

Outdoor Hobbies of Sheldon Clark Are Discussed in Story

BARRINGTON HILLS—A CHICAGO newspaper last Sunday presents a story of one of Chicago's most prominent characters who are leaders in industry, science, art, medicine or any outstanding story was about one of our own country gentlemen and particularly his interest in pheasant raising, namely Sheldon Clark of Rainbow Farm.

Recent, but it is at Rainbow Farm at Barrington that Sheldon Clark gets the incentive for all his activities.

Mr. Dowell Durbin, chairman of the Maintenance committee of the south cabin, is anticipating a prompt response to the picture project which they are sponsoring for Monday and Tuesday nights, Dec. 25 and 26, at the Cawlow Theatre. The picture to be shown is "The Young Housewife" with Jascha Heifetz as the violin playing part of the performance.

Wendy Garden Talk The Junior Garden club went Monday to one of the Amalie Brown greenhouses where they heard an interesting talk on chemical gardening and saw a demonstration of how effective and useful it is.

Clothes for Holidays The Country Day school closed Wednesday at noon for its vacation period. A program of carols was given in the morning by the members of the children by the Country Day Carols. This group of children having been singing in the village at various times during the week.

Attends Preamble Mrs. W. W. White has just returned from a southern trip and stopped in Atlanta to see the preview of "Gone With the Wind." Mr. White's description of it was an enthusiastic one and he promises his friends plenty of thrills and satisfaction when the picture is shown here. Atlanta deemed it most colorful party affair by her occasion and the hospitalities were extended all the old time in the moonlight, to all its visitors.

Presented Miss Deborah Durbin arrived today, Thursday, to spend the holidays with her family, the Howells. She is a student at St. Mary's college in Columbus, Mo., and Mrs. Frank A. Hech.

Study Each Individual Before Making Holiday Gift Selection

What to buy Mother, Father, Brother, Sister and Sweetheart is a perplexing problem every Christmas. The store man can give you specific tips, and probably they'll suggest something definite you've already decided to buy. But can you really put yourself there as a few general tips:

For Mother—Buy her something she would not ordinarily buy herself. They talk about the young housewife to buy a woolen blouse for her husband's rare occasion. It is a practical gift for her own mother who already has everything she needs. By error the gift was switched. The young housewife would be glad both mothers were pleased beyond words.

For Brother or Sister—If the young man is particularly fond of books, buy him an extremely wide range of titles. Otherwise an interesting book or a gift might not get an interest and you might therefore be wise to stick to the books-and-handkerchiefs.

Proper choice of gifts requires a cool analysis of the man. If he likes the outdoor life, follow the possibilities there. Does he have a hobby that needs encouragement? Does he have a special weakness for some sport or type of literature?

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stielmeyer had three interesting guests with them on Saturday last. (Samuel J. Westberg, his son Glenn and Mrs. Arney, all of Philadelphia.) Mr. Westberg is much concerned with civic matters in his city and is similar to the civic interests of Mr. Hech in Chicago.

Mr. Westberg is chairman of a joint committee representing the Philadelphia and the Philadelphia Society for the Promotion of Agriculture. Mr. and Mrs. Hech invited in a few friends for a celebratory dinner right and left entertained their three guests at dinner.

Miss Margaret Elizabeth Hech came to Chicago Wednesday to be with her family for her holiday vacation.

At Out-of-Bounds Hill, Selden White and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howard are entertaining Mr. Haywood's aunt, Mrs. Phyllis Howard, over the Christmas holidays and are giving a small party Christmas Eve. On Monday they will be guests of the Robert Clark's in Glenview.

Mr. Paul Trier is having a car party for his friends on Friday night, Dec. 21, in honor of his niece, Miss Marcella Dray, who is home for holidays from the Garland school in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomason III, who were married December 1, return this week from an eastern wedding trip and will host their home on the near north side. Mrs. Thomason, the former Betty Hech, is a sister of Mrs. Henry Roberts of Barrington.

of clothes which he's intentionally discouraged because it's extravagant. For father or sweetheart is a first named item, you might look at smoking jackets, cut links, or a nice set with his brother's. Maybe he needs exercise for that resistance. Another thing is the equipment. Most men like games for winter sports. They'll appreciate a lunch kit for hunting and fishing trips.

For sister or sweetheart—Flatter her tastes and make it a distinctive "from-mommy" sort of gift. Jewelry is a favorite standard. There are three books (which are really one) on the subject: a pair of gloves, a desk set, book of poems, both mothers would be glad to stress the "Love me, love my dog" angle!

For Brother or Sisterheart—If the young man is particularly fond of books, buy him an extremely wide range of titles. Otherwise an interesting book or a gift might not get an interest and you might therefore be wise to stick to the books-and-handkerchiefs.

is finding much to interest her during her enforced absence from her job in Florence and finds herself giving lectures on Italian Art to a group of 150 young people weekly in Cleveland. Miss Nixon is spending the holidays in Chicago.

Mr. Frank Hecht Sr. was hostess Sunday night to a few dinner guests. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Griskey entertained a number of friends at a dinner Saturday evening.

Norman Nordstrom Jr., who is spending his first year at Colorado college, Colorado Springs, came home Saturday for his mid-winter vacation with his family.

Mr. Mark Smith, who has been in Pasadena hospital in Chicago for an eye operation, is leaving on Friday and going with Mr. Smith returning to Chicago.

Robert Hillborn came home this last week from a California trip. Miss Joan Hilton arrived Wednesday from Kemper Hall to be with her family for Christmas.

Miss Brown King Capote Twenty-six and seven of troop No. 1, under the leadership of Mrs. E. H. Krieger, sang Christmas carols through the Village Monday evening and enjoyed refreshments and gift exchange at the residence of the troop.

W. A. Fanning and Mrs. Lester Higgins accompanied the girls.

CONNECTION In the story last week about decorations around the business district, credit was given to the Barrington post of the American Legion for decorating the area at the village district.

Mr. and Mrs. William Horton "st" for Christmas to be with Mrs. Horton's brother and family. The Bruce Thornes, Mrs. Helen and Mrs. de Tarnovsky are going into Chicago to spend the Christmas with Dr. de Tarnovsky.

Miss Mary H. Tarnowsky's aunt, who is in this country for an indefinite period due to the war in Europe, was a guest at the Bremer road home of the de Tarnowsky over the Thanksgiving week-end. Miss Nixon.
