Warns Motorists to Sign License Cards

Motorists were notified last week that many are violating a comparatively unknown section of the drivers' license law when they fail to sign their licenses on the space provided on the reverse side of the card. The announcement was made by Lt. Charles A. Stanton, in charge of the Elgin district of the state highway police, who said that no arrests will be made by state police of motorists carrying unsigned cards, although he has had received reports for prosecution of such violations in several northern Illinois municipalities.

The law covering the signing of the license reads in as follows:

"The secretary of state shall upon payment of the required fee issue to every applicant qualifying therefor, an operator's license as applied for, which license shall bear thereon a distinguishing number assigned to the licensee, the full name, date of birth, residence address, and a brief description of the licensee, a space for a record of convictions, and a space upon which the licensee shall write his usual signature with pen and ink, immediately upon receipt of the license. No license shall be valid until it has been signed by the licensee."

Horses Don't sell your worn out old faithful horses where they will be starved. Bring them to us—we pay $10 each. Also crippled and injured animals picked up day or night. We pay the most because we use them and guarantee humane death.

Although the license card carries a photostatic copy of the applicant's signature, the space provided on the back must also be signed as soon as the card is received. Motorists were warned that failure to do so will result in police investigations when unsigned cards are found by officers.
