WEDNESDAY'S CONCERT.

Such An Array of Good Talent Never Before Seen in Barrington.

Never in the history of Barrington has there been given a musical program that equalled the one given in the M. E. church Wednesday evening. The hour appointed for the commencement of the entertainment was 8 o'clock, but long before that hour every available seat in the spacious church edifice had been occupied.

The following program was rendered:

Chorus, "See Our Oars With Feathered Spray," (Stevenson)—BY CHOIR.

Organ Solo, "Largo," (Handel)—MR. ARTHUR H. MOLE.

Solo, "Anchored," (Watson)—MR. HARRY G. VERMILYA.

Piano Solo, "Twelfth Rhapsodie," (Liszt)—MISS CARRIE WOLCOTT.

Solo, "Sing, Sweet Bird," (Gantz)—MISS ANNA KRAHN.

Violin Solo, "The Village Swallows," (Strauss)—PROF. J. I. SEARS, ACCOMPANIED BY MISS MAUDE E. OTIS.

Tenor Solo, "The Holy City"—MR. JAMES H. WINSLOW.

Piano Solo, "Polka de Concert," (Bartlett)—MR. ARTHUR H. MOLE.

Duet, "Ship Ahoy!" (Millard)—MISSES ANNA KRAHN AND CARRIE E. KINGSLEY.

Selection on Banjo—MISS CARRIE WOLCOTT.

Tenor Solo—MR. JAS. H. WINSLOW.

Violin Solo, "Playful Rockets," (Freising)—PROF. J. I. SEARS.

Solo, "Dreams," (Strelitzki)—MISS ANNA KRAHN.

Organ and Piano Duet, "The Voodoo Queen," (Schleiffarth)—MR. CHAS. A. ALBERDING AND MISS OLGA WALLER.

Chorus, "Gloria" from "Twelfth Mass" (Mozart)—CHOIR.

The choir, which was composed of Messrs. F. E. Lines, Frank Plagge, J. C. Plagge, J. E. Heise, Fred Plagge, and Harry Vermilya; Misses Anna Krahn, Allie Myers, Carrie Kingsley and Minnie Gieske, and Mesdames D. H. Richardson and Ella Sherwood, under the able directorship of C. A. Alberding, with A. H. Mole as accompanist, sang the opening chorus in an extra fine manner, and received a most liberal applause, as did also Mr. Arthur H. Mole's organ solo, and Mr. Harry G. Vermilya's solo, "Anchored," but it was left to Miss Carrie Wolcott to arouse the enthusiasm of the audience to fever heat with her performance of "Twelfth Rhapsodie" on the piano.

Miss Anna Krahn, who was next on the program, fairly took the house by storm with her rendition of a solo entitled "Sing, Sweet Bird." Miss Krahn possesses a most remarkable soprano voice, which it is a pleasure to listen to.

Prof. J. I. Sears' violin solo, "The Village Swallows," was next, and was accompanied by Miss Maude Otis on the piano in a very able manner. The professor has no equals in this section as a musician, and he was heartily appreciated, as was shown by the ovation he received.

The tenor solo by Mr. Jas. H. Winslow and the piano solo by Mr. Arthur H. Mole were good. The gentlemen proved themselves artists of ability.

The duet, "Ship Ahoy!" by Misses Anna Krahn and Carrie Kingsley, was sung in a very fascinating manner, and the audience was not slow in showing its approbation.

Miss Carrie Wolcott had been put down on the program for banjo and guitar selections, but as the hour was getting late she only performed on the banjo, although the house kept calling for her for some time after she left the platform.

Mr. James H. Winslow then entertained the audience with another solo, after which Prof. Sears rendered "Playful Rockets" on the violin, and was followed by Miss Anna Krahn in a solo.

A piano and organ duet was next. To say that it was heartily appreciated is putting it mildly. Miss Olga Waller on the piano and Mr. Charles Alberding on the organ achieved laurels which they well merited and of which they may well feel proud.

Mozart's "Gloria," sang by the choir, closed the best musical entertainment ever given in Barrington, and well merited the liberal patronage given it.

CHAMPION PEDESTRIAN.

Emmett, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Riley, who live near Langenheim, went with a relative to the home of James McGraw, who lives near the Riley homestead, Saturday morning, and after spending the forenoon with Mr. McGraw, riding on the corn planter, he suddenly decided he had enough of riding and wanted to go home, and told Mr. McGraw so, who, thinking that he meant his (McGraw's) house which stood close by, lifted him off the planter and let him go. But instead of going to Mr. McGraw's house the young lad started for his own home. He missed his way and kept on walking, picking flowers along the way. He finally reached Barrington, a distance of 4½ miles distant, where he was met by Mike Donlea, who thought he knew the lad and questioned him but the boy thought it was nobody's business what his name was or where he was going, so he refused to make an answer. George Foreman then took the child to his home where everything was tried to learn the identity of the lad, but without success.

When Mr. McGraw reached his home and learned that the lad had not been there he suspected that probably he had started for his own home and immediately started for Mr. Riley's home to ascertain whether the boy had arrived safely, but on his way he learned that the boy had taken the road for Barrington and he soon located him at the home of George Foreman, where he was hospitably entertained by Mrs. Foreman and children.

SINGER-KRAHN.

Miss Minnie Singer was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Krahn Saturday evening at the home of her parents in North Chicago, the ceremony being strictly private. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for a few day's visit at St. Joseph, Michigan, and on Wednesday they made Barrington a call, returning to Chicago Thursday. It has not yet been decided by Mr. and Mrs. Krahn where they will make their permanent residence.

The groom is a most estimable young gentleman for whom all who know him have a good word. He holds a position as passenger brakeman on one of the Barrington trains.

We extend our best wishes to the happy young people.

LANGENHEIM.

Fishing is out of date now.

Mrs. J. S. Harnden is very sick.

Miss Madeline Platt is improving in health.

Ed. Peterson witnessed the ball game at Lake Zurich Sunday.

Mr. Hansen of Chicago made John Allen a visit.

Mrs. L. Platt transacted business at Barrington this week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Peterson spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Lavine.

Fred Sandman's horse took fright Wednesday and ran away, but was brought under control before any damage was done.

S. Epstine of Chicago and S. Lehnsky called on Louis Peterson and family Wednesday.

Miss Laura Peterson left Thursday for Chicago, where she will visit some time.

Horace Alverson and Luther Clifford of Lake Zurich called on friends in this vicinity Sunday evening.

J. D. Lamey & Co., Barrington, have slashed prices on lead and oil. They are selling Shipman's strictly pure White Lead at $5.40 per hundred pounds, and the best linseed oil at 45 cents per gallon.

Miss Cora Davlin, accompanied by Ray Kimberly, passed through Langenheim Sunday. TRILBY.

There is a state law with a severe penalty attached for the killing of song birds. It ought not to be necessary to have such a law as boys ought to know better, but in-as-much as they do not, the law became necessary and the boys should beware. Ignorance of the law does not make an excuse. $5.00 for each bird killed in addition to the costs is the penalty.

LAKE ZURICH

Patronize the new shoemaker.

Jack Forbes was at Elgin Tuesday.

George Baker has gone to Clark's.

The Zurich ball team, who are all crippled, lost a game to the Wauconda team Sunday.

Frank Roney shipped a car of hogs to the stock yards from this place Friday.

Louis Roder will soon take a trip to the west for pleasure and business combined.

A grand time is anticipated at the picnic and dance at Oak park Monday, May 25th.

Our butchers seem to have settled down to business and try to please their customers by selling good meats at a fair price.

Ben Serns is prepared to make or build anything you may want in the line of carpenter work. Give him a call. He excels in workmanship.

H. Lohman, agent, has furnished L. Klepper with a $155 vehicle. This shows that he is still underselling his competitors.

Lewis O. Brockway, candidate for the office of circuit clerk of Lake county, made us a pleasant call on Monday. Lewis gets our hearty support here.

Men are at work and the golfers will be in fine shape to play their many games to-morrow.

We were favored with a pleasant shower of rain Thursday morning, which was very much appreciated.

No game of baseball for the local nine this week, owing to the crippled condition of the players.

J. D. Lamey & Co., Barrington, have slashed prices on lead and oil. They are selling Shipman's strictly pure White Lead at $5.40 per hundred pounds, and the best linseed oil at 45 cents per gallon.

A rascal with a new graft is said to be doing country shop keepers out of small sums. He represents himself as a U. S. treasury detective on the hunt for spurious coin. He asks the storekeeper to show up his silver for inspection and pours an acid on the dollar that blackens them. The coin thus defaced he pockets at the same time warning the store keeper to keep quiet if he wishes to avoid trouble over having counterfeit money in his possession. Take him if he comes your way.

CASUALTIES.

A. H. Hoteling, of Whittemore, Iowa, has died from injuries received in a runaway accident.

The mining town of Sherrard, Mercer County, Ill., was visited by a storm which swept over that region Saturday night, resulting in loss of one life and damage to property aggregating $15,000.

Another cyclone visited north central Kansas Sunday afternoon. It started in the northern part of Clay county, seven or eight miles south of the little town of Palmer, and passed in a northeasterly direction through Riley county and into Marshall and Nemaha counties. The little hamlet of Bodaville, in Riley county, was entirely swept away. Several are reported killed there and many injured. At Spring Valley, some six miles south of Barnes, the storm demolished a church in which 150 people were worshipping. Many were injured.

Mrs. Calvin Ritter, of Macomb, Ill., was fatally burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove.

Mrs. Anna Devaney, 63 years old, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Elmer Atherton, 9 years old, were found dead in bed, suffocated by gas, in the house of the boy's father at Omaha, Neb. Mrs. Devaney had been on a visit to her daughter since Tuesday. She was unaccustomed to the use of gas and previous to Saturday night her daughter had always turned it off for her.

DEATH LIST IS LARGE

FORTY PEOPLE SAID TO HAVE PERISHED.

Cyclone on the Pawnee Reservation in Nebraska Causes Widespread Ruin and Heavy Casualties — Preston, Neb., Almost Completely Wrecked.

Forty people were killed on the Pawnee reservation near Humboldt, Neb., by the cyclone.

Four people are known to have been killed near Fall City by the same storm.

The trainmen arriving here bring reports of frightful results of the cyclone on the reservation adjoining this county. They assert that forty persons were killed by the cyclone on the reservation. No particulars are obtainable, as all communication by wire is down. Those killed are supposed to be Indians, as there are few whites on the reservation.

Falls City, Neb., special: This city and surrounding country is in mourning with dead and injured in many families and debris of the devastating elements covering everything. As far as can be learned at present, the killed are:

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD Son of J. W. Houcks.

MRS. SAM SAILOR.
MRS. SHOCK.
JOHN SMITH.

The injured are as follows:
William Brannon and wife.
J. M. Houcks, severely bruised.

Mrs. J. M. Houcks, bruised arm and shoulder.

Isaac R. Rhodes, very badly cut and injured internally.

Son and daughter of Mr. Rhodes, both severely bruised.

William Hinton.
Mrs. William Hinton, bodily injuries.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton, face badly bruised.

Tramp at Missouri Pacific depot, broken leg and lacerated knee.

William Smick, wounded on the left arm and ankle.

The farmhouses of H. E. Lemon, W. R. Rhodes, W. R. Kent, Dan Sailor, Jacob Lichty, Thomas Eakin and William Drugmiller were all blown down, and most of the accidents and deaths occurred at these places. It is estimated the damage will be $75,000 to the city and park. The damage in the rural districts is supposed to be much heavier.

The cyclone seems to have spent its force at Preston, Neb., where half of the buildings are reported wrecked, and several people reported injured, some of them, it is said, dangerously. Details are lacking, telegraph wires to that point being down.

SEVEN KILLED BY CYCLONE.

Only Five Houses Left Standing at Reserve, Kan.

Kansas City, Mo., special: News of the loss of life and destruction of property by Sunday's cyclone in Kansas is slow in coming in, caused by the crippled condition of telegraph wires. What has been received makes it plain that previous estimates of the damage done were none too high, and, in fact, may be added to when communication is completely reopened. Fully half a dozen towns were struck by the "twister" and the known dead is seven. The injured number fully thirty, many of whom, it is feared, are fatally hurt. Reserve, a village on the Missouri Pacific, in Brown County, seems to have felt the brunt of the storm. But five houses are said to have been left standing there.

Final Session of the A. P. A.

Washington special: The full list of new officers of the American Protective Association was completed at Monday's sessions of the supreme council. The additional officers are as follows: Secretary, W. J. Palmer, Butte, Mont.; treasurer, C. C. Campbell, Minneapolis; sergeant-at-arms, J. W. Ellis, South McAlistier, I. T.; guard, W. B. Howard, Omaha, Neb.; sentinel, T. S. Henson, Ohio; trustees, Allison Stocker, Denver, Colo.; George Hester, Cleveland, Ohio, and W. J. White, Richmond, Va. The afternoon session and probably the final meeting of the order was begun at 2 o'clock. The principal discussion was on the selection of a place and date of the next meeting.

Indian School Census Shows Decrease.

Indianapolis, Ind., special: The 1896 school census of Indiana, recently completed, makes the alarming showing of a decrease of 65,000 school children in the state since 1895. This may be verified by the records in the office of state superintendent of public instruction. The great falling off, it is explained, is not a real decrease. Under the new law it is impossible to pad the returns. Heretofore the apportionment was an inducement for the census taker to make big returns.

American Cyclist Defeated.

Paris, special: Morin, the celebrated French bicyclist beat John S. Johnson, the American, in both heats of the 2,000 meters' race at the Velodrome de la Seine Sunday.

THE NORTH ATLANTIC SQUADRON.

INDIANA. TEXAS. NEWARK. RALEIGH. CINCINNATI. MONTGOMERY. MASSACHUSETTS.
NEW YORK. AMPHITRITE. KATAHDIN. TEBRON. MAINE. COLUMBIA.

New York Special: With sudden haste the North Atlantic Squadron is changing its station from Hampton Roads to Tompkinsville, Staten Island. Each summer the squadron moves north unless there is some special call for it elsewhere, and this year Admiral Bunce applied to the navy department for permission to make Tompkinsville the regular summer headquarters of the fleet, and his request has been granted. This change of base will make the metropolis the headquarters of the most formidable steel squadron that Uncle Sam has ever assembled under the Stars and Stripes—greater, even, than that which gathered at the naval parade, as many powerful ships then in course of construction have since been commissioned and added to Admiral Bunce's command. At present the vessels belonging to the North Atlantic Squadron are the four battle-ships, the Indiana, the Massachusetts, the Maine and the Texas, the armored cruiser New York, the double-turreted monitors Amphitrite and Terror and the ram Katahdin. These are all armor-clad, and the unarmored ships in the fleet are the cruisers Columbia, Newark, Cincinnati, Raleigh and Montgomery. The Massachusetts will be commissioned in six weeks. The Columbia is undergoing repairs at Norfolk, in consequence of her recent collision with the Wyanoke at Newport News. The Montgomery and the Cincinnati reached port on Friday morning. The Katahdin is now at New London and the Amphitrite is stationed at Key West. The Newark, Terror and Indiana are at the Brooklyn navy yard and the Maine is at Norfolk. All the ships, however, it is expected, will soon report at New York harbor. Tompkinsville is the powder supply station of the navy, and in case of any emergency the ships will be quite as available there as at Hampton Roads.

NEWS OF ILLINOIS.

A RECORD OF THE DOINGS OF SEVEN DAYS.

Some Social, Religious, Political, Obituary, Matrimonial, Criminal and Miscellaneous Happenings That Have Taken Place Since Our Last Issue.

The Standard Oil Company has leased 1,200 acres of land near Hercher and will spend $10,000 in ascertaining the extent of the oil and gas supply.

Bloomington bicyclists are working hard to defeat the efforts of the city council to pass an ordinance requiring the use of lamps and bells and the discontinuance of racing on the public highways.

The excitement in the Herscher gas and oil fields still continues. There are representatives of several companies on the ground trying to secure leases. One of the representatives of the Standard Oil Company has been trying to obtain leases during the last week, but has failed. The engineers in charge claim that the surface and first boring indications are superior to those in the Indiana gas belt.

Judge Sample, in the McLean County Circuit Court, has issued an order in which he approves of the proposition of Receiver Young, of the Illinois Building and Loan Association, of Bloomington, to sell the remaining assets of the association to Cobe & McKinnon, of Boston, Mass. Recently this firm offered to pay 40 cents on the dollar for all the stock which they had not already bought at a private sale, with interest at 6 per cent. The transaction would involve the payment of about $300,000.

Twenty Decatur people, among them a minister of the gospel, were arrested for violating the city ordinance in not having lamps on their bicycles at night, and all were brought into court. All contest the validity of the ordinance, claiming that it is class legislation, the bicycle being recognized by the courts as a vehicle, other vehicles in the city not being required to wear lamps. There was a good trial. The justice decided that the ordinance was good. The cases will be taken to the circuit court, and higher if necessary.

A strange story of attempted double murder is reported from the lower end of Rock Island County. The statement is that George Hatton, Jr., seized his young sister and another young girl, a Miss Hayes, as they were riding in a road cart, near Drury's Landing, and threw them both into a slough, or bayou, making a most desperate and determined effort to drown them. The fiend had nearly succeeded when they were rescued by a brother of Miss Hayes, who appeared upon the scene and drove Hatton away. The latter fled across the Mississippi, and is thought to be hiding in Muscatine County, Ia.

Paxton special: A two days' session of the Ford County Women's Christian Temperance union closed by the discontinuance of the county organization and the election of Mrs. Emma Wagner of Sibley, Ill., secretary of the county union. The principal addresses were delivered by Mrs. W. P. Kuhl of Champaign, district president, who conducted the open parliament, and Mrs. Mary E. Metzgar of Moline, Ill. Miss Lucy Thornton of Deland, Ill., district superintendent of York, also delivered a most eloquent address regarding the Y work. The Rev. U. Z. Gilmer and the Rev. G. H. Wilson, both of this city, delivered short addresses on "The Best Method of Bible Study" and "The Higher Criticism" respectively.

The annual reunion of the Fifteenth Regiment, Illinois Volunteer Infantry, will probably be held this year in Chicago, instead of Belvidere, where it has been held for a number of years. Dissatisfaction with the rule of the Western Traffic Association, which requires a guaranteed attendance of 100 before reduced rates may be secured, is responsible for the proposed change in the place of meeting. Deputy United States Marshal Allen, secretary of the regimental association, had received about thirty replies to postal cards sent to members of the regiment, all but three of whom approved of the suggestion that the reunion should be held in Chicago next July during the national Democratic convention, when reduced rates will be general on the railroads.

The Christian church fight at Decatur, which subsided temporarily after Judge Vall refused an injunction restraining Hall from using the church building, has been reopened with added bitterness. The official board, at a meeting, decided that the congregation should move back to their old building and the tabernacle which was built a year ago should be leased or sold. They also named a committee to secure a new pastor for the congregation. Since the matter has been in the court Rev. Mr. Hall continued to hold services at the tabernacle, but the church won't pay him. Every Sunday two collections are taken up, one for the church and the other for Hall. Last Sunday 29 cents was given the church, while the preacher got $30 for his services.

The novel shooting match by wire between the Universities of California and Illinois is over and California won by six points, their score being 380 out of a possible 500. The men from the battalion of each school did the shooting, each man shooting fifty shots. The Illinois boys shot Saturday and the California cadets Monday.

Probably one of the most unique secret societies, considering the object for which it was formed, ever organized is in full running order in Arcola. It is confidentially known as the Anti-Negro, or Black Cap club. Its object is to put a stop to the colored people becoming residents of the city or permitting stragglers to remain any length of time within the limits. Arcola is now without a colored inhabitant.

The bids for the erection of the monument to Elijah P. Lovejoy, for which the state legislature at the last regular session appropriated $25,000, were opened in Alton last week by the Lovejoy Monument association. Proposals were received from two local and seven outside concerns, ranging from $41,167 to $24,990. The latter bid was from the Culver Stone company of Springfield, Ill., and will be accepted. The contract specifies that work is to begin at once.

W. M. Mitchell, the mail agent running between Rock Island and St. Louis, met with a peculiar accident. The agents always have a jug of artesian water for drinking purposes in their car. When at Rio the steam from the engine was turned into the jug to purify it, and on this occasion it was done with such force that the jug exploded. Several of the fragments struck Mr. Mitchell's face, inflicting severe gashes about the right eye, narrowly missing the optic.

The assessors of Fulton county have decided to assess first-class horses at $50 and second-class at $30 each; cattle and sheep at cash value May 1; hogs at 3 cents a pound; wheat at 50 cents, corn 20 and oats 15 cents, less cost of marketing. Building and loan stock will be assessed at actual cash value to individuals holding the stock and not to the companies, the same as was done last year. Of course dogs and bicycles come in for their share, and other property will be assessed at one-fourth its cash value.

A horse belonging to William Horner of Lacon was recently bitten by a dog supposed to have had the rabies, and the animal showed symptoms of some strange disease, biting and snapping viciously. The neighborhood was aroused about midnight by unearthly screaming in the barn. Mr. Horner took in the situation at once, realizing that the horse had hydrophobia, and barricaded the doors. The maddened animal jumped and thrashed about, every minute testing the strength of the structure in which it was confined. The door was cautiously opened and a shot fired, which ended the suffering of the brute. A terrible sight met the eyes of the crowd. The horse had literally disemboweled itself with its teeth.

Frederick David Ausley, of Chicago, and Miss Frances Donnell Bartlett, youngest daughter of P. S. Bartlett, of Elgin, were married in Elgin, recently. The bride is prominent in social circles and a brilliant ceremony had been expected, but owing to the serious illness of the bride the ceremony was performed at her bedside. The wedding was to have taken place at the Church of the Redeemer in Elgin, and extensive preparations had been made. Invitations had been issued, together with those for a reception to follow at the home of the bride's parents, when the prospective bride was taken seriously ill with typhoid fever, and the invitations were recalled. The contracting parties would not consent to a postponement, however, and in accordance with the bride's request, Rev. H. H. Morrill conducted the ceremony at her bedside in the presence of her immediate relatives.

Ottawa.—At its closing session the Illinois Homeopathic Medical association departed from the usual rule of opposing school of medicine and voted to appoint a committee, composed of Drs. Vincent, Kinyon, and Duncan, to seek a correction of defects in the medical laws of Illinois. This committee is authorized to consult and act with committees of other associations to influence the next legislature to not only correct errors and hardships now existing, but also to secure legislation for the removal of complications. The time of the association was taken up today with papers upon the eye by Dr. Hanchett, of Salt Lake City, and Dr. J. George, of the homeopathic section of the Cook county hospital. In the bureau of sanitary science and hygiene, papers were read by Dr. Hanchett, of Salt Lake City; Drs. Thompson and Weirich, of Chicago; Dunham, of Wenona, and Dr. Julia Holmes Smith, of Chicago. Drs. Frank C. Titzell, of Chicago, and Grant Heuston, of Joliet, were reported upon favorably by the board of censors and admitted to membership. After the appointment of chairmen of bureaus for 1897 it was voted to hold the following yearly meeting in Chicago next May.

DEATH IN THE WINDS.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE ATTENDS A CYCLONE IN TEXAS.

Fierce Storm Visits Sherman Texas—Entire Western Quarter of the Town Utterly Demolished—Terrible Loss of Life and Property.

More than 100 persons were killed by a cyclone which swept Texas late Friday afternoon. Sixty or more met death in Sherman and forty others are said to have been killed south of that town. The list of injured is equally large. Fifty houses were wrecked and the western part of the town was completely swept away.

The list of killed, as far as reported by the authorities, is as follows:

MRS. OTTO BALLINGER and TWO CHILDREN.

MRS. I. L. BURNS and TWO CHILDREN.

JOHN AMES and WIFE and TWO CHILDREN.

THE REV. J. S. SHEARER, MRS. LUKE MONTGOMERY and TWO CHILDREN.

WILLIAM HAMILTON, farmer, MRS. GEORGE ANDERSON and INFANT DAUGHTER.

MARY BELLE JENKINS, D. L. PIERCE and SON TOM, aged 14.

MRS. DAVE HERRING and TWO CHILDREN.

UNKNOWN WOMAN and TWO CHILDREN, about 4 and 6 years of age.

The list of colored persons killed so far as learned up to 10 p. m. is as follows:

MRS. NORA NICHOLSON and TWO CHILDREN.

and Lummie Burns are badly hurt; Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Brown, badly bruised; Ike Shearer, son of the Rev. Mr. Shearer, who was killed, is badly bruised; Mrs. J. B. King and two children, seriously injured; Phillip Nichols, received painful hurts about the head; Mrs. John Irvine and four children, all more or less injured; W. S. Bostwick, cut very seriously; Otto Ballinger, whose family were all killed, is badly hurt about the head; Hester and Nannie Nicholson, colored, of the family of which six were killed, are seriously and internally hurt; Dave Herring and Mrs. D. L. Pierce, who alone escaped death at their home, are perhaps fatally hurt; Mary Patrick, colored, and three children, all badly hurt internally; Mattie Johnson, colored, head hurt and injured internally, will not live until morning; John and Alice Newhouse, colored, and four children, badly hurt; Harriet Hendricks, colored, both legs broken; Miss Eva Pierce, daughter of D. L. Pierce, left leg and right arm broken; Mr. and Mrs. Wright Clark, painfully hurt.

CYCLONE STRIKES KANSAS.

Scores of Persons Dead, Dying or Seriously Hurt.

Reports which have been received at Kansas City indicate that the cyclone which passed over Marshall and Nemaha counties, Kansas, late Sunday evening swept over an unusually large territory, dealing death and destruction through the two counties.

A dispatch from Bern, Nemaha county, reports that Seneca, the county seat, was struck by a cyclone at 7 o'clock in the evening. One-third of the residence portion of the town was destroyed, five persons were killed, and fifteen were badly injured. The new courthouse, the schoolhouse, and the Catholic church are among the Ill., was visited by a storm which passed over this region Saturday night, resulting in loss of one life, and damage to property aggregating $15,000. Among the structures destroyed was a Congregational church. Morris Evans was taken out of the wreck dead. Deacon Williams was seriously hurt, and several other men were slightly injured. Many other buildings were damaged. Freytag's furniture store was wrecked. Evans was a coal miner, 65 years old, and leaves a widow and six children.

FAMILY OF FIVE KILLED.

Result of a Cyclone That Sweeps Marshall County, Ky.

Benton, Ky., special: A cyclone passed over the northwest corner of this county Sunday morning at about 1 o'clock. At Elva it tore down the house of Anderson Jones, and killed the entire family. The cyclone came out of Graves county via Symponia, where two stores were demolished, two churches, and one schoolhouse were torn down, besides barns, stables, fences, and everything else in its path. There was considerable damage in other parts of the county. The damage done at Symponia was severe, but no lives were lost.

No More Bodies Found in Texas.

Sherman, Tex., special: No more bodies have been found in the track of the tornado, although many thousands have followed it from one end to the other. There have been but two deaths at the hospitals in the last twenty-four hours—Miss Sophia Pierce and Mattie Lake, colored. Interment of the storm victims was made Sunday. Religious services were generally abandoned, the clergy and their respective congregations being busily engaged in the hospitals.

NAMES AND FACES OF MEN INTERESTED IN THE TRIAL OF THE COMPETITOR'S CREW IN HAVANA

LUCY BALLINGER and DAUGHTER.

CHARLEY COX, son of Eliza Cox.

Some of the wounded are: Jom Jenkins, wife and five children; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller and two children; Granville Jenkins, heavy siver of wood driven through the thigh; Mr. and Mrs. Halshell, both painfully bruised about the thighs, supposed to have been blown through a window; Eliza Cox, colored, hurt in the breast; Harriet Lake, colored, cut and bruised about the head; Ben Cephus, colored, his wife and son, Clarence, all have limbs broken, and are in a precarious condition; Lettie buildings wrecked. Five hundred of the citizens of Seneca are reported to be homeless. The property loss is estimated at $100,000.

The cyclone also swept the towns of Sabetha, Nemaha county, and Frankfort, Marshall county, and the reports indicate that many other smaller settlements have suffered.

TERRIFIC STORMS IN ILLINOIS.

One Death Results in a Wrecked Church at Sherrard.

Rock Island, Ill., special: The mining town of Sherrard, Mercer county, Dr. Fraker on Trial.

Richmond, Mo., special: The trial of Dr. George W. Fraker of Excelsior Springs for defrauding insurance companies out of $54,000 was begun in the Circuit Court of Bay County Monday afternoon. There are five indictments all alleging the same offense. One hundred witnesses, from various parts of the country, were in attendance. The defense claims to be sure of a speedy acquittal.

John Stone, ex-chief of police of Denver, Col., is dead.

Helping Slum People.

There is something fine and high and ennobling in the thought of helping slum people. To lift them to the plane of comfort and cleanliness, to provide table napkins and bathrooms for them, to train them to eat with their forks instead of their knives, to teach them good grammar, to train their ears to the sweet harmonies of the music of Wagner, and especially, to have them say "Vogner" instead of plain Wagner—what can be more alluring?

Yet there are obstacles in the way of realizing this kingdom of aestheticism on earth, obstacles that the church and college settlement people little count on when they begin the delightful and philanthropic work of elevating the masses. The worst obstacles is the masses themselves. They do not want to be elevated, at least many of them do not.

That lively philanthropist Edward Atkinson, who has certainly tried to help the masses with his wonderful Aladdin oven that cooks half a dozen things at once and keeps the house warm and gives a light to read by besides and costs so much that the masses cannot afford to buy it, this amiable Mr. Edward Atkinson has spent some time visiting the poorer classes in the sweatshop districts. In one boarding house in the dirtiest quarter of Boston he found a man "reclining on the steps in a comatose condition." Anybody not from Boston would have said he was just plain drunk. It will also be news to many people that any quarter of the town of Boston could be dirty. At any rate, though, the comatose boarder had dropped his savings bank book. An inspection of it showed that he had $400 deposited, plenty to live in a clean locality and be respectable, yet from deliberate choice he took the dirtiest part of Boston for his residence.

Some benevolent people who pitied the condition of the poor in being deprived of comfort built neat little cottages and provided each with a bathroom. The consequence was that one family occupying the cottages used the bathtub to pack the family pork in. They said that was the way they did in Canada. Another slum family found the bathtub the greatest possible convenience as an ash bin.

Such are some of the sad results of trying to elevate slum people. The only way seems to be to let the old slummers go their unclean and improvident gait and begin on their children. If caught young enough, these can be elevated. At the same time the stiffest possible sanitary laws, rigidly enforced, may reach their parents somewhat.

The most singular situation in French politics since the founding of the third republic has been presented during the recent winter. The constitution of the state declares that a cabinet shall resign when a vote of parliament is pronounced against it. The quarrels of a French cabinet have heretofore been with the lower house, the chamber of deputies, never until now with the senate. The house, being the larger and more influential, has always had its own way in deposing an objectionable ministry. This time, however, the tables were turned. The Bourgeois ministry was supported by a majority of the chamber of deputies. The senate was unalterably opposed to its policy and the senate meantime claimed the same right as the house to down a ministry opposed to it. The fact that the crisis has been generally regarded with a feeling bordering on indifference by the public shows that under republican government the excitable French people are learning nobly to keep their heads on and remain cool when tempests arise in the political teapot.

A foolish and antiquated custom still prevails in some parts of making jurors and witnesses kiss a Bible when taking oath to do the right thing in the matter in court. It is a relic of superstition as silly and barbarous as making a supposed murderer criminal pass through fire to show whether he was guilty or innocent. The Bible is a sacred book, but after one single Biblical volume has been used in a court for some 15 or 20 years the outside of it gets so grimy as to belie any claim to sacredness so far as it is concerned. There is no disease in the catalogue which a juror or witness might not get from kissing a book that had been previously kissed for a term of years by all sorts and conditions of people. The use of a Bible in this way is enough to destroy respect for it.

Rhodes and Chamberlain.

The two coming men in British politics are Joseph Chamberlain and Cecil J. Rhodes. Gladstone is off the stage of active work, Salisbury is being quietly edged off by Chamberlain, his secretary for the colonies. Dr. Albert Shaw calls attention in The Cosmopolitan Magazine to the fact that both Rhodes and Chamberlain are endeavoring to work out the future destiny of Great Britain, each in his own way.

Dr. Shaw is sure that Rhodes expects at some future time to be prime minister, the "chief administrator of a British empire thoroughly reorganized upon plans which he himself will have supplied." The Rhodes ideal is a British empire with home rule for all the parts, on a system resembling that of the different states of the American Union, all with equal rights, and England herself with the same rights, no more, no less, than Ireland or the South African states.

Chamberlain doubtless also expects to be prime minister, but the Chamberlain ideal is quite different. To the colonial secretary "the colonies are possessions to be exploited, but partaking in no sense of the sacredness of Britain's home soil." He regards the "colonies" chiefly as possessions for the mother state to get rich from. The clashing of these two powerful minds and their attempts each to model the British government upon the basis of his ideas will be the most striking feature of English politics in the years immediately to come. Which will gain the ascendancy?

Color Photography.

The discovery of how to successfully photograph in colors has been reached in a curious way by Dr. Selle, a German. He based his experiments on the dictum of Helmholtz that there were three primary colors—red, yellow and blue. Dr. Selle used peculiar shades of the primaries, crimson, pale yellow and blue green. The process is as follows: The operator takes first a gelatin film, colored with aniline the peculiar shade of crimson he uses. Then, cutting off all rays but the red, he photographs the picture in that light. Next he cuts off all rays but the yellow and photographs the object upon a yellow film. Finally the photograph is taken upon the blue green film under the blue green light. Then the three films are pasted together, and the result is the reproduction of the object perfect in its colors. Flowers have been photographed by this process with especial success.

By the utilization of this discovery poor persons will be able to fill their homes with beautiful pictures. The photographer will only need to group artistically flowers and any other objects in nature and reproduce them in all their vivid beauty of coloring. It seems even possible by this process to photograph clouds and the sky in their natural coloring.

By the year 1900 it is expected that the Transvaal diggings will yield annually $100,000,000 in gold. The mines have been and are being developed wholly by the foreigners, "uitlanders," the Boers having had no part therein. These foreigners now number 120,000, while the male population of the Transvaal is only 15,000. The foreigners own more than half the soil of the republic and pay nine-tenths of the taxes and yet have no share in the government, not even a vote. Naturally these find the situation very trying. If the Boers wish to preserve their republic, the only way is to admit the uitlanders to citizenship. This means the swallowing up of the Boers themselves as a distinctive nation. But they must submit to it or adopt the only alternative, which is to voluntarily become a dependency of some one of the strong powers of Europe. In that case England would undoubtedly fight for the protectorate she already claims over the Transvaal. In any case it is a losing game for the Boers. No nation can live to itself any more, not even Korea.

Murat Halstead, himself a champion among newspaper writers, never said a truer, stronger thing than this: "The strength of the correspondent is in the truth he tells."

OLD SETTLER GONE.

Last Friday Mr. Seth Hill, the oldest citizen of our village, and perhaps of the entire county, passed away at the advanced age of 96 years 8 months and 20 days.

He was born in Washington county, N. Y., Aug. 25, 1799 and died May 15, 1896.

They came West in 1844, locating in Kane county, Ill., and the following spring removed to this county which they made their home until death called them away.

The funeral services were held from the Baptist church, Rev. Dobbins officiating, after which the remains were interred in the Wauconda cemetery. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Cap. Anson's colts have taken to bucking with a vengeance.

HONOR ROLL.

The following is the honor roll at White's School for the month ending May 15th, 1896: Luella S. Hager, R. May Burkitt, Gertrude L. Hager, Floyd A. Burkitt, Irving P. Hollister, Vernon W. Hollister, Willie Gottschalk and Charlie Gottschalk.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to use each one in such way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to change it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family should be provided with. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

The training of the people of Milwaukee are getting would have come in very handy World's Fair year.

A CURE FOR MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM.

Mrs. R. L. Lamson, of Fairmount, Illinois, says: "My sister used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for muscular rheumatism and it effected a complete cure. I keep it in the house at all times and have always found it beneficial for aches and pains. It is the quickest cure for rheumatism, muscular pains and lameness I have seen." For sale by A. L. Waller, Druggist.

Any one desiring a convenient vest-pocket boom can learn something to his interest by addressing Matthew Quay.

HOW TO TREAT A WIFE.

(From the Pacific Health Journal.)

First get a wife; second be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, but do not therefore, carry to your home a cloudy or contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in chasing from her brow all clouds of gloom.—To this we would add always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is the best and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health. For sale by A. L. Waller, druggist.

Pretty low prices—but we find that is just what the public wants—the best at as low price as possible. Large sales and small profits is what we want, and our low figures, and first-class materials are certainly big inducements for the trade.

This spring, we bought 1,000 gallons of strictly pure Linseed Oil, and a large consignment of strictly pure White Lead when the market was at its lowest. We bought the stock to sell—and you can bet it is selling. That is what low prices will do every time.

If you are thinking of doing painting, you will find no better time than right now to buy your lead and oil.

We also have a complete stock of Hard Oils, Varnishes, Colors, Heath & Milligan Mixed Paints—to be short, there is nothing in the paint line but what we can furnish the trade.

RUTHVEN'S WARD

BY

CHAPTER VI.—(CONTINUED.)

The girl followed him into the tiny sitting room, which her presence seemed to light up like a sunbeam. She was very timid and shy with him, and her voice trembled as she tried to appear at ease.

"Did you have a comfortable journey here?" demanded Ruthven.

"Yes, thank you, Mr. Ruthven. It was rather warm in the train, but we kept the windows open."

"And you like coming—to London?"

"Yes, thank you."

"You must try and look on this as your home now, you know."

"Yes, thank you."

They had positively got no more out than this when Garrett bustled into the room.

"Well, Miss Margaret, hadn't you better come upstairs and take off your things? I'm sure you're tired."

The girl turned and prepared obediently to follow her. Ruthven called the housekeeper back.

"What room did you intend Miss O'Reilly to take her meals in, Garrett?"

"Why, didn't you tell me with your own lips that she was to take them in the back dining room?"

"But that will be very dull for her, won't it?"

"That's your lookout. I should say it would be."

"The rooms are so small and close with the folding doors shut. It seems a pity to divide them."

"What do you propose, then, Mr. James?"

"Well, don't you think she could dine with me and Mr. Hamilton?"

"That's as you like, sir. She's fit to do it, in my opinion."

"Oh, of course, only I thought it might be awkward. But, after all, she's a sort of adopted daughter of mine, isn't she, Garrett?"

"Just so, Mr. James, and I say the parlor is the fittest place for her."

"Let it be so then until—until she leaves us again. And her bed room, Garrett, is it nice?"

"It's as good as I can make it, sir; but I can't say it's over and above much."

"I must see it altered to-morrow. Go to the child now, and make her comfortable; and—and—I don't think I shall go out to the club this evening, Garrett. It's Miss O'Reilly's first day at home, and I should like to make her welcome; so get us a nice little dinner here; will you, please?"

"Very good, sir," replied Garrett, chuckling in her sleeve as she hurried upstairs after her charge.

She found Margaret in her own bedroom, gazing fixedly at the four-poster.

"This is not your room, Miss Margaret," she said; "you are to sleep in the next. It's rather small, but you won't mind that, I'm sure."

But the girl had not moved from her position.

"I remember it all now," she said presently, as she turned to the old woman and pointed to the bed. "How you bathed me in warm water, and put on me one of your own night-gowns, and placed me in that bed; and I couldn't believe it at first. It was all so wonderful and strange. Oh! how good you have been to me! How good he has been! How good everybody has been! What was I—what had I done that he should have picked me up and made what I am? Oh! how good he is! how very, very good!"

And Margaret, with the full tide of recollection flowing in upon her, flung herself on her knees by the bedside, and burst into a flood of tears.

Mrs. Garrett was scarcely less shocked at the occasion of the act than at the act herself. She thought the girl had forgotten all about those early days.

"What are you talking of, Miss Margaret? You must never allude to those times, my dear. You must forget them altogether."

"I will never forget them again, Mrs. Garrett. I will remember them all my life. I have been an ungrateful girl to forget them so long."

"Come, come! Mr. James will not be pleased to hear you speak like this. He has just told me you are his adopted daughter, and to be treated as such. So, take off your hat and smooth your hair, and go down and talk to him in the parlor, whilst I get dinner ready for you both."

When Margaret descended to the sitting room she looked still more winning than before, and Ruthven was considerably disconcerted by her raising the hand he extended to her lips. He was not at home in the society of young girls. The mixture of childish simplicity and timidity which she exhibited made him feel almost as shy as herself, and he seized the first reasonable opportunity to leave the room.

Margaret turned to the bookshelves and possessed herself of a volume of Ruthven's plays. She was deep in their perusal when the door was suddenly thrown open, and the bright, handsome face of Hamilton Shore appeared.

The boy and girl did not at first recognize each other. Both had grown out of knowledge, and changed still more than they had grown.

"I beg your pardon," commenced the young man, thinking he addressed a stranger. "Are you waiting to see my uncle?"

"No; I have seen him, I thank you. I am Margaret O'Reilly," she answered.

"Margaret O'Reilly!" he exclaimed. "not little Peg, surely?"

"Yes; I was Peg—but they call me Margaret now. But I don't remember you."

"Why, I am Hamilton Shore, who began to teach you to read. Don't you remember my natural history book, with the colored pictures of animals, which you said were so much like men and women, and Garrett made a row because I scribbled the names of some people I knew under them?"

Margaret clasped her hands to the delight of recollection, whilst the crimson color rushed to her fair face.

"Oh! I do—do, indeed! and you are the boy who was so kind to me? You gave me a four-penny bit the first day we met, and I have never spent it. I have it in my workbox now."

"Have you really? How jolly of you! And how you have grown—I never should have known you again; you are nearly as tall as I am, and you are so—"

"So what?"

"You won't be angry with me if I say it, will you?"

"How can I tell before you have said it?"

"Well, then, you are so very pretty. Has no one told you so before?"

"The girls used to say so," replied Margaret, blushing all over; "but then, they were fond of me, you know."

"Well, you are, and no mistake, awfully pretty; and such a lady, too; who ever would have believed it? And had you quite forgotten me?"

"I am afraid I had, but I don't forget you now."

"And uncle, too?"

"Oh, no! How could I forget him? I remembered his face directly I saw it. It looked as kind and good as ever."

"The would-be dramatists don't say he is kind when he sits upon their plays, nor the men at the Cannibal, I fancy, when one of his own had been sat upon. Have you seen his new piece, 'The Poisoned Flower'?"

"No; how should I?"

"Of course. What a fool I am. But you must see it. It is first-rate. The first night it was played the whole house rose to cheer him. I never saw such a sight."

"I have never been inside a theater."

"How nice! Then you've got it all before you. I envy your first sensations; mine happened so long ago that I have forgotten all about them."

At this moment Ruthven re-entered the room.

"Uncle!" exclaimed Hamilton, eagerly, "we must take Margaret to see 'The Poisoned Flower,' she has never been to a play in her life."

"All the better," grumbled Ruthven, "and the longer she keeps away from them the better."

He had already abandoned his design of putting his protegee upon the stage.

CHAPTER VII.

That evening was the pleasantest Margaret ever remembered to have spent. Both Ruthven and his nephew were so anxious to amuse and interest her, the younger man particularly so. He took all the conversation out of his uncle's mouth, while he rattled on to the girl of the wonderful things to be seen in London, and the delight he would have in showing them to her. Hamilton took so much upon himself, in fact, that Ruthven felt compelled at last to remind him that his time was not entirely his own, and that if it were, it was not the custom for young ladies to rush about London under the chaperonage of boys of nineteen. Young Shore looked rather crest-fallen at the rebuke, but his enthusiasm remained unabated.

"Then you'll take her, uncle, will you not?"

"Perhaps; if I have time."

"Don't you think she will enjoy it all immensely?"

"Doubtless. You enjoy your music halls and casinos, but they are the last places in the world I wish to see you visit."

"You are rather hard on pleasure, uncle."

"I am hard on wasted time, at a period of life when time is most precious. Yet, if Margaret likes to visit the theaters—"

"Oh! I should enjoy it above all things, Mr. Ruthven."

He looked at her sparkling, earnest eyes, and feared he should be able to deny her nothing.

"Then we will go sometimes, so long as late hours do not interfere with your health. Tell Mrs. Garrett to get you anything you may require for to-morrow night, and we will pay a visit to 'The Poisoned Flower.'"

How many people who saw the beautiful girl in the dramatist's box on the succeeding evening, and raised their glasses to try and discover who she might be, could have guessed she was identical with a ragged little waif picked up from the police court? Ruthven, himself, appeared to have forgotten it, as he parried the many questions that assailed him and took a delight in mystifying his auditors. Hamilton Shore, who had already whispered sufficient compliments in Margaret's ear to make her feel pleasantly conscious and flattered in his presence, took up a station by her side all the evening, and for the first part of it she was too much dazzled and excited to do more than look at the house and audience in a restless, fluttered manner. But when she had leisure to listen to what was passing on the stage, she became conscious of a history being depicted there that riveted all her attention. "The Poisoned Flower" was supposed to be taken from the French, but Ruthven had twisted both characters and situations so as to suit his own convenience. The principal personages in it were an orphan and her benefactor—a mysterious benefactor, who loaded her with every good, but would never allow that he was entitled to any thanks in return. At the close of the play, when the orphan was surrounded by every sort of trouble, her guardian was discovered to be her father, and able to help her out of them all. This drama appeared to make a great impression upon Margaret. From the moment she began to attend to the story; she became preoccupied, silent, and unlike her former bright self. Hamilton Shore could not imagine what had come over her. Half a dozen times did he try to attract her notice, or rouse her interest, but without success.

"See, Margaret! there are the Prince and Princess of Wales—just come into the box opposite to us. That is the princess with the big bouquet in front of her. I wonder if uncle knows it; how pleased he will be."

Margaret just lifted her eyes for a moment, and then let them dwell upon the figures of the future king and queen of England, and then refixed them on the stage.

"Margaret, you are twice as pretty as the Princess of Wales," whispered Hamilton Shore. "You look as white as a pearl in this gas-light. I should like to call you 'Pearl,' if you don't mind. It's the meaning of your name, you know."

"I don't mind it. You may call me what you like—only don't speak to me just now, please."

"What do you find so absorbing at this moment? I think this the least interesting part of the play. The old man's speeches are long."

"Pray, hush!" replied Margaret; and Hamilton, with a touch of the old sulks, retreated to the back of the box, and left her to herself for the remainder of the evening. When she returned home, and Mrs. Garrett was helping her to undress, she also observed the girl's unusual thoughtfulness.

"Has the gas made your head ache, Miss Margaret? It always do with me, and that's the reason I never put my foot into a theater from year's end to year's end."

"No. We always had gas at Pomona Villa, and I'm used to it," replied Margaret; "but, Mrs. Garrett, I want to ask you a question."

"What is it, my dear?"

"Do tell me all about my father and mother!" exclaimed the girl, with sudden impulse, as she cast her arms about the housekeeper's neck.

"Lor' bless your dear heart! I've nothing to tell, for I know no more of them than the dead. I suppose they're gone, and I hope they're in heaven; but I sha'n't know them from Adam when I meet them there."

Should Women Promise to Obey?

A dozen or so of San Francisco clergymen have been expressing their opinions on that objectionable clause of the marriage service that binds the woman to "obey." Their solemn decision, which will be a welcome one to western brides, is that the word and its implications are repugnant and that obedience will be optional with the woman in the future.

FROM WASHINGTON.

THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE LIVTH CONGRESS.

A Brief Report of the Doings in Upper and Lower Houses of the National Legislature — The Work of a Week Condensed.

One Hundred and Seventeenth Session.
The river and harbor appropriation bill was passed by the senate after an unusually stormy experience lasting many days. As passed the bill makes direct appropriations of $12,200,000 and authorizes continuing contracts of $64,000,000, an aggregate of about $76,000,000. During the debate the statement was made that this was the largest aggregate for a river and harbor bill in the history of the government. Mr. Gorman sought to secure an amendment to the bill limiting the contract expenditures to $10,000,000 annually, but the amendment was tabled—yeas, 40; nays, 23. Mr. Frye, chairman of the commerce committee, closed the debate on the bill by a statement showing the remarkable development of American commerce and the consequent decrease in freight rates. On the final passage of the bill nine senators voted in the negative.

The bill was passed with amendments authorizing the construction of a bridge over the Missouri river to the city of St. Louis, from some suitable point between the north line of St. Clair county, Illinois, and the southwest line of said county.

A number of bills were passed granting condemned cannon to the Grand Army of the Republic posts, to one of which Mr. Chandler (N. H.) secured an amendment that all remaining condemned cannon be given to the National Grand Army of the Republic.

The house, after one of the hardest-fought parliamentary battles of the session, which continued until almost 9 o'clock at night, recommitted the contested-election case of Rinaker vs. Downing, from the Sixteenth Illinois district to the committee on elections with instructions to recount the ballots in dispute. The vote stood 129 to 35—divided as follows: Yeas, 67 republicans, 69 democrats and 3 populists; nays, 35 republicans. The case was debated Tuesday and Wednesday until shortly after 5 o'clock. The supporters of the majority report to unseat Downing (dem.) and seat the contestant realized that the minority report would probably be adopted, and they inaugurated a systematic filibuster to gain time to rally their forces. The first test of strength on a motion to adjourn—96 to 129—confirmed their suspicions, but they fought valiantly to the end and went down in the last ditch after staying off the final action for four hours. The speaker gave them considerable leeway at the beginning of the fight, but toward the end he declined to tolerate dilatory tactics. As a last resort many of the supporters of the majority report refused to vote, but the speaker counted them, and the democrats and dissenting republicans scored their victory.

One Hundred and Nineteenth Session.
By a vote of 31 to 30 the senate determined Friday that H. A. Dupont was not entitled to a seat in the senate from the state of Delaware. This closed a long and animated controversy which had become one of the most notable contests of its kind in the history of the senate. The result was in doubt up to the last moment, and this lent additional interest to the final vote. There had been some question as to the direction of Mr. Stewart's vote, but it went with those of the democrats and populists, and was the deciding vote in declaring that Mr. Dupont was not entitled to a seat.

Mr. Morgan (dem., Ala.) presented a resolution concerning the Americans now under condemnation at Havana, and said he would address the senate on it. The resolution directs the committee on foreign relations to inquire into and report on the rights of the United States under our treaties with Spain as to the trial of our citizens now under sentence of death by the Spanish military tribunals for alleged offenses of a political or other character and to report on that subject by bill or otherwise; second, requesting the secretary of state for literal copies of the protocol signed by Caleb Cushing and the Spanish minister; third, requesting the secretary of state to transmit copies of the recent correspondence relative to the condemnation of the Americans at Havana.

Mr. Gallinger (rep., N. H.) followed with another interesting resolution, as follows:
"Resolved, That the widespread business depression and rapid increase of the public debt demonstrates that the existing tariff law does not produce sufficient revenue, and that a revision of the law is imperatively demanded in the interests of the people of the United States."

Mr. Gallinger announced that he would address the senate on this resolution or some similar measure before congress adjourned.

The resolution heretofore introduced by Mr. Mills (dem., Tx.) directing the finance committee to investigate the effect on American products of the inroduction of oriental products was agreed to, with an amendment by Mr. Allen (pop., Neb.) that the inquiry cover the relative labor cost in this country and the orient.

Mr. Cullom presented a final conference agreement on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, but action was deferred as Mr. Hill desired to look into the agreement on United States commissioners.

Mr. Bacon (dem., Ga.) was then recognized for a speech supporting his resolution prohibiting the further issue of bonds without specific authority from congress.

The house occupied itself in passing the private pension bills which were favorably acted upon during the two special days given to their consideration. Mr. Erdman (dem., Pa.) and Mr. Talbert (dem., S. C.) threw such obstacles in the way of the bills as they could. Thirty-four were held up because they were not engrossed, but 100 were passed, leaving about sixty yet undisposed of. At the opening of the session Mr. Howard (pop., Ala.) rose to a question of privilege to denounce as fabrications some newspaper reports printed five months ago to the effect that he had entered the hall of the house in an intoxicated condition, and had been carried out by the colored porters. He explained that at the time of the alleged occurrence he was desperately ill, and had been ever since, and only day before yesterday had been able to return to the house of denounce his traducers.

One Hundred and Twentieth Session.
The coast-defense bill was reported to the senate by the committee Monday, and the deficiency bill will probably be completed within a day or two. Thus everything is favorable for prompt completion of the necessary work of the session.

The house committee on banking and currency decided that it would not press any currency measures, as it found itself absolutely unable to agree on anything, and if even the committee cannot agree on a currency proposition, there seems little prospect that a congress composed of a republican house and a democratic-populist senate could do so.

QUEER HUMAN FANCIES.

Barber-Shop Is a Place Where They Are Aired.

A large proportion of the superstitious fancies which are given belief are aired at least once a day in the barber shops, and, strange as it may seem, the higher class the place the more noticeable the superstition. Adolph Vatter of 115 Broaoway was recently questioned about this and admitted it was true, says the New York Journal. He gave many instances of the eccentricities of his customers.

"One of my oldest patrons," he said, "is very much afraid of lightning. If it should be raining or a thunderstorm threatening when he comes in here he would walk up and down the length of the shop three times with his hands outstretched and eyes closed. This, he believes, makes him impervious to the effect of the electric fluid, which he fancies is attracted by the razors. Others of my patrons will never permit a boy to brush their hats. They think it brings bad luck. Another insists on making the barber who generally attends him, wash his hands before applying the lather. Stock brokers are notoriously superstitious," continued Mr. Vatter. "One prominent member of the stock exchange will not sit in a chair unless there are at least three men being shaved ahead of him. There is another who will never open his eyes from the time he sits down until he gets up again. He is firmly convinced that if he ever does the barber will cut the skin. The side of the face upon which the barber begins operations is a source of worry to many and many an individual. Some prefer to have the left cheek smoothed first before turning the other, lest bad luck should pursue them, while others think that if the dexter side be chosen by the wielder of the razor stocks will rise, or vice versa," he concluded. "One man won't sit in the chair if the barber begins with an upper cut and another won't stay if the shaver makes a long draw with the razor. Some men will not have a blue-edged towel used about them. They say it gives them the blues. Others always fee their man with silver, thinking it brings them luck, on the plan of the "silver bullet." And so it goes on.

The Law of Compensation.

No man can roll up his ten, twenty, forty or eighty millions dollars of wealth wrung from underpaid employes, who live in barest poverty, utterly bereft of life's commonest comforts, and unable to do for their children anything to elevate them above the life of poverty into which they are born; no man can do this. I care not how great his genius, nor how well he is protected by the laws of the land, nor how much he is applauded or commended by a hiring press or a hiring ministry, nor how much he is sustained by a government, too sadly in the hands of men of his class, no man can do this. I care not how many courts of human justice he may corrupt or escape, this man stands at the bar of Almighty God condemned as a robber and a thief, an extortioner and a traducer.—Rev. C. C. Pierce, Baptist.

THE BARREL-HEAD THEORY.

A Tennessee Preacher's Propagating His Belief.

J. A. Ramage, a district preacher of Sevier county, Tennessee, is now engaged in interesting the upper portion of that county in the mysteries of a new theory as to the end of the world, says the Knoxville Sentinel.

The theory is that the world is flat, like a barrel head. The theorist claims that this is original with him and the bible, but history says it was the starting point of our present orange-shaped world. He says the plate of earth revolves as it pleases and is governed solely and completely by its own sweet will, going thither and coming hither, also vice versa, without regard for the burdensome laws of gravity or respect for the claims of the solars and other objectionable heavenly bodies.

Then the theorist goes into details which will be valuable to the scientific world. He represents the world as being set, flat as it is, upon four props, one at each corner, and the most interesting phase of the prop feature is that they are made of locust wood!

And the theory still further continues with the startling statement that these locust props will some time rot and decay and when they do so the world will fall to some kind of space, striking with a dull, sickening thud and burst into fragments and molecules, atoms and such invisible objects of physical matter.

The Sevierville divine is actually preaching his astounding doctrine and the upper corner of Sevier county is delving deep in the mysteries of the new theory.

Economy of Space for Tracks.

The "Palais Sport" in Paris has a bicycle track that is a clever adaptation of the roller toboggan slide idea.

The advantages are obvious. The main point, of course, is the distance that may be traveled without the sacrifice of extended level surfaces. In addition to this the building has every convenience for lovers of the wheel, including reading rooms, tea rooms and a platform on the top floor from which the riding cyclists may be viewed. It is a model of comfort and construction, or rather reconstruction. It was originally a panorama building.—New York World.

A Successful Doctor.

We take pleasure in calling your attention to the advertisement of Dr. Marsh with regard to his cure for the opium and morphine habit to be found in another column of this paper. The doctor has been engaged for twenty-five years in this specialty, and is well and favorably known for the cures he has made of these habits. We take pleasure in commending him to any and all who need his services, having been personally acquainted with him for the past twenty-five years.

Oratory.

We have all heard speakers who were rhetorical and oratorical, but they said nothing. Every statement should be clear. Some people who are called deep are muddy. Like some Florida streams, in the intellectual world, clearness and depth go together.—Rev. W. H. Moore.

FITS—All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No fits after the first day's use. Nervousness, Trembling and Stuttering free. 50¢ cases. Send to Dr. Kline, St. Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The right to do night is a God-given right.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

A SAD STORY

The Trials, Hardships and Successes of a Wonderful Woman.

From the News, Elgin, Ill.
Certainly more like a romance, and an old-fashioned one at that, reads the sketch of the life of Mrs. E. Champion, of No. 25 Melrose avenue, Elgin, Ill. She is the second cousin of the Rt. Hon. John Bright, M. P., and is now in her 82nd year.

Her husband was an English merchantman and ship owner. In about the year 1842 he was wrecked with all on board in a terrible storm off the coast of Africa. His partner and Mrs. Champion succeeded in getting the ship back to England, and when it was sold and all debts paid the subject of this sketch started life once more in the village of Bridgewater, England, with two shillings in money and four small children.

A little business was started and with the aid of the children she made and sold fancy work. After a few years the oldest son came to America and he sent for his mother and remaining children. During the time taken for the voyage the son in America was taken ill and died and the termination of the voyage was mingled with the most terrible sorrow instead of the anticipated joyfulness. This brave woman did not turn back, but started for the West and located in Elgin.

Again the fancy work business was started, after a few years a little store was purchased. A building was erected, but again cruel fate was not satisfied, fire, the great destroyer, in one night leveled to the ground this building and all was a complete loss, and the excitement brought on nervous prostration and partial paralysis. For years this brave woman never left her bed, then on commencing to get around was so weak and prostrated that at different times she fell and broke both arms.

After twenty years of suffering she read in the Elgin Daily News, testimony of many aged people who had been benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Such strong statements from such reliable people, many of whom she knew, prompted her to try them and her words are here quoted:

"I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People a wonderful remedy. They have certainly made me better and stronger than I have been for years. My whole nervous system by their use has been toned up and I am now able at times to move around the house quite comfortably. These pills have added years to my life and although I can never hope to be a perfectly well woman Pink Pills will make the last years of my life better and happier."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

and nothing so promptly and surely cures them as ST. JACOBS OIL.

AN INVITATION.

It Gives Us Pleasure to Publish the following Announcement.

All women suffering from any form of illness peculiar to their sex are requested to communicate promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only.

A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America. This confidence has induced more than 100,000 women to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice during the last few months.

Think what a volume of experience she has to draw from! No physician living ever treated so many cases of female ills, and from this vast experience surely it is more than possible she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case.

She is glad to have you write or call upon her. You will find her a woman full of sympathy, with a great desire to assist those who are sick. If her medicine is not what you need, she will frankly tell you so, and there are nine chances out of ten that she will tell you exactly what to do for relief. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has relieved thousands.

Surely, any ailing woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in the history of Mrs. Pinkham's wonderful Compound has the demand for it been so great as it is to-day.

A RECORD BREAKER—On Thursday J. D. Lamey & Co. sold at retail more than 1,000 pounds of Shipman's lead. The low price at which they are selling paints and oils has caused a large increase in their business.

Mrs. F. E. Hawley entertained a number of lady friends at her home in Grove avenue with a Twentieth Century Tea. Among those present were: Mesdames Flora Lines, John Robertson, A. J. Redmond, F. E. Smith, C. A. Wheeler, Kate Ganong, Lucy Hawley, William Grunau and Leroy Powers, and Miss Lydia Robertson.

The large number of sales T. V. Slocum, Wauconda, is making in farm machinery, wagons, buggies, etc., can only be accounted for by the fact that he is selling first-class machinery—machinery that has proved itself superior to all others—at such remarkably low figures. T. V. Slocum is well known to most of our readers, and we have not heard of a case where his sales were not satisfactory.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE. Wednesday evening, Mrs. U. Frick was most agreeably surprised at her spacious and elegant residence near Langenheim by a host of Barrington friends.

Indoor and outdoor games made the time speed pleasantly, and at 10:30 the merry-making was interrupted long enough to allow all to partake of the refreshments so bountifully supplied. At a late hour the guests departed to their homes, all reporting a most enjoyable time spent. Among those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames G. Heimerdinger, Fred Meier, August Krueger, Louis Jahn, Dr. M. Clausius, Rev. E. Rahn, H. Butzow, Wm. Brandt, August Gottschalk, Henry Mueller and Emil Schaefer; Mesdames Christian Mueller, C. Koelling and J. Karsten; Misses Emile Pawelske, Anna Schultz, Ida Reese, Ida Meier, Minnie Meier, Annie Krueger, Marie Krueger, Kate Baecher, Emma Spiegel, Mary Spiegel and Frieda Gottschalk, and Messrs. Dr. C. Schwartz, Herman Koelling, Herman Reese, Louis Reese, Gussie Meier, Albert Krueger and Max Gottschalk.

OUR BOYS WIN. Last Saturday the Barrington Base Ball team visited with the Wauconda club on the latter's grounds in Oaks Park.

The grounds were in good condition after the rain, and as usual there was a fair crowd present.

The game was called at three o'clock and was very hotly contested—being 8 to 8 at the close of the ninth inning, and required the tenth inning, at the end of which the score stood 13 to 8 in favor of Barrington.

With the exception of a double play, Drewes - Barker - Henderson, the field playing of Barrington was extremely weak, over half the outs going to the credit of Drewes on strikeouts, and there was only one base on balls off Drewes's pitching. The Wauconda fielding was an improvement over that of Barrington, Bacon being credited with several long catches. Wauconda battery work was not quite equal to that of Barrington but was very much above the average.

There was some vigorous kicking on the part of two Wauconda players but fortunately the umpire's life was spared, and the Barrington's took their departure to arrive home under the escort of the Lake Zurich Military band playing "See the Conquering Hero Comes!" Score: (10 innings) Barrington, 13; Wauconda, 8. Time—2:05. Umpire, Solt.

MEMORIAL DAY. Memorial services will be held under the auspices of General Thos. W. Sweeny Post No. 275, G. A. R., assisted by the W. R. C. and S. of V., Saturday, May 30th. Hon. O. L. Barbour of Chicago will deliver the address of the day; short addresses will also be made by A. J. Redmond and Rev. T. E. Ream. The procession will form at the public square at 9:30 o'clock a. m., then march to Evergreen cemetery, thence to German cemetery on Main street, thence to Post hall and break ranks for dinner. The procession will re-form at 1 o'clock p. m. and march to the platform where the addresses will be delivered. Music will be furnished by the Barrington Miltary Band and the Barrington Quartet.

Tomorrow, Sunday, May 24th, the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. will attend the M. E. church at 10:30 o'clock a. m., and at 12:30 o'clock sharp will leave for Barrington Center. After attending services here they will proceed to the cemetery and decorate the graves. Everyone is respectfully invited to be present and assist in the services.
