F. W. Hatje, 124 North avenue, started work Monday at the village treatment plant as third operator following his appointment by the village board last Friday night.

The board met in special session to deal with the problem of relief work at the treatment plant. Eight-hour schedules are now in operation.

Fred Hager and Charles Busby, other plant operators, were working on 15-hour shifts with one day of each week in arrangement of schedule of relief days and attempting to shorten the hours of the men, difficulties were met.

It was learned that the street department was not to be affected. Water Ebert was taken from his work there and sent to the treatment plant several times a week. Also, for an indefinite period the trustees estimated they could employ a third operator permanently and engaged Mr. Hatje, who, it is understood, will close out his blacksmith business.

In his capacity Mr. Hatje will also do the repair work for the village on its equipment, thereby effecting a saving to be applied to the $21 increase.

Reinberg Requests Deer Grove Forest Preserve Buildings

Scouts Withdraw in Favor of Camp for Poor Children

The Northwest suburban council of boy scouts will not apply for use of the buildings which housed the C.C.C. camp at Deer Grove forest preserve, according to John L. Bell, president.

The council, along with those of Oak Park and North Shore, had planned to ask for the buildings to be used for overnight camping by the scouts of all three councils; but Mr. Bell learned Monday that leaders of Camp Reinberg had already made formal application for the C.C.C. buildings.

In view of the fact that Reinberg is a fresh air camp for underprivileged children and their mothers, and is now over-crowded, the scout leaders of the suburban council decided not to compete with it for the additional facilities.

It is probable that the other two councils will also forego any application for the property.

It was reported that Camp Reinberg has been applying for a many as 600 persons at one time. Mr. Bell learned that the camp could easily fit its present buildings and those of the C.C.C. camp with underprivileged persons during the summer months.

Terry Druggan Is Sued for $25,000 Following Battle

Charles Peterson Files Suit to Recover for Fight Injuries

Charles H. Peterson, who has a working interest in the Druggan farm near Lake Zurich, is suing Terrance J. Druggan in Lake county circuit court for $25,000 for injuries he suffered in an altercation. The suit was filed Friday.

Peterson alleged that on Aug. 2 Druggan came over to his home where he was working in the field and "beat, bruised, wounded and ill-treated him." In his complaint filed by Attorney Gerald C. Snyder, counsel for Peterson, Druggan is alleged to have carried several rods and to have spit a lip.

Though making his home at Prairie View, Druggan has been a frequent visitor at the Druggan farm, which is in the name of his father, Peterson, who has been working the farm, claims to have invested in it.

The beating by Druggan was allegedly provoked by Peterson's refusal to participate with Druggan in investing in more cattle and horses.

Following the altercation, Peterson complained to the state's attorney and then signed complaints against Druggan before Justice of the Peace Michael J. Haney. Druggan was released on $100 bond for a hearing on August 12 on a warrant charging assault and battery.

Start Permanent Registration for Voters of Cook

Village and Town Clerks in Cook County Deputy Registrars

First steps to put the permanent registration law in effect for Cook county were taken by Michael J. Flynn, Cook county clerk, last week when he forwarded instructions to town, village, city and township clerks.

Registration days are set for September 27, 1937 and October 5, 1937 within the precincts. On the first Monday in December 1937 and continuing to January 20, 1938 registrations may be made in the office of the village clerk or town clerk.

The law bars voters from casting their ballots in any primary, general or special elections, except for school directors, school trustees, members of the board of education or park commissioners. In brief, school and park elections are not held under permanent registration; but village, county, state and national elections are.

The permanent registration law is effective for counties of over 500,000 population, thus continuing it to Cook county. All registrations are to be permanent, the bill reads, with a system of filing and recording being maintained by the deputy registrars.

A list of places for registration and other information concerning the new act will be released later, it was learned.

The bodies of five Chicagoans, drowned at Crystal Lake Sunday, were recovered following work by Eugene Bernsten of Chicago who offered a variety of interesting tricks of magic and demonstrated the science of hypnotism, using three volunteers from the audience.

Hornel was with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Corver of Chicago when their rowboat capsized about 100 feet from the north shore. He did not swim and sank soon after the boat overturned. Lifeguards from the Crystal Lake public beach south of the scene of the accident rescued the Corvers and Hornel started resuscitation, aided by a doctor. It required an hour to revive Mr. Corver.
