State Tax Rate Raised 11 Cents, Village Rate Up

Relief From High Property Taxes Not at Hand, Figures Reveal

If taxes are to decrease for people in Barrington, Lake Zurich, Palatine and other communities of Lake and Cook counties, the decrease will necessarily be the result of lowered assessments as the tax rates for state, Cook county, and the villages are higher than heretofore. The school tax rate in Barrington is lower and the Lake county tax rate is slightly lower.

Barrington's village tax rate for 1933 will be $1.20 on each $100 of assessed valuation on the Cook county side and $1.17 for each dollar of assessed valuation on the Lake county side. A study of the state tax rate would indicate that much more has been said about lowering the cost of government than has been done.

Prepares Suit for Determining Bond Liability

$10,000 Claim of Overpayment to Engineers Included in Suit

A comprehensive law suit which should establish liability for the over-issued paving bonds will be filed in court early in January if the board of trustees approved a bill which is now being drawn up by Village Attorney D. B. Maloney.

The bill probably will claim that Powers Thompson and Co., paving engineers, are responsible for the over-issued bonds on the grounds that Barrington's special attorney at that time was in reality an agent for that company when he sold the bonds. The bill will also claim that Powers Thompson and Co. were paid twice for re-enforcing in the pavement to the extent that they received more than $10,000 above the sum they were entitled to. The bill will also claim that the buyers of the bonds have no claim against the village or assessed property for the amounts of the over-issued or fraudulent bonds.

Neighbor West of Town Sents Plaintiffs Viewpoint on Sewer Muddle

Another side of the sanitary sewer picture has been presented in an article "A Sewer in Your Yard" written by George E. VanHagen and forwarded to the Barrington Review for publication. The article follows:

"A wrong situation has been in existence for several years. The village of Barrington has been fighting a small group of its neighbors on the west. I say neighbors because we have always felt that way—and still feel that way.

"How many home owners in Barrington feel if an open sewer were running through their open property, carrying the contamination the word 'sewer' means?

LAKE ZURICH REVIEW

Bootleg Joints Are Being Raided for Cash to County and Justice Courts

A series of sheriff's raids "for revenue only" have been going on in and near Waukegan under the direction of State's Attorney Mason's office.

None of the places are being closed. The victims are being asked to pay fines of $50 and costs before Justices Harry Hoyt and Walter Dow Wright.

The action is for revenue purposes solely, according to Assistant State's Attorney John R. Hills and Wilfred E. Hall. Those being arrested for the ones listed on the last memorandum left by Col. A. V. Smith, former state's attorney, Hills said.

The victims include a number of the "speakeasies" in the two cities but naturally miss most of those started during the past year. Sheriff Lester T. Tiffany's deputies will be expected to locate the new ones not on Col. Smith's old list, Hills said.

Mason is said to be unaware of the action as he is returning from California with Chief Deputy Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy who went there to get a prisoner. One of his ardent sponsors and close advisors, Supervisor Edward A. Brown, of Round Lake, is reported to be the man who urged the adoption of Col. Smith's old policy of getting revenue. Mason's office feels that the search and seizure law will be repealed by the general assembly after January 1 which will remove any hope of them getting further revenue from the speakeasies.

The technique of the prosecutor's office differs from that of Col. Smith in that Tiffany's men are being used for the raids instead of Constable George Stried. The complaining witnesses in each case is Hills, and the warrant then is turned over to Tiffany.

Former Sheriff Doolittle

Will Be a Candidate for Office Held by Tiffany

A former sheriff of Lake county will be a candidate for election next year according to a report from Waukegan. Lawrence A. Doolittle, sheriff for four years, will again be a candidate for the position now held by Lester Tiffany.

"I am making this statement earlier than I thought was necessary but in the last few weeks so many persons have asked me if I would become a candidate I consider it fair that I make my position known," Doolittle said.

"There is my record of four years as sheriff on which I can become a candidate. On this voters can judge my qualifications through the actual service to the public as sheriff. It will show, I believe, that myself and my deputies paid strict attention to the duties of the office and discharged them promptly with the public apparently being in accord with the stewardship in office, because there never was a protest against the office from the public or the members of the county board of supervisors to whom I reported," Doolittle added.

A Romance of the Commonplace

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Motoring through Vermont, near the village of Hamstead, Philip Starr, young Boston

CHAPTER II.—Mary receives Philip with true Vermont hospitality, and he makes the acquaintance of her two interesting small brothers, Moses and Algernon, to whom she is

CHAPTER III.—Violet Manning, mother of Blanche and of Paul, with her sister, Jane, spinster, are dubious concerning Philip's worldly and

CHAPTER IV.—The sharp note of a phoebe bird, singing beside her, brought Mary to the consciousness that she must have been dreaming a long time, and sent her hurrying down the hill, still undecided what she ought to do, but immensurably, if vaguely, comforted and refreshed. Reaching the house, she slipped out of her wet garments, took a hot bath, dressed again in crisp, clean clothes, and began, a little breathlessly, to get dinner.

CHAPTER V.—"You hurt his feelings very much this morning. I can't think how you can not so, especially when the poor boy is ill. I should have asked nothing better than to sit beside him the whole morning, battling his poor aching head, if I'd only been equal to it. But then, of course, there's no love as devoted and self-sacrificing as a mother's! Though I felt the same way towards Martin. I didn't feel towards him at all the way you do to Paul. I couldn't have."

CHAPTER VI.—"No, I don't believe you could," said Mary, trying to control the grief and anger, that seemed to be struggling for mastery in her voice. "I'm sorry he won't come—I'll take off his plate. Won't you come into the parlor now and meet Mr. Starr?"

CHAPTER VII.—While this meeting was taking place, very satisfactorily to both persons concerned in it, Seth Manning was sitting patiently in the family

CHAPTER VIII.—"I'm just as nervous as I kin be about them new-fangled exercises Miss Weston has chosen," Mrs. Elliott was confiding to Miss Manning. "Of course, seel'n she's chairman of the committee on entertainment, none of the rest of us could say a word, but it looks to me as if she'd bit off more'n she can chew. If Sylvia Gray was so's she could be around, I shouldn't worry none, but Land! have you heard? Sylvia's expect'n' again, and she's real poorly. She ain't strong enough to have children so fast. I went and told her so the other day and what do you think she said? That she was real pleased, that she only hoped it would be twins, twin girls, so she'd have two of 'em, right off, to go with the two boys! She does beat everything!"

CHAPTER IX.—When at last the assembled family, with the exception of Paul, sat down to a repast by this time slightly overdone, Seth was hampered by the desire to avoid trouble and to please everyone all the time. Violet had come to him just before they sat down, and urged him to omit asking a blessing, for fear that Mr. Starr would think they were old-fashioned. He had agreed with her. But now he quailed before Jane's stern eye.

CHAPTER X.—"For what we are about to receive—make-us-only-thankful," he gulped, all in one breath, and was immediately conscious that now he had offended both his cousins, one, by asking the blessing at all, and the other by his manner of doing it. "Lemme give you some chicken, Mr. Starr," he said hastily, "which do you favor, light or dark?"

"Man—you look healthy!"

"No healthier than I feel!"

"Where did you get that tan? Florida?"

"No, Sir. I've been right here at my desk six days a week. And working hard, too."

"What's your secret?"

"Sunshine every day. I shave under one of those new ultra-violet ray lamps every morning. Doc Jordan told me about it. I haven't felt so fit in years."

"You don't say."

"It's a fact. The whole family uses it. Little Jimmie hasn't had a cold all fall—and you know what the weather's been. Ultra-violet rays seem to give you more resistance—help you fight off disease germs."

SUNSHINE—IN YOUR HOME—EVERY DAY

Science has made a wonderful new sun and moved it indoors. Wherever there is an electric outlet, a sunshine lamp can be plugged in your home. Its ultra-violet rays contain all the beneficial qualities of real summer sunshine. Men can expose themselves every morning while shaving. Women can relax with a book. (Short treatments will not tan the skin.) Children can play on the floor and every minute spent under the lamp their bodies will be drinking up sunshine. Goggles need not be worn. Ask your doctor about the value of regular sun baths in building up resistance to colds. And see these sun lamps now featured at your Public Service Store:

About the Public Service Company:

Several outstanding facts about this Company probably are not as well understood as I think they should be. (1) It is purely an operating company and is not owned or controlled by any other company. (2) The majority of its stockholders live right here—in "home owned" homes. (3) All of its officers and employees live here. (4) Its future is irrevocably dependent upon the growth and prosperity of northern Illinois.

HOLD TO YOUR SELF-RESPECT

"Am I slipping?" "Is my ability giving out?" "Has my resourcefulness dried up?" "Has my right hand lost its cunning?" "Is my will-power on the wane?" Such questions plague many men today. They won't down. In view of what has befallen, this is natural. But it is not logical. If you were the only person whose income had diminished, if yours were the only business that has become unprofitable, you would be justified in concluding that something had gone wrong with you, with your brains, with your judgment, with your capacity. The truth is, however, that not one man in a thousand, that not one business in a thousand, has escaped the devastating effects of events since 1929.

Ponder these facts: The total income of the people of this country is estimated to have fallen from approximately $90,000,000,000 to less than $50,000,000,000. One-fourth of all who were gainfully employed are now completely idle, and a still larger number are working only part-time; almost every high salary has been drastically reduced; the income of every investor has been severely curtailed; most wages have been cut. That is what has happened to individuals. The majority of companies are today paying not a single dollar on their common stocks. Examine the quarterly or other earnings' statements published; day-by-day and you discover that it is unusual rather than usual for any not profit whatsoever to be shown. In a great many cases the losses run into very large figures. Since the panic there have been about 80,000 commercial failures. In addition some 4750 banks have closed. Our foreign trade has shrunk from over $9,000,000,000 in 1929 to approximately $3,000,000,000 for this year.

Under all these circumstances why should we feel that we should have gone along as if nothing out of the ordinary has happened? How could we in reason have hoped to receive a special dispensation? If we still have a job—any kind of a job—we should realize that we are among the fortunate ones. If we have been able to keep our business going, even at a loss, we have reason for self-congratulation. Even those who have lost out completely, financially, work-wise, business-wise; must not conclude that they have outlived their usefulness. Whatever befalls, we must hold on to our self-respect. We must indulge overmuch in neither self-blame nor self-pity. We must not surrender abjectly to fear, but lay fast hold on faith. Our heads may be battered and bloody, but they must not become bowed. We must fight, not faint. Remember that no man is defeated until he himself admits defeat.

Don't admit defeat!—The Forbes Magazine.

I AM THE FARMER

I am the Provider for all mankind. Upon me every human being constantly depends.

A world itself is built upon my toil, my products, my honesty.

Because of my industry, America, my country, leads the world: Her prosperity is maintained by me; her great Commerce is the work of my good hands; her "balance of trade" springs from the furrows of my farm.

My reaper brings food for today; my plows hold promise for tomorrow.

In War I am absolute; in Peace I am indispensable—my country's surest defense and constant reliance.

I am the very soul of America, the hope of a race, the balance wheel of Civilization.

When I prosper, men are happy; when I fail, all the world suffers.

If it were not for me the treasures of the earth would remain securely locked; the granaries would be useless frames; man himself would be doomed speedily to extinction or decay.

Through me is produced the energy that maintains the spark of life.

I rise with the early dawn and retire when the "chores" of the world are done.

I am your true friend. I am the Farmer.—Wright County Journal-Press, Buffalo, Minn.

CRUSADING AND MUCKRAKING

The difference between crusading and muckraking newspapers is in the purpose, effect and accuracy of their exposures. A crusading newspaper is one which seeks, finds and publishes the truth for the purpose of bettering conditions. The purpose being followed and the reports being accurate, the effect usually is better conditions. The editors and reporters of real crusading newspapers seek the truth, refrain from telling anything but the truth and carry on their work without thought of personal gain or monetary reward from their crusading.

A muckraking newspaper is also one that attempts to or pretends to "expose." Truth is not so important with the muckraker. Any kind of mud throwing that might gain power for or bring business to the newspaper is acceptable to the reporters and editors of a muckraking sheet.

OUR
LETTERBy National Editorial Association
(Special to The Review)

A GENERAL SALARY tax program will be kept in reserve by house leaders. In event the senate or the president block the raising of revenue through this plan they must turn to emergency revenue measures. The treasury department has stated that if no revenue bill is passed the deficit in the fiscal year of 1934 will be at least $300,000,000 and probably one-half billion dollars. The congress is placing the federal department on a restricted diet with cuts in their appropriations. The feeling is growing that there must be whole-sale separations from the payroll, in order to enforce essential economies in cost of government. The legislators do not want to take up their question of federal employees except as a last resort toward meeting their campaign pledges for savings to the taxpayers. The impression is given in many reliable quarters that the government has been overmanned since the war. The same condition prevails in state and municipal affairs. The issuance of scrip instead of cash certificates and marked salary cuts has riveted public attention on the costly features of keeping local and national machinery in operation.

WASHINGTON is known as the "whispering gallery of the nation." The echoes from conversations in the privacy of cloakrooms and drawing rooms provide the best cross-section of real opinion. There is no evidence of the holiday spirit in the maddening struggle for place and pelf. "Lame ducks" are pulling all wires to obtain jobs for which their sole qualifications is political service. Every trick of the powerful "social lobby" or pettifog influence is utilized. The trouble is that the real powers, like Senator Norris, Borah, Coughlin and Robinson, the democratic leaders in the senate and Garner and Bailey in the house do not mingle over the telephone and elevator. It is a fact that the hard-workers in the legislative halls are seldom mentioned in the society columns. They work long hours at their desks and either rest or study at night. Hooper, when a cabinet officer, could be found at his office until ten o'clock and he now follows the same procedure with time-out only for official social duties.

OVERHAULING the concern about the senate hurdles, the attitude of the president is uppermost as the "weeks" could not muster a two-thirds vote in both houses to set aside presidential disapproval. Redrafting the bill to two committees is unusual yet may avoid an enormous waste of time and energy. There is always the danger of hasty making waste in legislative intentions. Even the more conservative advocates of beer in view of eventual repeal of the eighteenth amendment want all precautions taken to avert a catastrophe in the form of an adverse decision of the supreme court. The judiciary committee of the senate is expected to make the senate bill "court proof." Then, too, recognition is given to the temper of state legislatures to back on another tax in a desperate effort to raise revenue for the commonwealth, steps which may effectually postpone the free flow of the beverage.

UNITED STATES SENATE proposes to take its time in handling the beer bill sent over from the house last week. The holiday recess which ends January 3 provides the legislators with an opportunity to check up on late sentiment in their home states. Voters change their minds frequently and it behooves their spokesmen in congress to keep abreast of the switches in public opinion. The senate will consume more time in its consideration of the beer measure than was permitted in the house. As indicative of this intent, the democrats have insisted that two senate committees should study the house beer plan; the senate judiciary sub-group to examine the constitutional features and the senate finance committee to report on the revenue items.

TALK PERISTS that the "farm bloc" will be revived. Little or no sentiment has developed for the so-called Blair plan to fix a minimum price for farm products and setting up a commodity board to regulate production. There is some strength mustered for proposals to ease up the farmer's plight on mortgages. The various farm organizations are seeking an agreement on candidates for the secretary of agriculture in the Roosevelt administration. On his recommendations much vital legislation will be based and the organized groups want to have a man familiar with agricultural problems picked for the portfolio next March.

Reindeer Exhibit

A group of Alaskan caribou, shown amid a reproduction of a scene in their natural habitat in the Italy Pass region of the northland not far from Mount McKinley, has just been completed and opened for public inspection at Field Museum of Natural History, it is announced by Stephen C. Simms, director. Being completed at this pre-Christmas season, the group has a special interest for children, as these animals are a variety of reindeer and may thus be associated with the Santa Claus legend. The group marks the completion of the museum's hall of North and South American mammal habitat groups, being the 24th and last of the series of exhibits representing the principal large mammals of the two American continents. All these groups are of the habitat type—that is, with scenes representing the typical environment of the various animals, be it forests, mountains, plains, or seashore.

fire like this is no bother at all

Rally round the fireplace—you'll want to put before a ruddy glow like this. And if your hearth is modern, it won't mean the least bit of bother for any one.

These gas fireplace heaters are great comforts. There's never any fussing with kindling. A single match starts them burning bright. In a minute the whole living room is flooded with radiant warmth. Clean, sootless, odorless warmth, too.

No wonder these modern fireplaces burn almost every evening (and during the day as well) during cold weather. Long after the furnace has been banked for the night, they chase chills away. With great fuel savings, too.

Why not enjoy one of these care-free gas heaters in your fireplace? The new models are way down in price. The one pictured above, finished in old brass, is only $17.50 cash (installed)—only $1.75 down the "little by little" way. See these heaters at your Public Service Store or other local dealer's.

Several outstanding facts about this Company probably are not as well understood as I think they should be. (1) It is purely an operating company and is not owned or controlled by any other company. (2) The majority of its stockholders live right here—it is "home owned." (3) All of its officers and employees live here. (4) Its future is irrevocably dependent upon the growth and prosperity of northern Illinois.

Semi-Final Round

Wauconda, Elm, Antioch and Bensenville Defeated in Basketball Tourney

Barrington defeated Wauconda, Libertyville swamped Bensenville, Palatine defeated Elm, Libertyville beat Antioch in the first games of the high school basketball tournament which opened at Libertyville Wednesday night.

Barrington was scheduled to play Libertyville and Leyden was scheduled to play Palatine in the semi-final games Thursday night. The winners of these two games will meet in the finals Friday.

The Bronchos started in very fast against the Wauconda team and filled up a 12 to 2 lead during the first half. However the game was "just a game" at half time as the Wauconda boys found the basket for five field goals and six free throws during the last period raising their total score to 18 while the Bronchos were barely able to keep ahead with 22 points. Dan Capulli was high scorer for the Bronchos with six points. Christensen scored four points. The loss of Landwehr and Miller has weakened the team to the extent that they have been downed to take a drubbing from the Libertyville defeated Bensenville 61 to 30 in a wild scoring game Wednesday while Palatine was noosing out the game Elm leads 28 to 18. Leyden defeated Antioch 33 to 21 in an ongoing game.

Winnetka Man Charged With
Hording Geese With Plane

Altering wild geese off of their migration by means of an airplane is charged against one enthusiastic hunter frequenting the waterfowl sanctuary neighborhood, near Oak Brook, in a report of the state department of conservation have reported to their director, Ralph F. Bradford, that a plane was observed circling over the Goose-feeding on the state's 800 acre main field. The geese, alarmed by the plane, took flight, and were guided into territory where the aviator's friends were ready to bag game. Federal authorities informed Director Bradford that a case of this unusual kind is in violation of the treaty between the United States and Canada. The federal attorney at Springfield was informed concerning the event, and prosecution is expected. The aviator gave his name as Dr. John K. Pontius of Winnetka, and is said to have admitted that the plane identified by the game warden is his property.

Barrington Plays Libertyville in Semi-Final Round

Wauconda, Elia, Antioch and Bensenville Defeated in Basketball Tourney

The town of Barrington has been invited to place a softball team in a division of the National Softball association. The association has placed the softball game under official rules and regulations; formerly the game was played with various size balls, bats and diamonds.

The division will consist of one team from each of the twelve towns in the immediate territory. Each team will play two nights a week, at eight o'clock under electric light in a nearby enclosed park. Four teams will play each night, giving the public a double-header for a small admission.

The softball game has become as popular as baseball because it is played by men and boys of all ages and the fact that it is a much faster game giving more activity in a shorter time.

More men, boys and girls are playing this game than regular baseball. A Chicago newspaper last year sponsored a softball tournament in which 1100 teams participated. The championship finals were played before a capacity crowd.

The association will have similar divisions in various sections around Chicago. The winning teams in each division will play a county or state championship game at the end of the season.

The requirements are a good manager and 15 players. An application to join the league will be made within 10 days by players and managers with the National Softball association, 155 N. Clark street, Chicago.

Lady Blanche Farm

Before Philip could answer, Cousin Jane also asked a question: "I suppose you're not a church member?" she said with dark conviction.

Philip smiled. "Oh, yes," he said. "My father was a Congregational minister. I hadn't told you that before, had I? . . . Dark, please, Mr. Manning."

"A Congregational minister!" exclaimed Cousin Jane in amazement, while the others sat staring at him in speechless relief at his tact in introducing an exonerating relative into their ruffled midst.

"Was an Irish immigrant. Yes, he was—North of Ireland Protestant. Plumber, after he got to this country. Made lots of money when he got started to plumb—just hit the first wave in the fashion for bathrooms. He only had one child, and there was plenty of money to let him travel and study and prepare for the ministry—which was what he wanted to do—those queer freaks of heredity come sometimes, you know. He was minister for years of one of the largest Congregational churches in Massachusetts—until he died, in fact. He was an awfully good sort for a fellow to have for a father. My mother came from Brookline. She was another only child. And I'm another," ended Philip, less cheerfully.

"Do you mean to say," asked Blanche, with unconcealed envy, "that you haven't a cousin in the world?"

"Not one. Not parents nor grandparents. It isn't much fun," "Blanche wouldn't agree with you," said Cousin Jane. But her mind was still too busy with Philip's unexpected and gratifying disclosures to dwell long on the shortcomings of Blanche. "How come you not to go to church this morning, then?"

"Extenuating circumstances," answered Philip promptly, glancing at Blanche.

Cousin Jane's next remark was interrupted by a terrific clattering and banging in the room above them. Mary arose hastily, in the act of serving stewed tomatoes.

"That's only Algy," she said by way of explanation to Philip, "waking up from his nap. I'll go and dress him and bring him down."

CHAPTER V

ON MONDAY morning it was still raining—raining much too hard to attempt the unknown roads to Burlington. There was, Blanche added, to be one of Hamstead's infrequent dances in the town hall that evening. It was stupid for her tagging along with Paul and Mary, even when they were on good terms, and anyone could see that Paul was having one of his grouches. (Paul's "grouches" corresponded to his mother's "nerves.") And none of the boys in the village seemed to realize that she was old enough to be asked to go to parties, by herself now.

"Well, thank the Lord for that," said Philip piously. "I'll stay, of course."

In the afternoon it cleared, and he went to Violet, hesitating a little, and asked if he might invite Blanche to go for a little ride with him.

"Why, of course," she said, delightedly. "Take one of the roads out to West Hamstead. They're very pretty and quiet. I know our fine Vermont air is going to do you lots of good. You look better already than when you came."

"I feel better," said Philip. "Thanks awfully for letting me take Blanche. I'll take good care of her."

The route which Violet had suggested was one which could easily be covered in two hours, with the old family horse, but no one seemed to think it worth a comment when Philip and Blanche, leaving the house a little before three, reappeared late for a six o'clock supper. They had come to a little lake—Silver pond, Blanche called it—bordered by neglected woods. It lay behind the water in the town, a tin can, found providentially near at hand. They then rowed about the lake for a time, and finally climbed a hill back of it, where they sat and admired the view.

Philip had been laughing, off and on, all the afternoon, from sheer joy, and when Blanche told one of her little stories, with perfect artlessness, he laughed more than ever.

"It seems so absolutely peaceful here," he said. "Let's not hurry away. They needn't, of course," replied Blanche, "if it wasn't for the dance."

"Oh yes, the dance! Will you give me every other one?" "I think that's rather many, perhaps, don't you?" asked Blanche, frowning a little.

"Oh, no, not at all! I wouldn't dream of asking for less. It isn't done."

"Now you're laughing at me again!" Had any man, Philip wondered, ever found a girl so unworldly, so utterly delicious? It was difficult for him to refrain from taking her into his arms then and there; and though somehow he managed to steel himself against doing this, he reached out for the little hand that lay lightly on the extremely narrow strip of wood that separated him from Blanche, and locked his hand, lean fingers with her soft pink ones. Nothing that he had ever experienced in his life had awakened in him such a feeling of ecstasy. What tremendous—what undeserved—luck had been with him when he decided to take that swim!

"I am so glad you agree with me about the dances," he said, at last, rising reluctantly.

"But I didn't agree! Philip, how can you?" Philip! She had already begun to forget to call him Mr. Starr. He had never known before what a wonderful name Philip was. The slow drive home was permeated with magic. Without knowing when or how he had begun to do so, Philip found that he was holding both Blanche's hands; he felt her golden head sinking gently on his shoulder and rest there quiescent. The deepening dusk, enfolding them, seemed pregnant with the promise of still closer companionship, or more ardent embraces. But the prelude to these was perfect and complete in itself.

Neither the return to the farm, nor the family supper, nor the departure for the party to which Blanche had looked forward so eagerly, dispelled Philip's illusion of enchantment. Of course he got his dances. Many of the alternates once he danced with Mary.

All on the Lady Blanche farm were sorry when Philip said goodbye bright and early Tuesday morning. Blanche, to whom he had suggested a short walk through the orchard, lifted brimming eyes to his, he stooped and kissed the tears away from her lashes. Then he told his cheek against hers.

"This isn't really good-by, you know," he whispered; and added softly, "sweetheart."

Violet's farewell was likewise accompanied by tears, as well as by little pats and cooling sounds. Mary packed a delicious lunch, and laid a neatly folded road map with Philip's route clearly marked in red pencil, on top of his suitcase.

The day after his departure, the station agent called up Violet to tell her that there was a big box addressed to her, and marked perishable, express paid, waiting there. And when it was promptly brought home by Seth and opened with some excitement, it was found to contain four five-pound boxes of candy, all exactly alike, but elaborately tied up, with different colored ribbons. And under each bow of ribbon was slipped a card which read, "With kindest regards, and many thanks for my wonderful visit, from Philip Starr."

As Jane Manning had never had a sister, this was the first box of candy that had ever been given her. She tried to conceal her pleased surprise as long as she was with the others. Then she carried the box home, very carefully, and put it on her bedside table near her Bible. It did not occur to her to open it. She drew up her rocker, and sat for a long time looking at it.

"No one but him would ever have remembered me!" she said aloud. "At all, let alone send me candy, at my age, and all tied up with red ribbon!" That nice boy! she ended abruptly, and blew her nose hard.

The excitement aroused by the boxes of "candy and the pleasant 'bread-and-butter' letters which followed in their wake had hardly subsided when something even more thrilling happened. A beautiful luncheon, beside which Philip's little runabout could no more have stood comparison than could Cinderella's pumpkin with the fairy coach into which it was turned, driven by a slim young chauffeur, very smart in a uniform to match the car's upholstery, drew up in front of Seth Manning's door, and a tall, distinguished-looking man of early middle age got out and asked for Mary.

It was, unfortunately, Moses who answered the rap at the knocker. His mouth was full of stolen sweets—he had eaten up almost the entire contents of Mary's box of candy—and he had no eye for style. He was not impressed by the appearance of the strange man. Moreover, his own appearance could hardly have warranted the hope that he might create a favorable impression himself. The day being warm, and Mary likewise occupied, he had surreptitiously removed most of his clothing—in fact, everything except a pair of ankle ties; which had no connection with modesty and were retained simply because the hemp carpet in the front hall was rough.

"Hello," he said.

"Mr.—hello," said the stranger, his face twitching slightly. "Does Miss Mary Manning live here?"

"Mary? Yes. She's out in the back garden killing potato bugs . . . that way," said Moses, with a wave of the hand, indicating the direction which the stranger should take.

"Thank you very much," said the man, his mouth still twitching, walking off in the direction indicated.

Mary, hearing footsteps, straightened up quickly from the task over which she was bent, and turned a deep crimson.

"Mr. Hamlin!" she exclaimed, in great confusion. "Oh, you must excuse me! When did you come?"

'If I Had a Million' Billed for Catlow Sunday - Monday

Who killed Jenny Wren? Did Ricardo Cortez? he had, like a thief in the night, stolen into the spooky old mansion and was next to her when a feathered dart punctured her brain. He was in desperate need of her jewelry.

But there were twelve others in a weird house party who equally merited suspicion, among them Pauline Frederick, Mary Duncan, H. B. Warner, Gavin Gordon, Robert Elliott, Ivan Simpson, Skeets Gallagher, Matty Kemp and Robert McWade.

The answer to who killed Jenny Wren gold-digging, butterfly, will be on the screen at The Catlow theatre Friday and Saturday nights when "The Phantom of Crestwood" is shown. This is the mystery yarn which was begun in the NBC network. Its solution can only be learned from the screen version.

Saturday night beginning at 11 p. m. The Catlow will offer its annual New Year's Eve Midnight show. "He Learned About Women," a new comedy featuring Stuart Erwin, Allison Skipworth, Susan Fleming and Grant Mitchell, will be the comedy feature offering.

It tells the story of young George Kendall, III, who up to the time he inherits the Kendall fortune of fifty million dollars, has kept his nose buried in a book, and had been an innocent as they come about the facts of life. But when George starts out to learn, he finds excellent teachers in Madame Vivienne Polidori, ex-actress; John Allen, a pretty stenographer; Appleby, a senator and ex-husband of a famous actress; and Clifford, a prominent theatrical manager.

New Year's Day and Monday the Catlow will present "If I Had a Million."

The following cast, largest group of stars ever assembled for a single production play the leading roles: Gary Cooper, George Raft, Wynne Gibson, Charles Laughton, Jack Oakie, Frances Dee, Charlie Huggles, Allison Skipworth, W. C. Fields, Mary Holland, Roscoe Karns, May Robson, Gene Raymond, Lucien Littlefield and Richard Bennett.

The story centers around Bennett, an eccentric millionaire, who decides to dispose of his fortune to nine persons whose names he chooses at random from a city directory. The reactions of each of the beneficiaries are as unique as his own character.

Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week will bring to The Catlow a return showing of "The Big Broadcast." When this picture played here last month the weather prevented many from seeing it. Due to the many requests for a return date on this film Manager Catlow secured it for a two day showing at the low Tuesday rate of admission. "The Big Broadcast" has in its cast the leading stars of radio fame and a large cast of Hollywood players.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, Jan. 5, 6, and 7, The Catlow will offer "Little Orphan Annie" as a benefit picture for the Girl Scouts of Barrington.

Pass Bill to Give Relief on Mortgage Property

Building and loan associations in Illinois would be authorized to increase their aggregate borrowing power from $70,000,000 to $110,000,000 under the Branham bill, which has been passed by the senate by a vote of 35 to 0. The senate also passed joint resolution No. 2 which requests that building and loan associations, banks and insurance companies designate a maximum on mortgages for one year to save homes to present property owners.

State News

Of the 10,000 mile state highway system, of which more construction has been completed in the last four years than in any preceding administration, all but about 400 miles will be finished, under contract or represented in proposals under consideration when Governor Louis L. Engstrom retires.

Director H. H. Cleveland made this statement at the time a call was issued for bids to be received Dec. 23. This, which probably is the last road letting of the present administration, includes 222 miles of paving, 25 miles of heavy grading and a number of bridge projects—some of considerable importance. In all, the work will cost upward of $7,000,000, according to the highway engineers' calculations.

Director Cleveland stated that, of this immense amount of work, much can be done this winter. Materials can be purchased and transported to the locations. In the spring, when actual paving gets underway, there will be work for many men.

More than 3,405,000 votes were cast at the November election, it has been calculated with practically the complete vote recorded in Secretary of State William J. Straton's office. The November vote sets a new high record for Illinois. The state canvassing board met on December 1 and figured the votes for clerk of the supreme court, University of Illinois trustees, presidential electors, appellate court clerks, congressmen, members of the legislature and United States senators. The vote for state officers will be canvassed in January by the legislature.

Governor Louis L. Engstrom has signed Representative Homer J. Thies' county optional sales tax bill giving county boards, by a two-thirds vote, authority to extend the sales tax of one per cent. The bill carried an emergency clause and became effective at once. The governor returned the Michael horse racing bill to the legislature with his veto, pointing out that as an emergency relief measure it would accomplish nothing as there will be no horse racing in the state for months after the convening of the next regular session.

"Rabbit fever" has flared up again in Illinois, and the state department of public health has issued a warning to prevent infection from this source. Hunters and housewives are urged to exercise care in skinning rabbits. A slight scratch on the hands, if exposed to blood of rabbits that are diseased, may communicate the ailment, which resembles typhoid. The cooked meat of an infected animal is safe, as heat will kill the germs. It has also been suggested that hunters refrain from bringing in any rabbits that are apparently in ill health.

The report of the state tax commission shows a decrease of approximately $1,000,000,000 in assessments compared with a year ago. Reductions which have been made in the state budget may make it possible to extend the same rate as last year, but officials, as a general rule, are urging reduction if possible. It is probable that views of Governor-elect Henry Horner will be received before final action is taken.

Harry N. Gottlieb, chairman of the Illinois Bar association's Civil Practice act committee, announces completion of a bill embodying the committee's recommendations which will be presented to the Illinois legislature. It proposes a statute under which numerous old forms and pleadings will be abandoned, the recommendations being in response to a general demand that business in the courts be expedited and that cases be disposed of with less delay and expense.

Half Rate Stamp for Greeting Cards Not So Popular Locally

Barrington persons who received many Christmas cards under one and one-half cent stamps after having used three cent stamps on all the cards they mailed out, may take solace in the fact that the large majority of cards mailed from the local post office were decorated with three cent stamps.

The one and one-half cent stamp idea took hold strongly in some communities but not in Barrington. The local postmaster reported that at least three sealed cards with the full postage were mailed out here to every one unsealed card with half postage. The post office has sold 12,000 one and one-half cent stamps for all purposes during the month of December to date. This compares with 9300 of this size stamp sold here in November and 9200 in October. Of the 2700 increase over November, it has been estimated that 2000 one and one-half cent stamps were used for Christmas cards. This is a small number compared with the number of three cent stamps sold for use on cards under seal.

only to be wrecked a few minutes later when the driver was unable to flag down a train approaching through the mist.

Urges Caution

The signal department of the railroad has sent out the following accident prevention notices:

"With the presence of colder weather, frosted windows, and slippery highways, we wish to call the attention of the motoring public to the appalling loss of life and property at railroad crossings as a result of careless automobile drivers and to impress the urgent necessity for drivers to use the utmost care when they approach crossings.

"In checking the statistics on our certain day in November we find there were six automobile accidents, at railroad crossings which resulted in the death of four persons and injuries to seven persons. Every one of these accidents could have been avoided if the drivers had exercised reasonable caution when approaching the tracks."

Road Commission Report Before Assembly in January

The Hunter road commission, created by the last regular session of the Illinois general assembly, met in Springfield on December 6 to formulate a report which will be presented to the assembly in January. State Representative David Hunter, Rockford, is chairman of the body, which has held a number of hearings. Requests for several thousand miles of highway were made by delegations which have appeared before the body.

Research Shows Hen, Not Cow Spreads T.B. in Flocks

The hen, and not the cow, is the chief source of tuberculosis in flocks. The state department of agriculture has determined this, conclusively, in a test of poultry flocks and swarms in Bureau, McLean, Livingston and LaSalle counties. A tabulation of the tests, and the observations of the veterinary authorities who conducted it, are available upon request, Director Pierson stated.
