Color Line Drawn.

Our attention has been called to a state of affairs existing in the White school district. Several colored children from the Syndicate property, a part of the district in which that school is located, were sent there by their parents. The pupils, it seems, believed in keeping the school in fact what it was in name-strictly white. The colored children were subjected to ridicule and the teacher sentia note to Mr. Cary, the father of the colored children, informing him that his little ones must remain away.

Mr. Cary believes, and he is right, that his children were entitled to all the benefits of that school; that no no color line could or should be drawn in the public school, but he obeyed the mandate of the teacher and his children remain at home.

He submitted the matter to the directors and "something will be done about it"it is said, at the next meeting of the directors. It don't make any difference what the teacher or the pupils of the school may think about the matter or their choice as to who shall or shall not attend that school. HARD RAPS FOR THE CHINESE

Senator Fairbanks Scores Them as Unfit Immigrants. Contending That They Displace White Labor and Are Undesirable from American Point of View.

Thursday, April 3.

By the close vote of 37 to 35 a motion to recommit the oleomargarine bill was defeated in the senate. The bill was then passed without the house amendment, substantially in the form or the Grout bill, by a vote of 39 to 31. The Mooney or minority bill was defeated, 39 to 29. Both Senators Cullom and Mason were present and voted for the bill and against the substitute. On motion of Mr. Penrose of the committee on immigration, the senate made the Chinese exclusion bill the unfinished business. The senate at 5:10 went into executive session and at 5:15 adjourned. In the house the senate bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service passed by a vote of 135 to 49. The opponents of the measure fought it to the very last ditch. At the very end they attempted a fillouster, but were swept aside by the overwhelming majority in favor of the measure. The discussion occupied the entire session. Mr. Mann (III.) closed for the opposition. He declared that the first gan of the Spanish-American war was not fired by the revenue cutter service. He said the first gun was fired by the Spaniards at Manila, because, through negligence aboard the revenue cutter McCulloch, the burning out of that ship's smokestack gave notice of the approach of the American fleet. In concluding he declared that if the door to a civil pension list was once opened no one could predict how long the roll would become. Mr. Hepburn (Iowa) closed the debate for the friends of the bill. He scouted the idea that its enactment would be the entering wedge for a civil pension list. Friday, April 4. Consideration of the Chinese exclusion bill was begun in the senate, Mr. Mitchell (Ore.) making the opening speech. He pointed out what he deem ed to be the necessity for the exclusion of Chinese laborers and elaborately analyzed the bill. He said it had been constructed on the basis of existing law, in the light of experience and of the decisions of the courts. While its provisions were adrastic, the bill, he said, in some respects was more liberal than the Geary act. During the consideration of the Chinese bill Minister Wu was in the diplomatic gallery. Mr. Quay gave notice of the following amendment as an additional section: "That nothing herein contained shall be construed to exclude the Chinese Christians or Chinese who assisted in the defense or relief of the foreign legations or the Pe-Tang cathedral in the City of Peking, in the year 1900." A concurrent resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a joint committee to atend the ceremonies incident to the transfer of the remains of Gen. Rosecrans from California to their final resting place in Arlington cemetery, May 1. The Indian appropriation bill was under completed. Adjournment followed the usual executive session. The Chinese exclusion bill occupied most of the session in the house. No opponents of the general principle of exclusion appeared, but members were divided in their support of the two bills presented. Messrs. Hitt (III.). Perkins (N. Y.) and Adams (Pa.) supported the majority bill and Messrs. Clark (Mo.), Kahn (Cal.) and Naphen (Mass.) spoke for the minority substitute. Congressman Sulzer (N. Y.) introduced a resolution asking the secretary of state for such information as public interests, regarding the charges about an alleged British war camp near New Orleans.

Saturday, April 5.

After passing the Indian appropriation bill the senate considered the Chinese exclusion measure. Mr. Fairbanks analyzed its provisions to demonstrate that they were not in contravention of the treaty with China and discussed at length the right of congress to enact exclusion legislation. "That American labor is displaced by the admission of Chinese labor, and that the opportunity of American labor is curtailed to the extent that Chinese labor is introduced, is obvious," he said. "The Chinese do not harmonize with us. Upon their admission they become an undigested and undigestible mass. A most serious objection to the admission of Chinese laborers is the general disre- cepted by the president until that time. ······

Alleges His Superior Officer Wished Him to Make Samar a Howling Wilderness, and Defined the Age Limit as "Everything Over 10."

Major Littleton W. T. Waller of the marine corps, being tried at Manila on different mines in three days is the the charge of executing natives of Samar without trial, testified in rebuttal of the evidence given by Gen. Jacob H. Smith, who commanded the American troops in the Island of The major said Gen. Smith instructed him to kill and burn, said that the more he killed and burned the better pleased he would be, that it was no time to take prisoners and that he was to make samar a howling wilderness. Mai. Waller asked Gen. Smith to define the age limit for killing, and he replied: "Everytning over 10."

The major repeated this order to Capt. Porter, saying: "We do not make war in that way on old men, women and children."

Capt. David D. Porter, Capt. Hiram I. Bearss and Lieut, Frank Halford, all of the marine corps, testified corroboratively.

The defense requested that a subpoena be served on the adjutant general, demanding the production of the records of the massacre at Balangiga of the detachment of the Ninth infantry, in order to refute the statement of General Smith to the effect that the attack on the troops was made according to the laws of war. The request was granted.

No defense of Brig. Gen. Smith is attempted by the war department. Adjt. Gen. Corbin said that before judging Gen. Smith, consideration should be given to the character of the people with whom he had to deal, and the fact that the insurgents in Samar had been guilty of the most barbarous outrages upon American troops. If Gen. Smith gave such orders as Maj. Waller alleges, then it is said he went far beyond his instructions. and the department certainly will not uphold him. Gen. Smith is now under orders to return to the United States to assume command of the department of Texas, but these orders will probably be suspended pending an inquiry.

DEATH OF GEN. J. N. REECE acters who have joined the rush." Paralytic Stroke Causes His Demise at Springfield, Ill. Adjutant General Jasper N. Reece died at Springfield, Ill., at 1:32 o'clock Tuesday morning. He had been critically ill at his home for several days as the result of a series of paralytic strokes, extending over a period of a year.

General Reece was a veteran of the civil war and a recognized authority on military tactics and citizen soldiery organizations. He was born at Abingdon, Knox county, April 30, 1841. He was one of the first students at Hedding college, from which he enlisted as a private in an Illinois regiment in 1863. His service as cavalryman was the pursuit of guerrillas in the west, during which he rose to be captain of his company. After being mustered out in October, 1864, he engaged in farming and mercantile business near Monmouth until 1871, when he was elected first assistant clerk of the house, and in 1873 was appointed assistant secretary of state under Col.

In 1877 he was appointed assistant adjutant general of the second brigade, I. N. G., and in this capacity had charge of the militia during the labor riots in East St. Louis. In November following he was appointed brigadier general, commanding his old brigade.

This position he held for fourteen years, until he was appointed adjutant general by Gov. Fifer in 1891. After an interval of four years he was again appointed by Gov. Tanner, and his services were retained by the present administration.

STRIKE GOLD IN MONTANA MINES

Pony Show Fine Average Assays.

Primitive Methods Said to Produce Wonderful Results in a District Alleged to Have Been Lavishly Sprinkled by Nature with Decomposed Ore.

Three rich gold strikes in as many record of Madison county, Montana. The Fourth of July mine, near Pony.

which was recently purchased by the Largey estate, is the scene of the first strike. An unusually rich streak of gold ore in the tunnel was found, and while its extent is not yet known, the outlook is considered most promising. The ore assays $170 a ton in gold.

Gilbert & Parker, owners of the Olympia mine, near Pony, have struck high grade ore, an average sample assay showing $150 gold. 30 per cent lead and seventy ounces silver. The vein is from twelve to eighteen inches wide. The mine is an extension of the noted White Pine property.

Still another extremely rich discovery has been made at Pony, in the Pan-American, under lease to McFadden, Brackett & Ervin. This streak is from eight to twelve inches in width and assay returns show $156 in gold. 25 per cent in lead and sixteen ounces in silver to the ton.

What is regarded as absolutely reliable information concerning the Thunder Mountain gold fields was brought to Boise City, Idaho, by Chas. Crawford, a practical miner and former newspaper man. "It is a most remarkable section," said Crawford. Over an area with a radius of about thirty-five miles nature has sprinkled gold lavishly. Much of the surface is decomposed and the ore easily handled. The practice is to work it with hydraulics when the large operations can be conducted, but the poor man merely runs it through his rocker and his returns are ample.

"I investigated the stories of big money made out of this decomposed quartz, and I discovered that they had not been exaggerated. The Caswell rothers took out $20,000 in four weeks, using a sluice box. Some of the dirt went over $150 a pound. In other instances men have taken out from $30 to $350 in two hours by use of the most primitive methods. "While there are instances of quick wealth made that way, the ore operators in the field have for the most part made their wealth by selling their claims to companies. In the neighborhood of $2,000,000 by Eastern companies has been invested there already. "The trails are filled with men rushing to the gold field. I witnessed many pitiable sights. Lack of provisions had weakened many of those who had been toiling on snowshoes and behind dog sleds over the rough mountains, but no amount of urging could turn them back. In a few instances I encountered men who had lived for days on rice, all their other provisions having either been eaten or stolen by desperate char-

 Wonderful Career of Cecil Rhodes

In 1871 a young Oxford undergraduate, broken in health by consumption, left England in charge of his brother, with the despairing hope that in the highlands of Natal his life would be prolonged.

Two years later he had been restored to health. He had laid the foundation of a meteoric career that has won for England the south half of the African continent and gained a unique place in the history of the British empire.

Romance has been outclassed by the life of Cecil Rhodes. There was no project too great for his ambition and he firmly believed in the maxim that "a man can get anything he wants, if he only wants it enough." The great struggle now going on in South Africa is the direct outcome of his gigantic plans for the overthrow of all control save that of England, and the welding together of the inhabitants under the Union Jack. He lived to see the vision almost realized.

One of the most gigantic railway schemes ever thought of was the Cape to Cairo railway, which Mr. Rhodes determined to construct. His wonderful powers were exerted on Kaiser William of Germany, who, after a conference with him, gave permission to build the road over a part of the German possessions in Africa. No other opposition of importance has been met. The road is projected to run through the interior of the conti-

Cecil Rhodes.

Rhodes estimated that overcome. 50,000 lives would be sacrificed in the construction. It would require an army of 500,000 workers. Rhodes' transcontinental telegraph line is even now being built.

Mr. Rhodes was born July 7, 1853. He was one of seven brothers. His father was a country parson, Rev. Francis William Rhodes, at one time vicar of Bishop Stortford, Hertz.

The man who controlled the destinies of Africa and who has been called the most active man in the world, never had time to get married. For all that he was a highly polished man and shone in woman's society. It may be that with a wife his gigantic plans would have sunk to the cares of the family man and the course of history might have been changed by so slight a cause.

When the two brothers arrived in Natal they first went on a cotton plantation. Then the rush to the diamond fields of Colesburg kopje, now known as Kimberley, began, and the young men went to the mines and laid out

As a miner young Rhodes swung the pick and dabbled in the blue mud for diamonds. In a surprising short time he won health and fortune, too. With health and strength the ideas of the dreamer became widened. Wealth to him was but a means by which to rise to higher things. But it was absolutely necessary.

He secured a majority of the stock of the great De Beers mine, with its $1,000,000 capital. Other properties were secured until at last every mine in the Kimberley district was united in the De Beers Consolidated, with a capital of $20,000,000 and a revenue that has been phenomenal.

The English government had not been called into his plans thus far. Meantime Rhodes was establishing his political influence at Cape Colony. He secured the complete confidence of Sir Hercules Robinson, the governor. He impressed him with the boundless prospects ahead in the settlement of The race for Matabeleland began and Oom Paul Kruger was defeated in it by Rhodes.

His soldiers streamed through Bechuanaland and Mashonaland. found Mashonaland harried by the Matabeles and sent a machine gun expedition against them.

This resulted in thousands of dead savages and the absorption of Matabeleland. The Mashona people were left to till the soil in peace.

Finally the dominion of his company, which is the dominion of Rhodes, extended all over "Rhodesia." He had kicked out the Portuguese and shot out the natives, and his empire was safe. In this aggression he was backed by the Cape Colony government, because it believed that he intended to make of Cape Town the political and commercial center of the "United States of South Africa."

Germans, Boers and Portuguese were claiming the country. Mr. Rhodes believed that the domination of an oligarchy of Dutchmen who resisted natural expansion was doomed. Later on he acted. In 1890 Mr. Rhodes became premier of Cape Colony, which office he held for five years. Under his rule German ambition and designs had been baffled by him single-handed and a vast territory gained for his native land. The iron rule of the Dutch premier in the Transvaal bore heavily on the English settlers. Rhodes became their champion.

That he was connected with the Jameson raid into the territory of the Boers is no longer doubted. Its failure gave the Boers the opportunity to prepare for a struggle with the English when it should be backed by the government.

Rhodes never expressed regret for the attempt.

He declared that he had proof that the Pretoria government had been intriguing with Germany.

Rhodes was shut up in Kimberly, while the Boers besieged the place. It process over 4,000,000 ties annually. is said that if they had captured him a ransom of $10,000,000 would have been demanded, in case his life was not declared forfeited.

A reward of £5,000 was offered for his body, dead or alive. To the Orange Free State officials and the Transvaalers his personality and ambitions were hateful to the last degree. Mr. Rhodes' escape is well known.

An Englishman wrote of Rhodes: 'He has the face of a Caesar, the ambition of a Loyola, and the wealth of a Croesus." As to his ambition and wealth there can be no doubt. Rhodes had the scholar's brow and the steely blue eyes and thin lips of the man of indomitable will.

Like all successful men he battered down opposition and forced his ideas on those by whom he was surrounded. Those ideas, however, were not narrowed to self, but as broad in their scope as national British aspirations. If England ever succeeds in planting a second America on the soil of Asia she will owe that treasure to the fact that the young Oxford graduate was driven | near his home, in Arrowsmith. from home by the ravages of dread consumption. His subsequent adventures will ultimately become fabulous.

The "Hop Congress." Those bright youngsters who serve as pages in the house of representatives at Washington have formed what they call the "hop congress." They call it so because the members put in their time during the sessions of the real house hopping around from desk to desk on errands for the legislators. The "hop congress" assembles at 9:30 o'clock in the morning, before the genuine members are at their desks, and its deliberations are carried on with as much dignity and precision as is the real thing which assembles at noon. Page J. H. Hollingsworth of New York is the speaker of the miniature congress and he dispenses his rulings from the chair which Speaker Henderson occupies later in the day. He emphasizes his remarks by pounding the same marble slab that Speaker Henderson pounds. Mr. Payne's desk is occupied by the chairman of the junior ways and means committee and Mr. Dalzell's by the leader of the committee on rules. The pages have a sergeant-at-arms and a clerk of the house and recently legislation reached such a stage that it was found imperative to have a Major Pruden to deliver messages from the president.

Recent Waterworks Scandal Leads to Election of New Officials.

OTHER RETURNS SUMMARIZED

Hartford, Conn., Elevates Walking Delegate to Mayoralty-Light Vote Cast in Ohio-Results in Michigan, Iowa, Montana, and North Dakota.

Municipal and township elections were held April 7 in Michigan, Ohio, Iowa, Montana and North Dakota. In the first named state the most noteworthy contest was at Grand Rapids, where the recent waterworks scandals and a general movement to secure a new set of officials in the city hall was an important factor in the campaign. Mayor George R. Perry was defeated by W. Millard Palmer, the Republican candidate, who was put on the ticket after the death of Arthur R. Rood, the regular nominee. Mr. Palmer's majority is 2,000, The entire Republican ticket was successful. Messrs. Taggart for city attorney leading by about 3,000. Others elected were William H. Haggerty, judge of police court, and George G. Lamb, clerk of the superior court.

Of the other Michigan cities the Republicans carried Kalamazoo, Traverse City, Greenville, Grand Haven, South Haven, Stanton, Belding, Muskegon and Big Rapids. The Democrats were successful in Benton Harbor, Bay City, Marshall, Hastings, Adrian, Petoskey, Dowagiac, Holland, Ionia and Ypsilanti. A citizens' ticket was elected in Ludington. James F. Hammell was chosen mayor of Lansing after a campaign in which party lines were closely drawn. A divided ticket was elected in St. Joseph. The vote in Ohio was very light. In most of the large cities only minor officers were chosen. The Republicans carried the following: Cincinnati, Steubenville, Toledo, Columbus, Springfield, Washington Court House. Celina, Fostoria, Van Wert, Ironton, Millersburg, Troy, Xenia, Zanesville, Hillsboro, Wilmington, Warren, Salem, Jackson, Lebanon, Greenfield, Portsmouth.

The Democrats were successful in the following places: Cleveland, Daycyrus, Wooster, Middletown, Tiffin, Kenton. Chillicothe. East Palestine, Shelby, Wapakoneta, Columbus Grove. The officers were divided in these ton, West Union, Massillon, Piqua. Mayor C. H. Berg, Republican, was re-elected in Dubuque, Iowa, by & large majority. The Republicans gained control of the council in Keo-

towns: London, Newark, Marietta,

Canton, Bellefontaine, Urbana, Wells-

In North Dakota the Republicans carried Bismarck and Grand Forks. At Fargo Mayor J. A. Johnson, Republican, former president of the American League of Municipalities, was defeated for re-election.

In Montana the Democrats were successful in Butte and Anaconda and the Republicans in Helena.

Hartford, Conn., elected a labor candidate for mayor. Following the lead of Bridgeport, which elevated Denis Mulvihall, a fireman, to the head of the city's affairs, and imitating also San Francisco, where Eugene E. Schmitz, an orchestra leader, is mayor, the voters of the capital committed the mayoralty into the hands of Ignatius A. Sullivan, a walking delegate, who has never been identified with local politics.

Albanians Arrest Turks. Constantinople special: Advices received here from Uskup, European Turkey, announce that a number of Albanians recently surrounded the government offices at Ipek, took all the officials prisoners, and then telegraphed to the Yildiz Palace at Constantinople, demanding the release of the Albanians was are detained in custody at Constantinople. Two battalions of Turkish infantry have been dispatched to Ipek.

Girls Form Bucket Brigade.

New York dispatch: Fifty pupils at the fashionable Hull boarding school for young women, presided over by Miss Gerrish, distinguished themselves by refraining from more than the necessary amount of hysteria and, forming a bucket brigade, extinguished a fire in the school building in West End avenue.

Strike Shuts Down Smelters, Butte, Mont., dispatch: The Washoe smelters at Anaconda are virtually at a standstill because of the strike of hoisting engineers of the Amalgamated mines. Thousands of idle men are walking the streets of Butte waiting for new men to become competent to run the mammoth hoisting engines of the Amalgamated mines.

Rhodes Remembered America. London dispatch: The will of Cecil Rhodes provides for the establishment of colonial scholarships, as previously announced, and two American scholarships to each of the present states and territories of the United States.

Murder at St. Mary, Ohlo.

At St. Mary, Ohio, Clyde Cooper shot and killed his wife while the latter was returning with her mother and sister from church. Cooper was recently discharged from an asylum.

New Era In Baseball.

The familiar expression "Play ball!" will soon be heard throughout the land, and despite the unpleasant developments of the winter which for a time threatened to disrupt the National league the indications now point to a very interesting season. The recent meeting in New York of the National magnates at which W. C. Temple was elected president showed that the leaders had arrived at a realization that something definite must be done. The "dear public" was rapidly becoming disgusted with the wrangles, and in justice to the devotees of the game, the people who supply the gate receipts, a settlement of differences was absolutely necessary.

President Temple is a wealthy resident of Pittsburg who has long been interested in baseball. He it was who a few years ago put up the Temple cup for competition.

When all things are considered, it is very evident that a new era of baseball is at hand. The American league is making such rapid strides that the National must redouble its efforts to remain at the head of the procession. This means that future competition will be of the hottest nature, and consequently the standard of play cannot help but be raised to a higher notch than in years past. The better conducted and better playing organization will attract the most money, and both leagues, realizing this, will try to be models of correct deportment-on the surface, at least.

The large number of prominent National players now in the ranks of the American has caused much conjecture as to the relative playing strength of the rivals. This question is sure to be warmly debated during the summer. and it is probable that a series will be arranged between the winning teams of each league. The scheme is feasible, would be profitable and would be a reliable means of deciding the contentions of the opposing sides.

The Jefferson Memorial Road.

The proposition to build a memorial road connecting the home and grave of Thomas Jefferson and the University of Virginia is one of more than local interest. Charlottesville, the seat of this historic institution, is intimately associated with the fame of Jefferson, and the university was always near to his heart. There is scarcely a doubt that the founding of the University of Virginia brought greater satisfaction to the venerable statesman as he reviewed his long life than the fact that he had been governor of his native state or minister to France or secretary of state or even president of the United States. He once wrote: "Could the dead feel any interest in monuments the following would be to my manes most gratifying: 'Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the statute of Virginia for religious freedom and father of the University of Vir-

There could hardly be a more fitting memorial to him than the construction of a noble avenue which shall traverse the four miles of beautiful country between the university and Jefferson's home at Monticello. Besides, the enterprise would advance the movement for good roads in the United States by serving as an example for every district of the middle Atlantic and south ern states.

The memorial movement is being conducted by an association recently formed at Charlottesville, of which General Fitz-Hugh Lee is president and Mr. J. M. White treasurer, and the co-operation of those who revere the great Virginian would be appreci-

In a recent speech at Springfield, Mass., Minister Wu discussed the Chinese exclusion question, declaring that no self respecting Chinaman would send his children to this country to be educated. Suppose an American diplomat should attempt to exercise such reckless speech in China or any other country, how long would it be before he got his walking papers?

According to the Carnegie idea, Cecil Rhodes died disgraced. He left property amounting to about $70,000,000. He has, however, in some degree atoned for this, according to the cable dispatches, by providing very liberally for the education of "young England."

It is difficult to understand why those wise persons who sell cocksure tips on the races and stocks do not take advantage of the good things themselves and make all the money This is a sort of generosity that is quite incomprehensible.

The Canadians are still claiming ownership of the north pole. They should pause and remember that the United States is bounded on the north by the aurora borealis, which puts a cloud on LEWIS H. BENNETT Conclusion is Correct.

To the Editor:

In your last issue you published an excellent article on the needs of our public school. In my opinion you did office of Town Supervisor, not say enough, and if I read the article correctly you were inclined to advocate the building of a new school house now. Is my conclusion correct? SUBCRIBER.

The Review is in fayor of the construction of a modern school building and believes it is greatly needed now. now as well as any time and cannot understand where there is a dollar to be gained by delay. We have not agitated the matter as strongly as the de- as aforesaid. mand calls for because the proposition to purchase additional property is to be submitted soon and have no desire to advance any public improvement that will in any measure detract attention from that important issue. What the Death Mask Snows.

The value of a plaster cast as a portrait of the dead or living face cannot for a moment be questioned. It must of necessity be absolutely true to nature. It cannot flatter; it cannot caricature. It shows the subject as he was or is, not only as others saw him in the actual flesh, but as he saw himself. And in the case of the death mask particularly it shows the subject often as he permitted no one but himself to see himself. He does not pose; he does not "try to look pleasant." In his mask he

Jack's hand trembled as he touched the half-bowed and supplicating sentinel that in all these decades, while the world was moving on, making wonderful history, had remained here

Jack estimated the value of the London, even at the present depreciated price of silver.

But they were after higher game, and could well afford to scornfully cast this base bullion aside.

It was not long before the descend-Jack, shovel in hand, had cleared a slab that had a dull lustre not unlike Barrajo danced what, in another fight for it," came the stern reply. quarter of the world, might have been termed an Irish jig or a Scottish horn-

"Por Dios! It is just as the document relates. The old Indian did not deceive me. Come. lift the trap with me, Senor Jack. See, stone steps lead down to the ruins of the old Aztec temple. Oh! I tell you, my president, we are the luckiest men on the face of the earth, this night, since we have but to stretch out our hands to clutch fortune."

The invitation to descend, given by Barrajo, as the two fortune hunters surveyed the ancient stone steps leading to some mysterious subterranean depository of the Montezumas was a most welcome sound to Overton.

They had come upon the expedition fully prepared for all emergencies, and the gloomy depths of the yawning pit below had no terrors for such brave hearts, so, taking pick and spade, they began to descend.

At the bottom of the stairway they came to a lone slab, forming a lintel over the top of a door. Upon digging the doorway was uncovered and was found to be blocked by a huge metate or native millstone. Carved across its entire surface were inscriptions in the hieroglyphics of a civilized race.

As soon as the doorway had been cut through the two adventurous treasure hunters entered the chamber of the temple-tomb. Mural paintings, representing female figures draped in shrouds and in attitudes of prayer, were on the walls. Niches in the crypt contained a number of skulls, and other bones comprising parts of skeletons were scattered about. These were all painted a bright red. Red, It may be remarked, was the mourning color of the Aztecs.

There were numbers of idols in the cave, doubtless looked upon as exceedingly chaste in these olden times, but their supreme ugliness gave Jack a rude shock when his artistic eye first fell upon them.

However their faults, while many from this point of view, could be readily condoned when the fact was taken into consideration that each and every one of the little monsters seemed to have been fashioned from crude metal, and even Overton's inexperienced eye was able to tell that it was gold unalloyed.

This was glorious-still, it was only a beginning.

With trembling fingers they picked up many of the less weighty images and vases.

By degrees the two men managed to recover their wits and calm down, when they set about a rough estimate of the value of their find.

Overton was fain to agree with the general when the latter exultantly exclaimed that in all probability never before in the history of the world, from the days of King Solomon down to the present time, had such a vast treasure been heaped up in one pile. It was like a dream-Overton in his wildest moods, when fancy ran away with reason, had never imagined so marvelous a thing.

Finally Barrajo said: "Remember our sacred compact, Senor Jack-an equal division if we both live; should misfortune overtake us while we are in the act of removing the treasure, the one who survives is entitled to all. after he has settled a few bequests we have taken the pains to write jointly. Is this so understood?"

"It is in the bond general; and may heaven deal with me as I deal with

They solemnly shook hands as if to again ratify the bargain.

Barrajo and Jack had as yet no suspicion that they were followed from San Juan, and, eager to begin operations, the two comrades had each seized upon several images that were most handy and began to lug the un-resisting captives toward the exit. Barrajo ascended the steps first and Jack handed up the booty, raising the temple images one by one, while the general piled them outside on the grass beside the overthrown silver sentry.

Jack had handed up the last of their burden, and, still gasping for breath, crawled up the steps himself, anxious to again breathe the pure atmosphere without, after having his eyes and nose and mouth clogged with the fine dust

Just as he reached the top a hand clutched his shoulder, and Barrajo's husky voice whispered into his ear: "Hush! Do not move-caramba! I could swear I saw a figure flit through yonder stretch of bright moonlight."

"Ah! that means-" "We have been followed." "In spite of our great caution."

Barrajo muttered a few pet phrases as though in this opening of the safety valve he could allow the surplus steam to escape.

"There are some very sly dogs in in the dense jungle, guarding well the this world, senor, and we have our secret of those strange people of Aztec | share of them in San Jose. Yes, despite the care exercised by one whose long experience made him capable of statue at some thousands of pounds in | doing everything possible to throw pursuers off the track, we have been followed."

"There can be no doubt of their intentions," said Overton between his teeth, as he allowed a hand to steal toward his weapons, for the Angloing pick struck metal, and presently Saxon spirit was aroused within

CHAPTER XIII.

Dearly Won. Evidences that the general had spoken the truth multiplied quickly, for presently they heard signals, and even caught a glimpse of dark figures flitting from tree to tree. Perhaps it was the first time on record where white men made a rude breastworks of gold, but lying behind the heap of gold images and vases that Barrajo had deposited upon the ground they awaited an opportunity to cut loose among the persistent shadows that had followed from San

It was Barrajo who found the first chance, and right well the old soldier improved it.

At least one thing was settled-the imprecations in Spanish that followed the report of his gun announced beyond any possibility of mistake that these dusky, flitting shadows were not the spirits of ancient Aztec priests, but genuine, bonafide adventurers of

If more evidence were needed they had it when spiteful flashes of fire punctured the dark spaces under the trees, and the rattle of firearms fol-

Some of the bullets whistled over their heads, while others flattened against the novel defense behind which they crouched.

"Five!" muttered the old soldier when the scattering volley had come to an end without doing any damage. They had quite a little circus for some time, firing back and forth, guided more by the flash of each other's guns than anything else. When the enemy began to flank their position Jack knew the case was growing desperate, and would require heroic treatment if they hoped to come out at the large end of the horn. "We must move on their works. general," he declared, when a leaden messenger had sung past his ear, coming from the rear. They crawled away, keeping almost flat upon the ground and without interruption reached the spot for which they aimed, where at the proper time they could pour a hot and deadly fire into the ranks of the San Jose adventurers as they rushed forward in closing upon their silenced enemies. All this happened just as Barrajo, who knew the habits and temperaments of his fellows full well, expected, and the fusilade which they opened on the advancing figures sent at least a couple of them to grass before they agem played upon them.

The fight, being again open, raged along the whole line.

It was evidently destined to be little war of extermination-one side or the other must be wiped out.

After further desultory firing Jack heard the swful thud which a bullet makes when it strikes a human being. and caught the husky maledictions that burned his comrade's tongue. "You are hit," he exclaimed in dis-

"Yes, and badly, too, I fear. Try to stanch the blood, hombre, as best you can. Your hand trembles-come, bear up; it is but the luck of a soldier, after be a connoisseur in fiddles. Strangely all. Many years I have mocked the Grim Reaper and laughed in his face perhaps he has me now. At least, hombre, I shall be avenged. See, our three remaining enemies have come together yonder, by the gnarled oakyou can count the flashes when they fire. It is a glorious opportunity to try the virtues of these experimental bombs, one that may never come again. The secret must die with them." Jack had just turned his head moodily aside, ostensibly to look for enemies in their rear, but in reality to hide his emotion, when a sudden shout electrified him. As he faced about he was horrified to see his sorely wounded companion upon his feet and hurrying with uncertain steps toward the spot from whence the last volley had come,

It was too late to stay him, for already the mad general was a quarter of the way over the intervening realized-the old hero had gone down, struck again by a merciless ball.

Then a sudden fury seemed to possess Overton-such a feeling as may make a giant of a stripling-it was the desire for revenge burning in his soul and tingling to the very tips of his fingers, under the impulse of which a man may do the most astounding feats, such as might be worthy of old time heroes.

In that second of time he had sworn an oath to slay those three desperate adventurers or die himself in the attempt.

He had even scrambled to his feet with this stern resolution on his mind, and was in the act of rushing forward to hurl himself upon the ambushed foe, when he discovered that Barrajo was once more rising.

Jack had a pretty good idea as to what was upon Barrajo's mind, so that he was not at all surprised to see him draw back his arm and make ready to cast a projectile.

Overton unconsciously came to a

He had no time to speculate upon the result.

There was a blinding flash just in the spot where the trio of adventurers had concealed themselves, a most terrific concussion that actually threw Jack from his feet, and then a deathly

Overton, only a trifle bruised, managed to gain his feet and rush forward.

Where the San Jose treasure seekers had lain hidden the utmost havoc had been done, and Jack knew no human being could have been within twenty feet of that exploding bomb and escaped with his life.

It was a most terrible and overwhelming catastrophe.

He remembered poor, brave Barrajo, hero of a score of battles, such as they are in Central American republics.

It was no trouble finding him. The general had half raised himself to a sitting position, and was eagerly looking toward the scene of desolation his terrible little hand grenade had

"It is-victory?" he gasped, as Jack bent over him, and there was a tremor to the old soldier's weak voice that told of the ruling passion strong in

"But is it so bad as that, my poor friend? May I not be able to save you? I have some rude knowledge of surgery, and Heaven knows I could spare no effort in your behalf." There was real agony in Jack's voice and the dying man was deeply affected

"Useless, Senor Jack; quite useless. My sands of life are almost run; my race at its end. I have been wounded many times, but never like this. In less than ten minutes I shall be dead; believe me."

"Good heavens! you give me pain, Barrajo. If it were my brother I could not feel more unconsolable." "Ah, I believe you, senor. We have been good comrades, we two; is it not so?" And we made a sacred compact; you remember it, Senor lack?" weakly,

His majesty takes the greatest interest, too, in his band, and he is a keen collector of musical instruments and is said to enough, too, those huge mechanical structures which are so commonly found in Germany and Russia, and which purport to be organ, orchestra, and brass band in one, are very popular both with the Sultan and the Shah.

Another curious fact is that a grand piano has just been bought by an Arab sheik at Khartoum. It is to be played by his chief wife.

Fault in the Home.

It is one of the manifestations of the careless, superficial way in which many people consider an important matter that the minute a word is said about overstudy and sitting up until 2 o'clock with a cup of black coffee and a history lesson the tendency is at once to shove all the blame upon the public school system. Part of this is thoughtlessness and part is cowardice-the exhibition of an indisposition to face the difficulty exactly where it is. In every case like that which Mr. Griggs cites, or any case that is approximate, the trouble is so much in the home that all other contributory elements are of no account whatever.

SOME WONDERFUL CROPS IN WESTERN CANADA

The Territorial Government Reports

Regina, Assinibola, Canada, January 10th.—At the Agricultural Statistics Branch of the Department of Agriculture for the Territories, reports are now being received from grain threshers throughout the Territories, for statistical purposes. The reports are somewhat delayed this year, owing to the extensive crop and the delay in getting it threshed. The Department of Agriculture is leading the way in a new departure, with regard to the collection of crop statistics. In the older provinces, crop estimates are based entirely on the opinion of persons interested in the grain business who ought to be, and no doubt are, well posted upon the probable yields. Still the reports are simply a matter of opinion, in which a mistake may easily be made. The Territorial Department, however, has adopted the system of returns of crops actually threshed, upon which to base their reports. The accuracy of the reports cannot, therefore, be gainsaid, for they represent a compilation of actual threshing results. In this connection, it might be mentioned that the Department is organizing a system of growing crop returns, which will be in operation next summer. The information thus obtained, with estimated acreage, will be available for business men, banks, railway companies, and conduct of their business. The crop reports already to hand show some remarkable cases of abnormal development. In the Regina district, many returns are given of crops of wheat running from 40 to 45 bushels to the acre.

In the Edmonton district, T. T. Hutchings threshed 728 bushels of wheat from a ten-acre plot, an average of nearly 73 bushels per acre. S. Norman threshed 6,950 bushels of oats from 60 acres of land, an average of 116 bushels per acre. The publication of the actual yields or grain threshed will likely open the

for a Burgiar. M. Caillaux, the French minister of finance, had a curious adventure in Paris one evening recently. He was invited to dine with his colleague, the minister of marine, whose residence is opposite the ministry of finance on the other side of the Louvre. As he was late he took a short cut through the garden, but found the gate locked and that he had forgotten the key. M. Caillaux is an excellent gymnast, and proceeded to scale the railing. He had just got on the top when he was spotted by the vigilant sentry, who menaced him with his bayonet. His assertion that he was the minister of justice was received with scorn, and his transfer to the guard house as a burglar was only prevented by the arrival of the minister of marine, who rescued him from the soldier.

CARICATURE OF GEN. BOBRIKOFF.

Finnish People Show Their Hatred of Their Russian Governor.

That Gen. Bobrikoff, who has been commissioned by the czar to "Russianize" Finland, is the most unpopular man in the country goes without saying. Though the Finns are a Godfearing and peace-loving people, re-ports of attempts on the general's life have been telegraphed several times.

To vent their hate the Finns have recently spread broadcast bust photographs of Gen. Bobrikoff, which they have surmounted with two horns.

The Carlestare showing that they consider his character on a par with the satanic majesty in charge of hades. The police have looked in vain for the photographer responsible for the caricature. Several arrests have been made, but no convictions have resulted. An order has been issued threaten-

Kores and Electricity.

Near the center of the city of Seoul there is a beautiful marble pagoda that was brought from Pekin about 1300 by one of the Mongol Queens, who came as a bride to Korea. Her people at that time were shaking the whole known world, and, under leaders like Genghis, Kublai and Tamerlane, were upsetting all the thrones of Asia, so that Korea still speaks of them with bated breath, and the smallest children know them by name. The marble pagoda still stands, a silent witness before the world of the great Mongol conquerors; but past its stony ear whizzes an American electric car every ten minutes at ten miles an hour, regardless of all the Mongol shades. Along this main street of Seoul, one of the oldest streets in the world, stretch Western wires charged with something that defies all the curiosity of the east to pronounce upon. A few days ago a broken strand hung temptingly from one of the poles, and the Far East determined to get hold of it to investigate, with the result-one live wire, one dead man. A government notice was posted up: "If anyone is caught fooling with these thunder and lightning strings, let him be padded."-The Outlook.

Threw His Canes Away.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 7th. Mr. C. L. Smith of 309 Anne St., the Secy. of the Trades Council has written this startling statement for publi-

"I feel it my duty to make public the facts of my recent illness and recovery. I was very sick and sore, and had to walk with the aid of two canes. It was a very painful attack, but I don't know what it was. Some said it was Lumbago and others that it was Sciatica or Rheumatism.

"I was told to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and began a treatment. After I had used one box I could walk with one cane, and after two boxes were used I could walk without any help. I kept on and three boxes cured me completely.

"I am now well and happy without a pain or an ache and I can very truly say that Dodd's Kidney Pills are worthy of my greatest praise."

> What is the use? People do not thank you for burdening them with your load of troubles, large or small. And they are pretty sure to seem small in other people's eyes, however large in your own. "Go bury your sorrow, the world has it to share," and does not care to take any more. Besides, the trouble gets larger the more you talk about it, or even think about it in a complaining spirit. It is amazing how a grievance grows if only it is

Have you something to do that you find hard and would prefer not to do? Then listen to a wise old grandmother. Do the hard thing first and get it over with. If you have done wrong, go and confess it. If you lesson is tough, master it. If the garden is to be weeded, weed it and play afterwards. Do first the thing you do not like and then, with a clear conscious, try the rest.

What a comfort it is to look back through the years and think of what our earthly friendships have been, and then make a leap into the future, and know that there the real summer season of friendship comes! The best things that we have on earth are but small beginnings, little eyes and buds on the tree of life, that look to unfolding of all that life and love can mean in

The land that knows no sickness, The health that knows so sore, The light that hath no evening, But lasteth evermore.

When the majority of men come to understand and appreciate the value of putting character and conduct in the daily routine of life, and the importance of judging every act by the standard of right or wrong, regardless of consequences, we shall have more called to make, not the heroic actions of the kind of heroism that is always admirable. It requires courage to meet the rifie balls and shells on the field of battle. It takes greater courage to quietly stand for the right when the know intimately that you may lend a forces of evil march their alluring and seducing armies upon the soul. The conscientious performance of life's common duties, the resisting of every evil thought and desire, the meeting of petty troubles and adversities in a spirit of fortitude, the rigid adherence to principles of honesty and integrity, even when this course may entail personal sacrifice of wealth or friendship or social position—in short, faithfulness to truth and duty at any cost—is the kind of heroism that is most needed in the world today.
