sanctum the other day. We gave several reasons, any one of which ought to have quieted the inquirer's disposition for delving into other people's personal affairs, but he was persistent and wanted to know "if we ever had any trouble in a meetin' house?"

Like our patron saint, George Wash-, ington, the first newspaper reporter who was elevated to the presidency of this country for telling a true account about the destruction of a cottonwood tree, we admitted that such a thing had happened. As it is a true story, and the incident served to frighten us Progress and Fox's Book of Myrtars, we studied in our youthful days, we'll tell it to head off further investigation.

It was at service one summer evening not many years ago. The atmosphere of the house of worship was usually warm one. We had use for our handkerchief. A search failed to find it in its usual accustomed place. We noticed something white on the floor underneath the pew in front of that occupied by us, and in which was seated a fairy of 19 summers arrayed in raiment that would have put King Solomon to shame when he appeared in all his glory. We reached for the white object but it failed to respond to the tug we gave it. The fairy in front of us, we imagined, had placed her ferry boats on our nose wipe, and as we needed it was determined to recover it.

It was then we forgot our position in society, our surroundings, family and creditors and let satan get control of us. We resolved to have that 10 cent linen square or cause a disturbance. We did-the latter.

We took a new hold and was rewarded with a handful of muslin about 7 inches long an 5 inches wide to which was attached several ruffles, two or three rows of machine-made lace and some scallops. There was a feminine the congregation paralyzed. We

Public Officer a Servant.

There appears to be a feeling in the minds of some that when a public official is criticized in a paper, it is because of some personal grievance on the part of the editor, and is regarded as in the nature of an "attack" upon Miss Libbie Hutchinson gave a the one criticized. Usually grievance party in Knigge's hall last Saturday is the last of his motives, and an evening, which was attended by a "attack" the furtherest from his large number of invited guests. Danc- thoughts, More often those criticized ing and games were enjoyed and light are personal friends of the editor or refreshments served. Among out-of- publisher, which makes the task of town guests were Misses Amy Olcott, voicing public sentiment all the more Beulah Otis, Mabel Wagner, Ethel unpleasant. But the moment a person accepts a public office that moment he invites criticism. It cannot be, it should not be, otherwise. Usually the ton, Miss Irene Talbot of Arlington medium between the official-the creature, and the public-the creator, is the press. The latter aims solely to reflect public sentiment, which is rarely continuously in the wrong, and is sually recognized as a safe guide.

Should Demand Cash.

The newspaper has two sources of income-space and circulation. The circulation comes from the management and brains of the newspaper: The advertiting is a result of the circulation and is the heavy source of ncome. Whenever an individual or ociety or company gets a notice that s of benefit the mention has a market value and should be paid for, but too ften the press is expected to give the pace for a complimentary ticket and room promoters advised to get off Lake county soil-before the day of reckoning should arrive.

It didn't get. States Attorney Talcott was ready to push proceedings but the committee on extermination failed to give that officer the necessary affidavits and complaint. Then Mr. Orivis prepared an injunction writ, and took it before Judge Donnelly at Woodstock for argument. When the attorney prepared to present his argument he discovered that he had no affidavits or other evidence to prove that there was gambling going on in the big shed at Lorillard or that it was a public nuisance.

The weather was cool but Mr. Orvis was warm. and he so informed representatives of the League, using the telephone to convey his disgust. A leaguer at the Lake Forest end of the wire said "the petition for injunction alleges there was noise and disturbance at the gambling place and we do not know that such is the fact,"

"What! What!! What in the civilized world and the Phillppine Islands are you people howling about then?" "I don't know," was the reply.

Mr. Orvis didn't proceed with the petition. He said: "It does not seem possible that members of the Citizens' league are in sympathy with the pool room, but their actions do not indicate a commendable degree of energy for its suppression."

The Waukegan Gazette says: "That it is perfectly proper, moral and right to bet on a horse race at the County Fair or at the race track and have the bet recorded, but it is highly immoral improper and wrong and a misdemeanor to bet on the same race or any other at any other time or place and have the bet recorded. What absurdity.

"Who has thought of arresting the directors of officers of the Fair association for pool selling? Who wishes to prosecute them? No one.

"Whether at the gambling table or the poolroom, and whether carried on by professional gamblers, or by the well-clad' dealers in 'futures' on the board of trade, or the colored boy shooting craps in the back alley, gambling is gambling however clothed or conducted."

We endorse the sentiments as expressed in the above. Gambling like the liquor traffic, is a hard matter to deal with. Give the authorities the proper support in the way of substantial evidence or hold your peace.

What is the league howling about?

stuffed the piece of skirt into a pocket next our heart, arose slowly, and with downcast countenance, made exit to the street.

Our wife discovered the souvenir of the fairy's lingerie in our possession and delivered a lecture such as we never heard before and never wish to hear again. The fairy told about that we didn't know a handkerchief from a skirt trimmed with cluster tucks, two rows of insertion and extra dust ruffle; ruined our reputation as a fashion reporter and sent us a bill for "damages" to one Sunday petticoat, 50 cents." That's why we're timid about going to meeting.

Wisconsin's Export Tax.

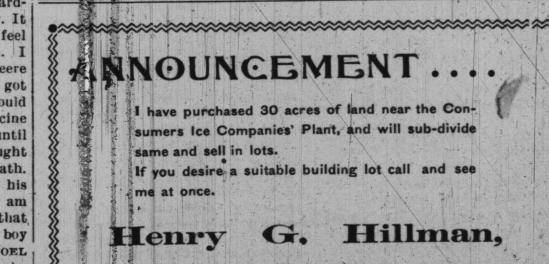

Last year the Wisconsin legislature passed a law laying a tax of ten cents per ton on ice shipped out of the state. The constitutionality of the law has been questioned from the first in view of this clause of the Federal constitution:

"No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except which may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States, and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of Congress."

Recently an agent of a large ice company was arrested and, found guilty by a state court of shipping ice out of the state without paying the tax. It is a test case and will be carried to the United States supreme court, and the result will be watched with interest. If Wisconsin can tax the ice which is cut and shipped from her lakes why may she not tax the cranberries that are shipped from her marshes, the wheat from her fields, the lumber from her forests, the ores from her mines, etc.? asks an exchange. If Wisconsin can thus levy an export tax why may not every one of our states do the same? What then would become of our federal union?

Remarkable Cure of Croup. A Little Boy's Life Saved.

I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breath. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am

Mr. Clark Protests Against Appropriating $40,000 to Entertain Prince Henry -Military Post at Manila-Senate Considers Department of Commerce.

Monday, January 20, The time of the House of Representatives was occupied in general debate on the urgent deficiency appropriation bill. An item in the bill carrying $500,-000 for a military post at Manila precipitated a long debate.

Mr. Cannon, in charge of the measure, explained that the bill provided for the government service for the current fiscal year, where existing approcarried $16,704,230.

Mr. Clark protested against an appropriation of $40,000 for the entertainment of Prince Henry. Mr. Clark also indulged in some general comments on the vast increase in governmental expenditure, which had grown, he said, from $1.52 per capita in 1860 to $12 per capita last year.

Mr. Carnon twitted Mr. Clark with having asked for the $5,000,000 appropriation for the St. Louis exposition. Taking up Mr. Clark's statement that the per capita cost of the government had increased from $1.50 in 1860 to $12 in 1900, Mr. Cannon said it was absurd to compare the situation then and now. During the greater part of the senate session the measure providing for the establishment of a Department of Commerce was under consideration. An effort was made by Mr. Nelson of Minnesota to secure a vote, but the opposition to many of its provisions became so strong that the effort had to be /abandoned.

at the banquet of Illinois College alumni at Chicago.

Mr. Lodge called attention to the necessity of coastwise legislation for the islands under decisions of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Lodge said to discriminate in favor of the United States on products going to the Philippines would diminish revenues and would break down the policy of the "open door." He defended the policy of the free importation of hemp as in the interest of the agricultural element. Bills were passed appropriating $150,000 each for the erection of public buildings in Muncie, Ind., and Anderson. Ind.

The irrigation of lands in the West and the advisability of retaining control of the Philippines were the main topics under discussion in the House.

Wednesday. January 22.

The house went into committee of the whole soon after opening and resumed the debate upon the general deficiency bill. Mr. Padgett of Tennessee, the first speaker, advocated the adoption of a declaration in favor of pledging the United States to give independence to the Philippines. After remarks by-Mr. Candler of Mississippi and Mr. Zenor of Indiana Mr. Watson of Indiana closed the general debate with an hour's speech in defense of the administration's Philippine policy. He praised the work being done by Americans "in the cause of civilization." Mr. Cochran of Missouri declared that the attempts to subjugate the Filipino people already had cost the United States more than enough to build the Nicaragua canal and to construct 300 warships to defend it, yet the end was not in sight. Mr. Cannon offered the following amendment to the urgent deficiency bill: "For the proper shelter and protection of officers and enlisted men of the United States army on duty in the Philippines, to be expended in the discretion of the President, $500,-000." The amendment was adopted-127 to 100.

Debate on the Philippine tariff bill was not continued in the senate, no member of the body being prepared to proceed with the discussion. The bill providing for the establishment of a Department of Commerce was under discussion. Mr. Gallinger made a vigorous argument in support of the measure. After a long debate the bill with all amendments was ordered reprinted pending further consideration.

Torture Abolished by Alexander I. Prace ticed Under Nicholas II.

The centenary of the abolition in Russia of the torture as an organized system of legal inquiry has provided the Russian press with a text for numerous articles on the humanity and progress of their country. No doubt it was a great step to take, but it has still to be ratified in practice before Russia has any particular occasion to rejoice. In the old days the torture was applied to all suspects as a first means of inquiry, and when the unhappy wretch had been compelled to confess something-usually, as the Empress Catherine expressed it, anything which was put/ into his mouth -he was subjected to a second "inquiry" by the same or more severe means, in order to secure confirmation of his first confession. Occasionally the whole process was repeated twice more, with a view to extorting the names of accomplices. The tortures applied were much the same as in other countries, but could be added to by the ingenuity of individual officials.

Thus, during the reign of Anne, when the ex-table boy and favorite of the empress, Biron, was in power, it was a favorite form of torture to stand a culprit naked in the snow during the severe northern frosts of midwinter, either ice-cold or cold and hot alternately, a form of "inquiry" which had the disadvantage of too often killing the poor wretch before he had time to confess anything. Thumbscrews, the clog and every form of whipping and beating, with almost as many names for the various proc. uses as a:e to be found in the dialogu & of the slaves of Roman comedy, we everyday attributes of the old Russian halls of justice.

Just 100 years ago the En. for Alexander I. abolished the tor dre as eing a "shame and a reproach to all mankind." But he forgot to order the legal instruments of torture to be destroyed, and these lingered on and were undoubtedly used for another quarter of a century. Officially the torture has, of course, actually disappearedat any rate, those forms of it which require elaborate instruments for their application are no more to be found. In actual fact, however, says the London Standard's Moscow correspondent, and in secret, there is a great deal of torture going on in the most enlightened centers of the Russian empire at the present day, and it is exercised by the police intrusted with the discovery of crime, the "detective police."

Hereford perjured himself in attempting to obtain a divorce from his wife that he might marry Cora Strubel. The Strubel woman was also indicted for perjury, but has not yet been tried.

The executive committee of the Illinois Laundry Manufacturers association, President Searle, W. E. Fitch, of La Salle, and George Simmonds, of Peoria, held a meeting at Peoria and selected March 17 and 18 as the time for holding their next annual conven-Fn, and Peoria as the place. The arrangement of the programme was turned over to the local laundrymen, who subsequently organized by the election of M. G. Plank as chairman and W. H. Cushing as secretary. It is certain between 100 and 125 visiting laundrymen will be present, and it is the intention to give them a big reception.

Miss Farley, a young woman of Riverton and one of the belles of that village, suffered the humiliation of being taken in charge by a police officer at the Wabash depot in Springfield Wednesday night. In the sore distress of an ignominy she could not understand, the young lady passed a distracting two hours at the police headquarters. Then she learned that her arrest was the result of a mistake on the part of her overprudent and too discerning father. The young woman's father caused her arrest on the supposition that she had eloped from Riverton with a young man, to which he had the strongest objections, on account of the age of the girl, she being about 16 years old. . There was nothing in the elopement story, and when the father made his appearance at the police headquarters he was made aware of the fact in a torrent of feminine indignation that simply overwhelmed

Social Process of Getting Acquainted in That City Illustrated. The teacher of an intermediate grade in a Milwaukee school the other day was "showing off" her pupils before a number of visitors.

The spelling class was on the floor and one small, red-headed boy was given the word "introduction."

He paused, twisted his lips, stared and then, in a faltering way, spelled it correctly, and then seemed rather surprised that he had done it. "Do you know what the word means?" asked the teacher. "N'm."

"What? You don't know what 'in-Lars Moeller is the name of the edi-1 troduction' means? Well, now, I'll explain it to you. Does your mother ever have callers?"

"Yes'm." "Well, now, suppose that two women came to call on your mother. Your paper has been printed as a monthly mother knows one of the women, but doesn't know the other. She has never seen the woman and doesn't even know her name. Now, how would she become acquainted with this woman and find out her name?"

> "She'd send me out for a can of beer."

> As that was the correct answer, says the New York Tribune, the teacher had nothing further to say.

Couldn't Recognize Him.

"Yes, I have a pretty big mouth, for a fact," admitted the candid man, "but have learned to keep it shut, and that counts for something when you take your levels. I received a lesson when J was a small boy that I have never forgotten. I was born and brought up on a farm and I had the country-boy habit of going around with my mouth wide open, especially if there was anything unusual going on. One day an uncle, whom I had not seen for a year, paid us a visit.

"'Hullo, uncle,' said L looking up at him with my mouth opened like a barn door.

He looked at me for a moment without answering, and then said:

"'Close your mouth, sonny, so I can see who you are.'

"I took the lesson to my heart," said the candid man, according to the Detroit Free Press, "and resolved that from that day I would not allow my mouth to conceal my identity."

No Carpet Beating in New York.

The health board has sent out orders to all citizens of this and other boroughs that no rugs shall be beaten in the yard or on the roof. The reason therefor is that germs and microbes are set loose in the operation of beating, much to the detriment of the general health. There are vacant lots in the city, wherein rugs and carpets may be beaten until they weep. It must be far more detrimental to the general health to beat them in vacant lots than on the housetops, for on the Strange Facts About Animals. Have you ever noticed that all animals which chew the cud are cloven footed? Also that most of those which drink water by suction are herbivorous, the carnivorous variety lapping it with the tongue, like the cat, dog, tiger, etc. Sheep have no teeth in the upper jaw, and tortoises and turtles are without altogether.

Unlike most animals, horses have no eyebrows, and hares are minus eyelids. Consequently the eyes of the latter cannot be shut, and a thin membranous substance covers them when asleep. The eye of the owl is also very peculiar, seeing that it is immovably fixed in its socket and cannot stir in any direction. To compensate for this seeming disadvantage it can turn its head almost completely round without moving its body. If you were to keep a frog's mouth open many minutes, it would soon die, as owing to its peculiar construction it can only breathe with the mouth closed.

On-the other hand, fishes are compelled to keep opening and closing their mouths in order to give their respiratory organs full play. It is also a strange fact that the deer has additional breathing places besides the nostrils, as if nature had foreseen his great need of free respiration when forced to flee before the hounds. Snakes usually have their teeth in the head, but one variety in Africa, whose principal food is eggs, is provided with a substitute for them in its stomach.

To Dwarf Trees.

To dwarf trees as the Chinese do you must follow their methods. They take a young plant, say a seedling or a cutting of cedar when two or three inches high, cut off its taproot as soon as it has enough other rootlets to live upon and replant it in a shallow pot or pan, allowing the end of the taproot to rest upon the bottom of the pan. Alluvial clay molded to the size of beans and just sufficient in quantity to furnish a scanty nourishment is then put into the pot. Water, heat and light are permitted on the same basis.

The Chinese also use various mechanical contrivances to promote symmetry of growth. As, owing to the shallow pots, both top and roots are easily accessible, the gardener uses the pruning knife and the searing iron freely, so that the little tree, hemmed Calling the Hours.

There is one place in London, and only one, where the ancient custom of keeping a watchman to call out the hours is still maintained. This is at New inn, which in spite of its name is one of the oldest inns of court. The servants there are quite proud of the age of the place, and it was one of them who said one day:

"Why, sir, this inn was here in the time of Charles I."

After a long pause, to allow this stunning fact to percolate through the brain of the hearer, he extended his arm and added with emphasis:

Charles II.!"

Some vague notion of the disturbances which intervened between the two reigns had probably been floating through the man's mind, but how an existing institution could possibly have dated from the reign of Charles I. without coming down through the reign of Charles II, he failed to explain.

Beginning at the stroke of 10 o'clock every night, the watchman in the yard of New inn "calls the hour" in a stentorian but musical voice:

"Ten o'clock, and all's well!"

The words are heard in the adjoining chambers and offices. Tenants in We distributed many thousands of the Clement's inn, whose rooms look into the pretty yard and garden of New inn, may hear these words every hour through the night if awake. - New York Times.

"Some years ago," says the advertising agent of a tobacco firm quoted by the Philadelphia Record, "I wished to introduce among the Chinese a two for five cigar that my people were heavily. interested in, and I decided to draw up a little card extolling this cigar in Chinese characters.

"I sought out Lo Hen Wong in San Francisco, a very intelligent fellow, and got him to write me a few sentences in praise of my article. I had what he wrote lithographed and distributed the cards by thousands in all the Chinatowns of the United States. They were inscribed with a picture of "And it was here in the time of the cigar, and below were the words: Smoke this cigar. It is the best on the market, and two for five is its price.' -"That, at least, is what I thought was the meaning of the Chinese characters. I found out, some six months later, my mistake. The words Lo Hen Wong had written and which I had had lithographed were: 'Don't smoke this cigar. It is not good. But the Gong company's cigarettes, for sale in every Chinatown at 3 cents a package, are excellent.'

> "Lo Hen Wong had got $10 from me for his work, and I don't know how much he got from the Gong company: cards before we got on to the trick that had been played on us."

Old Names In London.

The Dear Old Frauds.

Those old, pleasant, innocent frauds of the circus are not practiced nowthe imposing, five barred gates that, as the horse approached them, were sloped into insignificant wattles and the ported to leap, but which in reality were insinuated over her by compliant attendants. And then there was that. venerable jockey performance, the culmination of which was a leap from the ring to a standing position, albeit at an angle of 30 degrees, on the horse's back. In the old circuses it was the custom of the horseman to miss the crowning jump two or three times in order that a fiercer flame of interest might be kindled in the audience. After two failures the band would stop Fruits, Gigars, Tobacco, Etc. (always the presage of a moment of strain supreme), the horse's head ICE CREAM AND OYSTER PARLOF would be loosed, he would be urged to a greater pace, and the feat would gloriously succeed. From a New Orleans dispatch it is learned that two Chicago gentlemen, the guests of a Florida gentleman, lately went on a chartered steamer to Little lake and that the three in a week's time killed between 1,500 and 1,600 ducks and geese, thereby breaking all records for that region. Surely this was a noble accomplishment for gentlemen. Had they been ordinary pothunters bagging the game to earn a livelihood they would have been punished for such wholesale slaughter of game birds had there been any law under which they could have been reached, but, being gentlemen, it is quite another thing. This record breaking act has the appearance of mere butchery without the butcher's excuses. The killing of game birds and animals for the mere sake of killing is not sportsmanship, and those who indulge in it should be ostracized from the ranks of true sportsmen.

Where Smoking Is a Crime. There is one country in the world where it is considered a crime to smoke. Abyssinia is the region, and saying, "Send for Black Maria," came the law forbidding tobacco dates from the year 1642. Inquisitive Penguins.

We often met companies of six or eight or more penguins promenading on the arctic ice pack in the sunshine. When they saw us, they generally exhibited curiosity and approached to get a nearer view. I do not know if these birds have the instinct of the naturalist and take a lively interest, doubtless philosophic from their point of view, in everything new which presents itself or if the object of their investigations is entirely practical, but they certainly came near us with a distinct purpose of making examination. Gerard Hope shook hands with Lady Frances, and Mr. Netherleigh, who had a word of direction to give him, walked with him into the hall. As they stood there, who should enter but Colonel Hope, Gerard's uncle, He started back when he saw Gerard.

"C-a-can I believe my senses?" stuttered he. "Mr. Netherleigh, is he one of your guests?"

"He is here on business," was the merchant's reply. "Pass on, Colonel." "No, sir, I will not pass on," cried the enraged Colonel, who had not rightly caught the word business. "Or if I do pass on, it will only be to warn your guests to take care of their jewelry. "No, sir," he added, turning to his nephew, "you can come back, can you, when the proceeds of your theft is spent! You have been starring it in Calais, I hear; how long did the bracelet last you to live upon?"

"Sir," answered Gerard, with a pale face, "it has been starving rather than starring. I asserted my innocence at the time, Colonel Hope, and I repeat it now."

"Innocence!" ironically repeated the Colonel, turning to all sides of the hall, as if he took delight in parading the details of the unfortunate past. "The trinkets were spread on a table in Lady Sarah's own house. You came stealthily into it-after being forbidden it for another fault-went stealthily into the room, and the next minute the diamond bracelet was missing. It was owing to my confounded folly in listening to a parcel of women that I did not bring you to trial at the time; I have only once regretted not doing it, and that has been ever since. A little wholesome correction at the penitentiary might have made an honest man of you. Good-night, Mr. Netherleigh! If you encourage him in your house, you don't have me."

Now another gentleman had entered and heard this; some servants also heard it. Colonel Hope, who firmly believed in his nephew's guilt, turned off peppery and indignant; and Gerard, giving vent to sundry unnephewlike expletives, strode after him. The Colonel made a dash into a street cab and Gerard walked towards the city. Lady Frances Chenevix, her dress right again, at least to appearance, was sitting to get her breath after a whirling waltz. Next to her sat a lady who had also been whirling. Frances did not know her.

"You are quite exhausted; we kept it up too long," said the cavalier in attendance on the stranger. "What can I get for you?"

'My fan; there it is. Thank you. Nothing else."

Glory of Italian Cities

(Special Letter.)

LL Shakespeare's tales are more or less founded upon historical facts, like that of Hamlet. Many of them, it has been found, were taken from a volume of tales written by an Italian monk.

Romeo and Juliet, for example, actually lived and died in the manner described, because a feud between their families would not permit them to marry. "The Comedy of Errors" is based upon incidents of actual occurrence, while Shylock was a notorious money lender, whose house in Venice is still pointed out to tourists. It stands in the old market place, near the Rialto, where there is a tribune from which was proclaimed the edicts and the announcements of the government, and opposite is the oldest church in Venice, which is said to have been built as early as the year 520.

The ghetto, or old Jewish quarter, is near by, where a colony of exiles from Spain' have been living ever since their expulsion from that country by the inquisition. The streets are the narrowest, the buildings are the highest, and the tenements are the most crowded of all Venice, and at one time all persons of Jewish birth were compelled to live within certain limits and wear a certain dress. They were never persecuted, but have been allowed to worship in their own way and transact any line of business. The same quarter is still occupied by Jewisht families, although the descendants of the contemporaries of Shylock now own and occupy some of the richest and most beautiful palaces upon the Great Canal.

The story of Shylock and the pound of flesh is found in the book of tales referred to; and Portia is a pen portrait of Lucretia Cornaro, the first woman lawyer in the world, who received a degree of doctor of laws from the University of Padua, where she was educated, and afterward lectured on law. Her biography has been published. Her family was famous, and produced three cardinals, who are buried at the church of San Salvador. She was a native of Venice and a rela-women in Italy were famous for learning, and to inspire the ambition of the sex the states offered prizes for such accomplishments, but, through the influence of the church and political leaders, learning among women began to decline, and we hear nothing more of scholarship among that sex until Marsa Gaetanna Agnesi appeared at Bologna. She was one of the most extraordinary women of all history. Her ather was professor of mathematics in the University of Bologna, where she was born in 1718. When mine years old she wrote a book in Latin on the "Responsibilities of Womanhood," and advocating the higher education of women; when 13 she wrote and read nine languages, and when 18 they called her "the walking polyglot," because there was no language that she did not know. She used to appear before the learned societies of Italy and read papers on abstruse subjects. She wanted to become a nun, but the entreaties of her father persuaded her to renounce her inclinations, and she retired from society and gave, herself up to study until her learning was something marvelous. Her memory was so retentive that she could quote pages of figures and could give the date of any historical events offhand.

The French ambassador, M. Camille Barrere, speaking at a reception of the French colony at Rome, took oc-casion to allude in the most friendly terms to the relations between France and Italy. He complimented Italy on the astonishing material progress made by that country during the last year, declared that there was no longer any Mediterranean problem between the two countries, and added that all other vital questions had likewise been settled on a lasting and satisfactory basi

The city of Florence, now containing some of the most beautiful buildings in Italy, notably the noble church of Santa Maria della Croce, with the statue of the poet Dante adjoining, was originally a small trading village, belonging to the Etruscan city of Fiesole, whence merchandise was sent down the Arno to Pisa, then a seaport. When colunized by the soldiers of Sulla, it gradually attained the dignity of a city, with the rank and privileges of a municipium, and has undergone all the vicissitudes that were tive of Katrina Cornaro, the Venetian the fate of Italian cities of the middle

KANSAS CROPS.

The secretary of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture has just tabulated in comparative form statistics obtained from the U.S. Department of Agriculture year books.

The tables are brief and graphic and calculated to surprise those who have looked on Kansas as a semi-arid state.

Kansas ranks first in the value of wheat and corn raised for the five years 1896 to 1900, inclusive, and also for the year 1900 alone; first in the value of wheat alone raised in 1900; fifth in the value of corn alone for the same period; second, in the value of wheat and corn raised in 1900 per capita.

The same authority gives the number of bushels of corn raised in Kansas in 20 years as 2,995,985,308, and the number of bushels of wheat raised in same period as 691,297,613.

These are truly wonderful figures. In part they show the solid basis of value on which the securities of the Santa Fe railway rest, for the Santa Fe is to Kansas what the Pennsylvania railroad is to Pennsylvania, the chief transportation agency, with lines covering the state more generally than do those of any other company.

A new booklet on the resources of Kansas is being prepared by the Santa Fe passenger department and will be ready for distribution early in the year. The booklet will contain statistics for the year 1901.

An Eastern Congressman was asking Congressman Dinsmore, of Arkansas, about his district and his residence. Mr. Dinsmore was pointing out Fayetteville on the map, when his friend remarked that he lived pretty close to the Missouri line. "Oh, yes," replied Mr. Dinsmore. "I speak both languages."

Miles of Potatoes.

Everybody knows that the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., are the largest seed potato growers in the world, so when their President, Henry A. Salzer, recently purchased 21,000 acres more of ideal potato land, all wondered what for. Well, it is for potatoes-miles and miles of potatoes.

Frances laughed. "Take care of yourself, Gerard."

So Gerard Hope got clear off into exile. Did he pay his expenses with the proceeds of the diamond bracelet?

CHAPTER XII.

The stately rooms of one of the finest houses in London were open for the reception of evening guests. Wax lights, looking innumerable when reflected from the mirrors, shed their rays on the gilded decoration: on the fine paintings, and on the gorgeous dresses of the ladies; the enlivening strains of the band invited to the dance and the rare exotics emitted a sweet perfume. It was the West End residence of a famed and wealthy city merchant of lofty standing; his young wife was an earl's daughter and the admission to the house of Mr. and Mrs. Lady Adela Netherleigh was coveted by the gay world.

"There's a mishap!" almost screamed a pretty looking girl. She had dropped her handkerchief and stooped for it, and her partner stooped also; in his hurry he put his foot upon her thin, white dress, she rose at the same moment and the bottom of her skirt was torn half off.

"Quite impossible that I can finish the quadrille," quoth she to him, half in amusement, half provoked at the misfortune. "You must find another partner, and I will go and get this repaired."

She went upstairs; by some neglect, the lady's maid was not in attendance, and too impatient to ring and wait for her, down she flew to the housekeeper's parlor. She was quite at home in the house, for she was the sister of its mistress. She had gathered the damaged dress up in her arms, but her white petticoat fell in rich folds around her.

"Just look what an object that stupid---- " And there stopped the young lady; for instead of the housekeeper and lady's maid, whom she expected to meet, nobody was in the room but a gentleman-a tall hand- her dress for his benefit, as she had they went out, kicked it toward the

"Where is she?"

"Curious to say, she is where you left her-at Lady Sarah Hope's. Alice could not bear the house after the loss of the bracelet, for she was so obstinate and foolish as to persist that the servants must suspect her even if Lady Sarah did not. She felt, and this spring Lady Sarah saw her, and was so shocked at the change in her, the extent to which she had wasted away. that she brought ber to town by main force, and we and the doctors are trying to nurse her up. It seems of no

"Are you also staying at Colonel Hope's again?"

"I invited myself there a week or two ago to be with Alice. It is pleasanter, too, than being at home."

"I suppose the Hopes are her tonight?'

"My sister is. I do not think your uncle has come yet."

"Does he ever speak of me less resentfully?"

"Not he; I think his storming over it has only made his suspicions stronger. Not a week passes but he begins again about that detestable bracelet. He is unalterably persuaded that you took it, and nobody must dare put in a word in your defense."

"And does your sister honor me with the same belief?" demanded Mr. Hope bitterly.

"Lady Sarah is silent on the point to me; I think she scarcely knows what to believe. You see I tell you all freely, Gerard."

CHAPTER XIII.

Before another word could be spoken Mr. Netherleigh entered. An aristocratic man, with a noble countenance. He bore a sealed note for Mr. Hope to deliver in the city. "Why, Fanny!" he exclaimed to his sister-in-law, "you here?" "Yes; look at the sight they have me man. She looked thunderstruck; previously done for Mr. Hope. "I am door.

"What an old creature to dance herself down!" thought Frances. "She's 40, if she's a day."

The lady opened her fan and proceeded to use it, the diamonds of her rich bracelet gleamed right in the eyes of Lady Frances Chenevix. Frances looked at it and started, she strained her eyes and looked again; she bent nearer to it and became agitated with her emotion. If her recollection did not play her false, that was the lost bracelet.

She discerned her sister, Lady Adela Netherleigh, and glided up to her. "Adela, who is that lady?" she asked pointing to the stranger.

"I don't know who she is," replied Lady Adela, carelessly. "I did not catch the name. They came with the Cadogans."

"The idea of your having people in your house that you don't know!" indignantly spoke Frances, who was working herself into a fever. "Where's Sarah, do you know that?"

"In the card room, glued to the whist table."

Lady Sarah, however, had unglued herself, for Frances only turned from Lady Adela to encourage her.

"I do believe your lost bracelet is in the room," she whispered in agitation. "I think I have seen it."

"Impossible!" responded Lady Sarah Hope.

Document Actually Kicked Out of House of Commons.

Sir John Knight, a stout old Tory member for Bristol, who in the year 1693 proposed to kick a bill out of the house of commons, got into sad trouble. It was a measure for the naturalization of foreign Protestants, and Sir John, in the course of a violent invective, exclaimed: "Let us first kick the bill out of the house, and then let us kick the foreigners out of the kingdom," this observation being aimed at William's Dutchmen, if not at the king himself. But what Sir John only proposed to do with this bill the commons actually did with another obnoxious measure in 1770, says Good Words. The peers had presumed to alter a money bill by striking out a provision which offered a bounty upon the exportation of corn. The commons, indignant at the treatment of their deputation, who had been contumaciously ejected from the peers' chamber, and further incensed by the fact that on another occasion Burke had been kept waiting three hours at the door of the upper house with a bill sent up by the commons, took the present opportunity to show in emphatic manner that there was at least one privilege on which they would not allow the peers to encroach. The amendment was promptly. rejected, and with it the bill. The speaker tossed the document over the made me," replied she, shaking down table, and members of both parties, as tired; carried a nickname during the last twenty years of his naval career that stuck to him closer than that of almost any other officer in the service. He was known to every officer and man, from Rear Admirals down to berth-deck cooks, as "Spud" Brown. This is how he earned his sobriquet: Years ago, when he was only a commander, he was a skipper in one of the old wooden frigates which were carrying the flag across the Pacific for service on the China station. The old vessel got in the doldrums, and to make matters worse, her machinery didn't work very well, and at the end of several weeks the messes forward and aft found themselves almost in the middle of the ocean with little more to eat than the regulation "salt horse," hardtack, "beef and bully," and other scurvy-producing articles of diet. All hands had a mighty hankering after "spuds," by which name the Irish potato is affectionately cherished by mariners.

Soon afterward a big trans-Pacific liner bound for San Francisco hove in sight, half hull down in the distance, plowing eastward. Signals to heave to immediately blossomed from the foretruck of the frigate, but the liner was in a hurry and did not stop. Bigger signal pennants flew from the frigate, but still the liner sped onward contemptuously. The next moment a solid shot went richocheting along ahead of the passenger boat, and

Telephone for Use on Moving Trains

A device known as a "telephane for trains" has been patented by Prof. M. Russo d'Asar of Germany and is said to have stood a practical test with satisfactory results. The invention consists of a system of telephones by which the inventor says the engineer and conductor of a moving train can communicate with another moving train on the same track or with a station agent or guard along the line. A successful experiment is said to have been made with the invention at Mitterssling-Grossloke, Germany, Under the system it is declared that an engineer of a train running at a high rate of speed can keep in per ict communication with every one innected with the running of his or of er traias on the same track.

Reply Neat and Effective

In the smoking room of a Swiss hotel a discussion recently took place between a German id an American as to the merits o their respective armies. The forme believed in discipline and trained troops as he believed in the hereafter. The American believed in training, too, but held that a lot depended upon the material trained. "Given," quoth he, "that brains are lacking, no amount of physical training will make up for them. Take the American troops, comparatively untrained, and see how well they fight. It's because of their "Nonsense," rejoined the brains." aroused German, "Untrained troops can never stand against well-drilled ones. Take your own country, for example, with practically no drilled army. What would you do?" He paused impressively, and then said: "What would you do if Germany landed an army of 250,000 perfectly drilled and perfectly equipped men on your shores?" "Bury them," was the quiet but complete rejoinder.

LORE OF WEDDING RINGS.

Typify Etennity and Indicate Stability of Union of Persons.

Attached to the use of the ring in wedding and other ceremonies from the earliest times there have been mystic meanings. Whether the plain band or the motto-inscribed article which the changing times brought into fashion; the ring has retained its significance attached to it as a sacred emblem or an emblem typifying sacred ceremonies. To the devoutly religious or the careless scoffer at religion the little circlet has its charm.

Solemn betrothal by means of the ring often preceded matrimony in the the middle ages and was sometimes adopted between lovers who were about to separate for long periods. Shakespeare has more than once aluded to the custom, which is absolutely enacted in his "Two Gentlemen of Verona," where Julia gives Porteus a cing, saying: "Keep you this remembrance for thy Julia's sake," and he replies: "Why, then, we'll make exchange. Here, take you this." The fourth finger of the left hand has from long usage been consecrated to the wedding ring, from an ancient belief that from this finger a nerve went to the heart .- Chicago Chronicle.

These are Pla. Words.

Marshfield, Mo., Jr J. 20th .- Mr. J. F. King of this place makes the following statement:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM : - Your Vegetable Compound cured me of womb trouble from which I had been a great sufferer for nearly three years. During that time I was very irregular and would often have intense ain in the small of my back, and blinding headaches and severe cramps. For three months I used Lylia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and aches and pains are as a past memory, while health and happiness is my daily experience now. You certainly have one grateful friend in Emporia, and I have praised your Vegetable Compound to a large number of my friends. You have my permission to publish my testimonial in connection with my picture. Yours sincerely, MISS MARION CUNNINGHAM, Emporia, Kans" $5000 FORFEIT IF THE ABOVE LETTER IS NOT GENUINE.

Made Profit on Christmas Gifts

A recently married couple who received on Christmas day a great many pieces of silver, each in the regulation satin-lined box; profited by their gifts in a way that the donors may not have suspected. They collected all their boxes on the following day and returned them to the silversmiths from whom they had been purchased. Some of these cases cost almost as much as the silver that they contained. The dealers were willing to take them back at their own prices and give silverware in return for them. It is the custom of most of the big jewelers and silversmiths to change the style of their boxes each year .--New York Sun.

"Well, senator, how are you to-day?" said Mr. Gorham. "I am not as strong as a horse, but I am not as weak as a cat." was the reply.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only due way to cure deafness, and that is by consti-tutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hear-ing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever: nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is-Syrup of Figs-and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually, without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the old-time cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle-Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. THE HIGHER LIFE. EDITED BY HACKNEY

It is not the hard work, but the worry That wrinkles the smooth, fair face; That blends gray hairs with the dusky And robs the form of its grace; That dims the lustre and sparkle Of eyes that were once so bright But now are heavy and troubled With a weary, despondent light.

It is not the work but the worry, That makes the world grow old. That numbers the years of its children, Ere half their story is told;

That weakens their faith in heaven, And the wisdom of God's great plan, Ah! 'tis not the work, but the worry, That breaks the heart of a man. -Selected.

The many friends of Rey. Father charge of St. Ann's Catholic church in this parish, will be pleased to read the following taken from the Warren (Ill.) Sentinel--Leader of last week:

"Rev. Thomas F. Leydon was surprised last Sunday after the morning services at St. Ann's church by the presentation of a china set the gift of the members of St. Ann's parish. It was intended as a New Years' gift, but did not arrive in time for presentation on the first day of the year as had been planned. Father Leydon, in his usually happy yein, thanked the kind donors for this valuable gift and the many other tokens of their kindness and generosity to him in the past.

The china set is a beautiful and costly one, consisting of 120 pieces; the decoration being gold and green. Every member of the parish took Title of essay was "Open Inspiration Versus a Closed Grace Otis Canon and Infallible Bible." In that he denies the fiery furnace, traces the source of the Bible, and says the scriptures are not closed. The following are excerpts from the essay which has brought down upon Prof. Pearson the wrath of many ministers and theologians of the orthodox church.
