The fire on Wednesday in the subdivision should warn the village officers that the fire department greatly needs a quantity of new hose. There is a large amount of valuable property which cannot be reached with the small amount of hose on hand and those property owners should be protected if possible.

George Harris died at his residence near Ridgfield, Ill., January 25, 1900. Deceased was born at Palatine September 12, 1845, where he resided with his parents until he enlisted in the 18th regiment, U. S. infantry. He served two years, being discharged on account of sickness. He recovered and re-enlisted, serving to the close of the war. He graduated from the law department at Ann Arbor in 1870 and was admitted to the bar in Chicago, but never practiced. He moved to Ridgfield in 1879. He was married to Miss Martha Williams of Ann Arbor, Mich., on November 11, 1879.

Big Blaze Averted.

The big barn used by Ben W. Wilson on his stock farm north of the village was in a fair way to being destroyed by fire Wednesday morning. Ben awakened the men in the bedroom about 6 o'clock, and after the men had come down and were attending to the horses, Ben entered the office and instantly smelled smoke. He rushed to the bedroom above, which he found in flames. He called to his two men and after much work they extinguished the flames. If the fire had a few minutes more start the barn and contents would have been destroyed and the large number of horses would have been hard to save.

Queer Story of a Grave.

A curious barren mound is to be seen in Montgomery churchyard. Whatever the cause, there is plainly to be seen a strip of sterility in the form of a cross among a mass of verdure. With the mound a melancholy legend is connected. It is called "Robert's Grave," and the story is that beneath this barren hillock lie the remains of an innocent man who was hanged on mistaken evidence. It is said that while the man stood on the gallows with the rope round his neck he solemnly declared, as a proof of his innocence, that grass should never grow on his grave. And even so it was and is. Any one who attempts to frustrate the fulfillment of this prophecy by sowing grass on this spot pays the penalty with his life. Instances are given of individuals who have been rash enough to do so and have met their doom soon afterward.—Cardiff Western Mail.

General Lee's Modesty.

A month or so after his surrender General Lee went one day to the store near his home in Powhatan county, Va., which served also as the post-office. Everybody in the town was instantly eager to see him, and in a few moments the store was crowded. The general was talking with the proprietor about crops and other matters and appeared utterly unconscious of the fact that the gathering of the residents was due solely to his presence. Suddenly he realized that everybody was watching him and modestly said: "But I see I am keeping you from your many customers. Pardon me" and at once withdrew.—Ladies' Home Journal.

What President Was This?

One day a president of the United States sent for me. He had been elected to that high office, but had not yet been installed.

"I hear," he said, "that you have just come back from Washington."

"Yes."
"Did you go to the White House? You did? Well, please sit down and tell me all about it. What sort of a house is it? How is it managed? How many rooms are in it? Whereabouts does the president do his work? And how did you get in there—how do visitors manage to see the house while a president and his family are living in it?"

"Why," I exclaimed, "you have often been to Washington! Have you never visited the White House?"

"No," said he, "I have only seen the outside of it. I have never even seen a president or, in fact, any great man. I am so peculiarly constituted that if I knew the greatest man in the world could be seen by walking to the corner I would not walk there. But now that I am about to make the White House my home, I should very much like to hear all that you can tell me about it."—Julian Ralph in Saturday Evening Post.

"I" and "Me."

The number of cultured, refined, educated people who slip into error in the use of "I" and "me" is large and appears to be continually growing. Their trouble lies in their inability to separate the first person from the third, where both are referred to as in the expression, "Tom asked he and I if," etc.

I heard a very clever man say yesterday, "George said that him and me were the only two in the store." A lawyer in Pine street, well known as a man of unusual ability, gets it wrong nearly every time by striving hard to get it right. He is so afraid that "my client and I" is incorrect that he compromises on "my client and myself." He knows my "client and me" will not do.

By separating the first and second persons this stumbling block is instantly removed, and even a child cannot err. "George said that him and me were" might fool some people, but "George said that him was" could not trip any one. Neither could "George said that me was." Now, altogether, "George said that he was; George said that I was; therefore George said that he and I were."—New York Press.

When Jay Gould Wrestled.

John Burroughs, the writer, was in his boyhood days a schoolmate of Jay Gould. To Theodore Dreiser, who tells the story in The New Voice, Mr. Burroughs gave this anecdote of Gould:

He was shrewd, but not a bad fellow at all. I remember that once we had a wrestling match. As we were about even in strength, we agreed to abide by certain rules, taking what we called "holts" in the beginning and not breaking them until one or the other was thrown. I kept to this when we began wrestling, but when Jay realized that he was in danger of losing he broke "holts" and threw me. When I said he had broken his agreement, he only laughed and said, "I threw you, didn't I? That irritated me, and I kept arguing the original point, but he only laughed the more and covered my taunts with the same answer. He had won, and it pleased him, though I often wondered how he could take any satisfaction in it."

Wouldn't Sell His Name.

Soon after General Robert E. Lee went to Lexington, Va., the presidency of an insurance company was offered to him at a salary of $10,000 a year. He was at that time receiving only $3,000 as president of the Washington and Lee university. "We do not want you to discharge any duties, general," said the agent. "We simply wish the use of your name. That will abundantly compensate us."

"Excuse me, sir," was the prompt and decided rejoinder. "I cannot consent to receive pay for services I do not render."

Nearly every mail brought him similar proposals, and just a short while before his death a large and wealthy corporation in New York city offered him $50,000 per annum to become its president. But he refused all such offers and quietly pursued his chosen path of duty.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Literary Note.

The denizens of the forest were organizing a literary club.
"We must make the porcupine president," said Br'er Wolf. "His style is full of good points."
"Permit me," remarked Br'er Rabbit, "to recommend a reptile friend of mine. He can put up a rattling tail."—Catholic Standard and Times.

CURRENT TOPICS

ROBERT BURNS DAY.

Robert Burns died 104 years ago, and yet people are still keeping his birthday as one of the great feasts of the year. There is no other poet who is so remembered. On its face, this immortality of Robert Burns in the popular heart is a strange thing. There have been other poets far greater than he, though he is, of course, one of the foremost representatives of English literature. He was neither a warrior nor a statesman. He had no influence, as the world measures influence. Poor, obscure till his work brought him to public notice, not even master of himself, a man who violated most of the conventions of his day, he is, nevertheless, held, more than a hundred years after his death, in affectionate remembrance by millions of people, many of whom have probably not read a line of his poetry.

THE CARTER CASE AGAIN.

The United States Court of Appeals of New York has just refused to interfere in the Carter case, and dismissed the petition for a writ of habeas corpus. This ought to end the effort to save Carter from punishment for the crimes of which he has been found guilty by military tribunal. The court holds that the court-martial had jurisdiction, and decides that "it is not the office of a writ of habeas corpus to perform the functions of a writ of error in reviewing the judgment of a court-martial." Capt. Carter has already paid the fine imposed upon him. Now he will have to submit to an imprisonment of six years, unless, indeed, some other scheme can be devised for thwarting justice.

VOTING IN CUBA.

The approaching elections in Cuba, the first steps toward self-government to be taken, lend special interest to the views expressed by Gen. Ludlow, whose ability has been demonstrated by his administration of the city of Havana. The general sympathizes with the Cuban aspirations, and believes that in the course of time that island will have as stable and responsible a government as any country in the world. But he holds that this condition cannot be reached in the immediate future. The percentage of illiteracy is too high, being estimated at 75 to 80, and the people are not habituated to self-control and a reign of law.

END OF ROBERTS CASE.

By the overwhelming vote of 268 to 50 Representative-elect Roberts was excluded from the house of representatives. The resolution of the majority of the Taylor committee was adopted, and it read as follows: "That under the facts and circumstances of the case of Brigham H. Roberts, representative-elect from the state of Utah, ought not to have or hold a seat in the house of representatives, and that the seat to which he was elected is hereby declared vacant." Mr. Roberts is probably without remedy. The long contest is over, and the case is settled.

THE WEATHER BUREAU BILL.

A bill has been introduced in congress providing for the reorganization and improvement of the weather bureau, which has many admirable features. It places the bureau entirely on the merit basis, provides for permanency of tenure, for the creation of a retiring fund, and for the compulsory retirement of men in the service attaining the age of 55. The weather bureau is a most valuable feature of the government service, and the men that give their life to the work are entitled to recognition.

TO BE REVIVED.

The so-called "national democratic" committee has been called to meet with a view of setting a date for its national convention. Leaders of the party are talking of making a campaign, and S. H. Bashor of Iowa claims that Mr. Boies will be the party's nominee. Palmer of Illinois and Buckner of Kentucky were the candidates in 1896, when the party polled 131,000 votes out of more than 13,000,000 that went to the republican and democratic parties.

Aguinaldo's History.

Now that the announcement is made that Aguinaldo is writing a war history one can readily see why he has kept up the fight against American authority. He was merely endeavoring to acquire the reputation and notoriety that would make him acceptable as a contributor to the magazines.—Chicago Post.

EGG DEALERS LOSE HEAVILY.

Warm Weather Causes Activity Among Hens, Forcing the Price Down.

As a result of the warm weather just ended, holders of eggs in cold storage in Chicago have lost about $150,000. All egg dealers in South Water street are praying for a long cold spell, that they may regain some of their lost money. They attribute the crisis to the warm weather and the disposition on the part of hens to lay more eggs than usual. In the Western Cold-Storage warehouse there are 65,000 cases of eggs which will not last more than fifteen days. The price has fallen to 11 cents, and recently as low as 8 cents. It costs the holder 14 1/2 cents when he takes his eggs out of storage, and the results have been very unsatisfactory, financially.

FOUND DEAD IN A BATHTUB.

Professor Le Flamboy's Case Mystifies the Officials at Grand Rapids.

Prof. A. Le Flamboy, magnetic healer, was found dead in a bathtub filled with seaming hot water at Grand Rapids, Mich., and his brother, George Le Flamboy, was lying on the floor of the bathroom unconscious. The professor was nude, and had been in the hot water so long that his body was parboiled. The flesh came from the bones as the body was lifted from the tub. George was dressed, and until he recovers sufficiently to tell what happened, the case will continue a mystery.

CREW KILLED BY CANNIBALS.

Details of Murder of Cape Baltho and His Men.

Details have been received of the killing of the captain and crew of the schooner Nikamarra on one of the islands of the Admiralty group by the natives, who are cannibals. It is said that all of the victims were eaten.

Bill to Check Marriages.

Gov. Thomas of Colorado is giving some attention to a bill that will, if passed, place the granting of marriage licenses in the hands of a board of medical examiners. In brief, the bill provides for a board of medical examiners in each county to consist of three physicians, no two to come from the same school, and where possible the board is to have one or more female members. The board shall have power to examine all persons seeking to marry, and refuse permission to all who are not mentally or physically equipped to enter the marriage state.

Rich Men to the Rescue.

The board of directors of the Manufacturers' club, composed of the wealthiest business men of Philadelphia, adopted resolutions expressing approval of the work done by the subcommittee of the Citizens' National Convention association, pledging hearty support to that body and protesting against any interference with its work. This assures the success of the fund for the national republican convention. President Schwab of the Carnegie Steel company has sent a check for $2,000 to the committee.

Blue Laws in Baltimore.

The Sunday blue laws of Maryland, which in various forms have been upon the statute books of the state for two centuries, are being rigorously and relentlessly enforced in Baltimore. Newsdealers, milkmen, ice men, druggists (for filling prescriptions only) and proprietors of lunchrooms alone are exempt under the law. All other merchants found selling wares between midnight and midnight will be called upon within a few days to appear before the grand jury.

We May Be the Peacemaker.

In view of the reports of the British defeats in South Africa, and the probability that Ladysmith will soon be compelled to surrender to the Boers, diplomats here would not be surprised to see Washington become the center of interest in the South African controversy. It is predicted that such a success for the Boers as the taking of Ladysmith will encourage the idea of intervention on the part of neutral powers, in the name of humanity, to end the war.

May Have Killed Americans.

The mail from Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico, brings the news that a report is current there that six Americans—David Cusick, John Eldridge, George Lunt, Charles Burns, Lon Webster and Henry Williams—were shot last week near the foot of the Bacatete mountains, east of Guaymas, by order of Gen. Torres, in command of the Mexican troops, now operating against Yaqui Indians in the Bacatete range.

Denies Criticizing Mason.

Senator Mason's resolution of inquiry in regard to an alleged interview with the British consul at New Orleans, in which Mr. Mason was severely arraigned for his pro-Boer attitude had already been forestalled by the state department, the British ambassador having been asked to investigate. The ambassador did so, and received from the consul a letter denying the interview.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

In the Senate and House the Past Week.

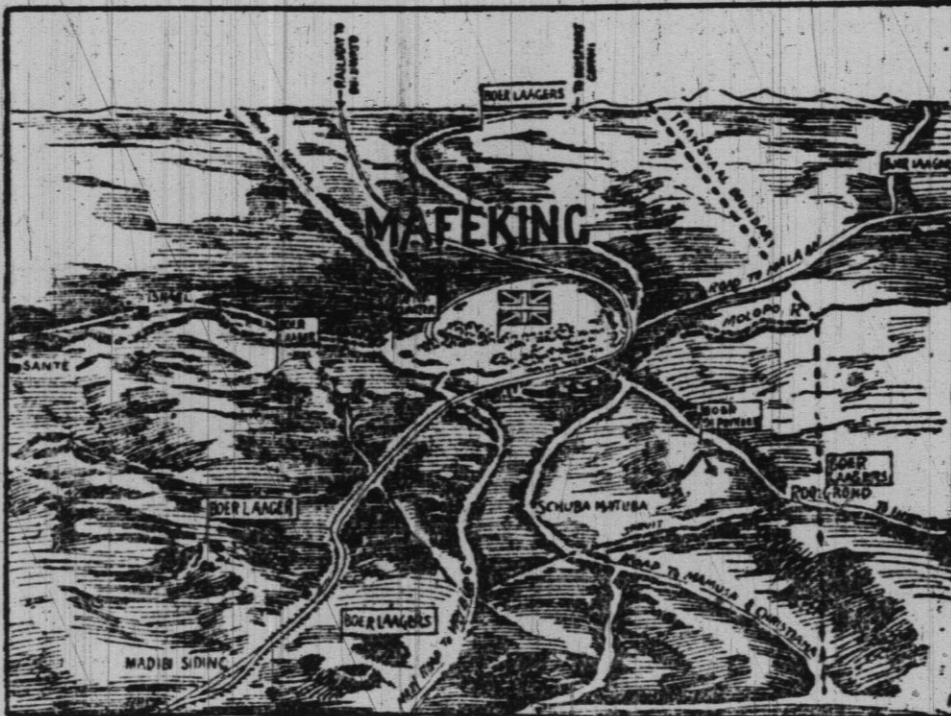

BRIEF REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

Progress of Measures of General Interest—Roberts Ousted by the House by Overwhelming Majority—Financial Bill and Nicaragua Canal.

Friday, Jan. 26.

The special order in the house was the delivery of eulogies upon the late Vice-President Hobart, which occupied the attention for two and a half hours. Before the execution of the order was entered upon some time was spent in disposing of miscellaneous business. The final agreement upon the census bill by the conferees was adopted; the bill making appropriations for the Indian service for the year 1900-1 was reported by Mr. Sherman of New York, chairman of the committee on Indian affairs; the senate amendments to the urgent deficiency bill were sent to conference, and an hour was spent in discussing the bill recommended by President McKinley authorizing the secretary of state to pay the claim of the Eastern Extension Australasia and incurred in repairing its Manila-Hongkong and Manila-Capiz cable, which China Telegraph company, limited, for compensation on account of expenses were cut by the United States forces during the war with Spain. It was opposed by several members, and went over without definite action. The senate was not in session.

MAFEKING AND SURROUNDING COUNTRY.

Monday, Jan. 29.

Secretary Gage informed congress he did not remember whether he answered Hepburn's letter asking for deposits for National City bank, or had any conversation with him about it. Senator Mason in senate condemned alleged interview in which British consul at New Orleans called him a "montebank." Apology and indemnity for killing six Americans by order of Gen. Torres likely to be asked of Mexico. Testimony in Clark contest showed sudden increase in wealth of Montana legislators. Congressman Joy favors amendment of constitution to control trusts. Brigham H. Roberts of Utah trying to collect $1,000 mileage.

Tuesday, Jan. 30.

Differences among republicans as to provisions of subsidy bill may cause its defeat. Its friends favor house caucus.—New York Reform club declared subsidy lobby strongest financially and politically ever at capital. Republican members of ways and means committee agreed on Puerto Rican tariff. Duties to be 75 per cent less than levied on other imports. W. A. Smith will offer amendment to diplomatic appropriation bill to send minister to Transvaal. British Consul Vansittart denied having called Mason a mountebank. Rear Admiral Bradford estimates cost of Pacific cable at $10,000,000.

SAYS GOEBEL WAS ELECTED.

Report of Contest Board Is Against Gov. Taylor.

The contest board appointed to hear the evidence in the gubernatorial contest in Kentucky refused to hear argument, in accordance with the request of counsel for the democratic side, after the attempt to kill Senator Goebel on Tuesday, and adopted a report declaring that Goebel had been duly elected governor of Kentucky.

Plans to Honor Lawton.

At a meeting of the committee named to arrange for the reception of Gen. Lawton's remains, which will lie in state at Fort Wayne, Ind., it was decided to select the new courthouse as the place in which the people will be given an opportunity to look upon his features for the last time.

WITNESS IS HYPNOTIZED.

Unable to Testify Against a Prisoner Charged with Murder.

F. D. Dinsmore, charged with the murder of Mrs. Dinsmore and Fred Lauer, is on trial at Kearney, Neb. The prosecuting witness is Mrs. Lauer, wife of the murdered man. The basis for the crime was the love of Dinsmore for Mrs. Lauer. The woman maintains that she is hypnotized by Dinsmore, and seems absolutely incapable of testifying against the accused. She tells a straightforward story away from the prisoner, but when confronted by him she seems speechless. The county attorney is puzzled with the situation, and has had eminent physicians examine the woman without any light being cast on the situation. She is pronounced sane, but when Dinsmore turns his large, keen, black eyes on her, her head droops and her eyes close, and she seems nearly asleep. The case has been continued twice in order to give the woman a chance to recover from the alleged influence of Dinsmore.

MRS. JOHN D. RICH GUILTY.

Sentenced by a Mexican Judge to Fourteen Years' Imprisonment.

The decision in the famous Rich case, which has involved two nations, was handed down at El Paso, Texas, Friday. Mrs. Rich was found guilty of murdering her husband in Juarez, Old Mexico, and was sentenced to serve a term of fourteen years imprisonment by Judge Aurelio Gonzales. The decision was no surprise, although it was not believed that the woman would be given more than ten years. After the tribunal at Chihuahua has affirmed the decision, Mrs. Rich will be pardoned. When Mrs. Rich heard the verdict she became frantic, and acted like a maniac. She was finally quieted, but she was in a state of nervous collapse, and could not stand up. Preparations for suicide had been made by the woman, as a bottle of nitric acid was found on her person.

Rob Cleverdale's Adventure.

By Seward W. Hopkins.

Copyrighted, 1896, by Robert Bonner's Sons.

CHAPTER II.

Having gone thus far, Rob would not have been a true boy had he not looked forward to this great change in his life without more or less eagerness and pleasure. And Rob was a true boy. He was a good boy, and a good scholar. He was the best runner, the best football player, and the best swimmer in the circle of boys in which he was leader. The blood of splendid health coursed through his veins. He was sturdy, strong and handsome. What boy such as this would not hail with delight a life in South America, with prospects of adventures in wild and mysterious places.

Mrs. Cleverdale so far entered into his hopes and plans, that at last she became not only reconciled to the parting, but pleased at it. It meant so much for the boy she dearly loved. She believed that her own life would not be long, and she was glad of this opportunity for Rob to find a home where his future was assured.

And at last the eventful day came. Mrs. Cleverdale had a friend, a lawyer, who undertook to get Rob safely off.

"He goes to Rio de Janeiro on the United States and Brazil mail," said the lawyer, Mr. Brown. "At Rio he changes and takes another ship. Fortunately, I am acquainted with the captain of the 'Vigilancia,' which sails next week from here. I will take Rob to see him, and then we can rest assured that he will arrive safely. There is no better sailor or better man afloat than Captain Baker of the 'Vigilancia.'"

So Mr. Brown took Rob to meet Captain Baker. The captain of the 'Vigilancia' was a fine, hearty man, every inch a sailor, and every inch a gentleman. He won the boy's heart at once by his kindness.

"Don't you worry about this young gentleman, Mr. Brown," he said. "He and I are going to be very good friends."

ON WEDNESDAY THE SHIP LEFT.

We are going to enjoy every foot of the way from here to Rio, and there he will be placed in good hands for the rest of the trip. He's all right. We sail on Wednesday. Don't forget."

So on Wednesday Rob found himself on board the 'Vigilancia' with his mother and Mr. Brown to see him off. Mrs. Cleverdale could not help crying a little, but she laughed gayly immediately after, and the memory that Rob took away with him was his mother and Mr. Brown laughing away as if they enjoyed the occasion. This helped Rob very much.

On Wednesday the big ship left her dock and steamed away.

It was in the winter time, and Rob, closely muffled in a big ulster, stood on the deck watching the sights as they went down the East river, and down the bay. After the panorama of the passing docks he became interested in the grand view of the harbor, the Statue of Liberty, which looks so different when viewed from the city; the forts, with their ugly looking guns, the taking on of a pilot and his departure—all these things kept Rob interested, so that even when he thought he was leaving his native land, perhaps forever, he waved aside the sorrow, and told himself that soon he would be a man with money enough to come back if he wished.

Captain Baker was very kind to Rob, and with the exception of a few days of seasickness, the boy enjoyed the trip to Rio de Janeiro—a distance of nearly seven thousand miles—very much.

At Rio, Captain Baker introduced him to the captain of a ship of the Royal Mail Line, which was to go to Buenos Ayres. This was the final step of Rob's long journey, and it was here that his troubles were to commence.

There were few passengers on board, and most of these were natives of Brazil or the Argentine Republic, traveling on business. There was one passenger, however, who seemed to take a great fancy to Rob, and who at once struck up an acquaintance with him. This was a young man about twenty-five years of age. His name was Lemuel Starne, and he was apparently of mixed English and Spanish parentage. He was quite handsome and well dressed, with black, piercing eyes, and a firm look about the mouth. Rob was glad to be friends with Mr. Starne, for the sail to Buenos Ayres would have been a long and lonely one without a friend to talk to. The captain of the 'Royal Mail' was not so friendly as Captain Baker, and Rob fell in with Mr. Starne most of the time.

Mr. Starne was much interested in Rob's prospects, and his coal-black eyes glistened when Rob, in the innocence of his heart, told what a splendid offer Mr. Horton had made him. But Mr. Starne, while getting all Rob's story out of him, said nothing about his own business on board the 'Royal Mail.'

The ship stopped at Montevideo, in Uruguay, and then entered the River de La Plata.

It was on a black and moonless night when Rob and Mr. Starne were standing near the rail chatting. The few passengers were distributed far away from them, and the crew were busy. There was no one near enough to see in the darkness, just what was going on in that portion of the deck.

Mr. Starne was bending over the rail, name could be seen in the brightest daylight. But still she had a name. It was "El Gato Negro," or "The Black Cat."

The crew of "El Gato Negro" was a mixed lot of rascals, some being Spanish, born in South America, some being French, some Portuguese, and some native Indian. "The Black Cat" had a bad name among the officials of Argentina, and she was, in reality, the fastest and most successful smuggler in the world.

She was entering the river, even now, with a cargo of rifles and ammunition, and also of rum and tobacco, on which there is a heavy duty in Argentina, and was making in the dark for a certain spot where the contraband cargo could be landed without fear of detection.

The language spoken on board the "Black Cat" was something beyond printed words to describe. It was certainly a jargon of English, mixed with Spanish, French or any other language that came handy. The men were, to a man, a desperate, cut-throat gang. Captain Torrevio, of the "Black Cat" was on deck peering at the lights of the steamer, which was passing a short distance ahead of the schooner. He grinned with satisfaction as he thought how lucky it was for him that the night was too black for the men on the steamer to see the "Black Cat."

The captain had taken extra precaution to avoid a collision of any kind, and a half dozen lookouts were distributed throughout the schooner. With but half her sails spread to the gentle night breeze, the "Black Cat" glided easily and noiselessly through the water.

The Royal Mail was now far up the river, and her lights could just be distinguished; they flickered, then were gone. The "Black Cat" was crossing the path of the steamer, not more than three minutes after she had passed.

"Hist!" came a cry from a lookout in the bow. "Me hear cry—cry—see? Listen!"

"Vo! Me hear um!" said another lookout who had strained his ears. "What um? Man in water?"

"Him over there!" shouted a fellow who was as black as the night itself. "Hark! Hear de same cry over?"

Captain Torrevio had rushed forward, and was listening intently.

Faintly there came to his ears the words, "Help! I am drowning! Help!"

"Boy in the water," said the captain, whose ears never deceived him on the water. "Hey! Port there! Hard! Stand by there to rescue! Lower away a boat!"

Men sprang to obey the captain, and in an instant there was a small boat resting on the water, with four swarthy and almost murderous looking men in it—for what? To rescue a human being from drowning. These men would take the life of another as quickly as look at him if his life was necessary to their own safety. But the cry for help that came from the black water of the river had found a response in their own hearts, as it might have found in the hearts of the bravest and most courageous of the sailors on a man-of-war.

When Rob struck the water, after his sudden plunge from the deck of the "Royal Mail," he went down deep into the river, and for a moment was bereft of his senses. But this was simply for the moment, and up he came again to the surface, to battle bravely for his life. He saw the receding lights of the steamer, and cried out as lustily as he could for help. But the steamer had gone too far for his voice to be heard on board, and it was heard instead by the men on the "Black Cat."

Suddenly Rob, who was not trying to swim, but simply to keep himself afloat, which he was able to do, heard the splash of oars near him. Then he heard the voice of a man calling out to him:

"'Hoy! 'Hoy! Where him be?'"
"Here I am!" shouted Rob. "This way! This way!"

A few strokes of the oars brought the boat nearer still, and then the boat was allowed to drift, while a man stood in the bow ready to seize the person who needed help as soon as he came in reach.

"Light, quick!" said this man in the bow.

Suddenly a gleam lit up the darkness, and the rays of a small lantern were turned on the water. Rob was then about ten feet from the boat. He at once took a few strokes toward it. He was seized in the strong hands of the man in the bow, and in a moment more was dragged into the boat.

His life had been saved—by smugglers.

The lantern was extinguished, and an instant later a light was displayed on the deck of the "Black Cat." Toward this the men rowed, and in about five minutes more Rob, shivering, soggy with soaked clothing, and ready to shout and laugh and cry all at once, from his mixed emotions, stood on the schooner's deck.

LATEST ILLINOIS NEWS.

Illinois Gavel for Senate.

The president pro tem of the senate, Mr. Frye, used an "Illinois gavel" Monday for the first time. It was the gift of Capt. W. W. Duffield of Springfield, Ill., and was presented to Senator Frye by Senator Cullom with the following letter:

"Hon. William P. Frye, President, Pro Tempore United States Senate—My Dear Senator: I herewith hand you a gavel given to me by a personal friend, Mr. W. H. Duffield, Company I, Thirty-third Illinois volunteers, Springfield, Ill., to be presented to you as president of the senate for the use of said office. The gavel was made in part from an elm tree planted by Abraham Lincoln in 1860 in front of his home in Springfield and in part from walnut wood taken from the stair railing of the state house at Springfield, Ill. The handle of the gavel is turned from a piece of white oak wood taken from the Lincoln homestead, the title to which was afterwards conveyed by Hon. Robert T. Lincoln to the state of Illinois. I also hand you a penholder made by the same gentleman.

"Please accept these gifts from Capt. Duffield, and if you will write a note of acknowledgment which I can forward to him, the same will be appreciated, I am sure. Very truly yours,"
"S. M. Cullom."

Rules Against Dreyer.

The United States Supreme court, in a decision handed down at Washington on Monday, denied the appeal made by the attorneys for Edwin S. Dreyer and his partner, Robert E. Berger, that their case should be tried by the civil court. The court also refused to declare unconstitutional the banking act under which the Meadowcroft brothers were convicted, and upholds the decision of the Supreme court of Illinois, that the law is constitutional. The attorneys for Dreyer urged that the penalties were cruel and that a purely civil matter had been made a crime. It was argued that Dreyer was deprived of his liberty and property without the process of law. The decision came with unusual promptness, as the brief was filed only last week. The decision makes it necessary that the defendants be tried on the original charges in the criminal and not in the civil courts of Cook county.

Resents the Pest Banner.

Harrisburg telegram: When the health-officers tacked the yellow flag in front of the residence of William Baker, in whose house there are two cases of smallpox, Baker, who is an invalid, became indignant. He rolled himself out in his invalid chair and tacked two American flags on each side of the yellow flag, and defied any one to remove them. The question arises, Which reigns supreme, the stars and stripes or the yellow flag? Another case of smallpox developed here Monday morning. Two cases exist at Galesburg, one at Carrier Mills, in this county, and several at Burnside, in Johns county. The places have been quarantined against this city for some time, and how the disease got here is a mystery.

Zinc Ore in Perry County.

Ava telegram: A rich strike was made Saturday afternoon at the shaft of the Apple Creek Mining and Milling company, on McCampbell hill, in Perry county, Mo. W. Gilbreath, president of the company, who is a resident of this city, received a message yesterday from his superintendent, stating that a vein of zinc had been encountered nine feet below the surface. Mr. Gilbreath left for the mine this morning. The Apple Creek Mining company was organized last December, and has 2,000 acres of mineral land leased in Perry and Cape Girardeau counties. A mill will be built just as soon as the weather permits.

Two Robbers Killed.

Quincy telegram: Quincy police officers Sunday night killed two expert safe blowers, supposed to be from Chicago, and wounded another badly. The tragedy included a running fight through a hotel in which the armed burglars were pursued by the officers. The men are believed to be those who recently operated in Galesburg, Freeport and other Illinois cities, making a specialty of cracking safes in building and loan associations.

Fixes Convention Dates.

Mount Carroll telegram: The republican county central committee has fixed the date for holding the Carroll county convention to select delegates for the congressional, state and senatorial convention for March 5. The congressional convention will be held at Freeport March 6.

Democrats Choose Delegates.

Olney telegram: Richland county democrats have selected P. K. Allen, T. S. Pea, R. N. Stoller, J. M. Prather and S. A. Herrick delegates to the state convention. They are uninstructed. The congressional delegates were instructed for Congressman Crowley.

SENATOR GOEBEL SHOT DOWN.

Democratic Candidate for Governor of Kentucky Victim of an Assassin.

Senator William Goebel, democratic contestant for governor of Kentucky, was shot and probably mortally wounded at 11:10 Tuesday morning while he was walking through the capitol grounds at Frankfort on his way to a session of the senate.

His assassin was an unknown man, armed with a rifle of small caliber, probably not over 38, who fired at him through a slightly raised window on the third floor of the building which contains the state offices, some fifty feet east of where the senator was walking. The contest board hastened its action in behalf of Senator Goebel on account of the crime, and instead of postponing its decision for a week or ten days, as had been expected, it met Tuesday evening and declared Messrs. Goebel and Beckham elected governor and lieutenant governor, respectively. This will throw the gubernatorial fight at once into the hands of the legislature for action, with certainty that Mr. Goebel will be declared elected governor and Taylor unelected.

The attempted assassination, whether the result of a political plot or the act of some personal enemy who took this opportunity to revenge himself, coming as it does at the crisis of the bitter fight which Senator Goebel has been waging, has inflamed the passions of artisans of both parties to the highest point, and serious rioting is expected.

OFFER CHILD AS A SACRIFICE.

Iowa Parents Are Driven to Insanity Through Religious Zeal.

Driven to insanity by religious zeal, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spencer, residing on a farm six miles northwest of Lovell, in Monroe county, Iowa, on Tuesday became imbued with the idea that they had been called upon by God to sacrifice their infant child. They accordingly removed its clothing, and in its nude condition held the infant out in the yard until it froze to death. The father's hands and feet were badly frozen. The sheriff was notified, and after a hard struggle Spencer was overpowered, four men being necessary to manage him. He is a prosperous farmer and has always been regarded as one of the prominent men in the community. There are three other children in the family.

Russia Dreads Japan.

A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from St. Petersburg says:

"Leading circles in Russia do not believe that the change in China entails serious consequences. Japan's increasing influence, it is thought, is far more important and can only be averted by the power, including the United States of America, notifying Japan that they intend to maintain the status quo in China on the basis of The Hague conference."

Brooded Over His Loss.

Former Sergeant Mathew Duling, battery O, Fourth artillery, stationed at the arsenal in Washington, D. C., is dead from an overdose of laudanum, taken with suicidal intent. Some slight infraction of discipline led to Sergeant Duling's reduction to the ranks, Friday morning, and he became despondent over the disgrace.

Pana May Get Coke Works.

It is reliably stated that the representative of the syndicate that has gained possession of the Pana (Ill) mines contemplates putting in coke works. They claim they have perfected a process whereby coke can be made from bituminous coal at half the cost of the anthracite. The plant will employ hundreds of men.

Two Professors Resign.

The excitement among the students of the University of Cincinnati regarding the demand of President Ayres for the wholesale resignation of the faculty has been aggravated by the voluntary resignation of Prof. P. V. N. Meyers, followed by similar action on the part of Prof. Brown of the chair of English literature.

Stops Archbishop's Salary.

The French cabinet has decided to stop the salary of Cardinal Richard, the archbishop of Paris, for an unlimited period in order to punish him for visiting and condoling with the Assumptionists. The bishops who sent recitations to the Assumptionists will have their salaries stopped for short periods.

Negro Postmaster to Resign.

Relief is in sight for the people of Hogansville, Ga., who have been making war on J. H. Loftin, the negro postmaster, since his appointment by President McKinley two years ago last September. Mr. Loftin has gone to Washington to accept a position in one of the departments.

Priest Found Dead.

After the Victoria Cross.

Whatever criticisms may be made by the strategists and leader writers of Great Britain's conduct of the campaign in South Africa and wherever may be placed the responsibility for recent reverses, there can be no possible reflection upon the personal valor of Tommy Atkins. In this as in every war in which England has been engaged courage, devotion and endurance have not been wanting in the soldiers of the "widow of Windsor." This has been conspicuously true in every opportunity in which her colonial soldiers have had a chance to display their heroic metal. The Canadians in recent engagements won for themselves especial renown, and it is not unlikely that in the distribution of Victoria crosses which will follow the close of the war not an insignificant share of them will go to the soldiers of the Dominion who went out to fight for the mother country.

The Victoria cross was devised by the queen of England at the end of the Crimean war in 1856, and in the general distribution which took place the next year for conspicuous services in that war 62 persons were thus honored. In the case of noncommissioned officers and men the cross represents something more than a mere medal, for it is accompanied by a pension of $50 a year, with $25 more for each additional act of valor, for which a bar of ribbon is added to the device.

The Victoria cross is eagerly sought by all ranks. One of the surest means of winning it is for a soldier to save the life of another under fire. Hand to hand conflicts are, of course, comparatively rare nowadays in wars marked by the use of the long distance rifle and heavy artillery. Nevertheless the movements of opposing armies of large size and working out intricate problems in strategy often bring individuals close to opportunities for distinguishing services. In the charge there is a chance to take the lead and to breast all dangers. It has been suggested recently that, while the cross is an admirable incentive to soldiers to display great personal gallantry, it sets a false premium upon military valor. There is noticeable in some of the campaigns in which British armies have participated in late years a tendency among the men to take desperate chances for apparently insignificant purposes. While it may be magnificent to see men go to their death in forlorn hopes or in an effort to save the lives of comrades or to protect the colors, it does not always comport with the general plan of battle and may precipitate engagements which materially turn the tide of fortune. But, after all, Albion's fighting sons will seek the Victoria cross so long as it shall remain the distinctive mark of valor.

The old time antagonisms between the Armenians and the Kurds have again broken out, and we may expect to hear of more bloodletting in that quarter of the globe. According to latest dispatches, 50 have fallen in a contest at Erzerum, not far from the scene of the outbreak between them which spread into such unexpected and destructive proportions a few years ago. Conditions of hatred bitter as that of Israel toward Amalek prevail between them beyond abatement or conciliation, and they will fight and slay so long as they are near each other unless a stronger hand restrains them. Just now Turkey pretends to assume that responsibility, but every one knows how she has discharged her duties under the treaty. There is a general conviction that Russia would do this work much better. Perhaps her opportunity is not very far off.

Consumption is losing its terrors. According to New York state authorities, from 50 to 75 per cent of cases can be cured if taken in time. There are now at least 60,000 persons in the state in various stages of consumption. Fifteen thousand die every year, and 15,000 new cases take their places. The devastation by the fatal germs can be measured by a comparison with the war in the Philippines. In a year and a half bullets, disease and the normal death rate have claimed about 1,200 soldiers. This total troubles the national mind. But the burial yearly of 15,000 victims of a curable and preventable malady at home is taken as a matter of course.

Already there is a lively discussion in England over the question of disposing of Oom Paul. Some of the people think he ought to be hanged, others are in favor of exiling him to St. Helena and still others believe he would be sufficiently punished if his fortune of $30,000,000 were taken away from him. Meantime it may be casually remarked that Oom Paul is still very much at large.

"Little Bobs," as General Roberts is familiarly known in the English army, goes to South Africa late enough to give him an opportunity to profit by the mistakes of other British leaders. The early military bird often misses the worm.

New York newspapers are growing modest. None of them has claimed the credit for Boer successes in South Africa.

The Boers may be as obstinate as mules, but they do not stampede as easily.

Steam railroad building, like many other branches of industry during the year 1899, surpassed all recent figures. According to The Railroad Gazette, 4,557 miles of new track have been laid this year, as compared with 3,265 last year and of approximately 2,000 in each of the four preceding years. The figures of 1899 are small compared with those of some of the years in the eighties, but they are doubtless as large as the conditions warranted. Too much road was built in those days, and the country suffered on that account for years. It seems that no mistake of this kind was made in 1899.

Alfred Austin has just written a poem entitled "To Arms," in which he sings:

Foot in stirrup, hilt in hand, free men to keep men free—
All all will help to hold the land while England guards the sea.

If Mr. Austin thinks England is going to win this fight by sitting around and guarding the sea, he must be studying the wrong map.

Emperor William has been going about among the poor in Berlin distributing charity. This is one of the most satisfactory exhibitions of versatility that the emperor has yet given.

It is more blessed to give than to receive, says the good book, but on the whole it is somewhat pleasanter to have the two well evened up.

The shirt waist season of 1899 holds the record for longevity. It has played havoc with the sealskin period.

After a careful consideration of the matter we are forced to the decision that the people who engaged in the end of the century controversy back in 1699 were much more versatile in their newspaper communications than the ones who are hammering away on the now threadbare subject at the present time.

The fact that 25,000 Americans are asking for pensions for injuries received in the late war with Spain must be somewhat gratifying to the pride of the Spaniards as evidence of prowess at arms of which they had not heretofore been fully conscious.

It now looks as if American trade would be extended into Turkey. The Austria-Hungarian consul general at Smyrna in a recent report says that if indications are not delusive America apparently intends to extend its efforts for exportation to Turkey and commercial places in Asia Minor and to enter into direct business relations with the most important places in that part of the world.

It is not at all strange that the British government is ordering wagons in the United States for use in South Africa. We make wagons just as we grow mules—that is to say, our offerings are the best to be had, and the South African war has created a demand for both the mule and the wagon. While by no means rejoicing in the existence of war, it may be remarked in passing that the armed conflict now in progress will in a way benefit America for many years to come, as it is the means of introducing our machinery and live stock in South Africa, and, by reason of their superiority, the demand is likely to continue long after the war is ended.

The British cabinet is particularly fortunate in having such a large share of scapegoats that a new one can be trotted out every other day.

Probably the largest gang of men that ever came to this lake is employed by the two companies at the present writing.

A basket social will be given Friday, February 23, by the pupils of our school. Exercises in honor of birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, which fall on February 12 and 22 respectively, are in preparation. Nearly $5 is now in the treasury and the pupils wish to raise enough money to purchase a school bell. Be sure to attend.

The change which the ice men have been looking for came suddenly last week and ice cutting began Monday at the source of supply. Bruce Ice company have been loading cars since Tuesday. The recent cold weather has made the fields firm and several inches thicker than they were before. A large gang of men are also at work for Blair & Co. putting up ice.

C. E. Shultis made his regular weekly rounds to our stores Wednesday, returning to Waukegan the following day, via Ivanhoe, Grakslake and Hainesville. Mr. Shultis represents the Kennedy Biscuit company and will also keep the grocers of Rockefeller, Libertyville and Gilmer well supplied with crackers hereafter, as he always has a fresh supply on hand.

Miss Anna Scholz entertained a number of friends at her home last Monday evening, it being the seventeenth anniversary of her birth. Several hours were pleasantly passed in a variety of games, intercepted with refreshments. It was a late hour when the guests bade their hostess good night and wishing for her many returns of the event.

J. W. Cook, Miles Fuller, E. Green, John Blanck, Carl Erickson and Jas. Gainer attended a meeting of the Woodmen camp at McHenry Wednesday evening.

Miss Maud Lake and Mr. Louis Powers were quietly married at Kenosha, Wis., Sunday. The contracting parties are well known here and all join with THE REVIEW in wishing them much happiness through life.

A stag party was given at the home of Harry Fuller Friday night of last week and was attended by a large number of our prominent young gentlemen. The evening was spent in social games and refreshments in plenty were served.

A party was given Harry Grantham in honor of his tenth birthday anniversary Monday evening and was attended by about thirty of his young friends. The evening was pleasantly enjoyed by all in social games. Refreshments were served.

Several of the ladies enjoyed a pleasant evening at the home of Miss Eloise Jenks Friday evening of last week. Progressive carom was the attractive feature of the evening's program and suitable prizes were awarded. Taking it altogether the evening was very pleasantly spent by the ladies.

The Mystic Workers had another royal good time Wednesday evening. At the regular meeting two weeks previous the subject of holding a public social was discussed which met with decided favor. Master Hubbard appointed a committee to make arrangements for the affair. The evening arrived clear and bright, but rather chilly. Despite the cold the hall was filled to overflowing. At 8:30 the fun began in earnest. Cronkinole, carems, cards, etc., were played, intercepted by music furnished by C. A. Hapke's orchestra. At 11:30 o'clock refreshments, consisting of popcorn, apples and confectionary, were served. The balance of the evening was spent in dancing. A most pleasant evening is reported by all and Mizpah lodge will, no doubt, long be remembered by this pleasant social event.

The Masons from Cary attended the funeral of George Harris at Ridgefield Sunday in a body. Mr. Harris was formerly a resident of Palatine.

The quarterly conference of the M. E. church met in regular session January 27, and among other things proposed was the building of an addition to the church, on account of the increasing demand for more room. Plans are being made to erect an addition on the present structure 20x24 feet, which will be furnished with all the equipments necessary to observe the public good, and it is hoped that all who are interested will contribute with their influence and means to aid in this movement, which concerns the welfare of all the people of Cary and surrounding country.

A SURE CURE FOR CROUP.

Twenty-five Years Constant Use Without a Failure.

The first indication of croup is hoarseness, and in a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in this broad land and never disappoints the anxious mothers. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which it has not proved effectual. No other preparation can show such a record—twenty-five years constant use without a failure. For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Barrington Jan. 26, 1900:

If you have a cough, try it," it may be accepted as an honest expression, worthy of credence. For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Boers Rout the British Troops at Every Point.

BULLER'S ARMY IN RETREAT.

Forced to Recross the Tugela, Leaving Ladysmith to Its Fate—Summary of the Past Week's Battles and Incidents of Campaign.

Friday, Jan. 26.

Gen. Buller's announcement of the abandonment of Spion kop has depressed the British public. It is feared Gen. Buller has met with a more serious repulse than has been made known to the public. London papers consider the situation in South Africa very grave and urge the sending of more troops. In Germany the latest news from South Africa is interpreted as a signal defeat for the British. The Deutsche Tagesblatt Zeitung calls the British position there "another step into the mousetrap." Boer and British forces near Frere camp are within 1,000 yards of each other, and continuously exchange shots. If Ladysmith is taken the road behind is open for the British, being unfortifiable for Boers. There is a report that the Boers have no more ammunition. The British public is angered at the latest defeat, Buller is blamed, and Warren's retreat from Spion kop makes him a target, though a hero the day before. The British have 112,868 men, 19,784 horses, 85 machine guns and 242 field guns in South Africa and 17,369 men at sea. Buller's losses since Jan. 10: Killed, 67; wounded, 579; missing, 69, according to reports made to the war office.

Jan. 27-28.

Buller retreated across Tugela because "a second attack on Spion kop was useless, and enemy's right was too strong to force." Boers claim Buller left 1,500 of his men dead on the field. London admits Ladysmith's capture is almost inevitable. London Times says, "Catastrophe is almost without precedent in our military history, and, indeed, without parallel except the surrender of Yorktown." Details of Spion kop fighting show British took it by surprise and then strongly entrenched; Boers stormed hill under heavy fire, recapturing with great loss and taking 150 prisoners.

Monday, Jan. 29.

Partial reports of Buller's losses announced killed, officers, 23; wounded, 21; missing, 6; rank and file killed, 32; wounded, 120. Pretoria claims 219 British captured in Tugela fighting.—Rumor in London that Roberts recommends surrender of Ladysmith.—Louis Botha commanded Boers at Spionkop.—Berlin press declares British situation desperate and advises them to make peace. Leyds says England must add to territory of Orange Free State and give Transvaal a seaport, both republics to be absolutely independent. Times and Mail urge mobilization of fleet ready for threatening foreign complications. Parliament meets today. Queen's speech gives no hint of future war policy. Opposition will move resolution regretting want of preparation. Cabinet crisis unlikely. American Peace society asks President McKinley to offer to mediate.—Pope told Wilhelmnia he could not interfere in war. London press insists on sending 50,000 to 100,000 more men to the front. Bombardment of Kimberley continued on Jan. 26; slight damage. Lord Roberts expected to invade Orange Free State. Boers using natives on fortifications.

Tuesday, Jan. 30.

Mystery as to Buller's purposes. Lytleton's brigade still at Potgieter's drift, north of Tugela. Dundonald crossed river safely. Another attempt to relieve Ladysmith hardly possible. Roberts likely to advance on Orange River country. Parliament reassembled. Ministry made no announcement of progress of war, but asserted it would be pushed and would be costly. Opposition criticized conduct of war. Rosebury favored compulsory military service. Talk of intervention increased. Military experts say England is now unable to fight any power on land. Leyds appeared satisfied with Berlin visit; said powers would object if British occupy Lourenco Marques. Boers said to lack tea, coffee and sugar.

KILLS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

Charles Bartruff Then Also Tries to Commit Suicide.

Charles Bartruff, a tanner, murdered his wife, 5-year-old son and infant daughter in Cincinnati Sunday and then attempted suicide by burning himself in the midst of the corpses. The baby was found under the stove. Both children were dead, the mother unconscious. She died later. Bartruff was bleeding from a wound in his head. He used a glass jar, which was broken, and a clothes line and the leg of a chair, in his murderous work. The heads of all the victims were horribly battered. The overturned stove was concealed by an ordinary chair and a rocking-chair, which were evidently placed on it to catch fire.

TONS OF MAIL ARE TIED UP.

International Controversy Over Fumigation Causes the Trouble.

International authorities have clashed over the quarantine declared by British Columbia against eastern Washington mails on account of smallpox. Since Tuesday night all American mail over the Spokane Falls & Northern railroad has been tied up at Northport, Wash., at the boundary line. Canadian officials insist that Americans fumigate the mails. Americans insist that Canadians disinfect it. The matter was referred to Washington, and the postmaster general refuses to give orders to disinfect the mail on this side. Meanwhile tons of mail and being stacked up at Northport.

Goebel Man Is Missing.

Relatives of J. W. Bryant of East Bernstadt, Ky., are much worried over his whereabouts. Bryant went to Frankfort several days ago. He left Frankfort for home Friday, but has not reached there. Two men who were on the train say Bryant was shot and killed and pitched from the train window by the crowd as they were returning because he yelled for Goebel.

Wild With ECZEMA

Hands and Limbs Covered with Blisters and Great Red Blotches. Scratched Until Almost Wild. Burned Like Fire. Sleep Impossible. CUTICURA Remedies Bring Speedy Relief and a Permanent Cure at a Cost of Only $2.

I was a sufferer for eight years from that most distressing of all diseases, Eczema. I tried some of the best physicians in the country, but they did me little good. The palms of my hands were covered and would become inflamed; little white blisters at first would appear, then they would peel off, leaving a red, smooth surface which would burn like fire and itch; well, there is no name for it. On the inside of the upper part of both my limbs great red blotches, not unlike hives, would appear, and as soon as I became warm the burning and itching would begin. Night after night I would lie awake all night and scratch and almost go wild. I heard of CUTICURA REMEDIES, got them and gave them a thorough trial, and after a few applications I noticed the redness and inflammation disappear. Before I had used one box there was not a sign of Eczema left. I can truthfully assert that $2.00 worth of CUTICURA REMEDIES cured me. There has been no sign of its return anywhere upon my body since I wrote you I was cured, nearly four years ago. Hardly a month passes but what I receive a letter or some one calls and wishes to know how I got cured, if I had Eczema bad, and if the cure has been permanent, etc., etc. I always take pleasure in enlightening them the best I can.

JOHN D. PORTE, Pittsburg, March 1, 1899.
Of JOHN D. PORTE & CO. Real Estate and Insurance, 428 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema, the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm, the awful suffering of infants and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter, and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That

Cuticura

Remedies are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures and humor remedies of the civilized world. The treatment is simple, direct, agreeable, and economical, and is adapted to the youngest infant as well as adults of every age. Bathe the affected parts with hot water and CUTICURA SOAP to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply CUTICURA Ointment freely to allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and lastly take CUTICURA RESOLVENT to cool and cleanse the blood. This sweet and wholesome treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning, and scaly humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent, and economical cure when all other remedies and even the best physicians fail. CUTICURA THE SOLE, price $1.25; or, CUTICURA SOAP, 25c.; CUTICURA OINTMENT, 50c.; CUTICURA RESOLVENT, 50c., sold throughout the world. CARTOON DEPICTING THE STATE OF MIND FOLLOWING NEWS OF SPION KOP AND BULLER'S RETREAT.

Deep Water Ports.
The growing interest in deep water seaports and cheap transportation by water, gives added importance to the building up of the city of La Porte, Texas. The high, dry ground of La-Porte is in direct contrast with the greater portion of the Mexican Gulf Coast. Marshes, malaria and fevers are unknown. La Porte is to be formally "opened" and introduced to the public February 14 to 17, when it is expected a great crowd of Northern and Texas people will be on hand to inspect the much talked of new seaport of the Gulf. So great is the interest shown that the American Land Co., 188 Madison St., Chicago, acting as Northern Manager, is deluged with letters of inquiry.

How He Got Well.
A Portland invalid called on a local physician for an examination. The doctor made the diagnosis and gave the sufferer a prescription, charging him $10. Some time afterward they met on the street. "Well," said the doctor, "you are looking a hundred per cent better. That medicine, though a little expensive, was just what you needed." "Doctor," replied the patient, "after I paid you $10 for the prescription, I couldn't afford to have it filled, so I didn't take any medicine."—Portland Oregonian.

A Double Attraction.
Mr. Bunsby—"If that young man's coming here to see you every day in the week, you had better give him a hint to come after supper." Miss Bunsby—"I don't think it's necessary, pa. That's what he comes after."

Dr. Watson ("Ian Maclaren") makes a fine beginning of his "Life of the Master" in McClure's Magazine for January with chapters covering the period of youth and childhood. His method is to make full and coherent record of the outer, material facts, but at the same time to make plain all of the inner, spiritual significance; and the result is a presentation interesting as pure narrative and yet of high poetic and devotional quality. The same aim appears also in Mr. C. K. Linson's pictures. Of these there are eight beautiful full-page pictures in color—a feat in color reproduction beyond anything previously attempted in magazine work; and a number of smaller, but scarcely less beautiful, pictures in black and white.

None but the guilty can be long and complacently miserable.

My Hair Was Coming Out

"About a year ago my hair was coming out very fast. I bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor to stop this. It not only stopped the falling, but also made my hair grow very rapidly, until now it is 45 inches in length and very thick."—Mrs. A. Boydston, Atchison, Kans., July 25, 1899.

It Feeds the Hair

Have you ever thought why your hair is falling out? It is because you are starving your hair. If this starvation continues your hair will continue to fall.

There is one good hair food. It is Ayer's Hair Vigor. It goes right to the roots of the hair and gives them just the food that they need. The hair stops falling, becomes healthy, and grows thick and long.

Ayer's Hair Vigor will do another thing, also: it always restores color to faded or gray hair. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Write the Doctor

If you do not obtain all the benefits you desire from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor about it. He will tell you just the right thing to do, and will send you his book on the Hair and Scalp if you request it. Address, Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

BOWEL BAY-WINDOWS

When a man gets one, he becomes a slave to his bowels. Every person ought to have control over the different parts of the body, and it is the easiest thing in the world to educate the bowels, make them do their duty naturally and regularly, and keep them from becoming a source of misery and a deformity as well.

Educate your bowels!
Don't neglect the slightest sign of irregularity but see that you have at least one natural easy movement a day. Pills, salts and black draughts are dangerous because they strain and weaken the bowels. What you want is a mild but sure laxative, that tones and strengthens the bowels and stimulates their movements. Such a laxative is CASCARETS, and when you try them, you will find that it is the easiest thing in the world to make and keep your bowels clean and regular, strong and healthy. Be sure you get the genuine. CASCARETS are never sold in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the long-tailed "C" on the box. By keeping the bowels clean, all serious disorders are Interesting Tax Figures.

There are several items of interest in the new tax levy. The total tax of Lake county for district schools, including all the city schools, except the township High school at Deerfield, is $109,568.58. Of this $26,008.28 is for the school of Waukegan. The extra school tax for the township High school at Deerfield is $5,035.46.

The tax levy for the cities of the county, including Waukegan, Lake Forest and Highland Park, for city purposes is $71,272.90, of which $29,641.28 is the Waukegan tax for city current expenses.

The tax for Lake county villages is $13,681.52. The total tax for running the cities and villages is $84,654.50, an amount $29,650.54 less than the levy for schools. It apparently costs more to educate the children than to run the towns.

The road and bridge tax of the county is $39,587.92. The township of Waukegan will contribute to this total $9,481.47. In addition to this a gravel tax raised in Cuba and West Deerfield is also for road improvement. Cuba raises $1,125.55 gravel tax and West Deerfield $1,616.94.

The amount of back taxes due the village of North Chicago is $4,785.92. The interests and costs due on the same are $1,178.02. Most of this is due from the Washburn & Moen Mfg. company.

County Clerk Hendee gives out the total assessment for Lake county as being $334,524.82.

Waukegan's levy, of course, is the largest in the county, while Shields holds second place, its levy being $64,820.77. Grant's is the smallest or $3,081.47.

The total tax is a little higher than last year, but the state and county tax is a little lower. The tax rate on real estate is a trifle lower on account of the increased personal tax, but the total is a little more than the total last year.—Waukegan Sun.
