Man Drowns at Fox River Grove When Car Rolls in River

T. E. Peterson of Oak Park Victim of Accident Monday Night

Unfamiliarity with roads in the Garden subdivision on the Fox River near Fox River Grove was believed responsible for the death of T. E. Peterson, 41 years old, real estate salesman living at 141 S. Harvey avenue, Oak Park, who was drowned when his automobile struck a retaining wall and rolled into the river late Monday evening.

With Peterson at the time was Mrs. Bernard J. Maloy, residing in the subdivision, who managed to crawl through a window and swim to safety. She notified Fox River Grove police officers and a rescue was attempted, but it was an hour before the car was raised. Death was due to drowning, according to the coroner's report.

Authorities believed that Peterson was unfamiliar with the roads and did not know the road ended there. When he reached that point he entered the car, but it got out of control and went over a retaining wall.

The front end dropped down into the river while the rear rested on the bank. The tail and parking lights on the car were still burning when hauled out.

Mrs. Maloy, though suffering from shock and exposure, was not seriously hurt. Peterson is survived by a widow and son.

An inquest was conducted at Crystal Lake Tuesday afternoon and a verdict of accidental death by drowning was returned.

When it occurred, the Barrington man, who was traveling east on Lake street (U. S. 20), was accompanied by Willard Grabenkort, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Grabenkort, 137 W. The two young men had driven to Elgin Saturday evening where they met the young women and started for Chicago. When they reached the intersection of Wolf road and Lake street, their car was struck in the side by a speeding machine from the north, driven by Delap. According to witnesses' testimony given at a hearing held Monday and continued to a future date, Delap failed to stop for a traffic sign at that point.

Mr. Gieske and Miss Frautnick were hurled from the car, which rolled over a number of times. Delap was thrown through the windshield of his car. Several other machines were struck by the crashed car following the crash.

Barrington Festival Will Reflect Progress of Whole Community

Stores to Have Commercial Displays But Will Not Sell

The home and investment advantages of the greater Barrington district, which is composed of at least 25 townships, as well as the special advantages of the village, will be graphically portrayed at the booths conducted by the village board of trustees and the Barrington Countrywide association at the Barrington Festival October 9 to 11.

Each will have a booth, and each will tell visitors why this is an ideal community in which to live. Among other interesting educational courses will be one conducted by the post office and L. B. Paddock, postmaster, and an information desk conducted by the Barrington Lions club. These will be non-commercial information booths. Others of this nature are being planned and probably will be offered before the festival opens.

The commercial booths will have many ideas of value for the guests. None of these, except a few food concessions, will sell anything but the festival. But all will reflect the progress of Barrington's business district.

Photographs of beautiful garden hills, lakes, fine herds of cattle, unusual orchards and groves will be on display at the headquarters of the Barrington Countrywide association. These will be pictures taken in the rural home district which Frank Hecht, who with John Bell, is planning the exhibit, expressed hope that he would have on display a pen of beautifully colored pheasants of the varieties which thrive in prairies of northern Illinois.

Pictures, charts and other records will reveal the civic progress of Barrington to guests at the village festival, which will be held at the booths conducted by the village board of trustees and the Barrington Countrywide association at the Barrington Festival October 9 to 11.
