Pienics, Ball Games, Dances and Fire Works the order of the Day.

With a Few Accidents to Our People Thrown In.

Monday night was one of the nights. We celebrated the day by having picnics at the different parks and lakes. There was the Salem Sunday School picnic at Comstock's Grove, the celebration of the M. W. A. at Gravs Lake, and the picnic of the Zion Evangelical Church at Randall's Lake, besides private picnics innumerable.

Sunday was the picnic day at Lake Zurich. There was a large crowd in attendance upon the ball game between the Lake County Unions and the Chicago Dixons, the score being 11. to 8 in favor of the Dixons. It was a mixed up game, the Dixons'claiming that it was a 7-inning game while the Unions claimed a 9-inning, consequently the game was declared off. At night dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

The picnic of the Salem Sundayschool, given at Comstock's grove Monday, was a success both socially and financially. Everybody enjoyed themselves and assisted others in doing the same. Financially they realized about $100, which will greatly add to their treasury. Rev. Ream enlivened the occasion by one of his welltimed addresses, delivered in his usual characteristic style. The selection rendered by the six beautiful young ladies on the platform was strictly up-to-date, and brought forth at home spending her vacation. an encore that was deserving in every respect.

Then there was the picnic and celebration of the Zion Evangelical Church at Randall's Lake which was well attended. The sum realized by the Sunday-school will help their building a large barn for Lou Peters. treasury wonderfully.

The Modern Woodmen's celebration and picnic at Gray's Lake Monday was one of the most successful ever given by that order. In addition to the regular program there were games and athletic sports of all kinds, a base ball between the Everetts and nesday. the Lake County Unions, with a score of 9 to 8 in favor of the Everetts. It is miraculous that they were not more seriously hurt. The rocket seemed to be after them all, as it made a straight shoot for the crowd. The following people. were injured:

Mrs. Jno. Westfall was badly burned about the left arm and shoulder, her clothing being considerably torn in the attempt to extinguish the fire.

Miss Ida Hutchinson was the next to receive the attention of the runaway rocket. The anruly "pyrotech" struck her in the right cheek, lacerating and burning her lip fearfully.

Reciprocity and retaliation were the two phases of the tariff bill to occupy the attention of the senate to the exclusion of all other subjects. Both provisions were agreed to. The retaliatory clause provides that whenever any country bestows an export bounty on any article there shall be levied, in addition to the duties provided by the act, an additional duty equal to the amount of the bounty. The reciprocity clause empowers the president, with the advice and consent of the senate, to make reciprocity treaties, giving 20 per cent reduction in duties on designated articles, or placing articles on the free list.

In some respects the senate made progress, disposing of two amendments-that placing a stamp tax being agreed to with little or no opposition and without the formality of a vote, while the Spooner amendment, proposing a tariff investigation, was withdrawn after a protracted struggle.

DAIRY AND POULTRY.

INTERESTING CHAPTERS FOR OUR RURAL READERS.

How Successful Farmers Operate This Department of the Farm-A Few Hints as to the Care of Live Stock and Poultry.

N visiting stores in the commission districts in various cities, we have learned some facts that may be of interest to our creamery buttermakers and managers of creameries who have charge of the shippings, says Elgin Dairy Report. There is no question but the appearance of packages help to sell them. Possibly it may not help to get better prices, but it helps to find a customer. The lot of tubs that are bright, clean and look as if they had come from a clean, tidy buttermaker, will attract the attention of the transient buyer who is not even aware of the stencil number or the quality of the goods, much quicker than the slovenly, dirty, wet looking package. So it pays to see to it that the packages when they leave the factory are in first-class condition, as far as cooperage is concerned. There are some little details in connection with the putting up of the packages and marking of them that might be worth considering. The method of placing the stencil on the tub sometimes has much to do with the apeparance of the package. I have seen packages where the stencil had apparently grown from the small compact one to one covering the whole top of the tub, being put on with water or bad material, and in moving about the abrasion of one tub against the other had almost entirely obliterated the stencil and it was spread all over the whole of the cover. A little turpentine and lamp black, which are not expensive, will make a clean cut stencil that will stay where you put it; and the receiver will know when he receives the package just what he is getting. Tins should be securely fastened both on the cover and the tub, and enough of them so that the cover will be held in place properly. In soaking the tubs the buttermaker will be careful to get no water on the outside if possible; it does not improve the appearance of the package to have it show up watersoaked on the outside. Another thing about which a creameryman cannot be too careful is to see that his packages are made of good timber. We have seen tubs in the butter cellars probably composed of one-half good timber and the other half poor, and the staves of the soft wood soaked with the brine, which gave the tubs an untidy and slovenly appearance. Attention to some of these little details will be found a profitable investment to the creameryman in the quicker and better returns he will get for his goods.

Standard Varieties of Chickens.

The shank feathering should correspond with the breast, being black if the latter be black, and slightly mottled with white if not. The shanks are deep yellow, inclining to orange. The color of females is a white ground, closely penciled with dark steel gray, producing a beautiful effect, frosted or silver gray in appearance. There should be no show of pure white in the plumage except in the margins of the hackles. Unless extreme care be taken in mating, the hens are likely to have a dingy color, and the pullets are apt to have necks almost white for some distance down. These light-necked birds generally breed to worse, but the evil may be remedied by choosing birds for breeding whose heads are distinctly marked. The shape and character of the markings of the Dark Brahma pullets also varies. They should be medium-sized, sc that the pencilings can be clearly discerned at a short distance. A great point in regard to color and marking in Brahma pullets is that it should be uniform over the body, and the hackles should be silvery white, heavily striped with rich black, and

MINERS ORDERED TO

National Executive Board Takes Action.

DESPERATE CONFLICT BEGUN.

This Course Is the Outcome of the Meetings Recently Held at Columbus, Ohio-375,000 Workmen Aflected by The Action of the Board.

A general strike of the miners of the United Mine Workers of America was ordered for July-4 by the national executive board, whose headquarters are in this city, and also by the district presidents, as the result of a meeting held here June 24, 25 and 26. The officers here say 375,000 men are involved in the proposed strike.

Local committees are directed to be formed and to see that action is taken at once. The field is large, and it will be an impossibility for the national and district officers to attend to all points, consequently local leaders are urged to assume the responsibility and authority for the successful consummation of their desires

ILLINOIS MINERS QUIT.

Order of the Executive Board Is Generally Obeyed in the State.

The miners of Spring Valley, Ill., held a meeting and voted unanimously to obey the order to mine no more coal after July 4. All employes of the coal companies are to come out. This puts a serious aspect upon the siuation, for if the mines are allowed to remain idle without the constant attention of the company's men, it would not take long for them to cave. The miners claim they are now making only 75 cents a day.

The national strike caused the miners in La Salle, Peru, Oglesby, Rockwell and Jones shafts to quit work. The strike involves from 3,000 to 3,500 men in this vicinity. The miners here are earning not more than $2 or $3 per week.

A cyclone, followed by a cloudburst, passed south of Barnum, Minn., Saturday. The Moose Horn river rose rapidly, and in five hours the water stood three feet deep in every house on level ground, and a raging torrent ran through the main street, compelling every one to make a hasty move upstairs. No lives were lost.

JAPAN WILL RETALIATE.

Open Threat Made by the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Count Okuma, the prime minister and minister of foreign affairs of Japan, delivered himself as follows at Shizubka recently with regard to the new tariff now being revised by American legislators:

"The proposed new tariff will affect Japan more than it will England. France and Belgium. It appears that the only course open is to warn America that Japan and other powers will reciprocate by imposing heavy duties upon her goods."

United States Forest Reserves.

The estimated area of the existing forest reserves of the United States is 18,993,280 acres. The estimated area of the suspended forest reserves is 19,-951.360 acres. The aggregate area of the existing and suspended reserves is 38,944,640 acres. This is 3,800,000 acres more than the combined area of the states of New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

In consequence of the discovery that the entire list of jurors for this term of Circuit court was illegally drawn, it was necessary at Galesburg to throw over to the next term of court the entire criminal docket.

Judge David J. Baker, who was defeated for re-election to the Suprema Court of Illinois, has announced his intentions of removing to Chicago to practice law. Judge Baker has sat upon the benches of the Circuit, Appellate and Supreme Courts continually for more than twenty-eight years.

The board of trustees of Knox coltege met and conferred the degree of D. D. on Rev. W. W. Leete of Rockford, Rev. W. E. Holyoke of Chicago, and Rev. E. G. Smith of Princeton, and the degree of A. B. on George Gebharrt, Chicago. They elected H. S. Griffiith of Moline professor of chemistry and mathematics, and Miss Janet Greig of Galesburg head of Whiting Hall. Dr. Finley told the board he had reached no decision regarding, the call to the presidency of Lake Forest university.

A vigorous fight is about to be made on the violators of the seining law along Fox river. All persons interested in the protection of game and fish are asked to be present at a mass meeting to be held in the city hall Friday evening to discuss the matter and effect an organization for the purpose of prohibiting the practice of seining. H. W. Lovejay, game and fish warden, will be present to address the meeting. and it is his desire to appoint a deputy who will strictly enforce the game and fish laws without fear or favor.

One of the most novel challenges to a debate was issued over his signature in the local papers by J. F. Ohden, a Freeport saloonkeeper. Last Sunday evening Rev. Charles E. Dunn, pastor of the leading Protestant church of the city, preached a temperance sermon. It was not an open attack upon the saloonkeepers, but simply a drastic arraignment of the liquor traffic. Ohden in his letter to the papers says: "We publicly challenge Rev. C. E. Dunn, or any other minister or preacher in this or any other town, to argue the subject as to whether the preacher or saloonkeeper is the greatest source of evil." Mr. Dunn has not said that he will accept the challenge. Thomas J. Alward, Capt. Charles J. Sutter and Supreme Trustee Joseph H. Cody, delegates to the international convention and encampment of the Knights of St. John at Erie, Pa., have returned to Peoria, the convention having completed its labors. It was one of the best conventions and encampments held in years. Joseph Cody was re-elected supreme trustee, as was the entire board, except Col. Frank Speckert of Louisville, Ky. He gave way to a Detroit man. The next convention was 'ocated at Detroit, thus insuring the attendance of the Peoria commanderies next year. All of the old officers, with the exception named on the board of trustees, were placed in office for another year. The members of the new state board of pardons met and organized last week. R. A. Lemon of Clinton was chosen chairman, and ex-Judge R. N. McCauley of Olney was elected secretary of the board. As the duties heretofore performed by the commissioners of the penitentiaries with reference to the parole of prisoners have been devolved upon this board the rules adopted by the commissioners of the Joliet penitentiary governing the parole of prisoners was adopted by the board. It was also decided by the board to visit the Joliet Penitentiary the first Tuesdays in February, May, August and November and Chester pentitentiary the first Tuesdays in March, June, September and December to consider applications for parole. Rules of precedure were also adopted with reference to applications for pardons and commutations of sentence. These provide that all applications shall be made by petition in writing, addressed to the governor, which petitions shall contain a brief history of the case, the reasons why the pardon should be granted. and a brief biography of the person under conviction, setting forth particularly the different places where he or she has resided, and the occupation pursued at each place. The clerk of the court in which the conviction occurred must testify to his belief in the genuineness of the signatures. Such petition with three typewritten copies must be filed with the clerk of the board at least ten days before the first day of its next term. Notice of such application must be published for three weeks in some newspaper published nearest to the locality where the crime was committed and a copy of the notice must be personally served upon the prosecuting witness in the case and the state's attorney for the county wherein the conviction occurred.

Bad Drainage and Bad Butter.

New York Produce Review says: "Not so very long ago," said a western representative of one of our leading commission houses, "I visited a creamery that had been having a great deal of trouble with their butter; they appeared to be unable to remedy the evil, which was in the flavor of their goods. and they were very much discouraged. While I was there I endeavored to ascertain just how they made their butter, and also tried to find out if there were any foul odors about the creamery. After getting into the buggy I asked the driver if he had watered his horse; he said he had tried to but the horse would not drink the water; he himself had tried to drink some, but it tion: "The sheep-shearing machine is was so foul he was unable to do so. We had gone only a few rods when we met the creameryman, and while he was standing talking to us he noticed some skimmilk coming up out of the ground not far from where he was standing. He called our attention to it, and said his drain must be stopped up. I became interested immediately. and suggested to him that possibly improper drainage was the cause of his poor butter. Upon further investigation we found that the water, skimmilk, etc., in the choked up drain had worked its way back into the well and polluted the water, and the water in turn had polluted the butter. He immediately set to to clean the drain and well, and since then has had no trouble with the flavor of his butter."

Poultry Farming.

To set about successful poultry farming you cannot do better than observe the following:

1. Begin with a small number: be personally acquainted with all wants, and with laying powers of each hen. It is best not to breed from pullets, but to select the best layers as pullets and breed from them the following year. Only after several years' careful selection for laying qualities should any attempt to begin on a larger scale be made.

2. Go to no unavoidable expense in buildings and such; they may look well but are of no real value.

The close breeding for points in feathers is likely to interfere with their productiveness, yet with proper attention and care they can be bred profitably as well as for beauty. The standard weight of Light Brahma cocks is 12 pcunds; hens, 91/2 pounds; ccckerels, 10 pounds; and pullets, 8 pounds. The standard weight of Dark Brahma cocks is 11 pounds; hens, 81/2 pounds; cockerels, 9 pounds; and pullets, 7 pounds.

A Steam Shearing Machine.

Machines for doing all kinds of work successfully are being manufactured, but it has been said that none could be made that would shear a sheep or milk a cow. The following item from a Colorado exchange settles the first quesno doubt a success at last, and Colorado is behind the times in not having them at work. At Casper, Wyoming, 100,000 sheep of the 350,000 to be shorn will be clipped by machines. At Rawlins, 350,000, Green River, 100,000, at Evanston, 250,000, and at Soda Springs, Iowa, half of 250,000 will go through the machine-the others by hand." That the one of milking cows by machinery is very nearly an accomplished fact there is no doubt, and soon the large farmer will be able to manage his flock and herd with fewer hired men.

Washing the Cans .- If your washed milk cans smell when closed a few hours they are not clean enough for milk. New cans, pails and strainers should be carefully examined for irregular creases in the soldering; a little more solder will fill these places and make the can perfectly sweet inside. In cleansing cans where no boiler exists for steaming them, wash first in cold water, then in hot water and sal soda. Finally, half fill them with clean, scalding water, put on the covers tightly for a few moments, they will steam themselves completely. By using the hot water that steams our can for the sal soda water for the next one, a limited amount of hot water will thoroughly purify a goodly number of cans.-Ex.

equare with the world, and that is never to go in debt. This proposition may seem absurd in its very simpleness, but it contains a great truth. It is common to say that the world's business transactions can not be carried on without colossal credit operations. If you consider a moment, you will perceive that the world's greatest and most farreaching commercial operations are conducted on a strictly cash basis. For instance, when you go to the postoffice to buy a dollar's worth of stamps, do you ever ask Uncle Sam to charge them and send the bill to you? Does any government ever do a credit business in postage stamps?

Again, when you enter a railway office to buy a ticket to the next town, do you tell the agent to give you the ticket and let you ride on it and you will pay him next week or next month or next year? When you travel to Europe, do you engage your steamer passage on credit and tell the company you will pay next year? Or when a man ships a carload of freight across the country does the railway company transport the freight on credit and tell him he may pay six months after date?

No, indeed, not any of these things. Yet the postoffice stamp transactions, the freight and passenger carrying industry, involve the largest financial operations in the business world of every land. If a cash business is possible in these greatest of all financial transactions, it is possible to every private individual in every country and at all times. See?

The United States treasury department is not experimenting with the view to producing gold by artificial process, as some lively Washington correspondents declared. The truth about it is that Brice, the Chicago man who claims to have discovered a way to make gold, wanted a patent on his alleged invention. The patent office examines very carefully all inventions brought to its notice, and naturally did so in case of the gold making process. But the patent office did not have a metallurgical laboratory, so Mr. Brice's materials were taken to the chemical shop of the treasury department and fused there. The result was that they did not make gold. Brice said the experts did not follow his process correctly. The things Brice uses in gold making, he says, are iron, antimony, charcoal and sulphur, fused together at a very high temperature. He thinks this is how nature makes gold, fusing the minerals in the intense heat within the earth. Gold is of volcanic origin, according to his theory. Scientific men have already made artificial diamonds and various precious stones; the oxygen of the air has been liquefied. He would be a very ignorant. bigoted man who would dare to say that gold could never be made artificially. Scientists are coming to believe that all matter is one original substance, from which all our present supposed original substances are produced by different combinations of the atoms of the primordial material.

But the thing is to get hold of the combination.

a web foot to help people in swimming. He took as his model a duck's foot. A webbing of oilsilk is stretched over a wire frame that is strapped upon the foot and fastened to the leg above the ankle. When the knees are drawn up for the kicking stroke, the web frame shuts up like a fan. When, on the other hand, the swimmer kicks out, the thing opens its web again and gives the resistance needed to push the swimmer rapidly along. Mr. Luce hopes his invention will be especially useful to women swimmers, because women never learn to kick properly anyhow. But does Mr. Luce suppose the summer girl would wear anything that would give her the appearance of having "a mammoth duck's foot?" Faith, she would drown first. Mr. Luce does not know the summer girl. Her first thought is to look what she calls "stylish," whether she ever learns to swim or not.

If you have ideas of your own and they turn out to be different from other people's, stick to them. The chances are they are good ones.

GAMBLER'S FORTUNE.

"COL. WILLIAM L. BLANCHARD" LIVED A DOUBLE LIFE.

Money Goes to a Ragman, His Brother-"Big Bill Leggett," the Shovel Welder and 32d Degree Mason, Posed as a Rich Swell.

HE fortunes of William L. Blarchard, known nearly all over this country as Col. Blanchard, the gambler and faro man, and in South Braintree as "Big Bill Leggett," the shovel welder in the Ames foundry many years ago, will go to his brother, Thomas Leggett, who up to the time of his good fortune pushed a cart around the streets of New York as a collector of old rags. Blanchard died about a year ago at Oceanic, N. Y., leaving an estate of between $70,000 and $80,000, but It was only last February that Lawyer George A. Smythe of this city sucsceeded in finding the heirs. The dead gambler left no will, but he provided for a number of people in such a way that they received large sums of money as soon as his death was announced. One of them was a woman living a few miles out in the suburbs, whom Blanchard at one time wanted to marry, but who threw him off when she learned he was a gambler. He was a most remarkable man and was 57 years old when he died. It was while in South Braintree, in 1861, that he joined company C of the 4th Massachusetts infantry and went to the front as a three-months man. He never lived there again, but he visited his

TINTS OF BIRD L' EGGS. They Often Disappear When Exposed to Strong Sunlight.

The beautiful and delicate colors observed on the eggs of birds are not very fast to light, more especially when they belong to the lighter class of colors, says Nature. Egg collections should be carefully protected from the light by some covering over the case when they are not being inspected; ctherwise much of their beauty of tint becomes lost in course of time. It is gratifying to notice that in museums and natural history collections this precauttion of protecting egg-cases with covers is now almost universally observed. In many instances some of the finest and most characteristic tints of several eggs disappear on exposure to much sunlight. A common example may be found in the beautiful pale blue of the starling's egg. This, on exposure to sunlight for a few days, loses its clear blueness of tone and becomes purpler, approaching more to the slate tint. Such is also the case with most of the greenish-blue eggs, like those of many sea birds, the common guillemot's, for instance, the beauty of which largely depends on the clear freshness of its blue tints. The writer some time ago made some experiments on the fastness to sunlight of those egg tints. The method employed was a very simple one and may be briefly described as follows: Various birds' eggs were selected for experiment, those having decided and well-marked colors being preferred. These shells were halved lengthwise, care being taken before the operation to divide it so that each half should as nearly as possible present the same amount of coloring. One-half was kept from the light for future comparison, while the other half was exposed in a glass case to direct sunshine. After various exposures amounting to 100 hours' sunshine each exposed half was then compared with its unexposed ccunterpart and the changes in hue carefully noted. Little change was visible in the darker color eggs of the olivebrown or chocolate depth, but in the lighter tints, especially among the blues and green-blues, the changes became more marked.

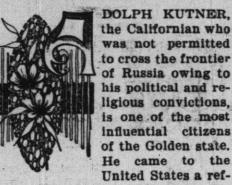

The Consumption of Tobacco.

The amount of tobacco smoked every year in the United Kingdom is steadily increasing, but the British people are still very far behind their neighbors in the consumption of the fragrant weed. Holland holds the first place in the world as a nation of smokers. Every Dutchman consumes on the average 100 ounces a year. The Belgian comes a good second with an annual consumption of 80 ounces, followed closely by Turkey with 70 ounces, and the United States with 60 ounces, Germany, France, Spain and Italy tread closely on their heels, while the United Kingdom comes comparatively low on the list.

A CURIOUS STORE.

Stock and Prices Have Not Changed in Thirty Years.

From the Chicago Tribune: In Bainbridge, Geauga county, Ohio, not far from Cleveland, is the queerest country general store I ever ran across. Bainbridge is a small hamlet, but the store is as large and well stocked as the average suburban store. It is kept-that is precisely the word for it-by an old widower who has no relatives in that section of the country and is practically a hermit. When the civil war began he was running a flourishing general store in Bainbridge, and made money rapidly during the succeeding four years. When peace was declared prices, which had been greatly inflated, took a sudden drop. The old fellow believed that this would be followed by a boom which would send prices skyward again, and refused to sell his goods for less than he paid for them. Down went the prices-down-down-downand finally he was forced to close his store for want of purchasers. Today his store stands almost exactly as it did thirty years ago. It is stocked with such goods as are generally found in country stores, but, of course, the stock is now practically worthless. Every day the old man opens the place to give it an airing. He is there, too, for business, if any one chooses to buy what he has to sell and is willing to pay what he asks. "Why, sir," he said to me, "scme of the calico I've got here cost me sixty-five cents a yard in 1867. Wouldn't I be a fool to sell it for five cents?"

How to Make Money.

A company drilled a well near Elwood, Ind., and plugged it up, refusing to tell anybody what had been found. Immediately all the farm lands in the neighborhood began to sell at fabulous figures. We wonder if the company which plugged the well owned those farm lands. Whether it did or not, there's a hint in the story of a way to make money out of farm lands these hard times .- Buffalo Express.

friends often and they welcomed him as a successful business man, member of the New York consolidated stock and petroleum exchange, 32d degree mason and hail fellow well met. They did not know he was Col. Blanchard, the gambler, and that the money he displayed so lavishly was earned at night, much of it from wealthy men he met at their summer homes and fashionable clubs and with whom he would not play cards until they coaxed him and apparently shamed him into it. Then Blanchard would play. He always entered the game when the pot was largest and when he had won everything in sight invariably received a telegram from somewhere which made it necessary for him to depart on urgent business. He made thousands of dollars in this way and those from whom he won never suspected that he was anything more than he pretended to be-a wealthy man who played for the fun there was in it. Blanchard was a splendid-looking man of striking personality, 6 feet 5 inches in height, weighing about 250 pounds. He dressed plainly but with the best the tailor could give him. He was proud of his appearance, his physique and manners, and he took every precaution to keep from the public, and even some of his most intimate friends, his real character and business. This is the only reason known for his -change of name. He tried to make people believe he was the scapegoat of an aristocratic family, and, while his brother was pushing a ragman's cart through the streets of New York, Blanchard told his friends about a sister who married, he said, a millionaire, living on 5th avenue, New York. She would not recognize him, her scapegoat brother, he was wont to remark. His was a double life such as we read about in novels, and when death came to him at Oceanic, where he had gone to get over the effects of a long debauch, the plot had developed to such a point that it seemed it would require a Dickens to unravel it. This work, however, fell to Lawyer George A. Smythe of Boston, and last Tuesday he saw the end of his labors, matters having been straightened out so. that the property will come into the possession of its legal owners.

A Costly Tiny Boat.

A jeweler in Turin, Italy, has made a tiny boat of a single pearl. The hull is finely shaped, and might serve as a model for a great sloop. The sail is of beaten gold, studded with diamonds, and the binnacle light is a perfect ruby. An emerald serves as its rudder, and its stand is a slab of ivory. Its weight is less than an ounce, and it is said to have cost $5,000.

From Madhouse to Palace.

This picture represents John Joseph Nouri, who was put in an insane asylum in California five years ago as a slight return for his information about Ncah's ark, says the New York World. He claimed to have found the vessel of biblical fame snugly inclosed in ice on the top of Mount Ararat, about 17,000 feet above the level of the sea. Nouri had come to America to seek proselytes for the Greek church. His personal title was Chaldean archdeacon of Babylon and Jerusalem and pontifical delegate-general of Malabar."

Besides, he was identified as a prince cf Chaldea. He was released from the asylum after a year. Now he is king of the Chaldeans, living in opulence and a palace at Tricolum and some people are thinking twice about his ark story.

Churches Cut Out of Solid Rock, Marvelous churches cut out of the solid rock may be seen both in Abyssinia and India. There are six such churches in the City of Lalibela, in

THE MORRIS BROTHERS.

Abyssinia, which took twenty-three years to complete. These very remarkable churches were cut out in the twelfth century in the reign of Lalibela (after whom the city was named) by five hundred workmen, under the superintendence of an Egyptian summoned to the country for that purpose. The rock church or temples near Bombay required the labor of forty thousand men for forty years to complete. One of the most remarkable rock churches is that in the city of Karli, in India, which is regarded as one of the wonders of Asia. Before its entrance stands an immense stone elephant, upon whose back is seated a colossal goddess. The nave is 124 feet long, 45 feet broad, and 46 feet from floor to ceiling. There are aisles on each side separated from the nave by cctagonal pillars. The capital of each pillar is crossed by two kneeling elephants, on whose backs are seated figures of the divinities to whom the church is dedicated. There are thirtyeight columns and pillars, the grandest of which is the lion pillar with its sixteen carved sides. The whole is cut out of the solid rock. At Knaresborough, in Yorkshire, England, there is the papers and packages in which they a chapel cut out of solid rock (also the are sold.

A Substitute for India Rubber.

A factory is now nearing completion near London, England, whose builders expect to produce about forty tons per day of a substitute for India rubber which its inventor calls "oxilin." It is claimed that this substance can be produced cheaper than India rubber. and will replace the latter for hydraulic packings, wire insertions, etc., as it is impervious to mineral oil and can stand a temperature of from 200 to 400 degrees Fahr.

How They Found the Tack.

"That's just like you, Louisa," said the dweller in Outerville to his wife, "you've lost the last tack we have in the house, and I want to finish fastening up this curtain." ENGLISH IN CHINA,

The Emperor of the Far-Eastern Coun try Likes the Tongue.

For some time past the emperor of China has been taking lessons in English and likes to air his knowledge wherever he gets a chance, says the North China Daily News. The other day the Viceroy Liu of Nanking reccmmended to the throne a Taomi named Li, who boasts a "knowledge of foreign affairs," and his majesty at the audience asked the Taotai whether he knew any English. Having been recommended for his "knowledge," Li Taotai had to sustain his reputation, and so he replied "Yes," forgetting apparently that his imperial-master had studied English and was still studying the language. Then came the attack. The unlucky Taotai was bombarded with "How do you do?" "Are you well?" "Thank you." "Sit down," "Have you been to England?" and the like, spoken with a rich Manchu brogue, in rapid succession. The poor Taotai was completely bewildered, of course, and instead of seeking for an escape by declaring tones of respectful admiration his extreme wonder at the imperial eloquence he began kowtowing on the polished marble floor. His majesty was so disgusted with this display of ignorance on the part of the audience-seeker that he roundly abused in Manchu the now trembling Taotai for daring to come before him "on a borrowed reputation." The unlucky Taotai was then almost driven from the audience chamber with the injuncticn "to keep an English book constant under his nose for three years at least if he wished to succeed at all in that line."

A Georgia Princess.

When Vivekanandi, the Hindu monk, visited Chicago during the World's Fair, he was greatly delighted one afternoon to learn that the "International Beauty show" on the Midway Plaisance contained an East Indian princess. He lost no time, says the Chicago Times-Herald, in visiting the show. In one of the booths was a dusky damsel, arrayed in East Indian costume, and prominently placarded as a charmer from the land of the Gangees.

Vivekanandi addressed her politely in Hindustanee, and for his pains was rewarded by a stare of blank astonishment. Then he tried Cingalese with no better success, and also the several allied dialects of the interior provinces of India. At last the dusky beauty spoke in sheer self-defense:

"Go 'way man," she said, "you mus' be crazy!"

"Excuse me," remarked Vivekanandi, in faultless English, "but will you kindly tell me where you were born?"

"I'se born in Savannah, an' I'se dun lived in Georgy all mah life," she said, "but yo' can't fool wid me, if you' is a stuck up no'thern niggah!" And he didn't try to do so.

Fire at Lakes Corners.

Fire broke out in the building owned by Mrs. Niedert at Lakes Corners about 7 o'clock, Tuesday morning. The cause of the fire is unknown. In less than an hour the building was razed to the ground. The loss on building to Mrs. Niedert is $2000. She held a policy in the Rockford Insurance Co. for $1000, but there appears to be some doubt as to whether she will be able to collect this amount as there was a change in the occupancy of the building after the policy was issued. It is said, however, that the policy was returned for correction of rate under the new occupancy. If this is true she will no doubt be able to collect the amount of her insurance. Kohl Bros. occupied the store and had a stock valued at $2000 at the time of the fire. Their loss amounts to $500.
