

EXPERT CORN GROWER

Why Professor P. G. Holden Is Worth Millions to Iowa.

AN UNPARALLELED GROW YIELD.
Through close relation Professor Holden's corn has increased more than 100,000,000 bushels since 1900.

The state of Iowa has been paying $100,000 a year for the last two years to employ Professor Holden as its corn expert. He has earned $100,000,000, says a special report from the Board of Corn Commissioners of the New York Herald Tribune, to the honor of P. G. Holden. He is an agricultural expert.

Iowa farmers are taught by a man who has a life's experience to back of him. The best corn crop in the world, anything about the size of your corn that they do not want to be lost. They are interested they look by the hundreds to see Professor Holden talk, and they are anxious to exactly copy his work. As a result in large part of what he has done, the Iowa corn crop has increased about 100,000,000 bushels more every year than in any year of this century. Professor Holden had made $100,000,000 because of their crop last year.

Professor Holden became an agricultural expert in 1870. He was engaged by accident when he found that the Iowa corn crop was being cut down among his people. He went to the fields to plot out the corn. He found the best and most profitable. He raised the corn, and he found that the best corn was the one that he raised. He raised the corn, and he found that the best corn was the one that he raised.

Professor Holden worked on his corn until it was perfect. He got the approval, and the Funk brothers, who offered him a big salary to go to Illinois, told him to stay in Iowa. He stayed in Iowa and he found that the best corn was the one that he raised. He raised the corn, and he found that the best corn was the one that he raised.

Professor Holden made the farmers believe that the best corn was the one that he raised. He raised the corn, and he found that the best corn was the one that he raised. He raised the corn, and he found that the best corn was the one that he raised.

Professor Holden has been raising corn in Iowa several years. The farmers were disappointed. Iowa was in the state of Iowa. He found that the best corn was the one that he raised. He raised the corn, and he found that the best corn was the one that he raised.
