Start Working on Widening Hough-Main Intersection

To Cut Southwest Corner for Motor Traffic; Move Walk Back

Village employees under the supervision of Paul Purcell, superintendent of streets, began removing the water hydrant and ornamental light poles from the southwest corner of Main and Hough streets Tuesday.

They are beginning the preliminary steps in widening the intersection at that point. Approval of the change in the Main street widening project was received this week from the public works administration officials in Chicago.

The widening will be done by Milburn Bros. of Mt. Prospect who are now completing the sidewalk lowering work. The corner will be cut back 15 feet on Main street and 1 1/2 feet on Hough street. The walk will be moved back and placed at an angle with a six inch curbing. A triangular piece of roadway will be topped by the moving.

The poles and hydrant are to be moved west on Main street to the end of the Pure Oil company property. The electric wire pole at that point is to be moved to a point on the east side of Hough street.

A survey is being made along Main street to determine the removal of trees that are in the way at the widening. At the board meeting Monday night it was reported no trees will be replaced in the parkways. Those property owners who lost trees in the work may, if they so desire, have them replaced in their lawns, trusts, etc.

Will Request State to Improve Bridge

A request that the bridge on Northwest highway over Flint creek at Jewel Park be improved will be made by the village of Barrington to the state highway department, according to a decision reached at the board meeting Monday night.

A letter from the village engineers was read by D. B. Maloney, village attorney, advising the trustees to take this action in line with the widening and dredging the Flint creek bed from Northside park to Jewel park.

Because the bridge is built in the manner known as a box culvert, the floor curtails the flow of water and is partly blamed for infiltration by backing up into Jewel Park sewer lines.

The dredging is now being done on the west end of the stream. A new course through the Public Service company property east of Hough street is being made. A. L. Davy is the contractor under the award by additional grant money received from the federal government, through FWA.

Discuss Proposal to Engage Public Nurse in Village

H. R. Brintlinger Addresses Meeting Monday Night; Would Share Cost

H. R. Brintlinger, representing the local Parent-Teacher association, appeared before the village board Monday evening to explain a proposition for hiring a registered nurse for full time duty in the village for a ten month period in cooperation with school district No. 4.

He proposed that the village contribute $60 a month toward the nurse's salary for ten months to supplement the board of education's contribution of $90. She would also receive $50 a month from the federal government, making a total of $200 a month for full time work.

Last fall the board of education engaged the services of Miss Lillian McLeish, RN, from the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute. She served two days a week at school at the public school in the examination of pupils.

Under the new suggested setup, she would devote full time to the village and would keep a check on parochial school children as well as those of pre-school age and older persons unable to receive other medical attention.

Village President Earl Hatle turned the proposal over to the health and finance committees for consideration and further study.

Miss McLeish is in Europe at present but is expected to return in August, when she will start her health work among children before the fall opening. Mr. Brintlinger urged the adoption of the plan before the village in order to get the benefit of full time service.

In his talk, he stressed the need of surveillance to prevent epidemics and safeguard individual health.

One person was injured, 20 more miraculously escaped injury and a large amount of property damage was done in a heavy rain of wind that struck with great force at the John Welch resort on Stoum Lake, 2 miles west of Wauconda on route 176, Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

He and his brother Charles and Leonard Payne, also of Chicago, were in a small tent holding the center pole in an effort to prevent it from being blown away when the tree crashed into it, pinning them to the ground. The others were not hurt.

The only casualty was overshadowed by the miraculous escape of 11 persons in a trailer parked near the tree and seven others in an automobile. When the tree fell on the tent four feet from the trailer, branches struck the trailer but were prevented from penetrating when the broken ends buckled up and held the limb off. Mr. and Mrs. H. Hutchings, 2840 Orchard avenue, Chicago, Illinois, had parked their trailer on the shore of Stoum Lake a short time ago for a summer stay.
