1940 AAA Wheat Rate Set at 18-22 Cents

Wheat planted this fall in compliance with the AAA program on 550 county farms will earn farmers between 18 to 22 cents a bushel on 1940 crops on the normal yield on their acreage allotment, according to word which has reached a member of the Cook county allotment committee, representing the Washington.

This rate, which includes the conservation and the price adjustment payments, compares with the 28 cent conservation and price adjustment payment for 1939.

Exact rates for 1940 cannot be determined this early, AAA officials state, because the division of available funds among commodities cannot be the subject of a ruling not be made until more complete 1939 production data are available and 1940 acreage allotments can be determined.

However, in order that wheat farmers may make making plans now for 1940 seeding they know approximately what payments they can earn, a range within which this rate will probably fall has been established.

The 1940 payment will be lower than the 28 cents in 1939 because the national acreage allotment is larger, so much larger allotment results in a smaller amount being apportioned to wheat. These funds, then, must be paid out on the basis of the larger acreage.

The 1940 national wheat acreage allotment is 62,000,000 acres as compared to 55,000,000 for 1939.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act requires that funds available for conservation payments be divided among the crops on the basis of the adjustment required, together with their past average acreage, and the parity value of the acreage allotment.

Horses Don't sell your horses for less than they will be starved. Bring them to us—we pay $10 each. Also crippled and injured animals picked up day or night. We pay more because we use them for our custom tankage death.
