heights began to drop them from the corners and then it was just too bad. The final score was 27 to 18 at Antioch Friday.

The regular conference schedule will be resumed Friday when the Bronchos hit the road for Antioch. If they can get an entire game out of their system like they did in the first quarter. At the half they were still in the race but in the second game heights began to drop them from the corners and then it was just too bad. The final score was 27 to 18 at Antioch Friday.

assisted by the vivacious Marjorie White and Frank Albertson, the latter essaying his first light comedy role with marked success.

A laugh wave hit Barrington's Jack Oakie as the comedian of "Sea Legs" is due to strike. The Catlow theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

"Sea Legs" is an out-and-out laughing matter, without a serious moment to halt the hilarity. Its plot is built around the humorous wise cracks, written by that master of American slang, George Marion, Jr., and sung to good advantage by Oakie.

The story was created with Oakie in mind, and is heralded as a naughty, non-sensical, nautical romance of the kind Oakie's charm and talent, his grin and gusto reveal in. And, in addition to Oakie, of course, there's that trio of funsters, Pallette, Green and Lillian Roth. Whenever they talk, it's a laugh, and they talk all the time.
