

BARRINGTON REVIEW.

Vol. 10. No. 25.

BARRINGTON, ILL., SATURDAY, NOV. 2, 1895.

AS CITIZENS DO YOUR DUTY.

Don't Fail to Cast Your Vote
Next Tuesday, Nov. 5.

WAKE UP AND HUSTLE.

Your Vote is of Vital Importance to the Party, and you Should Give it Willingly.

The following earnest appeal, issued by the Republicans, should be carefully read and heeded. Every true American citizen should consider it an honor to cast a vote for the man of his choice. Therefore, let all turn out next Tuesday and help cast a full vote: "REPUBLICANS, READ!"

"In the coming election (Nov. 5th, 1895) the only Republican candidate to be voted for in the country towns is to succeed the late Judge Blanke.

Our convention desired to take the Judgeships out of partisan politics. To that end it nominated Judge Shepard, a democrat, to succeed himself; and Mr. Ball, a republican, residing in the town of Cicero, was nominated to succeed Judge Blanke. These names were then sent to the Democratic Managers in the hope that they would, in common fairness and for the good of the public, endorse both of these gentlemen. Many of the wisest and best men of that party were in favor of this plan, but after a fierce struggle in their managing committee it was decided to nominate two democrats; thus disregarding the offer so fairly made by the republican party in favor of decency and for the best interests of the people. As a result, they placed upon their ticket Judge Shepard, a democrat, and Mr. Morrison, another democrat, for Judges of the Supreme Court.

"This action has been condemned by the thinking men of all parties, and there is no doubt but that the voters will express their disapprobation by electing Major Ball by an overwhelming majority.

"The Republican Convention did another wise thing. Although the city delegates outnumbered the country delegates ten to one, and could therefore name what candidates they chose, the city men agreed that if the country men would select a candidate to succeed Judge Blanke, he would be nominated. Accepting this offer, the country delegates unanimously named Mr. Ball as their choice for this high office, and the Convention at once ratified that selection. This puts upon every Republican residing in a country town the duty of voting and seeing that his neighbor votes for Mr. Ball. Unless this is done, and thereby the usual six thousand majority given by the country towns for the Republican party is kept up, the city Republicans will not be encouraged to give, in the future, to the country its fair share of the offices, and the patronage resulting therefrom.

Again, this election is very important in its influence upon the coming Presidential Campaign of 1896. The ticket then presented will be the largest and most important ever submitted to the people of this county.

It will influence both State and National matters. Illinois must be deemed next year. The Nation must again be put into the hands of the party that saved it and has built it up to its present wonderful greatness. You know what help it is to enter upon a campaign having been victorious in the last fight. It increases the number of men who will vote our ticket, and gives confidence to every worker. Should we be defeated this fall, it will be heralded all over the country that the great Republican city of the Union has gone Democratic. The effect of such a result would be disastrous to our chances both State and National politics in the year 1896.

For these reasons—

We trust that every Republican in the country towns will take time enough to vote for his party and for the general good of the people on the coming 5th day of November.

BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS.

Every child should be a new edition of its parents, revised and improved.

One disadvantage of the bloomer habit is that girls may use their bloomers for Christmas stockings.

The sermon that has nothing in it that comes out of the Bible, will never bring any persecution to the preacher.

Unless the Cuban insurrection comes to a speedy end we will be obliged to keep on importing Havana cigars from Wisconsin.

Experiments of the army with "emergency" rations indicate that the condensed food tablets would be a good thing to feed to the enemy.

The Duke of Marlborough is three inches shorter than his prospective bride. But he will not be so "short" when he gets her millions.

When Grandpa Vanjerbilt was raising garden truck he spelled his name Van Der Bilt. But the good old man's children were not built that way.

When Frank Selig was arraigned in a Chicago police court the other day and was fined $5 and costs he had no money and would have had to go to prison had he not been a father. He was allowed to go out and raise enough money to pay his fine, his three months' old baby being accepted as bail until he returned. Young men of bibulous and irregular habits will do well to make a note of this case and prepare to furnish bail if necessary.

In the Boston library there are alcoves filled with wooden blocks, shaped like books, with a strip of imitation Russia leather labeled, "Nothing within." As new works are purchased the shams are displaced, and the genuine ones fill the space. Are there not many such members of our churches, masquerading piety, having the form of Godliness without the power? The scholar turns away from the block-books, while "living epistles" are "known and read of all men."

Wilhelm II. has caused the imprisonment of another editor for criticizing one of his speeches. Vain kaiser! foolish man, who requires every German editor to shout his praise when he makes a speech. He not only misses lots of fun, but he loses all the advantages of criticism. He would certainly make better speeches than he has ever made if he gave the critics a show, permitted them to point out the faults in his oratory, and carefully studied all their utterances. By so doing his voice would be tempered, his presumption reduced, his swagger modified, and his rhetoric improved. Every kaiser ought to keep a squad of critics in his pay.

While we accord to the adventurous Arctic explorer our meed of admiration for his indomitable courage and persistency, the question will obtrude itself whether the game is worth the candle. The curiosity of the general public as to the Arctic regions has been to a certain extent gratified; the children of the land have had large additions to their stock of stories of adventure; the museums have been enriched, and the dryadusts have been furnished with subjects for contemplation and study. But that there has been through all the years of Arctic exploration, from Franklin to Peary, any results achieved which are at all commensurate with the expenditure of energy, of money, and above all, of precious lives, remains to be proven. The one really valuable fact that does seem to have been established is that Arctic exploration is not worth while.

There is a strong reason to believe that the Chinese government regrets its concessions to France and the obligations it has incurred with Russia, and there is no telling what may turn up. England is still standing idly by, watchful and apprehensive, but it is scarcely possible that Lord Salisbury will permit France to acquire so large a slice of Chinese territory and such valuable privileges without demanding an equivalent for his own government. France not only gets absolute title to what may be considered one of the richest sections in China, but permission to mine in the three southern provinces—Kwang Tung, Kwang-si and Yunnan—and the right of navigation on the Lohu, Yu Kung and Mekong rivers and the lakes of Tangting, Po-Yang and several other bodies of water in the interior of the country. All of these privileges have previously been denied to foreigners, and what a Frenchman gets an Englishman will insist upon having. A fleet of small French gunboats has already been making a survey of the rivers and lakes, and the French merchants at Shanghai, Hong Kong and Canton are getting ready to move in and take possession.

"The Twentieth Century Girl," a spectacular farce with many specialties, will begin a brief engagement on Sunday night, Nov. 3d. Miss Molly Fuller, will in the title role, beyond a doubt, excel all her previous triumphs. Bloomers form no part of her costume, and without them, it is claimed, she succeeds in impersonating the mannish woman to a degree which has rarely been seen. Mr. John T. Kelly, will be the Michael McNamara, the man with the political pull, of whom it is said, comes a laugh every time he opens his mouth. Gus Williams is also a member of the company and plays the part of a German professor. His German dialect has made him famous and he should contribute a large share of the fun. Other prominent members of the company are: Harry Kelly, Thomas Lewis and Catherine Linyard. The three Hawthorne sisters will introduce a specialty, "The Bloomer Girls," in which they made a pronounced success last summer in the different New York vaudeville houses. The choruses will be numerous and the voices are said to be fresh and the personnel charming. On the whole "The Twentieth Century Girl" is claimed to be the best entertainment of its kind on the road.

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE—Donnelly and Girard have seemingly found in their latest vehicle of fun, "The Rainmakers," a sort of theatrical sieve, through which innocent merriment pours in perennial joy and unlimited gusts. They open at the Chicago Opera House on Sunday night with their new big company of specialty artists. All the scenery and costumes are new, and several startling electric effects will be introduced, making the comedy better and brighter than ever. Donnelly and Girard have all the latest songs, now popular in the metropolis. During the presentation of the phenomenally successful musical farce comedy, "The Rainmakers," all the original scenery and electrical effects used in the metropolis will be carried by the company. The cast includes artists whose names are synonymous with success, they are: Ross and Fenton, the Rogers brothers, Imro Fox, Maud Raymond, Jessie Gardner, Grace Langley, Ada Mansfield, May Warren and Donnelly and Girard.

"The Merry World" will follow Donnelly and Girard at the Chicago Opera House. It has been practically rewritten since its production here last spring and is said to bristle with new music and bright travesties. The engagement commences Sunday night, Oct. 27.

Dramatic Notes.

Daniel Frohman writes that Mr. E. H. Sothern is surpassing all former receipts at the Lyceum theater, New York, in "The Prisoner of Zenda." Mr. Sothern will be seen here in December.

Thanksgiving day is probably the most popular day in Chicago for the public to visit the theaters. Both the matinee and evening performances at all the theaters are always crowded. The attraction that will be at McVicker's that week is a romantic drama by Sidney R. Ellis, entitled "Bonnie Scotland." Its scenes are located in the most picturesque part of Scotland and the scenery is in keeping with the locations. The action of the play makes it necessary in one of the acts to have a local fair, in which a number of dances, etc., typical of Scotland will be introduced.

The Garrick Theater Burlesque company, which was organized by Richard Mansfield, will come soon to the Chicago Opera House, presenting "Thrillby," Mr. Herbert's satire on Paul Potter's clever play "Trilby."

Miss Lillian Russell will make her bow at the Columbia a week from Monday in a character entirely new to her Chicago friends and admirers—that of a Russian gypsy fortune teller in Henry B. Smith and Reginald De Koven's latest comic opera, "The Tzigane."

HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS IN THE PRAIRIE STATE.

Important Occurrences, Social, Religious, Political, Criminal, Matrimonial and Obituary That Have Taken Place Since Our Last Issue—State Brevities.

At Oskaloosa burglars robbed H. N. McElyea's house of $300.

At Joliet two of the public schools were closed owing to an epidemic of typhoid fever.

At Sabula, Ia., Bartley Flack died, making the seventh victim of the fatal wedding feast.

W. P. Moore, the postmaster at Roanoke, disappeared some days since. The postal inspector finds him short in his accounts $1,300.

At Dixon a raid was made on a club room in Mrs. Royce's boarding house, all the inmates arrested and the gambling implements taken to the city hall.

Governor Altgeld has accepted an invitation to attend the Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta, Ga., for himself and full military staff.

The strike at the Woodside Coal company's mine, south of Springfield, has ended by the striking miners, seventy-five in number, going to work at the operators' terms.

Mount Carmel—Fire destroyed the immense building formerly occupied by the Standard Manufacturing company, of which G. Pennington, of air ship and motor cycle fame, was the head. The building has lately been occupied by the Inter-State Fertilizer company, which lost plant and stock to the amount of $8,000. The loss on building is $16,000 and on machinery formerly belonging to the Standard company $7,500. Hark & Simon's beer depot also burned, entailing a loss of several hundred dollars.

Joliet.—Several changes on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad were made last week. P. L. McManus, a brother of the superintendent, is now agent, vice N. Duke, resigned. Charles Hill has been promoted to Cashier, and Walter C. Belden installed as rate clerk. Since the boom in hard coal this road has been very busy in the Wilmington district, where several hundred cars of soft coal are pulled out daily. The Elgin, Joliet and Eastern reaches all of the heavy coal mines in Will and Grundy counties, and the switching force is working full time.

Peoria gets the location of the new asylum for the incurable insane, decisive action to that effect being taken by the commission appointed by Governor Altgeld last week. Word was immediately sent to Governor Altgeld announcing the decision, and asking that a consultation be arranged. Mayor Allen was called to the meeting at 11 o'clock, and was informed that Peoria was awarded the prize. He thanked the commission for their work and then issued a call for a mass meeting of the committee, to be held at the City hall.

The annual state liberal congress, under the auspices of the American Congress of Liberal Religious Societies, will be held at Freeport Nov. 19, 20 and 21. All societies in sympathy with its objects within the state are requested to send three or more delegates. Dr. W. H. Thomas, of Chicago, will deliver the opening sermon, and Dr. Thomas Kerr, of Rockford; Rev. L. J. Duncan, of Streator; Rev. C. F. Elliott, of Hinsdale; Dr. Colledge, of Aurora; Rev. R. B. Marsh, of Peoria; Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, of Chicago; Rabbi Joseph Stolz, of Chicago; Rev. Mrs. Celia P. Woolley, of Geneva; Rev. A. N. Alcott, of Elgin, will read papers and take part in the discussion.

Bloomington—The second meeting of the Soldiers and Sailors' Association of McLean county was held last week. Between 200 and 300 veterans were present. The pleasure of the meeting was greatly enhanced by the presence of Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, of Washington, who addressed the meeting at the Schroeder Opera-house. Colonel Ingersoll, in the course of his remarks, urged the annexation of Cuba, Hawaii, and Canada, and a strict enforcement of the Monroe doctrine. He said the domain of the United States should extend unbroken from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic ocean. He wanted a government absolutely strong, and said it was the duty of the citizen to stand by the Federal government before the state. If he were president he would recognize the Cubans as belligerents. These sentiments were heartily applauded. General W. H. Powell, commander of the Illinois department; ex-Commander Harlan, ex-Governor Fifer, Vespasian Warner, of Clinton; Congressman Elect Horace Clark, of Mattoon, and others spoke briefly. The following officers were elected: President, General George F. Dick, Bloomington; vice-president, James Thompson, Saybrook; secretary, Charles W. Atkinson, Saybrook; treasurer, George Riddle, Leroy; assistant secretary, Frank Woolley, Saybrook. There was a largely attended and enthusiastic campfire in the evening.

At Paxton James Turner has leased the Blackstone House and will change its name to Crescent.

Mrs. Susan Cook died at Quincy while quietly celebrating her one hundred and sixth birthday.

At Dubuque, Ia., Nicholas Brand, an old resident, died at 12:30 p. m., and a half hour later his daughter died in the same house.

Edward J. Burt, a young man who held a good position in Rockford and was prominent socially until a year ago, when he was sent to the penitentiary at Waupun, Wis., has just been pardoned by Governor Upham and will return here. Fourteen years ago he was charged with the theft of a horse at Janesville, which his relatives afterward paid for, but, after living respectably for the long period following, he was taken back there, tried, and sent to prison for a number of years.

Princeton—Work was suspended last week on the entire line of the Hennepin canal, with the exception of two forces on the extreme eastern end, and these will be laid off Nov. 10. This action was taken, as the appropriations of Congress have been about exhausted, and work cannot be resumed to any great extent until further appropriations are made. One million two hundred thousand has been voted so far, and, with this amount, eight miles on the west end have been completed, and on the east end the excavations for twenty miles have been made, and seven locks finished. A small fund is yet available, with which land for a number of miles of the right of way will be purchased.

Lincoln—Long drought is proving a serious matter to the farmers of Logan county. The fields of corn, now ready for the huskers, are catching fire and burning, and at times the fire threatens to spread to houses and barns. Mrs. L. F. Ogle suffers a loss of $300 by losing several acres of corn and many rods of fencing. W. D. Duff had difficulty in saving an eighty-acre tract of corn which was set on fire by an Illinois Central engine. Before the flames could be checked over ten acres of corn were burned. On John Miller's farm fire began from a spark dropped from a Chicago & Alton engine, leaped across the right of way and entered the corn field. It burned about fifteen acres and then was successfully resisted by a hedge. Everybody is vigilant and whenever a fire begins volunteers assemble and extinguish it.

Secretary George F. Miner, of the State Board of Public Charities, has addressed a letter to Chairman Daniel S. Healy, of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, making suggestions as to the care of dependent children in that county. Mr. Miner says that while a large number of dependent children need special care and training before being placed in private families, yet a large proportion may be placed in homes at once. It is recommended that children who have no natural guardians, or whose guardians are unworthy of their trust, be secured a permanent home at once, and that children only temporarily public charges, such as the children of widowed mothers unable to support them, be cared for by the "boarding out" system. The system as in vogue in Massachusetts is alluded to as the best American example of this method. Under this system the children are placed in country homes and treated as members of the family. The letter concludes: "While this precise arrangement is of course impracticable in Illinois under our present laws, it is entirely within the province of the Board of Commissioners of Cook county to contract for the care of dependent and pauper children in private country families by the year. This you can do directly or through the agency of some placing-out society. The essential points are that the child shall be placed in a country home, the fitness of which has been carefully ascertained, and that the county shall have a contract on the bend for the proper care and schooling of the child. If the contract is made with a society, quarterly visits and reports should be demanded."

The Bird Did Not Fall.

People who were walking along a San Francisco street not long ago suddenly heard piercing cries from the upper story of a lodging-house, says the Post of that city. A woman was leaning from a window and for a moment it was thought that some brute was trying to throw her out.

A second look, however, showed that she held in her hand a bird-cage. She had been hanging it out of the window to give her bird the sun, when the bottom dropped out. The startled bird was fluttering about the top of its prison, and the woman was screaming.

"Oh, he'll fall! he'll fall! My poor little birdie!"

This was only for a moment. With great presence of mind she turned the cage upside down, so that her pet could not drop out and be dashed upon the cruel pavement. And then the captive went sailing away over the tops of the buildings. For some reason he did not fall.

THE BATTLESHIP COLUMBIA. ONE OF THE POWERFUL WAR ENGINES OF THE U. S. NAVY.

The Venezuelan question has finally assumed an aspect that cannot fail to measure the full worth of the Monroe Doctrine. That doctrine was proclaimed during the administration of James Monroe. It forbade the extension of European encroachments in the Americas. Primarily it was intended for Spain and Holland. England was satisfied with the proclamation. In fact Canning, the English foreign minister, through the American minister at London, urged the necessity for such a doctrine. In time the Monroe Doctrine drove Spain and Holland and France from South America. Now it must be asserted against England. The big thief among nations in trying to steal the wealthiest portion of Venezuela finds that the law which crushed French, Spanish and Dutch dominion in South America is also operative against England, its original sponsor. In other words England is about to get a dose of her own medicine. If that country will not submit to arbitrate the question of whether she has a right to steal the territory from Venezuela there is nothing left this country to do but to enforce the Monroe Doctrine by the power of arms. The question has already come to a crisis. England must recede from her claims of right. This country cannot recede from the Monroe Doctrine. Already the navy is being officered and every available warship is being put in condition. The grand old spirit of American patriotism is being revived once more. For the first time in almost a century all the American people will soon be of one opinion, that England must be driven from these continents and from the dominion of the high seas. It is likely, however, that England will back down.

H. H. HOLMES ON TRIAL

ALLEGED MURDERER IS HIS OWN ATTORNEY.

Sensational Beginning of the Famous Trial—Counsel for the Prisoner Withdraws from the Case and He Will Conduct His Defense.

At Philadelphia, Pa., H. H. Holmes, or Herman W. Mudgett, which he says is his baptismal name, was put on trial in the court of oyer and terminer Monday for the murder of Benjamin F. Pitzel, in this city, Sept. 2, 1894. From the nature of the case, and the startling stories concerning it which have gained currency during the past year, sensational revelations were naturally to be expected. Yet what did occur in court so far surpassed all expectations that the most vivid of imaginations could scarcely have conceived of the day's events. Protestations and entreaties for a continuance of the trial summarily overruled, the sudden withdrawal of the lawyers who had hitherto represented the prisoner in the face of threats of disbarment, the appointment by the court of new counsel and the refusal of the prisoner to accept them as his defenders, the declination of another lawyer to serve after being selected by Holmes, and, finally, the prisoner trying his own case—this, not to speak of sundry dramatic passages at arms between Holmes and the commonwealth's prosecuting officer, is a summary of what occurred.

None but lawyers, witnesses, jurors and newspaper representatives were permitted to pass the police, which formed a barrier across the entrance to the corridor leading to the courtroom.

MAINE IS ALL RIGHT.

Secretary Herbert Quiets Grave Rumors About the Battleship.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The Secretary of the Navy being asked about the statements published relative to the defects in the Maine, particularly about the draughts of water forward and aft, said: "The Maine was designed to be an even keel at her normal draught of 21 feet 6 inches, with 400 tons of coal on board. She has now been loaded with over 800 tons of coal, and her draught forward is 2 feet 5 inches greater than aft. Many ships when fully loaded are down by the head. When the ship has been at sea for a few days this will be corrected in great part at least by using the coal, which is generally taken from the forward part of the vessel, by the use of the after trimming tank provided for this purpose, and by some shifting of stores to the after storeroom not now used. It perhaps may be also necessary to add some permanent ballast. As to the listing of the Maine to starboard, this is not a matter of importance. The Atlanta and Boston have both proved to be very serviceable ships, but in each of these there is a list nearly double that of the Maine, and this is also corrected by loading."

Insuring Consumptives.

Cincinnati, Oct. 21.—Special.—Reports say that a leading life insurance company is accepting risks to the amount of $300,000 on lives of consumptives taking the Amick Chemical Treatment for lung disease. The Amick Chemical Co. of Cincinnati is actually paying the premiums on this insurance and presenting policies to their patients. This company claims to have the most complete statistics on consumption in the world, and that these risks are good, providing the patients take a course of the Amick treatment.

TALKS OF RUSSIA'S GRAB.

Important Concessions Have Been Made by the Flowery Kingdom.

London, Oct. 29.—In spite of the statement of a high official that the alarming dispatch of the Times from Hong-Kong, regarding important concessions made by China to Russia, "bears no resemblance to the actual facts," the news seems to be confirmed from two sources.

G. E. Morrison, who recently traveled through China, writes that as far back as August last the Chinese newspapers outlined a scheme by which China proposed to reward Germany, France and Russia for their intervention against Japan. Germany, he says, was to have concessions of land at the treaty ports of Hankow and Tien-Tsin; France was to be granted certain privileges in southeast China, and Russia was to be allowed to extend her railway system to Port Arthur.

The second ground for believing the report is found in a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Vienna, giving an outline of an interview with a well-known Russian statesman, who practically admits the truth telegraphed from Hong-Kong to the Times.

WHEN RICHARD LOVELACE CAME TO WOO.

The feet of time make fast their pace,
And we, like players in a play,
Strut up and down our little space
And act our parts as best we may.
Alas! Alack, and well a day!
The stage is dim in somber hue,
Where once that stately vogue held sway,
When Richard Lovelace came to woo.

And much we marvel as we trace
The feuds and foibles passed away,
While pomp of power and pride of place
Troop down the years in grand array.
In court and camp, in fete and fray
Fickle and flippant, stanch and true,
Such were the gallants, bold and gay,
When Richard Lovelace came to woo.

In doublet fine and frills of lace,
The lover sought his suit to pay,
With such a form and such a face,
Who could resist his plea, I pray?
And then that tender roundelay,
So like a wood dove's plaintive coo
Sweet Lucy could not say him nay,
When Richard Lovelace came to woo.

Ho, Kentish towers! Your lordly race
Had swords to draw and deeds to do.
In that eventful year of grace,
When Richard Lovelace came to woo!
—L. H. Foote in Overland Monthly.

A VALUABLE DIME.

Ten Cent Pieces Coined in San Francisco in 1894 Are Worth $5 Each.

Whoever has a dime of 1894 coined by the San Francisco mint has a coin for which $5 has already been offered, and when all the facts are known regarding its scarcity it is not unlikely that it will command a much higher premium.

Inquiry at the mint elicited the information that during the fiscal year of 1894 only 24 dimes were coined at the San Francisco mint. How this came about was told by Chief Clerk Robert Barnett.

"All undercurrent subsidiary coins—viz, those containing other than the design now being used—when received at the subtreasury are not again allowed to go into circulation, but are sent to the mint to be recoined with the current design. In the course of the year 1894 we received a large sum in these coins, but having an ample stock of dimes on hand it was not intended to coin any of that denomination in 1894. However, when nearly all of this subsidiary coin bullion had been utilized, we found on our hands a quantity that would coin to advantage only into dimes, and into dimes it was coined, making just 24 of them.

"My attention was first drawn to the matter particularly by the receipt of a letter from a collector somewhere east requesting a set of the coins of 1894. In filling this order I found there were no dimes of that date on hand. Subsequently I received quite a number of similar letters and in each case was of course unable to furnish them.

"Plenty of dimes were coined that year at Philadelphia and New Orleans mints, but there are many collectors who accumulate the coinage of each mint, as each has its distinguishing mark. Those coined here bear a letter S under the eagle. New Orleans uses the letter O and Carson City the letter C, while Philadelphia coins are identified by the absence of the letter.

"We receive each year about 50 requests from coin collectors for coins, mostly for those of silver."—San Francisco Bulletin.

MINING OF PHOSPHATES.

Where Deposits Are Found and How They Are Prepared.

The Florida phosphate deposits are of great importance, yet their existence was discovered so recently and their extent is still so uncertain that few persons not engaged in the sale of fertilizing materials have much knowledge of the large industry which has sprung up in the Peninsular State. It has practically created a new city—Ocala—which had a population of but a few hundred in 1870, but is now a thriving business center with modern improvements, banking facilities and ample railway and transportation facilities. Engineering, the leading engineering journal of the world, makes the following statements concerning the region, which are of considerable interest as coming from an unbiased source: "There is no phosphate region in the world known today that possesses so many advantages for successful mining as the Florida deposits. The grade of material is the highest average that is being worked anywhere. The facilities for moving the products to points for distribution are good. The average distance from mines to ports for shipments is about 150 miles.

"The distributing stations for the hard rock district are Port Tampa, Fernandina, Brunswick and Savannah, the largest tonnage being moved from Fernandina, where storage bins are located and loading facilities are good. Port Tampa, the terminus of the Plant system of railroads, is constantly adding facilities for prompt handling of cargoes of phosphate and at present very nearly equals Fernandina in the amount of its shipments. Railroad are numerous and cheaply constructed when necessary to extend them into new sections. The machinery needed to mine and prepare the material is simple and inexpensive compared with that generally used in other mining operations, and the cost of a plant with sufficient land to work upon is within the reach of small investors. The working days at the mines are about 280 during the year. The climate is healthful, laborers readily obtained at a fair compensation, and skilled operatives are at hand who are becoming familiar with the business.

"The mining camps are generally well regulated, and proprietors and employees can reside at the mines with safety and with little inconvenience, as supplies of all kinds can be readily obtained at the towns located in the near vicinity of all the large mining fields. Telegraph and mail facilities are within easy access of nearly every mining camp in the state. Florida phosphates are mostly shipped to European ports and are manufactured into fertilizers in England, Ireland, Germany, France, and quite recently shipments have been made to the Sandwich Islands. Foreign agents of consumers and dealers in phosphates have their offices near the center of production, and contracts for delivery and prices are commonly fixed at points of shipment, the material being sold at a price per unit of its contents of phosphate of lime. The Florida phosphates are all used in the manufacture of commercial fertilizers and superphosphate."—Boston Transcript.

THE RETIRED BURGLAR.

He Finds It Hard to Accustom Himself to Ordinary Hours of Living.

"My chief trouble now," said the retired burglar, "is about my hours. I have been so long accustomed to working nights and sleeping days that I find it difficult to change back to the hours of other folks. Instead of having my breakfast at 7 o'clock in the morning I have it at 7 o'clock in the evening. Some folks make their dinner the last meal in the day, but I never could get used to that. I can sleep better on a light meal, so I have my dinner in the middle of the day—I mean the middle of the night—and my supper about 5 o'clock in the morning.

"This schedule works all right for the first half of the night. There's plenty of life then, and I can go to the theater and one place and another, but after dinner, I must say, I find it pretty tedious. When I was at work and my mind was occupied, I never thought anything about it, but now it is different. This is a bigger town than it used to be, and it's open all night. There's plenty of occupations nowadays that people work at all night, but the people that work at 'em are working at 'em. You don't see 'em around the streets, and the general fact remains that most people work days and sleep nights, and the cold fact is that from dinner time to supper time I feel sort o' lost.

"But I'm not discouraged. I don't suppose I could change the habits of a lifetime in a minute, and I shall just keep on trying till I get my hours shifted around again like other people's."—New York Sun.

Mrs. J. P. Bell, Ossawatimie, Kan., wife of the editor of The Graphic, the leading local paper of Miami county, writes "I was troubled with heart disease for six years, severe palpitations, shortness of breath, together with such extreme nervousness, that, at times I would walk the floor nearly all night. We consulted the best medical talent. They said there was no help for me, that I had organic disease of the heart for which there was no remedy. I had read your advertisement in The Graphic and a year ago, as a last resort, tried one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart, which convinced me that there was true merit in it. I took three bottles each of the Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine and it completely cured me. I sleep well at night, my heart beats regularly and I have no more smothering spells. ADVERTISERS GET THE TRADE.

The way the public looks at advertising is forcibly shown by the utterance of a well-known Philadelphian, temporarily in Washington, who was walking somewhat out of his way to reach a florist's. When his attention was called to the fact that there were other florists nearer, he said: "I am seeking this man because he advertises in the newspapers. The man who advertises is always up to the times, and he is easier to deal with. You laugh, but I tell you it is a fact. I have studied this over, and I know this from personal experience. The last few years of my life I've made it a rule never to deal with any business man who doesn't advertise. I wanted some flowers to send off in a box by mail, and I looked in the paper this morning for the advertisement of a florist. Now you see he wants to see me—else he wouldn't put that in the papers. I don't know any of the places here; but the rule is a good one, and I'll bet you anything you say that I can get what I want at this place, and get it cheaper than anywhere else, or any flower place that keeps its name out of the newspapers. The business man that doesn't advertise I always found narrow minded, selfish, non-enterprising, penny-wise and pound foolish, even if he didn't cheat me outright. No sir; I never buy anything of him." —Geyer's Stationer.

Lincoln's Good Breeding.

The writer remembers very well to have heard a very fastidious lady, a member of the Speed household, say that, though at that time Lincoln had none of the polish and gracefulness to be expected from those acquainted with the usages of society, he was one of nature's gentlemen because of his kindness of heart and innate refinement. And after saying this she recalled an instance of real good manners on his part. At dinner there was a saddle of mutton. The servant after handing the roast passed a glass of jelly. Mr. Lincoln took the glass and ate the jelly from it. The servant got another glass and passed it around. Mr. Lincoln noticed that the others at table merely took a spoonful. Without embarrassment or apology he laughed quietly and remarked, "I seem to have taken more than my share," and then he went on with his dinner. Most persons, this lady thought, after committing such a solecism would have been covered with confusion and profuse in apologies.—John Gilmer Speed in Ladies' Home Journal.

HEAVEN IS LOOKING.

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES HIS FIRST WASHINGTON SERMON.

Chooses the Famous Passage from Hebrews: "Seeing We Are Also Compassed About with So Great a Cloud of Witnesses."

In this, my opening sermon in the national capital I give Christian salutation. I bethink myself of the privilege of standing in this historic church, so long presided over by one of the most remarkable men of the century. There are plenty of good ministers beside Dr. Sunderland, but I do not know of any man except himself with enough brain to have stood successfully and triumphantly forty-three years in this conspicuous pulpit. Long distant be the year when that Gospel chieftain shall put down the silver trumpet with which he has marshaled the hosts of Israel, or sheathe the sword with which he has struck such mighty blows for God and righteousness. I come to you with the same Gospel that he has preached and to join you in all kinds of work for making the world better, and I hope to see you all in your own homes and have you all come and see me, but don't all come at once, and without any preliminary discourses as to what I propose to do. I begin here and now to cheer you with the thought that all heaven is sympathetically looking on. "Seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses."

Crossing the Alps by the Mont Cenis pass, or through the Mont Cenis tunnel, you are in a few hours set down at Verona, Italy, and in a few minutes begin examining one of the grandest ruins of the old world—the Amphitheater. The whole building sweeps around you in a circle. You stand in the arena where the combat was once fought or the race run, and on all sides the seats rise, tier above tier, until you count 40 elevations, or galleries, as I shall see fit to call them, in which sat the senators, the kings, and the twenty-five thousand excited spectators. At the sides of the arena, and under the galleries, are the cages in which the lions and tigers are kept without food, until, frenzied with hunger and thirst, they are let out upon some poor victim, who, with his sword and alone, is condemned to meet them. I think that Paul himself once stood in such a place, and that it was not only figuratively, but literally, that he had "fought with beasts at Ephesus."

The gala day has come. From all the world the people are pouring into Verona. Men, women and children, orators and senators, great men and small, thousands upon thousands come, until the first gallery is full, and the second, the third, the fourth, the fifth—all the way up to the twentieth, all the way up to the thirtieth, all the way up to the fortieth. Every place is filled. Immensity of audience sweeping the great circle. Silence! The time for the contest has come. A Roman official leads forth the victim into the arena. Let him get his sword, with firm grip, into his right hand. The twenty-five thousand sit breathlessly watching. I hear the door at the side of the arena creak open. Out plunges the half-starved lion, his tongue athirst for blood, and, with a roar that brings all the galleries to their feet, he rushes against the sword of the combatant. Do you know how strong a stroke a man will strike when his life depends upon the first thrust of his blade? The wild beast, lame and bleeding, slinks back toward the side of the arena; then, rallying his waning strength, he comes up with fiercer eye and more terrible roar than ever, only to be driven back with a fatal wound, while the combatant comes in with stroke after stroke, until the monster is dead at his feet, and the twenty-five thousand people clap their hands and utter a shout that makes the city tremble.

Sometimes the audience came to see a race; sometimes to see gladiators fight each other, until the people, compassionate for the fallen, turned their thumbs up as an appeal that the vanquished be spared; and sometimes the combat was with wild beasts.

To an amphitheatrical audience Paul refers when he says: "We are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses."

The fact is, that every Christian man has a lion to fight. Yours is a bad temper. The gates of the arena have been opened, and this tiger has come out to destroy your soul. It has lacerated you with many a wound. You have been thrown by it time and again, but in the strength of God you have arisen to drive it back. I verily believe you will conquer. I think that the temptation is getting weaker and weaker. You have given it so many wounds that the prospect is that it will die, and you shall be victor, through Christ. Courage, brother! Do not let the sands of the arena drink the blood of your soul!

Your lion is the passion for strong drink. You may have contended against it twenty years; but it is strong of body and thirsty of tongue. You have tried to fight it back with broken bottle or empty wine flask. Nay! that is not the weapon. With one horrible roar he will seize thee by the throat and rend thee limb from limb. Take this weapon, sharp and keen—reach up and get it from God's armory—the Sword of the Spirit. With that thou mayest drive him back and conquer!

But why specify, when every man and woman has a lion to fight. If there be one here who has no besetting sin let him speak out, for him have I offended. If you have not fought the lion it is because you have let the lion eat you up. This very moment the contest goes on. The Trajan celebration, where ten thousand gladiators fought, and eleven thousand wild beasts were slain, was not so terrific a struggle as that which at this moment goes on in many a soul. That combat was for the life of the body; this is for the life of the soul. That was with wild beasts from the jungle; this is with the roaring lion of hell.

Men think, when they contend against an evil habit, that they have to fight it all alone. No! They stand in the center of an immense circle of sympathy. Paul had been reciting the names of Abel, Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Sarah, Isaac, Joseph, Gideon and Barak, and then says: "Being compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses."

Before I get through I will show you that you fight in an arena, around which circle, in galleries above each other, all the kindling eyes and all the sympathetic hearts of the ages; and at every victory gained there comes down the thundering applause of a great multitude that no man can number. "Being compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses."

On the first elevation of the ancient amphitheater, on the day of a celebration, sat Tiberius, or Augustus, or the reigning king. So, in the great arena of spectators that watch our struggles and in the first divine gallery, as I shall call it, sits our King, one Jesus. On his head are many crowns! The Roman emperor got his place by cold-blooded conquests, but our King hath come to his place by the broken hearts healed and the tears wiped away and the souls redeemed. The Roman emperor sat, with folded arms, indifferent as to whether the swordsman or the lion beat; but our King's sympathies are all with us. Nay, unheard-of condescensions! I see him come down from the gallery into the arena to help us in the fight, shouting, until all up and down his voice is heard: "Fear not! I will help thee! I will strengthen thee by the right hand of my power!"

They gave to the men in the arena, in the olden time, food to thicken their blood, so that it would flow slowly, and that for a longer time the people might gloat over the scene. But our King has no pleasure in our wounds, for we are bone of his bone, flesh of his flesh, blood of his blood.

In all the anguish of our heart, The Man of Sorrows bore a part.

Once, in the ancient amphitheater, a lion with one paw caught the combatant's sword, and with his other paw caught his shield. The man took his knife from his girdle and slew the beast. The king, sitting in the gallery, said: "That was not fair; the lion must be slain by a sword." Other lions were turned out, and the poor victim fell. You cry, "Shame! shame!" at such meanness. But the King in this case is our brother and he will see that we have fair play. He will forbid the rushing out of more lions than we can meet; he will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able. Thank God! The King is in the gallery! His eyes are on us. His heart is with us. His hand will deliver us. "Blessed are all they who put trust in him!"

I look again, and I see the angelic gallery. There they are: the angel that swung the sword at the gate of Eden, the same that Ezekiel saw upholding the throne of God, and from which I look away, for the splendor is insufferable. Here are the guardian angels. That one watched a patriarch; this one protected a child. That one has been pulling a soul out of temptation! All these are messengers of light! Those drove the Spanish Armada on the rocks. This turned Sennacherib's living hosts into a heap of one hundred and eighty-five thousand corpses. Those yonder, chanted the Christmas carol over Bethlehem, until the chant awoke the shepherds. These, at creation, stood in the balcony of heaven, and serenaded the new born world wrapped in swaddling clothes of light. And there, holler and mightier than all, is Michael, the archangel. To command an earthly host gives dignity; but this one is leader of the twenty thousand chariots of God, and of the ten thousand times ten thousand angels. I think God gives command to the archangel and the archangel to the seraphim, and the seraphim to the cherubim, until all the lower orders of heaven hear the command and go forth on the high behest.

Now, bring on your lions! Who can fear? All the spectators in the angelic gallery are our friends. "He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone. Thou shalt tread upon the lion and adder: the young lion and the dragon shalt thou trample under foot."

Though the arena be crowded with temptations, we shall, with the angelic help, strike them down in the name of our God, and leap on their fallen carcasses! Oh, bending throng of bright, angelic faces, and swift wings, and lightning foot! I hail you, today, from the dust and struggle of the arena.

I look again, and I see the gallery of the prophets and apostles. Who are those mighty ones yonder? Moses and Jeremiah, and Daniel, and Isaiah, and Paul, and Peter, and John, and James. There sits Noah, waiting for all the world to come into the ark; and Moses, waiting till the last Red Sea shall divide; and Jeremiah, waiting for the Jews to return; and John, of the Apocalypse, waiting for the swearing of the angel that Time shall be no longer. Glorious spirits! Ye were howled at; ye were stoned; ye were spit upon! They have been in the fight themselves; and they are all with us. Daniel knows all about lions. Paul fought with beasts at Ephesus.

In the ancient amphitheatre, the people got so excited that they would shout from the galleries to the men in the arena: "At it again!" "Forward!" "One more stroke!" "Look out!" "Fall back!" "Huzza! huzza!" So in that gallery, prophetic and apostolic, they cannot keep their peace. Daniel cries out: "Thy God will deliver thee from the mouth of the lions!" David exclaims: "He will not suffer thy foot to be moved!" Isaiah calls out: "Fear not! I am with thee! Be not dismayed!" Paul exclaims: "Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!" That throng of prophets and apostles cannot keep still. They make the welkin ring with shouting and hallelujahs.

I look again, and I see the gallery of the martyrs. Who is that? Hugh Latimer, sure enough! He would not apologize for the truth preached; and so he died, the night before swinging from a gallows in perfect glee at the thought of emancipation. Who are that army of six thousand six hundred and sixty? They are the Theban Legion who died for the faith. Here is a larger host in magnificent array—eight hundred and eighty-four thousand—who, perished for Christ in the persecutions of Diocletian. Yonder is a family group, Felicitas, of Rome, and her children. While they were dying for the faith she stood encouraging them. One son was whipped to death by thorns; another was flung from a rock; another was beheaded. At last the mother became a martyr. There they are, together—a family group in heaven! Yonder is John Bradford, who said, in the fire, "We shall have a merry supper with the Lord to-night!" Yonder is Henry Voes, who exclaimed, as he died, "If I had ten heads, they should all fall off for Christ!" The great throng of the martyrs! They had hot lead poured down their throats; horses were fastened to their hands, and other horses to their feet, and thus they were pulled apart; they had their tongues pulled out by red-hot pincers; they were sewn up in the skins of animals, and then thrown to the dogs; they were daubed with combustibles and set on fire! If all the martyrs' stakes that have been kindled could be set at proper distances, they would make the midnight, all the world over, bright as noonday! And now they sit yonder in the martyrs' gallery. For them the fires of persecution have gone out. The swords are sheathed and the mob hushed. Now they watch us with an all-observing sympathy. They know all the pain, all the hardship, all the anguish, all the injustice, all the privation. They cannot keep still. They cry: "Courage! The fire will not consume. The floods cannot drown. The lions cannot devour! Courage! down there in the arena!"

What are they all looking? This night we answer back the salutation they give, and cry, "Hail! sons and daughters of the fire!"

I look again, and I see another gallery, that of eminent Christians. What strikes me strangely is the mixing in companionship of those who on earth could not agree. There I see Martin Luther, and beside him a Roman Catholic who looked beyond the superstitions of his church and is saved. There is Albert Barnes, and around him the Presbytery who tried him for heterodoxy! Yonder is Lyman Beecher, and the church court that denounced him! Stranger than all there is John Calvin and James Arminius! Who would have thought that they would sit so lovingly together. There is George Whitefield, and the Bishops who would not let him come into their pulpits because they thought him a fanatic. There are the sweet singers, Toplady, Montgomery, Charles Wesley, Isaac Watts, and Mrs. Sigourney. If heaven had had no music before they went up, they would have started the singing. And there, the band of missionaries: David Abeel, talking of China redeemed; and John Scudder, of India saved; and David Brainerd, of the aborigines evangelized; and Mrs. Adoniram Judson, whose prayers for Burmah took heaven by violence! All these Christians are looking into the arena. Our struggle is nothing to theirs. Do we, in Christ's cause, suffer from the cold? They walked Greenland's icy mountains. Do we suffer from the heat? They sweated in the tropics. Do we get fatigued? They fainted, with none to care for them but cannibals. Are we persecuted? They were anathematized.

Long is the night to him who is awake; long is a mile to him who is tired; long is life to the foolish who do not know the true religion.

HE wind kissed her cheek
As she wielded the creak,
For a lover of golf was she;
She stepped o'er the green
With the grace of a queen,
And her stroke and her hand were free.

Untouched was her heart
By bold Cupid's dart;
Brave suitors besieged it in vain,
Till one fatal day
Sweet Love found a way
To enter its sacred domain.

A match to be played
Was sadly delayed—
By chance no caddie had she;
A gallant young knight,
Perceiving her plight,
Proposed that her helper he be.

Accepted, and then,
Politest of men—
What trifles determine one's life,
And oft change a name!
The maid won the game,
The caddie—he won a wife.

Protection of Home Industries.

A new prophet has appeared at Nyan Sakat on the upper Congo, where the local patriots are now required to defray the expenses of publishing a semi-monthly installment of revelations. The new apostle has acquired the authority of a Sheikh-Kebir, a chieftain of several villages, and feels it his duty to protect home industries by requiring imported missionaries to pay a monthly license of twelve yards of red flannel.

A Clever Suggestion.

The book-agent who really means to make his way in the world has to be a person of an inventive turn of mind. People rarely want to buy the books he has to sell, and it is his hard fate often to have to argue long and strongly in favor of his wares. The most ingenious of these hard-working people that has yet come to notice is the one told about by one of the London papers. The agent in question had a volume to sell that did not go off exactly like hot cakes, and at one particular house he was met with a most decided rebuff.

"It's no use to me. I never read," said the householder.
"But there's your family," said the canvasser.
"Haven't any family—nothing but a cat."
"Well, you want something to throw at the cat," suggested the agent.
The book was purchased.

A Remarkable Projectile.
In the latest test of projectiles made by the ordnance bureau in Washington, a 12-inch solid shell of cast steel was driven entirely through an 18-inch Harvey-plate and through two feet of oak backing. It was the first time in the history of the bureau that such a plate has been pierced by such a projectile, and the astonishing performance, as Lieut. Mason said, revolutionized all previous theories in shell construction. The shells in question, made by a firm in Spuyten Duyvil, N. Y., had various novel features, but doubtless it was the bolt of solid steel which did the business, and in penetrating the plate it not only punctured a number of highly respected theories, but gave the whole system of naval armament a shock premonitory of another and a costly revolution.

THE GUARD'S STORY.

From the State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.

There is probably not a stronger man or more trustworthy guard employed at the Nebraska State Penitentiary than J. T. Ralston. To a stranger he appears a very good example of the man who boasts that he was never sick a day in his life.

For many years Mr. Ralston lived at Syracuse, Nebraska, and the old residents there remember him as one of the strongest and healthiest of their number.

In '88, or thereabouts, when the "grip" first broke forth in this section of the country, it claimed him as one of its earliest victims. Like most men with a strong physique, he sneered at the disease and did not guard properly against it. For days he lay in bed and left it only as a confirmed invalid.

About this time he moved with his family to Peru, Nebraska, where some of his children were attending the State Normal School. He hoped the change would do him good, but he was disappointed. He doctored with the local physicians, and even with his own son, who was practicing medicine. All seemed to no avail, and miserable in mind and body the poor man told his family that he feared there was no hope for him.

A happy thought of his own led him to try strong stimulants. He was again able to work. But he soon found that his relief was but temporary, and when bad weather came on he was subject to severe attacks of the "grip" as before.

Two years ago Mr. Ralston was employed at the Nebraska State Penitentiary at Lincoln, the state capital, and enjoyed comparative ease while performing the duties of usher. Last fall, however, he was put out on the wall, and with the change of work came his old trouble even more aggravated form. He was not only troubled with the usual miserable feelings of the "grip," but he found himself short of breath and generally weak, these things unfitting him for the duties of his position.

Once more, almost in despair, he sought a cure and purchased a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He used them according to directions and felt better. Five more boxes followed the first, and the long sufferer was a well man.

Said he to a Journal reporter, to whom he had just given the above facts: "I feel now as though I could stack more hay than any man in Nebraska; and if I needed a position now I would hunt one on a harvest field. Why, only last Sunday night I took a severe cold which, a year ago, would have laid me up a week with the 'grip'; but now it causes me only temporary annoyance, and I simply live it off."

Mr. Ralston has been long and favorably known in many parts of Nebraska, both as a private citizen and as a leader in the original Farmers' Alliance movement, and hosts of friends rejoice with him in his remarkable recovery, for which he unhesitatingly gives the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

DIG GRASSES are, of all vegetable growths, doubtless of the most importance to man. They seem to be almost universally diffused over the globe, being nonexistent only at the poles. The fact that the cereals are all members of the grass family will make it more easy for our readers to comprehend the great service to mankind rendered by the grass family. In their variety they supply the varied forces necessary to build up the animal body, namely the bones, muscles and fat.

The number of individual species in the family is probably not yet accurately ascertained. As early as 1825 scientists had agreed that there were at least 812 species. Other and more recent writers give the number as in excess of 1,800. Speculators, judging the grasses growing in the unexplored regions of the earth by those in sections of the earth already known, judge the number to be not less than 3,200.

There is great difference in the appearance of grasses. Some would never be recognized as grasses at all. An example is our Indian corn, one of the most valuable of all grasses. Also there is great difference between the grasses in different zones. The tropical grasses sometimes grow to such height that they assume the appearance of trees. Some of them, of the species Bambusa, attain a height of sixty feet. The leaves of grasses in following method I have found to keep sweet potatoes in perfect order until June. Procure a good supply of pine straw from the woods in a dry time and keep it under cover ready for use. Dig the potatoes as soon as frost cuts the vines. If not convenient to dig at once, cut the frosted vines off at once or they will harbor fungus growth that will damage the potatoes. Dig on a warm, sunny day—lay the potatoes along the row as dug, and do not allow them to be bruised by throwing into piles. Handle at all times as gently as eggs. Allow them to lie in the sun during the day, and in the evening haul to a convenient place. Place a good layer, a foot thick, of pine or other straw on the ground, and on this pile the potatoes in steep heaps, not over 25 bushels in a pile. Cover the piles thickly all over with the dry pine straw—now build a rough board shed over the piles and let them remain until the weather gets colder, or until they have gone through a sweat and dried off. Then cover the heaps with earth six or eight inches thick and beat smooth. The important points are the sweating under the previous cover of the pine straw before covering with earth, very careful handling, and the board covering overhead. Dry earth keeps out more cold than wet earth. If for family use, put in smaller piles and take up an entire heap at once for use, keeping them in a dry warm place while using.

REED GRASS (PHRAGMITES VULGARIS.)

Stems tall and stout, 5 to 10 or more feet high and sometimes almost an inch in diameter, from very coarse fibrous roots, and large, scaly creeping stems, which are at or near the surface of the ground; leaves broad, (one to two inches) and flat, smooth; panicle very large, loose, more or less nodding, about one foot long, reddish, becoming woolly at maturity. This grass is widely distributed and grows in shallow water in ponds and sloughs and along the margins of lakes and larger streams. Stock seldom eat it, except when it is young or when the better grasses are scarce.

the tropics are broader than those of grasses native to the temperate zones. Sorghum is an example of the tropical grass, and bamboo, one of the giant grasses.

Among our grasses may be named Indian corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, rice, broom-corn, sugar-cane, millet, and a long list of cultivated grasses, like timothy and red top. The list is simply too long to be enumerated in its entirety. We need not call the attention of the reader to the immense commercial value of the grasses. What is the immense corn crop of this year worth to agriculture? How much all the pasturage and hay in the United States alone?

Keeping Sweet Potatoes.

Bleaching Horses.
At Batesville, Ark., a recent shooting affray brought to notice a woman known as Sorrel Sue. She had always appeared in public riding a sorrel horse. It is believed she belonged to a gang who stole horses.

A surgeon who was summoned to attend one of her admirers, who had been wounded in the row, mistook his way and wandered into Sue's cabin. Before he could be hustled out he saw things which aroused his suspicions.

These he reported to Sheriff Timcoe, who, with a posse, managed to surround the den of horse thieves, capturing Sue and two of her gang. He

Good Reason for Not Drumming.

On a hungry march orders against foraging are apt to be liberally interpreted by both officers and men. An exchange recalls an instance not unlike some that all veterans are fond of telling.

While the 48th Georgia regiment was on the march to Gettysburg, some of the soldiers stepped out of the ranks and confiscated a couple of geese, and one of the drummers unheeded his drum and put the captured birds inside.

Shortly afterward the colonel came along, and noticing the silence of the drum, rode up to the drummer and said: "Why don't you beat that drum?"

"Colonel," said the startled man, "I want to speak to you."

The colonel drew close to him and said:

"Well, what have you to say?"

The drummer whispered:

"Colonel, I've got a couple of geese in here."

The colonel straightened up and said:

"Well, if you are sick, you needn't play," and rode on.

That night the colonel had roast goose for supper.

germ=life

The doctors tell us, now-a-days, that disease germs are everywhere; in the air, in the water, in our food, clothes, money; that they get into our bodies, live there, thrive and grow, if they find anything to thrive on.

Consumption is the destruction of lung-tissue by germs where the lung is too weak to conquer them. The remedy is strength—vital force.

Scott's Emulsion, with hypophosphites, means the adjustment of lung strength to overcome germ-life. It is fighting the germ with the odds in our favor. These tiny little drops of fat-food make their way into the system and re-fresh and re-invigorate it. Whether you succeed with it or not depends on how good a start the germs had, and how carefully you can live. The shortest way to health is the patient one. The gain is often slow.

Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

Latest society advices from Hot Springs state that pound parties are no longer considered good form.

Six weeks ago I suffered with a very severe cold; was almost unable to speak. My friends all advised me to consult a physician. Noticing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised in the St Paul Volks Zeitung I procured a bottle, and after taking it a short while was entirely well. I now most heartily recommend this remedy to anyone suffering with a cold. Wm. Keil, 678 Selby Ave., St. Paul, Minn. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

Elijah Stewart of Huntington, Ind., has lost interest in politics. For stealing a basket of grapes he was fined $1 and was disfranchised.

The wife of Mr. Leonard Wells, of East Brimfield, Mass., had been suffering from neuralgia for two days, not being able to sleep or hardly keep still, when Mr. Holden, the merchant there sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and asked that she give it a thorough trial. On meeting Mr. Wells the next day he was told that she was all right, the pain had left her within two hours, and the bottle of Pain Balm was worth $5.00 if it could not be had for less.
