LEES' STATUE TO BE FUTURE

WILL REMAIN IN STATUARY HALL DESPITE PROTEST

No Effort Will Be Made to Have Removed by Congress

Washington.—The marble statue of Lee, Robert R. Lee, Confederate soldier, standing in Statuary Hall at the capitol, will probably remain in that place until the end of his reign, despite the protest of the anti-secessionists. A resolution has been introduced in the great hall, but it is believed that it will not pass.

It has been definitely determined that an effort will be made to have the statue removed by Congress, and no resolutions will be introduced in the great hall. The statue has been in the hall since 1857, and it is believed that it will remain there until the end of the century.
