The sixth annual entertainment of the child of the Holy League will be given at Irving Hall on Saturday evening, Nov. 21st. These performances have always attracted large audiences in the past, and although those taking part are children between the ages of three and twelve, the program has invariably been of a very novel nature. Last year "Mother Goose was the attraction, but this season the most unique as well as attractive bill is offered. Among numerous other acts, 'The Rainbow" and "The Darling of the Year' are on the bill. In both of these presentations all the youthful maidens will be costumed in exquisite dresses made solely of tissue paper, of every variegated hue known; a novelty never before witnessed in Irving Park. For several weeks past, tifty children have been under rehearsal in solos, dúetis, chorus's etc., which are introduced in both 'The Rainbow' and "Darling of the Year." and the melodies are beautiful. In addition to the above. Miss McNulty, a beautiful dusky maiden Best Rio coffee 32 cents per pound at Spanish type, will appear in some Spanish dances; and Miss Maude Cook, the charming young balladist will render Mrs. C. M. The ntertainment will be given under the direction of Mrs. W. Florance. As the program is very long, the audience is requested to be seated at 8 o'clock as the curtain will positively rise at that hour.

OBITUARY.

Died, Nov. 11, at 7 o'clock a. m. 1899. at the residence of her son, E. D. Scott, Elizabeth A. Upton was born in Chalmers, Franklin Co., Mass., May 13, 1827, and was married to Eoos Scott Sept. 22. 1844. They came to Illinois in the year 1852 and settled on a farm which is now known as the Poyer farm within the corperate limits of the village of Des Plaines. The husband died on the 5th day of Sep. tember, 1868. The deceased was well known among the earier settlers, having aiways lived in this township since her departure from the east. Her illness dates back nearly a year but her last sickness was very short and her death was sudden and unexpected. The funeral services were held at the house on Friday, Nov. 13, at 1 o'clock p. m., conducted by the Rev H. Gill, after which the remains were interred in the cemetery near Park Ridge. The deceased leaves two children, E. D. Scott and Mrs.

OPEN REVOLT IN BRAZIL

Para Rejects Dictator Fonseca and

Announces Its Autonomy. LONDON, Nov. 12.—A dispatch just received from Pernambuco brings further alarming intelligence regarding the condition of affairs in Brazil. There is no doubt that the situation there arising out of the assumption of dictatorial powers by the late president of the republic, Marshall Deodoro da Fonseca, is rapidly approaching a point where a resort to arms will be necessary to establish the position of the dictator.

The dispatch shows that steps will have to be immediately taken to prevent, if possible, the disintegration of the republic. The Province of Grano Para has followed the example set by the Rio Grande do Sul, and has declared its andependence. Grano Para, as it is better known, Para, is one of the most important provinces of Brazil.

The dispatch further states that the independence movement will probably be followed by a similar declaration by the Province of Baha.

Dictator da Fonseca is moving rapidly to suppress these attempts to set up separate governments, and he has ordered a warship to proceed without delay to Rio do Sul, to take such action as may be necessary to prevent the provincial authorities from carrying their declaration of independence into effect. It behooves him to move with alacrity, for already a man has been named in connection with the contemplatea presidency of the province. He is Silvence Martinez, who during the last revolution was banished from the country. He subsequently was allowed to return, and he without doubt possesses greater political influence than any other man in the province. Both revolting provinces are on the Atlantic coast. Grano Para has an area of 460,000 square miles and Baha 233,524 square miles. The former has a population of 320,000 and the latter predominates. ROBBERS MAKE A RAISE.

HURRYING UP WARSHIPS

UNCLE SAM GETTING READY FOR SERIOUS TROUBLE.

All the Navy Yards working Night and Day to get the Cruisers Heady for Sea.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.-There is believed to be an important meaning to the activity in the navy yards through-out the country by which every availa-ble war vessel is being put in readiness for sea. The naval authorities here have endeavored to spread the impression that the activity meant nothing further than a desire to get the vessels started on their fall cruises.

But it is more than a mere coincidence that the navy yards at Boston, Brooklyn, San Francisco and elsewhere are being worked night and day including Sundays. It is believed to be part of a prearranged program which has been fully considered by Pre-ident Harrison and his immediate associates who are handling the delicate complication with Chile.

An official well versed in naval and state department affairs said to-day: "It is only within the last two days that a settled program has been determined upon. It is substantially this: A demand has already been made on Chile for an explanation of he cruiser Baltimore tragedy. Within a short time a second demand will be made. The second demand will recite that the first one has not met with the prompt action which the United States ex-

"If Chile still fails to act the final stroke of the program will be made. The fleets of the United States will meet in the harbor of Valparaiso. The purpose is to make this rendezvous unprecedented in the history of the United States. Every available warship which floats the United States flag will take part in the movements. For the time being the squadrons which maneuver in foreign ports will be broken up and absorbed in the main rendezvous at Vaiparaiso. The new ships and those which are being repaired in the navy yards will be centered in Chilean wat rs. Altogether it will be a naval demonstration equal in extent to that projected for New York harbor next year. "The purpose of this unusual demonstration will be to open the eyes of the Chileans to the fact that the second demand made upon them means business. It is believed that the mere presence of this vast naval force will be sufficient to awe the Chileans into an immediate response. If it is not it will then be for Congress to decide upon the future course and if need be issue a formal declaration of war. So far as the executive and naval authorities can act the massing of the fleets before Valparaiso will express their disapproval of Chile's course. It is the desire to prepare for this rendezvous which causes the present rush in the Hahnemann hospital, where emthe navy yards."

Canadian Cattle. WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Secretary Rusk is very determined to spare no effort in compelling Great Britain to remove her arbitrary regulations now enforced against American cattle. Live cattle from this country must be slaughtered within ten days after arrival in Great Britain, thus affording shippers no time to restore the cattle to their former condition. The transportation by rail and water is very wearing on cattle, but with a little time they could recuperate. That time is denied them, and the British buyers, knowing that the cattle must be sold within ten days, can, by holding off, secure them at a reduced price. This is what makes the Secretary indignant, and is the cause of suggesting, in his annual report, the rigid enforcement of the law now in existence prohibiting imports into the United States of all live animals, but which the President suspended as a matter of friendship to foreign govern-

VACANCIES TO BE FILLED.

President Harrison Has a Large Number of Appointments to Make. WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. - President Harrison has settled down to the tack of clearing up his appointments. Not much can be learned about the judicial places. Besides the new Appellate Court Justices there are the District and Circuit court vacancies on the Pacific coast to be filled, and the Court of Claims lacks one member. All these nominations will go to the Senate together. It is said that the Inter-State Commerce Commissioners may be named before the Semite meets, yet that is doubtful.

The Southern member who will succeed Gen. Bragg is likely to be either ex-Congressman Clements of Georgia or Congressman Culberson of Texas. Judge Cooley's successor is believed to be a matter of the future. The President has had plenty of advice and has been urged to be sure and get a "business-mau.

It is said that ever since early morn-ing messages have been pouring into Sandringham with gifts, those from the German Kai er and Prince Henry alone amounting in value to 100,-000 marks. This munificence would seem to dispose of any rumor of coldness between the Kaiser and the Prince of Wales, and contrasts with Wilhelm's treatment of the Czar and Czarina on the occasion of their silver wedding to-day. The fact that the Prince of Wales did not accompany the Princess to the family party at Fredensborg this autumn may, it is thought, have tended to make the Kaiser think more of him. The city fathers of London are celebrating at the Guildhall in honor of the occasion, and in every part of Great Britain there is some recognition of the day

FACTS FOR THE FARMERS

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SEC-RETARY OF AGRICULTURE

The Value of Farm Products Over Last Year Will Be Not Less Than $700,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 10. — Secretary Rusk in his third annual report as Secretary of Agriculture says that, notwithstanding the abundant yield of crops this year, values are well sustained, and estimates that the increase in the value of agricultural products over last year will be not less than $700,000,000. He states that during the first three months of the present fiscal year our exports in cereals alone have aggregated $76,000,000. adding that the indications now are that the sales abroad of the surplus from our farms will during the present year largely exceed those of any previous

He notes the increase by some $26,-000,000 in the imports of agricultural products during the first ten months under the present law, by comparison with the same period during the old year, but emphasizes the fact that the increase is confined largely to articles not competing with home products, such as sugar, tea, coffee, etc. At the same time, he states that the change in the rates has checked importation of products which may be produced at home. He notes a decrease in tobacco imports from $17,000,000 to $5,000,000 a falling off in foreign barley of nearly $3,500,000, in eggs $1,250,000, in horses a falling off of nearly $1,500,000 and a gradual decline in the imports of all live

Referring to the import of hides admitted free of duty, he states that this causes a great depreciation in prices reali; ed for hides of home production and earnestly recommends that the duty provided for in section 3 of the tariff act approved Oct. 1, 1890, be imposed in all cases where the countries from which such hi es are shipped have not granted equal concessions in regard to the admission of the agricultural products of the United States. In speaking of the inspection of meat for exportation the secretary

Our people demand something more than protection from communicable diseases. In mo t. if not all, European countries, inspectors, according to their reports, freely pass for consump-tion the meat of animals affected with foot and mouth diseare, pleuro-pneumonia, localized tuberculosis, acti-nomycosis and similar diseases, which, according to the views and customs of this country, must be condemned. But all the meat for the foreign market is inspected the same as that designed for home consumption. In this respect, as in others, we have met the obections which have been raised to American products, and have not only removed the cause but have gone beyond what was asked by our critics. Up to the 1st of Cctober there has en a total of 1,018,614 at spected, both before and after slaughter; there were 63,6.2 carcasses of hogs examined microscopically and the total number of animals con-demned and sent to the pertilizing tanks was but 1,0 6. The cost of the work has been within the anticipated limit and is leing considerably reduced as the work proceeds.

I am of the opinion that the inspection of animals and their marking for identification may be accomplished for a sum not exceeding 3 cents a head and that the cost of microscopical examination of hogs will not exceed 5 cents a head. The Secretary earnestly recommends that Congress be asked to make an appropriation sufficiently large to extend the inspection to all applicants. lie estimates that the losses to our pork raisers during the last ten years, owing to the prohibition by foreign coudtries, aggregate over $200,000,000. Pleuro-pneumonia he regards as quite under control and limited in territory to two or three counties on Long Island and in New Jersey, over which a thorough quarantine is exercised. Inspection by American veterinarians of cattle landed in Great Britain has been continued, as well as the inspection of such animals before shipment. Since the beginning of this work there has been inspected altogether up to Oct. 1, 1891, 326,519 head of animals.

A very slight decrease in the number of cattle exported is noted, which is attributed to the increase in price, cattle bringing in June, 1891, from $1.25 to $1.00 a head more than in June, 1890. The inspection of imported animals has been rigidly maintaine i. The result of the inspection of vessels carrying export cattle has been to materially reduce the losses resulting from lack of ventilation, overcrowding and weak fittings.

In concluding his report Secretary
Rusk states that from the time he assumed the reins of office he has devoted his personal attention to a general enlargement of the scope of the work of the department in the interest of practical agriculture, especially to the extension of the market for the disposal of the surplus of our great staple crors. He points out that to fully carry out his views will unquesticnably involve liberal expenditure, but he says that within twenty years the efforts of the department on such lines as he has laid down will have increased the value of our annual agricultural products from between $3,000, 000,000 and $4,000,000,000 to at least twice that enormous sum.

"I will tell my story, not that any one may judge between you and me. There is neither julge nor justice for those who love in vain. So I loved you. That is the whole story. Do you understand me, sir? I loved this woman, but she would not love me. That is all. And what of it, and what then? Look at her and look at me-the beginning and the end."

The Wanderer glanced at her in surprise. There was a bitterness in in front of Kafka. "They told me so-I can almost believe it."

"No; I am not mad yet," answered the younger man, facing him fearlessly. "You need not come between me and her. She can protect herself. You would know that if you knew what I saw her do with you when I came here."

"What did she do?" The Wanderer turned quickly as he stood and looked at Unorna.

"Do not listen to his ravings," she said. The words seemed weak and poorly chosen, and there was a strange look in her face, as though she were either afraid or desperate or

"She loves you," said Israel Kafka calmly. "And you do not know it. She has power over you as she has over me, but the power to make you love her she has not. She will destroy you, and your state will be no better than mine to-day. We shall have moved on a step, for I shall be dead and you will be the madman, and she will have found another to love and to torture. The world is full of them. Her altar will never lack sacrifices."

The Wanderer's face was grave.

CHAPTER XV.

NORNA'S voice sunk from the tone of anger to a lower pitch. She spoke quietly, and very distinctly, as though to impress every word upon the ear of the man who was in her power. As gazed and listened, Israel Kafka was transformed. He no longer the unhappy man laid one finger upon stood with outstretched arms, his his own breast, and with the other back against a crumbling slab, his hand he pointed at Unorna's fair filmy eyes fixed on Unorna's face. The Wanderer looked, and, as in dreams, he knew that what he saw was unreal, he knew that the changing walls and streets and houses and public places were built up of gravestones, which, in truth, were deeply planted in the ground, immovab'e and incapable of spontaneous motion; he knew that the crow s of men and women were not hu i beings, but guarled and twisted a ses nooted in talk. Wanderer, suddenly planting himself on Unorna's lips and made audible through her tones, as the chorus of indistinct speech proceeded from the swaying trees.

In one corner of the dusky place there was a little light. A boy stood there, beside a veiled woman, and the light that seemed to cling about him was not the reflection of gold. He the boy on the mouth with his hard was very young. His pale face had in it all the lost beauty of the Jewish race, the lips were clearly cut, even pure in outline and firm, the forehead broad with thought, the features noble, aquiline-not vulture like.

He stood there looking on at the scene in the market place, not wondering, for nothing of it was new to him; not scorning, for he felt no hate; He would have had it otherwisethat was all.

"Ego baptizo te in nomine Patris et Filli, et Spiritus Sancti."

Then the woman and the boy were standing again without the entrance in the chilly air, and the ancient monk was upon the threshold underthe carved arch; his thin hands, white in the darkness, were lifted high, and he blessed them and they went their way.

In the moving vision the radiance was brighter still, and illuminated the streets as they moved on. Then a cloud descended over all, and certain days and weeks passed, and again the boy was walking swiftly toward the church. But the woman was not with him, and he believed he was alone. though the messengers of evil were upon him. Two dark figures moved in the shadow, silent, noiseless in their walk, muffled in their long garments. He went on, no longer deigning to look back, beyond fear as he had ever been, and beyond even the exthe Wanderer pectation of a danger. He went into the church, and the two men made gestures and spoke in low tones, and hid themselves in the shade of the buttresses outside.

The vision grew darker, and a terrible stillness was over everything for the church was not opened to the sight this time. There was a horror of long waiting with the certainty of what was to come. The narrow street was empty to the eye, and yet there was the knowledge of evil presence of two strong men waiting in the dark expiation. And the horror |grew in the silence and emptiness until it was unbearable. The door opened, and the boy was with the monk under the black arch. The old man embraced him, and blessed him, and stood still for a moment watching him as, he went down. Then he also turned and went back, and the door was closed. Swiftly the two men glided from their hiding place and sped along the uneven pavement. The boy paused and faced them, for he felt that he was taken. They grasped him by the ther, and Levi, surnamed the Shorthanded, the strongest and the cruelest and the most relentless of the younger rabbis. Their grip was rough, and the older man held a coarse woollen cloth in his hand, with

"What would you?" he asked. "And what doest thou in a Christian church?" asked Lazarus in fierce tones.

"What Christians do, since I am one of them," answered the youth.

Lazarus said nothing, but he struck hand so that the blood ran down. "Not here!" exclaimed Levi, anxiously looking about. And they hurried him away through dark and narrow lanes. He opposed no resistance to Levi's rough strength, not only suffering himself to be dragged along, but doing his best to keep pace with the man's long strides, nor did he murmur at the not wrathful, for he dreamed of peace. blows and thrusts dealt him from time to time by his father from the other side. During some minutes they were still traversing the Christian part of voice. "The air is full of gold and the city. A single loud cry for help would have brought a rescue, a few words to the rescuers would have roused a mob of flerce men, and And suddenly the faint radiance that the Jews would have paid with their lives for the deeds they had not yet committed. But Simon Abeles uttered no cry and offered no resistance. He had said that he feared not death, and he had spoken the truth, quickly and often glancing behind not knowing what manner of death them, as though to see whether they was to be his. Onward they sped, and in the vision the way they traversed seemed to sweep past them, so that they remained always in sight though always hurrying on. The Christian quarter was passed; before them bung the chain of one of those gates which gave access to the city of the Jews. With a jeer and an oath the bearded sentry watched them passthe martyr and his torturers. On through the filthy ways, torturous passage a to a dark low doorway. Then, again, the vision showed but an empty street, and there was silence for a space, and a horror of long waiting in the falling night.

Lights moved within the house, and then one window after another was bolted and barred from within. A dull noise, bad to hear, resounded as from beneath a vault, and then another and another—the sound of cruel blows upon a human body. Then a pause.

"Wilt thou renounce it?" asked the voice of Lazarus.

GOSPEL ARCHIPELAGO.

DR TALMAGE PREACHES ON RHODES AND PATMOS.

A Night View of the Island Visited by Paul-The Rirthplace of the Gospel of St. John-Last Gimpse

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 8, 1891.-An overflowing congregation at the Brook-lyn Tabernacle this morning attested the interest the religious public is taking in the series of sermons Dr. Talmage is preaching on what he saw, confirmatory of the Scriptures, during his tour from the Pyramids to the Acropolis. This morning's sermon, the fourth of the series, was on the islands of the Greek archipelogo. The Doctor took two texts: Acts 21:3, "When we had discovered Cyprus we left it on the left hand," and Revelation 1:9, "l. John, was in the isle that is called Patmos."

Good-by, Egypt! Although interesting and instructive beyond any country in the world, excepting the Holy Land, Egypt was to me somewhat depressing. It was a post-mortem examination of great cities that died 4,000 years ago. The mummies or wrapped up bodies of the dead, were prepared with reference to the Resurrection day, the Egyptians departing this life wanting their bodies to be kept is as good condition as possible so that they would be presentable when they were called again to occupy them. This sermon finds us on the steamer Minerva in the Grecian archipelago, the islands of the new testament, and islands Paulinian and Johannian in their reminiscence. What Bradshaw's directory is to travelers in Europe, and what the railroad guide is to travelers in America, the book of the Acts in the bible is to voyagers in the Grecian, or as I shall call it, the Gospel archipelago. The bible geography of that region is accurate without a shadow of mistake. We are sailing this morning on the same waters that Paul sailed but in the opposite direction to that which Paul voyaged. He was sailing southward and we northward. With him it was: Ephesus, Coos, Rhodes, Cyprus With us it is reversed and it is: Cyprus, Rhodes, Coos, Ephesus. There is no book in the world so accurate as the divine book. My text says that Paul left Cyprus on the left; we, going in the opposite direction, have it on the right. On our ship Minerva were only two or three passengers beside our party, so we had plenty of room to walk the deck and on, what a night was Christmas night of 1889 in that Grecian archipelago-islands of light above, islands of beauty beneath! It is a royal family of islands, this Grecian archipelago: the crown of the world's scenery set with supphire and emerald and topaz and chrysoprasus and ablaze with a glory that seems let down out of celestial landscapes. God evidently made up his mind that just here he would demonwith islands for the beautification of

The steamer had stopped during the night and in the morning the ship was as quiet as this floor, when we hastened to the deck and found that we had anchored off the Island of Cyprus. In a boat, which the natives rowed standing up as is the custom, instead of sitting down as when we row, we were soon landed on the streets where Paul and Barnabas walked and preached Yea, when at Antioch Paul and Barnabus got into a fight -us ministers sometimes did. and sometimes do. for they all have imperfections enough to auchor them to this world till their work is done, I say-when because of that bitter controversy Paul and Barnabas parted, Barnabas came back here to Cyprus, which was his birthplace. Island wonderful for history! It has been the prize sometimes won hy Persia, by Greece, by Egypt, by the Saracens, by the Crusaders, and last of all, not by sword but by pen, and that the pen of the keenest diplomatist of the century, Lord Beaconsfield, who, under a lease which was as good as a purchase, set Cyprus among the jewels of Victoria's crown. We went out in the excavations from which Di Cesnola has euriched our American rauseums with antiquities and with no better weapon than our foot we stirred up the ground deep enough to get a tear-bottle in which some mourner shed his tears thousands of years ago and a lamp whi h before Christ was born lighted the feet of some poor pilgrim on his way. That island of Cyprus has enough to set an antiquarian wild. The most of its glory is rian wild. The most of its glory is the glory of the past, and the typhoid fevers that sweep its coast and the clouds of locusts that often blacken its skies. (though $200,000 were expended by the British empire in one year for the extirpation of these noxyous insects, yet failing to do the work) and the frequent change of povernmental masters, hinders pros-pority. But when the islands of the sea come to God, Cyprus will come with them, and the agricultural and commercial opulence which adorned it in ages | ast will be eclipsed by the agricultural and commercial and religious triumphs of the ages to come. Why is the world so stupid that it cannot see that nations are prospered in temporal things in proportion as they are prospered in religious things? The Christian religion triumphant, all other interests triumphant. The Christian religion low down, all other interests low down So I thought as on the evening of that day we stepped from the filthy streets of Larnaca, Cyprus, on to the boat that took us back to the steamer Minerva which had already begun to paw the waves like a courser impatient to be gone. and then we moved on and up among the islands of this Gospel Archipelago. Night came down on land and sea and the voyage became to me more and more suggestive and solemn. If you are pacing it alone, a ship's deck in the darkness and at sea is a weird place, and an active imagination may conjure up almost any snape he will and it shall walk the sea or confront him by the smokestack, or meet him under the captain's bridge. But here I was alone on ship's deck in the Gosper Archipelago and do you wonder that the sea was populous with the past and that down the ratlines bible memories descended? Our friends

Though it would be keeping unreasonable hours, I concluded to stay on deck, for I must see Rhodes, one of the islands associated with the name of the greatest missionary the world ever saw or ever will see. Paul landed there become a charred wreck.

This island has had a wonderful history With 6,000 knights of St. John, it at one time stood out against 200,000 warriors under "Solyman the Magnificent." The city had 3,000 statues, and a statue to Apollo called Colossus, which has always since been considered one of the seven wonders of the world. It was twelve years in building and was seventy cubits high, and had a winding stairs to the top. It stood fifty-six years and then was prostrated by an earthquake. After lying in ruins for 900 years, it was purchased to be converted to other purposes, and the metal, weighing 720,-000 pounds, was put on 900 camels and carried away. We were not permitted to go ashore, but the lights all up and down the hills show where the city stands, and nine hoats come out to take freight and to bring three passengers. But there is one island that I long to see more than any other. I can afford to miss the princes among the islands, but I must see the king of the archipelago. The one I longed to see is not so many miles in circumference as Cyprus or Crete or Paros or Naxos or Scio or Mityrene, but I had rather, in this sail through the Grecian archipelago, see that than all the others; for more of the glories of heaven landed there than on all the islands and continents since the world stood. As we come toward it I feel my pulses quicken. "I, John, was to the island that is called l'atmos." It is a pile of rocks twenty-eight miles in circumference. A few cypresses and in-ferior olives pump a living out of the earth and one palm tree spreads its foliage But the barrenness and gloom and loneliness of the island made it a prison for the banished evangelist. Domitian could not stand his ministry and one day, under armed guard, that minister of the gospel stepped from a to-sing boat to these dismal rocks, and walked up to the dismal cavera which was his home, and the where should pass before him all the conflicts of coming time and all the raptures of a coming eternity. Is it not remarkable that nearly all the great revelations of music and poctry have been made to men in banishment -Homer and Milton banished into blindness; Beethoven banished into deafness; Dante writing his "Divina Commedia" during the nineteen years of banishment from his native land; Victor Hugo writing his "Les Miserables" exiled from non-e and country on the island of Guernsey and the brightest visions of the future have been given to those who by sickness or sorrow were exiled from the outer world into rooms of suffering. Only those who have been imprisoned by very hard surroundings have had great revelations made to them So atmos, wild, chill and bleak and terrible was the best island in all the archipelago, the best place in all the earth for divine revelations. en down all the lights that we may Then down all the lights that we may better see it. The panorama passes, and lo! the conquering Christ, robed, girdled, armed, the flash of golden candlesticks and seven stars in his right hand, candlesticks and stars meaning light held up, and light scattered. And there passes a throne and Christ on it, and the seals broken, and the woes sounded, and a dragon s'ain, and seven last plagues swoop, and seven vials are poured out, and the vision vanishes. And we halt a moment to rest from the exciting spectacle. Again the panorama moves on before the cavern of l'atmos, and John the exile sees a great city representing all abominations, Babylon towered, palaced. templed, tained, foliaged, sculptured, hanging-gardens, suddenly going crash! crash! and the pipers cease to pipe, and the trumpets cease to trumpet, and the dust and the smoke and the horror fill the canvas, while from above and beneath the voices announcing "Babylon is fallen, is fallen!" And we halt again to rest from the spectacle. Again the panorma passes before the cavern of Patmos, and John the exile sees a mounted Christ on a snowwhite charger leading forth the cavalry of heaven, the long line of white chargers galloping through the scene, the clattering of hoofs, the clinking of bridle-bits, and the flash of spears, all the earth conquered and all heaven in Doxology. And we halt again to rest from the spectacle. Again the panorama passes before the cavern of Patmos, and John the exile sees great thrones lifted, thrones of martyrs, thrones of apostles, thrones of prophets, thrones of patriarchs, and a throne higher than all on which Jesus sits, and ponderous books are opened, their leaves turned over, revealing the names of all that have ever lived, the good and the bad, the renowned and the humble, the mighty and the weak, and at the turn of every leaf the universe is in rapture or fright, and the sea empties its sarcophagus of all the dead of the sunken shipping, and the earth gives way, and the heavens vanish. Again we rest a moment from the spectacle. The panorama moves on before the cavern of Patmos, and John the exile beholds a city of gold, and a river more beautitut than the Rhine or the Hudson rolls through it, and fruit trees bend their burdens on either bank, and all is surrounded by walls in which the upholstery of autumnal forests, and the sunrises and sunsets of all the ages, and the glory of burning worlds seem to be commingled. And the inhabitants never breathe a sigh. or utter a groan, or discuss a difference, or frown a dislike, or weep a tear. The fashion they wear is pure white, and their foreheads are encircled by garlands, and they who were sick are well, and they who were old are young, and they who were bereft are reunited. And as the last figure of that panorama rolled out of sight, I think John must have fallen back into strength to experience. My friends, I would not wonder if you should have a very similar vision after awhile. You will be through willful Sarcasm.

I said "when will we arrive at the struggles, and if you have served the land all gone to their berths. "Captain," I said, "when will we arrive at the struggles, and if you have served the land all gone to their berths. "Captain," I said, "when will we arrive at the struggles, and if you have served the land all gone to their berths." Captain," I said, "when will we arrive at the struggles, and if you have served the land of Rhodes?" Looking out from under his glazed cap, he responded in sepulchral voice: "About midnight."

I should not wonder it your doubtedly murdered and placed on the could, I should not wonder it your doubtedly murdered and placed on the could, I should not wonder it your doubtedly murdered and placed on the skull fractured. sorrowfully expecting each breath would be the last, cried, "Open the gates! Open the gates! Happy! Happy! Hap-py!" John Owen in his last hour said to his attendant, "On, brother Payne! and that was enough to make it to his attendant, "On, brother rayue, and that was enough to make it to his attendant, "On, brother rayue, famous while the world stands and the long wished for day has come at famous while the world has last!" Rutherford, in the closing moment of his life cried out, "I shall shine, I shall see him as he is, and all the fair company with him, and shall have my share. I have gotten the victory. Christ is holding forth his arms to embrace me. Now I feel! Now I enjoy! Now I rejoice! I feed on manna, I have angle's food. My eyes will see my redeemer. Glory, glory dwelieth in the Immanuel's land." Yes, 10,000 times in the history of the world has the dying bed been made a Patmos. You see the time will come when you will, U child of God, be exiled to your last sickness as much as John was exiled to Patmos. You will go into your own room not to come out again for God is going to do something better and grander and happier for you than he has ever yet done! There will be such visions let down to your pillow as God gives no man if he is ever to return to this tame world. The apparent feeling of uneasiness and restlessness at time of the Christian's departure, the physicians say, is caused by no real distress. It is an unconscious and involuntary movement. and I think in many cases it is the vision of heavealy gladness too great for mortal en our ance. It is only heaven breaking in on the departing spirit. You see your work will be done and the time for your departure will be at hand, and there will be wings over you and wings under you, and songs let loose on the air, and your old father and mother gone for years will descend into the room, and your little children whom you put away for the last sleep years ago will be at your side, and their kiss will be on your foreheads, and you will see gardens in full bloom, and the swinging open of shining gates, and will hear voices long ago hushed. In many a Christian departure that you have known and I have known there was in the phraseology of the departing ones something that indicated the reappearance of those long deceased It is no delirium, no delusion, but a sup rnal fact. Your glorified loved ones will hear that you are about to come and they will say in heaven, "May I go down to show that soul the way up? May I be the celestial escort? May I wait for that soul at the eage of the pillow?" And the Lord will say, "Yes. You may fly down on that mission." And I think all your glorified kindred will come down, and they will be in the room, and although those in health standing round you may near no voice, and see no arrival from the heavenly world, you will see and hear. And the moment the fleshly bond of the soul shall break, the cry will be, "Follow me! Up this way! By this gilded cloud, apast these stars, straight for home, straight for glory, straight for God!" As on that day in the Grecian Archipelago, l'atmos began to fade out of sight, I walked to the stern of the enchantment as long as I could, and the voice that sounded out of heaven to John the exile in the caveru on Patmost seemed sounding in the waters that dashed against the side of our ship, "Behold the tabernacle of Goo is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people and God himself shall be with them and be their God, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away."

Tried to Kill Her Mother.

Nellie Copeland of Indianapoli, a child five years of age, has been sent. to the insane asylum at Kankakee. 111., for trying to murder her sleeping mother with a fork. The child has been insane since her birth. When six months of age she developed a desire to burn things and tear clothes. When a year old she gashed a girl's face with broken glass. Before she was two years old she could talk yolubly. She was subject to violent fits of passion, and she refused to accept the ordinary names for articles in daily use, gave them names of her own, and at the age of two and a half she had invented a language. At the age of three she developed a mania for killing domestic animals and had to be watched lest she harm her brothers and sisters. After her murderous attack on her mother she tried to kill herself.

Not Wanted.

About two weeks ago Peter Weingarter, a farm laborer aged 60 years, procured a marriage license at Belleville to marry Miss Emma Hoenth, aged 26 years, the daughter of a prominent farmer of Mascoutah county. The license was returned to the county clerk by a young gentleman who, it is said, will shortly wed the farmer's daughter. Weingarter procured the license to marry Miss Hoenth without her knowledge, and when she learned of the matter she was very much enraged. She procured a large horse whip and gave her aged suitor a sound thrashing. She afterward took the license away from him and had it returned to the county clerk with the notation "Not wanted" written upon it. Weingarter has left the community.

Danger While Bathing.

A Boston business man, while taking a sponge bath in Bridgeport, had his right leg severely cut by the slipping of his foot, which broke through a stationary wash bowl. The gash was eleven inches in length, penetrating to the bone and severing an artery. An artery in one of his weists was also severed.

MILW, UKEE AVENUE LINE.

meddation of an Ordinance extending it to Lawrence avenue. At the meeting Monday of the committee on streets and alleys west an ordinance was recommended providing for an extension of the Milwaukee avenue street railway from Armitage avenue, in Jefferson Park, five miles serene," It is not a dry, uninteresting northwest. Alderman Conway was the chief champion of the measure, and many property owners interested language, who holds the reader entranged in securing the extension attended the tory, following carefully in the footprints meeting. Alderman Conway called of progress, up the ordinance, which was for a double track railway to Diversey street, and had it amended to make the extension to Lawrence avenue. which is three miles further out, stating that President Yerkes had agreed to build the line if the council passed the married as well as the single; the gay the ordinance.

Alderman Knowles then moved to have the consideration of the ordinance postponed for a week till a new ordinance could be drafted. This was laid on the table.

When the section of the ordinance came up providing for the payment of $50 a year to city for each car, 13 round trips to constitute a car, Alderman Gosselin promptly moved to postpone consideration of the ordinance one week to get a report from the comptroller. The dilatory motion was laid on the table and against the other. Aldermen Mills and Dorman protested that it was not fair to jump on one line and kill the ordinance when the same provisions has been passed in every other ordinance. This amendment was laid on the table by a vote of 6 to 5, Aldermen Gosselin, Dvorak, Kunz, Murphy and Knowles voting for it, and Alderman Conway, Mills, Dorman, Keats, Bowler and McCarthy against it.

Ald. Roth, a non-member of the committee, said there was a general ordinance providing for a $50 tax per A. J. TOWER, . Boston, Mass.

car, and this thirteen-trip provision is put in to nullify it-to repeal that ordiuance. It ought to be left out. But the committee didn't leave it out.

Ald. Gosselin's next amendment was to require five minute trips. Ald. Conway said it was useless to put that in, it would kill the ordinance.

"We would be glad to have a cur every half hour," said a Jefferson citizen. Alderman Dorman said it ought not to be left to the company's option how often to run its cars, and finally an amendment was passed requiring trips at least every fifteen minutes. The ordinance as recommended gives a twenty year franchise. There is no provisions for any mileage fee.

Voluntary statements show the benefit derived from the use of Moxie. Recovers nervousness and overwork, acting as a food without reaction. The aged as well as the young should drink Moxie every day.

The following is from one of our best Chicago institutions:

St. Mary's Seminary for Girls: "We have found your Moxie an excellent restorative to the weak and debilitated, and for the benefit of those who read this, we wish to express this fact.

we wish to express this fact. Cures St. Vitus' Dance.

Emilie Klunger, our daughter, aged 13 years, for nearly 4 years had St. Vitus' dance, could not feed herself or even speak, having lost her voice. Physiclans could not help her. By advice of friends we tried Moxie Nerve Food. She is now well. Moxie cured her. We wish to say this for the benefit of those with similar afflictions. Respectfully,

I have used Moxie in several cases where nervous exhaustion was the cause of the trouble, and in each instance the result was most remarkable.

CHICAGO AMUSEMENTS

A List of Chicago's Most Popular Theaters.

CHICAGO OPERA-HOUSE.

Beginning Sunday, Nov. 15, Manager Henderson of the Chicago operahouse will offer his patrons a week of modern minstrelsy. The company engaged is beyond doubt the best which has been seen here since the days of the minstrel monarchy of the redoubtable Col. J. H. Haverly. The organization is headed by that king of burnt cork disciples of Momus, Lew Dockstader. Dockstader's funny monologue entertainment is beyond doubt the cleverest and most refined Ethiopian specialty ever put upon any stage. His fun is as spontaneous as the sunshine, his humor is as delicate as a caress of a summer breeze. Dockstader is supported by the best minstral company ever gotten together in this country. It includes George Powers, Frank Girard, Cain & Loreno, the burlesquers of an aerial act; the famons three Marvelles, and the best lot of dancers and vocalists to be secured. McIntyre & Heath, the renowned delineators of Ethiopian character, will be seen in a humorous burlesque entitled. 'Hotel Punch de Leon." The engagement is for one week only, and at its conclusion the beautiful extravaganza, "Sinbad," with its wealth of gorgeous coloring. splendid pageantry, beautiful women, and lovely music, will return for a short engagement. The advance sale of seats for Sinbad begins on Thursday, the 19th.

THE FARM AND HOME.

DESTROYING WEEDS BY THE METHOD OF SOILING.

selts of Smothering Weeds-To Food or to Sell; That is the Question -Beans-Farm Notes and Domestie Dots.

Destroying Weeds

It is in part at least, because of their smothering tendencies that soiling crops have been found helpful in destroying weeds. They are usually thickly sown and on land so far enriched that it produces an excellent growth. When a good crop of oats, peas and vetches are grown upon a piece of land in best form it is of much service in checking weeds, and if autumn cultivation tollows the benefits are intensified.

All classes of weeds are not equally hindered by crops grown to smother them, even though they may ripen at the same period. As a rule these crops are more serviceable in destroying perennials than annuals or biennials. Although they should succeed in keeping in check one crop of annuals, we may look for another the following season. When a crop of perennials is destroyed it puts a stop to one mode in which they multiply. viz : by root development, and hence tue benefits extend over several years. Because of this, more attention should be given to the destruction of perennials by smothering crops than of other classes of weeds. Annuals especially can be more effectively destroyed through some system of cultivation, which will encourage them to germinate that they may be destroyed.

When two food crops can be grown in a single season on the same piece of land, the effects upon weed destruction are very wholesome. This can frequently be done through good management. We can often get two crops here in Ontario, writes Thomas Shaw, with our rigorous winters. How much more easily then may this be done in the warmer latitudes where many of the readers of the Ohio Farmer live.

In the effort to get two crops in this northern clime, rye is generally relied on as the first one. The ground for this crop should be plowed by September 1st. This operation scourges the weeds, for, taking it all in all, August is the best month in the year for destroying weeds. Then the rye is cut when coming into ear, for hay, or at later stage for the silo. The ground is then plowed in the early part of June faost of the time. Fluke and footrot are before any weed seeds have matured, when the whole generation of weeds then growing is left and buyied where then growing is left and buried where the crop coming after will fatten upon its decry.

The rye may be followed by any one of a number of crops, as may be desir- streams, which can be made of great value ed. Turnips may be grown, but not as a fertilizer. It makes excellent manure, successiuity as on I lier in the season. Millet will grow in good form after the rye. The same holds true in regard to buckwheat where the climate is suitable to its proper development. But the best crop to follow rye, take it all in all, in this country, is rape. When the rye is cut we have the whole month of quired to keep the cows up to the stan-June to get our land ready for the dard will be shown in better stables,

Then again, two crops may be grown in one year where one is a soiling crop. But this can only be done to a limited extent, as usually a small acreage of soiling crop is grown. Where oats, peas and vetches form the first crop, the second may consist of barley, peas, or a combination of these, also grown as a soiling crop; or it may consist of rape in some latitudes, which may be grown for pas-

It should be borne in mind that I am dealing more with general principles than with detailed descriptions. The crops that should be grown for smothering purposes, as well as for the crop itself, will vary with the climate and soil and necessities of each locality. In warmer latitudes it may be possible to get two crops, both of which mature their seeds, and without going southward into climes where "the orange and the citron bloom." At all events, the more the land is kept judiciously employed the less chance will there be for weeds to multiply.

Bean Culture. Beans require rich soil, but if the bean fodder is carefully saved and fed with refuse beans to sheep, the crop is not nearly so exhaustive as many others. Only the grain is sold, and by others when they cease to blossom. thirty bushels of beans per acre will Let in the sunlight upon them and the not remove more plant food than can table, and try to greet the dawning day be replaced by two hundred weight each of phosphate and nitrate of soda. Years ago, in war times, beans suddenly advanced in price to $4 and even $5 per bushel. Nothing in grain farming compares with beans for raising money quickly and with moderate amount of labor. Many farms were bought and mainly paid for with the proceeds of the bean crop. Beans took their place in the rotation. A crop yielding twenty-five to thirty bushels per acre sold often for $100 per acre, or as much as the original cost of the land. By the time the whole farm had been "beaned" it was paid for. Beans were put in with a drill or with bean-planters, setting the plants in hills with rows far enough apart one way to cultivate be-tween. Most of the cultivation was done with horse power. Now there are bean-harvesting machines that greatly lessen the back-aching labor of bean pulling. Threshing too, that used to be done with the flail or by tramping out the beans, is now accomplished more perfectly by bean-threshers.—American Cultivator.

The Horse to Raise. What the country needs is more $200 horses. For actual usefulness a $200 horse is worth more than the red-circingled $5,000 or $10,000 speci-

low. The phenomenal value of a few specimens is too high. A general democratic leveling is needed. The only way to do this is to castrate all inferior stallions and grade up from the best common mares. Horses that will pull plows, wagons and carriages, and carry a rider rapidly and easily. are the horses that are wanted. The 2:20 trotter serves a purpose well; common mortals, on common business intent, are satisfied with a moderate gait, most people when they start would rather get there a few seconds later than risk a break-neck pace over the public roads. Give us more good strong horses and sure-footed saddle horses. Such service is not obtained from horser whose values run into four figures. -Rural World.

Things to Remember.

No one should disturb a pan or can of milk when once the temperature has begun to fall. The fats seem to follow each other to the surface in little independent currents or lines, attracting the fats from each side of this perpendicular column, though they are very close together. Now if we disturb the pan or can, we throw these little currents of perpendicular rising cream out of line, and they may not reach the surface. There is economy. also, in keeping cans of mitk sealed by some method during muggy weather and thun er storms. Not that thunder sours milk; but that the milk, unprotected, sours much sooner during such weather, is due to the increased number of germs floating in the air at such times; a hot, moist atmosphere being the most congenial to their multiplication, and the milk gets its full share of the increase. No gain in cream-rising can be expected by any chemical change to the milk, as all such tend to increased viscosity, which means increased difficulty in the upward movement. - Practical Farmer.

Farm Notes.

If cob and corn are ground together for feed to horses and cattle don't forget to mix with it an equal bulk of bran. The Texas Live Stock Journal says that experience in that state has fully demonstrated that it is necessary to introduce new blood every three or four years.

Milk drawn from an inflamed udder, says the Jersey Bulletin, will almost invariably, if made into butter, develop an offensive odor, resembling decaying meat. Such milk is unfit for use. Do not feed it even to the pigs. Pour it on the manure

It has been proved, says the Elgin Dairy Report, that cows giving the richest milk also give the highest flavor. When the patrons begin to weed out their non-paying cows, the quality of their milk will improve in every way. The care recleaner surroundings, both for them and the milk, balanced rations and a general improvement of the whole dairy industry. Hard milkers may, in a few cases, be cured by careful feeding to increase the flow of milk, frequent milking and fomentation, or dry rubbing the udder. By these means almost all hard milkers may be improved, if taken in hand when young. Milking tubes may be used with good effect to relieve certain cases of temporary stoppage in teat or while the teat is healing from a wound, but their habitual use is not to be recommended.

Lard is now so adulterated that the safest plans it a pure article is any object, is to buy the leaf lard and try it out at home, straining into a large stone jar and keeping in a cold place. Where salt pork is bought in small quantities it can be kept also in a jar or tub half filled with brine, and the pork must not be allowed to come above it, a plate, smaller round than the jar, serving to keep it under. Meat of any kind may be preserved in a temperature of from 80 degrees to 100 degrees for a period of ten days after it has been soaked in a solution of one pint of salt dissolved in four gallons of cold water and one-half gallon of a solution of bisulphate of calcium. By repeating this process the preservation may be extended by the addition of a solution of gelatine or the white of an egg to the salt and water.

Only the best and largest oysters should be chosen for frying. Dip them, one by one, in flour, then in beaten egg, season with salt and the merest dash of cayenne, dip again in powdered butter cracker and fry them in boiling hot fat, deep enough to float a doughnut. Younger Heads want Peace

A New York telegram says that a conference had been held there the other night by a number of well-known baseball men, both players and magnates from both og nizations. Byrne and Von der Horst had a long talk, in which the latter said he thought it was about time that the hot-headed representatives of both the leading organizations stepped down and out and gave some of the clearheaded ones a chance to adjust all existing differences. Among those present were Billie Barnie, John M. Ward, Tim Keefe, Danny Richardson and others. Richardson is said to have stated that he and Connor have signed with the Athletics.

International Tug-of-wan

International tug-of-wars are becoming popular. One closed in San Francisco last week. The contestants were divided to nationality into ten teams: Americans, English, Scotch, Irish, Canadians, Danes, Swedes, Norwegians, Italians and Germans, and the contest created interest and excitement that filled Mechanics' Pavillion with audiences of 10,000 people nightly. The chief event was between Ireland and England. The contest drew the largest number of spectators that has witnessed any athletic event in that city in the past five years.

The teams contested every inch of the rope desperately, excited specta-tors urging them on with national cries. Ireland finely won after a tug one hour and three minutes. Such contests can be arranged in any large

A very enjoyable birthday party was held last Saturday evening at the residence of Chas. R. Littler in honor of his 30th birthday.

BILTON-HARKER.

St. Marks presented a very animated appearance on Wednesday evening the 11th of this month, when a large gathering of Maplewood and Humboldt people assembled to witness the marriage ceremony of Mr. Robert C. Bilton and Miss Emma J. Har-

Miss Harker is an indefatigable worker If the different parties that borrowed in St. Mark's Mission at Humboldt, and has won for herself the love and esteem n only of the adults but also of the Sunday school children.

Miss DePfull, the talented organist of St. Mark's, presided at the organ. As soon as the bride and groom arrived the organ struck up the wedding hymn.

The voice that breathed o'er Eden

That earliest wedding day, The primal marriage blessing.

It hath not pass'd away.' The children's choir then took up the re frain, and dressed in white, they marched down the aisle, their sweet young voices sot nding clear as silver. Tae Reverend C. J. Millar performed the ceremony, at the conclusion of which the wedding party were driven to their new home on the west side, where an ample supper was provided. The bride wore a Carpenters' Tools, Pumps, Paints, Oils, beautiful dress of India silk, trimmed with white netting and swans down. Her bridesmand looked very pretty in white and carri d a fine boquet of pink roses. Mrs. J. E. Chantry wore a cream colored cash-mere a la Marie Stewart. Mrs. H. Cooley also was in the procession. Messrs. J. E. Chantry, Morgan and Clark were grooms-
