C. D. Taylor returned from Peoria last Saturday where he attended the supreme court of the Court of Honor as a delegate. A very interesting session was held and much work done. Mr. Taylor was instrumental in having a change in the by-laws favorable to taking in members in Chicago, passed. He was placed on committees of the order.

Memorial Day passed off very smooth in Palatine. The exercises were held in the Methodist church which was handsomely decorated in the national colors. The pupils of the public school assisted in the exercises and led in the singing of patriotic songs. The oration was delivered by Hon. Frank Joslyn of Elgin, who made an eloquent, masterly address filled with touching remembrances for the brave defenders of the flag. His address was listened to with interest. Rev. J. C. Hoffmeister of St. Paul's church delivered a short, but stirring patriotic address and his speech was well received. The vocal trio by Mesdames Smyser, Heise and Hardin was beautiful and well rendered. The ceremonies were continued at the cemetery where the beautiful custom of laying flowers on the graves of the old soldiers was performed by the pupils of the school assisted by the old comrades. The service to the unknown and the reading of the list of soldiers buried in the cemetery was gone through with as usual. After the ceremonies at the German cemetery the procession moved to the church and disbanded. The memorial association held its meeting and decided to place a stone on the grave of each soldier in the cemetery.

Township Abolishment.

A good-sized crowd attended the mass meeting in the village hall Monday evening which was held for the purpose of devising means to fight the township organization abolishment as proposed by Chicago. Mr. Thieman of Wheeling addressed the meeting and told what had been done in Chicago to intercept the same. Mr. Thieman expressed the minds of the people when he proposed the dividing of Cook county into two counties, making the country towns a county by itself. This seems the most feasible plan yet introduced, as it would soon put our taxes down to the level with adjoining counties and at the same time give us much better service. We see no reason why the project is not a good one. It is true that a new court house and other necessities will cost something, but we believe the present rate of taxes will pay for all expenses and when paid for our taxes will drop to the rate of adjoining counties. There is no reason why such would not be the case.

Chairman Staples appointed the following committee to confer with committees in other towns: A. S. Olms, W. Linnemann, C. H. Patten, H. F. Battermann, E. Beutler and H. Hoemier. He appointed the following as a finance committee: H. V. Harz, R. M. Putnam and J. G. Horstman.

Carl Yonson.

The Woodmen had another large turnout to their drama and dance in Battermann's hall Friday night and the audience was well pleased.

Otto Schmidt, as Carl Yonson, won applause throughout the play with his impersonation. Mr. Schmidt went onto the stage feeling quite ill, but this did not mar his acting and he kept the audience in a merry mood. The other parts were well presented and not a change could be suggested to better the play. M. C. McIntosh made a short address and Misses Bertha Horstmann and Lydia Knigge sang in their usual pleasing manner and responded to an encore, as did Miss Elnora Arps, who is coming to the front as a soloist.

Charles Julian recited and received as much response as the older ones.

The dance was well attended and greatly enjoyed.

Musical Recital.

The musicale given by Miss Mary Putnam assisted by several students in J. I. Sears' class of music was a pleasing one. The program so ably executed by the young ladies is as follows:

Palatine 23, Arlington Heights 18.

Palatine high school won its second game from the Arlington Heights team last Saturday afternoon on the home grounds. The game was witnessed by a large crowd and was an exciting contest throughout. The score was tied at several stages of the game and the high school boys won the game, 23 to 18, by throwing the last three men out at first. Beutler and Filbert put up a good game, Beutler striking out many of the visitors. The boys go to Wauconda this afternoon to cross bats with the high school team of that place.

Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pains in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partly digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by all druggists, Barrington; A. S. Olms, Palatine.

Memorial Day in Barrington.

The Memorial exercises held Wednesday under the auspices of Barrington Post, No. 275, G. A. R., assisted by the W. R. C., was attended by an unusually large crowd. The procession was formed at the public square at 10 o'clock in the morning, headed by the Barrington M. W. A. band. Nearly all the children of the Barrington public schools were in line and the girls were dressed in white. The procession marched to Evergreen cemetery first and decorated the graves of the dead brave there. From there they marched to the Lutheran cemetery to decorate the graves of the soldiers interred in that cemetery and then adjourned for dinner.

In the afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the procession was re-formed and marched to the platform erected on Grove avenue for the occasion, where the exercises of the day were held.

Dr. J. B. Robinson delivered the principal address which was full of patriotism.

Mr. Roy Peck also delivered an address which was well received. Mr. Peck is fast becoming popular as a public speaker.

Mr. LeRoy Powers read the address which was delivered by President Lincoln on November 19, 1863, at the dedication of a soldier's burial lot purchased by the State of Pennsylvania, located on the scene of the battle of Gettysburg.

The McKinley quartette consisting of P. A. Hawley, Dr. C. Kendall, F. J. Hawley, and L. H. Bennett, sang several songs and were loudly applauded. The school children also favored the audience with songs.

The exercises of the day were closed with a musical festival given under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps at the M. E. church in the evening. The church was well filled and the program rendered was one of the best of its kind ever given in Barrington. Every number on the program was a good one. After the program ice cream and cake were served in the church parlors. The following is the program rendered:

An unusual number of persons, lacking in civic pride, are killing themselves in Chicago just on the verge of census taking.

The United States navy is long on admirals and short on able seamen—a condition arising from the fact that admirals are made, while seamen have to be enlisted.

One of the senate committees is now investigating the alleged deleterious action of alum as a constituent of baking powder, which was demonstrated many years ago in England.

President McKinley has sent to the senate a letter from Gen. Otis transmitting a letter of Aguinaldo, dated at Malolos, Jan. 17, 1899, warning Senator Bonito Legardo to this effect: "I beg you to leave Manila with your family and come here to Malolos, but not because I wish to frighten you. I merely wish to warn you for your satisfaction, although it is not yet the day or the week."

In replying with considerable asperity to the invitation to be present at the Chicago celebration of the anniversary of Dewey's victory at Manila, Duke D'Arcos, the Spanish Minister, was following the general lines of diplomatic usage.

It is everywhere recognized that a soldier is best paid for doing his duty by a strip of ribbon or a peculiarly valueless medal. On the other hand, a badge in itself often spurs on its owner to deeds of valor and honor.

After a lapse of over thirty years, Rear Admiral Hichborn, the chief constructor of the United States navy, returns to California, the state from which he was appointed in the navy as an assistant naval constructor in 1869.

The proverbial foible of many persons for concealing or misrepresenting their ages is proved by the census to be a reality. Careful scrutiny of the returns of population according to ages in successive census years shows that there is a widespread tendency among boys and girls to report themselves older than they really are, as if to anticipate manhood and womanhood.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

REWARDS OF ENDEAVOR SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Following Text—"I Have Finished the Work Which Thou Gavest Me to Do"—John XVII, 4—The Fruits of Well Won Victory.

[Copyright, 1900, by Louis Kloppsch.]

There is a profound satisfaction in the completion of anything we have undertaken. We lift the capstone with exultation, while, on the other hand, there is nothing more disappointing than after having toiled in a certain direction to find that our time is wasted and our investment profitless. Christ came to throw up a highway on which the whole world might, if it chose, mount into heaven. He did it. The foul mouthed crew who attempted to tread on him could not extinguish the sublime satisfaction which he expressed when he said, "I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do."

Alexander the Great was wounded, and the doctors could not medicate his wounds, and he seemed to be dying, and in his dream the sick man saw a plant with a peculiar flower, and he dreamed that that plant was put upon his wound and that immediately it was cured. And Alexander, waking from his dream, told this to the physician, and the physician wandered out until he found just the kind of plant which the sick man had described, brought it to him, and the wound was healed. Well, the human race had been hurt with the ghastliest of all wounds—that of sin. It was the business of Christ to bring a balm for that wound—the balm of divine restoration. In carrying this business to a successful issue the difficulties were stupendous.

The Spiritual Uplifting.

In many of our plans we have our friends to help us; some to draw a sketch of the plan, others to help us in the execution. But Christ fought every inch of his way against bitter hostility and amid circumstances all calculated to depress and defeat.

In his father's shop no more intercourse was necessary than is ordinarily necessary in bargaining with men that have work to do; yet Christ, with hands hard from use of tools of trade, was called forth to become a public speaker, to preach in the face of mobs, while some wept and some shook their fists and some gnashed upon him with their teeth and many wanted him out of the way. To address orderly and respectful assemblages is not so easy as it may seem, but it requires more energy and more force and more concentration to address an exasperated mob. The villagers of Nazareth heard the pounding of his hammer, but all the wide reaches of eternity were to hear the stroke of his spiritual upbuilding.

So also the habits of dress and diet were against him. The mighty men of Christ's time did not appear in apparel without trinkets and adornments. None of the Caesars would have appeared in citizen's apparel. Yet here was a man, here was a professed king, who always wore the same coat. Indeed, it was far from shabby, for after he had worn it a long while the gamblers thought it worth raffling about, but still it was far from being an imperial robe. It was a coat that any ordinary man might have worn on an ordinary occasion.

Neither was there any pretension in his diet. No cupbearer with golden chalice brought him wine to drink. On the seashore he ate fish, first having broiled it himself. No one fetched him water to drink; but, bending over the well in Samaria, he begged a drink. He sat at only one banquet, and that not at all sumptuous, for to relieve the awkwardness of the host one of the guests had to prepare wine for the company.

Man Without a Diploma.

All this was against Christ. So the fact that he was not regularly graduated was against him. If a man come with the diplomas of colleges and schools and theological seminaries, and he has been through foreign travel, the world is disposed to listen. But here was a man who had graduated at no college, had not in any academy by ordinary means learned the alphabet of the language he spoke, and yet he proposed to talk, to instruct in subjects which had confounded the mightiest intellects. John says: "The Jews marveled, saying, How hath this man letters, having never learned?" We, in our day, have found out that a man without a diploma may know as much as a man with one and that a college can not transform a sluggard into a philosopher or a theological seminary teach a fool to preach. An empty head after the laying on of hands of the presbytery is empty still. But it shocked all existing prejudices in those olden times for a man with no scholastic pretensions and no graduation from a learned institution to set himself up for a teacher. It was against him.

So also the brevity of his life was against him. He had not come to what we call mid-life. But very few men do anything before 33 years of age, and yet that was the point at which Christ's life terminated. The first 15 years you take in nursery and school. Then it will take you six years to get into your occupation or profession. That will bring you to 21 years. Then it will take you ten years at least to get established in your life work, correcting the mistakes you have made. If any man at 33 years of age gets fully established in his life work he is the exception. Yet that is the point at which Christ's life terminated.

"Blessed Are the Poor."

Popular opinion declared in those days, "Blessed is the merchant who has a castle down on the banks of Lake Tiberias." This young man said, "Blessed are the poor." Popular opinion said in those days, "Blessed are those who live amid statuary and fountains and gardens and congratulations and all kinds of festivity." This young man responded, "Blessed are they that mourn." Public opinion in those days said, "Blessed is the Roman eagle, the flap of whose wing startles nations and the plunge of whose iron beak inflicts cruelty upon its enemies." This young man responded, "Blessed are the merciful." Popular opinion said, "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth." In other words, if a man knocks your eye out knock his out. If a man breaks your tooth break his. Retort for retort, sarcasm for sarcasm, irony for irony, persecution for persecution, wound for wound. Christ said, "Pray for them that despitefully use you." They looked at his eye. It was like any other man's eye, except perhaps more speaking. They felt his hand, made of bone and muscle and nerves and flesh, just like any other hand. Yet what bold treatment of subjects, what supernatural demands, what strange doctrine! They felt the solid earth under them, and yet Christ said, "I bear up the pillars of this world." They looked at the moon. He said, "I will turn it into blood." They looked at the sea. He said, "I will hush it." They looked at the stars. He said, "I will shake them down like untimely figs." Did ever one so young say things so bold? It was all against him.

After the battle of Antietam, when a general rode along the lines, although the soldiers were lying down exhausted, they rose with great enthusiasm and huzzaed. As Napoleon returned from his captivity his first step on the wharf shook all the kingdoms, and 250,000 men flocked to his standard. It took 3,000 troops to watch him in his exile. So there have been men of wonderful magnetism of person. But hear me while I tell you of a poor young man who came up from Nazareth to produce a thrill which has never been excited by any other. Napoleon had around him the memories of Marengo and Austerlitz and Jena, but here was a man who had fought no battles, who wore no epaulettes, who brandished no sword. He had probably never seen a prince or shaken hands with a nobleman. The only extraordinary person we know of as being in his company was his own mother, and she was so poor that in the most delicate and solemn hour that comes to a woman's soul she was obliged to lie down among drivers grooming the beasts of burden.

The Question of Lineage.

I imagine Christ one day standing in the streets of Jerusalem. A man descended from high lineage is standing beside him, and says: "My father was a merchant prince. He had a castle on the beach in Galilee. Who was your father?" Christ answers, "Joseph, the carpenter." A man from Athens is standing there unrolling his parchment of graduation and says to Christ, "Where did you go to school?" Christ answers, "I never graduated." Aha, the idea of such an unheralded young man attempting to command the attention of the world! As well some little fishing village on Long Island shore attempt to arraign New York. Yet no sooner does he set foot in the towns or cities of Judaea than everything is in commotion. The people go out on a picnic, taking only food enough for a day, yet are so fascinated with Christ that at the risk of starving they follow him out into the wilderness. A nobleman falls down flat before him and says, "My daughter is dead." A beggar tries to rub the dimness from his eyes and says, "Lord, that my eyes may be opened." "A poor, sick, panting woman presses through the crowd and says, 'I must touch the hem of his garment.'" Children who love their mother better than any one else struggle to get into his arms, and to kiss his cheek, and to run their fingers through his hair, and for all time putting Jesus so in love with the little ones that there is hardly a nursery in Christendom from which he does not take one, saying, "I must have them. I will fill heaven with these, for every cedar that I plant in heaven I will have 50 white lillies. In the hour when I was a poor man in Judaea they were not ashamed of me, and now that I have come to a throne I do not despise them. Hold it not back, O weeping mother! Lay it on my warm heart. Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Victory Over Nature.

See him victorious over the forces of nature. The sea is a crystal sepulcher. It swallowed the Central American, the President and the Spanish armada as easily as any fly that ever floated on it. The inland lakes are fully as terrible in their wrath. Some of us who have sailed on it know that Lake Galilee, when aroused in a storm, is overwhelming, and yet that sea crouched in his presence, and licked his feet. He knew all the waves and the wind. When he beckoned they came. When he frowned, they fled. The heel of his foot made no indentation on the solidified water. Medical science has wrought great changes in rheumatic limbs and diseased blood, but when the muscles are entirely withered no human power can restore them, and when a limb is once dead it is dead. But here is a paralytic—his hand lifeless. Christ says to him, "Stretch forth thy hand," and he stretches it forth.

In the eye infirmity how many diseases of that delicate organ have been cured? But Jesus says to one blind, "Be open!" and the light of heaven rushes through gates that have never before been opened. The frost or an ax may kill a tree, but Jesus smites one dead with a word. Chemistry may do many wonderful things, but what chemist at a wedding when the wine gave out could change a pail of water into a cask of wine? What human voice could command a school of fish? Yet here is a voice that marshals the scaly tribes, until in a place where they had let down the net and pulled it up with no fish in it they let it down again, and the disciples lay hold and began to pull, when by reason of the multitude of fish the net broke. Nature is his servant. The flowers—he twisted them into his sermons; the winds—they were his lullaby when he slept in the boat; the rain—it hung glitteringly on the thick foliage of the parables; the star of Bethlehem—it sang a Christmas carol over his birth; the rocks—they beat a dirge at his death. Behold his victory over the grave! The hinges of the family vault become very rusty because they are never opened except to take another in. There is a knob on the outside of the door of the sepulcher, but none on the inside. Here comes the conqueror of death. He enters that realm and says, "Daughter of Jairus, sit up!" and she sits up. To Lazarus, "Come forth!" and he came forth. To the widow's son he said, "Get up from that bier!" and he goes home with his mother. Then Jesus snatched up the keys of death and hung them to his girdle and cried until all the graveyards of the earth heard him, "O Death, I will be thy plague! O Grave, I will be thy destruction!"

The Supernatural Nature.

No man could go through all the obstacles I have described, you say, without having a nature supernatural. In that arm, amid its muscles and nerves and bones, were intertwined the energies of omnipotence. In the syllables of that voice there was the emphasis of the eternal God. That foot that walked the deck of the ship in Gennesaret shall stamp kingdoms of darkness into demotion. This poverty struck Christ owned Augustus, owned the sanhedrin, owned Tiberias, owned all the castles on its beach and all the skies that looked down into its water, owned all the earth and all the heavens. To him of the plain coast belonged the robes of celestial royalty. He who walked the road to Emmaus the lightnings were the fire shoe steeds of his chariot. Yet there are those who look on and see Christ turn water into wine, and they say, "It was sleight of hand!" And they see Christ raise the dead to life, and they say, "Easily explained; not really dead; playing dead." And they see Christ giving sight to the blind man, and they say, "Clairvoyant doctor." Oh what shall they do on the day when Christ rises up in judgment and the hills shall rock and the trumpets shall call, peal on peal?

Christ a Sympathizer.

My subject also reassures us of the fact that in all our struggles we have a sympathizer. You cannot tell Christ anything new about hardship. I do not think that wide ages of eternity will take the scars from his punctured side and his lacerated temples and his sore hands. You will never have a burden weighing so many pounds as that burden Christ carried up the bloody hill. You will never have any suffering worse than he endured, when with tongue hot and cracked and inflamed and swollen, he moaned, "I thirst." You will never be surrounded by worse hostility than that which stood around Christ's feet, foaming, reviling, livid with rage, howling down his prayers, and snuffing up the smell of blood. O ye faint hearted, O ye troubled, O ye persecuted one, here is a heart that can sympathize with you!

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Big Glucose Combine Forming—Bloomington Bucket Shop Closed—Fire at Galesburg—Clergyman Jailed at Nashville—Canal Not Navigable.

Joliet Steel Mills Close Down.

Joliet.—The local mills of the Federal Steel Company have closed down for an indefinite period, except the Merchant mill and the blast furnaces. Between 700 and 1,000 men are affected by this shut-down. The closing of the rod mills a few weeks ago was the first general reduction in the force, and now this step cuts the active list down to a low figure. It is said that the closing of the tin plate works, which, by the way, are still idle, has its effect on the billet mill at the steel works, reducing the demand. The material has been piling up in the yards and men realized that unless there was a big jump in the sales the mills must stop.

Clergyman Is Sent to Jail.

Nashville.—Rev. Oscar Ketsch, who for three years has been one of the leading German ministers of this city, was arrested and lodged in the county jail on a charge of larceny. Mr. Ketsch has been filling the pulpit temporarily in the German Evangelical Church at Biddleborn, south of this city, and some three weeks ago was arrested at the instigation of several members of the congregation and arraigned before a justice on a charge of having removed valuable property from the church. The minister was found not guilty and released, but today was arrested on the same charge and brought before another justice, who found him guilty.

Rural Mail to Be Delivered.

Hoopeston.—Two rural free delivery mail routes each covering a territory of thirty-six square miles surrounding this city, have been recommended for immediate establishment by Special Agent A. B. Smith of the rural free delivery system of the postoffice department at Washington. Agent Smith went over the contemplated routes in company with Postmaster Charles W. Warner of this city. The routes are to be known as No. 1 and No. 2, and each is twenty-five and one-half miles in length. The mail will be delivered to 200 homes on these routes each day, beginning about the middle of June.

Bloomington Bucket Shop Suspends.

Bloomington.—Commotion has been caused in the ranks of Bloomington grain speculators and bucket shop habitués by the disappearance of William Fildes, who for some months has conducted a "board of trade" in this city. Fildes has not been seen here since Monday night, and it is reported he is in Chicago. His place of business is closed. Fildes is behind in his accounts with local speculators. It is known that he owes some fifteen customers between $3,000 and $4,000. Fildes is said to have lost several thousand dollars in sugar within the past week.

Must Deepen the Old Canal.

Lockport.—Deepening of the Illinois and Michigan canal for several miles from Chicago will have to be carried out by the sanitary trustees before the channel will be navigable for the boats that have hitherto plied upon it, with a flow of only 15,000 cubic feet a minute going through the Bridgeport pumps. Measurements recently made under the direction of Chief Engineer Randolph show that the slope of the canal is much steeper than was supposed, the upper end being generally about a foot higher than was indicated on the maps made in 1892.

Galesburg Brick Plant Damaged.

Galesburg.—The dry house of the Galesburg Paving Brick Company caught fire and the flames spread, destroying the machinery building and damaging the boiler room. The loss is estimated at $40,000. President E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe is the heaviest investor. The insurance follows: Phoenix of Brooklyn, $2,500; Svea of Gothenburg, $1,000; Royal of Liverpool, $1,500; North British, $1,500; Connecticut, $1,000; Franklin, $1,500; Farmers' of York, $2,000; Hamburg and Bremen, $1,000; Continental, $1,500.

For a New Glucose Combine.

Rockford.—The Rockford plant of the Glucose Sugar Refining Company closed its grinding department Tuesday and repairs to cost $50,000 are being made. Managers of the Rockford plant say that the shut-down is temporary and that the concern will be running again in a month or six weeks. The statement is made here that when the glucose plant in this city and those at other points are started up again the company owning and operating them will not be the Glucose Sugar Refining Company.

OUTINGS ARE NECESSARY.

Change Is at Once Restful to Women and Good for Their Nerves.

When your nerves are taut and rough-edged and ajar, when you know that, though your family and friends may excuse you and give the trouble some softer name, you are simply unbearably perverse and as cross as a fretful baby, do not resort to drugs. A fatal error of many a woman is to try this soothing powder, that alleviating pill, the other, persuasive potion, and float out on the lulling waves of sleep into a sea of beautiful dreams. Neither stimulants affording a temporary crutch nor narcotics with their transient and delusive aid should be taken by women on their own suggestion, or taken at all, except when ordered by a trustworthy physician.

Try change. More immediately restful than any other step you will find an ocean voyage. Marvelous is the tonic of the sea. Once cut loose from the land, from the mails, from your friends, from domestic cares for a week's or a month's voyage, you are without your own effort or volition made over into a new creature. A mother hesitates to leave her children, not realizing that occasionally the best gift she can bestow upon them is her absence. Everlastingly at home, one's horizon narrows; one loses the sense of perspective. Dear as children may be, so unutterably dear that to lay down one's life for them would be easy, there are times when the dictate of unselfish love is not to die for them, but to live for them, and to live not a half-toned, sighing, fluttering existence, but a large, wholesome and rejoicing life. If the wearied woman can compass an ocean trip she will find nothing in nature's wide pharmacopoeia more successful in uplifting her from her slough of despond, says Harper's Bazar.

Everybody can not afford a prolonged jaunt, and many women, looking at the meager purse from which the means for travel must be extracted, shake mournful heads at the mere hint of going away from home. Everybody can manage a day's outing, and whether our home be in town or country a little resolution, a little previous planning and a decided acceptance of the worth while of endeavor will start us on the journey. The thing to do is to take the road. We may have the big carryall brought to the door, the horses harnessed, the good man on the seat and the back of the carriage filled with picnic baskets and presents for mother and Aunt Jane, and off we may start to try being girls again at home.

UGLY GIRL'S ADVANTAGE.

As an Actress Her Merit Is Acknowledged.

To a beginner with any serious ambition, beauty gives her a prominence which her inexperience and incomplete art can not justify, and when, with years of hard work, her latent talents reach their dramatic fulfillment, her recognition as an artist is likely to be much more grudgingly given, because, forsooth, a beauty, and therefore, presumably, a fool, says Maxine Elliott in Leslie's Weekly. "The ugly girl, who begins her career at the same time, possessing no more ability than the beauty, has the advantage of working out her salvation in comparative obscurity—that is, she has no unfavorable impressions to efface from the public mind, because it has never even noticed her struggling up, step by step, in the same little parts the beauty played with more or less adverse comments.

"Finally, the chance that is worth while comes to the ugly girl when she is properly equipped to take advantage of it, and lo! an artist is recognized, and the credit due her work is given to it. Fools do not whisper in her ear, 'I loved you in the part, you looked so beautiful.' Emphatically, looking beautiful never made an audience love a player, and she can lay the flattering unction to her soul that something better than that brought forth the compliment, even though the giver did not recognize the fact. Beauty is a fact that will not let an actress go far unless supplemented with the temperament, intelligence and industry required. Dispense with beauty altogether, and the last three qualifications mean success."

A Canary's Funeral.

The pet canary of a New York family succumbed to an attack of grip the other day. The five small Smiths—and even the neighbor children—mourned uproariously. The funeral services were thus described in a letter by Wilfred, aged 10: "We buried Chirp under the dead tree in the yard. I dug the grave and Sylvia gave the coffin. Montmorency and me sang a hymn. We pretended it was a hymn, but it was a song Mrs. Wilson suggested about sparrows falling and God watching over; maybe you have heard it. Montmorency knew it before. Then I preached a sermon over the tomb. Rose danced a skirt dance and we all wept."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Prompt Encounter.

"Billy, can you always meet your expenses on time?" "No; but my expenses always meet me on time."

Children's playgrounds in cities are, very properly, a subject of increasing interest throughout the country. In Baltimore recently the Children's Playground association held a successful co-operative bazaar in a military armory. The association conducted nine playgrounds and a swimming pool last summer and hopes to add to the number this year.

Li Hung Chang has decided to start a government lottery to secure funds for the suppression of pirates. This is perhaps better than taxing piracy in order to pay for stopping the policy players, but the difference in the moral aspect of the two schemes is scarcely discernible at this distance.

There seems to be a general disposition in the steel and iron trade to lift John W. Gates off his hinges and relegate him to the poker room, where he has recently won some distinction.

Increasing demand for electrical power from Niagara falls and the approaching Pan-American exposition at Buffalo have induced the construction of a second wheel pit and station at the falls. Eleven new turbines will add 55,000 horsepower to the 50,000 already supplied by ten turbines. More electrical power is now produced at the falls than under any other single roof in the world, and the addition will more than double it.

Pretoria, the capital of the Transvaal, is said to be a veritable city of roses. The town nestles among hedges of roses, which grow everywhere in wild profusion. It may be fairly assumed, however, that Oom Paul does not at this particular time do much reclining on beds of them.

At a real estate auction in New York the other day one man got excited and raised his own bid $500, after which the property was knocked down to him. And yet some people wonder why the metropolis continues to furnish the best market for gold bricks.

The little town of Senola, Ga., has subscribed over $40,000 toward a $100,000 cotton mill. It is getting so that no well regulated town in the cotton belt is considered in the swim if it hasn't a cotton mill of its own.

England wants about 30,000 American horses for use in South Africa. The period of the horseless war is not yet here, nor is it ever likely to arrive.

Our gallant navy continues to distinguish itself. It is probable that had the United States training ship Monongahela not arrived in Hampton Roads in time Miss Cissy Loftus would not have lived to tell the story of her experience in the water, as it was a jackie from the government ship who leaped overboard and went to her rescue when she fell off the pier.

The earthquake proof palace of the crown prince of Japan is to be built of American steel. If it can be shown that we can construct buildings that cannot be seismically shaken down, our steel trade will soon have a boom in the earthquake countries.

The recent arrest of a large number of women speculators in Chicago looks like a clear case of discrimination between the sexes. Why hasn't a woman just as good a right to get swindled as a man?

If all the gentlemen whose names have been mentioned for the vice presidential nomination conclude to make a fight, the convention at Philadelphia may develop some excitement.

The governor of New York has approved an act passed by the last legislature which provides for the survey of a 12 foot canal from Lake Erie to the Atlantic seaboard. The idea is to provide a waterway which will float boats 150 feet long and carrying 1,000 tons.

John D. Rockefeller has offered to give Denison university $100,000 if the trustees will secure other subscriptions amounting to $125,000 before the close of the present term. It must be great fun for Mr. Rockefeller to see college presidents and trustees hustle.

On the same basis that gave him the title of Lord Roberts of Kandahar "Little Bobs" may yet loom up in history as the Duke of Pretoria.

General Cronje has a little at least to be thankful for. The English war poets cannot make his name rhyme.

With the task imposed upon him of raising about $800,000,000 for the prosecution of the war in South Africa the chancellor of the exchequer is likely to be the most denounced man in England.

Soon the commencement orator and the sweet girl graduate will settle for the waiting world those great problems over which statesmen are pondering and soldiers fighting.

Apparently "Little Bobs" figures that if he can send more generals to London he will be obliged to send fewer privates to the Pretoria race track.

If the United States will give Turkey a good thrashing, the European powers will gladly attend to dividing the remains.

Hawaii's total trade with this country last year amounted to over $37,000,000, of which $15,000,000 was imports by the islanders. American machinery worth more than $2,000,000 arrived at Honolulu, or double the importation of the previous year.

The First War Correspondent.
As far as can be gathered, the first recognized war correspondent to a newspaper was a man, whose name, unhappily, has sunk into oblivion, at the siege of Antwerp in 1831. Much earlier in the century, though, there was in an informal and unrecognized manner a witness named Peter Finnerly—one can make a shrewd guess at his nationality—"who on his return from the Walcheren expedition told the British public a good deal more about that unfortunate naval and military blunder than the British government of the day cared to have published." There was, too, some really admirable pen and ink work about the Carlist war in the London papers, notably by Frederick Hardman and C. L. Gruinesen. Mr. Gruinesen fell into the hands of the Carlists and was about to be shot when he was rescued from his impending fate by the intercession of the late Lord Ranelagh, who had taken service in the cause of Don Carlos de Bourbon.—London Post.

Made It a Burlesque.
Franklin Fyles recalls some amusing first night experiences in his article on "The Theater and Its People" in The Ladies' Home Journal. One he relates is of Laura Don, now dead: "She had the role of an Egyptian princess in 'Fresh, the American.' It was intended that she should be seriously and sentimentally impressive, while the late John T. Raymond, the star of the company, should be contrastingly comical as the lover. But the audience would not have it so. Nor was it anything in Miss Don's appearance, for she was beautiful, nor in her acting, for it was clever, that made the people laugh. It came of a miscalculation by the author. The quick witted woman, seeing that she could not control the audience, resolved to humor it. By an exaggeration of speech and manner she turned the part into burlesque, and it was always after acted in that way."

Mr. Fyles also tells that "in 'Cleopatra,' as produced by the late Fanny Davenport, a general should have given to his queen an impetuous account of a battle which he had won. But he stood wordless, silent, stuck fast. 'You have come to tell me,' Miss Davenport said and then went on with the narrative which he should have spoken."

The Iceland Dinner.
In Iceland the native's dinner usually consists of dried fish and butter. The fish is ling or cod, which, when caught, is split open and then hung on the lines by the seashore to dry in the cold winds and hot sun. When thus preserved, they will keep for years, being as hard as the nether millstone. When wanted for dinner, the fish is well hammered by a stone mallet and then cut up into strips. In this state it is eaten, but it is said that it needs an Icelander's teeth to get through the meal. The butter is not spread on the fish, but the two are taken alternately, first a mouthful of fish, then a mouthful of butter. It may easily be supposed that the Icelander is thankful to have his jaws well greased after every mouthful of the tough morsel.

A physician calculates that it takes eight times the strength to go up stairs that is required for the same distance on the level.

Chichester cathedral spire is the only one which can be seen from the sea along the coast of Great Britain.

The holiday shopping season now being over, the girl behind the bargain counter can get a little needed rest.

George Ponsot of Elgin was a caller in our village Wednesday.

Mrs. J. W. Torrance transacted business in Chicago Monday.

A. King of Rockefeller was a pleasant caller in our village Sunday.

Verne and Wm. Torrance, who are working in Elgin, spent Memorial day at home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hapke and family visited with relatives at Waukegan Sunday.

C. A. Golding came out from Chicago Saturday to spend a two weeks' vacation at home.

Messrs. McCracken and Monroe of Chicago spent Sunday with friends in our village and vicinity.

Messrs. H. Golding, L. C. Price, J. P. Blanck, M. W. Hughes and H. E. Malman transacted business in Chicago Tuesday.

Mrs. Hogan and daughter of Waukegan, who have been spending the past week with Mrs. Harrison and daughter, returned home Thursday.

Misses Daisy Grosvenor and Edith Turnbull went to Waukegan Friday to take the teachers' examination. They returned home Saturday, accompanied by Will Dillon of Chicago.

The ball game Wednesday between the Wauconda Junior team and the Nunda team proved a victory for the latter by a score of 17 to 10. Both teams put up a good, interesting game. Griswold and Hanlon was the battery for the Waucondas, doing excellent work. This is the first regular game our boys have played this season and, with this taken into consideration, they put up an excellent game.

The band concert by the Barrington M. W. A. band Wednesday evening closed Memorial Day in a most delightful manner. At 7 o'clock the forester team gave an exhibition drill on Main street which was fine and elicited loud applause. This was followed by several selections by the band, after which all adjourned to the Oakland hall, where the evening's program was rendered. It proved one of the finest entertainments given in our village for many months. Although the hall was not filled to its capacity, a good crowd was in attendance and the gross receipts amounted to about $40.

Memorial day was appropriately observed in our village Wednesday and, as usual, a large crowd was in attendance. Each year shows this day to be more generally observed. It is a national holiday and as we stop to reflect it is proper and right that we show respect for our country's defenders and at least once a year cause their graves to be strewn with flowers and have the thoughts of their brave deeds brought back to our memory. The day this year proved exceedingly fine and with nothing to mar the arrangements all passed off nicely. The procession was formed at G. A. R. hall and marched to the cemetery, headed by the Wauconda Martial band, where the usual post ceremonies were held, followed by the decoration of the soldiers' graves. The procession then marched to the Oakland hall, where an excellent program was rendered, concluding with an address by Rev. Hardin of Chicago, which was fine and highly enjoyed by all.

HORTON-RUEFLI.

Thursday evening of last week occurred the marriage of Miss Lina M. Ruefli to Mr. Frank R. Horton at the home of the bride's parent, 702 Raymond street, Elgin. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the Elgin Episcopal church, Rev. Fossett.

The bride's attire was of white silk, covered with white organda and she carried a bouquet of ferns and bridal roses.

The bride was given away by her brother Oscar and was attended by her sister, Miss Bertha, and Leuther Lincoln acted as best man.

The parlor was beautifully decorated with carnations, roses and palms and the couple was married beneath a canopy of smilax.

At 7 o'clock the guests, numbering about sixty were invited to the dining room to partake of the wedding supper, after which they were entertained by a triple quartette of which Mr. Horton's brother is a member.

The young couple received many costly and useful presents.

At one o'clock the guests departed all leaving their best wishes with Mr. and Mrs. Horton as do Mr. Horton's many friends and relatives of our village.

Mr. Horton was a former resident of Wauconda. He has been employed in the Elgin Shirt Factory for the past four years and now holds the position of foreman in the laundry department.

A Forgotten Countersign.

"War with raw recruits in the beginning is apt to lead to many amusing experiences," said the old army officer who saw service in Cuba. "Now, you couldn't ask for better soldiers than we had in Cuba, but a large number of them were new to the business and had much to learn, and, much to their credit, it can be said that they soon learned it."

"I had occasion to leave our lines one night soon after we arrived in Cuba, and upon my return it suddenly struck me that I had forgotten the countersign. I puzzled over it for some time, but for the life of me I couldn't recall the word that had been given out. While I was thinking it over I heard the command:

"Halt! Who comes there?"

"Friend," I answered, thinking that the countersign would come to me in a moment.

"Advance, friend, and give the countersign," said the sentry.

"As the countersign had slipped from me completely I walked up to him and said sharply:

"Call the corporal of the guard!"

"Gosh," answered the sentry. "I knew it was something like that, but I'm durned if I hadn't forgotten it! Mosey on!"

"I 'mosied," but I took the trouble to look up the corporal of the guard and have him give the sentry further instructions regarding the duties of a sentry."—Detroit Free Press.

Chinese Leather.

The process by which the Chinese leather acquires its peculiar characteristics is described as follows:

The skins are put into tubs containing water, saltpeter and salt and after 30 days are taken out, the hair is shaved off and the skins well washed in spring water. Each hide is then cut up into three pieces and well steamed, which is done by passing them several times backward and forward over a steaming oven. Further, each piece is stretched out separately over a flat board and secured with nails, so as to dry gradually and thoroughly in the sun. The smoke of the oven makes the leather black, and if it is desired to have it of a yellow appearance it is rubbed over with water in which the fruit of the so called wongchee tree has been soaked.

Of the offal glue is made by heating it in pans for 12 hours over a slow fire, and the glue so obtained is poured into rough earthen vessels, where it remains three days in order to coagulate. The solid mass is cut into pieces with sharp knives and carefully laid upon gratinglike trays to dry, the time taken in drying varying from 5 days, with a northwest wind, to 30 or 40 days with a southwest.—Boston Transcript.

Jephthah's Daughter:

A Story of Patriarchal Times.

By JULIA MAGRUDER...

COPYRIGHTED 1890, 1894 AND 1906 BY ROBERT BONNER'S SONS

And when Namarah and her maidens reached the house of Jephthah, behold it was hung with mourning, and though the doors were wide, there was neither friend nor servant to be seen. So Namarah entered silently, and took her way toward the apartment of her father Jephthah; and as she came unto his door, she turned and spake unto the maidens, bidding them stay without in the hall while she went in alone.

And as she thrust open the door and came into the presence of her father Jephthah, behold he to was dressed in mourning garments, and he leaned upon the breast of the young man Adina, who was also clad in sackcloth; and the faces of both men were white as be the faces of the dead; and Adina had grown gaunt and hollow-cheeked and lost his ruddy color, while her father Jephthah was as one grown old before his time.

And Namarah spake no word, but shutting close the door behind her, she went and put her arms about the neck of her father, but her eyes she gave unto her lover.

Her hood had fallen backward, and her white face rose from out its solemn mourning draperies as a fair flower springing out of earth; and her eyes, made large and luminous through fastings and vigils, seemed as the very windows of her spirit; and in their depth Adina read a love unspeakable, unquenchable and not to be surpassed. He understood her tender thought in clasping first her father before her touch sought his, for it was by reason of her father that this blow was come upon them, and she felt he had great need of comfort and the assurance of her deep, unchanged affection; but in that long, deep look into her lover's eyes, she gave him her whole self. For a moment they rested in that look, quiet and calm as the deeps of ocean, and then the maiden spake:

"I pray thee leave me now, Adina," she saith, softly, as the voice of Jephthah her father brake into great sobs while she smoothed his snow-white hair, and stilled him as a mother might her babe. "I would be with him alone, that my courage fail not; for he hath more need of comfort than either thou or I. Return to me an hour after moon-rise in the garden."

And Adina bowed his head and went, with never so much as a touch of her hand to feed the mighty hunger of his love, howbeit that look in her eyes which rested on him still, even as he left her presence, was as a draught divine wherewith the thirst of his soul might be quenched.

CHAPTER XII.

Even before the coming of the time appointed, just as the moon was coming up behind the distant horizon, Adina made his silent way into the garden of Jephthah's house, and stood and waited. The hour of moonrise was just what it had been two months before, on the night of their parting here, and in his ears were the same sounds of the babbling brook and of the doves in their house near by. Up and down the young man paced, his thumbs thrust into the belt wherewith his white tunic was held in place, and his whole body tense and strained with the mightiness of his hardly mastered excitement. A light glimmered in the room of Jephthah, and on this he kept his gaze, until presently it became in a moment softly shaded, as if to screen the eyes of one who slept. Namarah, indeed, had soothed her father into a gentle slumber, and when it was known unto her that he slept she stepped forth into the garden.

She had even refreshed her from her journey and clothed herself in snow-white garments, perfumed with myrrh and frankincense, in which she moved softly down the garden walks to meet him whom her soul did love. The grasses of summer bent beneath the soft pressure of her feet, and the vines divided themselves at the light touches of her hands. The trees above her were as the wall of her temple of love, and the moon pierced through to light it. Adina stood and waited in the spot made sacred to them by the early dawnings, as well as by the fruition of their love; and as the maiden, fair and white as if made of the rays of the moonlight, moved softly toward him, he stretched out his two arms. She came to them with full gladness and assurance, as one of her white doves, after long wandering, cometh home.

And Adina spake no word; only he drew her to him, as though he would never lose her again. As she rested so, feeling against her heart the full throb of his, while that his close clasp tightened and his breath came quick, it seemed to her a moment of such rapture that the thought of her heart came forth in words, as she said, on the breath of a low-drawn sigh:

"I would that I could die even now!"

And Adina answered:

"And I with thee, that our souls together might return to God who gave them."

"It is most sure," said Namarah, earnestly. "It may not be such as we would choose or look for; but He hath heard that prayer of mine and thine each time our hearts have breathed it, and the answer doth somewhere await us."

She spake these words in solemn whisperings, more tender than the cooing of doves, more murmurous than the rippling of the brook.

No eye saw the parting, when at last Adina wrenched his heart away from hers. They two were alone in the silence with God. Even the dove came not near them tonight, but remained apart and alone, as if it had knowledge of all and forbore to come between the beating of their hearts and the communion of their souls.

At the rising of the sun next morning, the altar was made ready in the heart of a deep wood, and by it stood a priest resplendent in the robes of his office. The wood was in readiness, and the fire prepared, nor was the offering for the sacrifice wanting. She stood, a pure virgin, clad in stainless white, and on her left, the young man Adina. And the face of the maiden Namarah was calm and peaceful, and her eyes trustful and quiet as be the eyes of children when they know their parents are close by. And her face, for all its paleness, was more beautiful to look upon than ever it had been before, for the light that shone upon it was not wholly that cast by the rising sun, but, as it were, a light from within her soul. And Adina's face was radiant, too, so that it seemed as if one light illumined them from within, even as the same sun from without. And Namarah's voice, as she spake, was tranquil and assured.

"Make ready thy fire, O priest of God," Namarah said, "for all is ready." And she turned and kissed her father Jephthah full tenderly. Then, speaking once more unto the priest, she said:

"I pray thee, while that the fire is kindling, suffer us to kneel and say one prayer—I and the young man Adina." And they knelt together, both in virgin white, their hands clasped close and their faces raised to heaven, and the prayer of their hearts, even as the fire blazed and crackled, and the knife gleamed sharp and threatening near by, was that the God in whom they trusted would deliver them in His own time and way.

And they knelt so long in silence that the priest, who wished not to interrupt their prayers, was fain at last to speak to them, lest the sacred fires should burn too low. But there came no answer to his words, and when he turned and looked into their faces, that wondrous light was gone from them; for their spirits had fled together, and the glare of sunshine upon them revealed that they were even the faces of the dead.

And it was even so that God delivered them. This was His time and place, and He had chosen His own way. And that the vow which Jephthah had vowed might be accomplished, the body of the maiden Namarah was laid upon the altar and with it the body of the young man Adina, a burnt offering unto the Lord.

And as the fires upon the altar began to sink, an object that seemed to fall straight from out the sky dropped down and fell into the flames; and lo! it was the body of a snow-white dove, which had been even dead before it touched the fire upon the altar.

(The End.)

ON THE VELDT

A South African Love Story

In the kitchen of a Boer farm at Harrismith two brothers, Paul and Hendrick Hoopstad, sat in earnest conversation.

"Will you come, Hendrick?"

"I cannot leave, Paul; there is English in our veins, and, besides, to join the commando against the British would be taking up arms against the woman I love."

"The woman we love, Hendrick, for God knows that I think of her every minute of my life. You and I have been all in all to each other ever since we were born; but this mutual love for Nancy Martin seems likely to divide us. Even supposing we put our chances to the test, if I win her you will hate me, and if you were successful my thoughts would turn to you in anger. Let us then take our rifles, join the commando, and for the time forget her, and perhaps when the war is over one of us may gain by death what the other could not give in life."

"I will not fight against the English, Paul."

"Think well, Hendrick, Nancy Martin has been in England for the last four years—is it not possible that she may have an English lover?"

"We are being enticed and threatened into a foolhardy war by those who have their own ends to serve. I will take my rifle and fight, but it will be with the English."

"Then, Hendrick, we must part, though we part in all affection. God bless you, my brother, and the woman we love."

"Farewell, Paul, and God grant that we may not meet on the battlefield."

Paul turned his horse toward Newcastle, while Hendrick rode in the opposite direction, with the intention of making his way to John Martin's farm, which lay on the banks of the Caladon river, between Basutoland and Natal.

Hendrick Hoopstad's love for Nancy, the only daughter of John Martin, of the Caladon farm, was the one thought that engrossed his mind. He loved her, and was willing to lay down his life for her without thought of reward. It might be as John had suggested, that Nancy had an English lover; well, time would show, and whatever happened he would always strive to be worthy of her, and be willing to serve her in any way in his power.

In about three hours he had sighted John Martin's farm. Down the hill

Hendrick let the reins drop on his horse's neck and proceeded at a walking pace. It was a calm, still evening, and the horse's hoofs made no sound on the soft sand.

Reaching the orchard the sound of voices fell upon his ear, and almost mechanically he stopped his horse and listened. It was the voice of Nancy he heard. And standing in his stirrups he looked over the brush growth. Yes, Paul was right, she was standing beneath the shade of a spreading tree, a tall man, dressed in the British khaki uniform, held her in his arms, her head upon his shoulder and her lips upturned to his.

"The time was so long, Dick, I thought you would never come."

"Did you, darling? Well, I have come at last, though I could wish a more peaceful time for visiting my beautiful sweetheart. But when this war is over I will make you my wife."

"My love for you, Dick, can never change. Since I left you it has lived on the memory of those sweet hours of delirious happiness when we used to sit together in the sunshine and plan the joyful future—when we two shall be always together."

The man on the horse heard the words that pierced his heart like the stab of a dagger. For some moments he sat like a statue, his face grim and set, and his eyes staring into blankness. The steed moved forward of its own accord and wandered on for upwards of an hour, while its rider sat wrestling with himself. Then, with a sigh and a sob that almost choked him he gathered up the reins and once more turned towards John Martin's farm.

Cyclone in Michigan.

A cyclone struck the western part of Sebewa township, Ionia county, Michigan. It started in a swamp and soon the muck of the swamp was being carried high into the air, accompanied by everything else that was loose. The whirlwind gathered velocity and strength as it moved, and soon the column was 100 feet high and two rods or more wide. An orchard on the farm of Norman Gibbs was ruined, large trees with yards of dirt being uprooted and piled in windrows. At Howard City W. R. Page's residence was struck by lightning and burned.

As William Wise, a farmer ten miles north of Anoka, Minn., was sitting at a table at night playing cards with his wife and four children, some persons fired through the window with a shotgun and a repeating rifle. James Wise, 11 years old, was shot through the right lung and lost two fingers of his right hand. William Wise, 38 years old, was shot in the right shoulder from behind, ten buckshot entering his body. He is paralyzed and will die. Mrs. Wise was shot in the back and in both arms and will die. The officials of the company treat the matter lightly and say there is no doubt that their returns can be successfully defended. They will fight the case in the courts.

THE TOTAL ECLIPSE.

Wonderful Phenomena Observed in the Path of Totality.

To the astronomical and the amateur astronomers gathered in Wadsworth and other southern points of observation from all quarters of the country the sun's total eclipse Monday was a magnificent spectacle in inspiring and awe-producing conditions. Three phases of the scene in the heavens were passed in two hours and a half—the gradual encroachment of the moon, the total obscuration with its weird effects, and the flooding back of the light, bursting from its seeming cover. All the manifestations traditional to the eclipse were observed. These were the features: The fall of the rushing shadow, the fitting of mysterious shadow bands, the burst of seemingly phosphorescent colors from the obscured sun, the flashing out of the delicately colored streamers of the corona—then an instant of deathlike quiet, the horizon gleaming in the hues of a twilight, Mercury shining brightly from its close position to the sun, and Venus low in the sky—then a flash around the semi-circle of the dark plant and a burst of vivid, quickening light which poured over the landscape.

Priest Jumps Into Niagara.

John J. O'Donnell, a priest of the Roman Catholic church, committed suicide by jumping into the whirlpool rapids, Niagara Falls, Friday morning. He threw his hat and cane upon the platform, raised his right hand, shouted "Good-by!" and jumped in. His head could be seen above the water for 200 feet down the rapids and then it was lost to sight. O'Donnell was formerly assistant pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart in New York, but had been for a year an inmate of a private asylum for the insane at Buffalo.

Mud Volcanoes in Eruption.

The mud volcanoes of Mendocino county, California, which have been quiet for a number of years, burst forth Tuesday with a roar that was heard for miles around. Dense vapor issues from the mouths of the craters, and gives the landscape the appearance of a forest fire. The volcanoes are situated twelve miles from Laytonville in an open glade surrounded by a forest of redwood.

Shakespeare's House.
The house in which the master bard was born is located in Henley street, Stratford-on-Avon, England. Washington Irving said of this famous abode of genius: "It is a small, mean-looking edifice of wood and plaster, a true nestling-place of genius, which seems to delight in hatching its offspring in by-ways. The walls of its squalid chambers are covered with names and inscriptions in every language, by pilgrims of all nations, ranks and conditions, from the prince to the peasant; and present a simple but striking instance of the spontaneous and universal homage of mankind to the great poet of nature." Several years ago the house was purchased by subscription, with a view to the careful preservation of it and of its contents for the inspection of future generations.

THE GENESSE PURE FOOD CO., LE ROY, N. Y.
Gentlemen:—Having used your GRAIN-O for the past three months, I thought I would write and let you know how much good it has done me. When I was away on my vacation last summer, the people I visited asked me to try some GRAIN-O, and I drank some, but I didn't like it at all, but the more I drank the better I liked it, and now I wouldn't drink anything else. I never weighed over 100 pounds, and last winter I was down to 103 pounds, now I weigh just 120, and I never felt better in my life. It gives me an awful appetite, and makes me strong. It is doing me more good than anything I ever took, and I would recommend it to everybody. Very truly,

The great blood purifier Zaegel's Swedish Essence of Life is to be given away free to readers of this paper. This remarkable medicine has an action that affects the entire system. It tones up the stomach and creates an appetite; works on the liver and has a mild, continuous effect upon the bowels, thus cleaning out the entire system; it makes new, rich blood, regulates the heart and kidneys and rids the body of all waste matter. It also induces a gentle perspiration, thus preventing fevers and congestion. Rheumatism, backache and headache, biliousness and all nervous diseases are rapidly cured, as well as all diseases of women. No one need trouble themselves to doubt whether this remedy will do all these things, for you can have a free trial package first and see what it does for you. Zaegel's Swedish Essence is so well known that probably quite a number of our readers are already using it, but this makes no difference, as a free trial package will be sent to everyone who writes. Do not neglect to get in your application at once. The best way is to sit down this minute, write a letter to M. R. Zaegel & Co., P. O. Box 831, Sheboygan, Wis., and say that you want a trial package of Swedish Essence of Life. This will be sent you by mail and is large enough to convince you of the merit of this celebrated household remedy. A 2-cent stamp should be enclosed in your letter to pay the postage on this free sample.

The nine-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wolf died at their home in Chicago Tuesday of bronchitis and consumption. The body was brought to Barrington Thursday noon and the funeral took place from the home of Chas. Vermilya, Rev. Menzel delivering the funeral sermon, after which the body was laid to rest in Evergreen cemetery.

The past week has been favorable for farm work, and excellent conditions for growth of vegetation have prevailed. The rain of the previous week put the ground in good condition with regard to moisture, and in some places good rains have since fallen. Throughout most of the state however, the end of the week finds the soil in need of more rain, though crops have not begun to suffer for lack of it. In a few counties in the extreme north, and in parts of the central and southern districts, the hay crop is said to be poor. The condition of clover is generally not so good as that of timothy. Some clover is being cut in the southern district. Corn is generally making good growth, but there is considerable complaint of cut-worm. Oats, potatoes and garden products continue to grow nicely. A large acreage of stock peas is being seeded in the southern district. The fruit prospects have deteriorated somewhat. Fruits are dropping badly in many places. This is especially true of apples. Many reporters say that fruit trees are dying.
