First Airplane Is Near Completion
at Local Factory

Thousands of Pieces Go Into
Construction of Wings;
New Type Aileron Used

The airplane to be built at the Barrington Aircraft Corporation is nearing completion. The wings have been completed and the tail rigging and fuselage are being covered. The first ship will be completed for a critical examination of the cloth covering is being made. The intricate work of the making of an airplane is between two and three pieces of wood all pieces of wood in the wing are of the same type. Although weighing one and one-half ounces, the wood is of a three-ply wood is used in the wings.

The wood that goes into the construction of an airplane is selected before it is put into the shop. It is found to be the best because it is strong, and it is of being steam bent. The strength is needed, and it is of the wings and the fuselage. A three-ply wood is used in the wings. The new plane is a biplane. Most biplanes have one running the fuselage from the bottom wings. It is a plywood, making it stronger than the conventional type. Each wing weighs about 22 pounds. The framework of the fuselage weighs about 15 pounds. The motor has been received for the airplane. It will be a four-cylinder and casting is expected any time. The motor is a modern generator-battery type.

Reichmanns Have Strange Midnight Blooming Flower

Mrs. Alexander F. Reichmann is the cultivator of a rare and fascinating tropical cactus known as the night-blooming cereus (phyllotritons). The flowers have snowy white petals about three inches long. Each flower blooms only once, opening about midnight and closing with the first rays of light in the morning. The flowers have long, slender stems that extend out from the plant's cactus like leaves.

Mrs. Reichmann, who has cultivated numerous interesting and beautiful plants said that she got the cereus in 1924 when it was very small. Now it is over six feet tall. In fact, it is becoming so large that Mrs. Reichmann plans to give it to some city park. She keeps an accurate notebook account of the history of the plant. Last year there were 18 blossoms and this year there are already been 21.

The night-blooming cereus is a native of Venezuela, S. A.

Check-Up Reveals Errors in Records of Soldiers' Graves

A Civil war soldier supposed to have been buried in the Barrington Center cemetery but found to be buried in a cemetery in Knoxville, Tenn., is one of the interesting facts uncovered in the check-up of soldiers graves in seven cemeteries in the vicinity, being conducted for the grave registration department of the American Legion by J. B. Williamson. Mr. Williamson was appointed by the department commander to make the check-up for the Evergreen, Smith, Barrington Center, Saint Paul, White, Deer Grove, and Cady cemeteries. The movement, which is being conducted throughout the United States, is a preparatory step to securing a uniform grave marker to be placed on all soldiers' graves, correct name, rank, company, regiment, and location in the cemetery of each soldier buried is required before any legislation can be effected toward getting the markers.

The registration lists also will be printed in book form which will be invaluable as an historical reference, Mr. Williamson said.

Legion Drum and Bugle Corps Soon to Have Uniforms

Color Scheme for New Attire
to Be Blue and Gold; Major's Garb All Gold

Members of the Barrington American Legion Drum and Bugle corps were measured up for uniforms last night and soon will be "strutting their stuff" in flashy attire. A decision finally was reached on the color scheme for the new uniforms. The color scheme for the new uniforms will be blue and gold, the Legion colors. The trousers will be gold with a blue stripe down the outside seam. The shirts will be blue with gold trimmings. The local post chose this style in anticipation of some day being able to uniform all members of the post. This will make it necessary for the drum and bugle corps members to get only one pair of trousers.

About 12 members of the drum and bugle corps went into Chicago Monday night for rehearsal with the ninth district corps at the 132nd Regiment armory. A business meeting was held following the rehearsal.

Chicago Picnickers Batter and Abandon Companion on Highway

John Romanek, 3214 S. Karlov avenue, Chicago, was abandoned in a battered condition along the North-west highway near Barrington Sunday night, following a free-for-all tussle between 75 picnickers returning to their homes in Chicago. The slugging match occurred during a temporary tie-up of heavy traffic entering the north side of the village.

The party, traveling in two trucks, had spent the day at Crystal Lake. According to the victim, the party became impatient during the traffic blockade, resulting in heated arguments. Neither the immediate provocation nor the reason for John's carrying the brunt of the battle was learned.

The abandoned victim was picked up in a semi-conscious condition by a passing motorist who took him to the Barrington police. Police officials were immediately notified and soon had the fugitives in hand.

An hour had elapsed since the scuffle in Barrington, but it required another hour to calm the mob before they would accept their battered companion. The victim was hospitalized at 11 o'clock and was permitted to continue homeward.

The principals in the attack on Romanek gave their names as: Edward Kimetok, 1800 W. Twenty-first street; Emil Brookman, 2214 W. Culbertson street; Albert Brookman, 1837 W. Eighteenth street; and Pauline Tuelo, 2252 Iowa street, all of Chicago.

Harry Askew Recalls Burning of Old Flour Mill 47 Years Ago

"Forty-seven years ago today I came to Barrington," says Harry Askew, veteran janitor, with a smart twinkle in his eye, "and that was the day that Barrington's old wind driven flour and feed mill burned to the ground."

Harry has a keen recollection for dates and recalls that the fire started on Sunday, Aug. 5, 1884, but it was still burning, lively when he arrived in the village Monday morning. It was a big fire, Harry informs, because Barrington was a small village of less than 500 population, and did not have a fire department, running water, nor even sidewalks in those days.

The old flour and feed mill was located on the high peak of the village where the standpipe now stands. It was owned by the late Henry Seidman and George Froelich. Following the fire they built the roller mills where Pomeroy & Co. are now located.

State News

Illinois will soon have its food inspection forces motorized, as an economy measure that will speed up and extend the service. Director Stuart E. Pierson, of the state department of agriculture, and Perry B. McCullough, superintendent of the division of foods and dairies, announce that this change from railroad to highway transportation is necessary because of the task of inspecting the increasing number of roadside refreshment stands and restaurants.

An example of speedy construction work is underway on the Illinois state fairgrounds here. Two brick structures, each to accommodate 60 head of exhibition cattle, are being erected in order to provide stall room for the increase in beef cattle entries in prospect for the fair, Aug. 22-29. The addition of the National Hereford Cattle exhibition to the regulation showing of beef animals will draw entries from all sections of North America, according to the fair officials.

Mass production methods, a charge often aimed at large educational institutions, will be pushed farther back with the enrollment of University of Illinois freshmen this fall, reads an announcement from the faculty committee which has been developing a new registration system. Practically an entire week will be given over to a serious but friendly and cordial attempt to get the incoming freshman off to a proper start. It will be a week of instruction and adjustment, at the end of which it is felt that the new students will so thoroughly understand the University and its purpose, as well as their own capabilities and responsibilities, that the mortality rate among the yearling will be greatly reduced and their future immeasurably helped.

Illinois libraries report an unusual increase in the number of books circulated for home reading. Unemployed men and women have turned to the libraries in this time of business depression, reading not only for recreation but for information, and for aid in increasing their business opportunities and values. Recognizing the fact that a similar increase in circulation in libraries over the United States has been noted, the American Library association at its recent annual conference urged that the governors and legislatures of the various states and all public officials of counties, cities and towns allow no reduction of appropriation for books and service but to maintain the libraries in their full efficiency in this period of special need.

The state department of agriculture has perfected plans to combine service and promotional work in its warfare against Canada thistles and other noxious weeds. Authorized to eradicate the troublesome growth of thistles on the state-owned land at Camp Grant, the department has made its spraying operations an instructive demonstration. At a field day Monday, July 27, county and highway officials, thistle commissioners and others witnessed the operation of the state's motorized spray rig, and noted its death-dealing effects upon the thistles.

The "Biltmore Follies" which took place at the country club, Saturday evening was considered a great success by the five hundred members and guests who attended.

Supper was served at small tables on the lawn and the "Follies" program was exhibited in a splendid cabaret style. Dancing on an especially erected floor on the lawn occupied the time during intervals of the program.

The big song hit, "The Four Seasons" was sung by Miss Max Murphy. The costumes worn by the members of the chorus were clever and were designed and made by Miss Sonnia Sullivan.

Mrs. J. P. McDermott and Robert Hall who have had considerable experience with amateur theatricals deserve much credit for putting the show across with such success.

The members of the club were so well pleased with the "Follies" that they hope to make it a yearly summer event.

Corn on Monday and Tuesday?

—not in her house

SHE used to shy away from large cans of corn and peas and peaches—even when they were priced "very special". There are only two of them in the family, and she knew there'd be too much for one meal.

But now that she owns an electric refrigerator she buys the large cans of everything—and saves money. What's left over simply goes into a covered dish and into the cabinet. And corn on Monday doesn't mean that there'll be corn again on Tuesday. It may be several days before it comes out to make its second appearance—as tasty as it was in the beginning—in a soufflé or in fritters.

Why don't you investigate electric refrigeration for your home? It lets you economize in so many ways in your marketing—lets you save money every day by buying in quantity when prices are low.

There's a model just the right size for your kitchen. See the new Frigidaires and General Electrics at your PUBLIC SERVICE STORE. Your LOCAL REFRIGERATOR DEALER will also be glad to demonstrate these and other makes. Only a small down payment and one is yours.

IGNORANCE OR THOUGHTLESSNESS?

The driver of the local fire department's truck was compelled to bring the machine to a stop on the way to a fire a few weeks ago to avoid hitting a motorist who was turning his automobile around on E. Main street. A driver of a local ambulance was forced to push an automobile from the right-of-way before he could turn the machine around at the scene of an accident on Rand road near Lake Zurich two weeks ago. These are only two specific instances of recent occurrence where drivers of these emergency vehicles have been impeded from giving quick service which is expected of them and to which they are entitled. The drivers can relate other similar infractions of the motor laws.

Certainly every automobile driver is aware of that part of the laws of Illinois relating to motor vehicles in which it states, "Police and fire department vehicles, ambulances, and vehicles transporting United States mail have the right-of-way over all other vehicles." Why is it then that some will still insist on getting in the way of such vehicles?

The drivers of these vehicles are doing a public service. Usually, lives or property are at stake. Motorists who do not pull over to the curb when they hear a machine with a siren coming down the street are endangering the lives of those who are trying to save someone else's life, as well as their own. Let's play safe before we have any casualties.

RADIO ADVERTISING

We wonder if everybody is as tired of listening to advertising over the radio as we are. We wonder if the people who are paying for radio advertising are getting their money's worth out of it. But at the same time we wonder how we could get many of the really wonderful programs that we hear over our radio if advertisers didn't pay for it.

Somebody has to pay for radio broadcasting. That goes without saying. Some broadcasting is paid for by political and other propagandists, and most of that sort of stuff we have listened to is pretty dreary.

In Russia we understand people cannot hear anything through their radio sets. In France the government owns all the radio stations but leases time on the air to advertisers who we understand do not make any very successful attempts at entertainment. In England there is a fairly liberal system of government control of broadcasting. Only one company is licensed to broadcast and it operates all of the stations in the British Isles. It gets its revenue from an annual tax of ten shillings, or about $2.50 on each receiving set. You cannot have a receiving set in England without paying this tax. The government collects the money and divides it with the broadcasting company which develops and puts on its own programs of entertainment and education, but there is always a government censor listening in and there is a decided limitation of free expression of ideas and opinions over the radio.

The last thing we want in America is any kind of government censorship. Freedom of speech and of the press is one of the fundamental principles of our democracy. There is always a bureaucratic clique in Washington which would like to control not only all radio broadcasting but the newspapers and all public speakers as well. The worst thing that could happen to America would be to let government or any part of the government prescribe what people may think or say.

Probably, on the whole, our American system of letting advertisers pay for our entertainment is the best. We certainly get better entertainment over the radio than they do anywhere else, from all reports, just as we have better newspapers in America because our newspaper advertisers make them possible. But we do wish these broadcasting advertisers would use a little more restraint and a great many fewer words in telling us about the merits of their wares.

The Family Doctor

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M. D.

"POISONED HEARTS"

My readers, I feel sure, will pardon this bit of personal history, since it might concern many thousands of people who are past middle age—at a time when we watch our common enemy from every possible angle of attack; life grows precious as years advance.

Possibly nine years ago, I began to get sudden, vague, alarming symptoms—a feeling that I was about to drop and "pass out"; it was far from pleasing, I assure you. I had never paused to take an inventory of myself. These "spells" came suddenly, anywhere, and without warning—the immediate symptom, a rapidly weakening heart. Being a smoker, I at once thought of tobacco.

From one of the attacks I staggered into the office of a neighbor physician. After some examination he said, "you've got a poisoned heart, doctor—I don't think it is tobacco; on the other hand, I don't see at this moment just what it is; you need a heart tonic, and need it right away, till further investigation."

Well, "investigation" revealed poisoning by a substance known as "indican." Its cause, PUTREFACTION OF THE CONTENT OF THE COLON. Not decomposition, mind you; PUTREFACTION, going on inside of my digestive canal. It had been going on a long time, creeping on, as my bodily indolence grew more chronic.

I set about to clean house at once. This indican, in large amounts within the body, will in time, weaken the entire cardiovascular system; until death may result; then, the newspapers say "victim of heart attack."

To test for this poison is easy. Two test tubes required. In one, put equal parts of the patient's urine, chloroform, and pure hydrochloric acid; add a few drops of hydrogen peroxide; shake the mixture, and pour from one tube to the other a half-dozen times; if indican is present, a heavy blue color will appear in the mixture, varying with the quantity of the poison. Then, clean out and keep cleaned out, not once, but for a year.

The Way of Life

By BRUCE BARTON

LOOK AT THE AVERAGE

One of my friends, who now occupies a high position, started life as a salesman for the National Cash Register company.

He thought that if he could sell cash registers to Marshall Field it would be a big feather in his cap, and the example of this leading store would have influence with smaller merchants all over the country.

So he called at Field's and made his talk, but received no encouragement. The next year he called again . . . and the next . . . and the next. The tenth year he came away with an order for $150,000.

In telling me about it, he remarked: "I said to myself, that $15,000 worth of business for each of the ten years. Not a bad average at all."

In 1920, when stock prices were crashing and even the richest men were feeling poor, a New York banker met a capitalist whose fortune, on paper, had shrunk many million dollars. He was in a blue funk.

The banker said: "You ought to have learned better than this. Don't you remember back in 1920 how worried you were, and how you sent for me to reassure you? Even at present prices you must be worth ten times what you were then. If so, your average is mighty good. What are you kicking about?"

A young man and young woman were married. After the ceremony the bride's father, a veteran business man who had fought hard for his fortune, took them into his study. "I want to say just one thing to you," he remarked. "You must not expect that all your years will be good. You'll go along for a while without seeming to get ahead, but at the end of every year you'll own a little more furniture and have a few more dollars in the bank. Then there will come a year some time when you'll have a stroke of luck and make a lot of progress. You must expect to average the good with the bad."

It seems to me that much of the worry and fretting in life grows out of the fact that people do not take a long enough look.

Every human life, at some point, has seemed handicapped and doomed to disappointment. At 40, Henry Ford had never saved a cent. At 45, Lincoln was a disappointed politician. For 25 years, Charles Darwin worked day after day without the slightest recognition. Then, for each of them, there came a few great years that amply made up for all the rest.

The law of compensation works for those who keep their industry and their faith. Those who quit under discouragement are selling out at the bottom. For a majority of courageous lives, taking all the years together, the average is good.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

Special Correspondent

GIVING RECOGNITION to the fact that people exercise the unalienable right to cuss the government when taxes are raised the administration is faced with a real problem of educating the voters into the latitudes of government costs. No matter what party holds the reins the "educational" policies must be based on manipulation of facts and interpretations of affairs in order to develop a favorable public attitude.

Mr. Hoover and his associates have found that the folks do not fully understand or appreciate the debt holiday stunt. Likewise, the publicity accorded wage and salary cuts and dividend reductions, particularly this week, will not put the average taxpayer in an amiable mood for a threatened rise in federal taxes next year. Obviously it is a situation fraught with danger to politicians and calling for something more than snappy slogans and campaign catchwords.

SENATOR JAMES J. DAVIS of Pennsylvania evidently subscribes to pronouncement last week of the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, that there is no evidence to prove that the fortune of individuals can be told by fortune tellers, spirit mediums or astrologers, and is, therefore, setting his house in order for next year's senatorial race. The senator has urged Senator Caraway of Arkansas, chairman of the senate "Lobby" committee, to go ahead and an early date with the inquiry into the charge that was hurled at him in the last congress during the consideration of the Hawley-Smoot Tariff law. A statement was issued by Senator Davis last spring denying that he had received securities or money from a corporation interested in the sugar tariff, but the committee was not prepared to go ahead with their investigation at that time.

ALREADY THERE ARE TWO potential candidates and possibly a third who might enter the primaries in opposition to Senator Davis, Major General Smedley D. Butler, the bombastic marine, who is to retire this fall, has indicated that he might seek senatorial nomination. Chairman Fletcher of the United States tariff commission is resigning that office in September and has intimated to some of his friends that he may seek to remain in public life. And, then there is Gifford Pinchot, who may sidetrack presidential aspirations to run for the senate. With such competition it is little wonder that the present incumbent wishes to have the investigation before the lobby committee at an end.

IT IS EXPECTED that the report of the Wickersham committee deploring crowded condition of the prisons will stimulate the interest of communities in obtaining federal penal institutions. True, some localities are against the building of prisons because of the possibilities of riots, etc., but others realize that it means increased trade which largely offsets the dark features. Senators and representatives work diligently to obtain the government buildings in their district as patronage. If it is decided to parcel out prisons in addition to federal hospitals and postoffice buildings, the legislators will have no objection to picking those political plums.

SENATOR GEORGE H. MOSES of New Hampshire has been in town displaying his old-time bag of political tricks. There has been much ado about his threat to vote with the Democrats to control the senate, provided the Republican progressive majority could be secured. He has acquired a reputation for his bluff as president pro tempore of the upper house of congress. The intentions of insurgents and "Old Guard" to shove Moses were chronicled here months ago, but a recent magazine article by Moses revived the quarrel on the Republican side. Last winter Moses whispered to his fellow partisans that it would be good strategy to walk out and permit the Democrats to control and take the blame for whatever the senate might do during the next year. Apparently, his fence-building tour of his home state has shown him that the unhorsing of his leadership in Washington will militate against him. His opponent for the Republican senatorial nomination is the present governor, an enterprising young man who has gathered his forces while the senate's "wreckers" have been toying around. As a consequence Moses has made a complete turn since coaxed closest down and now wants the Republicans to hold the fort and save his job.

Students of Northwestern university voted on the most popular figures in the news—that is, on the people they most liked to read about. At the top of the list stood Al Capone, Clara Bow, Jack Dempsey, and Bobby Jones. John D. Rockefeller, Bishop Caimen, Rudy Vallee and John Philip Sousa were less popular. The standing of Hoover, Al Smith, Lindbergh and Alvin Karpis was not reported.

Speaking of popularity, Arthur Pryor, famed trombonist and bandmaster, has about as many admirers as the next one. But one enthusiastic fan, however, caused a theatrical panic once by shouting "Pryor Pryor!" at the conclusion of one of his concert numbers. The audience thought it was a cry of "Fire, Fire!"

Notwithstanding his penitentiary sentences for bribery, Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, is still on Uncle Sam's payroll. He draws a pension of $72 a month for service as a captain in the Spanish-American war. Incidentally it may be noted that the alleged giver of the bribe was acquitted of the charge, while Fall was convicted of receiving it.

Interesting notes in a recent Masonic publication: Frederick the Great of Prussia was master of Abasalom Lodge in Hamburg in 1740. Benjamin Franklin was made a Mason in Lodge de St. Jean de Jerusalem, Paris, France, in 1782.

Garbisch Plays Good Game After 2-Weeks' Absence

Kasch Scores Four Hits Six Times at Bat; Algonquin Here Sunday

The Barrington Bears continue their powerful hitting Sunday, as out 20 hits to overwhelm much touted Dundee by a score of 22 to 7. This game was a disappointment to both the Bears and the fans as a much closer game was expected due to the past record of the Peoria.

Kasch starred at bat for the Bears with four hits in six times at bat. Garbisch, back in the lineup after two weeks absence, displayed a very improved batting eye, slugging three hits in four times at bat, making a long running catch in a tight field. Storm and Schull, the Peoria sluggers, with two each.

Next Sunday the Bears will play Algonquin at the local park. Algonquin has been playing excellent this season winning 10 games. They defeated Woodstock Sunday by a score of 6 to 1. If the visitors are the brand of ball their past record indicate they are capable of, they should be treated to an interesting game.

The lineup:	Bears, 22—	Peoria, 7—

Chicago Firm Is Awarded Contract for Village Auditor

Trustees Accept Bid of Arnold Himmelblau & Co. on $1,000 Auditing Job

Arnold Himmelblau & Co., Chicago accountants, were the successful bidders for the job of auditing the books and records of the village of Barrington, their bid being accepted by village trustees at a regular meeting Monday night. The bid was accepted at the rate of $25 a day for a special accountant and $15 for a junior accountant until the job estimated by the accountant to approximately $2,000 was completed.

The job includes a complete audit of all special assessments in the village for the period from May 1, 1930, to April 30, 1931, and a complete audit of the village's corporate funds from May 1, 1927 to April 30, 1931. The specifications for the audit, special assessment records call for a detailed examination of all books and records in the offices of village collectors, treasurer, and clerk. Each bill for the special assessment ledger is to be checked by the auditor, and a check against the duplicate of the record is to be made to the taxpayer, and again deposits made in the bank to the credit of the various funds.

A checkup of collections of county collectors against their report will be made, as well as cancelled checks, interest coupons, warrants, and other vouchers against the disbursements records to ascertain authority for the payment shown thereon. The auditors will analyze the special assessments and propose amendments which will show the amount confirmed on each roll of assessment and the amount of adjustment of each assessment. Final collections of village assessments will be summarized to show the total interest collected on each special assessment roll and the amount of collections for each special assessment, and a record of the total amount uncollected by the settlement of each assessment. The audit calls for a summary of the disbursements to show the total interest paid in each special assessment, the nature and amount paid from the first installment of each assessment, and the amount paid from each installment. The audit will be completed by the end of each special assessment. The cost of each improvement will be summarized as follows: first installment, second installment, and the amount paid from each installment.

Preventive Methods Used in Fighting Infantile Paralysis

Due to several cases of infantile paralysis being reported in this county, according to a report from the state department of public health the following suggestions are given for the prevention of the disease. Infantile paralysis is a disease which manifests itself in a form which may be similar to that of the common cold, but it is a much more serious disease. It is a disease which may be prevented by the use of certain preventive measures. The most important of these is the use of the vaccine. The vaccine is a substance which is injected into the body and which causes the body to develop an immunity to the disease. The vaccine is available in the form of a shot, and it is recommended that all children under the age of 15 should receive it. The vaccine is also available in the form of a tablet, and it is recommended that all children under the age of 15 should receive it.
