Whalebone Serves as Teeth

Whalebone (its true name being baleen) is the curious stuff that grows in place of teeth in the upper jaws of whales, writes Jeanette Mirsley in "To the North." Baleen acts as a sieve, strains the many barrels of water gulped down by the whale as with wide open mouth it grazes the surface of the water, protects it from swallowing anything but the myriads of small mollusca on which it lives.

Maoris Gain in Civilization

Brown-skinned Maoris, the aborigines of New Zealand, are making progress in civilization. This was shown during the ceremony in the Maori cathedral at Hamilton to observe the one hundred and twentieth anniversary of the arrival of Christian missionaries. It was pointed out that the Maoris, who now number about 60,000, are devoted Christians. They have their clergymen and even their bishop, whose title is Bishop of Aotea-roa, the Maori name for New Zealand. These natives now read, write and speak English. There are Maori football leagues, Maori members of parliament, and a minister representing the race in the New Zealand cabinet.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V·8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip — to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

New Dunes Park a Haven of Brilliant Blossoms

Pink orchids and yellow cactus flowers, silvery green juniper with silvery berries, painted cup, shooting stars, blazing stars and rockets!

The list sounds like a fire-work program, but it isn't. It's just a few of the brilliant blossoms and interesting plants that are burning with beauty in the new Dunes Park of Illinois between Waukegan and the Wisconsin state line.

The cacti are in blossom now. The orchids will be along in a few days. They are not exactly the same as those one sees in florists' windows but they are the same family.

And speaking of families, plants and flowers at Dunes park grow in sociable "associations" confined to definite areas somewhat like the "social strata" of a big city.
