WAUCONDA.

In the "catch as catch can" last Saturday evening, everybody present caught it. Old, middle-aged, and young, each class received its share. The "disease" was both contagious and infectious. Every one received and communicated at the same time. The "disease" affected some in the back of the cranium, some in the front of the same; others got it right in the opening of the alimentary canal; while others felt a tightening sensation just boots.

one had a lick and a kick coming, he was magnanimous enough to pass them along.

If the above is not readily comprehended, ask any of the "boys" for an explanation.

Next Sunday evening Rev. Alger will speak upon "Social Purity." The reverend gentleman has been delivering some very interesting sermons on practical morality, and we hope he will continue to use the "two-edged sword" upon the sins of the heart.

When a town has fearless preachers it will soon begin to mend.

The Baptist primary Sunday school pupils gave an entertainment last Tuesday evening in the Baptist church. The attendance was small. but the interest was great. The little ones did pleasingly well in all their exercises. Miss Hattie Wells, the primary teacher, did the training. She is to be commended for her constant supervision.

Why do not the "city dads" place seats at convenient places along the walks this icy weather, so that our tipsy brethren can use them instead of the sidewalks. Please reply.

SOME SCHOOL NOTES AND NOTIONS.

The public school, in this place, is progressing swimmingly. with 100 pupils in its three departments. There are now nine tuition pupils in the advanced departments, with prospects of increasing numbers soon.

Several of the village boys who have been neglecting or have been kept below the hyoid bone; while still many from school, are now beginning to others had it communicated to the realize the importance of the three posterior extremity of the spinal R's and three P's, will soon put in column by the toe of number eleven their smiling faces and try to make up for some lost time. > The class in geometry is making great strides in Book II; and with the present head of steam will complete the five books by June 1, '96. This class is small in numbers, and the indidual members are small in stature, but all are far beyond the average in mental attainments.

> The rhetoric class is doing some excellent work in writing imaginary letters. The public may have the chance of passing judgment upon some of them soon.

The schools are going to celebrate Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays. More in regard to this later.

We understand there is a reading table sadly needed in the advanced room. Information in regard to one suitable and not too steep in price will be gladly accepted by any of the

By way of a parting compliment to this country, Mr. Keir Hardie said that the Englishman enjoys greater liberty than the American; and he also said that he had seen more misery and poverty in our great cities than exist in London. Mr. Keir Hardie did not explain the remarkable phenomenon presented every year of several hundreds of thousands of intelligent human beings abandoning the larger liberty of British rule and the better comforts of British life to choose the hard and inferior conditions of this country. What would Hardie and our critics generally by a syndicate of American capitalists. say of us if the tide of emigration ran the other way?

CHICAGO THEATERS.

ATTRACTIONS. AMUSEMENT FOR COMING WEEK

What the Managers of the Various City Play-Houses Offer Their Patrons Drama, Vaudeville and Operatio Engagements.

M'VICKER'S THEATER. - The Cricket on the Hearth and Lend Me Five Shillings will be the plays presented during the second and final week of Mr. Jefferson's engagement, commencing on next Monday night, the

Mr. Roach will present his magnificent drama, Rory of the Hill, at Mc-Vicker's, commencing Sunday evening, Dec. 15. The part of Rory will be played as usual by James C. Roach, and he gives a true and realistic idea of the unfortunate Rory. During Mr. Roach's long engagement in New York last season, and in fact in every city he presents his play, a remarkable feature of its success is generous attendance of clergymen, who are unanimous in their sentiments of approval of this grand spectacle illustrating true Irish life, and in many instances their pleasure was productive of pulpit utterances.

What the Rev. John Talbot Smith says of Rory of the Hill: "The motive of the play provides it with an atmosphere altogether novel. It is a picture of present conditions of Irish life, and consequently, the old servility to the 'masther,' so prominent in the Boucicault drama, is absent. In its place is a healthy independence, which is displayed in the refusal to let the hunting party trample the harvest fields, in the prison scene, and in the scene of the eviction."

DOCKRILL'S WINTER CIRCUS .-Apparently the public is becoming aware of the fact that a very good entertainment of its sort is being given at Dockrill's winter circus, which is the old Royal English circus under new management. Trained horses and clever riders, acrobats and clowns, with a sensational feature or two, such as Larousse's dive from the roof and La Petite Martha's feats on the wire, thrown in, form the entertainment. Several social clubs and secret lodges have chosen the circus in which to celebrate various festivals in the near future.

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE.-Mrs. Potter and Mr. Bellow enter upon the final week of their present engagement on next Sunday night, Dec. 8. This engagement has proven to be the most satisfactory of any of their previous engagements-the audiences always feeling satisfied and the house always remunerative.

Charlotte Corday is the play running this week. This strong drama of Sardou's was creditably given at each performance. Mrs. Potter's Charlotte Corday is passionate and living, and even in the revolting bath-tub murder scene she rises to the spirit of the lines. Mr. Bellew's startling makeup as Marat is as successful as his acting of a rather difficult part. The company as a whole is strong enough to make the play altogether acceptable.

Change in Management.

Messrs. Kohl, Middleton & Castle this week signed the lease securing the Chicago Opera House for the next five years. Mr. Kohl remarked last evening: "Under the able guidance of our predecessor, Mr. Henderson, it became one of the best known and best liked by the public of American playhouses. The record of triumphs achieved by the Chicago Opera-House has not been excelled, if equalled, by any theater in the same length of time. It will be our aim to maintain the high standard which it has reached in the ten years of its existence. We expect to close the theater the week commencing Dec. 16, preparatory to our formal opening-Christmas week. The attraction for our opening will be duly announced."

THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE LIVTH CONGRESS.

A Brief Report of the Doings in Upper and Lower Houses of the National Legislature - The Work of a Week Condensed.

Wednesday, Dec. 4.

Wednesday the senate worked while the house enjoyed a recess, but most of the business transacted was of a routine character. Mr. Hoar showed a disposition toward co-operation with the president in dealing with the Turkish question by offering a resolution denouncing the recent atrocities in Turkey and assuring the executive branch of the cordial indorsement by congress of a vigorous course for the protection of American citizens in Turkey and the suppression of the barbarities against Christianity. The resolution makes specific inquiry as to what American consuls are absent from their posts by reason of the disorder prevailing. The first formal speech of the session was made by Mr. Allen of Mebraska on Cuba and the Monroe doctrine. Mr. Allen urged the recognition of the Cuban insurgents, the annexation of Cuba and a strong foreign policy. Several petitions for the recognition of the Cuban insurgents were presented.

The Allen resolution defining the foreign policy was taken up, and Mr. Allen urged the recognition of the revolutionists and the annexation of Cuba. The senator strongly urged the reassertion of the Monroe doctrine, so broadened as to secure the ultimate withdrawal of the monarchial dependencies from this continent. The resolution was temporarily laid aside, and the senate, after a ten-minute session, adjourned at 1:35 p. m.

Quite a number of bills and resolutions were introduced. Among them was the following by Senator Voorhees: Increasing all pensions granted under the act of 1890 to $12.

Thursday, Dec. 5. Senator Mills introduced today a bill for the coinage of silver in the treasury, and Senator Chandler one for the coinage of silver at the ratio of 151/2 to 1, the bill to become operative when England, Germany and France pass similar laws.

Petitions from Florida for the recoghition of Cuba and from the legislature of Montana against further issuance of bonds were presented.

Senator Gallinger introduced a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the senate that it was unwise and inexline of the army, so as to consist of three regiments of field artillery, twelve regiments of cavalry and eighteen regiments of infantry. The bill follows the same general lines as Representative Outhwaite's bill of the last Congress, and is devoted especially to the artillery service.

Friday, Dec. 6.

Mr. Baker (Rep.) of New Hampshire asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of a resolution calling on the secretary of agriculture to report to the house whether he had expended the whole or any part of the appropriation made by the last congress for the distribution of farmers' bulletins, but Mr. McMillan (Dem.) of Tennessee objected.

The following bills were introduced: By Representative Harris of Ohio, levying a duty on wools, as follows: Wools and hair of a first class, 11 cents per pound; second class, 12 cents per pound; third class and on camel's hair of the third class, the value whereof shall be 13 cents or less per pound, including charges, the duty is to be 32 per cent ad valorem. On wools of the third class and on camel's hair of the third class the value of which exceeds 13 cents per pound, the duty is to be 50 per cent ad valorem. Wools on the skin are to pay the same rate as other

By Representative Barham of California, to amend the act incorporating the Maritime Canal company of Nicaragua. One feature of the bill authorizes the issuance of bonds not exceeding $150,000,000, with interest at 3 per cent, to secure the means to construct and complete the canal. All sums expended for materials and supplies necessary to the construction are to be purchased in the United States, except such as may be grown or produced in Nicaragua or Costa Rica, and no Asiatic labor is to be employed.

Mr: Walker (Rep.) of Massachusetts offered a petition in the form of a resolution from the naturalized Armenians of the United States, nine-tenths of whom, he said, lived in his district. and requested that it be printed in the Record. After reciting the alleged oppression and outrages of the Turkish government, it concluded:

"Resolved, That the people of the United States, through their representatives in congress assembled, hereby express their deepest abhorence and condemnation of the outrages thus committed on their American fellow citizens. as well as on other Chaistian subjects of Turkey.

By Senator Sherman (by request)- Bue Book, and most of Mr. Morgan's To provide for the reorganization of the speech yesterday was devoted to paying his respects to Sir Julian Pauncefote, whom he severely criticised. He declared that the Paris tribunal did not attempt to determine the question of the liability of the United States for seizures or the amount of such liability. Great Britain contended, however, that the liability was decided as a necessary inference and President Cleveland, proceeding on that assumption, had, through the state department, agreed to pay $425,000 in discharge of this alleged liability of the United States, but that agreement the house yesterday was a bill by Mr. Hopkins, republican, of Illinois to amend the statute fixing the customs district of Chicago so that the district would embrace all of the states of Illinois and Indiana. Mr. Hopkins explained that the bill was in the interest of the smelters of Aurora, who desired to be able to pay the duties on Canadian ores at the port of Chicago. At present, he said, Aurora was not in the district. The bill was passed by unanimous consent.

The feature of the senate was a speech by Senator Morgan, chairman could not be carried out without the ratification of congress. The findings of the tribunal rested entirely upon the treaty-making power of the two governments and the United States and Great Britain were bound to carry out the regulations decided on for the protection of seals, as much as if those regulations had been incorporated in a treaty. But neither government was bound further. At most, the award of the arbitrators would only furnis a remote argument for the claim of Great Britain to damages for seizures.

Mr. Morgan went at considerable length into what he termed the "infamous conspiracy" which proceeded under the protection of the British flag for the violation of the laws of the United States, and claimed that a thorough investigation and adjudication of the claims would result in large allowances of damages to the lessees of the seal islands and consequently an increased revenue to the United States. In concluding Mr. Morgan again returned to his assault on the British ambassador for his rough criticism of himself, of which he said he was perhaps "unbecomingly careless."

At the conclusion of his speech which occupied two hours, Mr. Morgan asked a vote on the adoption of his resolution instructing the foreign affairs committee to examine into the report upon the liability of the United States to Great Britain for the seizures. The resolution was then read and adopted without a dissenting voice.

OF NEWS ILLINOIS.

A WEEK'S DOINGS IN THE PRAIRIE STATE.

Political, Religious, Social, Personal, Commercial and Miscellaneous Occurrences Gathered from Many Sections-Happenings Tersely Told.

Please write me. Yours truly. A

Mrs. Darlington Turnboldt, wife of Mayor Turnboldt of Lincoln, is dead. A. R. Camron, a Galesburg grocer, made an assignment. Liabilities,

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the new easterly Illinois Normal to be erected at Charleston, the plans for the building were altered materially so as to save from $90,000 to $100,000 on the cost

Passengers on the Calumet electric street railroad were snow bound in a desolate portion of Chicago and some of them were compelled to remain all night in cars, not being able to reach their homes in South Chicago.

Varna, a town of 40 inhabitants ten miles east of Lacon, is making a vigorous fight for the removal of the county seat of Marshall county, from Lacon. A circular issued Saturday claims that a $55,000 county building will be built by the citizens of Varna and donated to the tax-payers of Marshall county. Fifteen thousand dollars has been subscribed and eighty acres of land adjoining the town donated towards the project. The next move will be a petition for a special election on the question.

Continuous reports from over the state indicate that hog cholera is still doing immense damage in all portions. The latest reports are from Madison county where the disease is said to be raging with peculiar violence. In the southern portion of that county William Suhre has lost 120 hogs out of a drove of 140. Other farmers have lost from five to fifty hogs each. Some years they do not raise corn enough to feed their hogs; this year the corn crop is pretty good and their hogs are all dying with cholera. Much of this damage in the several portions of the state is done by a disease similar to the cholera, but much more easily treated when recognized. The physicians of Galesburg are thinking of advertising in the local papers. A Galesburg paper gives the following account of a recent meeting of the city M. D.'s: "After the business relating to the paper had gone over, the subject of traveling quack doctors was taken up and the traveling gentry were given many good hard knocks. Some of the newspapers were also censured for taking advertisements of these men. It was finally decided that a committee should be appointed to wait on the different publishers of the city for the purpose of seeing if some arrangements could not be made whereby the local physicians are to insert business cards in the papers, the publishers agreeing to refuse the advertising of the traveling physicians. This committee will go about its work in a few days."

The following comes frem Red Bud, Ill.: "About fifteen miles west of here, and the same distance north of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., on the banks of the Mississippi river, is a natural curiosity, being no less than a refrigerator formed by some unexplained law of nature. A short time ago Farmer Wallace, on whose land this was seen, dug a cellar or grotto in the shady hillside, where the rocks are thin and brittle, in order to get a storage place for milk and other edibles. After digging back a few feet, he was surprised to find layers of ice between the layers of rocks, and as it was cool inside, and it promised to be more than he expected in the way of a refrigerator, he finished it up by putting in a door. He finds by trial that everything placed inside, such as meats, milk, fruits or other perishable articles, keep perfectly for any length of time. During the hottest weather last summer, milk stored in this cellar would make the teeth ache to drink it." It is possible that there will be a serious hitch in the proceedings antecedent to the erection of the new state normal schools at Normal and De Kalb. It seems to be pretty certain that both schools will be of no prac-tical benefit for a couple of years at least. The trustees of the DeKalb or northern Normal have contracted for about $80,000 worth of work, which calls for the bare erection of the walls of the great building, boarding up the windows and allowing the structure to stand in an uncompleted state for almost two years. This is done on account of the cost of the building as planned being greatly in excess of the amount of money available. The trustees of the Charleston Normal are in a similar fix. At the meeting Monday the rest bid was $114,000 and the high-$176,000. The board considered that the entire building, furnished and completed ready for the electric bells to be sounded convening school, would cost them about $175,000. If the lowest bid, of $114,0000, which calls for a brick and terra cotta structure, was accepted the building would cost about $225,000. The trustees have about determined that the architecture of the building must be whittled down.

Dispatches from Edwardsville, Madison county, indicate that the suits against the Illinois Farm Company, growing out of the failure of ex-State Senator Henry Seiter, the Lebanon banker, have been dismissed in the Circuit court, the trustees having paid off all claims in full. The cases of the St. Louis banks, pending here, are also to be dismissed, as a settlement has been effected with them. This wipes out all claims in that county against the Seiter estate, and opens up the way for further settlement with the estate of the defaulting state treasurer, Rufus N. Ramsay, deceased.

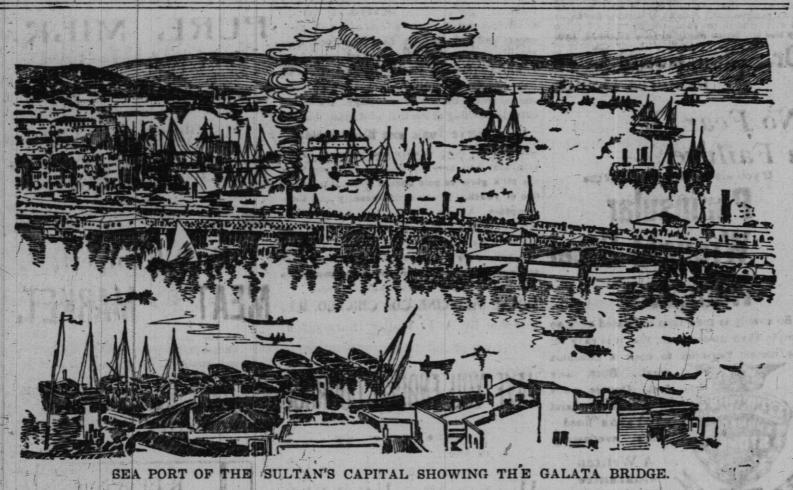

Charles P. Hitch of Paris, this state, the new chairman of the executive committee of the Republican State Central Committee, has been identified with politics since 1873. He was an alternate delegate to the National convention in 1884, and a delegate in 1888. He was one of the three Illinois delegates who made a break to Harrison, and the latter appointed him United States marshal for the southern district of Illinois. He has been grand recorder of the A. O. U. W. since 1881. Mr. Hitch was born in Clermont, O., in 1850. A college graduate, he took up commercial life, and coming to Paris in 1869, he engaged in mercantile pursuits. His business has been conducted with enterprise and sucessfully. He is also the publisher of the Paris Daily Beacon.

Mrs. Mary Hacker Littleton died in Edwardsville last week. She was one of the pioneers of the west. When in the mood she recalled distinctly happenings of early days in St. Louis, which was when she went there a trade center of but small size, while the country surrounding was but a wilderness. She had the honor of naming Keokuk, Ia. Shortly after her marriage in 1828 she accompanied her husband on a trip up the Mississippi, and they stopped at the trading post, now Keokuk. A supper party was given on the boat, which was attended by the officers stationed at the post, and during the festivities it was proposed to give the place the name of Black Hawk. Mrs. Littleton suggested Keokuk, and on a vote of those present that name was adopted.

Mr. Sidney Strong of Grayville, Ill., has in his possession a letter of President Lincoln's, writen to his grandfather, Sydney Spring, Esq., an old citizen of Grayville. It is dated June 19, 1858, and is of a political nature. The Mr. Faree referred to was a resident of Carmi, and a well-known politician of his day. Senator Martin was Samuel H. Martin of Carmi, and Mr. Webb was a leading lawyer and prominent man throughout the state. His home was in Carmi, and he was an uncle of the late George Webb. The letter follows: Springfield, June 19, 1858.—Sydney Spring, Esq., My Dear Sir: Your letter introducing Mr. Faree was duly received. There was no opening to nominate him for superintendent of public instruction, but, through him, Egypt made a most valuable contribution to the convention-I think it may be fairly said, that he came off the lion of the day-or rather of the night. Can you not elect him to the Legislature? It seems to me he would be hard to beat. What objection could be made to him? What is your Senator Martin saying and doing? What is Webb about?

Judge Allen, of the Federal court, Springfield, has set January 2, 1896, as the day of hearing a case of Miss Mary Foley vs. James A. Hill and others. This is a ease that has been in this court for about two years, and involves a good story. Miss Foley claims that Michael Foley, her father, deserted his wife and daughter over twenty years ago, and came here from Ireland, settling in this county, where he committed bigamy by marrying another woman. She further claims that when she and her mother came to this country and later to Christian county, this state, he deeded his property to this second wife and fled the country. Wife No. 2 was arrested, but was released as she showed she was ignorant of the fact that Foley had another wife when he married her. She then joined Foley in Missouri. Foley and she deeded their property to James A. Hill with intent, as Miss Foley declares, to defraud his legal wife and daughter. The deed was set aside in the Circuit court at Taylorville, but the records in the case are missing, being stolen, Miss Foley alleges. This suit is brought by her, Mrs. Foley No. 1 being dead, to revive the decree of the Christian county court setting aside the deed by Foley and his alleged bigamous wife to Hill. The farm property in question is worth probably $15,000. Foley and his alleged bigamous wife and their children, all living in St. Louis county, Missouri, have defaulted in the case.

Showing Profound Contempt. From the San Francisco Argonaut: Dr. Belman, a well-known Suffolk doctor, had a great contempt for homeopathy. An old lady who pinned her faith to Hahnemann one day took five globules by mistake for three, and, her own doctor being absent, Dr. Belman was sent for post haste. He came, looked grave, shook his head, said if people would meddle with dangerous drugs they must take the consequences. "But, madam," he added, "I will die with you," and lifting the bottle of globules to his mouth, he swallowed its entire contents.

recognition of the beligerency of Cuban insurgents and for strict neutrality by the United States in the war.

Then at 1:20 the Senate went into executive session, and at 1:35 p. m. adjourned until Monday. Ex-Senator Ransom as Minister to Mexico was confirmed. A number of bills were introduced. Among them were:

By Senator Mills-Directing the Secretary of the Treasury to have all the silver in the treasury coined into subsidiary coin, and providing that when the revenues of the government shall be insufficient to meet the current expenses of the government, the Secretary shall issue non-interest bearing legal tender notes in amounts sufficient to cover the deficiency and pay out the same in the current expenditures of the government, and also that when the gold reserve in the treasury shall be in excess of $100,000,000 and legal tender notes are presented for redemption in coin, they shall be redeemed in either gold or silver coin, at the discretion of the Secretary. The bill also provides that when the reserve shall fall below $100,000,000 the Secretary shall redeem the notes in silver. It closes with a declaration for the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and a provision for the repeal of all laws authorizing the issuance of interest-bearing Londs.

Mr. Turner (Dem.) of Georgia, objected to printing the petition in the Record, and it was referred to the committee on foreign affairs, after which, at 12:30, the house adjourned until Mon-

Monday, Dec. 9.

The first business proposition brought forward by the house was a bill by Senator Morgan of Alabama, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, a member of the Paris Behring Sea tribunal, upon a resolution offered by him last week instructing the foreign relations committee to investigate the question of the liability of the United States for the seizure of British ships in Behring Sea in 1890. Mr. Morgan took the position in the last congress that the payment of a lump sum of $425,000, as recommended by the president, was neither wise nor proper. His remarks on that occasion were the subject of some sarcastic comment from the British ambassador here in the latter's official correspondence with Lord Kimberley. That correspondence was printed recently from the British

The Vali of Sivas wires, according to the official report, that the inquiry into the disturbances at Zilah shows them to have been provoked by Armenian agitators, who had previously made arrangements to escape from the barricaded points when repulsed.

How to Prevent Croup.

SOME READING THAT WILL PROVE INTERESTING TO YOUNG MOTHERS. HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THE DISEASE.

Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first sympton is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giv-ing this remedy for it contains noth-ing injurious. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

"I can do a mile on the cinder track in 4:50 and across country in 5:20, but how is that to help me? I might be a cricket professional, but it is not a very dignified position. Not that I care a straw about dignity, you know, but I should not like to hurt the old lady's feelings."

"Your aunt's?" Yes, my aunt's. My parents were killed in the mutiny, you know, when I was a baby, and she has looked after me ever since. She has been very good to me. I'm sorry to leave her."

"But why should you leave her?" They had reached the garden gate, and the girl leaned her racket upon the top of it, looking up with grave interest at her big, white-flanneled companion.

"It's Browning," said he. "What!"

"Don't tell my aunt that I said it"he sank his voice to a whisper-"I hate Browning.'

Clara Walker rippled off into such a merry peal of laughter that he forgot the evil things which he had suffered from the poet, and burst out laughing too.

"I can't make him out," said he. "I try, but he is one too many. No doubt it is very stupid of me; I don't deny it. But as long as I cannot there is no use pretending that I can. And then, of course, she feels hurt, for she is very fonds of him, and likes to read him aloud in the evenings. She is reading a piece now, 'Pippa Passes,' and I assure you, Miss Walker, that I don't even know what the title means. You must think me a dreadful fool."

"But surely he is not so incomprehensible as all that?" she said, as an attempt at encouragement.

"He is very bad. There are some things, you know, which are fine. That three Dutchm Riel and others, they are all right. But there was a piece we read last week. The first line stumped my aunt, and it takes a good deal to do that, for she rides very straight, 'Setebos and Setebos and Setebos.' That was the line." "It sounds like a charm."

"No, it is a gentleman's name. Three gentlemen, I thought, at first, but my aunt says one. Then he goes on, 'Thinketh he dwelleth in the light of the moon.' It was a very trying piece." Clara Walker laughed again.

"You must not think of leaving your aunt," she said. "Think how lonely she would be without you."

"Well, yes, I have thought of that. But you must remember that my aunt is to all intents hardly middle-aged, and a very eligible person. I don't think that her dislike to mankind extends to individuals. She might form new ties, and then I should be a third wheel in the coach. It was all very well as long as I was only a boy, when her first husband

"But, good gracious, you don't mean that Mrs. Westmacott is going to marry again?" gasped Clara.

The young man glanced down at her with a question in his eyes. "Oh, it is only a remote possibility, you know," said he. "Still, of course, it might happen, and I should like to know what I ought to turn my hand to." "I wish I could help you," said Clara.

"But I really know very little about such things. However, I could talk to my father, who knows a very great deal of the world." "I wish you would. I should be so glad if you would." "Then I certainly will. And now-I must say good night, Mr. Westmacott, for papa will be wondering where I am." "Good night, Miss Walker." He pulled off his flannel cap, and stalked away through the gathering darkness. Clare had imagined that they had been the last on the lawn, but, looking back from the steps which led up to the French windows, she saw two dark figures moving across toward the house. As they came nearer she could distinguish that they were Harold Denver and her sister Ida. The murmur of their voices rose up to her ears, and then the musical little childlike laugh which she knew so well. "I am so delighted," she heard her sister say. "So pleased and proud. I had no idea of it. Your words were such a surprise and a joy to me. Oh, I am so glad."

"Is that you, Ida?"
"Oh, there is Clara. I must go in, Mr.

Denver. Good night!"

There were a few whispered words, laugh from Ida, and a "Good wight, Miss Walker," out of the darkness. Clara took her sister's hand, and they passed together through the long foldng window. The doctor had gone into his study, and the dining-room was empty. A single small red lamp upon the sideboard was reflected tenfold by the plate about it and the mahogany beneath it, though its single wick cast but a feeble light into the large, dimly shadowed room. Ida danced off to the | that a stopped clock has been reset by big central lamp, but Clara put her hand upon her arm. "I rather like this quiet light," said she. "Why should we not have a chat?" She sat in the doctor's large red plush chair, and her sister cuddled down upon the footstool at her feet, glancing up at her elder her sister's frank blue eyes. "Have you anything to tell me, dear?" she asked.

Ida gave a little pout and shrug to her shoulder. "The solicitor-general then opened the case for the prosecution," said she. "You are going to crossexamine me, Clara, so don't deny it. I do wish you would have that gray satin foulard of yours done up. With a little trimming and a new white vest it would look as good as new, and it is really very dowdy."

"You were quite late upon the lawn," said the inexorable Clara,

"Yes, I was rather. So were you. Have you anything to tell me?" She broke away into her merry musical

"I was chatting with Mr. Westmacott."

"And I was chatting with Mr. Denver. By the way, Clara, new tell me truly, what do you think of Mr. Denver? Do you like him? Honestly now!" "I like him very much indeed think that he is one of the most gentlemanly, modest, manly young men that I have ever known. So now, dear, have you nothing to tell me?" Clara smoothed down her sister's golden hair with a motherly gesture, and stooped her face to catch the expected confidence. She could wish nothing better than that Ida should be the wife of Harold Denver, and from the words which she had overheard as they left the lawn that evening, she could not doubt that there was some understanding between them. "That gray foulard dress-" she

"Oh, you little tease! Come now, I will ask you what you have just asked me. Do you like Harold Denver?" 1

"Oh, he's a darling!"

"Well, you asked me. That's what I think of him. And now, you dear old inquisitive, you will get nothing more out of me; so you must wait and not be too curious. I'm going off to see what papa is doing." She sprang to her feet, threw her arms round her sister's neck, gave her a final squeeze, and was gone. A chorus from Olivette, sung in her clear contralto, grew fainter and | ing?" fainter until it ended in the slam of a distant door. But Clara Walker still sat in the dimlit room with her chin upon her hands, and her dreamy eyes looking out into the gathering gloom? It was the duty of her, a maiden, to play the part of a mother-to guide another in paths which her own steps had not yet trodden. Since her mother died not a thought had been given to herself, all was for her father and her sister. In her own eyes she was herself very plain, and she knew that her manner was often ungracious when she would most wish to be gracious. She saw her face as the glass reflected it, but she did not see the changing play of expression which gave it its charmthe infinite pity, the sympathy, the sweet womanliness which drew toward her all who were in doubt and in trouble, even as poor slow-moving Charles Westmacott had been drawn to her that night. She was herself, she thought, outside the pale of love. But it was very different with Ida, merry, little, quick-witted, bright-faced Ida. She was born for love. It was her inheritance. But she was young and innocent. She must not be allowed to venture too far without help in those dangerous waters. Some understanding there was between her and Harold Denver. In her heart of hearts Clara, like every good woman, was a matchmaker, and already she had chosen Denver of all men as the one to whom she could most safely confide Ida. He had talked to her more than once on the serious topics of life, on his aspirations, on what a man could do to leave the world better for his presence. She knew that he was a man of a noble nature, high-minded and earnest. And yet she did not like this secrecy, this disinclination upon the part of one so frank and honest as Ida to tell her what was passing. She would wait, and if she got the opportunity next day she would lead Harold Denver himself on to this topic. It was possible that she had refused to tell her. CHAPTER V. A NAVAL CONQUEST.

T WAS the habit of the Doctor and the Admiral to accompany each other upon a morning ramble between breakfast and lunch. The dwellers in those quiet tree-lined roads were accustomed to see the two figures, the long, thin, austere seaman, and the short, bustling, tweed-clad physician, pass and repass with such regularity them. The Admiral took two steps to his companion's three, but the younger man was the quicker, and both were equal to a good four and a half miles an hour.

It was a lovely summer day which followed the events which have been described. The sky was of the deepest blue, with a few white, fleecy clouds drifting lazily across it, and the air was filled with the low drone of insects or with a sudden sharper note as bee or bluefly shot past with its quivering, long-drawn hum, like an insect tuningfork. As the friends topped each rise which leads up to the Crystal Palace. they could see the dun clouds of London stretching along the northern skyline, with spire or dome breaking through the low-lying haze. The Admiral was in high spirits, for the morn-ing post had brought good news to his

"It was wonderful, Walker," he was saying, "positively wonderful, the way that boy of mine has gone ahead during the last three years. We heard from Pearson today. Pearson is the senior partner, you know, and my boy the junior—Pearson and Denver the firm. Cunning old dog is Pearson, as cute and as greedy as a Rio shark. Yet he goes off for a fortnight's leave, and puts my boy in full charge, with all that immense business in his hands, and a free hand to do what he likes with it. How's that for confidence, and he only three years upon 'Change?' "Any one would confide in him. His face is a surety," said the Doctor. "Go on, Walker!" The Admiral dug his elbow at him. "You know my weak side. Still it's truth all the same. I've been blessed with a good wife and a good son, and maybe I relish them the more for having been cut off from them so long. I have much to be thankful

"And so have I. The best two girls that ever stepped. There's Clara, who has learned up as much medicine as would give her the L. S. A., simply in order that she may sympathize with me in my work. But hullo, what is this coming along?"

"All drawing and the wind astern!" cried the Admiral. "Fourteen knots if it's one. Why, by George, it is that

A rolling cloud of yellow dust had streamed round the curve of the road, and from the heart of it had emerged a high tandem tricycle flying along at a breakneck pace. In front sat Mrs. Westmacott, clad in a heather tweed pea-jacket, a skirt which just passed her knees and a pair of thick gaiters of the same material. She had a great bundle of red papers under her arm, while Charles, who sat behind her, clad in Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers, bore a similar roll protruding from either pocket. Even as they watched, the pair eased up, the lady sprang off. impaled one of her bills upon the garden railing of an empty house, and then jumping on to her seat again was about to hurry onward when her nephew drew her attention to the two gentlemen upon the footpath.

"Oh, now, really I didn't notice you," said she, taking a few turns of the treadle and steering the machine across to them. "Is it not a beautiful morn-

"Lovely," answered the Doctor. "You seem to be very busy."

"I am very busy." She pointed to the colored paper which was still fluttering from the railing. "We have been pushing our propaganda, you see. Charles and I have been at it since seven o'clock. It is about our meeting. I wish it to be a great success. See!" She smoothed out one of the bills, and the Doctor read his own name in great black letters across the bottom.

"We don't forget our chairman, you see. Everybody is coming. Those two dear little old maids opposite, the Williamses, held out for some time; but I have their promise now. Admiral, 1 am sure that you wish us well." "Hum! I wish you no harm, ma'am." "You will come on the platform?" "I'll be- No, I don't think I can ner." "Oh yes, you will come. I will call in if I may, and chat it over with you when you come home. We have not breakfasted yet. Good-bye!" There was a whir of wheels, and the yellow cloud rolled away down the road again. By some legerdemain the Admiral found that he was clutching in his right hand one of the obnoxious bills. He crumpled it up, and threw it into

"I'll be hanged if I go, Walker," said he, as he resumed his walk. "I've never been hustled into doing a thing yet, whether by woman or man."

"I'm not a betting man," answered the Doctor, "but I rather think that the odds are in favor of your going." The Admiral had hardly got home, and had just seated himself in his dining-room, when the attack upon him was renewed. He was slowly and lovingly unfolding the Times preparatory to the long read which led up to luncheon, and had even got so far as to fasten his golden pince-nez on to his thin, high-bridged nose, when he heard a crunching of gravel, and, looking over the top of his paper, he saw Mrs. Westmacott coming up the garden walk. She was still dressed in the singular costume which offended the sailor's old-fashioned notions of pro-priety, but he could not deny, as he looked at her, that she was a very fine woman. In many climes he had looked upon women of all shades and ages, but never upon a more clear-cut, handsome face, nor a more erect, supple, and womanly figure. He ceased to glower as he gazed upon her, and the frown smoothed away from his rugged brow.

"May I come in?" said she, framing herself in the open window, with a background of green sward and blue sky. "I feel like an invader deep in an enemy's country."

Feeding Bees.

At a recent meeting of the Muswellbrook Beekeepers' association Mr. Paul read an interesting paper from which the following extracts are made:

"Bees must be properly managed in the spring or the crop of honey will be disappointing in any season. If the bees have been provided at the end of the previous year's honey crop with plenty of stores to last them through the winter and until spring has fairly commenced, nothing need be done to them except to see that the covering on top of frames is dry and that the hive contains a good queen. If any are queenless give them one at once. Should any doubt exist that the stores are not sufficient give them a frame of sealed honey. I think I would prefer to feed syrup; they would then have time to store it in the frames where they cluster, and could the more easily reach it if cold days should come afterwards. But whatever is fed should be in quantity sufficient to last until the warm weather has set in. A thorough examination of the hives is most important, because it is well known that' colonies of the same size consume very different quantities of honey through the winter, and we are very liable to be mistaken in our estimate of the quantity of honey the bees may have.

"Should any fear arise of chilling brood the hive should never be opened unless the weather is favorable. It is not necessary to expose the brood nest to ascertain the quantity of honey a colony may have; simply throw back the quilt, or covering if used, and feel the weight of a few of the frames. The general prosperity of a colony of bees in spring depends upon proper care, favorable weather, and plenty to eat, the latter condition being absolutely indispensable. A great many beekeepers claim that to get the best results it is necessary to resort to daily feeding, whether the bees have plenty of stores or not, but I think the work of the queen depends upon the care and attention the workers give her, and it is certainly conclusive that the bees have natural sagacity enough to feed their mother well when they have plenty in store, whether fresh supplies are coming in or not. Many experts advise not to begin too early if feeding is considered advisable, because we are liable to have our hives full of bees which we may have to feed too long before the honey flow commences. I myself would prefer to have my colonies strong a month too soon than a month too late.

"A warm, dry, clean hive with an average queen and a full supply of stores through the spring means a strong colony by the time the honey flow begins.

"I find a shallow dish filled with syrup placed on top of frames and covered with cheese cloth, a very simple way of feeding. The following question was asked in one of the leading American journals lately: 'With plenty of stores in the hive in spring, should a colony be fed? Most of the answers are against feeding, while a few recommend uncapping a frame or two of sealed honey to stimulate brood rearing."-Australasian.

Figures That Err .- It is very easy in figuring the cost of keeping a cow to figure in a good many things that do not belong there. It is quite a fad nowa-days to reckon in what the cow has cost in the way of hay, pasturage, grain, shelter, labor, and interest on investment. By doing this it is often easy to make oneself believe that even a good cow has only paid her way and made no profit. Hence, the farmer is often inclined to come to the conclusion that he would be as well off to drop the whole business. Help should be charged only where help has to be employed that otherwise would not be. The farmer is expected to use up all of his time at something or other, whether he keeps cows or not. His profits plus the living for his family are his salary. Pasturage would often go to waste were it not for his cows.

A Composite Potato-The Algona Republican says M. B. Dalton tried an experiment in potato growing this season and made the resulting crop an interesting exhibit at the fair. He cut two potatoes in two in the middle, one a Pinkeye and the other an Early Rose, and placed the halves of the two varieties together on the cut surfaces, using them in that shape for seed. The result was a small and very hard potato which was a failure for eating.

An Unsolved Problem .- One of the great things to overcome in the state and the farmers' institutes and associations, is to reach the masses, who are the real ones to be benefited, with the better gospel of better methods. The state association, whether agricultural or the dairy, only reaches a few hundred, and of these few, there are few who are in real need, as they are the advance part of farm community any way.—John Gould.

Turner Raspberry-This is one of the hardiest of raspberries, a vigorous grower, with large foliage, and is very productive. The fruit is of medium size, bright color, moderately firm, juicy, sweet and high flavored, ripening a few days earlier than Cuthbert. The plants throw up suckers very freely, which must be cut off with the hoe in order to secure good crops of fruit.-Ex. An Observing Child.

She took the little girl with her one day to see a friend.

"She will be down in a minute." was the message, after they had taken seats in the parlor.

As soon as the servant disappeared again little Katharine leaned over and said to her mother:

"Mamma, how long are her minutes?" The mother stopped to think an instant, then said:

"Why do you ask such a question, dear?"

"Well," answered the little one, with a deep sigh, "papa says your minute is an hour, and I just wondered how long hers is.".

PROTECTS USERS OF "ROYAL."

Baking Powder Company Wins Its Case in United States Court.

The decision of Judge Showalter in a recent case that came up before him sustains the claims of the Royal company to the exclusive use of the name "Royal" as a trademark for its baking powder. The special importance of this decision consists in the protection which it assures to the milions of consumers of Royal baking powder against inferior and unwholesome compounds. The excellence of this article has caused it to be highly esteemed and largely used almost the world over. Its high standard of quality having been always maintained, consumers have come to rely implicitly upon the "Royal" brand as the most wholesome and efficient of any in the market. The cupidity of other manufacturers is excited by this high reputation and large demand. Very few of the hundreds of baking powders on the market are safe to use. If their makers could sell them under the name of a well known, reputable brand incalculable damage would be done to the public health by the deception. The determination of the Royal Baking the Royal baking powder against imitators by a rigid prosecution of them makes such imitations of its brand er tremely rare.

Women Settled the Matter in Seattle.

There is a sort of retributive jusone should be of the same sex as the majority of the teachers. They have succeeded and the result will be watched with considerable interest. It is claimed that fully 50 per cent of the A. P. A. vote was made up of ladies, but this is probably too high an estimate, and 40 per cent is, no doubt, nearer the mark. They were indefatigable campaigners and took care to see that their husbands voted. If a wife can do no more than this she will confer a benefit upon the community, for it is evident from the light vote that thousands failed to cast a ballot. Of the 8,200 votes cast there were fully 2,000 cast by women, which would leave only 6,200 male voters, about half of the voting strength of the city.-Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

A Pennsylvania Snake Story.
Our zoological friend, Thomas Kuhn, while out in the woods was charmed by a display of animal instinctum magnum that ordinary mortals seldom see. In a cool, grassy part of the deep forest near Marshall's mills he discovered a mother blacksnake playing with her family of six little ones. The old one was suspended between two saplings eight feet apart, her head was wrapped around one tree and her tail around another. She was swinging back and forth like a jumping-rope and the littlesnakes were jumping the rope. They played for some time, when the old snake and a couple of young ones crawled upon a large rock. In a short time a young snake appeared with a frog. The old snake divided it up among the baby snakes, who rewarded her by going away and catching a frog for her. The old snake was twelve feet four inches in length.-Latrobe (Pa.) Clipper.

IN LABOR'S INTEREST.

AMERICAN FEDERATION'S AN-NUAL CONVENTION.

John Swinton Talks to the Delegates-Father Ducey Present to Represent the Pope-Good Progress Made in the Past Year.

The afteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor began in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Monday. D elegates were present from all over the United States. Canada and Great Britain. President McBride presided and introduced J. W. Sullivan of Typographical Union, No. 6, who delivered the address of welcome. The reports of the president, secretary and treasurer were read and referred to the proper committees.

The chairman then introduced Labor Agitator John Swinton, who spoke in part as follows:

"The Federation of Labor is a power in the United States. It is made up of men who make all things and are the natural owners thereof. I take much Powder Company to protect the users of pleasure in seeing the English representatives here. I hope that this association will send delegates to all parts of the earth, as well as have foreign delegates present at your convention. There is much to learn from the English trade associations. The union has done great things, having advanced the price of labor and secured recognition in parliament. If there were no labor or-

> Father Ducey was then introduced. I am here," said he, "because the Pope wants me to be, if some of you do not. In 1891 an encyclical was issued by the Pope in regard to labor, and it is my duty as a minister to be present where such matters arise. What Mr. Swinton has said is perfectly true."

> Father Ducey quoted a great deal of scripture, and said that no murderer shall enter the kingdom of heaven, and drew as a comparison the oppression of the laborer, who is often killed by want, not being able to secure employment. He said the disruption of the Knights of Labor was caused by the wrongful use of a statement issued by Cardinal Gibbons. It was to cause a feeling between the Catholics and Protestants, and succeeded.

> Adjournment was then taken until Tuesday morning.

NO COMPROMISE.

Premier Greenaway's Statement as to the Manitoba School Question.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 10.-Speculation has been rife lately regarding the probable action of the Manitoba government in respect to the Federal order in council, inviting Premier Greenaway and his colleagues to remove the alleged grievances of the Roman Catholic ministry in this province in relation to education. This order in council was received last July, and until this moment no answer has been given and the ministers have maintained a profound silence. This had given rise to rumors that a compromise was contemplated. But Premier Greenaway has made a statement which will give a different turn to affairs. This is the first official statement made by any member of the government since the last session of the legislature. The premier said: "The government has had under consideration the whole subject at various times since the receipt of the order in council of the Dominion government of July 3 last, with the result that it has become clear to us that no concession by the legislature will be regarded as a solution of the difficulty or as removing the alleged grievances, unless such concession admits the principle of and reestablishes state-aided schools. The movers of re-establishment of separate schools by the government will make no compromise."

Missouri Defaulter Run Down.

Delaware, Ohio, Dec. 10.-William Parrish, cashier of the Farmers' bank of Orrick, Mo., a leader in business, society and church circles in that town, disappeared from his home July last and was arrested at Delaware yesterday, charged with embezzlement. He will be taken to Missouri for trial. At the time of his disappearance friends professed to believe that he had been murdered. An examination of the affairs of the bank resulted in finding a shortage of several thousand dollars in Parrish's accounts. Most of the money had been secured by means of forged notes turned into the assets of the bank. The bank is now in the hands of receivers.

Forger Lewis Safe, in Mexico. Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec. 10.-Detective Ralph Crawford returned yesterday without Forger Z. T. Lewis, whom he was pursuing. He admitted that he was after Lewis, but said that the publication of the fact destroyed his plans. Lewis is in Mexico, where it will be useless for one man to undertake to get him. Lewis is the bond forger who swindled so many bankers and others by the sale of forged municipal bonds, and fied when his methods became known. It was asserted that he had swindled the Cincinnati banks to the extent of a quarter of a million of dollars, but this finds little credence here.

Without Food or Sleep.

THE TORTUROUS TRIAL OF MISS CAL-LIE HUMMEL

Doctors Said She Had Chronic Trouble of the Stomach and Could Not be Cured. She Has Now Recovered Her Good Health and Spirits and the Neighbors Say It's a Miracle.

From the New Era, Greensburg, Ind. The editor of the New Era had heard that Miss Callie Hummel, of Sunman, Ripley Co., Indiana, had been cured of a severe case of chronic stomach trouble and dyspepsia. As the story sounded almost improbable we determined to learn the truth of the matter, and went to Sunman the other day for that purpose. We called on Miss Hummel and found her to be a beautiful and charming young lady still in her teens and quite intelligent. The glow of perfect health appeared on her ruddy cheeks, and she was not the least disinclined to relate her many close a vaccines.

cheeks, and she was not the least disinclined to relate her marvelous experience:

"I had stomach trouble and dyspepsia nearly all my life," she said, in her pleasant way, "and the older I got the worse it grew on me and the more severe it became. I could eat scarcely anything and sleep was a rarity with me, my trouble was so painful. After doctoring with my physician here for several years, he failed to do me any good beyond the reach of medical aid. I went to Cincinnati where I was treated by the ablest physicians without the least by the ablest physicians without the least success. Discouraged and distressed, I re-turned home and began trying the many different medicines which I saw advertised, but not one did me the least noticeable good. My trouble steadily grew worse, and, in almost unbearable misery, I became sadly despondent and grew pale and thin as a skeleton for want of sleep and food, but neither could I enjoy. My mother saw an article about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and their marvelous cures and they were a God-send to me. I had lost all faith in medicine and had given up all hope of re-covery, grim death staring me in the face. She wouldn't let me rest, however, till I had tried a box of the Pink Pills. With the first box I began to feel better, my appetite was partially restored and I could sleep. Within a short time I had taken some seven or eight boxes and I was, as you see me to-day, in perfect health, and able to sleep soundly enough, with an appetite that I can eat almost anything without reluctance. I feel that I owe everything to Dr. Wil-liams' Pink Pills and do not hesitate to recommend them through your persection. recommend them through your paper to suffering humanity. WAS A PATHETIC FUNERAL.

Four Boys Burled a Dog That Had Been a Faithful Friend and Companion.

Washington Star: I was walking along the canal the other when my attention was attracted by a novel funeral procession. Four little boys, the oldest about 10 years of age, and the youngest a toddler of two or three summers, were crying as though their little hearts were broken. The oldest was drawing small band wagon, which contained bundle. Following this were the other three boys in line. Each had upon his arm a strip of black calico, while the wagon was decorated with the same material. I stopped them and asked what the matter was. "It's a funeral, sir," said the eldest boy; "our little dog died yesterday." Then lifting the little bundle from the wagon he threw it into the canal, and the four brothers put their arms around each other, gave way to a grief as real as any they will ever know, for the dog was their playmate and they loved him as they did one another. And as the boys slowly wended their ways back home, I could see that there would be little play for them that day.

Some say that the hypophosphites alone are sufficient to prevent and cure consumption, if taken in time. Without doubt they exert great good in the beginning stages; they improve the appetite, promote digestion and tone up the nervous system. But they lack the peculiar medicinal properties, and the fat, found in cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites are valuable and the cod-liver oil is valuable.

Scotts Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with hypophosphites, contains both of these in the most desirable form. The oil is thoroughly emulsified; that is, partly digested. Sensitive stomachs can bear an emulsion when the raw oil cannot be retained. As the hypophosphites, the medicinal agents in the oil, and the fat itself are each good, why not have the benefit of all? This combination has stood the test of twenty years and has never been equalled. SCOTT'S EMULSION bas been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-tiver Oil and Hypophosphites.
