

"The Man in the Iron Mask" Coming to Catlow Screen

"Bachelor Mother," Featuring Ginger Rogers, Here Wednesday

"Three Glorious Girls," a comedy drama of modern college life, which comes to the Catlow theatre Friday and Saturday, is a picture replete with innovations. Lela Turner, who plays opposite Lee Gray, makes her first appearance on the screen in a top billing role. Anita Lounis, heretofore cast mostly as the devoted china doll ingenue, becomes a hero for the first time in her screen career.

Martha Hunt, who also seemed doomed to ingenuite, breaks forth with a dramatic characterization of a pretense girl who, faced with the loss of her popularity, resorts outside to beautification.

Lovely Jean Bennett and handsome Louis Hayward are romantically teamed for the first time in the tense and thrilling story of the romantic drama of the rugged, Louis XIV of France, which is scheduled for showing at the Catlow Sunday and Monday.

The Man in the Iron Mask is the romantic drama of Alexander Dumas and dramatizes the samity and hatred between King Louis XIV of France and his brother Philippe. It will be about to associate his own brother for treason, the great monarch is unaware that he has a twin. Learning the news, he nears a plot to de throne him in his brother's favor may bear fruit and he decides to plot Philippe out of the way for good. He has him escorted in the mountains from the mask, one of the firmest forms of torture used in those gory days.

The smuggling of guns and ammunition via air and sea, the use of warning balloons, is abnormally disclosed in "Franklin Lady" in which Leslie Ball has the starring role, with Alma Hale who appears opposite.

With most of its thrilling action unfolding against a transatlantic background the story reveals the clever operations of ruthless counterfeiters. Outsmarting this is the romantic cliffhanger between an outlaw aviator, an adventurous engineer and a pretty college girl. Playing the double feature bill Thursday is "Tropic Holiday" featured by request, starring Bob Burns, Dorothy Lamour, Martha Raye and Billie Holiday.

How the kind-hearted impulses of a moment bring a flood of competition in his train is the exploitation in the lead-in to the exploitation is the highly amusing "Bachelor Mother," co-starring David Niven, Fred Leach and William Fox for three days.

George Rogers plays the role of a sales girl in a metropolitan gas department in the comedy "Bachelor Boy," co-starring Ginger, Pauline Goddard, and Billie Holiday. The picture places a boy on the stage and runs away. An Ginger herself hurries to the doorsteps to keep the child from falling, a matrimony opens the door, see her with the baby, and assumes it to be a girl.

Expansions prove useless, everyone concerned is convinced that he is trying to abandon the infant, and this plunges her into a ludicrous series of occurrences which involve her with Niven and his millionaire father.
