

BARRINGTON REVIEW.

VOL. 12. No. 30.

BARRINGTON, ILL., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1897.

$1.25 A YEAR.

WOULD LIKE ALL PRESENT.

The Village Board to Meet in Stott's Hall Monday Evening.

ALL PROPERTY OWNERS REQUESTED TO ATTEND

The Finishing Touches to be Put on the Water Works—The Squabble of the Village With the C. & N.-W. Railroad Company to be Fully Aired.

On Monday evening the Board of Trustees of Barrington will meet in regular session.

The fate of the water works plant will be decided on that evening, and the other important matter to be acted on and action taken will be the squabble between the village and the Chicago & North Western railroad over the filling in of their right-of-way without putting in tile to take care of the water.

The village fathers desire the presence of every property owner and resident on that evening to voice their sentiments. To accommodate all who will come Stott's hall has been rented for the occasion.

It is of the utmost importance that all who possibly can attend this meeting of the city fathers and voice their sentiments.

BROCKWAY NOW P. M.

The Barrington Postoffice Changes Hands—H. K. Brockway Succeeds M. B. McIntosh—The Appointment a Popular One.

H. K. Brockway is now in charge of the Barrington postoffice, having taken possession yesterday. Mr. Brockway will make an efficient and popular official. The retiring postmaster, Mr. M. B. McIntosh, or "Squire" as he is better known among the older inhabitants of our village, has served nearly four years, being appointed under Cleveland's administration to fill the office, made vacant by the death of Postmaster Wm. H. Meyer. Mr. McIntosh has at all times been faithful in the discharge of his duties. He is one of our oldest residents and has always taken a leading part in politics, being one of the leading democrats in the town of Barrington.

Grand Jury.

The grand jurors for the October term of the Lake county court have been selected and are as follows:

Benton—W. H. Wilson.
Newport—George A. Siver.
Antioch—A. T. White, Homer Pierce.
Grant—T. J. Graham.
Avon—H. H. Neville.
Warren—William A. Knox.
Waukegan—Tim Spellman, William Hollowell, jr., Thomas Lindsay, Arch McArthur.
Shields—W. H. Anderson, Edward Calvert.
Libertyville—William E. Davis.
Fremont—H. C. Payne.
Wauconda—E. W. Brooks.
Cuba—George J. Hager.
Ela—Jacob Bees.
Vernon—G. F. Stanger.
West Deerfield—D. Gibbons.
East Deerfield—L. B. Hibbard, T. M. Clark.

Head Offices M. W. A. Moved to Rock Island at Last.

The long and tiresome burlesque of attempting to remove the head offices of the M. W. A. society from Fulton to Rock Island has at last come to an end. Thursday the records of the order were removed from the former to the latter place; not, however, until five companies of militia had been ordered out by Gov. Tanner to enforce the order of the court.

Buy at Home.

An exchange gives the following good advice: When you buy, buy of established business houses. The wisdom of this course was forcibly impressed upon a resident of a neighboring county who bought groceries of a canvasser for a large firm. The farmer bought twelve articles for which he paid, including the freight, $7.35. Curiosity led him to price the same articles at a nearby store, and his feelings are not difficult to imagine when he learned that he could have bought the same articles of his neighbor for $4.45.

OBITUARY.

JOHN SINNOTT DEAD.

John Sinnott, a former resident of Barrington, died at his home in San Jose, Cal., Sunday, Sept. 19, 1897.

Mr. Sinnott had been in poor health for several months. The immediate cause of his death was dropsy of the chest. The widow and four daughters, Delia, Nettie, Catherine and Sue, are left to mourn the loss of a kind, loving, noble-hearted husband and a fond, indulgent father.

The deceased was a native of New York, and was at the time of his death 68 years of age. He was married in Barrington, Ill., in 1858, to Miss Delia Ela. After his marriage he went to California and delved for gold in the placers. In 1872 he located with his family at San Jose, and with Edward Sinnott, his brother, opened the Chicago dry goods store. In 1879 he sold out and moved to Leadville and invested his capital in mining enterprises. At the time of his death he was the possessor of some of the most valuable mining property in Colorado.

Mr. Sinnott was recognized as a man of the highest integrity, and the possessor of endearing social qualities.

MRS. RUTH SUTHERLAND.

On Monday evening, Sept. 27, at 7:30 o'clock, Mrs. Ruth Sutherland, after some weeks of intense physical suffering, passed away at her home in Lake Zurich. Her remains were laid to rest in the Northfield cemetery, beside the graves of her parents. The deceased leaves behind her a husband and three children to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and a loving mother. Mrs. Sutherland was born Jan. 31, 1847, married Jan. 3, 1872, and died Sept. 27, 1897.

MRS. CAROLINE ZOSCHKE.

Mrs. Caroline Zoschke, nee Scherbert, wife of the late Carl Zoschke, died at the home of her son-in-law, Gottlieb Nagatz, early Saturday morning, and was buried Monday.

Mrs. Zoschke was born in Klein-Silke, Germany. She was married 58 years ago. Two daughters survive her, Mrs. R. Mischke of Plum Grove and Mrs. Gottlieb Nagatz.

The deceased came to Barrington just nineteen years ago. The funeral services Monday were well attended, an evidence of the esteem in which she was held by her friends and neighbors.

Interment took place in the German Lutheran cemetery. Rev. E. Rahn officiated at the funeral services.

Mrs. S. Runyan, mother of L. E. Runyan, died at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning at her home in Minneapolis, Minn. Mrs. Runyan was formerly a Barrington citizen, and is well known here. She was in her 94th year at the time of her death.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

List of unclaimed letters remaining in the Barrington-postoffice Friday, Oct. 1, 1897.

Miss Minnie Brandt, Robert Eichler, Miss Alma Fisher, Henry Miller, Geo. Miller, C. H. Morey, Miss Mary Thomas, Wm. Jourdan.

H. K. BROCKWAY, P. M.

Potatoes are almost a failure in this section of the state, being half a crop and very small in size. As a result the price of them will be high and 75 cents to $1 a bushel will probably have to be paid. This is the condition in the greater part of Illinois. The Michigan and Wisconsin crop is not large but better in quality. South Dakota has a magnificent crop and they are bringing only 20 cents in the market.

Algonquin cannot agree as to who shall be their night watchman. At an informal meeting of the village board of that place the position was offered to a gentleman who refused to accept it. After the merits of the various candidates had been discussed the board adjourned without taking any action, being unable to make a selection. It is believed that the board will decide to do without a night watchman.

About forty dairies were dropped off at the condensing factory when the new contracts were made last week. This seems incomprehensible when they have been recently calling for all the milk they could get on present contracts, and looking for more besides.—Algonquin Arrow.

FOR WATER WORKS.

The Palatine Village Board Votes to Put in Water Works.

When Mayor Battermann called the special meeting of the village board to order Monday evening every member was present and the hall was filled with citizens who were anxious to hear the report of the committee who investigated the cost, and submitted plans for a system of water works for Palatine. The committee presented a good report and moved that the board grant the petition of the tax payers and erect a water works plant. The vote resulted as follows:

Ayes—Stroker, Putnam, Taylor Ost and Meyer.

Nays—Horstman.

Before the vote was taken a request was made that the question be argued by some of those present, but Mayor Batterman decided that as the meeting was called for a special object, that other issues could not be introduced.

Moved by Putnam that the board reconsider their vote. Motion was lost, the vote being as before.

Moved by Stroker, seconded by Taylor that C. H. Patten be appointed engineer to see to the construction of the plant, and same not to cost over $15,000. Carried unanimously.

Moved by Taylor that the president appoint a committee of three to select a site on which to erect a power house and plant, with power to act. Carried unanimously. The following members were appointed: Ost, Taylor and Putnam.

The clerk read a petition by tax payers praying that the board refuse the petition for water works. On motion of Taylor, same was referred to the committee who were appointed to act on the former petition.

Death of Wm. Wilson.

The news of the death of Wm. Wilson last Sunday night was a great surprise to our people. Mr. Wilson was on our streets Sunday morning in as good health as usual. He was about the house as usual during the day. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon he was sitting near the sitting room stove reading his paper when he fell to the floor. A physician was hastily summoned and Mr. Wilson was revived and apparently was all right again, but toward evening he was again stricken with heart failure and a physician again summoned and the patient revived and said he felt all right, but Dr. Wadhams did not leave and in about half an hour the third attack came on and this proved a fatal one, all efforts to revive him being futile. Mr. Wilson was one of the old pioneers of this vicinity, coming here with his parents in 1840 at the age of 3 years. He has lived on the old homestead ever since, being engaged in agricultural pursuits. He was always a hard working man and a general favorite of all who knew him and has always enjoyed good health and most persons would not take him to be over 50 years of age. The funeral services were held at the home Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock and at the Methodist church at 2 o'clock, Rev. M. H. Plum of Chicago making the funeral address, followed by a few remarks by Rev. J. C. Butcher. A large number of old residents and acquaintances from this place and vicinity were present. The deceased leaves a widow, also two daughters and a son unmarried. Two brothers and a sister survive him.—Palatine Review.

Old Settlers' Picnic.

The Old Settlers' reunion and picnic given at Lake Zurich Sunday by J. Forbes was a success both financially and socially, excepting a little "bucking" between the Jefferson Grays and the Wauconda Independent base ball teams. The day was a beautiful one, which induced a large number of the residents of the surrounding vicinity to attend. Dancing was enjoyed both afternoon and evening by the young people in the pavilion. The Ela cornet band played several pleasing selections. Their playing shows a marked improvement at every appearance. The ball game was exciting, to say the least, but at last accounts no decision as to which nine was entitled to the laurels had been reached by the umpires. Proprietor Forbes is to be congratulated for entertaining so many of his friends so pleasantly.

VI.

WHEN I asked Dick Fenton to relate his experiences, I did not mean him to do so at such length. But there, as he has written it, and as writing is not a labor of love with him, let it go.

When Madeline Rowan found the bed, by the side of which she had thrown herself in an ecstasy of grief, untenanted, she knew in a moment that she was the victim of a deep laid plot. Being ignorant of Carriston's true position in the world, she could conceive no reason for the elaborate scheme, which had been devised to lure her so many miles from her home and make a prisoner of her.

A prisoner she was. Not only was the door locked upon her, but a slip of paper lay on the bed. It bore these words: "No harm is meant you, and in due time you will be released. Ask no questions, make no foolish attempts at escape, and you will be well treated."

Upon reading this the girl's first thought was one of thankfulness. She saw at once that the reported accident to her lover was but an invention. The probabilities were that Carriston was alive, and in his usual health. Now that she felt certain of this, she could bear anything.

From the day on, which she entered that room, to that on which she rescued her, Madeline was to all intents and purposes as close a prisoner in that lonely house on the hillside as she might have been in the deepest dungeon in the world. Threats, entreaties, promises of bribes availed nothing. She was not unkindly treated—that is, suffered no absolute ill-usage. Books, materials for needle work, and other little aids to while away time were supplied. But the only living creatures she saw were the woman of the house who attended to her wants, and, on one or two occasions, the man whom Carriston asserted he had seen in his trance. She had suffered from the close confinement, but had always felt certain that sooner or later her lover would find her and effect her deliverance. Now that she knew he was alive she could not be unhappy.

I did not choose to ask her why she had felt so certain on the above points. I wish to add no more puzzles to the one which, to tell the truth, exercised, even annoyed me, more than I care to say. But I did ask her if, during her incarceration, how jailer had ever laid his hand upon her.

She told me that some short time after her arrival a stranger had gained admittance to the house. While he was there the man had entered her room, held her arm, and threatened her with violence if she made an outcry. After hearing this, I did not pursue the subject.

Carriston and Madeline were married at the earliest possible moment, and left England immediately after the ceremony. A week after their departure, by Carriston's request, I forwarded the envelope found upon our prisoner to Mr. Ralph Carriston. With it I sent a few lines stating where and under what peculiar circumstances we had become possessed of it. I never received any reply to my communication, so wild and improbable as it seems. I am bound to believe that Charles Carriston's surmise was right—that Madeline was decoyed away and concealed, not from any ill-will toward herself, but with a view to the possible beneficial effect which her mysterious disappearance might work upon her lover's strange and excitable organization; and I firmly believe that, had he not in some inexplicable way been firmly convinced that she was alive and faithful to him, the plot would have been a thorough success, and Charles Carriston would have spent the rest of his days in an asylum.

Both Sir Charles—he succeeded to his title shortly after his marriage—and Lady Carriston are now dead, or I should not have ventured to relate these things concerning them. They had twelve years of happiness. If measured by time the period was but a short one, but I feel sure that in it they enjoyed more true happiness than many others find in the course of a protracted life. In word, thought and deed they were as one. She died in Rome, of fever, and her husband, without, so far as I know, any particular complaint, simply followed her.

I was always honored with their sincerest friendship, and Sir Charles left me sole trustee and guardian of his three sons, so there are plenty of lives between Ralph Carriston and his desire. I am pleased to say that the boys, who are as dear to me as my own children, as yet show no evidence of possessing any gifts beyond nature.

I know that my having made this story public will cause two sets of objectors to fall equally foul of me—the matter-of-fact prosaic man who will say that the abduction and subsequent imprisonment of Madeline was an absurd impossibility, and the scientific man, like myself, who cannot, dare not believe that Charles Carriston, from neither memory nor imagination, could draw a face, and describe peculiarities, by which a certain man could be identified. I am far from saying there may not be a simple natural explanation of the puzzle, but I, for one, have failed to find it, so close this tale as I began it, by saying I am a narrator, and nothing more.

(THE END.)

A Tale of Three Lions

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

CHAPTER I.

Most of you boys will have heard of Allan Quatermain, who was one of the party who discovered King Solomon's mines some little time ago, and afterward came to live in England near his friend Sir Henry Curtis. He had gone back to the wilderness now, as these hunters almost invariably do, on one pretext or another. They cannot endure civilization for very long, its noise and racket and the omnipresence of broadclothed humanity proving more trying to their nerves than the dangers of the desert. I think that they feel lonely here, for it is a fact that is too little understood, though it has often been stated, that there is no loneliness like the loneliness of crowds, especially to those who are unaccustomed to them. "What is there in the world," old Quatermain would say, "so desolate as to stand in the streets of a great city and listen to the footsteps falling, falling multitudinous as the rain, and watch the white line of faces as they hurry past, you know not whence, you know not whither. They come and go, their eyes meet yours with a cold stare, for a moment their features are written on your mind, and then they are gone forever. You will never see them again, they will never see you again; they come up out of the blackness, and presently they once more vanish into the blackness, taking their secrets with them. Yes, that is loneliness pure and undefiled; but to one who knows and loves it, the wilderness is not lonely, because the spirit of nature is ever there to keep the wanderer company. He finds companionship in the rushing winds—the sunny streams babble like Nature's children at his feet high above him, in the purple sunset, are domes and minarets and palaces, such as no mortal man hath built, in and out of whose flaming doors the glorious angels of the sun do move continually. And then there is the wild game, following its feeding grounds in great armies, with the spring-buck thrown out before them for skirmishes; then rank upon rank of long-faced blesbuck, marching and wheeling like infantry; and last the shining troops of quagga and the fierce-eyed shaggy vilderbeeste to take the place of the great cossack host that hangs upon an army's flanks.

"Oh, no," he would say, "the wilderness is not lonely, for, my boy, remember that the farther you get from man, the nearer you grow to God," and though this is a saying that might well be disputed, it is one I am sure that anybody who has watched the sun rise and set on the limitless deserted plains, and seen the thunder chariots roll in majesty across the depths of unfathomable sky, will easily understand.

Well, at any rate he went back again, and now for many months I have heard nothing of him, and to be frank, I greatly doubt if anybody will ever hear of him again. I fear that the wilderness, that has for so many years been a mother to him, will now also prove his monument and the monument of those who accompanied him, for the quest upon which he and they have started is a wild one indeed.

But while he was in England for those three years or so between his return from the successful discovery of the wise king's buried treasures, and the death of his only son, I saw a great deal of old Allan Quatermain. I had known him years before in Africa, and after he came home, whenever I had nothing better to do, I used to run up to Yorkshire and stay with him, and in this way I at one time and another heard many of the incidents of his past life, and most curious some of them were. No man can pass all those years following the rough existence of an elephant hunter without meeting with many strange adventures, and one way and another old Quatermain has certainly seen his share. Well, the story that I am going to tell you in the following short pages is one of the later of these adventures; indeed, if I remember right, it happened in the year 1875. At any rate I know that it was the only one of his trips upon which he took his son Harry (who is since dead) with him, and that Harry was then fourteen. And now for the story, which I will repeat, as nearly as I can in the words in which hunter Quatermain told it to me one night in the oak-paneled vestibule of his house in Yorkshire. We were talking about gold-mining—

"Gold-mining," he broke in; "ah, yes, I once went gold-mining at Pilgrims' Rest in the Transvaal, and it was after that that we had the turn up about Jim-Jim and the lions. Do you know it? Well, it is, or was, one of the queerest little places you ever saw. The town itself was pitched in a sort of stony valley, with mountains all about it, and in the middle of such scenery as one does not often get the chance of seeing.

"Well, for some months I dug away gayly at my claim, but at length the very sight of a pick or of a washing-trough became hateful to me. A hundred times a day I cursed my own folly for having invested eight hundred pounds, which was about all that I was worth at the time, in this gold-mining. But like other better people before me, I had been bitten by the gold bug, and now had to take the consequences. I had bought a claim out of which a man had made a fortune—five or six thousand pounds at least—as I thought, very cheap; that is, I had given him five hundred pounds for it. It was all that I had made by a very rough year's elephant hunting beyond the Zambesi. I sighed deeply and prophetically when I saw my successful friend, who was a Yankee, sweep up the roll of the Standard Bank notes with the lordly air of the man who has made his fortune, and cram them into his breeches pockets. 'Well,' I said to him—the unhappy vender—"It is a magnificent property, and I only hope that my luck will be as good as yours has been." He smiled; to my excited nerves it seemed that he smiled ominously, as he answered me in a peculiar Yankee drawl: 'I guess, stranger, as I ain't the man to want to turn a dog's stomach against his dinner, more especial when there ain't no more going of the rounds; as far as that there claim, well, she's been a good nigger to me; but between you and me, stranger, speaking man to man now that there ain't any flthy lucre between us to obscure the features of the truth, I guess she's about worked out.'

"I gasped; the fellow's offrontery took the breath out of me. Only five minutes before he had been swearing by all his gods, and they appeared to be numerous and mixed, that there were half a dozen fortunes left in the claim and that he was only giving it up because he was down-right weary of shoveling the gold out.

"Don't look so vexed, stranger," went on the tormentor, 'perhaps there is some shine in the old girl yet; anyway, you are a downright good fellow, you are, therefore you will, I guess, have a real A1, plate-glass opportunity of working on the feelings of Dame Fortune. Anyway, it will bring the muscle up upon your arm if the stuff is uncommon still, and what is more, you will, in the course of a year earn a sight more than two thousand dollars in value of experience.'

"And he went, just in time, for in another minute I should have gone for him, and I saw his face no more.

"Well, I set to work on the old claim with my boy Harry and a half a dozen Kafirs to help me, which, seeing that I had put nearly all my worldly wealth into it, was the least I could do. And we worked, my word, we did work—early and late we went at it—but never a bit of gold did we see; no, not even a nugget large enough to make a scarf pin out of. The American gentleman had mopped up the whole lot and left us the sweepings.

"For three months this game went on till at last I had paid away all or very near all that was left of our little capital in wages and food for the Kafirs and ourselves. When I tell you that Boer meal was sometimes as high as four pounds a bag, you will understand that it did not take long to run through our banking account.

Trains Without Rails.

Experiments which are described as satisfactory have recently been made in the suburbs of Paris with a train, drawn by a steam locomotive, running not on rails but on an ordinary road. The train used at present consists of only two cars, one of which contains the locomotive machinery, together with seats for fourteen passengers, while the other has twenty-four seats. The engine is of sixteen horsepower and the average speed is about seven miles an hour. The train is able to turn in a circle only twenty-three feet in diameter. Another train has been constructed for the conveyance of freight. It is hoped by the inventors that trains of this kind will be extensively employed in and near cities.

GUNBOAT TO HAWAII.

Wheeling to Be There Before the Philadelphia Leaves.

NEW ORDERS WERE GIVEN.

Considered Better to Keep Two Ships at Honolulu—Japanese Plot Denied—Story of Disguised Soldiers Said to Be False.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Orders were sent from the Navy Department at Washington to San Francisco to have the gunboat Wheeling sent to Honolulu as soon as she can be prepared for the voyage.

The Wheeling has been put in commission recently and was about to start in a short time for Sitka, taking stores and relief for the gunboat Concord, now on duty in Alaska. She is a small but well equipped modern gunboat, somewhat smaller than the Bennington, now at Honolulu, but together the two boats will make a good force.

The Philadelphia will remain at Honolulu until the Wheeling arrives. Whether the Yorktown will then be detained there is not certain, but it is likely that she will not stop at Honolulu on her way from China longer than is necessary to secure coal and stores.

The Philadelphia upon reaching Mare Island will place most of her men on the Baltimore, which has just been extensively repaired, and the latter will go to Hawaii as Admiral Miller's flagship. The Admiral will remain at Honolulu while the exchange is being made.

Referring to reports brought by the stramer Peking that the passengers saw a large number of well-drilled Japanese land in Hawaii, under the direction of a sergeant, and divided into military squads, Mr. Durham W. Stevens, counselor of the Japanese legation, says the reports are untrue, and are calculated to cause an unjustifiable impression against Japan.

The few opponents of the annexation of Hawaii profess to believe that they will have considerable help from the sugar trust, but it will not benefit the sugar trust to defeat annexation, since the new tariff bill provides that nothing in the act shall be so construed as to abrogate, impair, or affect the treaty of commercial reciprocity between this government and Hawaii, which admits Hawaiian sugar free of duty. In fact, it would be fatal for the sugar trust to appear or allow it to be understood that it was opposing annexation. Congress had enough of the sugar trust at the extra session, and would not tolerate the interference of such a lobby against the annexation of Hawaii.

Die of the Plague.

There were four deaths from yellow fever and ten new cases were reported to the board of health at New Orleans, La. Thus far there have been ninety-eight cases and fifteen deaths. The death rate is in the neighborhood of 15 per cent. It was in 1878 16 per cent, so that up to the present time the disease is about as virulent as it was in the last great epidemic New Orleans had.

New Klondike Device.

A device to thaw the frozen ground of Klondike has been invented by J. Parker Dee of Cripple Creek, Col. Six hundred of the machines will be manufactured and transported to Klondike in the spring. The scheme is to generate gas in a tank, the gas passing to a blow-pipe where, becoming ignited, it is forced out in the form of a flame. It can be directed in any position and cannot be blown out by the wind.

Kent Is Found Guilty.

The jury in the Bedford Kent murder trial at Martinsville, Ind., after being in the jury-room two hours brought in a verdict of voluntary manslaughter and fixed his punishment at twenty-one years in the penitentiary. Kent cut Noah King's throat while drunk and fighting after church in the country on the night of November 5, 1893, and was a fugitive from justice since until last spring.

Die by Fire or Are Drowned.

A dispatch from Ufa, capital of the department of Ufa, in southern Russia, says that the steamer Admiral Gervais, with 200 passengers, while lying off the town, took fire while all were asleep. Many passengers jumped overboard to escape the flames. Some were rescued, but many more were drowned. The total number of victims has not yet been ascertained.

Endeavorers to Meet at Chicago.

Christian Endeavorers from all over Illinois will congregate in Chicago October 7 to 10. The annual state Christian Endeavor convention will be held on those days. It is expected that between 6,000 and 10,000 delegates will attend.

Murdered by a Jealous Man.

NEBRASKA'S EXHIBIT AT THE STATE FAIR.

A Remarkable Display of Agricultural Products.

Visitors to the Illinois State Fair of 1896 will remember the large and exceptionally interesting exhibit, in the southeastern wing of the Dome building, brought from all sections of Nebraska by a few of her enterprising farmers. With its great ears of corn, splendid wheat, oats and barley, alfalfa, chicory, sugar beets and beet sugar, and a most handsome display of fruit, this Nebraska exhibit was such a center of interest that the fair management asked to have it repeated, and an entire wing, in the northwest corner of the Dome building, second floor, was engaged for the use of the Nebraska people in 1897. This year a dozen farmers, former residents of Illinois, who have made for themselves new homes in Nebraska, will bring this exhibit, consisting of two carloads of almost everything that state produces. There will be an abundance of beautiful fruit and sacks and barrels of sugar, made from beets, by the two large factories located at Grand Island and Norfolk. On one of the principal days of the fair 5,000 souvenir barrels of Nebraska sugar will be distributed to the farmers and farmers' wives of Illinois. Whoever goes to Springfield this year, and everybody should go and see the finest fair ground and the greatest state fair in the United States, should not fail to visit the Nebraska exhibit and talk with the sturdy sons of toil who went from this state to get a cheaper home and a bigger farm just beyond the Missouri river.

A Thing to Boast Of.

Schoolfellows learn each others' failings if nothing else, and recall after years of separation the characteristic thing about an old seat-mate. Two men who had been at school together when they were boys met, and talked of old times.

"By the way," said one, "I saw Smith when I was out at Seattle."

"Did you? And what was he bragging about when you saw him?"

"He was bragging about his modesty just at that moment."

"Dear old Smith! Just like him!"

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1897.

The exchange of prisoners after the Cubans under General Garcia had gained the battle of Victoria de las Tunas in the eastern part of the island is itself a recognition by Spain of the belligerency of the rebels. If they were mere traitors, guilty of bearing arms against their government, then every one of the Cuban prisoners captured at Victoria de las Tunas should have been treated as such. But the stern logic of the situation confronted the Spaniards, and they knew that any severity on their part toward Cubans captured in the fight would have been avenged tenfold by the patriot commander, who had many more Spanish captives than Weyler's soldiers had of Cubans. So in this instance at least a recognition of belligerency was a necessity. But it is to be noted that this is the first time such general exchange has taken place.

The Latimer Tragedy.

A marked feature of the coal strike has been the peaceable and orderly conduct of the miners in general. Up to the day when 72 unarmed men were shot down, 22 of them shot to death, there had been no actual dangerous violence connected with the movements of strikers themselves. Even on the fateful Friday whose anniversary will be a day henceforth solemnly commemorated by labor organizations the difficulty was not between strikers and miners who were still at work, but between strikers and the sheriff's deputies who were trying to prevent them from reaching the nonstriking miners.

At Hazle mines, a short distance from Latimer, the trouble commenced. The marching strikers sought to stop the workmen from continuing their task. The deputies were lined up along the works and attacked the strikers as they advanced, not then with guns, but with their fists, although it is said that one shot was fired here. A fight occurred, and, while the strikers got the worst of it, they were able to drive the workers away from the mines. Then the strikers formed in line and started toward the Latimer mines. By this time the deputies were excited and angered. They were heavily armed with large bore, 16 shooter winchester rifles. Many of them were employees of the coal companies who had been sworn in at the instigation of the companies.

The deputies, 80 in number, boarded a trolley car and reached the mines ahead of the strikers. When the strikers came upon the scene, the men and guns were there to meet them. James Martin, sheriff of Luzerne county, stood in front of his deputies and read the riot act to the strikers, ordering them to disperse. As he read he held a revolver in his hand. The strikers were all Poles and Hungarians, as the names on the list of dead and wounded shows. Few of them understood English. It is safe to assume that the majority of them did not know what the sheriff was talking about. Therefore they did not obey him. They advanced toward him. He became more afraid, and the strikers became aggressive accordingly.

Mr. Charles Guscott, principal of the Latimer Grammar school, saw the sheriff pushed into the ditch. Then he saw Samuel Price, commander of one of the companies of deputies, advance in front of the line of deputies and fire his gun into the strikers' faces. Instantly the whole body of deputies followed his example and discharged their rifles directly at the strikers. They were unarmed and started to flee in all directions. The terrible firing continued. Witnesses who saw the bodies of the dead lying where they fell found that many of them had been shot in the back as they ran.

The deputies continued firing 10 to 15 minutes, taking deliberate and deadly aim. Who ordered the firing or whether it was ordered at all will never be known. Sheriff Martin made two statements on this point. In one he said he ordered the men to fire first over the heads of the strikers and when that did not avail bade them take aim. In his other statement he says he did not know who ordered the firing. He said he was so agitated and excited by the affair that he was quite unnerved.

Sheriff Martin at once telegraphed Governor Hastings of the presence of soldiers on the scene. Three thousand seven hundred men of the Pennsylvania national guard were sent at once. Among them were two companies of cavalry and a battery of artillery with two gating guns, a force large enough to disperse a small army. They were put under command of General Gobin of the Third Pennsylvania brigade. Citizens of Hazleton and Latimer obtained warrants for the arrest of Sheriff Martin and his deputies on the charge of murder, but General Gobin would not permit them to be served. He said that the civil authority was paramount to the military, and he and his men were under orders from Sheriff Martin. At the same time, however, the district was at the time the warrants were issued under military law, and therefore he would take it on himself not to permit the papers to be served.

The killed and wounded among the miners were Poles and Hungarians, a number of whom had not been naturalized. They were citizens of Austria. The Austrian government will bring in a heavy bill of damages for the killing of its citizens. This will fall on the county of Luzerne.

FOR WATER WORKS.

Plans and Specifications for Water Works Which Were Presented to the Village Board Last Week by Parsons & Huston.

The following communication from Parsons & Huston, civil engineers of Chicago, to the Board of Trustees of the village of Barrington, will give our readers an idea of what it costs to equip a village with a system of water works:

To the Honorable President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Barrington, Illinois.

GENTLEMEN:—We, Parsons & Huston, Civil Engineers of Chicago, Ill., beg to submit to your honorable body, the following estimate and report for complete water works system for your village, according to plans submitted to your honorable body:

3,563 ft. 10-in. cast iron pipe
5,754 " 8-in. " "	$85 tons at $16.
15,833 " 6-in. " "
816 " 4-in. " "
(Leading to hydrants.)
Total	$7,500 00
17,000 lbs. of lead at 4 cts.	680 00
Gasket	50 00
Cost of calking and laying	4,440 00
48 fire hydrants, $30 each	1,440 00
3 10-in valves, $30	90 00
5 8-in. " $20	100 00
15 6-in. " $12	180 00
23 boxes, $3	69 00
Specials 17,428 lbs at 2 1/2 cts.	435 70

Total cost of piping.....$15,244 70

RESERVOIR.
40 ft. diameter, 22 ft. in depth.
Capacity, 207,339 gallons.
Cost of material.....$1,540 00
Labor.....802 40

Total cost of reservoir.....$2,342 40

PUMPING STATION.
Brick pumping house, 25x40.....$ 750 00
1 20-horse power gasoline engine and 350 gallons per minute pump for fire pressure.....1,600 00
1 5-horse power gasoline engine and deep well pumps, 175 gallons per minutes, 50 ft. lift.....475 00
Rode and cylinder, 8x24 inches.....225 00
Fitting, etc.....100 00

Total cost of station.....$3,150 00
Well, 175 ft. deep at $3 per ft.....$ 525 00
Cost of Assessments, attorneys' fees, and engineering fees.....1,000 00

Cost of plant.....$22,471 10

The reservoir built on the top of the hill in the south part of your village 10 feet in the ground and 12 feet out of ground will give you a head of 102 feet, which is more than any water works system in your vicinity. This will give you a fire protection of 207,339 gallons of water, and will throw a vertical stream of 70 feet and a horizontal stream of 109 feet, and 150 gallons per minute at each fire hydrant, using three fire hydrants simultaneously. This will not require a fire pressure engine and pump, which is included in the foregoing estimate. This would make the total cost $1,600 less or $20,871.10.

A stand pipe with the same capacity as the reservoir aforementioned will cost $5,200, about twice as much as the reservoir.

By using the gasoline engine and deep-well pump it will save you the cost of hiring an engineer to run the plant and hauling fuel, etc. The cost of running this engine will not exceed 1 1/4 cts. for fuel per 1,000 gallons. Any man can get pressure to pump 175 gallons a minute in less than two minutes.

Respectfully submitted,
PERSONS & HUSTON,
Civil Engineers.

It is more than probable that the above total cost will be reduced several thousand dollars.

The 10-inch pipe will be laid on Hough street from a point 500 feet south of South Limits street to Russell street, thence east on Russell to Cook, and from Cook north to South Railroad street.

The 8-inch pipe will be laid on Hough and Russell north to Lake street; Cemetery street to Main, west to Cook, where it will be connected with the 10-inch pipe; also from Cook and Rail Road on Williams to Liberty streets; on North Railroad from Williams on County Line road to Hawley street; on Cemetery street from Hough to Grove avenue. The rest of the streets will be supplied with 6-inch pipe.

THE QUALITY

Is the first thing to consider in clothing. The price comes next. Quality means good material well made up. It means a good fit; it means good wear; it means a genteel appearance.

Our Summer Clothing is distinctively quality clothing. The price is only a little more than you would pay for the shoddy goods. But you will find a vast difference in the wear and looks.

WILL CONVINCING EVERY ONE THAT THE PLACE TO

BUY WHITE LEAD, LINSEED OIL,

MIXED PAINTS, VARNISHES, HARD OILS, LIME, BRICK, CEMENT, Etc., is at

J. D. LAMEY & CO.'S,

Prices are low. Parties desirous of doing painting will find no better time to do so than right now. Linseed Oil is now down, to a remarkable low figure, as is also White Lead. It looks reasonable that prices can not hold down to so low a point but for a short time; in particular that of Linseed Oil. Nearly every one is aware of the rise in price of all grains, which include flax, of which Linseed Oil is made. Prices can not get lower—they are as low as they can get.

WHOLE FAMILY KILLED.

Awful Crime of a Farmer in Western Iowa.

MOTIVE CAN NOT BE TOLD.

John Boecker Kills His Wife and Five Children and Fatally Wounds Another Child and Himself—His Brother Discovers the Tragedy.

John Boecker, aged 44 years, attended services at the church in Breda, Carroll county, Iowa, Sunday afternoon with his eldest daughter, spent the evening brooding over some financial affairs, although he was a wealthy farmer, as farm wealth goes, and in some time in the night shot and killed his wife, his six little children and himself.

The indications are that Boecker first dispatched his wife with a shotgun, then used the revolver on the baby, first shooting, then knocking out its brains. He then went upstairs where the five children were sleeping. He must have used a light, for his aim was effective, each victim being shot in the forehead. All but two children met with instant death, for the blood clots were under their heads, and two lay as calmly reposed as if in sleep. All except Henry were attired in night robes.

The murderer had reloaded the weapon while upstairs and evidently sent the second bullet into the oldest girl's brain just before leaving the room. Going downstairs he stretched himself beside the corpse of his wife and shot himself.

The discovery of the tragedy was made by Boecker's brother, Henry, who had gone to summon the murderer to his work. The coroner's jury has not yet returned a verdict.

Rye Crop Is a Disappointment.

A disappointing rye crop is indicated by final returns to the American Agriculturalist. Instead of some 28,000,000 bushels, expected from earlier indications, the crop in the United States now figures out about 25,000,000 bushels, 1,000,000 bushels more than last year, and 2,000,000 less than in 1895 and 1894.

Captain Hedley Wins a Point.

RAILWAY ENGINE EXPLODES.

Engineer Mitchell Killed and Fireman Cawley Badly Injured.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 28.—Engineer E. Bennett Mitchell was killed and Fireman John R. Cawley seriously injured Monday, by the explosion of a locomotive on the Northern Central railway at Georgetown, a few miles north of Harrisburg. The victims were both residents of Harrisburg, and had been in the passenger service of the company for many years.

Mitchell was thrown up the side of a mountain, a distance of sixty feet, and was dead when found. Fireman Cawley was hurled in an opposite direction, almost to the edge of the Susquehanna river. He was so badly scalded that it is thought he will die. The wires and tracks for a distance of 150 yards were badly torn up and telegraphic communication and travel were suspended for several hours.

Stricken in His Pulpit.

While Rev. L. D. Morris of Greencastle was delivering an address to a convention of the eighth district Christian churches in session at Brazil, Ind., he was stricken with paralysis and sank to the floor. A physician was quickly summoned and pronounced the stroke probably fatal, as a portion of his brain was paralyzed. Mr. Morris is 50 years old, and had no symptoms of paralysis before. Great consternation was created in the church by his sudden attack.

Landslide in Alaska.

News was brought down by the tug Pioneer, Capt. FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

"Fake" Cotton Plant.
RECENTLY there appeared in the N. Y. Sun what purported to be a telegram from Atlanta, Ga., telling of a wonderful cotton plant that had been introduced from equatorial Africa and was to revolutionize the cotton growing industry of the world. It was a most marvelous plant, towering to the height of twenty feet and covered with a mass of downy cotton balls. The man in Georgia that is growing it would sell seeds as low as five cents apiece. The Farmers' Review sent the clipping to the Georgia Experiment station, and received a reply in the line it expected, namely that the so-called wonderful plant was merely a very ordinary cotton plant that was probably palmed off on the present Georgia enthusiast by some local joker. Below we give the letter. Parenthetically we would caution our readers against believing any of the wonderful yarns that are constantly appearing in the daily press about new agricultural plants of great value. The propagators are simply using the gullible city reporters to help advertise some worthless thing that they hope to make money out of by sales at fabulous prices. The letter follows:

Experiment, Ga., August, 28, 1897.
Editor Farmer's Review, Chicago, Ill.
I have yours of the 26th this a. m., enclosing clipping from a Chicago paper. In reply to your letter I beg to say that the article has simply a naked basis in fact—something to build upon. There is a gentleman named Jackson, who runs a small farm near Atlanta, and who is engaged in booming a so-called African variety of cotton, etc., etc. After some difficulty I succeeded in getting a few seeds of the cotton, of undoubted purity, and have now in progress an elaborate, competitive test, including 21 varieties of cotton, embracing most of our popular, prolific varieties, seeds of which are easily obtainable at from 50 cents to $1.50 per bushel. So far I note nothing peculiar in the cotton. The plants have an upright habit of growth, and the fruit is produced on short fruit spurs, each containing from two to five bolls. Usually there is one or more long side branches that proceed out from the main stem near the ground. This habit, however, is not so very remarkable. In fact it so happens that one of the varieties planted in the competitive test, and in rows adjacent to this "wonderful" cotton is very similar to the latter, but not growing so tall. At the close of the season I will make an exhaustive report of the test, which will be published in bulletin form. At present there is no indication that the yield will be even equal to the average yield of the other, 20 varieties. A few bolls have already opened and show a staple of fair length and fineness, but not comparable to Sea Island cotton. There is now no possibility of any material improvement in the conditions and promise of any of the varieties. In other words the crop is practically "made," and the final results will be practically the same (relatively) as are now indicated. Very truly,
R. J. REDDING,
Director.

Law and Grafting.
A peculiar case came up before a judge in the county of Huron, Ont., in which the methods of a professional grafter were under examination. According to a report of the trial it appeared that Cooke of Clinton applied to Murdock, a farmer near Brucefield, to get grafting to do. Murdock asked his terms; Cooke said 5 cents a graft to insure, or 3 cents each, cash, and take your chance, says Michigan Farmer. Murdock said, go on; and Cooke grafted thirty-four trees, putting on, so he said, 3,400 grafts, at 3 cents each, $102. Murdock was staggered, but paid $20 on account, and then got some expert evidence, this evidence being that from 600 to 800 grafts were all that should have been put in. He therefore, when sued, paid $5 more into court, making $25 with the sum previously paid Cooke, and fought it out. At the trial an armful of limbs from the orchard was brought into court, and it was shown that grafts had been put in decaying and broken limbs, and, in fact, everywhere a graft would stick, more for the purpose, as the judge said in dismissing the action, of running up a bill than for giving the best results in fruit. The judge said that the $25 which Murdock had paid was enough, and dismissed the action with costs.

Expenditures for Agriculture.
Farm News: The following table, compiled by the British government shows the sum total and the amount per capita expended by various countries for the advancement of agriculture. While the United States heads the list in amount spent, the sum per capita is far below that of many lesser nations. Expenditures for agricultural purposes:

Country.	Sum voted annually	Rate per inhabitant.
United States	£2,000,000	8d
France	1,870,000	12d
Hungary	1,700,000	23d
Austria	950,000	10d
Prussia	680,000	5d
Italy	320,000	3d
Switzerland	150,000	12d
Belgium	112,000	4d
Denmark	108,000	12d
Bavaria	92,000	5d
Wurtemberg	65,000	8d
Holland	56,000	3d

It will be noticed in the above that England appropriates nothing.
Inspecting Nursery Stock.—State Entomologist Johnson of Maryland, says the Baltimore American, is inspecting the nurseries of the State, 32 in number, with over 5,000,000 trees, under the new law guarding against diseases and insects. About 2,900,000 trees and vines have been inspected, certificates given, and the work will be completed about Oct. 1. On the whole, nursery stock is in prime condition. San Jose scale was located in three nurseries, but believed to be completely destroyed. In two instances about 3,000 fruit trees near by, infested with the pest, were dug up and burned. All trees in neighboring blocks were treated with hydrocyanic acid as soon as dug. Opposition to this work, at first shown by some nurserymen, is now disappearing.—Ex.

Enemies of Plant Lice.
Plant lice, like most insects, have certain natural enemies that tend to keep them in check. Prominent among these are the parasitic and predaceous insects. The former are very minute creatures, resembling wasps, which usually lay their eggs upon the lice. These eggs hatch into small maggots, which enter the bodies of the lice, where they feed upon the body juices until they are full grown. They then transform to pupae within the body of their host, from which they finally emerge by cutting a round hole through the body of the louse. Close examination of a colony of most any louse will reveal several yellowish or brownish remains of individuals which have succumbed to parasitism. The predaceous insects live by actually feeding upon the lice. The ladybirds or ladybugs are, by far, the most important factors in the destruction of plant lice, as both the adults and young feed ravenously upon them. There is a notion prevalent in some parts of the state that ladybirds, in some way or other, produce plant lice. Natural laws will not permit such a state of affairs. Like beetles like in the insect world just as persistently as it does in the higher animals. The progeny of a ladybird is always a ladybird like the parent insect. The young of the ladybird, however, looks very different from the adult. In fact, the young of some species resemble minute alligators in general appearance, and are gally colored. They feed almost entirely upon soft bodied insects. Among other insects that feed upon plant lice, the young of the Syrphus fly must be mentioned here. In nearly every colony of lice these little slug-like worms or larvae can be seen. They move about, raising their heads high in the air, and striking here and there. Whenever an unlucky louse is touched it is seized, held aloft until its juices have been sucked out, when its empty skin is cast aside, and the worm seeks others.

Michigan Fruit Growers Organize.
The fruit-growers at Pentwater, Mich., have taken the initiative step to protect their interests in the way of handling fruits. A stock company has been organized with a capital of $5,000, the management to make contracts with strictly reliable dealers in such a way as to protect the growers. A detective service is contemplated to investigate all complaints of unfair treatment of shippers and cause for complaints by the commission dealers against the farmers for any sharp or underhand practice on the part of the shipper. To make the work of the company effective, farmers are being organized into local unions. The local unions report the names of their members to the company and pay over a membership fee of one dollar each. The secretary of the local union ascertains the number of acres and condition of the different kinds of fruit to be shipped. All these facts will be recorded by the company's secretary, who will designate the markets to which shipments should be made from each local union, so that none shall go to an over-stocked market. The company is determined to secure the best prices possible for union members, who are to pay one dollar each every three months to the company, in order to continue its beneficiaries. Several strong local unions have been organized in Mason and Oceana counties.—Michigan Fruit Grower.

AN OLD BLUE JACKET.
LORD BERESFORD LONG IN THE BRITISH NAVY.
Is a Brave Officer and one of the Most Popular Men in the Service—Just Promoted to Highest Rank of the Admiralty.
LORD CHARLES BERESFORD, to be raised to the rank of rear admiral in the British navy, has been associated with the British blue jacket since he was 11 years of age. That was in 1859. The young nobleman was advanced rapidly. He became a lieutenant in 1868 and a commander in 1875. He served in a dozen or so of the big warships of the queen. It is not too much to say Lord Beresford is the most popular man in the navy. His personal bravery has challenged admiration from all hands. He has the gold medal of the Royal Humane society for having on three occasions jumped into the sea to save the lives of others at the risk of his own. At the bombardment of Alexandria Beresford distinguished himself by the most gallant conduct. This engagement required the taking of tremendous odds, but the commander never hesitated to plunge into the danger, and his splendid commandship carried him safely and honorably through. His work in the Egyptian expedition as naval aid to Wolseley was of the first order. For some years in the past Lord Beresford has devoted his spare time to a campaign in favor of the navy. His work here lay in the reformation of the red tape system of

will be hung and that that will end the trouble. Mr. Williams is a prohibitionist in politics. He prophesies that the liquor evils will be totally annihilated along with other evils before the year named.

OBSTACLES TO REFORM.
Even in a Little Matter Like This There Is Difficulty.
A short time ago an order went into operation upon the Boston street railways requiring conductors to address feminine passengers as "madame." The always cheerful Chatterer of the Boston Herald tells us that, in pursuance of the order, the conductor is trying very hard to cure himself of his habit of calling his feminine passengers "lady" and "Mrs. Lady," but he has not as yet hit upon a uniform method of addressing them, and, in his indecision, has resort to "hi say," "missis" and "ma'am," but he will doubtless settle upon the right thing eventually. The other day, on a Huntington avenue car, a conductor, who had evidently given much attention to the subject, won special distinction for himself by the use of the word "madame" in this regard. But there is no rose without a thorn. Among his passengers was a colored girl, who carried a large bundle, doubtless the week's wash of some patron. She asked him to stop at a certain street, and when the car arrived there he said to the gentle Afro-American, "This is your street, madame." She at once gave him an angry look, and said with marked asperity, "Who's yer callin' madame? Watcher mean by insultin' me? I'd have you to know I'm a lady, I am." With which she hustled indignantly to the street. The conductor looked perplexed, and, as he rung the bell with a vicious jerk, he sentimentally observed, "She ain't no lady, anyhow, even if she ain't a madame." It is hard to please everybody.

R. S. Alspach, a Chicago mail clerk, is under arrest for robbing the mails. His excuse is that he could not live on his salary—$400 a year—and had to steal.
H. Hirschberger, of Annawan, says that pearls have been found in the Green river, in Henry county, Ill., for some years past to the amount of $1,000 at least annually.
Mrs. Valiska Smith, 78 Wade street, Chicago, danced herself to death Saturday night at 263 North Green street. In the midst of a waltz she suddenly fell to the floor dead.
Governor Tanner will receive a committee to discuss the question of a special session of the legislature this week. It is understood that Martin B. Madden has consented to withdraw his opposition to the reappointment, in the event of a special session, and that this is the reason the governor is willing to consider the issuing of a call.

Mattoon.—Alderman Edward C. Craig of this city was brutally beaten Saturday afternoon by a Charleston policeman, and as a result has permanently lost the sight of one eye. He was sitting in a buggy in front of a store when the policeman came along and ordered him to move on. He said he would as soon as his friend came out. At this the officer dragged him from his buggy and brutally pounded him with his club.
Cairo.—There is no further developments in yellow fever here. One man who was put off the steamer Oakland direct from New Orleans, sick, notwithstanding the so-called quarantine by the state board of health, was sent back by the city authorities by rail. The two cases diagnosed by Dr. Guiteras as mild cases of convalescing, non-infectious yellow fever are nearly ready to leave the hospital. One suspect case at St. Mary's infirmary, diagnosed as the same by Dr. Guiteras, was examined by two expert Kentucky physicians, who pronounced the disease malarial fever.

Canton.—The laymen's association of the central Illinois conference adopted resolutions declaring it to be the sense of the association that the time limit of a pastorate be continued at the five-year limit; that a national convention of the Methodist laity of the United States be called not later than October, 1898. Hon. Charles Piper, of Chicago, proposed the following platform for the laymen's organization: First, no decrease in ministerial representation; second, equal lay representation; third, increased solidarity in church relations; fourth, closer union in the business and benevolent enterprises of the church.
Naperville.—The annual Wheatland plowing match took place Saturday on the farm of David Fry, eight miles south of this city. About 6,000 persons were present. The number of competitors was larger than in former years. Those taking first premiums were: Ben Thomas, Fred Thompson, William Fairweather, Arthur Hobert and Milton Elchelberger. The flying premium, a silver cup, was won by William Fairweather for the third time, and now becomes his property. The sweepstakes premium went to Alvin Stark. In the women's fair exhibits of handwork, pastry, etc., were displayed. Miss Clara Bomberger received the first prize on the best loaf of bread.
Danville.—The Liquor Dealers' convention was held in the Grand opera house. Secretary Fitzgerald read his report, in which he said: "The late political campaign paralyzed the saloon business, and in the year just passed some of the oldest and most respected saloonkeepers in all parts of the state were placed in dire straits. Out of 6,200 saloons in Chicago, 1,500 have gone out of business on account of hard times, and the association has lost 500 members in consequence. The time has come when all wholesale liquor dealers and brewers should join the association and not stand idly by and see their fellow-merchants who handle their goods suffer. Two thousand places in Chicago—restaurants, hotels, and department stores—sell liquors without any city license, taking out only government licenses, and this matter should be looked after."

AN OLD BLUE JACKET.

LORD BERESFORD LONG IN THE BRITISH NAVY.

Is a Brave Officer and one of the Most Popular Men in the Service—Just Promoted to Highest Rank of the Admiralty.

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD, to be raised to the rank of rear admiral in the British navy, has been associated with the British blue jacket since he was 11 years of age. That was in 1859. The young nobleman was advanced rapidly. He became a lieutenant in 1868 and a commander in 1875. He served in a dozen or so of the big warships of the queen. It is not too much to say Lord Beresford is the most popular man in the navy. His personal bravery has challenged admiration from all hands. He has the gold medal of the Royal Humane society for having on three occasions jumped into the sea to save the lives of others at the risk of his own. At the bombardment of Alexandria Beresford distinguished himself by the most gallant conduct. This engagement required the taking of tremendous odds, but the commander never hesitated to plunge into the danger, and his splendid commandship carried him safely and honorably through. His work in the Egyptian expedition as naval aid to Wolseley was of the first order. For some years in the past Lord Beresford has devoted his spare time to a campaign in favor of the navy. His work here lay in the reformation of the red tape system of

will be hung and that that will end the trouble. Mr. Williams is a prohibitionist in politics. He prophesies that the liquor evils will be totally annihilated along with other evils before the year named.

Here is a picture of Theophilus Williams, the noted Chicago seer, who has just written a book on coming events in our national life. Mr. Williams

THEOPHILUS WILLIAMS, PROPHET takes an optimistic view of the future. He says that there will be no revolution, nor anything of that kind except along socialistic lines. He says that 1912 will see all difficulties between capital and labor settled. In the meantime extremists on both sides will, according to Mr. Williams, try to force a revolution, but the heavy hand of the law will reach them. He is of the opinion that many leaders on both sides

A Traveling Nursery on Fast Trains.
Now comes the traveling nursery to take its place alongside the barber shop, bathroom, etc., on our fast trains. The traveling nursery is to take up about the same amount of space as the private staterooms of the ordinary sleeping car. There will be a saving of space of several feet, however, as the wide seats on the sides of the stateroom below the berths are not needed in the nursery, being replaced by ottomans and tiny easy chairs scattered over the floor. In this way any danger from sudden starts or sharp curves is obviated. As a further protection against injury to the little ones, the walls of the nursery are heavily padded and the floor thickly carpeted, so that bumps and bruises will be altogether avoided. At each end of the compartment firmly secured are two cosy cots, on which the smaller children lie and watch the games of the older ones. Each car containing the nursery attachment will carry a matron or nurse who will be selected with a special reference to her ability to amuse and care for her little charges, and she will have at hand supplies of milk, cookies and other edibles and drinkables dear to the infantile heart. She will also have charge of a medicine chest, containing a full assortment of the simpler remedies for childish ailments. A miniature toy shop is another adjunct of the traveling nursery, and it will contain everything from baby rattles to picture books and fairy tales. Nothing, in short, will be missing that would add to the comfort or amusement of the young travelers.

To show the high esteem in which Thos. FitzSimmons is held by his brother engineers of the Wisconsin division of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, and as an expression of their kindly feeling toward him, a handsome purse was made up by them and presented yesterday.

There was a ball game in Barrington Saturday. The opposing nines were the Chicago Unions (colored) and the local Unions. About 200 people paid admission to see the game, and about as many more viewed it from the railroad track, streets, trees, etc. The score ran up to such a figure that the reporter's score card was not large enough to keep track of the tallies. It is sufficient to say that the Chicago Unions won the game, and there was no "kicking" about it, either.

Harry Koelling met with a painful accident Friday of last week. He was riding a newly shod horse to his home on North Hawley street, when a dog ran out and attacked the horse's hind leg, causing him to throw Harry over his head, and stepping on his right wrist, and also injuring one of his fingers. In consequence Harry is suffering intense pain.

There will be a foot ball game on Nason's grounds, Palatine, at 3 o'clock this afternoon between the Palatines and the N. W. Division high school teams.

A Rare Musical Treat.

The spacious M. E. church building was well filled Saturday evening by an audience that was demonstrative to a marked degree.

The occasion was the concert given by the Apollo Zither Kranz of Chicago, under the able management of Director Fischer.

A large number of guests from the surrounding towns were in attendance.

"Vereins Gruss," the opening number, a march by F. Ringler, and played by the Apollo Zither Kranz, elicited a goodly amount of applause.

Next on the program was a duet by B. Burda entitled "Ein Abend am Alpensee." This selection was executed by Prof. O. Fischer and daughter, Miss Alina. The selection was played in such a pleasing and able manner that it called forth a round of applause from the pleasant audience that must have been very gratifying to these artists.

A gavotte by F. Ringler—"Blau Veilchen"—was very pleasingly executed by the Apollo Zither Kranz.

Misses Droge, Aschenbrenner and Schwarz scored a triumph in the rendition of J. Lang's concert polka entitled "Maiglockerl."

F. Lohr's solo, "Veilchen Erwachen," was so ably produced by Miss A. Thinger that the audience insisted on her favoring them with another selection.

The Zither Kranz' rendition of B. Fritz' salonstueck, "Heinzelmantchen," called for an encore.

The solo by Prof. O. Fischer, "Stilles Glueck," by O. Messner, was justly encored. Miss A. Thinger played the accompaniment.

"The Darkey's Courtship," composed by J. Thome, and executed by the Zither Kranz, was fine and highly appreciated. F. Haessner's selection for quartet entitled "Viellieben" was rendered in an especially pleasing manner. Misses Witt and Umenhofer and Messrs. Williams and Lathomas were the artists.

The last number on the program, "Concert im Walde," by J. Hauser, was so ably and pleasingly executed that at its conclusion the audience, instead of leaving for home, insisted on another selection, which was as liberally applauded.

The concert must be classed as a success, both from a musical and financial standpoint. It was a treat that

REV. RAHN RESIGNS.

The Popular and Able Divine of St. Paul's Church Gives His Large Congregation a Surprise.

A bolt of lightning from a clear sky could not have surprised the members of St. Paul's congregation more than they were last Sunday, when their pastor, E. Rahn, informed them at the morning service that he desired to resign the pastorate of St. Paul's church, a position which he has filled continuously for fourteen years.

In June, 1883, Rev. E. Rahn came to Barrington from Ontarioville. The church had at that time only 57 families in their congregation. Today 74 families are active members, and in addition 45 families, not members of the congregation, attend services and contribute towards the support of the church.

Two years ago Pastor Rahn organized the Jugendverein, a society for the young people of his church, and at the present time 73 names are enrolled on the society's roster. He was elected its first president, and has filled that office ever since. Rev. Rahn organized churches at Cary, Nunda and Des Plaines, while here. An elegant new parsonage was constructed here during Rev. Rahn's pastorate. He is president of the Plum Grove pastoral conference, an organization of ministers which represents eighteen churches. He is also a member of the Missionary committee of the state district.

Rev. Rahn has already received several calls from different churches, the field of one of which he will look over tomorrow; and in consequence no services will be held at St. Paul's church here tomorrow. Among the calls he has received is one from a flourishing church in Chicago, and one from Peru.

The resignation of a pastor of that denomination must be presented three months in advance, which will assure St. Paul's congregation the services of Rev. Rahn until some time in December, if the strong efforts made by the members of the congregation to persuade him to reconsider his resignation should fail, while it is possible the board of trustees may refuse to accept his resignation.

When seen Thursday evening and asked his reason for resigning, Rev. Rahn said: "I have only the highest regard for the members of my congregation. I resigned for a personal reason only; it is business of a private nature that induced me to take this course; There is no trouble between myself and the members or the trustees of the church. The members have always contributed liberally towards the support of the church."
