

PALATINE LOCAL NEWS

Events of Past, Present and Future of Village and Vicinity.

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Memorial Day next week Saturday.

Paul Patten is able to be up again.

John Hirn's cattle sale Saturday at 10 o'clock.

Andrew Foksett, of Chicago, visited relatives here Sunday.

Remember the entertainment and dance Monday, June 1.

The new sewer on Wisdom street is being pushed this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Baker of Chicago visited with Mr. Baker's folks here Sunday.

Prof. Smyser will teach at Des Plaines the coming year at an increased salary.

Mrs. Diekman, of Woodstock, was in town the first of the week, and we understand will move back to Palatine.

Presiding-elder Earney will preach at the Methodist church Sunday evening and the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be held.

Henry Schoppe will sprinkle the business portion of the village this summer, as the merchants have raised a subscription for that purpose.

Mrs. Peter Knowe is dangerously ill at her home, but at the present writing was resting easy. Her many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

The board of local improvement met Monday night, and have an ordinance prepared to run a system of water works into Richmond's subdivision.

The Mannerchor will present the comic farce "The New Mayor" at Battermann hall Monday, June 1, followed by a grand dance. Everybody invited.

George Bogart, formerly of this place, was accidentally killed last Monday by the discharge of a gun which he was taking from hooks on the wall.

Prof. Harry Rea of Des Plaines visited relatives and friends here Sunday. He has been offered the same position in the Maine township high school for the coming year.

The Ladies' Foreign Missionary society will meet with Mrs. W. L. Hicks on Wednesday, June 3. The ladies will go from the church in a bus, the round trip to cost 10 cents.

The Palatine High school alumni association met at the school house last Tuesday night, and appointed committees on the alumni reception and banquet, which which will be held June 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Rigby, of Chicago, have rented the furnished house of Thomas McMicking. Mr. McMicking has not decided where he will locate as yet. Mrs. McMicking and Mary will visit friends at different places for a few weeks.

George Stroker has succeeded in getting the business men of Wauconda interested in a bank at that place, and enough stock has been taken to make a good capital to start on. Mr. Stroker expects to move to Wauconda in two or three weeks to take charge of the bank. George is one of Palatine's most popular young men, and thoroughly capable of taking charge of a bank, having been employed in a Chicago bank for several years.

All of the present instructors in our school, with the exception of Miss Kean, who will not teach this year, have been retained at a small increase in salary. The present corps of teachers has given good results, and for the most part the school has run smoothly. The High school has been fully accredited by Illinois and Northwestern universities, so that graduates may enter these universities without taking an examination. There has been a statement made that certain pupils would go to another school next year, but we are unable to verify the rumors and conclude it is a knock by one who has no interest in the school.

Death of Edwin H. Clay.

The funeral of Edwin H. Clay was held in the Methodist church last Sunday, May 17, 1903. A large audience of old friends gathered to aid in the last sad rites of one of Palatine's oldest settlers. Rev. D. J. Hoimes preached a funeral sermon which dwelt on the life of the pioneer and the value of such a living.

Edwin H. Clay was born in Canterbury, County of Kent, England, Aug. 10, 1830. He came to America with his parents in infancy. They located in Syracuse, N. Y., where they remained two years. They then moved to Chicago, where they remained six months, when they located on a farm one-half mile north of Wheeling. In 1847 they moved to Deer Grove, Palatine township, where they resided until the death of his father in 1854. On attaining his majority Mr. Clay engaged in farming on section 16 in Palatine, where he lived until 1882, when he moved to this village. He was married to Anna Owen in 1861. She died in 1890. Two sons, Irving O. and Merton J. Clay, survive.

Mr. Clay enjoyed fairly good health up to the time of his death. A few weeks ago he fell downstairs at his son's home and sustained injuries which resulted in his death on May 15. Mr. Clay was of a kind hearted, social disposition and always interested in the affairs of the village and township.

Death of Mrs. Henry Anderman.

Mrs. Gesine Doeshler Anderman was born in Bremerhafen, Germany, on Feb. 12, 1830. She came to America with her parents in 1842, and lived for some time near Brunswick, Ind. She was married to Henry Anderman in 1848. They made their home on a farm at Long Grove until 1870, when they moved to Palatine.

To them were born nine children, four of whom still survive—Henry, of Fairmount, Minn.; George, of Indiana; Mrs. Kruckman, of Diamond Lake, and Mrs. Emma Hartung, of Palatine. Mr. Anderman died April 16, 1891.

Mrs. Anderman died May 16, 1903, of pneumonia.

The funeral services were held at St. Paul's church last Tuesday, where the deceased had attended during her residence here. Rev. Hoffmeister preached an appropriate sermon telling of the kind mother she had been.

Beside the children, thirteen grand-children and four great grand-children mourn her departure. She received the careful attention of her family during her illness and they did their best to keep away the grim destroyer. The remains were laid to rest in Hillside cemetery.

The Farmer's Labor Problem.

As a sign that the present demand for labor is by no means confined to the cities, the announcement made by farmers of the country that they are sadly in need of help is of decided interest. Most of the young men and women who have migrated to the cities during the past decade have stayed there, and on the other hand, the need for farm labor is increasing. The farm owner who has a large crop in sight upon his fertile acres, is more than willing, therefore, to take "summer boarders" from the city, but this time he needs the boarder's labor and not his money, says the Chicago Daily News.

Available labor on the farms has been growing scarcer, in spite of the fact that the productive capacity of the individual laborer has been vastly increased. According to estimates made in the department of agriculture, the amount of human labor required to produce a bushel of wheat from beginning to end is on an average only ten minutes, whereas in 1830 the time was more than three hours. Even with modern methods and modern machinery, however, the growth of agriculture has been such as to call for more labor than can be supplied. The present scarcity of labor is due in part to the prospect of great crops, but some of the factors contributing to it are no doubt permanent. To a certain extent, the much-discussed migration to the cities has been supplemented by the growing tendency of the farmers themselves to quit actual farm work and betake themselves with their sons and daughters to neighboring towns and villages.

IN GRIP OF THE TRUSTS

The Farm Machinery Interests of the Country Tied Hand and Foot.

Independent Manufacturers Apply to President Roosevelt For Relief.

"Thirty-three octopi have their tentacles wrapped around one class of American manufacturers and are choking the business life out of their victims."

This summarizes the plight today of the farm implement makers of the United States, according to the spirit of a call for help which they are preparing to utter to President Roosevelt.

There is one slightly deformed octopus which has escaped from the grasp of the relentless thirty-three. It is the International Harvester company. It makes 90 per cent. of the harvesting machinery of the country, owns the mills and mines which supply it with the raw material, and is therefore measureably independent. The manufacturers who are crying for aid are those who make the other 10 per cent. of the harvesters and the great mass of minor farm and garden implements.

The owners of these many independent plants are now circulating a petition asking President Roosevelt to save them from the trusts and combines that furnish them with the raw material from which the tractors, the harvesters, the mowers, hayrakes, cultivators, threshing machines and all other farm implements are made.

The petition sets forth that the independent industry is threatened with destruction, the middlemen with ruin and the farmers with heavy burdens through the greed of the great trusts—at the head of which is the Standard Oil combine. The president is asked to act speedily that the export trade of the United States may be saved and that the farmers may be protected.

The manufacturers who signed the petition set forth that, aside from heavy losses to themselves, the crops of the United States have been curtailed by the action of the trusts. They claim that in preference to paying the increased prices ordered by the thirty-three trusts, the farmers are using old implements long out of date, and that, because of these crude methods, the agricultural advance of the United States is being checked, the agricultural supremacy of the nation threatened, and the proportion of increase in agriculture falling off. Besides, the manufacturers point out government reports showing that the exports of agricultural implements have already shown a decrease.

Prosperity—especially in agricultural districts—all the manufacturers of farm implement are supposed to be in a trust, and most farmers believe that they are not only in a trust, but that they are a secondary trust, controlled entirely by the steel trust. The manufacturers in their petition, explode this idea by declaring that the steel trust threatens the life of every metal using manufacturer in America and does unto him injury to the commercial progress of the country.

What President Roosevelt can do in the way of relieving them the manufacturers do not state in their petition. They simply pray for relief and leave the remedy to him, making no suggestions in the way of anti-trust legislation, but expressing confidence that some relief will be afforded by the government.

VILLAGE BOARD.

Meets in Adjourned Session and Orders Improvements.

The village fathers met in adjourned session Monday evening and transacted business which will improve of the utmost importance to the village. For several years property owners on Lake street, Liberty and Elm streets have asked that those thoroughfares be improved, but so much was demanded in the business district that the trustees found it impossible to secure funds to carry on the work.

Now, the street committee has recommended that gravel be placed as follows:

Lake street, 95 rods; Cemetery avenue, 35 rods; Main street, 30 rods on west end, beginning near the new road leading to Chicago Highlands; Elm street, 60 rods, north end; Liberty street, 56 rods, and 45 rods on the Lake Zurich road.

The estimated cost of the work is $4 per rod, or $1,484 total.

The committee also recommended several new sidewalks, and instructed the clerk to send notices for repair of walks to thirty property-owners in several sections of the village. If the board will follow up the notices and cause the repairs to be made, there will be some comfort and safety in using the walks complained of.

Property-owners should not have to be forced by the authorities to make such improvements. They should do so willingly, if for no other reason than the looks of their property. Let there be a general fixing up and putting in shape the walks without further notice from the authorities.

Bids for tapping the water mains were presented to the board by E. G. Bauman, H. D. A. Grebe and L. F. Schroeder. The contract was awarded to Mr. Schroeder, the contract to be drawn up by the village attorney.

The petition relative to drainage, presented by William Peters and Ed Thies, was referred to the drainage committee.

Smallpox in Waukegan.

A genuine case of smallpox has been discovered in the home of Clarence Breed of 217 Juniper street, and the house in question, as well as the home of Mrs. Breed's mother on Oak street, has been put under quarantine.

Many people have been exposed and the health board is extremely busy in checking a possible epidemic.

In all about seven persons have been placed in quarantine as a result of the discovery of the pest.—Waukegan Sun.

Trainmen Get Raise.

After considering the matter for five or six weeks the C. & N. W. R'y has reached a settlement with trainmen and switchmen, which is satisfactory to all concerned.

Increases are made in the wages of the conductors, brakemen and baggagemen in the passenger train service of 12 per cent.

Under the present scale conductors are receiving from $100 to $120 per month and the increase will give them from $112 to $134.60. The passenger brakemen are now getting $50 per month and under the new scale will receive $56. Baggage-men are now receiving from $50 to $70 per month, and will hereafter get from $61.60 to $78.40.

The conductors and brakemen in the freight train service have received an increase amounting to 15 per cent. The conductors, who are now getting 3 cents a mile, will hereafter receive 3.45 cents, and the brakemen, who now get 2 cents a mile, will get 2.3 cents a mile.

A Graceful Custom.

It is a graceful and beneficial custom which has been established of devoting one day in the year especially to the commemoration of the virtues of the dead. Their memory comes to us, bidden or unbidden. It comes with the morning light; it comes with the evening shades; it comes in the stillness of the night. Whenever it comes it is always welcome and precious. Indeed, one of our chief companionships, which we cultivate and enjoy more almost than any other, is the recollection of those we have loved and lost.

What We've Wished For.

Talk about good prosperous times. Listen to the Lee County (Ga.) Journal:

"Money flowing in all directions, everybody is happy and paying off their debts, our merchants are all smiles and their clerks polite as a Chesterfield; the married ladies look ten years younger; the old men are out of the grunts; the little kids are as frisky as a Jay; the cooks prepare meals on time without a frown; and you borrow money without any explanation of your financial standing!"

For Embezzlement.

W. K. Crandall, formerly head of the mortuary department of the Modern Woodmen, was taken to Rock Island from Chicago Friday under arrest for embezzlement of $12,000 from the society. He has been indicted by the grand jury, now in session at Rock Island. Crandall was with the Woodmen five years. He obtained the money by forging death claims of which he had the handling. Four for $3,000 each were falsely certified to and the money was appropriated by him. His dishonesty was learned only by accident, and upon being faced with the charge he confessed. To save him from prosecution his father, M. C. Crandall of Reynolds, Ill., and his sister mortgaged their property and made every cent good. Crandall then went to Chicago and obtained employment. The Woodmen refused to file charges, and the action of the grand jury was initiated by unknown persons.

The Omaha Injunctions.

"Government by injunction" would appear to have about reached the limit in connection with the labor troubles at Omaha, Neb. A fortnight ago Judge Munger of the United States district court for Nebraska granted a temporary injunction restraining the striking union teamsters of Omaha from interfering in any improper way with nonunion teamsters. The order specifically forbade picketing, menacing by force of numbers congregated to intimidate, threatening directly or by procurement, following nonunion men to their homes to attack or frighten, them and the further maintenance of an organization having for its object the restraint of interstate commerce by interfering with the movement of merchandise in transit through Omaha.

By way of retaliation the representatives of the union and of local labor organizations generally later secured from Judge Dickinson of the district court of Omaha, a state court, an injunction against the Business Men's association and others named as defendants. This injunction forbade them to threaten to injure the business or persons of any member of a labor union or any person who may desire to employ such union member. It also enjoined them from refusing to sell goods to employers of such union labor or from discriminating against them in prices; also, to quote the press report, it enjoined them—

From threatening or intimidating in any manner any person into joining the said Business Men's association or any organizations to join labor unions.

From threatening or intimidating any person who may have become a member of said association or organization if he employs organized labor or recognizes labor unions into discontinuing such employment.

From imposing any fines upon its members or any person for violating any agreement not to employ organized labor or not to recognize a labor union.

From receiving or paying out any money whatever in pursuance of any agreement to break up labor unions, except attorneys in this action.

From paying or offering any money to officers or members of unions directly or indirectly as a bribe to do or not to do any act in pursuance of any agreement of any said defendants against such unions.

From importing or engaging agents or servants to import any laborers into the city of Omaha or state of Nebraska in pursuance of any existing plan to destroy labor organizations or under any similar or new arrangement or plan.

From bringing any other injunction suits or actions in pursuance of any general plan of prosecutions to break up labor unions or of any new or similar plans connected directly or indirectly with any existing plans.

The two instances illustrate how the injunction order may be made to "work both ways," though both apparently carry to undue length this much abused method of legal procedure. The wage earners of Omaha have an unquestioned right to organize and to strike if they choose to do so. To the extent of forbidding violence the order of Judge Munger was a perfectly proper injunction, though such acts could be punished under the common or statutory law without resort to the restraining process.

If, on the other hand, the bitterness of the struggle now going on in Omaha has led the employers and business men to resort to illegal methods to coerce others into acting with them the restraining order of Judge Dickinson was perfectly proper in so far as it was necessary. The employers have no right to threaten or to boycott any one who employs union labor, to coerce employers into joining them in resisting union demands or to do anything which has for its object the disruption of labor unions which have a right to exist. If, however, they have resorted to bribery of the officers or members of the unions they have been guilty of acts contrary to public policy and destructive of business morality, which are punishable under the common or statutory law, and thus far at least an injunction was unnecessary.

At all events, the rival injunctions do nothing to clarify the situation at Omaha and might as well not have been issued.

Stirred up by the laundry strike in the Windy City, the Chicago News sagely remarks, "It is certainly a blow to a man's pride to be forced to realize how dependent he is on collars and cuffs for the impression he makes in this world."

As the Missouri mule is not yet headed toward Manchuria, it may fairly be assumed that the situation there has not reached the belligerent state. Your Missouri mule is the most accurate barometer of war.

Syracuse, N. Y. is trying to compel its street sprinklers to wet the streets in "a workmanlike manner." If Syracuse succeeds will it kindly let the rest of the world know how it is done?

The acquittal of Lou Betts, the proprietor of the New York gambling house that bears his name, looks as if the betting on the game would go right on.

The Review, $1.50 per year.

A few years ago American locomotive builders were sending agents throughout the world seeking markets for their products, and our locomotives were sent to nearly every quarter of the globe. Now it appears that the tide has turned, and instead of sending locomotives abroad the American builders cannot supply the home demand.

Recently the Pennsylvania Railroad company sought to place an order for a number of new engines for freight purposes and found, to the astonishment and dismay of the officials, that the order could not even be considered notwithstanding the fact that the first order was brought down to the modest request that at least thirty engines be forthcoming. But the response was the same. Neither for love nor money could the order be considered for the space of two years. And the Pennsylvania must go to Europe for the engines it needs or do without. As it cannot do without the engines, it will perforce go to England for them, where they have learned to build engines after the American pattern, which, however, are not considered up to the American standard.

Various other roads are in the same predicament as the Pennsylvania. They must have locomotives to move the vast and constantly increasing volume of freight that is offered them. It seems absolutely certain that the transportation business of the country will continue to grow with even greater rapidity in the future than it has grown in the past, and the question of securing the necessary motive power and rolling stock has become a serious one with many roads. Either American locomotive and car builders must greatly enlarge their facilities or the railroads will be obliged to go abroad for equipments, which are concededly inferior to those built at home.

Havana's Decreasing Death Rate.

According to figures just made public, the death rate for the year 1902 at Havana was 21.19 to the thousand of population, which is better than that of many cities in the United States and very considerably better than the death rate in such southern cities as New Orleans and Memphis. It is, in fact, lower than the rate reported for Washington, which is regarded as one of the most cleanly and healthful of American cities.

The improved sanitation of Havana is one of the most successful and beneficent reforms that followed the removal of the island of Cuba from Spanish rule and is the direct result of the "cleaning up" process inaugurated and carried into effect by the United States military authorities. Once the most filthy and insanitary of modern cities, the breeding place and pesthouse of yellow fever and kindred diseases, Havana became under American supervision as cleanly and wholesome as any city in this country. It is doubtful if any city of its size in the tropics can make anywhere near as good a showing for health as that presented in the report of the death rate of 1902. The especially gratifying thing is that the low death rate brought about by the improvements under American control appears to continue with the Cubans in power. Whatever else the Cuban republic has to be thankful for as the result of the intervention of the United States in the affairs of the island, it certainly owes a debt of gratitude for what was done in the sanitation of Havana.

The year's output of gold from Alaska and the British Yukon is estimated at $25,000,000. This is a tidy sum and shows the immense value of the Northwestern Territory, lying partly within the Dominion of Canada, but belonging mainly to the United States. It is highly essential that the disputed boundary line between the two countries should be speedily and finally settled in order that this rich country may be successfully developed.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

Weak?

"I suffered terribly and was extremely weak for 12 years. The doctors said my blood was all turning to water. At last I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was soon feeling all right again."
Mrs. J. W. Fiala, Hadlyme, Ct.

No matter how long you have been ill, nor how poorly you may be today, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine you can take for purifying and enriching the blood.

Don't doubt it, put your whole trust in it, throw away everything else.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows all about this grand old family medicine. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied.

Thrift.

Every man who saves money is called mean and stingy by the loafers on the street corners and pointed out with reproach by the men who fill away their time. In order to get ahead a man must save, must spend less than he makes, and, above all things, he must work. Don't be ashamed of having any one say that you are "close." Attend to your own business, and you are all right. The men who criticize the thrifty really pay them a big compliment. It is the tribute sixth pays industry.—Nortonville News.

That great forest fires are preventable is shown by the fact that in the Webb preserves in the Adirondacks watchmen extinguished fifty-two separate fires which if left to themselves would have speedily been beyond control and become quite as extensive and costly as those in other parts of the forest. The necessity of maintaining an efficient forest fire patrol is apparent if the forests are to be preserved.

Those Italian laborers in New York city who are striking for more money and fewer hours are apparently determined to show that there is no excuse for making immigration laws to exclude them on the theory that they tend to lower the standard of labor.

Sweden is planning to send a $50,000 relief expedition after Baron Nordenskjöld, who is exploring in the antarctic regions. Probably Nordenskjöld will be back in time to go to the relief of the relief expedition.

Now that the American quick lunch has been introduced in London, there ought to be a speedy demand over there for an American remedy for indigestion.

When Russia lets go in Manchuria it is only to get a better hold.

The postal receipts for April in the larger offices of the country show an increase of 11 per cent, which is another gratifying indication of continued prosperity.

King Edward will now doubtless feel free to skip over to Paris any day when he wants a good time.

WEAK IN THE ALPHABET.

Some Letters That Men Can Never Learn to Make.

"Why is it that with some men some letters of the alphabet are harder to make than others and, in fact, that there are some letters that some men never learned how to make?" asked a young man who takes considerable interest in the matter of handwriting in the New Orleans Times-Democrat. "It is a rather singular fact that nearly every man outside of the experts is weak on one or more of the letters in the English alphabet. Sometimes the letter involved is a capital letter, sometimes it is of the smaller kind, sometimes it is one letter and sometimes another. In any event, you will find few men who are exempt from the failing referred to."

"I know of one man who in spite of the fact that he does a great deal of writing has never learned how to make a capital P. He simply makes a stagger at it, and, as a rule, the result of his efforts will look more like a small p than like the capital P. I know another man who can't make a small f to save his life. He can never get the lower part of the letter below the line. He makes it look like a clubfooted b instead of an f. There are others who, when they try to make the small h, give it the long shank, and it looks more like the letter f. It is rather singular that these traits should hang on to a man's writing for a lifetime, but they do it just the same, and if you make a few inquiries among your friends and acquaintances you will find that but few of them are exempt from this fault."

"It is very much like the habit of spelling certain words incorrectly. Many men who are rated as first class spellers pass through life without ever in a single instance spelling certain words correctly. It is due to habit largely. If you should ask them how to spell the word, they would tell you, but when they go to write it, that is quite different, and they will get it wrong every time. So they know, too, how certain letters should be made, but they simply can't put them down on paper. It is a curious but common fault."

Your Signature.
"I should be pleased to exchange cards with you, Mr. Barrow," said Charles Willips, extending his. They had met for the first time. "I'm sorry I have no cards with me," said Barrow. "Allow me to write my address in your memorandum book." "Do you know that is a very dangerous thing to do?" Willips remarked. "It cost me $240 once. I had the habit of carrying no cards and signing my name in a new friend's notebook, just as you are about to do in mine, always on a blank page. One day, after a convivial evening, I was presented with an I O U for that sum, duly signed by myself. It was impossible to dispute it. I had to pay up. But I have never since been so free with my autograph." "By George, I never thought of that!" cried Barrow. "Suppose you write my name down yourself."—New York Press.

Improving Upon Nature.
"What on earth are you doing in here, Tommy?" asked his mother, peering into the darkness of the henhouse, whence had been coming for five minutes or more a series of dismal squawks, accompanied by a loud flapping of wings.
"I am trying," said Tommy, who seemed to be doing something with a knotted rope, "to fix this rooster so his alarm won't go off before 7 o'clock tomorrow morning."—Current Literature.
