Special Board Meeting.

The special meeting of the Village Board Saturday evening was attended by Trustees Robertson, Collen, Peters and Hatje, and President Boehmer.

Moved by Collen, seconded by Hatje that saloon licenses be granted. Carried.

An application for nightwatch was received from Fred Gieske, but the application was laid on the table until the first regular meeting in May, when all applications will be acted upon.

Englishmen have sometimes given more admirable pictures of portions of our American history than our own writers have done. At length an American has been able to do the same for England. The first important result of Captain A. T. Mahan's resignation from the United States navy to go into literature is a life of the great British admiral, Lord Nelson. The book is a noble one. The London Times says of it, "The luminous, masterly pages render every Englishman Captain Mahan's debtor who cares to be true to the renown of his country and true to the glory of its heroes."

OBITUARY.

WARREN J. MIX.

The funeral services of Warren J. Mix, who died at Elgin Saturday morning, April 24, were held in the Methodist church at this place last Monday at 12 o'clock, Rev. J. C. Butcher, pastor of the church, preaching the sermon. The deceased was born in Palatine on August 21st, 1850, and went to Chicago with his parents at an early age, where he has lived ever since. He was proprietor of a restaurant in the city for a number of years, but for the last two years had been acting as collector for John Mix of that place. The deceased was a member of Dearborn Lodge, No. 310, A. F. & A. M., of Chicago, and a large number of the lodge members accompanied the remains to this place. The pallbearers were selected from members of that lodge. A large number of friends of this place attended the last rites and the church was well filled. A male quartet from Chicago rendered excellent and appropriate music.

The remains were interred in Cady cemetery, west of town, where the parents and some of the immediate members of the family are at rest. The burial services were conducted by the lodge, Mr. Wm. Forsyth officiating and Ex-Senator C. Porter Johnson acting as chaplain. Many floral designs were sent by friends and relatives, one of especial beauty being from his lodge brethren. The deceased leaves two brothers, Ira Mix of Chicago, and R. F. Mix of this place, and one sister, Mrs. Onderdonk, of Chicago, to mourn his departure.

Shippers Set a Price.

The committee, appointed at the last meeting of the Chicago Milk Shippers' Union to meet the dealers of Chicago, met Tuesday, April 20, at the Briggs House.

The meeting was called to order by President H. Holcombe.

Present—Directors Barber, Balcum and Middlecamp, and a number of shippers from different lines.

The matter of a price of milk for the ensuing six months was taken up, and it was the sense of those present that the dealers should pay the following schedule:

May and June.....65c

July.....70c

This price is a raise of 5c over that proposed by the Chicago dealers for May and June, leaving July at the price set by them, 70c. This is a more equitable price the shippers think, and we hope that it may prevail. Of course it is not compulsory to demand 65 cents, but do not take less than 60 cents. And, too, get more than 65 cents if you can.

The matter of an attorney for the Union was settled by the appointment of S. M. Galloway, of Chicago, who will attempt to collect all claims sent to S. Hill, Secretary, 121 LaSalle St., Chicago, on percentage—no collect no pay. Send claims to the secretary and he will enter them on his books and see that the Attorney gives them prompt attention.

The matter of location of general office in Chicago was left to the Secretary and General Manager, and he has since engaged an office at 121 LaSalle St., Room 83, where he will be found or can be addressed.

Very few dealers met the committee, but those present will do all in their power to make the business more profitable for all engaged in it.

The meeting adjourned to the call of the President and Secretary.

H. HOLCOMBE, Pres't.
S. HILL, Sec'y.

BARRINGTON LOCALS.

There are two evils which ought to be remedied. One must be left to parents, and drivers of vehicles, and the other to the village fathers to remedy. The first evil is that of little boys jumping on and off vehicles while in motion. Wednesday a little boy lost his footing and was run over in the village. Fortunately the wagon was very light, and the boy's shoulders very tough, and this accounts for the fact that he was apparently uninjured. The second nuisance is that of allowing fast driving on our streets, especially after dark. We believe that unless this evil is put a stop to there will be a collision between bicycles and vehicles one of these days in which someone will be severely injured.

A complete surprise was given Ben Beinlich Thursday evening. A large number of young friends, as well as older ones, gathered at the cheese-box factory of Naecher & Plage, and stowed themselves away behind the large number of cheese boxes in Mr. Naecher's workroom. After they had all disappeared from view, Mr. Carl Naecher sent for Mr. Beinlich, on business, and he had hardly exchanged greetings, on his arrival, with Mr. Naecher when a roar shook the building that equalled the warcry of a score of Indian warriors. After some complimentary greetings were over with the jolly party took possession of the large ware room, which had been fitted up especially for the occasion, and numerous social games were indulged in. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening by Mrs. Carl Naecher and assistants. It was one of the most successful surprise parties of the season. Those present were: Misses Emma Kampert, Sarah Kampert, Martha Kampert, Amelia Beinlich, Laura Boehmer, Luella Peters, Ida Gieske, Grace Landwer, Esther Elfrink, Amanda Schroeder, Frida Naecher, Ella Naecher, Martha Naecher and Luella Plage, and Messrs. Ezra Suhr, Ezra Meier, Newton Meier, Roy Myers, John Schwem, A. B. Combs, Henry Schroeder, Charles Peterson, A. G. Gieske, Walter Roloff, Albert Kampert, Sam Naecher and Reuben Plage, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Naecher. Mr. Beinlich leaves tomorrow for Salina, Ill., where he takes charge of a school Monday, May 3d. He is a young man who has studied hard and deserves all the success his hosts of friends here wish him in his new undertaking.

An enjoyable surprise party was tendered Miss Mary Cowden Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hawley by a party of sixteen of her friends despite the unfavorable weather. After congratulations had been extended the genial and merry party indulged in many pleasant social games until a late hour. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening. All present passed a most delightful time. Those in attendance were: Misses Gertrude Kitson, Lillis Colby, Esther Elvidge, Carrie Meyer, Grace Otis, Lizzie Catlow, Dorriet Rouse, and Florence Smith of Cary; Messrs. Charles Fletcher, Ralph Vermilya, Max Lines, Carl Ernst, Floyd Harnden, Henry Meyer, Fred Stott and Verne Hawley.

GENERAL GRANT.

Witnessed by a Million.

All day Monday soldiers of the regular army and national guard marched through the handsomely decorated streets of New York from the railroad stations and ferry landings to their quarters. Every train brought notable people to the city, among the arrivals being President McKinley, Vice-President Hobart, the cabinet officers, members of the diplomatic corps, senators, representatives and governors of states. Late in the evening the last of the foreign warships, the Italian cruiser Dogali, steamed into port.

The Presidential Party.
President McKinley and suite came from the national capital in a splendid special train which ran over the Pennsylvania railroad. Besides the chief magistrate, the most distinguished person in the party was the widow of the great soldier, Mrs. Grant, with her daughter, Mrs. Sartoris, and the latter's children. Mrs. Grant has fully recovered from her recent indisposition and expressed herself as being touched by the homage paid her late husband.

Another distinguished party of statesmen left the national capital at the same hour by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The sumptuous special train carried the vice president and Speaker Reed, twelve or fifteen senators and an equal number of members of the house. Both the vice president and the speaker were provided with special cars, placed wholly at their disposal.

Ceremonies at Tomb Were Brief.

Everything was ready for the dedication of the massive tomb in Riverside park in which rests the remains of America's great soldier, Ulysses S. Grant. Weeks ago it was estimated that 1,000,000 persons would come to New York to witness the parade and ceremonies of the dedication of the tomb, and that number was largely exceeded. More people witnessed the great parade than will see the queen's show in London next month. In making up the parade the grand marshal, General Grenville M. Dodge, excluded many civic bodies which asked for places, and gave room to the regular militia of the several states and the Grand Army and kindred organizations. The white squadron lay in the North river opposite the tomb, and the foreign war vessels anchored below. The exercises of the day were carried out precisely as arranged weeks ago. The president and other distin-

GEN. LONGSTREET'S TRIBUTE.

Veteran of the Confederacy Speak Lovingly of the Great Commander.

Of the famous men who took part in the ceremonies perhaps none was more spoken of than General Longstreet. His venerable face and tall figure, now somewhat bent with age, brought back to mind the days when, in the prime of his life, he led the Southern forces in many a fierce assault. Since those times he has been United States minister to Turkey and now holds first rank in the short list of the Confederate generals still alive.

General Longstreet contributed an eulogy to the memory of Grant, written by his own somewhat feeble hand. He said that it was fitting, on such an occasion, that he should speak, for he was with Grant at West Point, served in the same regiment with him before the war. The tribute is as follows:

"It was my good fortune to know, as few others could, that Grant's heart went out in sympathy for the brave men and women of the South during the distressing times of reconstruction, and to my old comrades who followed the stars and bars of the South and regular soldiers, uniformed societies and cadets, with 10,000 singing schoolboys bringing up the rear. The regular troops under Gen. Merritt numbered 2,500, and they were followed by 1,500 sailors and marines. The national guard of New York turned out 13,000 men, with the governor leading them. Five thousand came from Pennsylvania, 4,000 from New Jersey, 500 each from New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, 1,000 from Maryland, 700 from to the gloom and glory of Appomattox, I want to say that General Grant's heart went to us in all of our woes. He appreciated the principle that all governments derive their powers from the confidence and respect of the people, and his great mind and patriotic heart were bent toward the re-establishment of cordial feelings between the sections of the land. If every old Confederate soldier or widow of a Confederate to whom he gave helping hands could leave a tear about his tomb it would be baptized in love's best offering.

"To the brave men of the other side of the great strife, my people send messengers to crown this august occasion. We turn from the setting star of the Confederacy to accept the glorious flag of the Union, to put it about our hearthstones, and love it as we love our noble women; we stand guard about and uphold it forever; its glories are ours, with undivided hearts, undivided people, undivided arms to protect its triumph.

"We are with you to-day, and all days, brothers and friends. All personalities are buried and gone, and with the ragged remnant of our once proud arm we offer the loving tribute to the chieftain who led you to victory; renewed heartfelt allegiance to the great Union—your Union, our Union.

"On this inspiring occasion we love to tell you that for all the grandeur and majesty of Grant's character, for all the splendor of his generosity to our brave men and broken people, his name shall be embalmed in the hearts of our children and of our children's children with devotion as warm as our Southern sun.

"Illustrious citizen of the republic, in danger brave, in victory generous, we help to crown him with his people's undying love, and in presence of the highest officials of state and municipality, we help dedicate this monument to his name and fame, and lift them like incense to the powers above.

"He was so easily a general that he failed to note his own reserved powers. He will grow with his own generation and those who come after until they learn to appreciate his worth."

INTERIOR OF THE GREAT WARRIOR'S TOMB.

GRECO-TURKISH WAR.

The London Cablegrams.

The war between Greece and Turkey has now been raging for several days. So far there is no reliable information on the results of the battles alleged to have been fought. All cablegrams came by way of England and are therefore necessarily "doctored" to suit the commercial interests of that country.

It is well known that England wants to see Turkey thrash Greece out of existence. Turkey is owing England vast sums of money. If Turkey goes down England will lose this along with everything else she has involved. In order to save her investments England is sending vast sums to Constantinople with which to buy provisions for the Turkish army and navy. This money is being drawn in gold from this country and in ten days has reached three millions.

The dispatches received up to the time of going to press with this side of the paper are as follows:

FALL OF LARISSA.

The Greatest Misfortune That Could Befall the Greek.

Larissa has been completely evacuated by the Greeks, who spiked their guns in position and carried away all of the movable cannon and munitions of war.

London Cablegram: Special dispatches from Athens say that after a desperate battle at Mati, a few miles north of Larissa, the Greeks were outnumbered and retreated with heavy loss, abandoned Turnova and Larissa and removed their headquarters to Pharsala, a small town at the north foot of a spur of mountains, about twenty miles due south of Larissa.

A second dispatch from the headquarters staff says: "Our troops are concentrated along the line of Pharsala, in consequence of these operations, the abandonment of Turnova and Larissa being considered inevitable."

A special dispatch received from the frontier asserts that the Turks, while attacking Mati, were repulsed several times Monday. At 6 o'clock in the evening the Greek forces were obliged to give way. The Greeks retreated in good order on Karacales, where they are entrenched. From Arta the Greeks occupied the heights of Pontepigadia. It is believed that the military operations in Epirus will soon be terminated.

A Paris cable received from Athens confirms the report that the Greeks have abandoned Turnova and Larissa and have concentrated on their second line of defense at Pharsala.

The news has caused the greatest agitation in political circles and the diplomats are freely discussing the question of whether the time has not arrived for the powers to take immediate steps to arrest the further advance of the Turks in the Greek peninsula.

It is stated in a Paris dispatch from Constantinople this evening that Osman Pasha's plan of campaign is to recall all the Turkish forces in Epirus, leaving only a strong garrison at Janina and abandon the rest of the province. The Turkish army in Epirus would thus be able to effect a junction with the army in Thessaly, by marching northward round the mountains dividing the two provinces. Osman Pasha would eventually have the whole Turkish force at his disposal and would be able to deal a decisive blow.

Particulars of the battle at Mati say that the Turks attacked the place in strong force at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Although greatly outnumbered, the Greek general with his brigade made a gallant defense. After six hours' fighting a council of war was held on the field, presided over by Crown Prince Constantine, who had taken part in the battle. It was decided to fall back and the retreat was effected in good order.

The carnage on both sides during the battle at Mati was terrific, but the Greeks suffered the most. The troops retreated in good order without the slightest sign of panic. The Greeks abandoned the entire plains of Thessaly and are not being pursued by the Turks.

Riccotti Garibaldi, son of the Italian Liberator, who has volunteered his services to the Greek government, arrived in Athens and was received with great popular enthusiasm.

All war news is being carefully suppressed at Constantinople by the authorities, the government meanwhile seeking to account for the lack of information at the front by giving out statements that the wires are broken and all communication cut off. The fact is, however, that the wires are in working order and all dispatches passing through Constantinople are held back under the excuse given above.

The foreign diplomats in Constantinople decided that the embassies would grant protection to all Greeks and all consuls in Turkey should have power to give protection in every case where injury is probable to the interest of foreign subjects.

Dispatches from London and the seat of war say that hard fighting took place before Turnova was abandoned by the Greeks. Seven attacks were made by the Turks, all of which were resisted by the Greeks, who in each case repulsed the Turks. Eventually the Greeks, finding the odds against them, fell back upon Kazablak.

It is understood that Larissa was evacuated by the Greeks without fighting in order to avoid the capture of the Greek garrison by the Turks. Edem Pasha's troops were advancing in the form of a crescent and had almost encircled the city when the Greek commander withdrew, escaping from the trap into which he would have fallen had he remained longer. The evacuating troops joined the forces of the Crown Prince and a general retreat to Pharsala was begun.

Edhem Pasha said a few days ago that he would be in Larissa by Friday and hoped to have the pleasure of the company of Crown Prince Constantine. The Turkish commander was disappointed upon the latter point, however, as the Greeks discovered the Turkish plan to capture the Crown Prince and evacuated the city.

CHANGE OF COMMANDERS.

Nothing Remarkable Expected from Osman Pasha's Appointment.

London cable: The last few days have developed a dramatic situation. The sudden removal of Edem Pasha, the Turkish commander in chief, and the fact that he has been replaced by Osman Pasha, the hero of Plevna, has caused great surprise in view of the glowing accounts which the correspondents in the field sent out of Edhem Pasha's brilliantly conceived plan of campaign, which was represented as working as a machine and leaving the world under the impression that Turkey had found in him a second Von Moltke.

It is said now that Edhem Pasha is in disgrace, that he has had little previous experience in warfare, that he is a creature of Izzet Bey and that he fell when that favorite of the sultan went down. It is also said that the sultan has hitherto been afraid to send his best generals, such as Achmet, Fuad and Reshid Pasha, to the front, they being instead kept in the most remote provinces.

No remarkable development, however, is expected from the appointment of Osman Pasha to command the Turkish forces operating against the Greeks in Thessaly, as apart from the dangers of swapping horses at the present critical juncture, Osman Pasha will be hampered by the sultan's jealous determination to direct the military operations from the Yildiz Kiosk. The great value of Osman Pasha's presence at the front is his popularity with the army.

Osman Pasha has virtually been a prisoner in the Yildiz Kiosk. But the sultan dreaded his popularity, although he used it as a protection by having Osman Pasha accompany him on his weekly drives on the occasion of the Selamluk, when the sultan himself, a sallow, scared, miserable-looking figure, sat facing the horses with his grizzled, resolute-looking old marshal opposite him. In his position of palace marshal, Osman Pasha had to seal every dish served to the sultan and never left the grounds of the palace without imperial permission.

Said Eddin Pasha, who is to succeed Ahmed Hifz Pasha in command of the Turkish army at Janina, is the general the sultan sent to Crete in December last to carry out the reforms there in accordance with the sultan's ideas. The ambassadors, however, demanded Said Eddin's recall and after a threat from the powers of serious measures if the demand was refused, the sultan yielded and Said Eddin was recalled.

Advices received here from Constantinople say that the war news in Turkish newspapers is very muddled and fails to give an idea of the Greeks' stubborn resistance or of the Turkish loss, which must be considerable. The Turkish authorities are equally reticent and the foreign embassies are destitute of impartial news and will be so until the military attaches arrive at the seat of operations.

The Greek army at present is suffering from lack of medical supplies. The chloroform is already exhausted and nurses, medicines, clinical thermometers, lint and surgical appliances are needed.

The attitude of the various Balkan states is closely watched in political circles. Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria is playing his own game and is determined to profit to the utmost by Turkey's stress.

The Servian minister at Paris, in an interview, describes Serbia's attitude as being one of strict neutrality. He added: "Bulgaria is in the same position as ourselves. She is more insistent; but there is no danger of trouble, as it is in the interest of the people to grant what we ask."

The Servian minister did not think the war would last long. He said the ger against the palace party increases, and a feeling of hostility against M. Delyannis is steadily growing. Late to-night (Monday) crowds are parading menacingly in the vicinity of the palace.

RESUME OF BATTLES.

Story of the Fighting Done Up to Receipt of Above Dispatches.

Friday, April 16.—Engagement near Nezeros. Turks, according to Greek reports, attempt to occupy an abandoned Greek post. Greeks fight four hours and recede. Fierce battle at Karaya. Heavy Greek losses. Saturday, April 17.—War declared by Turkey. Firing resumed near Nezeros. Greek artillery brought up to Katroni, which is destroyed by dynamite, after an unsuccessful attempt to storm it. Engagement extends to Greek posts, to west of Nezeros. (Turkish headquarters are at Ellassona, where 35,000 men are massed, with others presumably hidden in the mountains surrounding.) Battalion of Albanians sent in haste from Uskub to Verana, on the Montenegrin frontier, where a Greek invasion is feared.

Sunday, April 18.—Fighting at Karaya continues. Hostilities are concentrated toward the southeast of Milouna pass. Greeks begin to give way. Turks occupy Ana and Milouna. Heavy losses on both sides. Hafiz Pasha killed. Greeks partly succeed in cutting off Turkish communication with Salonika, Edhem Pasha's base of supplies. Turks hold Menexa, key to the pass, and all the heights from Meckchie to Papalyvada. Greeks defending Reveni advance to the plain of Damasi, capture a Turkish battery and invest Viglia, commanding the plain. Greek bands are landed at Eletheropolis, and march on Goyran, one mile from Dedeagatch, designing to cut the railway line to Salonika. Turkish batteries at Prevesa cripple a Greek merchantman, and the Greek fleet bombard Prevesa. Greek guns fixed at Actium, across the

KASTRAKI, A VILLAGE IN MOUNTAIN PASS, THESSALY.

Greeks must not reckon upon a rising in Macedonia.

According to advices from Rome, relations between the Holy See and Turkey are entirely suspended. The whole interest of the vatican is directed towards inducing the powers to end Turkish rule in Europe, with the view of a great revival and reorganization of the Christian Eastern churches.

A telegram from St. Petersburg says the fact that the war has not produced discord among the powers and has not modified the programme of the imperial visits is regarded in official circles as a solid guarantee of the localization of the war and as a safeguard of peace. This statement, however, forms a contrast with the news from Toulon today announcing that the entire French Mediterranean squadron was taking on board provisions, coal and ammunition in order to sail for the Levant if necessary to-morrow.

WANT NEW LEADERS.

Greeks Dissatisfied with Their Commanders.

London cable: The most serious feature in the Graeco-Turkish emergency is the revolutionary feeling displayed at Athens. Ex-Minister Ralli, leader of the principal opposition group in the legislative assembly, threatened that unless the military staff was changed he would issue a proclamation to the people. His statements acted like oil upon fire, and the popular excitement has flared up. Crowds, assembled in the streets to discuss them and wanted to march to the palace to read them to King George. Fortunately, heavy showers drove the people indoors.

M. Delyannis, keenly alive to the necessity of immediate action, had an audience with the king, and after the interview announced that the staff of the crown prince would be recalled and that ex-Minister Ralli, with three of his nominees—Gen. Smolenski, Gen. Mavromichali and Col. Dimopoulou—would be appointed to replace them.

The Daily Telegraph's Athenian correspondent says: "All of M. Ralli's conditions have been accepted. The king gives carte blanche to his ministers. As the public begins to learn the truth, an entrance to the Gulf of Arta, pour a heavy fire into Prevesa, but are silenced by the Turkish batteries, and Actium is practically destroyed. Monday, April 19.—Greeks defeat the Turks at Reveni. Two Greek brigades enter Turkish territory and penetrate to Damasi, while another division tries to flank the Turks. Engagement at Grizovall, which is captured by the Greeks and, with another captured post, recaptured by the Turks. Fighting around Nezeros continues. Hostilities are sustained in the vicinity of the Gulf of Arta. Col. Manos and 25,000 Greeks cross the River Arachthos (Arta) into Epirus. After heavy fighting they capture Neokhori and Sakhikalama. They march on Philippada.

Tuesday, April 20.—Turks still hold Prevesa. Western forts are destroyed, only one holding out. Greeks made a stand on the last height at Turnova, Edhem Pasha, with 35,000 men, occupies four positions in the district and advances within one hour's march of Larissa, held, it is estimated, by 49,000 Greeks. Greeks seize Chios and Mitylene, islands in the Aegean sea, off the coast of Turkey in Asia. Wednesday, April 21.—Platamona is bombarded by the Greek fleet. Edhem Pasha, suspecting that his retreat may be cut off, asks for reinforcements and that Turkish vessels be sent to the Gulf of Salonika. He captures Kriochora and Badji. Greeks are said to have 60,000 men between Turnova and Larissa. Col. Manos presses on toward Janina, erecting fortifications in Epirus. Thursday, April 22.—Eastern squadron of the Greeks bombards Katrina and destroys public buildings. Western squadron bombards Mourto, north of Prevesa, and captures a Turkish vessel. Greeks recapture Grizovall and silence the batteries at Viglia. Greeks fall back from Nezeros with loss. Friday, April 23.—After bombarding Katrina, Greeks land and capture immense stores left by the Turks. More Turkish reserves are called out. The Greeks' western squadron leaves Prevesa and bombards the Turkish blockhouse at Santi Quaranta. Edhem Pasha is recalled and Osman Pasha is given command of the Turkish army.

WILLIAM S. HOLMAN DEAD.

Distinguished Indiana Congressman.

Passes Away at Washington. Representative Holman of Indiana died at his home at Washington Thursday afternoon after an illness of several weeks. Spinal meningitis was the cause of death.

William Steele Holman was a member of the convention of 1850 which framed the present constitution of the State of Indiana. His congressional career began with his election to the house of representatives in 1858. With three exceptions he has been elected to that body biennially ever since. Throughout the whole of this period Judge Holman was one of the most efficient and trusted of the democratic leaders. Probably no other member of congress, in either branch, was so thoroughly versed in all the statutes of the United States, or so familiar with the circumstances of their enactment and the effects of their operation.

THEODORE HAVEMEYER DEAD.

Widened End of the Vice-President of the Great Sugar Trust.

Theodore A. Havemeyer, vice-president of the sugar trust, died at 3 o'clock Monday morning. Mr. Havemeyer returned a few days ago from a trip to St. Augustine, Aiken and Old Point Comfort. Changing from a warm to a colder climate, he took cold and the grip rapidly developed. Wednesday the physicians agreed that the patient's condition was not at all serious. Sunday night Mr. Havemeyer's condition changed for the worse.

New Canadian Tariff Bill.

The Canadian government has decided on a tariff policy of favoring those countries which favored Canada, consequently there will be a double-column tariff. The general tariff is on the whole an increase on existing duties, and is adverse to the United States. Corn is placed on the free list to benefit the farming community in Canada, also binder twine and barbed wire. All iron duties are increased, but Great Britain will obtain material reduction, while the United States will have to pay higher duties.

Big Company in Trouble.

Spolon L. Perrin has been appointed receiver for the Superior, Wis., Consolidated Land Company. The company has a capital stock, said to be paid up, of $3,600,000, and owns the greater part of East Superior. Its secured indebtedness aggregates $650,000, of which $300,000 is taxes, while its floating indebtedness is said to foot up about $200,000 more.

Peoria, Ill., Elevator Burned.

The Iowa elevator, a short distance below Peoria, Ill., was destroyed by fire Monday night. With the elevator at least thirty freight cars, some of them loaded, were destroyed. The building was erected at a cost of $110,000 and was insured for $75,000. The elevator contained about 100,000 bushels of grain, valued at $50,000, and which was fully insured.

Railway Station Blown Up.

A tremendous explosion occurred on the underground railway at London, England. A first-class coach was completely wrecked, and ten of its occupants badly hurt. The cause of the explosion is not known, but it is thought to have been the result of a bomb placed on the track.

Takes Effect in June.

Attorney-General Akin of Illinois has given official approval to the program to elect circuit judges from the new districts at the coming June election, notwithstanding that the emergency clause was stricken out of the reapportionment bill. The democrats will undoubtedly carry the fight to the Supreme Court.

Indiana Sues a Railroad.

A suit of the state of Indiana against the Vandalia railroad to recover money due to the school fund, under the old charter, was filed in the county clerk's office by Attorney-General Ketcham Thursday. It is charged that a sum in excess of $2,000,000 is due. The case will come before the Superior Court.

Ex-President Cleveland Speaks.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland addressed the Reform Club at its annual dinner Saturday night at New York. Mr. Cleveland defended the policy of the gold democrats. Ex-Secretary Carlisle spoke for the re-union of the democratic party.

Trouble for Great Britain.

German statesmen are trying to persuade France, and through her, Russia, to support Germany in resisting Great Britain's attitude toward the Boers in exchange for Germany's support of France on the Egyptian question.

Confesses and Takes Poison.

Postoffice Inspector Mahr checked the accounts of Postmaster Cramer at Hopkinton, Iowa, Friday and found him $1,000 short. Cramer admitted that he used the money. When threatened with arrest he committed suicide.

Greek National League.

Of the secret political revolutionary societies which have honeycombed Europe during the present century none is so romantic or interesting in its history as the Greek Ethniké Hetairia, or National League. The name comes from the Greek word ethnics, national, and hetairia, a brotherhood or association.

This Greek national brotherhood, of which so little has been heard until events of the present have brought it into prominence, was formed as far back as the beginning of the nineteenth century. The oppressions and cruelties of the Turkish conqueror had maddened the liberty loving Greeks. After one of the unsuccessful Greek revolts against Turkish tyranny a handful of Greeks swore by the most solemn oaths they could frame that they would work till they freed Greece and all peoples of Greek blood from the sultan's rule. Religion consecrated their oaths. Monks of the Greek church blessed the members of this secret society and approved their aims.

The result shows what quiet, secret agitation and patient waiting will do. A united organization working silently by the peaceful methods of the Ethniké Hetairia could in time overturn the social and political systems of the world. Without a word publicly of its existence the brotherhood wrought on. It proselyted among Greek races, it set forth in passionate appeal the wrongs of the Greeks of today and the glories and liberties of those of ancient times.

Beyond doubt it was the power of this secret society that finally overthrew the Moslem and set up the kingdom of Greece in 1829. There is not a shadow of doubt either that in the present crisis the same brotherhood will gain the immediate object of the uprising, which is to unite Crete to Greece, where it belongs. The organization has the hearty sympathy and aid of the Greek government. It is claimed that among the very officers of the sultan's palace itself there are those, belonging to the league and that in Constantinople 50,000 men are members. Wherever people of Greek blood are subject to Moslem rule there the Hetairia flourishes. Knowing this powerful league was at its back, it was not mere bluster that prompted Greece to take the stand for Crete.

The plans adopted by this country to preserve the seals of the Pribilof islands of Alaska from extermination are a beautiful illustration of how much longer it takes a government to do a thing than it does a private individual. Suppose private citizens owned the seal islands and the seals and their property was being rapidly destroyed by poachers. In one month's time they would have an army of defenders on the ground, shooting and capturing every sneaking poacher that showed his head. But the United States owns the splendid seal herds of the Pribilof rockeries, and here is the method pursued: Our executive department as usual appoints a commission. It has not begun its labors yet and is in no hurry. By May it is hoped, besides, to have a surveying party ready to start to the seal islands. They are not going to do anything, however, but just merely to make a survey of the islands. They cannot complete it this year, but must make another summer's work of the thing. In five years, if all goes well, we may hope to have a report of the doings of this party and the commission of examiners printed. Then it will be laid before congress and laid over from session to session. By the time congress gets around to it British poachers, with the connivance of the British government, will have killed every seal.

Nevada and Statehood.

In The Forum Mr. William E Smythe gives such an answer to those who propose to rob Nevada of her statehood as ought to make all such ashamed of themselves and silence them forever. So far from having her mineral camps exhausted, the mineral resources of Nevada have not even been explored, Mr. Smythe says. Besides silver she is rich in gold, iron, lead, copper, granite, gypsum and a score of other minerals whose deposits have only to be worked to show what they are. Nevada also furnishes something found nowhere else on the globe, a natural mineral soap, excelling any manufactured article known. This is an absolute fact, although eastern people sneered and refused to believe it when the substance was exhibited at the World's fair.

Nevada has at least 6,000,000 acres of lands, which only need irrigation, such as the farms of Utah, Colorado and southern California have, to become as fruitful as any in those states. Utah and Colorado have only 2,000,000 acres of cultivated land. Nevada is so large that in the east it would fill a space from central Pennsylvania to Georgia and from Delaware bay to Ohio. And yet some people want to expel Nevada, with all her splendid possibilities, all her rich, undeveloped resources, from the Union. Her agricultural products range from temperate to semitropic. Her climate is pure and dry, full of sunshine the year around and extraordinarily healthful.

What, then, is the matter with Nevada? She is the hapless victim of circumstances. Her curse was the marvelously rich silver mines that gave her a fatal boom, then left her to die. The owners of the richest mines were eastern men and foreigners. They gathered the wealth and spent it in New York, London, Paris, anywhere out of the state that produced it, and left Nevada to her fate. Another reason for Nevada's decline is found in the following words of Mr. Smythe:

"Whenever a single railroad controls the inlet and outlet of a state the industrial and commercial destinies of that state are to a large extent committed to the keeping of that railroad." We may conclude there is hope for the battle born state still.

The usual news comes by way of Havana that the Spanish troops have met a large body of insurgents and defeated them with great slaughter. According to Spanish dispatches, there has not been a fight in Cuba since the war began in which the revolutionists came off best.

The Boston Journal appears to have objections to the United States senate. It remarks with labored breaths, "The inherent, exasperating procrastination of that unwieldy body must be overcome by the irresistible pressure of popular sentiment."

The Laurada, the Bermuda and the Three Friends will be famous in history as the three vessels that carried supplies and men to the Cubans during their struggle for liberty.

The cheapening of bicycles has had one curious effect. It has enabled tramps to travel a wheel instead of a foot. Any kind of an ancient, dilapidated "bike" will answer their purpose, so it will save them the physical exertion necessary to walking. They can beg or steal a wheel that will do; then away they go. Tramps lazily wriggling along on bicycles are already making their appearance. They can claim to be artists or literary men out for a vacation.

If the Cuban patriots can fortify and hold Banes, where Roloff recently landed a quantity of arms and ammunition in safety, then they will have a seaport and would be entitled to the recognition of belligerent rights. If one or two small Yankee steamers could be fitted out as gunboats and stationed in the Banes harbor by well wishers to the Cuban cause, it would not only serve to hold Banes for the insurgents, but be a handsome commercial speculation for those sending the vessels.

A man who had just had a quarrel with his wife in an eastern city left home in a rage. A little while afterward he was taken ill of heart disease in the street. Somebody told his wife, when she exclaimed: "I hope he will die. I'll go up stairs and pray for him to die tonight. Then I can collect the insurance on his life." The man died in less than an hour afterward, and the troublesome question now is, Was this an answer to prayer?

The United States supreme court has lately rendered decisions of interest to the public. One of these declares that state and county authorities may seize the books, time locks and personal property of a bank in order to facilitate the collection of a state tax on the bank's capital. Another decision says that a law requiring the trains of a railway wholly within a given state to stop at county seats through which they pass is valid. Any state may therefore enact such a law.

It is announced that the plague is ceasing in India. Naturally, when it has already slain every body whom it could attack.

Bonds of the Cuban republic are now for sale.

If there is one virtue superior to another, it is pluck—pure pluck.

Sherman in the barber shop, went up to his room at about 10:30 o'clock p. m. and by some accident ignited the comforter on his bed. The fire spread, burning the carpet in several different places, also the looking-glass and bureau. Mr. Sherman mistrusting something went to Stewart's room and found it in a blaze, but by a few minutes fast work had it under control and prevented what might have been a bad fire. "A stitch in time saves nine."

Representative Bailey of Texas states a universal truth when he says: "Each man is entitled to dress as he pleases; and so long as he keeps himself clean and decent no other man can have any just cause to complain. It may be true that when a man goes into society he ought to conform even in the matter of dress to the regulations which society has prescribed, but a man who does not go into society ought to be exempt from its criticism."

It seems that Spaniards in Puerto Rico have again dared to employ the infernal compote torture for the purpose of sending insurgents in that island out of the world. Only one inspired by the fiend could devise a system of beating helpless, bound prisoners to death by a series of clubbings several days apart, giving the victim time to recover somewhat in the interval. Hoop iron generally is used to administer the finishing blows.

It Pays to Raise Percheron Horses

It does not pay to raise cheap horses when horses are cheap. It does pay to raise horses that command a good price in the market. Percheron horses have always and are still commanding good prices, hence Percheron horses are the ones to raise for profit.

Already the demand for good working horses is on the increase and the supply is limited, with certain prospects that prices will advance rapidly in the next few years. Over 40,000 horses were shipped abroad during the years 1895 and 1896, with prospects for an increasing demand this year.

It is with confidence that I offer to the farmers of the surrounding district the services of my highly bred Percheron stallion

"BERESFORD," 17307.

This horse is 5 years old and is one of the finest specimens of his race in this country. His sire, Reaper 8076 (10437) was one of the highest bred Percherons ever brought across the water, as was his grand sire, Confident, 3647 (397), winner of the first prize and gold medal as a 3-year-old at the New Orleans Exposition, his owner at that time refusing $5,000 for him. Beresford 17307 is recorded with pedigree in the Percheron stud-book of America: "Dapple grey; weight, 1900 lbs; height, 16 3-4 hands."

A horse like BERESFORD cannot be stood at a "scrub" price, but owing to the hard times I have put the service fee for this horse down to the very nominal figure of $10.00 to insure colt. BERESFORD will stand in my barn at Palatine every week-day during the season of 1897. If you are interested we would be pleased to send you a descriptive circular.

THE MISADVENTURES OF JOHN NICHOLSON

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER I.

JOHAN VAREY NICHOLSON was stupid; yet stupider than he are now sprawling in parliament, and lauding themselves as the authors of their own distinction. He was of a fat habit, even from boyhood, and inclined to a cheerful and cursory reading of the face of life, and possible this attitude of mind was the original cause of his misfortunes. Beyond this hint philosophy is silent on his career, and superstition steps in with the more ready explanation that he was detested of the gods.

His father—that iron gentleman—had long ago enthroned himself on the heights of the Disruption Principles. What these are (and in spite of their grim name they are quite innocent) no array of terms would render thinkable to the merely English intelligence, but to the Scot they often prove unctuously nourishing, and Mr. Nicholson found in them the milk of lions. About the period when the churches convene at Edinburgh in their annual assemblies he was to be seen descending the mound in the company of divers red-headed clergymen; these voluble, he only contributed oracular nods, brief negatives, and the austere spectacle of his stretched upper lip. The names of Candlish and Begg were frequent in these interviews, and occasionally the talk ran on the Residuary Establishment and the doings of one Lee. A stranger to the tight little theological kingdom of Scotland might have listened and gathered literally nothing. And Mr. Nicholson (who was not a dull man) knew this, and raged at it. He knew there was a vast world outside, to whom Disruption Principles were as the clatter of tree-top apes; the paper brought him chill whiffs from it; he had met Englishmen who had asked lightly if he did not belong to the Church of Scotland, and then had failed to be much interested by his elucidation of that nice point; it was an evil, wild, rebellious world, lying sunk in dozedness, for nothing short of a Scot's word will point this Scotsman's feelings. And when he entered into his own house in Randolph Crescent (south side), and shut the door behind him, his heart swelled with security. Here, at least, was a citadel impregnable by right-hand defections or left-hand extremes. Here was a family where prayers came at the same hour, where the Sabbath literature was unimpeachably selected, where the guest who should have leaned to any false opinion was instantly set down, and over which there reigned all the week, and grew denser on Sundays, a silence that was agreeable to his ear, and a gloom that he found comfortable.

Mrs. Nicholson had died about thirty, and left him with three children, a daughter two years, and a son about eight years younger than John; and John himself, the unlucky bearer of a name infamous in English history. The daughter, Maria, was a good girl—dutiful, pious, dull, but so easily startled that to speak to her was quite a perilous enterprise. "I don't think I care to talk about that, if you please," she would say, and strike the boldest speechless by her unmistakable pain; this upon all topics—dress, pleasure, morality, politics, in which the formula was changed to "my papa thinks otherwise," and even religion, unless it was approached with a particular whining tone of voice. Alexander, the younger brother, was sickly, clever, fond of books and drawing, and full of satirical remarks. In the midst of these imagine that natural, clumsy, unintelligent and mirthful animal, John; mighty well-behaved in comparison with other lads, although not up to the mark of the house in Randolph Crescent; full of a sort of blundering affection, full of caresses which were never very warmly received; full of sudden and loud laughter which rang out in that still house like curses. Mr. Nicholson himself had a great fund of humor, of the Scots order—intellectual, turning on the observation of men; his own character, for instance—if he could have seen it in another—would have been a rare feast to him; but his son's empty guffaws over a broken plate, empty, almost light-hearted remarks, struck him with pain as the indices of a weak mind.

Outside the family John had early attached himself (much as a dog may follow a marquis) to the steps of Alan Houston, a lad about a year older than himself, idle, a trifle wild, the heir to a good estate which was still in the hands of a rigorous trustee, and so royally content with himself that he took John's devotion as a thing of course. The intimacy was gall to Mr. Nicholson; it took his son from the house, and he was a jealous parent; it kept him from the office, and he was a martinet; lastly, Mr. Nicholson was ambitious for his family (in which and the Disruption Principles he entirely lived), and he hated to see a son of his play second fiddle to an idler. After some hesitation he ordered that the friendship should cease—an unfair command, though seemingly inspired by the spirit of prophecy; and John, saying nothing, continued to disobey the order under the rose.

John was nearly nineteen when he was one day dismissed rather earlier than usual from his father's office, where he was studying the practice of the law. It was Saturday; and except that he had a matter of four hundred pounds in his pocket which it was his duty to hand over to the British Linen Company's Bank, he had the whole afternoon at his disposal. He went by Prince's street enjoying the mild sunshine, and the little thrill of easterly wind that tossed the flags along the terrace of palaces, and tumbled the green trees in the garden. The band was playing down in the valley under the castle; and when it came to the turn of the pipers he heard their wild sounds with a stirring of the blood. Something distantly martial woke in him; and he thought of Miss Mackenzie, whom he was to meet that day at dinner.

Now, it is undeniable that he should have gone directly to the bank, but right in the way stood the billiard room of the hotel where Alan was almost certain to be found; and the temptation proved too strong. He entered the billiard room and was instantly greeted by his friend, cue in hand.

"Nicholson," said he, "I want you to lend me a pound or two till Monday."

"You've come to the right shop, haven't you?" returned John. "I have two pence."

"Nonsense," said Alan. "You can get some. Go and borrow at your tailor's; they all do it. Or I'll tell you what; pop your watch."

"Oh, yes, I dare say," said John. "And how about my father?"

"How is he to know? He doesn't wind it up for you at night, does he?" inquired Alan, at which John guffawed. "No, seriously; I am in a fix," continued the tempter. "I have lost some money to a man here. I'll give it you to-night, and you can get the heirloom out again on Monday. Come; it's a small service, after all. I would do a good deal more for you."

Whereupon John went forth, and pawned his gold watch under the assumed name of John Frogs, 85 Pleasance. But the nervousness that assailed him at the door of that inglorious haunt—a pawnshop—and the effort necessary to invent the pseudonym (which, somehow, seemed to him a necessary part of the procedure) had taken more time than he imagined; and when he returned to the billiard room with the spoils the bank had already closed its doors.

This was a shrewd knock. "A piece of business had been neglected," he heard these words in his father's trenchant voice, and trembled, and then dodged the thought. After all, who was to know? He must carry four hundred pounds about with him till Monday, when the neglect could be surreptitiously repaired; and meanwhile he was free to pass the afternoon on the encircling divan of the billiard room, smoking his pipe, sipping a pint of ale, and enjoying to the mast-head the modest pleasures of admiration.

None can admire like a young man. Of all youth's passions and pleasures, this is the most common and least alloyed; and every graceful reach, every easy, stand-off attitude of waiting; ay, and down to his shirt-sleeves and wrist-links, were seen by John through a luxurious glory. He valued himself by the possession of that royal friend, hugged himself upon the thought, and swam in warm azure; his own defects, like vanquished difficulties, becoming things on which to plume himself. Only when he thought of Miss Mackenzie there fell upon his mind a shadow of regret; that young lady was worthy of better things than plain John Nicholson, still known among schoolmates by the derisive name of "Fatty"; and he felt if he could chalk a cue or stand at ease with such a careless grace as Alan he could approach the object of his sentiments with a less crushing sense of inferiority.

Before they parted Alan made a proposal that was startling in the extreme. He would be at Colette's that night about twelve, he said. Why would not John come there and get the money? To go to Colette's was to see life, indeed, it was wrong; it was against the laws, it partook, in a very dingy manner, of adventure. Were it known, it was the sort of exploit that, disconsidered a young man for good with the more serious classes, but gave him a standing with the riotous. And yet Colette's was not a hell; it could not come, without vaulting hyperbole, under the rubric of a gilded saloon; and, if it was a sin to go there the sin was merely local and municipal. Colette (whose name I do not know how to spell, for I was never in epistolary communication with that hospitable outlaw) was simply an unlicensed publican, who gave suppers after eleven at night, the Edinburgh hour of closing. If you belonged to a club you could get a much better supper at the same hour and lose not a jot in public esteem. But if you lacked that qualification, and were an hungered, or inclined toward conviviality at unlawful hours, Colette's was your only port. You were very ill-supplied. The company was not recruited from the Senate or the church, though the bar was very well represented on the only occasion on which I flew in the face of my country's laws, and, taking my reputation in my hand, penetrated into that grim supper house. And Colette's frequenters, thrillingly conscious of wrong-doing, and "that two-handed engine (the policeman) at the door," were perhaps inclined to somewhat feverish excess. But the place was in no sense a very bad one; and it is somewhat strange to me, at this distance of time, how it had acquired its dangerous repute.

In precisely the same spirit as a man may debate a project to ascend the Matterhorn or to cross Africa, John considered Alan's proposal, and, greatly daring, accepted it. As he walked home the thoughts of this excursion out of the safe places of life into the wild and arduous, stirred and struggled in his imagination with the image of Miss Mackenzie—incongruous and yet kindred thoughts, for did not each imply unusual tightening of the pegs of resolution? did not each woo him forth and warn him back again into himself?

Between these two considerations, at least, he was more than usually moved; and when he got to Randolph Crescent he quite forgot the four hundred pounds in his pocket of his great-coat, hung up the coat, with its rich freight, upon his particular pin of the hat-stand, and in the very action sealed his doom.

Horses Have Been Known to Go Mad on the Battlefield.

The difficulty or the impossibility of defining insanity makes the question of whether or not animals become insane by no means easy to answer. Insanity in the human subject, it is supposed by some, has no analogue in the lower animals. Yet many causes will lead to the permanent loss of all self-control. Cattle driven from the country through the crowded thoroughfares of a town will, under the influence of this sudden change of condition, work themselves into a state of excitement and fury which must at least be closely allied to madness. Horses have been known to go mad in the midst of the bewildering scenes of a battlefield. At Balaklava an Arabian horse turned upon its attendant, who happened to be drawing water, seized him in its mouth, threw him to the ground and then kneeling upon him attacked him like an infuriated dog. Before the terror could be subdued it had bitten off another soldier's finger and seriously wounded the army veterinarian. Another instance is related of a docile horse, which one hot summer day went mad. Everything that came within its reach it seized in its teeth and shook like a terrier would a rat. It rided the pigsties and threw the inmates one after another into the air. Afterwards it almost killed its own master, after maiming for life the horse-shoer who was called in. This, at least, must have been a case of insanity. The cause of such insanity is often to be found in congenital malformation of the bones of the head. Prof. Romanes even goes so far as to prove, by what appears to be incontestable evidence, that animals, cats, dogs and monkeys, have been observed to have delusions very similar to those of insane people.

Elephants at Work.

Most persons have at one time or another seen the trained elephants in the circus ride the tricycle, sit on a chair, and do other tricks of that sort; but there is something forced about the whole thing, and the spectator feels that if it were not for the ropes and the tents and the guards, the poor beast would make a clean bolt. Out in Rangoon, at the timber mills, however, the elephant is really of great service to man. He carries the great planks from place to place and stacks them up with such dexterity as to not only dispense with an engine and cars, but much manual labor besides. With only a native "mahout" perched upon his back to guide him, the elephant will lend a hand in laying railways, building houses or any mortal thing after a little instruction. When the bell rings they know the day's work is finished, and they simply refuse to do another turn. Mahouts have paid the penalty of trying to make them work "after hours" with their lives.

"If the truth gets out it will be fatal to the Senator's political prospects." "Then why doesn't he have an investigating committee appointed to look into the matter?"—Puck.

Curfew bells ring in three towns in West Virginia.

There is no message which brings more gladness to a true woman's heart than the sweet assurance that a little one is coming to bless her life and call her "Mother."

But in all her loving preparations for the expected little guest, a mother is liable to forget that her own health and physical condition is the most important provision which can possibly be made for the baby's happiness.

If the prospective mother is weak, nervous and anxious, this condition is bound to react on the baby's constitution. No daintiness of wardrobe will compensate for the loss of the natural, healthy vigor which a mother should bestow upon her baby.

As early as possible during gestation, the expectant mother should reinforce her bodily powers with the sustaining, health-bringing influence of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It gives natural, healthy vigor and elastic endurance to the organs specially concerned in motherhood. It makes the coming of baby perfectly safe and almost painless. It gives nerve-strength to the mother and vital hardihood to the child.

It is the only medicine devised by an educated physician specially to overcome all weaknesses and diseases of the feminine organs.

Mrs. Roscoe Vanover, of Robinson Creek, Pike Co., Ky., writes: "I wish to express my thanks to you for the good I have received from your 'Favorite Prescription.' I have used it at different times for the last five years, and always with the most gratifying results. But the greatest good received from the 'Favorite Prescription' was about four months ago when my last baby was born. I was afflicted with 'child-bed fever.' Instead of sending after a doctor I used the 'Prescription' and was cured. A lady friend of mine was similarly afflicted and sent after the doctor and took his remedies and died. I am 27 years old, weigh 147 pounds, the mother of five children, and am enjoying the best of health."

NEW SHRUB THAT IS A REMEDY.
A Sure Cure for Kidney Diseases and Rheumatism.

It is no doubt true that next to consumption, more people die yearly from diseases of the kidneys than from any other cause. In some respects Kidney disease is the most dangerous of all maladies, because it usually has made much progress before the victim is aware of its existence. It is, therefore, with great pleasure we commend to our readers the recent discovery in East India of the Kava-Kava shrub, which has proved a most powerful remedy for diseases of the kidneys, rheumatism, or other ailments caused by uric acid in the blood. The cures wrought by this new remedy are indeed most remarkable. Many who have suffered from the most severe forms of the disease, have been completely cured in from twenty to forty days by the Kava-Kava shrub. In the New York Weekly World of Sept. 10th, the testimony of Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., of Washington, D. C., was given, describing his years of suffering from Kidney disease and Rheumatism, and his rapid cure by Alkavis. Rev. John H. Watson of Sunset, Texas, a minister of the gospel of thirty years' service, was struck down at his post of duty by Kidney disease. After hovering between life and death for two months, and all his doctors having failed, he took Alkavis, and was completely restored to health and strength and is fulfilling his duties as minister of the gospel. Mr. R. C. Wood, a prominent attorney of Lowell, Indiana, was cured of Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder disease of ten years' standing by Alkavis. Mr. Wood describes himself as being in constant misery, often compelled to rise ten times during the night on account of weakness of the bladder. He was treated by all his home physicians without the least benefit and finally completely cured in a few weeks by Alkavis. The testimony is undoubted and really wonderful. Any of our readers who are so unfortunate as to suffer from Kidney disorders or Rheumatism should write to the Church Kidney Cure Co., of 422 Fourth avenue, New York, who will gladly send them free by mail prepaid a Large Case of the Kava-Kava Compound, so that they can test its value for themselves. This generous free offer is made to prove the wonderful curative powers of this new botanic discovery.

Be not in too great haste to doubt another's virtue.—J. Elphinston.

CONFESS THE MURDER

INDIAN BOYS TELL OF A TERRIBLE CRIME.

Mystery as to the Death of the Five Members of the Spicer Family at Winona, N. D., is Cleared Up—Neighbors Talk of Lynching.

Two Indian boys, Paul Holytrack and Phillip Ireland, have confessed to the authorities at Fort Yates, N. D., that they were at the Spicer place at the time the family of five was murdered, and they have made a statement implicating themselves as well as the half-breeds, Blackhawk and Caddotte. The boys say the murder was planned some weeks before it was committed, and that Blackhawk was the leader. About $62 in money was found and divided by the four wretches after the completion of their bloody work.

Public sentiment in Emmons county is at fever heat, and it is more than probable that all four implicated will be lynched.

Remedy for Iowa Poor Tax Law.
Des Moines, Ia., April 28.—A curative act was passed by both houses Monday amending the law fixing the levy of taxes by striking the words "including support of the poor" out of the section governing the levy for general county revenue. The law at present provides for the levy of four mills for county revenue, "including support of the poor." In another statute it is provided that if this is not sufficient an additional tax of one mill may be levied as a "poor tax."

Budd is said to believe in Durrant's guilt.

A WOMAN'S BODY.

What Its Neglect Leads to. Mrs. Chas. King's Experience.

A woman's body is the repository of the most delicate mechanism in the whole realm of creation, and yet most women will let it get out of order and keep out of order, just as if it were of no consequence. Their backs ache and heads throb and burn; they have wandering pains, now here and now there. They experience extreme lassitude, that don't care and want-to-be-left-alone feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness and the blues, yet they will go about their work until they can scarcely stand on their poor swollen feet, and do nothing to help themselves.

These are the positive fore-runners of serious womb complications, and unless given immediate attention will result in untold misery, if not death.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will, beyond the question of a doubt, relieve all this trouble before it becomes serious, and it has cured many after their troubles had become chronic.

The Compound should be taken immediately upon the appearance of any of these symptoms above enumerated. It is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and stimulates the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the case of any sick woman as it did with Mrs. Chas. King, 1515 Rosewood St., Philadelphia, Pa., whose letter we attach:

"I write these few lines, thanking you for restoring my health. For twelve years I suffered with pains impossible to describe. I had bearing-down feelings, backache, burning sensation in my stomach, chills, headache, and always had black specks before my eyes. I was afraid to stay alone, for I sometimes had four and five fainting spells a day. I had several doctors and tried many patent medicines. Two years ago I was so bad that I had to go to bed and have a trained nurse. Through her, I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I never had anything give me the relief that it has. I have taken eight bottles, and am now enjoying the best of health again. I can truthfully say it has cured me."

Ambiguous.

He—Would your father object to my kissing you?
She (indignantly)—My father! Why he wouldn't hear of such a thing.—Up to Date.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register.
Mr. James Rowland of this village, states for twenty-five years his wife had been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good.
