ASSIST NATURE a little now and then in removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels and you thereby avoid a multitude of distressing derangements and diseases, and will have less frequent need of your doctor's service.

Of all known agents for this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best. Once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and their attendant discomfort and manifold derangements. The "Pellets" are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. No care is required while using them; they do not interfere with the diet, habits or occupation, and produce no pain, gripping or shock to the system. They act in a mild, easy and natural way and there is no reaction afterward. Their help lasts.

The Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. In proof of their superior excellence, it can be truthfully said, that they are always adopted as a household remedy after the first trial. Put up in sealed, glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, or to relieve distress from over-eating, take one after dinner. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules; any child will readily take them.

Fall Medicine

Is fully as important and as beneficial as Spring Medicine, for at this season there is great danger to health in the varying temperature, cold storms, malarial germs, and the prevalence of fevers and other serious diseases. All these may be avoided if the blood is kept pure, the digestion good, and the bodily health vigorous, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"My little boy fourteen years old had a terrible scrofula bunc on his neck. A friend of mine said Hood's Sarsaparilla cured his little boy, so I procured a bottle of the medicine, and the result has been that the bunc has left his neck. It was so near the throat, that he could not have stood it much longer without relief." Mrs. I. N. HOOD, 324 Thordike St., Lowell, Mass.

MY LOVE.

If my love were like a flower
It might perish in an hour:
Gazing upward, toward the sky,
It might yield its heart and die.

If my love were like a gem
It might leave life's diadem:
Shaken out and lightly tost,
Trampled under foot and lost.

If my love were like a star
Fair 'twould be, but all too far:
Stars may guide, but cannot warm
Hearts that brave life's bitter storm.

This my love is like them all:
Starlike, not to fade or fall:
Flowerlike, yielding sweetest breath;
Gemlike, mocking change and death.

This my love is more than these—
Human, born to serve and please;
Heavenly, warm with fire divine—
Darling, take this love of mine!

—Alice B. Wood, in Boston Watchman.

AUBREY EVERDENE looked up Sackville street and yawned. Only an instant before he had written "finis" to an article with a dash of the pen across the last sheet, and now the MS. lay ready for the post, among the debris of printers' proofs, new novels awaiting review, etc., with which the writing table was strewn.

One of the best known litterateurs in London, and a brilliant conversationalist—his tongue could be as scathing as his pen, and it was said of him, with regard to the latter weapon of warfare, that in half a dozen polished sentences he could do more toward damning a book than any two of his compeers. A big, loosely-made man, Mr. Everdene, with shrewd gray eyes and the pessimism of a modern. Studying his face as he lounged by the window, his hands in his pockets of his smoking jacket, one could see that he had a lively sense of humor combined with his other characteristics, and understood the interest his personality aroused.

Presently a servant brought him a visiting card on a salver.

"The lady would be obliged if you would grant her an interview, sir."

"Lady Hilyard," muttered Everdene, reading the inscription. "I can't recall the name. Bother the woman; what does she want? However—ask her to come up, Blake."

When she entered, a fair, elegant woman of perhaps five-and-twenty, in an irreproachable Parisian toilet, he was still more convinced that he had not the privilege of her acquaintance. "Mr. Aubrey Everdene?" she queried. Mr. Everdene bowed.

"Pray take a seat, madam."

"No," she said. "I have come to quarrel with you, and I don't sit down in the houses of my enemies."

"To quarrel with me!" His eyebrows went up. The thought came to him that his visitor was not in her right mind.

"Yes. Perhaps I had better explain myself at once. I am the author of 'Fashion and Footlights!'"

Mr. Everdene, standing perforce because she would, pulled his mustache, while the fair stranger tapped her No. 8 shoe on the carpet with impatience and looked pitchforks and daggers.

"Fashion and Footlights," he reflected aloud. "'Fashion and Footlights.' Ha!"

Comprehension stole over his face, and with it a slight amusement. He fished among a pile of volumes and brought out three bound with an elegance destined to win the hearts of suburban circulating libraries.

"Here it is. I reviewed it in the Centurion, didn't I?"

"No," she said, "you hanged and quartered it!"

"I am sorry! May I ask how you found out that I was the culprit?"

"Oh, by accident. It's a long story, and unimportant, since you don't deny the imputation. Now, Mr. Everdene, I know it is very impudent of me, a stranger, to come to your private address and worry you. I am doing a very unusual thing, I am afraid, and Mrs. Grundy would be horrified. But 'fools rush in,' you know, and widows are privileged. You must have a little patience with me because—for the first time her lips relaxed and she smiled a smile that was sweetness itself—"well, just because I'm a woman and you're a gentleman! Acknowledge the truth, now, on your honor. Don't you think you were unnecessarily harsh to my poor little literary effort?"

"No," he said, bluntly, "I always give my true opinion of things, and I consider your books had many faults." If she had been a man he would have said: "I thought it was excessively bad," with the brusqueness of conviction, and probably declined to discuss the matter. But to a lady it was impossible to be rude. He regarded her absurdly unconventional presence with a tolerant kindness.

"Of course, I admit that there are faults, but upon one or two points in your criticism I cannot agree with you. I should very much like to discuss them with you. May I?"

"Certainly." His mouth was twitching under his mustache. "But don't you think, pending the verdict, that you had better sit down? You will be fatigued. If you'll permit me to wheel this arm chair nearer the fire for you—"

Having carefully arranged it so that she should face the light, he seated himself opposite to her—the A B C of diplomacy—but she did not appear to notice it. She was drawing arabesques on the carpet with the point of her ivory-handled umbrella.

"I should very much like to know," she said, "what you think of me for coming here?"

"I think you are plucky—yes, and recklessly unconventional."

"Candid, at any rate! And I like that." She looked up. "Now for the first indictment on the list, Mr. Everdene! You accuse me of improbability. I deny it."

His manner bordered upon preoccupation. In truth he was thinking what wonderful lashes she had, and how becoming a flush of excitement could be to a clear, pale skin.

"You assert," she continued, warmly, "that is ridiculous to suppose that a man and woman of the world could fall in love at first sight, as I make my hero and heroine do, and that such proceedings are limited to boys and girls in their teens and the pages of penny fiction. I should have thought that Mr. Aubrey Everdene would have shown wider sympathies."

"Then you really believe, Lady Hilyard, that adult, sensible people do conceive such abrupt attachments?"

"I am convinced that it happens frequently."

"Oh, come, not frequently."

"Well—sometimes," she amended. "I could give you a dozen instances."

He lacked the heart to argue with her. It would have been like breaking a butterfly on a wheel. And after all there might be more sentiment in fin-de-siècle humanity than he thought: women have wonderful intuition in these matters.

"Well, suppose we let that slide for the moment, and proceed to indictment No. 2. What other phrase of mine do you take exception to?"

"You said that I had not the remotest idea of construction, and that 'Fashion and Footlights' was evidently a specimen of that objectionable class of fiction which you regretted in these matters."

"Well, suppose we let that slide for the moment, and proceed to indictment No. 3. What other phrase of mine do you take exception to?"

tion to pour it out for him, with a winning graciousness which charmed him. It afforded him an odd sense of pleasure, too, to see her white fingers moving about the china. He was unaccustomed to the presence of women in his home.

With the Japanese tables between them they chatted for awhile, and then the clock on the mantelpiece struck six. She rose with a pretty gesture of dismay, like a second Cinderella.

"Do you know, Mr. Everdene, that I have been here a whole hour wasting your valuable time?"

"I thought it had been ten minutes," he answered, "and the pleasantest of my life."

"Very pretty," she said, blushing faintly. "And in return for it let me tell you that my address is on my card, and that my 'day' is Thursday. Also, I must thank you very heartily for your kindness and courtesy to an impertinent intruder. Very few men would have been so considerate."

"Please don't thank me. It is I who owe you a debt of gratitude. You have taught me something I never expected to learn."

"What?"

"That the conduct of your hero and heroine was not improbable at all."

Their eyes met—the woman's drooped self-consciously, pleased.

"You really mean that?"

"On my soul I do."

The most delicious softness was in her voice.

"It makes me so proud and happy to think I have convinced you."

There was a silence. She smoothed a wrinkle in her suede glove. He twisted a button on his coat. Then she aroused herself with a little laugh and extended her hand.

"Well, good-by, Mr. Everdene, and once more thank you."

He pressed her fingers ever so lightly—her proselyte.

"Not good-by," he murmured. "Au revoir."—Black and White.

WRECK OF THE CASHMERE.

The Crew Had Nothing to Eat But Raw Yams and Vinegar.

After their comrades had gone the five men left on board the Cashmere crawled up under the topgallant fore-castle, which was the only dry spot in the vessel. As the night settled down they were left in darkness and terror. The water thundered against the bulk, nearly crushing the ship at each blow. The vessel rocked and pitched, then settled back in the trough of the sea, and again plunged headlong into the foaming gulf left by the waves. The captain's boy was brave, but not even the old sailors could find words to console or encourage him.

No provisions could be obtained from the hold. As the sea became less violent the men were enabled to move about a little, and they found a few yams stored away in the fore-castle. Eaten raw, these taste very much like uncooked sweet potatoes, and allayed the pangs of hunger, but their thirst was still intense, their throats being parched and swollen. Then one of the men noticed a jug partially filled with some liquid floating around in the scuppers. With caution he secured it, but found that it contained vinegar. At first no one thought of drinking it, but as their suffering grew worse the hated vinegar was eagerly drunk in small portions.

For some days and nights after the departure of the life-boat, the poor creatures remained upon the vessel crowded in the narrow space under the fore-castle. The raw yams gave them no relief and it soon became impossible for them even to sip the vinegar. All were in a state of despair, while the poor boy was so weakened by suffering and grief that he little cared what happened, and seemed almost unable to move or exert himself in any way. After the storm, the sea grew comparatively calm, giving them their one chance of life. Every man knew that even moderately rough waters would in a few moments beat their shattered hulk to splinters.

Upon the morning of the seventh day a feeble cry of "Land!" burst from the earliest watcher. With the loose planks and some pieces of rope and rigging the men managed to construct a raft. This accomplished, and the few remaining yams collected, their preparations for embarking were made. On the morning of the eighth day they set sail. With such rude makeshift oars and paddles as they had been able to secure, they tried to propel the raft towards the shore, but with little success. Night closed in, and left the weary voyagers far out at sea. The next morning they found to their great relief that they had drifted much nearer, and redoubling their efforts they reached the beach.

It was the shore of Tanega-Shima—the very island on which their comrades had been cast! They, too, were treated with the utmost kindness and ten days later were sent to Kobe.—St. Nicholas.

What the Teacher Wanted.

"Papa," said little Tom one day when he came home from school, "teacher says you must have me 'sasinated.'"

"Assassinated?"

"Yes, sir. She says every child must be 'sasinated' before he comes back to school, because smallpox is in town."

"Oh, vaccinated?"

"Yes, sir; that's it."—Detroit Free Press.

TWO MORE BATTLES FOUGHT.

Japanese Troops Have Captured Chee Foo and Wi Ju.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—It is believed that a decisive battle has been fought between the Chinese and Japanese armies on the plains north of the Yalu river, about 50 miles south of Moukden, one of the objective points of the Japanese invaders. When the last authentic advices were received the northern wing of the Japanese army had just crossed the Yalu and a battle was momentarily expected.

At the same time news comes that the southern wing, operating on the western shore of the Yellow sea, had surrounded and captured Chee Foo, a large town on the bay of Pi Chi Li. In this successful attack the army was aided by the Japanese fleet, which had been cruising in Pi Chi Li bay for several days. Chee Foo is a treaty port of China, on the Shan-Toong promontory. It has a population of over 30,000 and a good harbor.

A third division of the Japanese army is reported to have effected a landing on the shores of Leaotong gulf, which is to the north of Chee Foo and between it and Moukden.

Thus Pekin is being encircled with a net of armed men without, while rebellion against the Tartar emperor and his dynasty rages within. It, as reported, the battle at the Yalu river resulted in favor of the Japanese, it is almost certain that Pekin will be captured within a week.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A dispatch received here from Shanghai says that a second Japanese army is reported to have crossed the Yalu river and to be advancing upon Moukden, which, it is believed, will soon fall, as the Chinese are reported to be in a state of demoralization.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A dispatch from Tokio says that a detachment of Japanese cavalry and infantry has made an attack upon and routed a force of 2,000 Chinese at Wi Ju and that the place remains in the hands of the Japanese. It is reported to the Japanese officers that 10,000 Chinese troops occupy the north bank of the Yalu river, where they have completed eight batteries and are building more.

Field Marshal Count Yagamata has established his base of operations at Ping Yang, which is near the sea and easy of access to the supplies. It is generally hoped that the Japanese will be in possession of Moukden by the early part of November. Other important military operations are under way, but their objects are as yet kept secret. Early results, however, are expected.

China has been formally notified of the surrender and dispatch to Nagasaki of the steamship Tenkyomaru, together with her European and Chinese crew. A state of siege has been declared in the district of Hiroshima under article 14 of the Japanese constitution.

TWO OF A KIND.

A Pair of Bold Train Robberies Net the Thieves $100,000.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 13.—The north-bound passenger train on the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac railway which left here at 7 o'clock Friday night was held up near Quantico. The engineer and fireman were forced from their engine and the engine was cut loose and sent ahead. The express car was then entered, the messenger covered with pistols and forced to open the safe. The runaway locomotive was stopped at Quantico by obstructing the track. It is stated here that there was an unusually large amount of money on the train, probably $50,000. The robbers, seven in number, were masked. The railway company has offered $1,000 reward for the arrest of any of the robbers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The bandits who held up a Southern Pacific overland train a few miles west of Sacramento late Thursday night and looted the Wells-Fargo company express car secured over $50,000. They seem to have eluded the officers and escaped with their plunder, which was nearly all in gold coin, and consequently a heavy burden. The astounding success of the hold up was not known until Friday afternoon. Earlier reports of the robbery gave the amount of money taken at $1,500.

The robbery was a daring one. Four sacks of coin were secured from the express car, and Messenger Paige barely escaped with his life. Three hundred pounds of coin were taken. Engineer Bill Scott, of the Oregon Overland, and his fireman were forced at the muzzle of a revolver to carry coin sacks from the express car to the engine. There the robbers uncoupled the engine and rode off with their booty.

FOES TO DRINK.

Chicago Temperance Organizations Honor Father Matthew's Memory.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The birthday of Father Matthew, the originator of total abstinence societies, was celebrated here by a grand parade composed of Catholic and Protestant temperance organizations and Catholic and public school children. After marching southward on Michigan avenue to Eighteenth street the procession turned and marched northward to the Auditorium, where it was reviewed by Gov. Altgeld, Mayor Hopkins, Bishop Watterson, of Ohio, Rev. Dr. Henson and others. In the evening a large meeting was held at the Auditorium theater which was addressed by Bishop Watterson, of Ohio, and others.

THE FLORIDA STORM.

Reports from Stricken Towns—Streets strewn with Wreckage.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 12.—Communication has been reestablished with all points on the west coast visited by the storm which raged Monday night and Tuesday morning, and dispatches to the Times-Union tell woeful tales of the destruction caused by the wind and water. Cedar Key has just experienced the most disastrous storm which has visited her for twenty-five years. The main business street is filled from one end to the other with debris, consisting of wreckage from boats, wharves, fish houses and logs of every description. The storm began at 8 o'clock Monday morning with a heavy wind, increasing in violence and continuing until Tuesday morning. The damage and loss of property is very great. The city hall has the roof blown off and one entire side knocked off by logs. The city jail cannot be found. The five bridges on the shell road leading to the mainland are washed away. A great many small boats were wrecked and fish camps demolished. One sloop came in Tuesday morning with five men who had clung to a single palmetto tree since Monday night. Another came in Thursday afternoon with three men who were wrecked Monday night and had been on a shell bank ever since, without food or water. It is reported that five sponge vessels went ashore during the storm and were driven 7 miles into the woods.

APALACHICOLA, Fla., Oct. 13.—Never before in the history of this town was so much havoc and destruction played by storm and tide as Monday night between 7 and 10 o'clock. Water, Commerce and Market streets are a mass of logs, boats, lumber and debris. So far two lives are reported lost. Two residences were carried half to three-quarters of a mile and placed in the marsh near Cypress mill uninjured.

TWO HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

Record of the Recent Gale Off the Newfoundland Coast.

St. PIERRE, Miquelon, Oct. 13.—Two hundred lives are believed to have been lost by the terrible gale which raged here Tuesday night and all day Wednesday. More than fifty vessels are ashore and damaged, and several ships are missing. A fleet of about 300 vessels were forced to abandon the fishery by the gale on the banks on September 29 and 30. These vessels have returned here during the last few days with heavy losses of cables, anchors, lines and dories. It will be some days before the full extent of the disaster caused by the two storms can be learned. There is mourning in all the fishing villages on the banks and here at St. Pierre. More than 800 men were at sea during the gales and more than 200, perhaps twice that number, have not been heard from.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Oct. 13.—About 5 o'clock Thursday evening a vessel, supposed to be the Hartford, went upon the rocks near Woodville, 35 miles east of here. Capt. O'Toole, of Clayton, the owner, his wife and child and four men were on board. The big sea commenced to break the vessel up, and it is reported that the captain and entire crew were drowned. The Hartford was freighted with corn from Detroit. No bodies are reported to have been recovered.

That the gale was not accompanied by loss of life is due entirely to the heroic work of the various life-saving crews on the two lakes. In spite of the furious gale these brave men succeeded in every case in taking off the crew of each wreck without the loss of a man.

UNCLE SAM'S WARDS.

Synopsis of the Report of the Commissioner of Pensions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The report of Commissioner of Pensions Lochren for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, has been submitted to the secretary of the interior. The report states that the number of pensioners on the rolls June 30, 1893, was 966,012; that during the year 39,085 new pensioners were added to the rolls, 37,951 were dropped for death and other causes and 2,393 previously dropped were restored. The number of pensioners upon the rolls of June 30, 1894, was 969,544. The number of pension certificates issued during the year was 80,213, and 129,873 claims of all classes were rejected. On July 1, 1894, there were undisposed of and in different stages of preparation and advancement claims for pensions and for increase to the amount of 619,027, of which 237,209 claims, originals, widows' and dependents', are on behalf of persons not already on the rolls. These claims, save some recently filed, have been examined more than once and found lacking. The amount paid for pensions during the year was $139,804,461, leaving a balance in the treasury of $25,205,713 of the appropriation.

American Corn.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The agricultural department has received from Joseph Mattes, Jr., one of its representatives in Europe, a letter showing a satisfactory increase in the use of American corn in Germany. The correspondent says the prejudices formerly existing against maize as fodder for horses and cattle is daily growing less, and, while there has been no progress made to induce the Germans to eat maize bread, the work to induce feeders to utilize it in place of other fodder substitutes has been more successful.

AN exchange in commenting on individuals has the following to say of the good fellow: What is generally known as a "good fellow" is the neutral man. He provokes no opposition, is never the subject of criticism or the object of censure. He is liked for what he doesn't do. There are scores of these "good fellow's" they can be found in almost any community. But they are not the men who lead the public enterprises, head the subscription list or build up a town, party or church. They aren't the kind of men that boys should imitate or emulate. The man with the sharp corners of individuality protruding, is worth a host of these "good fellows" in any walk of life.—Ex.

The Train Wreckers.

The arrest of Stanley J. Knowels and John C. Bodewig as two of the principals who wrecked the Grand Trunk express train at Battle Creek Mich., July 16, is a very important beginning in ferreting out that crime, which was one of the natural results of the lawlessness of President Eugene V. Debs and Vice President Geo. W. Howard in the railroad strike last summer. The agents of the American Railway Union encouraged all kinds of lawlessness in the fight against the railroads, and the confession of the men arrested for wrecking the Grand Trunk express show that the men were inspired to engage in that attempt of wholesale murder by the incendiary talk of the American Railway Union agents at Battle Creek.

The crime committed resulted in the death of Thomas Crowe, the fireman, and the injury of several passengers. The charge to be brought against these train wreckers is therefore that of deliberate and wilful murder.

The investigation should not, however, stop with the men who wrecked the train. It should not lose sight of the agents of the A. R. U. Who counseled such methods of warfare, and the courts will be justified in calling for the dispatches of Debs and Howard to see how far they were responsible.

It may be that no legal responsibility can be fixed on Debs or Howard, but if the facts are as reported they certainly are morally responsible for the excesses of the men whom they urged on in that unreasonable and malicious strike.

But Mr. Howard boasts that he and Mr. Debs, and all other labor agitators at war with the railroad companies are the recipients of annual passes over all the great trunk lines of the country. Could anything be more ridiculous than for the railroad corporations to issue such favors to the men who are conducting the warfare against them? The public suffered great inconvenience and great loss from the strike last summer. The Chicago people are to be called upon to pay large damages for the losses of the railroads in property burned at that time. When Chicago comes to foot this bills the people who are to pay the taxes will want to know why the chief conspirators responsible for the loss are favored above all others by the railroad companies. Will some of the officials of these forty companies explain why they issued these annual passes to Debs and Howard.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or a scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be used for. A pain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in which insures a cure in one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the chest or side relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. ## LABOR PARLIAMENT.

An Important Conference to Be Shortly Held in Chicago.

The Relations of Capital and Labor to Be Discussed from All Standpoints—Prominent Speakers Who Will Participate.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The parliament of labor which has been called by the Civic federation to meet in Chicago November 13 promises to be a most notable gathering. Replies to the circular letter of invitation have been received from a great many men of prominence as thinkers on economic subjects, or as employers or leaders of labor. There is a striking consensus of opinion in favor of making the conference as practical as possible. The suggestion comes from all sides that the employers of labor and the representatives of labor, as the ones best knowing the actual conditions to be met, should be brought to the front in such a discussion.

The plan of the parliament is modeled on that of the parliament of religion, so successful last year. There is to be nothing in the nature of controversy. Each speaker is to present his own views, not to antagonize or controvert those of others. There is to be the utmost catholicity of tolerance, and every speaker is expected to respect this tolerance. Differences of opinion are not to be allowed to appear as hostilities of thought. Into this parliament is to be poured the result of the thought and investigation of the individual thinkers and investigators of the country. It will form, as it were, a comparative exhibit of all that has been accomplished along the lines of the prevention and settle-

THE DISPENSARY ACT.

South Carolina Supreme Court Says It Is Constitutional.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 10.—The dispensary act of 1893 was declared to be constitutional Monday by Justices Gray and Pope of the supreme court, Chief Justice McIver dissenting. The case upon which the decision was rendered is known as the "Aiken case," which originated in the town council of Aiken attempting to fine the local dispensers for selling liquor without license. The local dispenser applied to Circuit Judge Aldrich for an injunction restraining the town council of Aiken from fining him. Judge Aldrich on a technicality granted the injunction against the town council of Aiken, but held that the act of 1893 was null and void, as the supreme court of the state had already so declared an act passed in 1893 almost identical in wording and identical in effect with the act of 1893. An appeal was taken to the supreme court from that ruling of Judge Aldrich.

The question as presented to the supreme court involved principally two questions—the decision of the lower court and the constitutionality of the act of 1893. Since the rendering of the decision declaring the act of 1893 unconstitutional the complexion of the supreme court has been changed. Justice McGowan has been retired and Mr. Eugene B. Gary, formerly lieutenant governor under Gov. Tillman, has taken his place.

Justice Gary was known to be favorable to the dispensary law when he was elected to succeed Justice McGowan. Immediately upon his taking his seat on the bench Gov. Tillman re-opened the dispensary throughout the state. He had closed them immediately upon the rendering of the adverse decision on the act of 1893.

MORE TROOPS NEEDED.

Recommendations Made in Maj. Gen. Schofield's Annual Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The annual report of the major general commanding the army discusses widely the use of the military forces of the government in maintaining the federal laws against domestic resistance, and the necessity of coast fortifications for defense against foreign attack. A synopsis follows:

Referring to national dangers, Gen. Schofield alludes to the recent employment of the army in suppressing domestic violence and to the necessity of concentrating at Chicago, for that purpose, of nearly all of the forces that could be made available from all parts of the country, while on the Pacific coast the navy department placed at the disposal of the department commander the naval and marine forces at the Mare island navy yard. The prompt suppression of the insurrection and the enforcement of government authority everywhere without unnecessary loss of life, was by these means, a result which would have been impossible except for the judicious disposition of the troops under officers faithful to the national interests and having profound respect for civil authority and the laws of the land. "The people of the United States," says Gen. Schofield, "may well be proud of their little army, so thoroughly devoted to the public interests."

After devoting some attention to the circumstances under which the military forces of the United States may be lawfully employed in connection with domestic disorders and the manner in which the troops may lawfully act in the suppression of such disorders, the general says:

"It would seem unnecessary to point out the fact that any force like the militia of a state or the police of a city, acting primarily under another authority, though highly efficient in their appropriate service, cannot be made a reliable instrument for the prompt and effective execution of the laws of the United States."

"The country is now for the first time squarely confronted with the necessity of making adequate provision, not only for defense against any possible foreign aggression, but also for defense against domestic violence in the form of forcible resistance to the laws of the United States. A just estimate of these means of defense requires consideration of the vast extent of the United States and the great amount of property widely dispersed throughout this territory, either belonging to the United States or in such condition as to be under the protection of the national government. When these facts are duly considered it becomes manifest that the present strength of the army is not adequate to the performance of the service which may at any time be required."

"It is certainly manifest that the present condition of the country, with a population of near 70,000,000, under the danger of disorder now known to exist, cannot be met by the same force that was deemed adequate twenty-five years ago, when the population of the country was less than half its present amount, and domestic violence was not apprehended."

It is also worthy of remark that more than once in the last summer an infuriated mob in a single city was twice as formidable in numbers and capable of doing vastly greater injury to life and property than the most formidable combination of Indian warriors that ever confronted the army in this country. In other words, the army has recently been required to deal with an enemy more numerous and dangerous to the country than any savage enemy which it has heretofore been called upon to meet.

"The effective strength of the army should be considerably increased. This can be done at a very small comparative increase in cost. The present regimental organizations need not be largely increased. Two additional regiments of artillery for the necessary coast defense; two additional regiments of cavalry to patrol the long lines of railroad under government protection, and the present twenty-five regiments of infantry converted into three battalion organizations, would, it is believed, be a just, conservative estimate of what is now actually needed. For this existing number of commissioned officers is nearly sufficient. But a considerable permanent increase in the enlisted strength of the army should be made and a still further increase authorized to be made by the president, when in his judgment an emergency requiring it may reasonably be foreseen."

"It is not a good military system in which the executive has no authority whatever to increase the effective strength of the army in time of need, but must await the slow process of legislation for that purpose."

"In respect to the military necessities which may possibly arise out of a conflict with foreign powers it has for many years seemed impossible to impress upon the people of the United States in general the view entertained by all thoughtful military students. However humble it is nevertheless a simple duty to point to the great military lesson which is now being taught to the entire world. The most populous and one of the most wealthy of all the nations of the earth is subjected to the extreme humiliation and disgrace, to result possibly in the overthrow of a dynasty, at the hands of a little nation of one-tenth its population and about one-tenth its territorial area. And why is this? It is not because that great people are lacking in talent or general education or courage, but because they have failed to develop their military strength or resources. The relation of the United States to the great military powers of Europe now exhibits a far greater disparity in respect to preparations for war than that which has existed between China and Japan. Will the people of the United States and their representatives have the modesty to appreciate and the wisdom to profit by this lesson?"

Gen. Schofield recommends the increase of the supply of modern arms for regular troops and organized militia, and appropriations for heavy armament for sea-coast defense and provision for additional cavalry for service in the territories traversed by the railroads for transportation of government troops and carrying the mails. He commends the work of the regular military establishments and approves the recent changes of law regarding terms of enlistment in the army.

BEATEN BY ROBERT J.

Joe Patchen Easily Defeated by the Great Paucer—Last Heat in 2:03 1-2.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 13.—The largest crowd that ever gathered at a similar event in the northwest witnessed the race between the two great pacers, Robert J. and Joe Patchen, at the interstate fair Thursday. Fully 25,000 people were on the grounds. The contest was in a certain sense a disappointment to the big crowd, as Robert J. won all three heats so easily that the result was a foregone conclusion before the second heat was half over. The time for the first two heats was 2:06; that of the third heat, 2:03 1/2. Robert J. will go against his own record of 2:01 1/2 Saturday.

PROGRESS IS SLOW.

E. G. Dun on the Situation in Trade Circles—Not Very Encouraging.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—E. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

"Business is still waiting for the development of retail trade. There is a little better demand in some industries, but not so good in others. Wholesale dealers in nearly all branches are halting because business does not yet show distinctly what it is to be. Lower prices for the great farm staples and lower wages in some establishments, hinder purchases for consumption, while political interest and uncertainty also have some retarding influence. Meanwhile large imports and small exports of merchandise, with inadequate employment for money here, are raising the rates of foreign exchange so that possibilities of gold exports somewhat affect the stock market. The halting attitude for the moment is disturbing to those who have looked for continued gain, though rightly considered it is the natural consequence of conditions which were to be expected at this season."

"The government crop reports are not greatly trusted and yet have an influence and actually exaggerate the tendency toward lower prices because they are supposed to report all the crops too low. Men calmly reckon that if the government report indicates over 400,000,000 bushels of wheat the crop must be over 500,000,000 bushels and the price is slightly lower. Corn has been stronger, for receipts are hardly a quarter and exports barely an eighth of last year, and the question is whether the actual yield, if above the government estimate, may not prove lower than has been supposed."

"The iron industry records larger production in September than in any other month this year, but as prices are gradually weakening because of insufficient demand for finished products, some works are preparing to close or shorten time."

"The woolen mills still have numerous belated orders for fall goods, but the demand for spring does not increase, though in nearly all the lower priced products domestic makers appear able to command most of the business that exists."

"Failures for the week ending October 4 show liabilities of $1,714,276, of which $805,585 are of manufacturing and $892,391 of trading concerns. There have been 231 in the United States, against 339 last year, and 63 in Canada, against 42 last year."

BLOWN DOWN.

Eight Persons Killed and Sixteen Injured in Falling Building.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—While the storm which has raged here for twenty-four hours was at its height just before 4 o'clock Wednesday morning a new eight-story building at 74 Monroe street collapsed, bearing down with it the house at 73 Monroe street and the rear extension of the building on the other side, 76. Both places were filled with sleeping tenants, who were buried under the tremendous mass of ruins. The crash of the falling walls aroused the neighbors, who, scantily clad, began the work of rescue, which was continued well into the day by police and firemen. They mined far under the bricks and beams and mortar and from the ruins they took the dead and injured.

As a result of this horrible catastrophe eight persons are known to be dead, one is missing and sixteen others are more or less seriously injured. There have been many complaints that the structure was a weak and flimsy affair.

Mr. Aaronowitz, who was the owner of the new building at 74 Monroe street, was arrested during the afternoon and arraigned before Justice Hogan in Essex Market police court. In spite of the fact that Aaronowitz was charged with homicide, Justice Hogan discharged him. He, however, issued subpoenas for Aaronowitz and David Molski, the contractor who put up the building, to appear before him this afternoon and explain what their responsibility, if any, was for the disaster.

WORK OF LIFE SAVERS.

Their Record During the Late Storms Highly Creditable.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The record made by the life-saving service during the recent storm is most creditable, there having been not a single loss of life where the wrecks took place within the range of life-saving stations. The following is a list of the wrecks and the number of persons saved from each by the life-savers as far as reported:

Norwegian bark Ogr, wrecked near Cape Fear, N. C., crew of eleven all saved.
Schooner Lorana Reed, wrecked near Ocean City, N. J., crew of three all saved.
Schooner Maria Louisa, wrecked at Highlands, N. J., crew of ten all saved.
Schooner Leonessa, wrecked near Narragansett pier, crew of five all saved.
Two boats wrecked near Narragansett pier, crew of five saved.
Schooner Lauracy, wrecked near Cape Elizabeth, Me., crew of six saved.
Schooner Rosa and Adria, wrecked near Cape Elizabeth, Me., crew of six saved.
Steamer Columbia, perilous position near Fairport, O., crew of seven taken off in lifeboat at 10 o'clock at night.
Schooner John Wesley, waterlogged off Saginaw bay, crew of seven saved.
Three schooners, names unknown, off Jerry's point, vessels and crew of eighteen saved.
Total wrecks reported, 13; lives saved, 78; lives lost, none. Nearly all the rescues were effected at night.

SWAMP LAND BURNING.

Gigantic Peat Bog Near Hornick, Ia., Being Slowly Consumed by Fire.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 15.—Near the little town of Hornick, 20 miles from this city, the ground is burning and an area of 320 acres is covered from 6 inches to as many feet with ashes. Five years ago this land was the bed of a swamp, but has since been drained and part of it has been under cultivation, while the balance has been reserved for hay land. The fire was first discovered in June and heavy rains since have failed to extinguish it. At times it appears to have gone out, but by prodding with pitchforks it is found to be burning beneath the surface at red heat. At other times it gives forth great clouds of smoke. An area containing about 2,000 acres is threatened.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Revelation Regarding the Future of Arid Lands in the West.

The portions of the west which years ago were considered desert land, incapable of any utility to man, have grown less and less in extent under the patient, intelligent skill of the farmer, until to-day waving green and evident prosperity reign where once the scorching sand proclaimed only a dreary waste. In western Kansas, southwestern Nebraska and the Cherokee Strip, as well as Colorado, New Mexico and further west, though by no means a desert waste, the land is still menaced and harassed by protracted droughts each summer which scorch and burn vegetation and cause the farmer to despair of eking out a bare existence. To the relief of this existing condition of affairs intelligent thought and skill have come, not in the shape of revolutionizing the natural conditions but in successful adaptation to those conditions. Where heretofore the farmer has been obliged to struggle along with the discouragement of seeing his crops in part burn up, he is now promised success and prosperity. The conditions which mean failure to the raising of the customary crops proclaim life and maturity to the plum, prune and tart cherries, for these can be grown on plains without irrigation water, simply by intense cultivation, and these, it would seem, will be the future crops of the sections named.

On this point the president of the leading Nursery company of Missouri says:

"After having observed the west for some years and noticing the fruit grown, not only on a commercial scale, but trees here and there, I am convinced that there is a great future for western Kansas, southwest Nebraska and the Cherokee Strip, as well as Colorado, New Mexico and further west, in the growing of the stone fruits, chiefly plums, prunes and cherries: of the latter such varieties as Montana, Suda Hardy, Ostheimer, etc., the Lombard plum, the gages, prunes, etc. Some of the advantages are, favorable climate, a soil wonderfully rich, fifteen hundred miles nearer the market than the Pacific coast, cheap land, cheap rates, cheap labor, and the greatest advantage of all, in shipping green fruit, is that it may be allowed to come to maturity instead of picking green as they do on the coast; this fruit will for the same reason sell one-third higher on the Chicago markets, as Colorado peaches for the same reason sell one-third higher on the Denver markets than California sorts.

"The plum, prune and cherry need little water comparatively; it is too much rain that makes the growth of these finer sorts hazardous and uncertain in the east. The country named belongs to the arid region. Sufficient rain falls there during the early spring to insure crops, and the one thing to do is to plant on a commercial scale. Success will follow. Half-way work and neglect will not insure success there nor elsewhere. What has been done on the plains of Colorado can be done in western Kansas.

"The apple and pear may also be grown in the same belt if enough work is done, but not so successfully, for the reason more water is required than for stone fruits which come to perfection in dry seasons. This year the plums and prunes throughout Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas, in the rain belts, are coming to maturity. If there had been the usual summer rains the fruit would have rotted more or less, unless sprayed. These fruits must have a dry climate.

"Struggling farmers of western Kansas, who are trying to grow corn burnt out with the usual annual drought, should know and realize the possibilities in the culture of these fruits. If they get a crop of corn it may net them ten dollars per acre; the stone fruit will net them several hundred dollars per acre, and a ten-acre orchard worth more than a quarter section devoted to general farming. Think of it; try it. But start right, cultivate right, and be sure and plant the best trees, the best sorts. The majority of the failures are made from planting wrong sorts, a mistake that ought to be avoided. The annual drought that burns out the corn, is just the weather needed for maturing and insuring good crops of plums and prunes, especially for curing the prunes. Some of our friends in these very regions may be surprised to know that some of the finest fruit lands of the Pacific coast, only a few years ago, were considered a barren desert."

A Warning from the Past.

"And did you have a love affair once, auntie?"

The pale face of the spinster aunt flushed, her eyes filled with tears. "Yes, dear," she answered. "I loved a noble, handsome young man, and he loved me; but we were parted by a cruel falsehood."

The young girl bent forward, listening eagerly.

"Yes," resumed the old maiden aunt in a tremulous voice; "we were parted by a cruel lie. A false friend, a girl who wished him for herself, basely told him I was studying elocution."

That night a maiden's golden tresses were put up in curl papers torn from the leaves of a volume entitled: "Twenty Standard Recitations." A young girl nowadays does not need to have a house fall on her.—Puck.

THE BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

This magnificent structure has just been completed at a cost of something like $2,500,000. Though now second in size, it is still first in rank among the libraries of America. It was established in 1822, though projected in 1841. The library now comprises over 600,000 volumes. Over a million books are taken out every year for home circulation, and over 700,000 periodicals are read in the reading rooms. The new library was begun in 1893. The style of the new edifice is the Roman, and the St. Genevieve, the great library of Paris, was taken as the type. The edifice expresses in its exterior the organic character of the structure as formed by its internal composition and arrangement, as well as its purpose as a great library. The entire building has room for at least 2,000,000 volumes.

ment of labor troubles and labor disturbances. It will be a collation of the work of many men striving for the same end by different means.

Among others who are expected to discuss various topics are the following:

Prof. E. A. E. Gould, of Johns Hopkins university; A. H. Walcott, of the Massachusetts board of arbitration; D. J. Ryan, of the Ohio board of arbitration; Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor; Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell, of New York; Archbishop Ireland, Felix Adler, Washington Gladden, Gov. Peck, Aldace F. Walker, Marvin Huggitt, P. M. Arthur, P. P. Sargent, Congressman Springer, McGann and Tawney, Chauncey M. Depew, T. V. Powderly and Samuel Gompers.

A MINE DISASTER.

Five Killed and Much Damage Done by a Boiler Explosion.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 13.—Five men were killed, two were fatally injured and several others painfully burned by a disastrous boiler explosion at the Henry Clay colliery at Thursday. The entire steam-supplying plant of the mine, consisting of thirty-six boilers, was totally demolished, and in addition to the monetary loss, which will aggregate $30,000, the Henry Clay, Big Mountain, Sterling and Peerless collieries will be unable to resume operations for at least a month. The explosion is the worst of its kind that has ever occurred in this region, and its cause is a mystery.

WONDERFUL SHOOTING.

Phenomenal Performance by Elliott and Carver—Elliott's World Record.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 15.—Never in the history of pigeon shooting have the lovers of the sport been treated to so wonderful a contest as was given by J. A. R. Elliott and Dr. W. F. Carver at Exposition park Friday. Mr. Elliott won by the remarkable score of 100 out of a possible 100. Dr. Carver got 99. Mr. Elliott has probably established a record with 50-yard boundaries that will never be equaled. The only bird lost out of the 200 was Dr. Carver's fourth, a black straight-away driver. Even this one, which decided the match, fell dead just as it reached the fence.

The acts of 1892 and 1893 are identical in purpose and effect and only differ in title and minor provisions.

Justice Gary writes the decision of the court in the Aiken case. The court decides that the former decision was not the proper one; that the dispensary law is not unconstitutional, and that it is a proper exercise of the police power of the state in controlling the liquor traffic.

BURGLARS' BLOODY WORK.

A Wife and Daughter Found Murdered in Their Home.

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 11.—Mrs. J. C. L. Miller and her 10-year-old daughter, wife and daughter of a wealthy farmer living 20 miles east of Quincy and 2 miles from the village of Liberty, were brutally murdered Tuesday night. There is no clue to the perpetrators, but the bloody work is supposed to have been done by burglars. Sheriff Vancil, of this county, upon learning of the crime sent half a dozen deputies to the scene of the murder and telegraphed Gov. Altgeld, asking him to offer the usual reward. He also telegraphed to Sheriff Jones, of Lewis county, Mo., the owner of a pack of bloodhounds, and Wednesday night Sheriff Jones and three ferocious hounds arrived in Quincy and left immediately for Liberty. There is no railroad telegraph or telephone there, and all the news is brought in by courier. Mrs. Miller was 35 years old and a beautiful woman.

Sugar Men Beaten.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Judge McComas, of the district supreme court, has denied the application of the Miles Sugar Manufacturing company of Louisiana for a mandamus to compel Secretary Carlisle to appoint inspectors to ascertain the sugar production of the company. The object of the suit, it is understood, was to test the legality of the recent repeal of the sugar bounty provision of the McKinley law and also to lay the foundation for an appeal to congress for payment of bounty for the current year.

A ROPE ENDS IT.

A Desperado's Career Brought to an Abrupt Close.

While Under Bonds for Murder He Wantonly Kills the Sheriff of Lee County, Ky., at Beattyville, and Is Lynched.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 15.—Oscar Morton was lynched at Beattyville Sunday morning. The particulars as related by an eye witness are as follows: Morton, who was a desperate young fellow about 23 years old, killed a man named Wilson in Breathitt county several months ago. He was out on bail and came to Beattyville Saturday, where he drank considerable liquor. He did a good deal of talking about having killed one man and said he intended to kill another before he left town. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he concluded he would go to the fair which was being held at Beattyville. He had no ticket and the gatekeeper refused to let him in. This made him very angry and he began talking loud, threatening to kill the keeper, when Sheriff William Simms stepped up and asked him to be quiet.

Without a word of warning Morton drew a big revolver with each hand and began firing at the sheriff. The first shot struck him in the heart. One went through his arm and the third lodged in his abdomen. The officer fell to the ground a corpse. At this juncture Jailer Cort Jones rushed up with drawn pistol and demanded the surrender of the murderer. Instead of surrendering he tried to shoot the jailer, but his pistol snapped twice and the jailer began shooting at him, one shot taking effect in the jaw, one in the side and one in the leg. By this time several persons had come to the jailer's assistance, and Morton was overpowered and taken to jail. The body of the murdered man was taken to his home and prepared for burial.

During the remainder of the evening threats of lynching were freely made, and when night came nearly every able-bodied man in town had decided to assist in avenging the murder of the sheriff. The news having spread to the surrounding country, a score or more of the friends of the dead man came into town to assist in the taking off of Morton.

A little after midnight the mob gathered at a point not far from the jail, and after a quiet consultation the crowd, numbering about 150 persons, marched to the prison. The best of order was maintained. Not a loud word was spoken nor a firearm discharged. Arriving at the jail the avengers were met with a peremptory refusal on the part of the jailer to give up the keys, but he was quickly overpowered and the keys were taken away from him.

The doors were unlocked and Morton was told to come forth. He did not seem to be alarmed, but went with his captors without saying a word or uttering protests. He was taken to a bridge which spans a little creek not far from the jail and a rope was placed around his neck. The spokesman of the party asked him if he wished to pray and he said that he did. He knelt down and in a perfectly clear voice prayed to God to forgive him for the sins he had committed. The prayer was very brief and when he arose the spokesman asked him why he had killed Sheriff Simms. He replied that he had no reason to give for his murderous act and repeated that he hoped God would forgive him for his sin.

He was then taken out on the bridge, the rope tied to the end of the beam and the murderer of the sheriff was quickly launched into eternity. No shots were fired into his body and it was left for the rope alone to do its duty.

LOST IN THE HURRICANE.

Four Vessels Wrecked and Eleven Persons Perish Off San Domingo.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The hurricane that passed over the island of San Domingo on the night of September 21 did considerable damage, especially at the capital. Many houses were unroofed and the streets and cellars were flooded. The poor suffered greatly. The surrounding sugar estates were much injured by the storm, particularly the plantations La Fe and Francia. The former was damaged to the amount of $25,000. Not a single sugar estate escaped. Several small coasting vessels suffered, four being lost. On one vessel bound from San Domingo to Sanchez eleven persons lost their lives, including a German family of five, mother and four children.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

A Woman and Two Girls Killed at Elmira, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Dorothy, aged 11, and Emily, aged 5, daughters of John N. Scatchard, president of the Bank of Buffalo and republican state committeeman from the Thirty-third district, and Miss Emily B. S. Woods, aged 30, sister-in-law of Mr. Scatchard, were struck and killed Sunday by a freight engine on the New York Central Belt line at the Parkside crossing. The side curtains of the carriage were up, and it is probable that Miss Woods, who was an expert horsewoman, did not see or hear the approach of the train.

WOMAN CONFESSES MURDER.

Wife of Clarence Robinson Says She Killed Montgomery Gibbs.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 15.—A woman 19 years old, who represents herself to be the wife of Clarence Robinson, a burglar in the county jail awaiting sentence, told the detectives a few days ago she knew who committed the mysterious Montgomery Gibbs murder in Buffalo. The Buffalo police were notified and on Saturday Deputy Superintendent Cusick arrived. Mrs. Robinson was produced, but declined to talk until they threatened to prosecute her husband for the murder when she became much agitated and declared she killed Gibbs herself. Further than this she refused to talk until she was taken to Buffalo. Robinson and the woman claim to be variety theatrical people out of work and confess there were in Buffalo when the murder was committed last April.

The motive of the crime was robbery. Robinson and his wife had been driven to desperation by circumstances, and they decided to patrol a lonely, poorly-lighted block on Delaware avenue, in the most fashionable neighborhood, and hold up the first well-dressed man who came along. Montgomery Gibbs happened to be the man. There was a low hedge fence near the spot where he was shot, which was the next door to the home of a man who had long been under suspicion for the crime, but who established an alibi. Gibbs probably allowed the couple to approach close to him. If he had any suspicions they were probably allayed by the fact that the man was accompanied by a woman. He made a strike at the robber when asked for his valuables, and the two men grappled with each other. The woman, who was dressed in men's clothing, then took a hand, and forcing herself between the men she placed her revolver to Gibbs' head and pulled the trigger. He fell without a groan and must have died instantly, the shot fired by the woman being the fatal one. Husband and wife then stooped over their victim and began to relieve the dead man of his valuables. At that moment they heard the sounds of hurrying footsteps and Robinson and his wife dashed away and across the street. Still with the idea of robbery in their minds they did not leave the immediate scene of the murder. Making a detour of a block they came back to the opposite side of the street on which Gibbs' body lay. As they came opposite they saw a man leaning over the body, and comprehending that robbery was now out of the question and fearing detection they returned to their rooms. Soon after the murder was committed they left Buffalo and came to Cleveland, where they resumed their nightly prowling till arrested for committing a burglary.

Bert Snyder, an inmate of the county jail, gives the above account as the details of a story told him by Robinson in a burst of confidence. Robinson will be more closely questioned in an effort to make him confess the crime. Mrs. Robinson was taken to Buffalo and officers are on their way here after her husband.

ATTACKED BY CHINESE REBELS.

Two Mandarins Killed and Government Buildings Stormed.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A dispatch from Shanghai dated Sunday confirms the report that rebellion has broken out 100 miles from Hankow. The rebels were fairly armed and very reckless. They attacked the government buildings, which were feebly defended by loyal troops. The latter were defeated, many of them were killed and others joined the rebels. Two mandarins were killed. The province is almost denuded of troops and the rebels are daily gathering strength. It is expected that they will advance on Woo-Chang, province of Hoo-Pee, of which Hankow is the capital. The garrison at Woo-Chang has gone to the coast, and the place is therefore practically defenseless.

OYSTER SUPPLY DECREASES.

Maryland's Crop Has Fallen Off Nearly a Half in Fourteen Years.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 15.—The oyster dredging season on the Chesapeake bay opens this week. The supply has fallen off nearly one-half in fourteen years. What was one of the largest industrial interests in the state has declined, for want of a system of cultivation, like that in New England, which has proved so successful. In 1880 the Chesapeake bay was supplying 17,000,000 of the 27,000,000 bushels of oysters consumed in one year by the people of the United States. Now it does not furnish 10,000,000 bushels. The natural beds in some places have been scraped clean.

A VETERAN'S FATE.

Murdered and Robbed of His Pension Money at Alton, Ill.

ALTON, Ill., Oct. 15.—Harrison W. Harris, aged 58 years, was murdered and robbed early Sunday morning. He was last seen in Dawson's saloon Saturday night about 11 o'clock in company with Paul Lang. Harris' body was found back of Dawson's saloon and he had evidently been struck in the head with some blunt instrument. He drew his pension money Saturday and had between $50 and $60 on his person before he was murdered. Lang was arrested on suspicion, but after the inquest he was released.

A CARELESS ENGINEER.

Causes a Smash-Up in Which Eighteen Persons Are Hurt.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—Engineer Simpson of the East Louisiana railroad is responsible for a frightful accident that occurred Saturday morning at the crossing of the Louisville & Nashville and the Northeastern roads about 2 miles from where the Louisville & Nashville road leaves Elysian Fields street, an accident that will in all probability result in at least one fatality, while eighteen passengers on the Louisville & Nashville railroad received severe injuries.

The Louisville & Nashville "across the lake" excursion train, consisting of eight coaches, well loaded with pleasure seekers, a large proportion of them being women and children, pulled out on time. As the train approached the crossing of the Northeastern tracks Engineer Hanley brought the train to a stop and whistled, as the law requires. He then gave the signal to go ahead and proceeded across the track of the Northeastern.

The East Louisiana train, carrying excursionists to points in Saint Tammany parish, was booming along its tracks and with a shrill shriek from its whistle for "down brakes" it crashed into the sixth coach of the Louisville & Nashville train. The collision threw a crowded coach completely into the ditch, while the attacking engine was derailed and buried its nose several feet in the soft mud.

Passengers on the East Louisiana train were uninjured except for the shock of the collision. Those on the other train, however, were hurled into the ditch by the collision, and eighteen of them were badly hurt. The greatest indignation and anger prevailed among the witnesses of the collision against Engineer Simpson, who had ruthlessly disregarded the law requiring him to stop and had caused the frightful wreck. Simpson escaped to the swamp.

PLOTTERS CAPTURED.

A. R. U. Men Arrested for Causing a Fatal Wreck.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Four members of the American Railway union have been arrested by Mooney & Boland's railway detectives on warrants charging them with murder, train robbery and conspiracy to rob trains. The principal charge against them relates to the wrecking of train No. 6, the Atlantic express on the Chicago & Grand Trunk road at Battle Creek, Mich., July 16, when the fireman, Thomas W. Crowe, was killed and nearly a score of persons more or less seriously injured. The wreck was caused by the removal of a fishplate, thus loosening a rail and ditching the train. The men are Stanley J. Knowles, John Bodewig, George W. Johnson and Ernest Jewett.

All of these men had been in the employ of the Chicago & Grand Trunk road. The wreck occurred at 2 o'clock on the morning of July 16, when the great railroad strike was practically lost. The Grand Trunk trains had been tied up near Battle Creek for several days, but had resumed business a few days before. American Railway union meetings were being held every day in Battle Creek and incendiary speeches were the rule rather than the exception.

Knowles and Bodewig in their confessions say all the men interested were members of the American Railway union and that the plan of wrecking the train was made in and about the meetings held by the men in the midst of the excitement incident to the strike. The men claim they were induced to do the deed by the incendiary speeches made at the meetings.

LEFT NO TRACE.

Men Who Held Up a Train in Virginia Make Their Escape.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Not the shadow of a tangible clue to the identity of the men who accomplished the remarkable feat of train brigandage in Virginia Friday night has yet come to light. The little town of Quantico, which consists of half a dozen houses, almost isolated from civilization, was overrun with detectives Sunday—officers from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. There are almost as many theories afloat as there are detectives. It is now thought that the robbers secured at least $150,000. The rewards offered for the apprehension of the bandits are considered small in view of the importance of the case and the amount of money said to have been taken.

THREE DROWNED.

Lives Lost by the Capsizing of a Cathoot Off Coney Island.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 15.—About 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon a cathoot containing four men was struck by a squall off Coney Island and capsized. The accident was witnessed by a number of persons on shore, and John and Daniel Bailey, of Coney Island, immediately started to the rescue in a small boat. They succeeded in rescuing one of the party, who was clinging to the overturned boat, and brought him ashore in an unconscious condition. He was finally resuscitated. He said that his name was Walter Booth, and that his companions who were drowned were Frank McIntyre, James Ford and Frank Britton, all of New Brighton.
