

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers on Local Screen Bill

Here Sunday and Monday in "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle"

On Saturday, for one day only, the new theatre presents "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle" with Leo Carrin, Pauline Godwin, Wilton Graff, Virginia Fowley and Elinore Gardon.

The colorful career of Vernon and Irene Castle, world-famous dance team pre-war days, will be depicted in exciting fashion in the latest screen musical, in which Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, reunited as costars, interpret the principals. The picture is called "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle," and shows here Sunday and Monday.

The struggle of the Castles to become accepted as a number of the nation's dance couples is depicted in the picture. The picture is called "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle," and shows here Sunday and Monday.

A check-up on the set revealed that the remaining work in the picture is about 10 per cent. All of the former dancers are at Hollywood. The picture is called "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle," and shows here Sunday and Monday.
