John Pettis, Deceased.

John Pettis was born at North Adams, Mass., the 20th day of September, 1822, and died at his home in Barrington township, Aug. 5, 1898, being 75 years, 10 months and 15 days of age at the time of his death.

He leaves no widow to mourn his departure, as his wife journeyed forward to her "long home" about two years before her husband.

When a boy of about 12 years of age he came to Barrington with some others from the state of Massachusetts, and with the exception of a few years, always made his home in this vicinity. He was one of the old settlers of the township.

The deceased leaves behind to mourn his departure four sons and three daughters, C. W., of Deerfield; Frank, of Elgin; William, of Pettis, Iowa; George, of Barrington; Mrs. Laura Cannon, of Nunda; Mrs. West, of Elgin; and one sister, Mrs. Jones, of Earlville, N. Y., besides a host of acquaintances and friends.

The funeral services were held last Sunday afternoon at the Barrington Center M. E. church, Rev. T. E. Ream, of this place, officiating.

GREAT INTEREST IS TAKEN.

The Mass Meeting Thursday Evening for the Purpose of Securing Inducements for a College to Locate at Barrington is Well Attended.

The mass meeting, which was called for Thursday evening for the purpose of securing the location of the United Evangelical College at or near Barrington, was called to order in the village hall by President Boehmer, who was elected permanent chairman, with H. K. Brockway as secretary.

After President Boehmer had made a few introductory remarks, Rev. Canton, Mr. Haines, Rev. Schneider and Prof. Rassweiler made addresses and explained the objects of the meeting, the benefits accruing to a town by having a good college located in its midst, and what our citizens would be requested to do in return for the location of the college in their midst.

The following is the proposition the Board of Education of the United Evangelical church made:

1. The college shall be managed and controlled by the Illinois Conference, and other conferences of said church that may unite with the Illinois Conference in this enterprise.

2. Although the college shall be owned and controlled by the Illinois Conference of the United Evangelical church, it shall not be a sectarian institution, and all students, regardless of denominational or non-denominational connection, shall be free to enjoy the privilege of the college.

3. It is our purpose to establish, as soon as possible, a theological department separate from the regular college course, which we hope will develop in due time into a separate divinity school.

4. We shall expect in consideration of the location of the college in or adjacent to any community:

That at least five acres of land be donated for a college site.

That at least ten thousand ($10,000) dollars in cash shall be secured and deposited with the treasurer of the Board of Education of this Conference, for the erection of a college building, which shall cost not less than twenty thousand dollars.

That enough real estate in close proximity to the college site be secured to the Board, so that the proceeds of the sale of said real estate shall yield to the college a net profit of at least ten thousand dollars toward the erection of the building, and fifty thousand dollars toward an endowment fund.

The erection of the building shall be commenced as soon as these conditions are complied with.

The Board of Education is herewith empowered and instructed to select a suitable location for the college.

FINANCIAL PLAN FOR RAISING AN ENDOWMENT FUND.

The Conference also adopted a practicable plan for the securing of an endowment fund of one hundred thousand dollars, apart from the proceeds from real estate.

This plan was put into the hands of the financial agent for operation.

Prof. Smith, Revs. Hageman and Wenzel, Drs. Kendall and Richardson, M. B. McIntosh and C. F. Myer were called on to give their views. They one and all thought it a good thing, and pledged their support. C. F. Meyer made the shortest speech; he said: "I am in favor of it, and will talk for it and contribute financially."

The meeting then empowered the chairman to appoint a committee of twenty to solicit subscriptions. The following committee was named:

Wm. Waterman, J. L. Meiners, Dr. Richardson, G. Heimerdinger, M. B. McIntosh, H. A. Harnden, E. A. Schade, Aug. Boehmer, S. R. Kirby, George Hager, Dr. Kendall, H. K. Brockway, H. J. Lageschulte, Rev. H. Meier, A. W. Meyer, C. F. Meyer, J. C. Plage, G. H. Comstock, F. A. Wolthausen, D. F. Lamey, F. H. Frye, and on motion President Boehmer was selected as chairman of the committee.

The pastors of the various churches are to act with the committee.

The committee has the power to call a meeting at any time when they deem it necessary.

It was a meeting of representative Barringtonians—men of stability and wealth, with a liberal sprinkling of business men, and the committee appointed is of the kind that can accomplish the task set out for them.

A college of this character is of incalculable value to a town, and our citizens should exert themselves to secure it.

We heartily concur in what Rev. Frank Bristol, of Washington, D. C., said:

"Do you look toward Manila and Santiago and say superior guns did the business. I say superior men stood behind the guns, superior schools stood behind the men, the superior religion stood behind the schools, and God, the Supreme, stood behind the religion."

BRAVE CUBAN GIRL.

HOW LITTLE IZORA WARNED GOMEZ OF AN AMBUSH.

Part Played by a Stubborn Don Who Persisted in Having His Own Way at Whatever Cost—Breakneck Flight Over Rough Roads.

It was a small and humble cabin with a roof made of palm leaves. It stood beneath some great overhanging shade trees, and was surrounded by tropical flowers, while a small brook made music the live-long day as it rushed past a few feet from the window, jumping over rocks and great gnarled roots, singing its merry song. So beautiful a spot made one wish that he were a humble Cuban, living in this Eden. But to make the picture more complete and homelike, a little child about 8 years of age sat in a swing that was suspended from the limb of a large tree, and as she gently swayed her silvery voice rang out in laughter, as a small dog chased back and forth at her feet.

As we hesitate and finally stop to drink our fill of the tropical beauty of this humble home, a man comes to the door, and speaks to the child, saying:

"Izora, will you go and find old Don for papa?"

"Yes, papa," cries the child in a delighted voice, and without waiting for the swing to stop she sprang to the ground and ran up the road, the dog running after her, barking and pulling at her skirt. Old Don was a mule and there was nothing that little Izora enjoyed more than to go and find him for her father, for it gave her an opportunity to have a ride. Sometimes he wandered far from home, but she did not mind that, as she was acquainted with every road and bypath for miles around. She met a man on horseback, and stopping him she asked if he had seen old Don.

"Yes," said the man. "He was drinking at the spring at the foot of the hill as I passed."

Izora knew the place well, and thanking the man, she whistled to her dog and again started on her journey. About a quarter of a mile from the spring, when turning a bend in the road, she saw a man coming toward her dressed in the uniform of a Spanish soldier. Quick as a flash she darted in among the brush by the side of the road, followed by her dog, and as the soldier happened to be looking in another direction he did not see her. She crept

"Can it be possible that we are going to get him at last?"

As Izora heard these words, in her surprise and horror she almost sprang to her feet. She had heard her people talk so much about the war and how he and his little band of patriots were struggling to free Cuba from the tyranny of the Spaniards. Now, as she heard the plan to massacre Gomez and his men, it made the cold chills run over her, and her heart thumped and pounded until it seemed to her that the men in the road must hear it. Holding the dog under her arm, she slowly and carefully crawled through the brush. Her whole heart filled with one great desire to reach Gen. Gomez and warn him of the danger into which he was marching. Finally, after she had gotten a few yards away, she released the dog, who still, intent on play, nipped at her heels and gave a sharp bark. She seized him and again held him so that he could not make a noise, and then listened.

Suddenly she heard the officer, in a low, sharp voice, hiss out the word "spy," and then heard them coming through the brush toward her. Her heart gave a great bound, and seemed to lodge way up in her throat, and she moaned, "Oh, what shall I do?"

She had heard enough of the Spaniards to know that if they suspected their conversation had been overheard, though but a child, they would not hesitate to kill her. She stood silent and still, almost paralyzed with fear, but as the men almost reached her, she was aroused to activity by the loud braying of a mule, a few rods up the road. It was old Don on his way home. When she heard his familiar bray hope sprang up within her heart. If she could only reach her faithful old friend she believed that she could yet save General Gomez. Old Don was a long only about three or four rods away, but with the nimbleness of a squirrel she climbed on old Don's back and tried to push his head around with her hand to turn him up the road; but with mulish stubbornness he persisted in standing and looking at the oncoming scout. When not more than a couple of rods away, with a curse, the scout raised his revolver and fired. The ball pierced one of old Don's ears, and with a wild snort the animal tossed his head in the air, whirled on his hind feet and ran like the wind, leaving such a cloud of dust behind that it was impossible for the scout to shoot with accuracy at either mule or rider. While the scout stood in the road, cursing his luck, there was a loud clatter of horse's feet, and the next instant the officer, mounted on his powerful horse, dashed past him in pursuit of the flying mule and the child. Old Don was not only scared by the noise, but he thought he was going to add another to the long list of races he had run. He strained every muscle in his body, and though the feet of the officer gained upon him, it was too slow at first to be perceptible. A couple of miles they clattered on over the rough road, the officer's horse slowly but surely gaining on the mule, when turning a sharp bend in the road old Don found himself face to face with General Gomez's army. In his surprise he stopped as suddenly as he had started, and little Izora went on over his head, landing in the dust. The mule stood with his feet braced and his ears tipped forward, a perfect picture of stubbornness; and curiosity shone from his eyes, as if he was trying to decide whether this was friend or foe.

The next instant, as the Spanish officer came riding around the bend in the road, a dozen rifle shots rang out upon the air and both horse and rider fell to the earth to rise no more.

General Gomez's soldiers picked up little Izora, and when she told her story the General took her up in his arms and kissed her again and again, and tears dropped from his eyes.

"Even the babes of Cuba are patriotic," he said. THEODORE BLAUNT.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

A Paris paper of recent date presents its readers with a collection of opinions by certain French women of letters on the eternal man and woman question. The French writers have been accused of hardness, and even animosity, toward men. "One of them replies that she paints men in her novels as she finds them, and that there are plenty of bad men in the world. Another points out that women, no longer kept in ignorance, observe, learn and mark. The old illusions are gone; the old sentiment no longer exists; the unmarried women not only know what men do, learn and practice; they themselves have descended into the arena; they are the competitors of men; often they are victorious rivals. Thus the old respect for a superior intellect has been destroyed. A third declares that the old-fashioned love, in which two sought to become one, is no longer possible; the old glory and joy of suffering for love's sake, of making sacrifices for love, has entirely vanished. A fourth says that the conflict of the sexes is not real, but only pretended; that the law of nature makes them necessary to each other, and she prophesies that so long as man can preserve the appearance of superiority he will be satisfied, while the reality will belong to woman.

"Adam," says one, very sagaciously, "would not have tasted that apple if Eve had climbed the tree in order to pick it for him. It must always be the man who picks the fruit." This is a very pretty illustration, not only of the point at issue, but also of the profound acquaintance which the writer possesses of ritual history, because, if you remember, it was Eve, and not Adam, who picked that apple. A fifth writer very severely points out that women can now read; that they used this accomplishment for the purpose of proving the cruelties, the falsehood, the wickedness, the stupidities of men, their lawmakers, and they ask whether man is more intelligent, more virtuous, wiser than women. One more extracts, "The reign," says another reformer, "of emancipated woman is certainly the end of man's love, for the essential element of man's love is that of protection."

Remark that all this talk of emancipated woman goes on without touching in the least degree the lives or the opinions of the great mass, comments Sir Walter Beant. The millions go on marrying and being married. They go on believing that they love each other in the most absurdly old-fashioned and ridiculous manner. The girls may have found out how wicked, stupid, cruel, vile, villainous, foolish, short-sighted, weak, ignorant, selfish, greedy, avaricious, dishonest all men are—does not history clearly prove it?—but every one knows exceptions. They are not in the least angry with men, or desirous of turning everything upside-down; they want no revolution.

Spain has sent to Cuba 1,000 tons of medicines, etc., in three years.

IN PURSUIT OF THE FLYING MULE AND CHILD.

through the brush, three or four rods from the road, and sat down, taking the dog in her lap, she held his nose with one hand so that he could not bark, and in whispers commanded him to keep quiet. While trying to still the beating of her heart, she heard the footsteps of the soldier, and at the same time the clatter of horse's feet coming from another direction. The rider of the horse and the soldier met close to her hiding place and stopped to talk. She looked out through the brush and saw that the man on the horse was also a Spaniard, and evidently an officer. The officer said to the soldier, who was a scout:

"Are they coming?"

"Yes," answered the scout; "they have broken camp and are marching down this way."

"Good," said the officer. "We have the ambush laid, and if they march between our lines we will literally riddle them. If one gets away he will do well. Did you find out who was in command?"

"Yes," replied the scout. "It is that old fox, Gomez, himself."

"Gomez!" exclaimed the officer.

eared, raw-boned old mule, but he had run races in the neighborhood, and had beaten them all. If she could only reach him and get on his back. She dropped the dog and ran through the brush, while the scout in hot pursuit, while the officer, who could not run his horse through the thick brush, turned back toward the road.

Izora was an active child, and it was only a few rods to old Don. She reached the road and darted out by the side of the mule, who, being startled by her sudden appearance, turned and fled up the road. But she ran on, crying out: "Don, Don; good old Don, wait for Izora." The old mule recognized the voice of his little friend, and stopping, turned around and stood with his big ears tipped forward, apparently trying to collect his shattered thoughts and grasp the situation. As he saw the child running towards him with the dog at her heels, the scout only a few rods behind, cursing and swearing, and threatening to shoot her if she did not stop, he seemed to realize that some danger threatened the child and started on a trot to meet her. When Izora reached the mule the scout was

The Barrington Review

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

M. T. LAMEY, Ed. and Pub.

Entered at the postoffice at Barrington, Ill., as second-class matter.

SATURDAY, AUG. 13, 1898.

Tweedledum and Tweedledee.

Since the beginning of the war up to the time of the operations which closed the Santiago incident a change came over the foreign spirit in its way of viewing American character and affairs. We must take the definition of that spirit from the tone of the daily and weekly journals, assuming that these organs fairly embody the drift of public sentiment. The French papers, with the exception of one, the Debats, uniformly took their cue at first from the childish diatribes of the French press. Coarseness and violence of invective, far alien to the usual Gallic esprit and lightness of touch which often make even thinness of substance sparkle, marked all their utterances. Had we been at war with France itself there could not have been exhibited more petulance and ill temper. But as the logic of events shaped things more clearly there was a marvelous difference in these ebullitions, not that the inner spirit of hostility was less pervasive, but style and phrase indicated that a profound respect had begun to dignify the feeling toward the United States. Manifestation of American sagacity, energy and power—above all, realization of the enormous resources of this country—had driven home conviction like a wedge into the heart of the oak. The evolution in the German press was different in this, that it had recognized from the first what the end was sure to be. But the earlier dicta of the Teutonic "able editor" were still somewhat contemptuous in tone, indicating that there would be a swift shortening of the American tether when Europe took the matter in hand. Finally German polysyllables no longer thundered with this vague threat, for the end grew near and lightning had not shot from the bosom of the cloud.

The most amusing instance of a new point of view, however, has been that of the London Saturday Review. This was one of the few English papers which at the outset found no abuse and satire too severe with which to load its weekly gun. One of the latest expressions of opinion reads as follows: "The weary Titan that Matthew Arnold spoke of, with every muscle strained by the weight of empire, challenged on this side and on that by new competitors, menaced now and then by a combination of envious enemies, suddenly finds standing by his side a stalwart son, who, though he has his own place in the world and his own ambitions, yet seems inclined to say that the old Titan shall always have at least a fair field and perhaps, if the worst comes to the worst, some little favor. And that is the way we Britons feel about America."

It gives one the headache to realize such a marvelous somersault. It is an acrobatic feat almost without peer.

The attitude of Russia toward the United States is that of traditional friendship. Since that critical time when a Russian fleet lay in New York harbor under sealed orders, which have since been revealed to be co-operation with us in case of any attempt to smash the southern blockade, nothing has disturbed a cordial harmony. We do not clash in any possibility of Asiatic developments with Russia. There is not even a shadow of contention between the two, so far as one can see, in posse or in esse. Russian expansion of commerce and power in northern Asia has a zone widely apart from any which we could possibly wish to occupy as a competitor. Any theory of Russian alliance with other continental powers in putting the screws on the United States in a contingency which has been discussed is too vague to be seriously considered.

The new ruling of the postoffice department refusing to reforward second, third and fourth class mail matter, except extra postage is prepaid, carries with it many inconveniences. Yet it was the abuse of the privileges relating to these classes of postal matter which mainly caused a deficit in the annual report. So the individual must stand it for the public good.

The "fake" interviews with Admiral Cervera sent broadcast through the land would have stamped him as a garrulous old woman in uniform instead of a proud and gallant gentleman heart-broken over the misfortune of war. They have made hotter war on his dignity and reputation than did Schley's guns.

The Worth of a Child's Life.

The Rhadamanthus of a New Jersey court, Judge Gummere, has been made the target of widespread criticism, not to say attack, on account of the charge he gave in a recent litigation. The case was a trial for damages against a railway company, and the matter at issue was the valuation of a child's life. The judge declared to the jury that, according to the law, damages could only be assessed on the basis of the actual financial damage the loss of the child had been to the father, not on any punitive grounds nor yet by any sentimental measure. Of course there can be no absolute justice in such a case, and the best possible is only a proximate rule. Many children remain expense to their parents rather than advantage, viewed as a matter of arithmetic. Even in the case of working children the ameliorated factory laws have greatly reduced the financial aid which they give to the family. In the affair referred to Judge Gummere decided that the jurors would be justified in valuing that assistance at $1.

The torrent of popular animadversion appears to have been misdirected. It should have been aimed against the law, not the interpreter; the legislature, not the judge. If such matters are made questions of court assessment, sentiment must be completely banished from any consideration in balancing the scales of justice. From the standpoint of sentiment no money damages could possibly compensate a parent. Wounds to the affections, amounting sometimes almost to heartbreak, cannot be measured in terms of gold and silver. In going to any court for compensation the parent deliberately puts himself out of the realm of emotion and sentiment and confesses that he remits for the advantage of the defendant any influences flowing from these powerful springs. When he chooses dollars and cents as the measure of value, he defines the sole basis from which the problem must be treated. This thought appears to have been confused in the minds of many who have been made indignant by the words of Judge Gummere's charge. It should not be stigmatized as the measure of the value of a child's life. It is the answer which the cold blooded law gives to those who seek to draw balm from it in a cold blooded way.

An Odd Situation.

The hostility of the English and Dutch in South Africa has bred many an interesting imbroglio, in some cases leading to battle and bloodshed. But the dilemma now agitating Cape politics, while it does not involve war with the Boer republic, is a queer complication, full of important consequences to the whole future of South Africa. It is not dissimilar in its elements to that political condition of suffrage power existing in America before the civil war which gave a preponderance to the south in congress for so many years by making the slave population the basis for an increased representation.

As things now stand in the Cape Colony it takes about half as many votes to elect a representative to parliament in a Dutch district as it does in an English district. When the division of seats was made, it was a fair one, but as the rural districts, where the Boers have the majority, have grown slowly and the towns and cities, where the English are ascendant, have advanced in wealth and population rapidly the just ratio has been completely upset. The Boers, who always vote against English interests and in sympathy with the wishes of their fellow Dutchmen in the neighboring republics, have so far fought successfully against a redistribution of seats. The forthcoming election will probably settle the question for the English side, but create a most passionate ill feeling, which may lead to dangerous consequences. The same anomaly as to distribution of political power exists even today in some of our own states in America. For instance, a rural hamlet in Vermont with seven voters sends as many representatives to the legislature as does Rutland or Montpelier, both goodly cities.

The study of forest preservation becomes a more serious problem in this country every year. It is only true in part that the natural increase provides for the devastation of the lumberman's ax. Thrusting aside all those serious questions touching climate, rainfall and riverine volume, which proceed from the denudation of our forest areas, let us glance for a moment on the problem of spruce supply. Cellulose, or wood pulp, which has become one of the most important of the crude manufactured products from its amazing adaptability to such a wide range of uses, is in the main made from the spruce, as other woods are far inferior for the purpose. Though spruce grows freely again, the demand for it is much greater than the natural supply. It is becoming more and more difficult to secure it at easily available points, and a quarter of a century will banish it to regions remote from transportation facilities. A similar fate has banished the soft pine from its old homes. Great as is the productive energy of this land in forest growth it will not be very many years before we shall be in a predicament like that of England, where lumber sells for more than double the prices of the American market. A judicious use of the science of forestry will be of the greatest value in regulating inordinate waste. It should be made a course in every scientific and agricultural school in the land.

Massachusetts has snubbed Canada. The Boston fathers have raked up a statute under which the Highland cadets can only join the coming Scottish gathering at the Hub by dispensing with broadsword and targe and musket. This is only tit for tat. A year or two since the Montreal authorities perpetrated a similar prohibition at the expense of a company of American militiamen.

Sarah Bernhardt is about to visit India at the invitation of a prominent native potentate, where she hopes to do some tiger hunting. Should "Stripes" become the hunter instead of the hunted, as he sometimes does, he will have a fatter tidbit than the divine Sarah would have proved when a French caricaturist dubbed a picture of the actress and her lapdog "A dog watching a bone."

The Rev. W. B. Costley of Stockbridge, Ga., while attending to his pastoral duties at Ellenwood, that state, was attacked by cholera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I think it was the means of saving my life. It relieved me at once." For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

Heirs of the former owners of Union park think that Chicago, instead of buying new parks should turn in and buy the old ones over again.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. Boggs, Stumpdown, Gilmer county, W. Va. For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

The parties who dispensed ice cream and confections at the Court of Honor picnic at Lake Zurich last Sunday disposed of a half barrel of ice cream.

The people who heretofore claimed they never heard of such an order as the Court of Honor must be pretty well convinced after last Sunday's picnic at Lake Zurich that such an order exists and that it is very popular. ## NEWS OF ILLINOIS.

MINOR HAPPENINGS THROUGH- OUT THE STATE.

Soldier Wins Her Love—Girl Who Promised to Marry a Would-be Suicide Changes Her Mind—Child's Body Exhumed—A Sinner Repents.

Soldier Wins Her Love.

Springfield: Absent and with the disadvantage of many miles between himself and his lady love, Harry Frank of the Seventh Illinois is still safe in the affections of Miss Bergen of this city. Last night Private Frank's Springfield rival, Louis McCollum, took a dose of laudanum because the young woman refused to marry him. Frightened by the melodramatic suffering of her Springfield admirer, Miss Bergen said that she would do anything Louis wanted her to if he would only get well, but now that Louis is well she has changed her mind. Today McCollum, who has experienced a most remarkable recovery, decided to take a trip out of town. He called at the Bergen residence to bid Miss Bergen good-by, but she was not at home to him. Her mother is authority for the statement that, now that her daughter is over the fright of last night, she wants nothing of the emotional young man who would die on such slight provocation as a refusal to marry, and who made such a fiasco of his attempt to get off the earth. She still prefers the prosaic brass buttons at Camp Alger.

Child's Body Is Exhumed.

Kankakee: Suspicion of foul play led the coroner and state's attorney to inquire into the death of Margaret Patterson, the 8-year-old daughter of a farmer of Irwin, in this county. The body had been buried here last Monday. When exhumed there was every indication that death had resulted from strangulation. James Patterson is a middle-aged widower with four children, the eldest 12 years of age. Some months ago he engaged as housekeeper Eliza Zimmerman. According to the neighbors the children have been inhumanly treated, whipped and compelled to spend hours in a cellar when its floor was covered with water a foot deep. Last Saturday night screams were heard coming from the house. The next day the little girl died. The father made the statement that she had been fatally injured in a fall downstairs. At the inquest Patterson and his housekeeper reiterated the story of the child's accidental death.

Saves Her Baby, but May Die.

Galesburg: Mrs. Henry Rusk of Rio is in a precarious condition and may die, because of having been kicked and beaten Sunday by her husband while she was trying to prevent him from whipping their child, 3 months old. The child was fretful and crying and Rusk got into an argument with his wife, claiming that whipping a baby was the best way to make it mind. He started to carry his theory into practice, when Mrs. Rusk interposed. This angered him, and, turning on her, he knocked her down and kicked her furiously. Neighbors heard her cries and interfered. Rusk fled. Rusk was caught at Gladstone this afternoon and lodged in jail here tonight.

Missionaries Elect Officers.

Eureka: The Illinois Christian missionary convention elected the following officers: President, J. H. Smart, Centralia; vice president, D. E. Hughes, Rushville; secretaries, S. H. Zandt, Dixon; A. A. Wilson, Lexington; members of state board, W. W. Weeden, Taylorville; E. Whitmer, Bloomington; J. H. Harbin, Eureka; trustee of permanent fund, J. W. Ross; trustees of student fund, R. A. Gilchrist, Eureka; J. P. McKnight, Peoria J. G. Waggoner, Eureka. This afternoon the subject of "Christian Education" was thoroughly discussed. Tonight J. A. Lord of Cincinnati spoke on "Our Educational Problem."

Colored Odd-Fellows' Election.

Bloomington: The colored Odd Fellows of Illinois adjourned their three days' convention here. They elected the following: D. G. M., D. J. Smith, Peoria; D. D. G., William Miller, Cairo; D. G. S., Charles S. Smith, Paris; D. G. T., Howard Bell, Chicago; D. G. D., Matthew Searles, Bloomington. Resolutions were adopted indorsing President McKinley and the prosecution of the Spanish war. Springfield was selected for the next meeting.

The "Skates" Had It.

Nashville: The populist congressional convention of the Twenty-first district was held here today. William F. Quermalz of East St. Louis was nominated, the only votes he failed to receive being those of Washington county, which the delegates refused to cast when they saw that the convention was in the hands of the "middle of the road" element.

Allen Bill Man Repents.

Carrollton: William V. Rhodes, democratic nominee for the legislature from Greene and Macoupin counties, who in the last legislature voted for the Allen bill, came out in a card today declaring his intention to vote for the repeal of this law if elected to the next general assembly.

HISTORY OF THE WAR.

Important Events Reviewed and Condensed Into Reliable Form for Our Readers.

Tuesday, August 2.
Reports come from Madrid and other European capitals that Spain has accepted the American terms and peace preliminaries are to be signed without delay. Americans in Puerto Rico advance to Coamo, twenty miles from Ponce on the San Juan road, and are received everywhere with joy. One of the transports of the third Manila expedition is reported to have fired two shots at a Japanese steamer July 29, and when the vessel stopped she was searched and allowed to proceed. Gen. Merritt has sent a message to Washington asking that his command be increased from 20,000 to 50,000 men. Washington officials have given orders for the abandonment of Camp Alger. The troops will be moved soon to Manassas, Va.—Sick soldiers are removed from the transport Concha to Swinburne Island, New York. The vessel's condition will be investigated.

The Madrid correspondent of the New York Journal says: "The government's reply to the American peace terms left here Monday evening. The government believes that the nature of the negotiations requires the greatest secrecy and that their success will depend upon the observance of the most absolute reserve here. Official silence therefore is complete."

The Gibraltar correspondent of the same paper, telegraphing Monday night, says:

"The censorship is daily becoming more severe, and little is known beyond the fact that peace is assured. It is understood that the note from America asks only part of the Philippines, and that, Senor Sagasta having replied that the terms will be accepted, hostilities are consequently suspended. A commission will be appointed to determine the basis of peace. The chief difficulty it is asserted in official circles, is as to the date and manner of the evacuation of the Spanish possessions.—There is also the question of the disposal of the war material in Cuba. Senor Sagasta, if he has a chance, will probably represent a restitution of the material as a diplomatic victory.—It has just been asserted here that the premier has succeeded in obtaining slightly improved terms. The treaty will not be signed before September." The Rome correspondent of the Journal says: "Spain, it is asserted here, has accepted the American terms, with unimportant reservations, and the peace preliminaries will be signed before Saturday."

Wednesday, Aug. 3.
Admiral Dewey and Gen. Merritt are said to have reported to President McKinley a doubt of their ability to control the insurgents at Manila and a massacre in that city is feared.—M. Cambon, the French ambassador, has had another conference with the president. While it is represented that Spain is willing to accept the general terms of peace, it is believed it has pleaded for modifications of more or less importance.—Gen. Miles now has 9,000 troops in Puerto Rico.—Ex-Spanish minister declares the coming of peace will be but the beginning of insurrections at Madrid.—Capt. Goodrich of the St. Louis takes Guayama and Arroyo, due south of San Juan, Puerto Rico.—Adj. Gen. Corbin selects the regiments for Gen. Wade's division to go to Puerto Rico.—All the cavalry in Shafter's army at Santiago and detachments at Tampa are ordered to proceed at once to Long Island for recuperation.—Secretary Alger admits after an investigation the untidiness of the Concho for transportation of sick soldiers and tells why.

The present stations and routes to be taken by Gen. Wade's command are as follows: First Alabama, First North Carolina and Second Texas at Jacksonville; will sail directly or from Fernandina. First Arkansas, First Maine, First New Hampshire, Third Tennessee, First Vermont, First West Virginia and Fifty-second Iowa at Chickamauga; will sail from Newport News. First Connecticut, Fourth Missouri, First New Jersey, First Rhode Island and Third Virginia, at Camp Alger, Va.; will go from Newport News. First Delaware, in Delaware; probably will sail from New York. First Maryland, at Fortress Monroe; will sail direct. Twenty-second New York, at Fort Slocum; will sail from New York. The Fifth Illinois is not in the list, but will sail with Wade's expedition, orders having been sent it last night. The general order dated Aug. 2, which designates the troops for Gen.

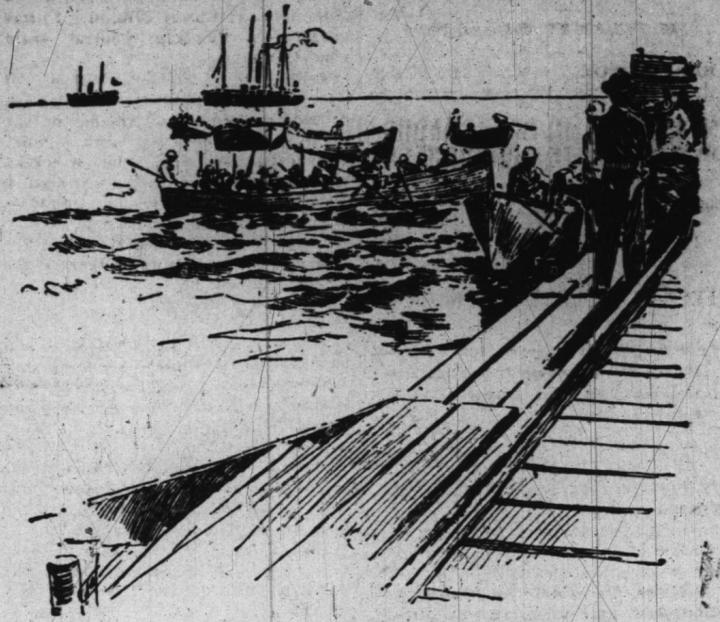

Wade says "these regiments will be organized into brigades as follows," and then continues: "First Brigade—First Rhode Island, Fourth Missouri, Twenty-second New York, Second Brigade—First North Carolina, First Alabama, First Arkansas, Third Brigade—First New Hampshire, First Vermont, Fifty-second Iowa, Fourth Brigade—First New Jersey, First West Virginia, Third Virginia, Fifth Brigade—Second Texas, First Connecticut, First Delaware, Sixth Brigade—First Maine, Third Tennessee, First Maryland. Maj. Gen. Wade, U. S. V., is, by direction of the secretary of war, assigned to command of those brigades and will conduct them to Puerto Rico. On his arrival there he will report to Maj. Gen. John R. Brooke, United States army, for duty with the forces under the immediate direction of the major-general commanding the army. These regiments are detached from the corps with which they are now serving for this campaign only, at the termination of which they will be returned to their respective corps. They will be accounted for on all returns as on detached service. On completion of this service Gen. Wade will resume command of the Third army corps. By order of the secretary of war, H. C. Corbin, Adjutant-General."

The time of Gen. Coppinger's departure from Tampa for Puerto Rico, according to the present plan of the war department, will be some day during the present week. Tampa has been decided on as the place of embarkation for the expedition, and a sufficient number of transports to carry the troops who will go with him are expected hourly at the port. Four of the regiments that have been ordered to go with him are there. They are the Fifth cavalry, Fifth infantry, Fifth Maryland and Second Georgia.

Gen. Roy Stone, who went to Adjuntas, where many outrages had been reported, reached there safely and is now returning. The location of the troops remains unchanged, awaiting news of the landing of Maj. Gen. Brooke at Arroyo, near Guayama, which is slow work. Thus far the efforts to float the transports Massachusetts to move the infantry inland among the Cuban hills, and incidental to the sudden change in plans is a rupture between the Secretary and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt of the rough riders. Dispatches now given to the public indicate that half the army at Santiago is sick and all of it in a debilitated condition. When Secretary Alger's order to move back into the hills was received General Shafter called a council of his officers, and they decided to remonstrate against the order, explaining that many more lives would be lost by disease unless the troops were moved promptly to a northern climate.

Colonel Roosevelt was a leader in the movement, and he drew up an earnest statement of the desperate conditions prevailing among the American soldiers, with urgent insistence that the yellow fever scare was bogus and should not be permitted to delay the withdrawal of the troops from the frightful conditions prevailing in the camps about Santiago. This statement purported to be a letter to General Shafter, and he promptly gave it to the press to be forwarded to the United States for publication. The general office of an appeal by the commanding officers rosin almost demanding the withdrawal of their men from Cuba on account of the prevalence of diseases among them. It is a remarkable procedure for American officers to join in a round-robin, but the situation at Santiago is exceptional, and the officers have been moved by pity for the sick and dying in their commands. For many days past the sick reports from the front have shown an average of more than 4,000 men in hospital out of a total force of 20,000 to 22,000. New cases each day number from 500 to 800. The mortality is small compared with the total number of patients, but in the aggregate the deaths are alarming and distressing. The sickness is mostly in the form of malarial fever, but the belief has gone out that it is yellow fever, and the officers apparently feel the troops are being subjected to the horrors of their camps because the President or authorities in the United States fear yellow fever infection if they come north. Their statements were intended in part to remove that misapprehension. General Shafter reported the unusual proceedings at the front, and President McKinley took prompt action to give relief. He sent for Secretary Alger, Colonel F. J. Hecker, Adjutant General Corbin and Assistant Secretary Allen of the navy department this morning, and set the machinery in motion to have the suffering soldiers north as quickly as possible. Secretary Alger when called on for an explanation said the cavalry at Santiago had already been ordered north and that one transport had in fact already sailed. He said it was planned to bring the other troops and 6 there were nine deaths in his command at Santiago.—The Rough Riders under command of Col. Roosevelt and the First regular cavalry sailed from Santiago for the United States.—A general advance of the American forces in Porto Rico was begun in the direction of San Juan, the starting point being Ponce.—Lieutenant Hobson expressed his belief that he will succeed in raising the Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon by means of air bags and pontoons.—Correspondence published by Secretary Long goes to show that Commodore Schley agreed with Admiral Sampson as to the danger of entering Santiago harbor as long as the mines were in position.—The tug Hudson has sunk a Spanish sloop and captured another off Cardenas.

VOLUNTEERS OF HAVANA.

They Were Won With a Pocket Handkerchief Frome.

In 1868, when the revolution of ten years in Cuba began, no volunteers existed in Havana worthy of being called such, says the San Francisco Chronicle. There was only one old regiment, and when Gov.-Gen. Lersundi, then of the island, tried to complete this regiment, he found the task difficult of accomplishment on account of the prevailing unwillingness to enlist. But just at this time, most providentially for the relief of the dilemma, some unknown hand covered the walls of Matanzas, near Havana, with huge posters promising each Spaniard his passage home and the privilege of carrying away with him whatever his pocket-handkerchief could contain in the event of his enlistment. The effect of this stimulus to the flagging pulse of the public was electrical, and the enrollment of 50,000 men followed within forty-eight hours. The volunteers thus came into existence, with their chiefs in the majority. But the ruined merchants of the city of Havana soon found out and objected to the newly risen power. This opposition increased upon the arrival in Cuba of the new governor-general, Duice, who came in 1879 as representative of the revolutionary government in Spain. He was a man of good faith, empowered by the government to grant Cuba all the reform she coveted and that had lately been offered. He would undoubtedly have put a term to the revolution, averting all the ruin and devastation which followed. But such an easy and magnanimous course did not satisfy that class which faced inevitable ruin as a consequence of such a policy.

The Young Guards at Waterloo.

At the battle of Waterloo the Young Imperial Guard was a corps consisting of young men from eighteen to twenty-one years of age. Their officers were men of experience and courage, drawn from other regiments. They were sent to Waterloo, as were indeed almost all that remained of the French army. The emperor was so loath to send them forward that he waited expecting to be able to do without them. The young men grumbled almost as much as the old guards. Why did not the emperor send them forward? At last, about four o'clock, they were sent to the front. Many were the struggles they had. They came in front of the Highlanders, and the fight was fierce, and at last came to a hand-to-hand fight. A Highlander, perceiving that there was a gap round the standard-bearer—his comrades had fallen—threw his musket down and rushed for the standard, but the young guard was not willing to let it go. Then a long struggle began; each side ceasing firing, each fearing to kill their own hero. At last the Highlander, impatient and angry at the resistance of the little Frenchman, flung him, standard and all, over his broad shoulders, and carried him over on his side; and then Highlanders and Frenchmen roared and applauded in sheer admiration, and then fire and shot redoubled in vigor. The next day few of the young guards saw the sun rise. There they lay on the field of Waterloo, and the little Frenchman was found with seventeen wounds. He, however, recovered to tell the tale.

Two hundred babies of oriental parentage were recently displayed in a baby show in San Francisco. The boys had their heads shaved, while the girls had their hair stiffened with beads and paper flowers.

Heroes in the Trenches.

A man who fights aboard ship fights, as it were, under the eyes of the world; but these soldiers out in the trenches under the tropic sun, with no one to describe their valor, no one even to identify them in the long line stretched across the hills, still pressing forward in the face of death, what splendid heroism is theirs! We can not honor them too much, every man of them, from the general to the private, and above all the glorious little

President McKinley still awaiting Spain's reply to the peace proposals, confident of their acceptance.—Sagasta has summoned political leaders to a conference in Madrid, presumably to discuss the peace terms. All information as to the progress of the negotiations is withheld from the people of Spain.—In consequence of an appeal by the commanding officers in our army at Santiago the President has ordered General Shafter's troops brought home as soon as possible.—General Miles has formed practically a new plan of campaign in Porto Rico, his object being to hem in the Spanish troops at Albonito, as well as to avoid mined roads.—Third Illinois regiment landed with General Brooke at Arroyo and engaged in skirmishing with the Spaniards. President McKinley issued a peremptory order for the removal of General Shafter's troops from the disease-infected camps about Santiago to Montauk Point, on the breezy tip of Long Island. The effect of this decision was to countermand an order given by Secretary Alger north as soon as possible, but he pointed to the necessity of keeping a large force at Santiago until after the deportation of the 25,000 Spanish prisoners. He also referred to the difficulty of getting enough transports to carry the soldiers, and said that in ordering the troops to the hills he had acted on the recommendation of Surgeon General Sternberg.

Friday, August 5.

It is announced in Washington that Spain's answer accepting the terms of peace will be delivered to the president this morning.—American officers who made public the terrible condition of the soldiers at Santiago are threatened with court-martial. It is shown that had the Spaniards secured the information they might easily have recaptured the territory and massacred our troops.—The Eighth Illinois regiment at Camp Tanner receives orders to go to Santiago to relieve the First regiment. The men will sail from New York on the Yale August 9.—The war department is exerting itself to accomplish the removal of Gen. Shafter's army from Cuba at the earliest date possible, and it is believed that the threatened disaster from a scourge of yellow fever will be averted.

Saturday, August 6.

Spain has decided to accept the peace conditions named by President McKinley. The Queen, the Cabinet and leading men in the army, as well as in the principal political parties, came to an agreement that nothing better could be done than to yield to the terms offered. The official answer has not yet reached Washington, but is expected there without much further delay.—The Eighth Illinois regiment (colored) was ordered to leave Camp Tanner for New York at once, there on Tuesday to sail on the transport Yale for Cuba.—Three more members of the First Illinois volunteers are dead of yellow fever. General Shafter's report yesterday included the names of Jesse J. Griffith, Archie Beattie and George Haven as victims of the epidemic at Santiago.—Orders were received at Newport News by Colonel Culver to send his men aboard the transport Oldam at once.—Among the towns which have surrendered in Porto Rico is Fajardo. It is said the minor officers of the Spanish army at San Juan refuse to fight, knowing that it is useless to resist.—The transport Lampasas arrived at Old Point, Va., with the first returning convalescent soldiers from Porto Rico.—The Third Illinois assisted in the capture of Guayama, Porto Rico. No one in the regiment was injured. Three men in the Fourth Ohio were wounded. The Spanish loss was light.—Advices received state that Sampson and Schley's squadrons are assembled at Guantanamo Bay, where they are being coaled, provisioned, and repaired. The Brooklyn has been added to Sampson's command and Commodore Schley will select another flagship.—William R. Hearst, editor of the New York Journal, was appointed an ensign in the regular navy and his yacht Buccaneer put in commission as an auxiliary cruiser.

Sunday, August 7.

The Spanish government accepted the peace terms imposed by President McKinley. The session of the cabinet lasted most of the day at Madrid, and after the ministers had approved the basis of the proposed settlement Premier Sagasta submitted the question to the queen, who also gave her approval. General Shafter reported to Washington that on Aug. 5

Misses Lillis Colby and Gertrude Kitson, accompanied by Arthur Runyan, attended the band concert held at Lord's park, Elgin, Thursday evening.

The members of the Knights of the Globe can well feel proud of their organization. Only three assessments have been levied in 1898. How's that for cheap insurance?

Rev. and Mrs. Haller and children, Miss Anna and William, were Chicago visitors Monday. Miss Anna and Will, accompanied by their father, visited Milwaukee before returning.

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the decision of the Lake County Republican convention. W. C. MCKENZIE.

The Commissioners of Highways of the Town of Cuba met last Saturday. They decided to advertise for bids for three stone bridges and some road graveling. Cuba is keeping up her record for good roads.

The picnic given by the Palatine lodge, Court of Honor, at Lake Zurich last Sunday attracted a large crowd and all had a most enjoyable time. Barrington furnished its share of those present.

There was no benefit assessment levied for the month of August by the M. W. A. order, but Barrington Camp, No. 809, has levied a special assessment of 50 cents for the general fund, which must be paid during the month of August.

Rev. C. M. Brodie, formerly pastor of the Bay View Baptist church of Milwaukee, will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church at this place tomorrow, both morning and evening. Rev. Brodie is an able and interesting speaker, and all are cordially invited to attend these services.

A jolly fishing party took possession of Grassy lake Thursday and enjoyed a pleasant day's outing. The party was composed of Messrs. and Mesdames George Stiefenhofer and Fred Frye, George Hanson, Mary Frye and Mrs. Stiefenhofer's Sunday school class.

Miss Anna Krueger of Chicago was tendered a surprise party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Krueger, just west of Barrington, last Saturday evening, and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all present. Refreshments were served.

Tomorrow evening, at the M. E. church, Rev. T. E. Ream will preach a sermon on the topic "Across Our Path," from the text found in Genesis 32d chapter 1st verse: "And Jacob went on his way, and the angel of God met him." A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Street Commissioner Sandman is doing some good work in having Main street filled to grade from the C. & N. W. railroad to Hough street. It presents a most creditable appearance, and after a covering of good gravel is put on it will be a splendid piece of roadway.

A farewell surprise party was given in honor of Miss Hornickel of Chicago at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butzow Saturday evening. A large number of young people were present and enjoyed themselves by indulging in various social games. Refreshments were served.

Miss Estella Kirschner arranged a successful surprise party on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kirschner, and her brother on Friday evening of last week. About forty young people were present, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Refreshments were served.

Edward Horn must be classed as the luckiest man in town. While returning from Volo and Wauconda with about twenty cases of eggs last Saturday, one of the front wheels came off, tipping the wagon completely over. Out of the whole twenty cases only eight or ten dozen were broken.

Among the enjoyable outings of the season must be classed the M. E. Sunday school picnic held in Fred Hawley's grove near Randall's Lake, and it was attended by a larger crowd than was present on any similar occasion of the past five years. Games of various descriptions were indulged in, and together with beating, swinging, making calls, etc., made the day pass only too swiftly for the happy little lads and lassies and their grown friends. It was a most profitable and pleasant day spent by all present.

The Baptist Sunday School held their annual picnic in the beautiful grove of Mr. Fred Hawley's, bordering Randall's lake, on Friday of last week. It was an ideal day, and at about 9 o'clock several teams that had been kindly offered, were ready to carry all those who wanted to go to the picnic. About noon little groups of families, teachers and pupils could be seen scattered here and there, enjoying themselves. The afternoon was spent in swinging, boating, visiting, eating ice cream, etc. The Busy Brownies and their energetic teacher had provided a "grab-bag" full of useful as well as ornamental articles. These were disposed of in a few minutes. A number of races was then witnessed, prizes being given to the winners. As the shades of evening began to fall the crowd dispersed, all saying they had had a most enjoyable time. The Sunday School wishes to thank all who in any way assisted in making this one of their most enjoyable and pleasant picnics, and also thanks Mr. Hawley for the use of his grounds.

WASHINGTON, D. C., FRIDAY, Aug. 12, 4:23 p. m.—The protocol has been signed at the White House. This practically means that the war is over.

Aguinaldo seems to have his ward so thoroughly organized that it is impossible to ignore him.

If the Vesuvius is to bombard Puerto Rican cities it will have to be employed in throwing bouquets.

Don't expect too much from Aguinaldo. He picked up from the Spanish all the civilization he had.
