

NORTHWEST SUBURBANRuth McKim Moor

Ruth McKim Moor, a resident of Palo Alto, Calif., died Friday, June 4, 2010.

Born March 31, 1915, in New Haven, Conn., she and her sister, Clare grew up in Cincinnati. Their father, Judson McKim, was an author, a radio broadcaster, a director on non-profit boards and the regional head of the YMCA. The YMCA addressed issues of world peace and, during the depression, the development of job opportunities for unemployed college graduates. This social consciousness became one of her lifelong passions. After receiving her B.A. degree from DePauw University in Indiana and her M.S. degree in library science from Columbia University in New York, she began her lifelong commitment to community service. She did this work in partnership with the love of her life, Arthur D. Moor (1913 to 2002), whom she met while at Columbia and married in 1941.

Art was a planning executive for United Airlines and was stationed at most of United's hubs. After New York they moved to Chicago, to Denver and, in 1952 to Los Altos. Even with two young children, Ruth found time for volunteer interests. She chaired the committee that created the Friends of the Library and drove the passage of multiple bond issues to expand the Los Altos library system. She was instrumental in the growth of the local Girl Scouts, the construction of El Camino Hospital and the expansion of the League of Women Voters.

When Art was transferred back to Chicago, she dove right into projects in her new town, Barrington, Ill. (1963 to 1986). She was named "Citizen of the Year" in 1975 and 1978 for her roles in establishing a 911 system, blood banks, paramedic services, and an umbrella coordinating council for six separate village boards, four counties, and multiple school and fire districts. This latter project took enormous political skill as well as more than five years of full-time volunteer work. The unflagging efforts of her many recruited volunteers enabled them to make fundamental changes. She and Art hosted dinners at their home to advance their political and social efforts. She felt a good party could reconcile severe differences. Her efforts resulted in lasting legacies for all of the communities in which she lived and served.

When Art retired in 1973, Ruth had lived in seven different states, some more than once. Whatever her location her foundation was always her family. When Art was promoted and they relocated to Chicago from Los Altos, despite their love for California she did not question the move. It was a new adventure. They remained in Barrington until 1986, when five days without power and temperatures of 10 below zero convinced them that they should move closer to their children and grandchildren, who just happened to live in considerably warmer Palo Alto.

In Palo Alto, she and Art became regulars at all their grandsons sporting events. They became experts in scoring and cheering at baseball, football, soccer, basketball, roller hockey and ice hockey games. If it was raining during a game, they happily huddled under umbrellas! Ruth's unflagging sense of humor made those cold, windy and wet games fun. During this time, she nourished her love of literature and poetry by taking classes at Foothill College. The family continues to be entertained by the poems she wrote while trying to keep up with her college homework at age 75!

She is survived by her son, David Moor of Menlo Park; her daughter, Barbara Moor Sanner and son-in-law, Robert Sanner of Palo Alto, and her three grandchildren, Daniel Sanner, who with his wife, Kimberly Sanner, will soon move to Hong Kong, Richard Sanner of San Francisco and Timothy Sanner of Austin, Texas.

There will be no local services. Graveside services will be held in Greensburg, Ind.

In 1931, Art received a college scholarship that enabled him to leave his faltering family farm and attend college. Throughout his life he was deeply grateful for that life-changing opportunity. In 2002 Ruth, Art and the Greensburg community established a college scholarship program for students from Greensburg High School. Each year scholarship awards are given to a group of graduating high school seniors. These scholarships, along with other awards, help students who otherwise might not be able to attend college. For those wishing to make gifts in Ruth's memory, please contact The Moor Family Scholarship Fund, South Decatur Dollars for Scholars, MainSource Bank, 201 N. Broadway, P.O. Box 87, Greensburg, IN 47270.

Dale Edward Termundea 50-year resident of Wheaton

Visitation for Dale Edward Termunde, 78, will be from 3 to 9 p.m. Friday, at Williams-Kampp Funeral Home, 430 E. Roosevelt Road (one block east of Naperville Road), Wheaton.

Visitation will also be from 9 a.m. until the time of the service at 10 a.m. Saturday, at St. Andrew Lutheran Church, 155 N. Prince Crossing Road, West Chicago. Interment will be in First Evangelical Lutheran Cemetery, Alsip, Ill.

Dale passed away Wednesday, June 16, 2010, at Central DuPage Hospital in Winfield. He was born Jan. 22, 1932, and raised in Blue Island, Ill.

Father Time – otherwise known as Dale Termunde, was a dye-in-the-wool expert of the American dairy industry. He was associated with Babson Bros. (SURGE) and with its successor Westfallia-Surge, now GEA Farm Technologies, in Naperville. As a product of Iowa State, Dairy Science 1953, he joined Babson in the spring of 1955. He held a number of positions in the field and corporately. Dale developed the SURGE Dairy Sanitation Division (Chemical – now known as Dairy Hygiene) in the late 1950s and grew it through the 1960s and 1970s and was instrumental in bringing a number of new and innovative teat dips to the market when teat dipping was becoming a recognized best practice. Dale was an active member of the NMC, National Mastitis Council. His life-long dairy industry career allowed him to become an active participant in the rapid industrialization that occurred moving from "labor intensive" bucket milkers to more labor efficient milking pipelines and today's stainless steel and highly automated milking parlors.

In 1978, Dale assumed the responsibility of director of corporate legal affairs and developed the legal defense strategies that continue today as the industry standard. Dale retired from Babson Brothers in July 1998, but only for a short time. He returned in 90 days as a consultant to help coordinate the due diligence phase of the acquisition of Babson Brothers by Westfallia Landtechnik and resumed his responsibilities after the acquisition and helped successfully guide, transition and integrate two separate and competitive dealer organizations into one strong dealer organization.

When not in the office or on the road, he was a voracious reader. He loved and followed drum and bugle corps usually attending one or more performance every year and definitely the National Championship wherever it was held from Boston to Los Angeles. Dale enjoyed his fine wines, antiques, travels abroad, and anything related to the dairy industry.

He is survived by his son, Todd Taylor (Rayna) Termunde of Naperville; his grandchildren, Kevin Brown, Rachel Termunde, and Addison and Moriah Termunde; his sister, Marcyln Schultz; and many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Joyce Marie (nee Aulwurm); his daughter, Teri Lee (the late Dale) Brown; his son, Todd Timothy; and his granddaughter, Amanda Wolan.

In lieu of flowers, donations to the University of Saskatchewan, Termunde Research Ranch, Lanigan Saskatchewan, c/o Williams-Kampp Funeral Home, 430 E. Roosevelt Road, Wheaton, IL 60189.
