EXHAUST FROM ENGINE CAUSES FIRE ON FARM

Sparks from the exhaust pipe of a farm engine, being used to turn a power to grind feed, set fire to a pile of corn stalks on the Fred Kopp farm near Lake Zurich Friday.

Men working nearby discovered the flames before they had gained headway, and soon had the fire under control. Damage was small.

DRIVING AT A FAST CLIP IN THE HOUSE

Driving at a fast clip in the house for early Monday morning, three young farm hands who reside in the vicinity of Lake Zurich were injured, one of them seriously, when their automobile skidded on an icy spot on Route 22 near the Shadwick Clarke farm and crashed into a tree.

The victims are:

Carl Priest, driver of the car, who works for William Schumacher. Priest's right jaw was torn and his face and head lacerated by broken glass. He will leave the Barrington General hospital today.

Ray Frankle, who works for Paul Meyer. Right leg fractured and cut on head. The Foothill ambulance removed Frankle to the Lake County General hospital in Waukegan Tuesday.

John Flynn, who works for Frank

N. Reid. Flynn was the most seriously injured, and he is in the Franck E. Willard hospital, Chicago. He has a compound fracture of the right leg, his face fractured, and his right shoulder dislocated. Besides several deep wounds on the head he may be suffering from internal injuries.

After the accident occurred Priest walked to the Wilbur Bergstrom farm, a distance of nearly a mile, with a jagged piece of glass protruding from his jaw, to summon aid. The Danielson & Willingberg ambulance was called and brought the injured men to the Barrington General hospital, where Dr. E. P. Gruber treated them. The ambulance carried Flynn to the Chicago hospital the same night.

The car was demolished and Flynn was wedged in the wreckage. It was necessary to tear the car apart to extricate him, and he was still unconscious when the Chicago hospital was reached. It was said today that he would recover.

PUBLIC SERVICE MAN HURT

Judge Shurtliff on Bench 10 Years in 17th District

Two hundred and fifty farmers visited the store of Miller Bros. on Station street yesterday for the annual power farming day of the local International Harvester Company representatives, and made it the most successful of these annual events.

The replica of Cyrus Hall McCormick's 100-year-old reaper, the first machine to supplement the scythe and cradle in harvesting grain, which was on exhibition in commemoration of the twentieth of its invention, attracted wide attention, and 800 persons saw the motion picture "The Catlow" in the afternoon. "The Romance of the Reaper," this picture with a musical score, depicted in the words of the subtitle, the history of the primitive dredge of hand harvesting. The audience, including farmers, with their wives, children, replaced by men, swinging scythes, then cradles. Young McCormick was shown as he worked out his invention and made his success before doubling neighbors. The rapid success followed the development of the reaper. The 20-horse machine, where the raker and harvester both rode, the self-reaping binder, the twine binder, the tractor drawn binder, and the combine, as used on large grain farms of the present day—a picture of progress that is not surpassed by the story of any other of the world's great industries.

At the store during the morning hours, R. M. Morris, I. H. C. blacksmith, told farmers about the invention of the reaper; a two-reel picture "Farm Inconveniences," humorously called attention to the hazards of carelessness and antiquated methods; C. Olseng of the agricultural extension department of International Harvester Co., talked on soil fertility, and a representative of the cream separator department explained the new McCormick-Dearing milker.

Gas Fumes Cause of Man's Death, Jury Determines

Dairymen of this vicinity are up in arms over the milk price ruling of Dr. Clyde L. King, arbitrator for the Pure Milk Association and the wholesale buyers, who has decreed a drop from $2.67 to $2.32 per hundred pounds in the price of whole milk for the Chicago market.

At a meeting held at Lake Zurich last night Supervisor H. D. Kelsey introduced a resolution asking for the deposition of King as arbitrator and the substitution of a board of arbitrators to be composed of three farmers, three representatives of the dairymen, and a seventh man to be chosen by the six designated. The resolution was unanimously passed and will be presented to a meeting of the Lake Zurich Pure Milk Association to be held at Grayslake tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

The chief complaint of the dairymen, according to Supervisor Kelsey, is that under King's decision they will stand three-fourths of the recent cent-a-gallon retail price cut.

At their meeting last night the Lake Zurich local election August Board of the office of committeeman in place of the late Henry Blume. Mr. Blume is a brother of Chief of Police E. W. Blume of Barrington.

The dairymen's action shows a majority of 100,000 and 400 associate members, a total of 72.

George C. Otis, Son of Pioneers, Buried Tuesday

The growth of Lake County to a point where it has more than 100,000 inhabitants will not make it necessary to create the office of town collector in the opinion of Attorney General Carlstrom, who sent the ruling to County Clerk Lew A. Hendee this week.

There are eight counties in the state that would be eligible to have a town collector if the law could be interpreted that way, but the attorney general contends that the section reads for counties "which now have a population of 100,000." Carlstrom construes this to mean counties having more than 100,000 people at the time the law became effective, which would make Cook county the only one eligible to establish this office.

Blaze Local Aspirations

All counties had township collectors until the office was abolished some 10 years ago. Most persons have been of the opinion that as soon as a county reached the 100,000 mark in population, the office would be reinstated, and Club township political leaders have been casting about for a candidate, expecting that a collector would be elected this spring, or at the latest, in 1932. They are to be saved this trouble. It appears if the attorney general's ruling is taken to be the last word on the matter.

Record Entry List For Norge Ski Jump Event January 18

Each January the tournament of the Norge Ski Club of Chicago, held at the club's great Fox River Grove slide, which is 118 feet high and 800 feet long, attracts thousands of visitors—many of who pour through Barrington in a never-ending stream of automobiles from morning until afternoon, the tardy ones meeting the vanguard of homeward bound motorists who make of the Northwest highway a surging black stream until long after dark.

This year a record breaking attendance is expected on January 18, for the Norge Ski Club will be host to the National Ski Association in its annual event.

The meeting this year is attracting an entry list greater than ever before, and many of the star jumpers of this country are already in training at the slide at Berlin Springs, Mich.

Local Merchants Ask Relief From Outside Vendors

BARRINGTONIANS FILE INCOME TAX RETURNS FOR 1928

Two hundred and thirty-three Barrington men and women filed income tax returns for the year 1928 according to a report submitted to Congress January 10 by the commissioners of internal revenue.

From Lake county, 5,700 returns were filed. From all Illinois there were 33,621 returns showing a net income of $2,302,631.96 and an average income of $6,603.00. The total collected from Illinois was $110,059, 100,000, an average of $3,616.10 from each person making it return. The number of persons filing income tax returns from Illinois in 1928 was more than 8,000 less than the number recorded for the year 1927.

U. S. BOTANIST TO SPEAK AT ELA H. S.

George B. Bowes field botanist from the University of Illinois, will give an illustrated lecture at Ela High school at 11 a. m., Friday, Jan. 12. His lecture will be in regard to the effects of disease and how to combat them. The public is invited.

Not a Square Deal

The local merchant, Mr. Stubbs, continued, carries large stocks of commodities which are required by residents of the community, and on these stocks he places tax, the greater part of which goes to the support of the schools and local government. His contributes to charitable and community enterprises and is an important factor in the growth and progress of the community, and in times of stress he carries the people of the community on his books, sometimes for long periods. To continue to hold out offerings without making a commensurate contribution to the expenses of the community, Mr. Stubbs averred, is not giving the honest merchant a square deal.

Mr. Landweir related a recent conversation with a state inspector of weights and measures. This inspector told him, Mr. Landweir said, that whenever he encountered a house to house salesman he inspected the traveling merchant's scales, and usually found them registering incorrect weight—or the vendor's favor.

Col. R. L. Mundhenk of the Barrington Hudson Essex Co., who was present at the meeting on other business, arose to second the committee's plea. While his business was much that he was not personally interested, Col. Mundhenk stated, he recognized the justice of the request for a higher license and more stringent regulations and, speaking on behalf of the chamber of commerce, said:

Expect 5,000 to Attend Biltmore Junior Ski Jump

On New Year's Eve, Biltmore buried Old Man D'Preessor so deeply under the ground that they do not let him to show around there during 1931. Three hundred members and their guests enjoyed a fine dinner served by the club steward and dancer the New Year's Eve. At 6 a. m. a Barrington breakfast was served, everything on the table coming from Barrington business houses or farms in the countryside.

Leon Monahan of 120 Garfield street, who works for the Public Service Co., with two other employees of the company whose homes are four miles west of Barrington, sold $15,000 for the club. Mr. Cerney expects to build on the property a country home to cost $50,000.

DR. JOHN L. TAYLOR OF LIBERTYVILLE REOPENED THE INVESTIGATION INTO THE DEATH OF EUGENE LARSEN

Dr. John L. Taylor of Libertyville Lake county coroner, reopened the investigation into the death of Eugene Larsen, on Friday afternoon, and new facts were presented which caused the coroner's jury to change its verdict from death from heart disease to death by carbon monoxide poisoning. Larsen chose this way to take his own life, the jury found.

Larsen and his wife were staying at their cottage in the Kirk subdivision on Bangs lake, Winona, during the holiday season. This evening, last week Larsen left the cottage in his automobile to drive into the village after supplies for the evening meal.

When he did not return in several hours his wife set out to search for him and found him a block from the cottage, slumped over the steering wheel of his car in death. A coroner's jury the next day decided that he died of heart disease. It was not until Winona garage mechanic later discovered that the muffler was missing from his automobile and the exhaust pipe bent in such a manner as to pour the deadly carbon monoxide fumes upward into the car, that Larsen was raised.

Review of the Year 1930 at Home and in Other Lands

Unemployment and Economic Depression Generally Prevalent—Steps Toward World Peace—Democrats Win in United States Elections—South American Revolutions.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PROSPERITY, which was "just around the corner" at the beginning of 1930, gave the world no more than an occasional glimpse of her face during the year. Business depression, increasing unemployment, continuing low prices for agricultural products and declining markets for securities prevailed generally.

Skilled observers professed to see war clouds again gathering over the Balkans, but notable steps were taken in the direction of world peace and disarmament. The United States, Great Britain and Japan signed the London naval limitation treaty, and toward the close of the year there were indications that France and Italy, settling their parity dispute, would make it a five-power pact. Some progress was achieved by the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations. The revision of German reparations, known as the Young plan, was adopted by all nations concerned and put into effect, although Germany was not hopeful of its ultimate success. The evacuation of the Rhineland by the allied forces was completed.

China's long, bloody and confused civil war ended in victory for the Nationalist government. Popular and military revolutions upset the governments of five Latin-American republics.

Though governmental and other agencies in the United States strove throughout the year to relieve the unfortunate economic results of these efforts were slow in appearing. Consequently, the voters went to the polls in November and expressed their dissatisfaction in the customary manner. There was a Democratic landslide that covered most of the country and the Republican party virtually lost its control of both houses of congress in March, 1931. However, the national leaders of the victorious Democrats pledged their party to co-operation with the Republican administration in all measures designed to bring prosperity around the corner, and business was assured by the promise that there would be no attempt for some time to revise the tariff act passed in June.

Industrial and financial distress in the United States was greatly increased by drought that prevailed all summer in the Mississippi and Ohio river states and extended as far east as the Virginias. National and state governments afforded speedy relief to the sufferers. As winter neared numerous organizations throughout the country went into action to alleviate the unemployment situation, their aim being to supply those out of work with jobs rather than charity doles. Public building and highway projects were started and speeded up, and the great industrial and transportation concerns sought means to increase the number of their employees.

All in all, 1930 was not a happy year for the world.

INTERNATIONAL

THREE months of intensive debate, diplomatic negotiations, study of experts' figures and mutual concessions brought forth the London naval treaty, which was signed on April 22 by the delegates of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy. It amends the first three powers agreed to the extension of the Washington treaty so that the reduction and limitation of their navies should apply to cruisers and lesser vessels. France and Italy failed utterly to reach an accord as to what their relative naval strength should be. Consequently they subscribed to only those parts of the London treaty that provided for a battleship building "holiday" and prescribed various rules designed to humanize submarine warfare.

France and Italy held intermittent conversations during the rest of the year, but could not settle their differences. The one insurmountable obstacle was Italy's demand that her right to naval parity with France be admitted, and France flatly refused to yield this point.

Problem of India. Increasing independence of the dominions was marked by the fact that they shall have the right to accredit their own diplomats to foreign countries, and may communicate with one another and with Great Britain, not through government general, but directly. It was decided to create a tribunal for the settlement of intra-imperial disputes.

The future status of India within the empire was a question that troubled the British throughout the year, and it was complicated by the non-resistance rebellion conducted by Mahatma Gandhi and his numerous followers. As is their custom, the Communists took advantage of the situation to convert the peaceful revolt of the Indian Nationalists into riotous demonstrations, and the police and military forces had to handle not only these but also attacks on the northwest frontier by tribesmen. Gandhi and many of his lieutenants were put in prison, but their civil disobedience campaign never slackened. One of its frequent manifestations was the making of anti-contingency to the laws. The All-

India congress, consisting largely of Gandhi's adherents, decided to boycott the round-table conference arranged for late in the year, because their demand was for the absolute independence of India.

The round-table conference opened in London November 12 with much pomp and ceremony, the native princes, their Hindus, the Moslems and even the "untouchables" being represented by their ablest men—and by two brilliant women. The Indians made it clear they would accept nothing less than dominion status, and some of them bitterly attacked the British methods of rule in India. The problem before the conference and the government was so complex that there was no chance for its solution for many months. One definite decision reached was that Burma should be made a separate dominion.

In the Canadian national election on July 28 the Conservative completely upset the Liberal government headed by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and secured a comfortable majority in the dominant parliament, and Richard B. Bennett, their leader, became prime minister. The new government took steps at once to relieve the unemployment situation and help the farmers, one being the almost complete discontinuance of immigration from Europe.

German Facultate Win. As in most of the countries political events in Germany reflected the prevailing discontent of the people, and there it was aggravated by the feeling that they were oppressed by the reparations. Chancellor Mueller and his cabinet resigned in March because of dissatisfaction with the ratification of the Young plan and with the budget and financial reforms proposed. Heinrich Brueining, Centrist leader, became chancellor and formed a ministry of members of the five middle parties. The National Socialists and the Communists kept up continual agitation, and President Hindenburg dissolved the Reichstag on July 18. In the elections which were held September 14, the National Socialists, commonly called the Nazis, won a most surprising and tremendous victory. They increased the number of their seats in the Reichstag from 12 to 107, and their popular vote from 800,000 to more than 6,000,000. Their Hitlerian leader is Adolf Hitler who, being an Austrian, could not be elected to the Reichstag. These Nazis stand for repudiation of the treaty of Versailles and of the Young plan of reparations. They were in a position to cause a lot of trouble in the Reichstag but, as Chancellor Brueining had the support of enough members of other factions to keep control and put through the measures of economy and financial reform necessary for the salvation of the nation.

France, Spain and Italy. One small provision in the finance bill brought a vote of lack of confidence in the French chamber of deputies in February and the Tardieu ministry was forced to resign. It was succeeded by a Radical-Socialist cabinet formed by Chautemps which was defeated on its first appearance. Tardieu then was recalled, and held on through a stormy summer and fall, but early in December the senate forced him and his cabinet to resign, and Theodore Steeg undertook to form a new ministry. France maintained his position as one of the most prosperous countries of Europe and gathered an immense store of gold. She was largely preoccupied with national defense and went ahead with her plan for a powerful chain of fortifications on her eastern frontier.

Gen. Primo de Rivera, who had been dictator of Spain for more than six years, resigned on January 28, partly under compulsion, when faced with the threat of a military revolt. He was succeeded by Gen. D'Amico Berenguer. Throughout the year there were repeated strikes, food riots and violent demonstrations by students and in the middle of December a serious rebellion broke out in the northern part of the country.

Economy was the continual cry of the Italian government. Premier Mussolini, being its spokesman, and his measures toward that end were put through with thoroughness and dispatch. They extended to the reduction of salaries of all government employees, who are remarkably numerous there, and all employees were urged to follow suit. In compensation, the cost of living was brought down by the lowering of prices of food and other necessities. At the same time the Duce continued his program of extensive public works, like drainage and restoration of waste lands, giving employment to many men.

Carol on Romanian Throne. Carol, former crown prince of Rumania, with the aid of prominent Romanians, executed a startling coup d'état in June. From his exile in France he flew to his native country in an airplane, and two days later the parliament declared him king and his little son, who had held the title, heir to the throne. Carol soon began planning for his coronation, but his estranged wife declined to be reconciled and the ceremony could not be held unless she were present or the marriage was dissolved. As a result of this dispute Premier Maniu resigned in October, and Carol went ahead with his plans.

An interesting if not important event was the marriage on October 20 of King Boris of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna, daughter of the king and queen of Italy.

Latin-American Revolutions. Revolt flamed in four South American republics. Foreigners who had been virtual dictators were overthrown. Four new governments were established. As a preliminary to these events there was a revolution in the Dominican Republic in February, the immediate cause being the announced intention of President Horacio Vazquez.

What a difference a few years make

No need to tell you about the Modern Woman. You are one yourself. But maybe you're not on such familiar terms with the Modern Gas Range. It has also made some remarkable strides forward.

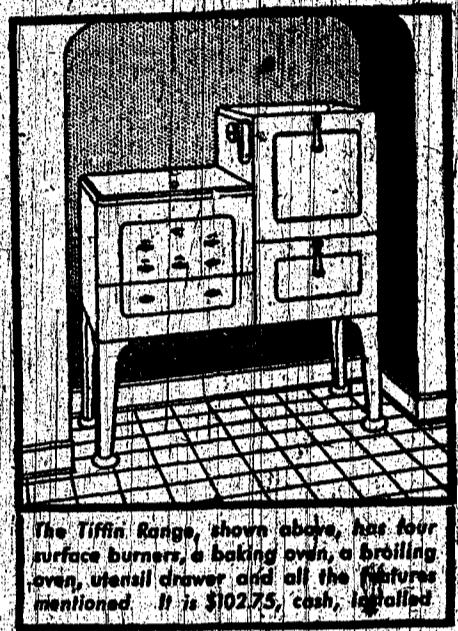

For one thing, it has become quite a versatile piece of furniture. It turns into a porcelain-topped table when you're not cooking. And a built-in utensil drawer keeps pots and pans always within easy reach.

As for looks—it gleams from top to toe in colorful porcelain enamel to harmonize with any kitchen. (Yes, your kitchen, too.) Even its oven is porcelain lined. Trimmings are both chromeplated and bakelite.

And, lucky for you, the gas range is now old enough to look after itself! An automatic temperature regulator keeps just the heat you want in the oven and you can be miles away with never a worry over your dinner.

Surly $102.75 isn't too much to pay for so much convenience. Especially when you can pay only $10.52 down and the balance monthly in small payments the "little by little" way with a small carrying charge.

Other modern gas ranges beginning at $37.85.

DEATHS

Mrs. Madeline Winch

Mrs. Madeline Winch, nee Schwer-man, died at her home in Hartford,

Mich., after a short illness from pleur-isy.

Mrs. Winch was born in the community north of Barrington, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry

Schwerman. Her father kept a store at Lakes Corners for many years.

Besides her parents, her husband, and two small children, Mrs. Winch is survived by one brother, and her grandmother, Mrs. Clute, who live at Lake Zurich.

Nick Russo, proprietor of a gas oil station on the Northwest high way, complained that customers had not been able to drive into his place of business since water mains were laid in that street. The board promised to give him a few loads of gravel and deduct the cost from a sum withheld from the contractor. The probable location of state Route 69 was the topic of interest, and Trustee Winegar brought up the perennial question of an improvement to the village hall. The money is available. Mr.

Winegar said, if a way to legally buy it can be found. It was mentioned that the wood structure is about ready to collapse down.

It was ordered that a telephone be installed in the hallway of the First National Bank building for the use of night men on the police force.

Trustee Winegar told the board of the plans for a low wave radio network for the broadcasting of police bulletins throughout the towns of this section, and it was decided to accept the offer of one of the promoters of the plan to present the proposal in detail at the next meeting of the board.

It would cost Barrington, Mr. Winegar said, $105.00 to join the cities and towns of the lookup:

$3.00 for monthly upkeep of the central station; and about $60 for a low wave receiving set to bring the bulletines to the local police department.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kuhlman and Mrs. August Meyer of 207 S. Cook street and William Bots of Elgin attended the funeral of Mrs. Minnie Bots Bleemeier, wife of Ernest Bleemeier, at Oswego Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bleemeier lived in this community about 40 years ago. She is a sister of Mrs. Meyer and of Mr. Bot.

Her death occurred on January 4.

TWO GREAT MEN

There will be few who will scoff at the award of the prize of $10,000 for the greatest "current achievement in the field of science" to the two eminent men who discovered the cure for pernicious anemia. Only three years ago physicians knew that every victim of that terrible disease was doomed to early death as certainly as if he had been sentenced to the electric chair. In the best hospitals only two or three out of every hundred cases of pernicious anemia admitted ever left the hospital alive. Now the whole picture is changed. Many physicians have reported 100 per cent of cures; some of the hospitals have had a similar experience.

The man or men who makes a discovery like that, which lengthens life and relieves suffering, is surely entitled to honor above the mere inventors of a machine, no matter how useful the machine may be. He is doubly to be honored for his work is usefulness and without pecuniary reward. Under the code of the physician, he may not take the money for his discovery, except as it may come in such form as the prize just awarded to Dr. Minot and Dr. Whipple. The medical man may not patent his discovery or take a fee or percentage from its sale directly or indirectly. He must publish it to the world, for the benefit of his fellow-practitioners and the public whom he serves.

The inventor of a new machine is entitled to make all the money he can from its development and use. It may revolutionize the world, but the motive back of the invention was a selfish one. He is entitled to honors, but not to the degree to which the medical discoverer is entitled to them.

MOTHER'S NEWEST HELPER

Father's work-bench, whether in the basement or the barn or a corner of the garage, is in danger of being out-shone by a new device for the kitchen.

Mother had to get along many years with a conglomerate collection of pots, pans, dishes and utensils of various sorts. No "man of the house" much less a factory owner would put up with such an unbusinesslike assortment of tools. Now the circumstances have been changed, and by an inventive American.

A new device, described in current women's magazines and the size of a small-table, conceals inside itself an electrical motor with which the housewife makes connection through a small opening in the top. Using various attachments, all supplied with the electrotable, she can automatically practically every kitchen operation that she now has to do by hand. And, while the electro-table, as it is called, is stirring the cake batter, she can be mixing the icing. Furthermore, the electro-table is capable of doing much of the cooking and it will operate the iron, besides. As there is nothing on the top when it's not busy at these various tasks, it can serve as a small kitchen table, yet it is big enough for a couple to eat a meal off, and with electrical connections for the toaster, percolator and all the other household devices.

The kitchen of our homes "just grows." The best kitchens still are disorganized, compared to this latest example of American ingenuity. Practically every other household operation has been turned over to electricity; it will be interesting to see the housewife become actually the oft-mentioned "kitchen machine," as easily as she now runs her vacuum cleaner or plugs in her electric iron.

SCARING US TO DEATH

Clever advertising of antisepicines and other preparations reputed to save us from all the ills to which the heart has done a lot of harm, according to Dr. Shaw, professor of philosophy at the New York University.

While real science is relieving the human mind of many former bugaboos, modern "fear factories" are manufacturing new horrors to alarm the gullible and shorten their lives through sheer fright.

Just as we have been reassured by scientific control of yellow fever, small-pox, malaria and a host of old-time dangers, along comes the killjoy tribe, warning us of the menace of dandruff, pyorrhea and halitosis. Quoting the good doctor:

"Man is tormented with an array of drug-filled remedies which are supposed to act as antisepcines. The bath-room becomes a clinic, and every man a doctor in spite of himself. Now, dread in the heart is worse than dandruff in the hair, and fear in the soul is more un-sightly than film on the teeth."

To which we may only add, as the high school girl would say, "Ain't it the truth."

WOODROW WILSON TODAY

History is replete with names of great men whose greatness was not completely realized until after their death. So with Woodrow Wilson. True, he was a mighty, if understood, figure in life, but the tributes accorded him now deal largely with his influence in world affairs today. Such tribute was well voiced recently by Pierre de Lapeyrière, member of the Secretariat of the League of Nations and twelve years ago a member of the French High Commission to America. Speaking at a Woodrow Wilson association dinner in New Jersey, Mr. de Lapeyrière said:

"Wilson has formulated the basic working principles of our international ethics. These things did not exist before him. These ethics are now growing, and you will find them presently in the very routine of our international relations. It may be said that by setting up a new field for human energy, virtue and emotion at the time when men became loath to apply their virtues to the destructive activities of war."

CELEBRITIES

The practice of honoring men who have contributed to the world's progress by issuing special postage stamps is one which is growing. The newest proposal in this line is to honor Morse and Draper, inventors of the electric telegraph, which will be 100 years old this spring. It is hard to realize that only a century has passed since men first learned to communicate at a distance electrically. It is hard, for that matter, to realize that electric telegraphy without wires—what we call radio—is only thirty years old.

REVIEW OF THE YEAR

to stand for reelection. After a few skirmishes Vasquez was forced out of office being succeeded temporarily by General Urena. Elections were held on May 16 and Gen. Rafael Trujillo was chosen president and inaugurated three months later.

Bolivia was next on the list. There Dr. Hernando Siles tried like Vasquez to perpetuate his rule and was driven from office in May by the insurgents. He was permitted to take refuge in Chile and his much hated right-hand man, Gen. Hans Kundi of Prussia, fled back to his German home. A military junta took over the government, its chief being Gen. Carlos Blanco Gallardo.

Peru followed suit in August. The officers of the army led a movement against President Augusto B. Leguia who had held the office for more than ten years and constituted himself almost invincible.

He was forced to resign, turning over his powers to a military junta and later Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro was made provisional president. Leguia had been recognized as an efficient business president and Peru made great material strides during his regime, but the revolutionists accused him of "dealing in civil liberties" and also of nepotism and the sale of concessions. He was imprisoned to await trial.

Late in August President Hipólito Yrigoyen of Argentina was warned by his minister of justice that a revolution might break out immediately. A few days later the prediction was fulfilled, the black army and navy officers leading their commands in a revolt that speedily ousted the aged chief executive, who was seriously ill. Only in Buenos Aires was there any popular opposition to the revolution and this was soon quelled with some bloodshed. Gen. José Francisco Uriburu, chief of the insurgents, became the provisional president on September 6. Yrigoyen, for seven years had enjoyed great personal popularity in Argentina, was president from 1916 to 1922 and was elected again in 1928. But he had become senile and sick and lost his hold on the people.

Vargas Rules Brazil.

Brazil's revolution broke out early in October and was in a way a war between the states, the leaders of each striving to seize the central government. The term of President Washington Luís was soon to end, but the most rabid opponents of the administration saw in it an opportunity to repeat the eighteenth amendment or at least of modification of the enforcement law. The liquor question was a great factor in the pre-election campaign in many states and a decided effect on the results when the people went to the polls on November 4.

The voters of Illinois, Rhode Island and Massachusetts in a referendum were against prohibition by large majorities.

The election turned out to be very much of a landslide for the Democratic party. The Republicans, majority in both senate and house, were almost wiped out for the next congress, and many states and cities elected Democratic officials to replace Republicans. Naturally the more rabid opponents of the administration saw in it an opportunity to repeat the eighteenth amendment or at least of modification of the enforcement law. With large appropriations available the farm board worked for the relief of agriculture by promoting and financing various co-operatives and later in the year undertook with some success to stabilize the price of wheat, which had fallen rapidly in all world markets. In this latter operation the board was forced to accumulate something like 100,000,000 bushels of wheat, the future disposal of which was an unsolved problem. Chairman Legge of the board campaigned unceasingly for reduction of wheat acreage.

Win Two From Des Plaines

Last Friday evening the Jewel team took two games from the Smith Sport teams from Des Plaines. The game between the lightweight teams was even during the first half but in the second half the Jewel team gained a substantial lead and won by a score of 25 to 14. Pelham of the Jewel team was the high point man for the game, making nine points.

The heavyweight game started off with the score first in favor of one team and then the other. The first half ended 13 to 11 in favor of the Jewels. However, during the last half the Jewel team found their shooting eye and the game ended 33 to 19 in their favor.

Barrington Broncos Break Even in 4 Post-Holiday Games

Coach Clark's Maroon clad Brookies have played four games since Christmas, winning two and losing the same number. The two victories were both at the expense of Ela, high while the losses were to Crystal Lake and Leyden. This sad part of the situation is that the Ela games do not count in the conference standings. The scores were: Barrington, 13; Crystal Lake, 33; B. H. S., 30; Ela, 21; B. H. S., 33; Ela, 18; B. H. S., 24; Leyden, 17.

Now Full Strength

The team has finally got its full strength, with the return of Capt. Grashenker and Bill Thorpe. They have been showing constant improvement but have failed to find their baselines at the right moments. Against Leyden they outplayed their opponents part of the time and played them on even terms the rest of the time but where the Leyden shot clicked the Barrington shots rolled around and dropped out.

The Barrington Ponies lost to Crystal Lake but won two from Ela and scored out a victory in their conference game against Leyden. This last game was one for the book for Barrington. They were trailing 14 to 9 with three minutes to go. A basket and a free throw made it 14 to 12 but just as the final gun sounded Capaldi was fouled and he sunk the two charity tosses to tie the game. In the overtime period the Ponies clinched the game 17 to 14.
