"LET US HAVE LIGHT!"

Electric Lights Turned On Barrington This Week.

Barrington has advanced one step toward the front in the way of modern improvements. Sunday night the old street lamps were discarded and the streets brilliantly lighted by electric lights.

A few months ago the Chicago Engineering company secured a franchise from the village authorities to put in an electric light plant and to furnish lights for the streets. From the very start the work has been rapidly pushed along by a large force of men under the able guidance of Messrs. Shedd and Brownell and has been completed nearly a month in advance of the time in which it was expected that it could be done.

The village now has in use fifty-six incandescent and two arc lights, which give entire satisfaction. The lights have been placed at every street corner which is found necessary, on account of the numerous trees that would interfere considerably with the distribution of the light had arc lights been used and placed a few blocks apart.

Many of the residences and business houses are being wired for electric lights and the indications are that the company will do a nice business in this line.

Now, we want waterworks.

Y. P. E. M. S. Picnic.

The picnic given by the Young Peoples' Evangelical Missionary society of the Salem church, at the Barrington camp grounds, Thursday, was well attended in spite of the rain in the morning.

The day was very pleasantly spent by all present. Among the attractions were boys' races, girls' races, fat mens' races, sack races, and in fact, races of every description.

The great attraction of the day was a ball game between two picked nines, composed entirely of ladies. Miss Grace Landwer was captain of the team known as the "Red Caps," while Miss Laura Landwer captained the "White Caps," who easily won the game by a score of 26 to 16.

The Women's Missionary society served refreshments.

The album quilt was sold to F. I. Frye for $22.50. The quilt netted the society $15.

The receipts of the day at the refreshment stand amounted to $46.

A lawn social was given at the residence of Henry Landwer, on Grove avenue, in the evening, in which most of the young people participated.

THEIR UNION DELAYED.

Young Wauconda Couple Had Difficulty in Getting Married.

Yesterday a party of three came into town from Wauconda. They were Ray Seymour, Will Monahan, and a young lady said to be the latter's sister.

It developed that the trip was of special significance to Mr. Seymour and the young lady, inasmuch they desired to be married. A marriage certificate was a necessity, and they went to County Clerk Hendee for the document. Mr. Hendee donned his most obliging demeanor, and things proceeded smoothly until Mr. Seymour's age was asked, "Nineteen," responded the prospective groom. The County Clerk explained that the consent of his father must be obtained before the license could be issued. "Why, he's willin'," responded the applicant; but this assertion, and eager importunities that followed, were of no avail; the County Clerk remained obdurate.

The young couple inquired the time of trains leaving for Kenosha, and it is presumed they soon reached that popular Etna Green, Wisconsin, the state where martial laws are less mandatory, and ere this have been joined as man and wife.—Waukegan Herald.

The South Elgins will play the Unions at Barrington base ball park at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Admission 15 cents.

PALATINE LOCALS.

Monday is labor day.

School opens Monday.

The German school opened Wednesday morning.

Pure cider vinegar 15cts. a gallon. L. PECK.

Have you signed the petition for waterworks?

F. A. Smith has moved into Mrs. Schierding's house.

Louie Krieter of Chicago visited friends here Thursday.

Ralph Beutler is enjoying a vacation at his home in this place.

Henry Knigge's family visited relatives at Elmhurst over Sunday.

Mrs. Biggs and daughter returned from Paris, Mo., Thursday night.

Dr. Pierman and wife of Champaign visited friends here Sunday.

Nearly every teacher in this section has been attending the institute this week.

Mrs. Vandegaift of Indianapolis is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Julian.

Miss Grace Beutler and brother, Irving, are visiting friends at South Chicago.

Mrs. Dr. Hideman of Chicago was a guest of Henry Knigge the latter part of last week.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered at the M. E. church tomorrow.

Ray Smith leaves for Chicago this morning where goes to work in Mandel Bros. store.

The Womens Foreign Missionary Society met with Mrs. John Smith Wednesday afternoon.

A number of cyclists of this place will witness the road race from Wheeling to Chicago next Monday.

George Kuebler started back to Arizona yesterday, where he is prospecting for the yellow metal.

Mr. and Mrs. Wicke of Desplaines visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gurns, in this place Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Sears, Miss Thillie Schultz and W. L. Smyser visited in Michigan a couple of days last week.

The foundation for Mr. Knigge's new residence is about completed and the frame work will be pushed rapidly.

The Owen tracks is the scene of some fast driving these days. A number of fast horses are on the tracks each day.

The Lake county fair at Libertyville will be held September 14 to 17. Some great attractions are offered this year.

Rev. J. C. Butler will preach tomorrow morning on "The Workmanship of God" and in the evening on "The Inheritors of the Earth."

John Fink sold his meat market to R. H. Lytle and Will Abgrim Saturday, and Walter Lytle and the junior partner are running the place. We wish the new firm the best of success.

Ray Wilson returned to Windsor, Canada, the first of the week after a few days at his home in this place to recover from a slight illness. His father went to take charge of his horses in his absence.

Some of the horses that were to be sold at the Owen auction last week were not sold at all, but were bid in by persons in behalf of Mrs. Owen. "Spot" and "Alta Boy" were two of the horses referred to as not being disposed of.

Miss Lulu Abbott of Woodstock has been secured as a teacher in our public school. Miss Abbott taught at Arlington Heights last year and comes well recommended. The assignment of teachers for the various rooms has not yet been arranged.

The social given on the parsonage lawn by the Junior League Thursday night was not very largely attended, the little people being in the majority and made up in noise for the lack of numbers. The juniors added a small sum to their treasury.

Master Walter Stroker celebrated his third birthday by entertaining a number of his little friends at the home of his father Wednesday afternoon. The little people, as well as some of the older ones who attended, greatly enjoyed the celebration.

Numerous complaints are being made by our cyclists of broken glass and other refuse dangerous to wheels being thrown in the streets. Our citizens should be careful of what they throw in the streets, as there is an ordinance prohibiting refuse being thrown on the highways.

M. Richmond has been soliciting signers to a petition for water works and the prospects are that we will have a plant before long. Many who voted against the proposition in the mass-meeting have signed the petition. Only tax payers are requested to sign. Messers Richmond and Patten guarantee to pay all costs for putting in a plant in excess of $15,000.

Wauconda Beaten.

The Barrington Juniors defeated the Wauconda Juniors at a game of base ball at the Barrington Ball Park Thursday afternoon. The team 5 were evenly matched but our boys played better ball. The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Barrington.....	0	5	4	0	0	7	2	4	0-22
Wauconda.....	5	0	1	3	0	2	1	0	3-15

We Are Here to Stay.

For a special inducement to get your work, we are offering a 16x20 crayon portrait, with a 6-inch frame complete for only $1.98. Remember this is not 14x17 that others are selling for $2.00 and up. You can see samples by calling at my photograph studio.

W. W. BENEDICT, Barrington.

The Unions Win Two Games.

At last the Unions have gotten revenge. They met the Wauconda Independents at Barrington Saturday, and with Peters in the box, they took the inlanders into camp to the tune of 14 to 8, and not being satisfied with this, they played them again at Lake Zurich Sunday and made most of the crowd happy by scoring 13 points to the Independents 11. The next game between these teams is to be played at Wauconda. Quigley and McFarland, two of the best players for the inland team have signed with the Unions for the rest of the season, and Manager Forbes is arranging to play different teams throughout northern Illinois.

Minor Happenings of the Past Week.

EVENTS OF LAST SEVEN DAYS.

Political, Religious, Social and Criminal Doings of the Whole World Carefully Condensed for Our Readers—The Accident Record.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—President William F. Slocum of the Colorado College, in an open letter to the friends of that institution, has announced his decision to decline the call to the presidency of Oberlin college.

Warren, O.—A Cleveland, Akron and Columbus engine, No. 27, attached to a south-bound freight train on that road, exploded at Frederickburg, killing the engineer and fireman and badly scalding H. E. Shank, the brakeman.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The fifteen-round bout between Jack Bonner of Summit Hill, Pa., and Harry Peppers of California at the Olympic Club, Athens, Pa., was tame and decidedly uninteresting, and the referee decided it a contest.

Plymouth, Ind.—William R. Haskett died here, aged 57 years. He was one of the most prominent members of the Knights of Maccabees in this region, and had been street commissioner for the past two years.

Victoria, B. C.—A private telegram received here announces the death near Coban, Guatemala, of Right Rev. Bishop Lemmens, Catholic bishop of Vancouver island and Alaska.

McPherson, Kan.—The First State Bank of this city, of which Senator Royal Matthews is president, failed, with liabilities amounting to $28,000. The bank is now in charge of Bank Commissioner John W. Breidenthal.

Columbus, Ohio.—It is unofficially announced that the democratic state campaign will open in every county in the state on Sept. 23.

Argentine crops have been greatly benefited by rains. El Diario de Buenos Ayres estimates the corn yield at 20,000,000 hectolitres, of which 12,000,000 is available for export.

Prince Bismarck is again suffering from neuralgia of the face. Dr. Schwenninger is in attendance upon the former chancellor.

The arrest of Armenians continues. It is rumored that Murad Bey, the leader of the young Turks, has either fled or has been done away with. Friends have not seen him since last Thursday.

Emperor William unveiled the equestrian monument of William I., at the confluence of the Rhine and the Moselle at Coblenz.

The news of heavy fighting between the Kurds and Armenians on the frontier is confirmed. The commander of the cavalry of the Kurds was killed and his son narrowly escaped. The losses of the Kurds are estimated at from 300 to 600 killed and wounded. The Armenians claim to have lost only twenty.

New York.—In the last six days there has been shipped from this city to western points over $7,000,000 in currency to meet the demand on the New York City banks for money to move the crops which are now on their way to market.

Managua, Nicaragua.—Nicaragua business men are tired of their depreciated silver dollar. They want their country placed on a gold basis.

Topeka, Kan.—E. C. Little, private secretary of Governor Leedy, has been decorated by the khedive of Egypt with the insignia of the Grand Cordon of the Imperial Order of Mejidieh of the Ottoman empire.

Racine, Wis.—Edward Anderson, aged 17 years, dropped dead in a drug store of heart disease. He had been an excessive rider of a bicycle, which weakened his heart.

Washington.—A telegram was received at the Japanese legation announcing the death of Count Mutzu, ex-minister of foreign affairs and Japanese minister to the United States in 1888.

The Chinese government has ordered from a Prussian builder four torpedo boats of 6,000 horse-power and a speed of thirty-two knots. They are to be completed within twelve months.

London.—The Echo asserts that the Duke and Duchess of York have accepted the invitation of the premier of Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to visit the dominion during the spring of 1898, while on their way to Australia.

London.—A dispatch to the Times from Rio Janeiro says that the coffee crop promises to reach 10,000,000 bags, as against 9,000,000 last season.

Paris.—The trial of Baron Mackau, one of the principal promoters of the charity bazaar which was burned on the 4th of May last, when upward of 100 lives were lost, is finished. He was found guilty of imprudence and sentenced to pay a fine of 500 francs.

CASUALTIES.

Ludington, Mich.—Fire destroyed the Ludington Basket Factory plant consisting of kilns, warehouse and manufacturing departments. A large quantity of unmanufactured stock was also consumed. Loss is $30,000 and insurance $6,000.

Little Rock, Ark.—The plant of the Arkansas Manufacturing Company of this city was destroyed by fire. Loss, $50,000; insurance, $25,000.

Elwood, Ind.—Peter Cray, a tin-plate worker, was fatally scalded by falling into a vat of boiling oil. Sycamore, Ill.—Clinton D. Chipman, a Chicago Great Western baggageman, was run over by the cars at Holcomb and killed.

Elwood, Ind.—In a runaway Jesse George had his skull fractured and will probably die.

Stillwater, Minn.—About $75,000 loss was occasioned by the burning of the Florence flour mill, Omaha freight depot and several cars of merchandise.

Wabash, Ind.—William Case, proprietor of a meat market at Converse, Ind., is lying at the point of death from the effects of a pistol wound accidentally inflicted. Case said that he had accidentally discharged the revolver he was cleaning.

CHANGE IN METHODS.

Important Step Taken by National Republican League.

DELEGATES TO BE ELECTED.

State Conventions Are in Future to Select Their Representatives—Next National Convention to Be Held at Omaha in June, 1898.

At a meeting of the national Republican league's executive committee at Chicago resolutions were adopted providing that in future all delegates to the national convention of the league must be selected by the state conventions, regularly authorized, and that no more delegates selected by committees be recognized in the national convention.

It was decided to have a sub-committee wait on the Republican national committee and offer the

LAWYERS ELECT OFFICERS.

W. Wirt Howe Chosen President of the Association.

The National Bar association quickly completed its work Friday. The program included the election of officers, selection of vice presidents by states, appointment of special committees, the adoption of a resolution looking to more stringent legislation against trusts, and the reading of an interesting paper on bribery by Adolph Moses of Chicago. The following officers were elected: President, William Wirt Howe of New Orleans; secretary, John Hinkley of Baltimore; treasurer, Francis Rawle of Philadelphia; executive committee, Alfred Hemenway of Boston, Charles Claffin Allen of St. Louis and Charles Mobile Gregory of Wisconsin. President McKinley was the guest of the association at its banquet.

Window Glass Trust Assured.

The window glass manufacturers of Indiana held a secret meeting Monday and the chances for consolidation of all the window glass interests of the country now seem assured.

PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION.

John M. Woolworth, whose sensational address to the American Bar Association at its Cleveland meeting is creating much comment, is perhaps the foremost lawyer in Nebraska and one of the most remarkable men in America. His father was a noted New York lawyer, and as soon as young Woolworth left Hamilton college he began the study of law under the preceptorship of his father. As early as 1856 he left Syracuse, N. Y., and went to Omaha. He was the first city attorney of Omaha, and has steadfastly devoted himself to the pursuit of his profession, declining all temptations to wander into political fields foreign to the law. He was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States in 1862, and since that time he has argued more cases before that court than any lawyer west of Chicago. Apart from law books Mr. Woolworth's studies have been wide and varied. His essays, addresses and lectures on general subjects show his great versatility and comprehensiveness of mind. In 1875 Racine college conferred upon him the degree of LL. D. In 1892 the university of Nebraska made him L. H. D., and in 1890 he was given the degree of D. C. L. by Trinity university of Toronto. He has laid by a snug fortune from his earnings, and is a larger part of the backbone of the citizenship of Omaha. Mr. Woolworth is a Democrat.

services of the league, provided the national committee furnishes the funds. The committee selected to do this work is composed of Messrs. Thurston, Hamilton, Hayes, President Crawford and Secretary Dowling.

It was decided to hold the next convention of the national league in Omaha, and to make the date some time during the first three weeks in June, 1898, when the Omaha exposition will be open. The headquarters of the national committee will remain in Chicago.

Kansas Bank Robbed.

Cracksmen visited the People's Exchange bank at Elmdale, Kan., Sunday morning, and they carried away all the money in the vaults, with the exception of $128 in silver, which was on a shelf, and $25 in gold, which the force of the explosion threw on the floor, where it was overlooked. The loss is $1,800 in money and $700 in drafts.

Four Hundred Killed.

Five towns have been wiped out and not less than 400 persons killed by the eruption of Mayon volcano, on Lucon island, one of the Philippines group. Widespread ruin has resulted in the towns and villages situated around the base of Mayon for fifty miles.

In Three Years, $70,000,000.

Dominion Surveyor William Ogilvie predicts that in the next three years at least $70,000,000 in gold dust will be taken out of the Klondike region.

Nebraska Republicans.

The Nebraska Republican state convention renominated Judge A. M. Post for supreme court justice and W. C. Kaley and John Dryden for state university regents. The platform pledges adherence to Republican doctrines. It contains no reference to the money question. Senator John M. Thurston in his address to the convention said that he would not again be a candidate for the senate.

Would Make a Strong Combination.

A French writer points out that the United States has no ground for a conflict with France or Russia, while she would bring into the new alliance an unlimited naval power, and he asks publicists and politicians to boom such an alliance in order that it may be realized at the dawn of the twentieth century.

Midnight Special Wrecked.

The midnight special of the Chicago & Alton railroad was wrecked near Alton, Ill., Sunday morning. Peter Rafferty of Bloomington, the engineer, was fatally injured. Fireman Charles Johnson of Bloomington, Ill., Mail Clerks Robert Mattimore of Jerseyville, Ill., and W. F. Simper and Samuel Grobbs of Chicago were severely hurt.

Will Meet at Detroit.

The Foresters of America supreme convention selected Detroit as the meeting place for 1899. A motion to eliminate the endowment plan of the order finally carried. The new ritual was adopted.

CRITICISE THE COURTS.

Bitter Language Used at the Labor Conference.

"REORGANIZE THE COUNTRY."

Fiercy Speeches Made—The Resolutions Adopted—If the Coal Strike Is Not Settled by Sept. 20 a Convention Will Be Held at Chicago.

In a speech at the conference of labor leaders at St. Louis Monday afternoon M. D. Ratchford, president of the United Mine Workers of America, advocated a great sympathetic strike of all branches of organized labor unless congress met at once and gave the laborers relief and wiped out the laws which empowered the judiciary "to conduct government by injunction.

W. E. Prescott, president of the International Typographical Union, was elected chairman of the meeting, and W. C. Pearce, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, was chosen secretary.

Eighty-eight delegates, representing the following organizations, were present: United Mine Workers of America, the Social Democracy, the American Federation of Labor, the Stonemakers' International Union, Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, Brotherhood of Bottle-Blowers, Building Trades Council of St. Louis, the Patriots of America, International Brotherhood of Track Foremen, the Single-Tax League of America, Central Labor Council of Cincinnati, the International Typographical Union, the People's party of Kansas and the Industrial Order of Freedmen.

The day was taken up with speeches from various delegates and the appointment of a committee on resolutions and plan of action. At 5 p. m. the convention adjourned until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

At Tuesday's session of the conference of labor leaders at St. Louis, Mr. Severign made a fiery speech in which he urged workmen to defy injunctions and "tear down the courts." Eugene V. Debs advocated a series of national meetings for the purpose of overturning government by injunction.

The most important resolutions contained in the platform were the following:

"Resolved, That we hereby set apart Friday, Sept. 3, 1897, as a "Good Friday" for the cause of suffering labor in America, and contribute the earnings of that day to the support of our struggling brothers, the miners, and appeal to every union man and every friend of labor throughout the country to do likewise.

"Resolved, If the strike of the miners is not settled by the 20th day of September, 1897, a general convention be held at Chicago on Monday Sept. 27, 1897, by the representatives of all unions, sections, branches, lodges and kindred organizations of laboring men and friends of their cause for the purpose of considering further measures in behalf of the industrial masses.

"Resolved, That no nation in which the people are totally disarmed can long remain a free nation, and, therefore, we urge upon all liberty-loving citizens to remember and obey article 2 of the constitution of the United States, which reads as follows: "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Against the Gold Standard.

The Pennsylvania democratic state convention incorporated the following financial plank in its platform: "We are firmly and unalterably opposed to the single gold standard, which has been the direct cause of the financial distress that has followed upon our people since its adoption, and we are in favor of a complete and immediate return to our original specie basis as it existed prior to the demonetization act of 1873."

National Farmers' Congress.

The seventeenth meeting of the Farmers' National congress of the United States was called to order at St. Paul, Minn., Tuesday. The delegate representation in the congress does not at its maximum exceed 500. In his annual address President Clayton advised the farmers to band together and take their proper places in politics.

Excitement at Paris.

President Faure was given an enthusiastic reception on his arrival in Paris Tuesday. At night a crowd of men with flags and banners and shouting "Down with Emperor William!" and "Long Live France!" marched toward the Elysee palace, where it was finally dispersed by the police.

Fatal Earthquake in Japan.

The Japan steamer Columbia, just in, brings news of severe earthquakes in Japan on Aug. 5, followed by a tidal wave and great floods. A thousand houses were inundated and 200 persons were killed and injured. Sixty-five Chinese villages were inundated.

Thousands to Return to Work.

The pressed ware scale has been agreed upon. The settlement affects over 8,000 men, 2,100 being skilled and about 6,000 unskilled workers. The scale signed is practically that of last year.

New Detectives Put to Work.

A solution of the Shepherd, Mich., bank robbery and murder apparently is as remote as ever. New detectives have been put to work. It is not probable now that any arrests will be made for several days.

Defies Gen. Weyer.

Gen. Quintin Banderas led 12,000 Cuban insurgents from the eastern end of the island, where the patriots in arms are strongest, to the western end, without opposition from the Spanish troops.

Mrs. John Drew Is Dead.

Mrs. John Drew, the actress, died at Larchmont, New York. She had been suffering for several years, but not seriously until May or June last.

J. P. S. GOBIN, NEW COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF G. A. R.

Brevet Brigadier General John P. S. Gobin, the new commander-in-chief, was born at Sunbury, Pa., in 1838, and now lives at Lebanon, Pa. He gained his education in the public schools of his native town. He was admitted to the bar just before the war began, and he entered the service as a captain. He enlisted in the Eleventh Pennsylvania infantry in 1861 for three months, and at the end of the enlistment, his company re-enlisted and was merged into the Forty-eighth Pennsylvania regiment. He was soon appointed to the command of the regiment and fought with the Nineteenth army corps in the Red River campaign and with Sheridan in the Shenandoah Valley. He was provost judge of South Carolina during the early reconstruction period. He settled at Lebanon in 1867 and organized Post 42. He has been prominent in Pennsylvania politics, having been state senator for sixteen years, and for several years president of the senate. He has also been prominent in masonic and Grand Army circles.

Hog Cholera.

The following mixture, recommended by Dr. Salmon of the Bureau of Animal Industry, has been found beneficial in many cases, but no "sure cure" is known:

- 1 part wood charcoal.
- 1 part sulphur.
- 2 parts sodium chloride (common salt.)
- 2 parts sodium bicarbonate.
- 2 parts sodium hyposulphite.
- 1 part sodium sulphate.
- 1 part antimony sulphide.

These ingredients should be well pulverized and then thoroughly mixed. The dose is one tablespoonful for each 200 pounds weight of hog once a day. Those weighing less should receive smaller doses in the same ratio as the reduction in weight. It is best fed by mixing with bran, middlings or some other soft feed. After having been induced to eat it once hogs will usually return to it with a relish. It must not be understood that this is a specific for swine plague, though there are many cases of record where its use has apparently cured the disease. It has been of greater value, perhaps, as a preventive, and when so used the dose may be somewhat reduced in quantity. During the time the disease is found upon the place all sleeping quarters, breeding places, feed lots and other places where the swine congregate should be thoroughly disinfected every few days.

This is best done by sprinkling well with air slacked lime or a five per cent. solution of crude carbolic acid, or with some other germicide. No stagnant water should be permitted in the pasture or feeding lot, and the disinfectant of lime or carbolic acid should be used liberally about the water hole or water trough. All litter and bedding should be frequently removed and burned. In irrigated regions waste water should not be permitted to pass from the pastures of infected swine to carry the disease to other herds, and after the disease subsides the pastures should be thoroughly dried to kill stray germ that may be lurking among the vegetation. The swine plague bacterium is a comparatively delicate organism and may be destroyed by a proper observance of the above-mentioned regulations. There are circumstances under which it would be impossible to observe the requirement to dry out the pasture and pens. If in these cases they could be thoroughly flooded the germs could be killed, as they drown easily. It must be remembered that the disease does not always attack a herd with the same severity. Some outbreaks are comparatively mild and none but the weak hogs and little pigs succumb, and the percentage of mortality among these may at times be small; whereas, in other outbreaks the mortality reaches 90 per cent. or more, and old hogs are taken off with the little ones. The condition of the animals also has much to do with the mortality. Swine plague may be expected to carry off a greater percentage of the unthrifty animals than of those well and hearty. I have found also that in herds where the constitutions of the swine were much weakened by close breeding the mortality is much greater than where the herd is kept thrifty by out-crossing. In the Mississippi basin and some other localities hog cholera is associated with swine plague. Although this resembles swine plague in a great many respects, and the treatment for the two diseases is the same in all essential particulars, in the matter of ridding a place of hog cholera there is much difference. The hog cholera bacterium is much hardier than that of swine plague, and it will live and multiply in stagnant water and moist soil and litter, thus making it a very difficult matter to completely eradicate the disease from a place upon which it has once appeared. But with care a few months during the hot weather of the summer will suffice to clear a place of swine plague.

Sheep as Sailors.

Sheep make good sailors. Their habit of sticking close together probably enables them to acquire sea-legs sooner than other animals. They become quite tame after a short experience on board ship. Once in Genoa we were supplied with one of the most extraordinary-looking animals of the breed I have ever set my eyes on. His horns were twisted nearly twice round, and his nose was a real "Wellington." He was at home on board in a few hours after his arrival, and continued to enlarge the circle of his friends by making some three or four voyages with me to India. In the matter of food he was by no means particular. Pea soup was his favorite dish. Hot potatoes or any vegetable he took a fancy to were easily obtainable. He had but to watch the sailor who carried these things from the galley to the fo'c'sle, and by butting him until he rolled over or threw the contents of the dish to him he succeeded in getting the desired dainties. He became latterly the terror of the sailors' lives at meal hours, but his outrageous conduct having been the result of their own teaching, they never complained. His evil practices, however, became so great that I had, though with some regret, to close his career as a shipmate.—Captain John Bain.

The credit that is got by a lie only lasts until the truth comes out.

GEN. GOBIN CHOSEN.

NEW COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE GRAND ARMY.

Two Ballots Necessary—Gen. Clarkson's Annual Report Read—Women's Relief Corps in Session—Have a Large Amount of Money on Hand.

Old soldiers poured into Buffalo by the thousands Tuesday. They came to the G. A. R. encampment by regiments and battalions, by corps and divisions.

The chief event of the proceedings proper was the formal opening of Camp Jewett at 4 o'clock. There was a splendid parade of civic bodies at night and a public reception to Major T. S. Clarkson, commander-in-chief.

During the morning the women's headquarters at 256 Delaware avenue were formally opened.

President McKinley was Tuesday night the guest of Columbia post of Chicago at a banquet attended by all the distinguished officers of the Grand Army of the Republic. Gov. Black made the address of welcome to the Grand Army of the Republic on behalf of the state, and he was followed by Mayor Jewett, who spoke for Buffalo. Then the president spoke. His theme the Republic had expended for charity the magnificent sum of $2,100,617.67.

Gen. Clarkson, the retiring commander-in-chief, in his address denounced the desecration of Memorial day by games and races.

The annual report of Ida S. McBride, national secretary of the Women's Relief Corps, showed that there were now thirty-five departments and fifty-five detached corps, with a total membership in good standing of 111,633. The amount in the general fund June 30, 1897, was $104,401 and in the relief fund $54,967.

Grand Army Officers.

The Grand Army encampment closed its business Friday by the election of these officers: Senior vice commander, Alfred Lyth, Buffalo; junior vice commander, Francis B. Allen, New Hartford, Conn.; chaplain, Frank C. Bruner, Chicago; surgeon general, Dr. David McKay, Dallas, Tex.

Commander-in-Chief Shaw, of the department of New York, offered a resolution, providing that the last Sunday in May be observed as Memorial day, and spoke at length in support of it. The resolution was defeated. Mrs. S. J. Martin, of Missouri, was elected national president of the Women's Relief Corps, defeating Mrs. Flora J. Mil-was "The Nation and Its Defenders." National Commander Clarkson, Secretary of War Alger and Archbishop Ireland also made addresses.

The Ladies' Association of Naval Veterans elected Mrs. Jennie Laird, Providence, R. I., captain commander.

The Woman's National Auxillary to the Union ex-Prisoner's Association elected Mrs R. A. A. Patterson, Pittsburg, Pa., national president.

Gen. J. P. S. Gobin of Lebanon, Pa., was Thursday night elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. Gen. George H. Innis of Massachusetts, Gen. John C. Linehan of New Hampshire, Col. Mack and Gen. Gobin were candidates. Gen. Gobin was chosen on the second ballot, and the election was made unanimous. Cincinnati was selected as the place for the next encampment.

The report of Adjutant General Charles E. Burmeister showed that in good standing June 30, 1896, the order had 7,302 posts, with 340,610 members; on Dec. 31, 1896, it had 7,276 posts, with 327,412 members; on June 30, 1897, it had 7,106 posts, with 319,456 members. During the last ten years, he also reported, the Grand Army of Illinois. Mrs. R. F. Atkins, of Buffalo, was elected senior vice commander. Gen. Edgar D. Swain, of Chicago, was elected president of the Fourth Army Corps.

Past Commander in Chief Walker, of Indiana, was presented with a silver service by the encampment, the address being made by William M. Olin, of Boston.

Mrs. W. L. Woody, national president of the army nurses, was admitted to the convention; likewise "Mother" Ransom, of California, 82 years old, the oldest army nurse living, and Mrs. William Scott, who spoke for the colored veterans who were unable to attend the encampment.

The report of the committee on text books used in the public schools was adopted. The report deals severely with some of the histories used in the South, charging that they misstate the facts as to the cause of the rebellion, and present them from a Southern point of view. A regret is expressed that after an examination of all histories used in the states that were loyal to the government, in the opinion of the committee, none merits the unqualified indorsement of the organization.

Tennessee Exposition.

That is to say, Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith's view of the Tennessee exposition, as expressed in Scribner's Magazine.

Mr. Smith praises graciously the state's greatest show. He reveals to us that it is in no sense a national fair or affair, but one strictly Tennesseean, which makes it all the more interesting. At the same time it is so unique and picturesque that it attracts all the nation to it by reason of this.

Our writer finds the keynote of the whole exposition to be the prominence given to things peculiarly Tennesseean. At every turn are manifest respect for Tennessee traditions and for the old days of the Confederacy. Next is the prominence given to the state's patron saints, "Jackson, Polk, Houston and the others." The buildings are mostly artistic and beautiful, yet cropping out amid the evidences of the past is everywhere, too, the spirit of what is called the "new south."

We regret to see that Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith cannot go in with enthusiasm wholly for this new south. He has a poetic regret that the old life, which was the country's colonial life, restful, wholesome and simple, can never be revived. Yet it was a life that dwarfed all the hustle and progress in young southern manhood and should not be regretted. Let it live in poetry and romance, along with the age of chivalry and the times of the troubadours. There is its place. The new time will bring with it all that was best in the past and much that is better than anything the past ever knew.

Bicycle Event.

The achievement of James Michael, the Welshman, in the race at Manhattan Beach is a notable event in bicycle riding and racing. Michael has been called a condensed giant because of the mighty strength in his small body and limbs. He says he is gradually riding himself to death in these races. It is scarcely to be hoped, however, that this statement will discourage from attempts at fast riding those mistaken individuals who are no more built for bicycle racing than a plow horse is built for winning the Futurity. Each to his gait.

The world's record for bicycle riding is 32 miles 448 yards in an hour Michael, familiarly called Welsh Rarebit—"Rabbit," his admirers pronounce it—did 33 miles in 1 hour 6 minutes 14 4-5 seconds. It is believed that if the wind had not been blowing during the race he would have beaten the world's record. As it was, he rode 30 1-6 miles in an hour, an average of a mile in less than two minutes. This is faster than the ordinary railway train travels, taking the average of the country over. The man who could keep even half that tremendous pace would ride upon his bicycle 150 miles in 10 hours.

Undoubtedly the record will continue to be cut down. It is impossible to predict where it will stop. There is nothing remarkable in the small Welshman's appearance. He seems the incarnation of will power, aided by all the ingenious mechanical contrivances that can be brought to bear to make a pedaling machine go faster.

Sept. 1, 1870, occurred the great defeat of the French at Sedan. Sept. 4, three days afterward, the French republic was proclaimed. A little later German soldiers trod in the old palace of the French kings at Versailles. France was humiliated to the earth, but not crushed. From the date of the proclamation of the republic in 1870, now 27 years, she has held herself together under government of the people. One beloved president has been assassinated, another has just escaped the same fate, yet still the banner of the republic of France waves in the face of all the monarchies of Europe. It is to be profoundly regretted that implacable hatred of Germany yet rankles in the French breast, still more to be regretted that every means is taken to keep that hatred alive among the younger generations of France. Revenge is a most unprofitable sentiment on which to build one's life. It is not in the least likely that France will ever get Alsace-Lorraine back by fighting for it, or that Germany will ever agree to sell it back to her, as has been proposed. But France is a great nation enough without Alsace-Lorraine.

Labor Day.

Labor day was first officially celebrated in New York in 1882. Since then the custom of making the first Monday in September a holiday to be specially observed by wage earners has spread through most of the states in the Union, and many of them have made it a legal holiday. A point for American citizens to note especially is the difference between the observance of Labor day in our republic and in Europe. May day is the recognized Labor day in the countries of Europe. Crowned heads and city authorities there look forward to it with dread. For weeks beforehand the police prepare for the contingency of anarchist plots and bombs that may blow a king's head off or a city hall up. Anarchist growls are heard in subdued murmurs, like the mutterings of a storm afar off, but coming nearer and every hour. In the United States the workingman parades with his comrades or goes fishing with his family as he chooses. There are meetings and speeches on the great economic problems now pressing alike on labor and capital for solution. Distinguished statesmen and professional men are glad to meet the intelligent American workingman and talk to him and hear him talk. Nobody is afraid of anybody. Nobody fears a bomb may go off somewhere near him.

So the day passes in peace and pleasure. So may it always pass in this free and happy republic. There is the sure hope that in due time the equipoise between demand and supply, production and distribution, cost and profit, will be struck. The intelligence, firm will and good temper of the workingman himself will find the point of balance.

The Old Soldiers.

The Grand Army encampment this year at Buffalo brought together a larger number of Union veterans than were in attendance at any of the 30 previous meetings of the old soldiers. As their ranks become thinner perhaps their interest in the organization becomes stronger. Perhaps, too, the prosperity which is undoubtedly coming back to the United States has already helped many of the G. A. R. boys, so that they could better afford the journey which stopped at Buffalo. Again, many of them are now old men, some of whom have retired from regular active delving at business enterprises, so that they have the leisure to relight the campfire and talk over old times with their comrades. There were 45,000 veterans in the great procession, at whose head rode President McKinley.

At every soldiers' parade the country over the most impressive as well as the most attractive feature is the companies of veterans who fought in the civil war, the old men with their gray locks and tattered, powder stained flags. So it should be. Here and there a spruce and trim old boy, with the alert step and rosy cheek of a young boy, shows still the possibility of retaining youth in middle age, but for the most part the civil war veterans are bowed and gray haired and feeble of movement. Let these old men have the place of honor in every procession on which they consent to confer the dignity of their presence. They have seen what, thank heaven! none born within a generation in this country has witnessed in his native land, real war.

The largest number of Union soldiers in the army at any one period was at its close. At the time of the grand review in Washington in the spring of 1865 there were of men actually belonging to the army 1,000,516. The northern army grew steadily greater from beginning to close of the civil war. The Confederate army was, however, largest at the end of 1862, when it numbered 700,000. At the beginning of the war the United States had, all told, only 16,367 men in its little regular army. How that number swelled till it was over a million as the war went on has been many times told. On both sides there were altogether rather more than 2,500,000 soldiers in the civil war. Of those who at one time or another served in the Union army there were about 1,500,000. There were 180,000 negro troops. About 750,000 Union veterans still survive. At the battle of Gettysburg, also in the final contest before Richmond, and in the armies of Sherman and Joseph E. Johnston before Atlanta the Union forces in each case outnumbered the Confederate.

So large a minority in the United States senate insisted on having paris green put upon the free list that their demands were acceded to. The demand was in the interests of the farmers, who use great quantities of this chemical to destroy insect pests.

After all, Abdul Hamid of Turkey knows enough to come in when it rains.

 Joseph Walter, accompanied by his mother and sisters, visited Mr. and Mrs. H. Maiman Tuesday on their way home from their trip through Southern Wisconsin.
 J. M. Fitch returned from his Buffalo trip Saturday, gorgeously arrayed with shining badges of numerous designs. He reports a very pleasant trip and the honor of shaking hands with President McKinley.
 J. H. Shaw of Bloomington, Ill., was in our village Monday evening and delivered a prohibition lecture on our street. Quite an audience was present. Prohibition would be a good thing, but we do not see our way clear for such a course.
 Saturday the Independents and Unions crossed bats at Barrington and Sunday at Lake Zurich, both games being won by the Unions. This is four games the two lines have now played together, each having won two. The last game of the series will be played here, the date of which we have not yet been informed. This is expected to be the last game of the series, and both teams will work for this game.

 Mrs. Green and two children, who have been spending the summer at this place, started for their home in Lincoln, Nebraska, Monday.
 The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Allen was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday noon. Their daughter, Miss Florence, was the bride and Mr. Robert Little the gentleman with whom she has chosen to join her future destiny. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Locke of Nunda at 12 o'clock and was witnessed only by the immediate relatives. The bride is a beautiful young lady who has been brought up in this place, where she won many friends. She is a graduate of the Valparaiso school, being a graduate of the class of 1894. After finishing the high school course she began teaching and was for some time one of the most highly valued teachers in the high school at Landers, Wyo. Instead of returning to the routine of school life she has entered another calling, to which her natural qualifications have especially adapted her. The groom was a prominent teacher in that city also, but is now studying medicine in St. Louis, Mo. The newly married couple left for Springfield and from there they will go to their new home at St. Louis, carrying with them the best wishes of their many friends.

WILL CONVINCE EVERY ONE THAT THE PLACE TO BUY WHITE LEAD, LINSEED OIL,

MIXED PAINTS, VARNISHES, HARD OILS, LIME, BRICK, CEMENT, Etc., is at

J. D. LAMEY & CO.'S,

Prices are low. Parties desirous of doing painting will find no better time to do so than right now. Linseed Oil is now down to a remarkable low figure, as is also White Lead. It looks reasonable that prices can not hold down to so low a point but for a short time; in particular that of Linseed Oil. Nearly every one is aware of the rise in price of all grains, which include flax, of which Linseed Oil is made. Prices can not get lower—they are as low as they can get.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

HA. TEL. NML.—(CONTINUED.)
"I'll have the law for this," he growled. "I ain't paid to be beaten by a madman."

"You're paid to do my work, not another's," said Carriston. "Go to the man who has overbribed you and sent you to tell me your lies. Go to him, tell him that once more he has failed. Out of my sight!"

As Carriston showed signs of recommending hostile operations, the man fled as far as the doorway. There, being in comparative safety, he turned with a malignant look.

"You'll smart for this," he said; "when they lock you up as a raving lunatic I'll try and get a post as keeper."

I was glad to see that Carriston paid no attention to this parting shaft. He turned his back scornfully, and the fellow left the room and the house.

"Now are you convinced?" asked Carriston, turning to me.

"Convinced of what? That his tale is untrue, or that he has been misled, I am quite certain."

"Tush! That is not worth consideration. Don't you see that Ralph has done all this? I set that man to watch him; he found out the espionage; suborned my agent, or your agent I should say; sent him here with a trumped-up tale. Oh, yes; I was to believe that Madeline had deserted me—that was to drive me out of my senses. My cousin is a fool after all!"

"Without further proof I cannot believe that your suspicions are correct," I said; but I must own I spoke with some hesitation.

"Proof! A clever man like you ought to see ample proof in the fact of that wretch having twice called me a madman. I have seen him but once before—you know if I then gave him any grounds for making such an assertion. Tell me, from whom could he have learnt the word except from Ralph Carriston?"

I was bound, if only to save my own reputation for sagacity, to confess that the point noted by Carriston had raised certain doubts in my mind. But if Ralph Carriston really was trying by some finely-wrought scheme to bring about what he desired, there was all the more reason for great caution to be exercised.

"I am sorry you beat the fellow," I said. "He will now swear right and left that you were not in your senses."
"Of course he will? What do I care?"
"Only remember this. It is easier to get put into an asylum than to get out of it."

"It is not so very easy for a sane man like me to be put in, especially when he is on his guard. I have looked up the law. There must be a certificate signed by two doctors, surgeons—or, I believe, apothecaries will do—who have seen the supposed lunatic alone and together. I'll take pretty good care I speak to no doctor save yourself, and keep out of the way of surgeons and apothecaries."

It quite cheered me to hear him speaking so sensibly and collectedly about himself, but I again impressed upon him the need for great caution. Although I could not believe that his cousin had taken Madeline away, I was inclined to think, after the affair with the spy, that, as Carriston averred, he aimed at getting him, sane or insane, into a mad-house.

But after all these days we were not a step nearer to the discovery of Madeline's whereabouts. Carriston made no sign of doing anything to facilitate that discovery. Again I urged him to intrust the whole affair to the police. Again he refused to do so, adding that he was not quite ready. Ready for what, I wondered!

XIV.

MUST confess, in spite of my affection for Carriston, I felt inclined to rebel against the course which matters were taking. I was a prosaic, matter-of-fact medical man, doing my work to the best of my ability, and anxious when that work was done that my hours of leisure would be as free from worry and care as possible. With Carriston's advent several disturbing elements entered into my quiet life.

Let Ralph Carriston be guilty or innocent of the extraordinary crime which his cousin laid at his door, I felt certain that he was anxious to obtain possession of the supposed lunatic's person. It would suit his purposes for his cousin to be proved mad. I did not believe that, even if the capture was legally effected, Carriston's liberation would be a matter of great difficulty so long as he remained in his present state of mind; so long as I, a doctor of some standing, could go into the witness box and swear to his sanity. But my old dread was always with me—the dread that any further shock would overturn the balance of his sensitive mind.

So it was that every hour that Carriston was out of my sight was fraught with anxiety. If Ralph Carriston was really as unscrupulous as my friend supposed; if he had really, as seemed almost probable, suborned our agent, he might by some crafty trick obtain the needful certificate, and some day I should come home and find Carriston had been removed. In such a case I foresaw great trouble and distress.

Besides, after all that had occurred, it was as much as I could do to believe that Carriston was not mad. Any doctor who knew what I knew would have given the verdict against him.

After dismissing his visions and hallucinations with the contempt which they deserved, the fact of a man who was madly, passionately in love with a woman, and who believed that she had been entrapped and was still kept in restraint, sitting down quietly, and letting day after day pass without making an effort toward finding her, was in itself prima facie evidence of insanity. A sane man would at once have set all the engines of detection at work.

I felt that if once Ralph Carriston obtained possession of him he could make out a strong case in his own favor. First of all, the proposed marriage out of the defendant's own sphere of life; the passing under a false name; the ridiculous, or apparently ridiculous, accusation made against his kinsman; the murderous threats; the chastisement of his own paid agent who brought him a report which might not seem at all untrue to anyone who knew not Madeline Rowan. Leaving out of the question what might be wrung from me in cross-examination, Ralph Carriston had a strong case, and I knew that, once in his power, my friend might possibly be doomed to pass years, if not his whole life, under restraint. So I was anxious, very anxious.

And I felt an anxiety, scarcely second to that which prevailed on Carriston's account, as to the fate of Madeline. Granting for sake of argument that Carriston's absurd conviction that no bodily harm had as yet been done her, was true, I felt sure that she with her scarcely less sensitive nature must feel the separation from her lover as much as he himself felt the separation from her. Once or twice I tried to comfort myself with cynicism—tried to persuade myself that a young woman could not in our days be spirited away—that she had gone by her own free will—that there was a man who had at the eleventh hour alienated her affections from Carriston. But I could not bring myself to believe this. So I was placed between the horns of a dilemma.

If Madeline had not fled of her own free will, someone must have taken her away, and if so our agent's report was a coined one, and, if a coined one, issued at Ralph's instance; therefore Ralph must be the prime actor in the mystery.

But in sober moments such a deduction seemed an utter absurdity.

Although I have said that Carriston was doing nothing towards clearing up the mystery I roned him in so saying. After his own erratic way he was at work. At such work too! I really lost all patience with him.

He shut himself up in his room, out of which he scarcely stirred for three days. By that time he had completed a large and beautiful drawing of his imaginary man. This he took to a well-known photographer's, and ordered several hundred small photographs of it to be prepared as soon as possible. The minute description which he had given me of his fanciful creation was printed at the foot of each copy. As soon as the first batch of these precarious photographs was sent home, to my great joy he did what he should have done days ago: yielded to my wishes, and put the matter into the hands of the police.

I was glad to find that in giving details of what had happened he said nothing about the advisability of keeping a watch on Ralph Carriston's proceedings. He did indeed offer an absurdly large reward for the discovery of the missing girl, and, moreover, gave the officer in charge of the case a packet of photographs of his phantom man, telling him in the gravest manner that he knew the original of that likeness, had something to do with the disappearance of Miss Rowan. The officer, who thought the portrait was that of a natural being, took his instructions in good faith, although he seemed greatly surprised when he heard that Carriston knew neither the name nor the occupation, in fact knew nothing concerning the man who was to be sought for. However, as Carriston assured him that finding this man would insure the reward as much as if he found Madeline, the officer readily promised to combine the two tasks, little knowing what waste of time any attempt to perform the latter must be.

Two days after this Carriston came to me. "I shall leave you to-morrow," he said.

"Where are you going?" I asked. "Why do you leave?"

"I am going to travel about. I have no intention of letting Ralph get hold of me. So I mean to go from place to place until I find Madeline."

"Be careful," I urged.

"I shall be careful enough. I'll take care that no doctors, surgeons, or even apothecaries get on my track. I shall go just as the fit seizes me. I can't say one day where I shall be the next, it will be impossible for that villain to know."

This was not a bad argument. In fact, if he carried out his resolve of passing quickly from place to place, I did not see how he could plan anything more likely to defeat the intentions with which we credited his cousin. As to his finding Madeline by so doing, that was another matter.

His idea seemed to be that chance would sooner or later bring him in contact with the man of his dream. However, now that the search had been entrusted to the proper persons, his own action in the matter was not worth troubling about. I gave him many cautions. He was to be quiet and guarded in words and manner. He was not to converse with strangers. If he found himself dogged or watched by anyone, he was to communicate at once with me. But, above all, I begged him not to yield again to his mental infirmity. The folly of a man who could avoid it throwing himself into such a state ought to be apparent to him.

"Not oftener than I can help," was all the promise I could get from him. "But see her I must sometimes, or I shall die."

I had now given up as hopeless the combat with his peculiar idiosyncrasy. So, with many expressions of gratitude on his part, we bade each other farewell.

During his absence he wrote to me nearly every day, so that I might know his whereabouts in case I had any news to communicate. But I had none. The police failed to find the slightest clew. I had been called upon by them once or twice in order that they might have every grain of information I could give. I took the liberty of advising them not to waste their time in looking for the man, as his very existence was problematical. It was but a fancy of my friend's, and not worth thinking seriously about. I am not sure but what after hearing this they did not think the whole affair was an imagined one, and so relaxed their efforts.

Once or twice, Carriston, happening to be in the neighborhood of London, came to see me, and slept the night at my house. He also had no news to report. Still, he seemed hopeful as ever.

The weeks went by until Christmas was over and the New Year had begun; but no sign, word, or trace of Madeline Rowan. "I have seen her," wrote Carriston, "several times. She is in the same place—unhappy, but not ill-treated."

Evidently his hallucinations were still in full force.

At first I intended that the whole of this tale should be told by myself; but upon getting so far it struck me that the evidence of another actor who played an important part in the drama would give certain occurrences to the reader at first instead of a second hand, so I wrote to my friend Dick Fenton, of Frenchay, Gloucestershire, and begged him, if he felt himself capable of so doing, to put in simple narrative form his impressions of certain events, which happened in January, 1866; events in which we two were concerned.

His Request.

The old southern planter was dying. For fifty years he had ridden over his plantation and directed the men at their work, and in all that time not a sprig of cotton had been known to grow upon his land. Corn alone the old man had raised. Corn and mint. Now, through the dusk settling down over the great place his nose beamed softly through the shadows and cast a pale, reddish light upon the remainder of his countenance. "Put," said he, weakly, as he realized his time had come, "put upon my tombstone the words—" He took the straw between his trembling fingers, while the odor of the julep shared with silence the moment. "Corn, but not for cotton." And even so they did it.—New York World.

Johnny's Bad Humor.

"Johnny has been in a bad humor all the evening," said the worried mother when the head of the house came home. "He has been crying more than an hour and refuses to be comforted." "He refuses to be either comforted or blanketed," said the nurse, who had just come in. "He kicks the covers off as fast as I put them on him."—Indianapolis Journal.

ILLINOIS NEWSLETS.

RECORD OF MINOR DOINGS OF THE WEEK.

Seven Days' Happenings Condensed—Social, Religious, Political, Criminal, Obituary and Miscellaneous Events from Every Section of the State.

Dixon telegram—Mrs. Hester A. DePuy, aged 47, died here. The funeral will be held Friday at 2 o'clock.

Marengo telegram—James Dooley, aged 80 years, an old and respected citizen of this community, died last night.

Dixon telegram—Perry Wood, aged 84, an old settler of the Rock River valley, was buried at Grand Detour today.

Harry Fletcher, aged 60, a business man of Seatonville, and his grandson, Henry Fletcher, aged 11, while driving across the railroad tracks at the Clarion crossing, east of town, were struck by a passenger train, and both were instantly killed.

Springfield.—Gov. Tanner has declined to issue his warrant for the extradition of Louis Enricht, of Chicago, former county surveyor of Cook County, on the requisition of the Governor of Indiana. The requisition of Gov. Mount was based upon a complaint made before a justice of the peace of Marion County in that state charging Enricht with obtaining goods and money under false pretenses. Enricht entered a contract to construct a street railway in Indiana, and the prosecution grows out of a dispute over the contract. At the hearing it was shown to Gov. Tanner that civil suits had been commenced against Enricht.

Spring Valley.—The school board injunction case of this city is on the road to celebrity. The Baxter faction of the board sued out a writ of injunction before Judge Trimble at Princeton, the Keegan faction took a change of venue to Judge Stough at Morris, and the other side again took a change, expecting it would go to Judge Blanchard of Ottawa. The latter was away on his vacation and the case now goes for a hearing to Judge Puterbaugh at Peoria, having passed over the heads of three judges of the thirteenth judicial district. The injunction was granted to prevent any interference with the teachers engaged for the next term.

Mount Vernon telegram—S. H. Anderson, the stockman of this county who has been attending a hog sale at Odessa, Mo., writes a friend here that his hogs at this sale in seven instances in one day beat the world's record for prices. One sow sold for $1,575, and a litter of eight pigs, under six months, out of "Hands Off," sold for $3,055. This beats the world's litter record, which was $2,025 for five pigs. The five highest of Anderson's litter sold for $2,290, thus breaking the litter record twice. The best pig of the litter sold for $660, and broke the record of boar pigs under six months. The record for sow pigs under six months his pigs broke four times. One of the hogs raised here brought over $3,300 a short time ago.

Fulton.—The preliminary examination of J. G. Johnson, general attorney for the Modern Woodmen of America, was conducted in this city. The charge was riot. State's Attorney Walter Stager prosecuted the case. The first witnesses were the employees from the head clerk's office and citizens of Fulton. The testimony was that the Rock Islanders were led by Johnson, and that as soon as they left the train they began a shower of stones and clubs, and that a number were provided with revolvers. When about one-third of the witnesses for the prosecution were heard the defense waived further examination and gave bond for appearance in the October term of the circuit court in Whiteside county. A new injunction was applied for in Kane county yesterday.

Havana.—Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock some fishermen discovered the body of a man hanging in the check-room at Riverside Park. The body was afterward identified as that of Frank Burson, well known in Lewiston, where he has lived a great deal of the time for many years. Five or six months ago Burson came to Havana from Peoria. He went to an old friend named Lorenzo Smith, who lives there, and applied for board. He said he had $1,325 coming to him, but no money on hand, but would pay him later. Under this arrangement Smith and Burson worked together chopping wood. Smith is in very poor circumstances. The money earned by Smith was spent for provisions, that by Burson for whisky. A man named Vaughn, from Vermont, came over to Havana. From him Smith learned that Burson was "dead broke," but at one time had been worth quite an amount. Smith and Burson then had a quarrel. Smith said he could not keep him longer, and being unwilling to throw him in the street, applied to Supervisor Terry. Burson then acknowledged that he had no money. He had $800 which he spent for his mother's funeral and medical attention for himself. The remainder of $7,000 left him he simply "blew in." He remained with Smith Saturday night and ate breakfast Sunday morning.

Prosperity of Farmers in Tidewater Virginia.

There is cause for rejoicing among the farmers in Virginia. The crops of melons, potatoes, peanuts, general grain and truck have been unsurpassed and the prices obtained in the Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York markets have been the highest ever paid.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month, Settlers' tickets will be sold from Chicago and the Northwest over the Big Four and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads, at greatly reduced rates. For particulars and descriptive pamphlet of Virginia, address U. L. Truitt, N. W. P. A., No. 234 Clark street, Chicago.

America's Many Languages.

Dr. D. G. Brinton, the archaeologist, said in a recent lecture that in North and South America no less than 120 or 130 absolutely distinct languages exist. As the growth of language is very slow, he thinks the fact of the existence of so great a variety of speech on the Western continents proves that the native red men have inhabited them for many thousands of years. Another proof of the antiquity of the American Indians, according to Dr. Brinton, is the fact that they represent a distinct human type, and the formation of such a type requires thousands of years.

Real Rest and Comfort.

There is a powder to be shaken into the shoes called Allen's Foot-Ease, invented by Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y., which druggists and shoe dealers say is the best thing they have ever sold to cure swollen and tender or aching feet. Some dealers claim that it makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It certainly will cure corns and bunions and relieve instantly sweating, hot or smarting feet. It costs only a quarter, and the inventor will send a sample free to any address.

A "Nose Tax."

A "nose tax" was in the ninth century exacted by the Danes from the householders in Ireland. It was so called, not because it was levied on noses, but from the fact that a failure to pay was punished by slitting the nose from tip to eyebrow. It was continued for thirteen years, when the householders, objecting to this treatment of their nasal ornaments, rose in rebellion, massacred all the Danes in Ireland, and put an end to the nose-slitting.

Try Grain-O.

Ask your grocer today to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. $\frac{1}{4}$ the price of coffee. 15 cents and 25 cents per package. Sold by all grocers. Tastes like coffee. Looks like coffee.

Kidney Trouble and Its Effects

The Word of an Old Gentleman of Mattoon, Illinois.

From the Commercial, Mattoon, Ill. Mr. William J. Winingham is a well-known and venerable gardener of Mattoon, Illinois. Seventy-five years ago Mr. Winingham was born in Ashboro, North Carolina, where he resided until 1866, when he removed to his present residence.

When only thirty-one years of age the old gardener says he began to be afflicted with nervousness and cramps, which in later years developed into urinary, or perhaps kidney trouble of so violent a character that it was no uncommon thing for him to void a gallon in a night, exudation through the pores being absolutely unknown. To a reporter, who visited the old gentleman, on hearing of his restoration to health after so many years of suffering, he made the following statement:

"I suffered for all those long years with intense pain in the back, nervousness and from the passing of large quantities of water. This was undoubtedly a form of diabetes, and so described by my physicians of whom I had many. Strychnine and nitre and many other remedies were tried, as well as change of climate, but nothing did me any good. I was so horribly nervous that I could not lift a drinking vessel to my mouth if there was not a handle attached to it. A great part of the time I was confined to bed. The commencement of the disease was in 1846, when I had a bad attack of 'Southern fever' in North Carolina.

"About three years ago I read an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and thought I would try them, as they might do me good. I soon began to get relief, and by the time I had taken eight boxes I was virtually cured. Now my nervousness has left me, the flow of water is normal, and the pores of my skin perform their duty as well as when I was a boy, and I perspire as freely as any one.

"I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to a number of people, and have heard from many of them that they have been greatly benefited. I shall always continue to speak in their praise whenever I have an opportunity, for I recognize that their effect upon me was little short of miraculous.

(Signed) "WM. J. WINNINGHAM." Witness: WILLIAM TABOR. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over-work or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

SOME GOOD JOKES, ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

The Colored Individual's Excuse or the Effect of Scientific Research on Rural Chicken Coops—A Legal Luminary—A Mid-Summer Rest.

The Mid-Summer Rest. GAIN the happy time is here When souls with work distressed, Enjoy, with naught to interfere, Their glad vacation rest.

From all his cares, the city drudge, Will hie himself away, And eighty-seven miles will trudge For pleasure every day.

The dry-goods clerk will daily stroll, As 'neath the scorching sun, Dismissing every thought of toil He does a century run.

The pale bookkeeper, too much worn To foot up his accounts, Will foot it now from early morn Up all the steepest mounts.

The office slave will now devote A week to restful rounds, And day by day will row a boat That weighs nine hundred pounds.

The tired city folks who say With ennui they're distressed, On rural beddicks stuffed with hay Will find their nightly rest.

For "restful rural pleasures" which At home would drive us mad, We make some good old farmer rich And try to think we're glad.

But sweeter joy to those who roam Is that glad moment when They're through with "resting" and come home And get to "work" again.

Scientific Research.

Farmer Sprouts—Stop thur. What ye goin' with them chickens?

Erastus Pincher—Dat's all right, boss, I'll bring 'em back. Our sassity fo' g'neral research is dun studyin' up de language ob chickens, an' we needs dem very much.

The Landlord's Ruse. "What ever induced the Gazleys to go to that wretched mountain resort again? They said when they got back last year that they would not return there even if their board were offered to them for nothing."

"Oh, then, you haven't heard? Why, the landlord wrote to Mr. Gazley that he had secured an impoverished foreign nobleman to act as waiter. The old man didn't intend to say anything about it to his wife and daughter, but Mrs. Gazley found the letter in his pocket, so they packed up and started the next day."—Cleveland Leader.

An Achievement. "There is the usual disposition to become jocose with reference to Alfred Austin's poetry," said the matter of fact person.

"Yes," replied the pale youth who writes, "but his detractors can't obliterate the fact that he triumphs in one respect."

"What is that?" "He gets his poetry printed."—Washington Star.

He Noticed It.

Mike D New Arrived—And where air ye frum? Pat—Dublin. Mike—D'ye know Dennis O'Lacy? Pat—Faith, an O'm his brother-in-law. Mike—Sure, Oi thought Oi saw a resemblance.

Easily Comprehended. American Boy—Papa, what's an absolute monarchy? Papa—A country ruled by a king whose authority is unlimited. His word is law, and the people must do his bidding. Do you understand? American Boy—Oh, yes, a sort of political boss.—New York Weekly.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,

Also Backache. I cannot speak too highly of Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine, for it has done so much for me. I have been a great sufferer from kidney trouble, pains in muscles, joints, back and shoulders; feet would swell. I also had womb troubles and leucorrhoea. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, I felt like a new woman. My kidneys are now in perfect condition, and all my other troubles are cured.—Mrs. MAGGIE POTTS, 324 Kauffman St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Backache. My system was entirely run down, and I suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back and could hardly stand upright. I was more tired in the morning than on retiring at night. I had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I have gained fifteen pounds, and I look better than I ever looked before. I shall recommend it to all my friends, as it certainly is a wonderful medicine.—Mrs. E. F. MORRIS, 1043 Hopkins St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Kidney Trouble. Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I had suffered many years with kidney trouble. The pains in my back and shoulders were terrible. My menstruation became irregular, and I was troubled with leucorrhoea. I was growing very weak. I had been to many physicians but received no benefit. I began the use of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine, and the first bottle relieved the pain in my back and regulated the menses. It is the best kind of medicine that I have ever taken, for it relieved the pain so quickly and cured the disease.—Mrs. LILLIAN CRIPPEN, Box 77, St. Andrews Bay, Fla.

Pistols and Pestles.
The duelling pistol now occupies its proper place, in the museum of the collector of relics of barbarism. The pistol ought to have beside it the pestle that turned out pills like bullets, to be shot like bullets at the target of the liver. But the pestle is still in evidence, and will be, probably, until everybody has tested the virtue of Ayer's sugar coated pills. They treat the liver as a friend, not as an enemy. Instead of driving it, they coax it. They are compounded on the theory that the liver does its work thoroughly and faithfully under obstructing conditions, and if the obstructions are removed, the liver will do its daily duty. When your liver wants help, get "the pill that will."

Wolthausen, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hachmeister, Fred. Walter and Miss Minnie Plagge.

Duncan Forbes of Dundee was a visitor again in our city this week, visiting at the homes of John Collen. Mrs. Barnett and George Jackson. Mr. Jackson has been intimately acquainted with him and his wife since 1862, when he built Mr. Jackson's house on the farm. Mr. Forbes was robbed recently, but he does not so much regret the loss of money and watch as he does the shock to his wife's nerves.

Owing to over-crowding and bad ventilation, the air of the schoolroom is often close and impure, and teachers and pupils frequently suffer from lung and throat troubles. To all such we would say, try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For coughs, colds, weak lungs and bronchial troubles no other remedy can compare with it. Says, A. C. Freed, Superintendent of Schools, Prairie Depot, Ohio: "Having some knowledge of the efficacy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who suffer from coughs, lung troubles etc." For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

Dissolution Notice.

The co-partnership existing between Samuel Landwer and Frank A. Wolthausen under the firm name of Wolthausen & Landwer was this day dissolved by mutual consent, Samuel Landwer retiring. Wolthausen's store and make arrangements for settlement of their accounts. Dated this 13th day of August, 1897. 18tf F. A. WOLTHAUSEN.

Woodmen in Fine Shape.

The head directors of the Modern Woodmen of America, besides the routine work usually transacted at their meeting, adjusted the new by-laws which will be issued this month, and vacancies in the corps of state deputy head consuls in the new territory entered by the order were appointed and the accounts of the head banker, A. H. Hollister, who is succeeded by George M. Fratt, of Racine, Wis., were checked. The death claims coming before the board were so few in number that the directors decided that it would not be necessary to levy an assessment in September, so that the order will ever break its previous records in that regard.

It Saves Croupy Children.

Seaview, Va.—We have a splendid sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and our customers coming from far and near, speak of it in the highest terms. Many have said that their children would have died of croup if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given.—Kellam & Ourren. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by A. L. Waller Barrington, and A. S. Olms Palatine.

The McCormick Vertical Binder replaced one hundred Flat Binders last year. (Names and dates can be furnished on application.)

The Flat Binder has been beaten numerous times this year and the McCormick is ready to enter any fair trial that can be held, in all conditions of corn, and there demonstrate its superiority in the important points that constitute a practical corn binder for every day use.

1. Mechanical construction, compactness, strength and durability.
2. Opening a hand.
3. Picking up the down row.
4. Forming square butted bundles that can be shocked and stacked and fed to the Thresher.
5. Tightness of binding.
6. Draft (to be tested when each Binder is binding tight bundles of good size.)
7. Ability to take up and bind down corn.
8. Least number of ears broken off.
9. Ability to attach a bundle carrier. Carriers to be shown in the field.
10. Freedom from neck weight and side draft.

THE McCORMICK VERTICAL CHALLENGES ANY FLAT BINDER on all the points that make up the practical, successful Corn Binder that will give value received to anyone who buys.
