Barrington will elect three delegates and three alternates to all conventions except the State.

MOVE THE BARN.—Our village is rapidly pushing to the front in improvements. Within the past year we have had the village surveyed and a sidewalk grade line was established. A splendid new system of waterworks has secured us against fire. Telephone connection has been made with Chicago. Let the good work go on until we have as perfect a little city as can be found anywhere. The next great improvement should be made in regard to the appearance of the streets as regards buildings. There are many streets in the village which have their otherwise beautiful appearance marred by barns standing close to the sidewalks. No man wants to build a house or otherwise improve his lot when an unsightly barn standing next to him and in front of his building line. Let a building line be established, and let those barns, that are standing on the street line, be moved back a certain distance. An ordinance compelling this to be done would make a wonderful change in the appearance of our streets. It is not our object to have anyone put to an expense which would not be of any benefit to the village, but unless something is done others will build as has been built. We understand that some who have barns on the street line have signified their willingness to move their buildings back if others would do the same. No one should object to improving the appearance of his property.

PALATINE WATER WORKS ARE TESTED

Palatine Can Now Boast of a First-class System of Water Works.

The Palatine fire department celebrated the new system of water works in a fitting manner last Saturday, a large crowd of our citizens, augmented by many visitors from the neighboring towns, being in attendance.

The first test was made near the powerhouse, Engineer John Bergman's steam valve showing a 100 pounds of steam, but when the water was turned on the steam was not strong enough, for some unknown reason, to fight a big fire.

The next test was made at the corner of the two main business streets, and again the test was unsatisfactory, as the stream was barely strong enough to reach over the edge of the roof of the brick block. The most of our citizens were satisfied, but not so with Mr. Patten and the aldermen, for they knew from the efficient care with which the water works system had been erected better service could be expected from it. When this test was made the engineer could not raise over sixty pounds, despite the heroic efforts he made at firing. After an investigation it was discovered that through some flaw one of the 8-inch pipes had burst at the first test, which allowed a large volume of water to go to waste, which explained the reason for the weak stream of water thrown in the first two tests.

After this broken pipe had been replaced the third test was made and proved highly satisfactory, as the stream was sent clear over the roof of the brick block, a fact highly gratifying to the aldermen, and very complimentary to Mr. Charles Patten, the contractor.

After the first test the spectators repaired to Batterman's hall, where Mr. C. S. Cutting delivered one of his interesting and entertaining addresses. He extolled the citizens of Palatine for their enterprise. He said that Palatine, with its up-to-date improvements takes rank among the most attractive suburban towns. Mr. Cutting formerly was a resident of this village, and for a time served as village clerk. He was frequently applauded during the delivery of his address.

After the tests the firemen and their visitors were given a treat in the way of a bountiful repast of daintily prepared edibles. In the evening a dance was given, which was attended by a large crowd.

The Palatine band, which furnished music during the day, was highly complimented for its efficiency. This was the first public appearance of the band since its re-organization.

MINOR HAPPENINGS THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

The Price of Bread Advances in Chicago—Kills Himself by Aid of Needles—Losses by the Recent Cyclones—Other Items.

Advance in Price of Bread.
Chicago: The price of bread advanced Monday from 5 to 6 cents a loaf. This agreement was entered into between 350 bakers at a meeting held in the First Methodist church. All the large bakery companies are interested in the proposition, and those who signed the agreement bake fully 80 per cent of all the bread used in Chicago and its suburbs. This price will apply to the standard sixteen-ounce loaf. The wholesale price will be 5 cents, and all commissions and discounts are to be discontinued. Cakes and rolls are not to be exchanged, but the price is not to be advanced. Among the large firms who have entered into the agreement are the Kohlsaat Bakery company, the Aldrich Bakery company, Heissler & Junge, Vienna Model Bakery, and the Huessler Bakery company. The representatives of these firms held a meeting during the afternoon and agreed to join with the smaller concerns in making the advance. Nothing but the signature of the bakers is required as a guarantee of good faith to stand by the agreement. All shops underselling will be carefully watched for underweights, and vigorous prosecutions will follow if any violations of the city ordinance are discovered. It is estimated that the bakeries of Chicago produce in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 loaves a day, which makes the advance of 1 cent amount to $10,000.

Family Is Injured.
Sheffield: The cyclone that passed north of here did great damage to property. Lauten's farmhouse, north of Mineral, was totally destroyed. Hostetter's farm was damaged and the house thereon. In the house lived a renter, John Miller, who was away from home when the "twister" came. His wife and two children made for the cellar. The little girl reached it, but the mother and little boy were caught in the arms of the gale and hurled thirty rods away. When picked up they were unconscious. They were immediately carried to a neighbor's, where it was found Mrs. Miller's wrist was broken, with minor bruises. Ralph Miller, aged 3 years, had one arm broken and the other badly bruised, and Ethel Miller's head was hurt so that she suffers concussion of the brain. S. G. Lathrop and family barely escaped by running, and the hired man saved himself by jumping into a well. The farm property and house was destroyed, loss $2,000.

Kills Himself with Needles.
Bloomington: An autopsy has revealed a most curious case of suicide in Bloomington. John Wenberg, a German tailor, 50 years of age, under treatment at St. Joseph's hospital, was found dead in his room. A post mortem resulted in an astounding disclosure. The lower breastbone had been punctured with needles in five places. Four of these needles found in the body had rusted off, showing that they must have been there for weeks. They had just reached the outer coat surrounding the heart and interfered with its natural action, producing the symptoms of heart disease. A physician stated that these needles must have been forced through the breastbone with a hammer. Three other needles had been forced through the diaphragm just below the breast-bone. The ninth needle had been driven through the breast-bone and through the wall of the heart, causing almost instant death.

John R. Walsh Testifies.
Carlyle: The second trial of the suit begun by the Chicago bondsmen of the late State Treasurer Ramsay against the administrator of his estate was ended this afternoon. The only witness was John R. Walsh, president of the Chicago national bank. He remained under fire for one hour. The witness admitted that his bank had paid interest on state money, denied that an agreement existed between the bondsmen and Ramsay and acknowledged that Wilson, the treasurer preceding Ramsay, had money in his bank. The arguments in the case were finished tonight, and Judge Dwight will take the case under advisement. The legal controversy will, of course, not end in this court.

Two Towns Suffer.
Carlinville: A terrific cyclone passed over the northwest part of Macoupin county at noon today, lasting ten minutes and doing thousands of dollars' worth of damage. The towns of Palmyria and Barr suffered heaviest. At Palmyria a number of the finest residences were blown over, barns torn to pieces. The large store of Fearn & Ross was crushed in like an eggshell, and the stock ruined. Reports from the country districts show the damage there is even heavier loss, particularly stock and crops. Telephone and telegraph wires are down, making the task of obtaining details difficult.

IT IS NOT NICOTINE.

PROFESSOR MALLET CORRECTS CIGARETTE CRITICS' MISTAKES.

Communication in the "Scientific American" on a Matter of Popular Misapprehension—Stained Handkerchief Test Is No Test At All.

J. W. Mallet, professor of chemistry in the University of Virginia, in a communication to the current number of the Scientific American, says with reference to cigarettes of American manufacture:

"Ignorance of easily ascertainable scientific facts is, however, common enough, as is often illustrated by the brown, oily material formed in the smoking of tobacco being pointed out as nicotine, though in reality this is merely the tar produced by the action of heat on the woody fiber of the leaf.

"Nicotine when pure is a colorless fluid of somewhat oily consistence and strong, peculiar, penetrating odor, but it darkens on exposure to air and light, becoming first yellow and then brown, so that it looks, in this darkened condition, something like the tarry matter which soils a smoker's fingers or a handkerchief through which tobacco smoke is exhaled, or is often noticed as deposited in the stem of a pipe.

"This tarry deposit has nothing essential in common with nicotine, and contains but traces of this alkaloid, when any at all.

"A part, but only a small part (about one-seventh in the experiments of Melsens), of the real nicotine of tobacco is volatilized without decomposition; the remainder is burned and destroyed in the process of smoking."

The simple facts are, that such cigarettes as I have examined, representing a large part of those in general use throughout the United States, are made from pure, light-yellow tobacco of the high grade produced on certain special soils, prominently in certain of the southern counties of Virginia and the adjacent portion of North Carolina, with wrappers of the best quality of harmless vegetable fiber paper, and are entirely free from the adulterants which it has been asserted are present, with no evidence in favor of such assertion, and in absolute contradiction of the scientific evidence actually available.

A Boy on "The Private."
I saw a whole regiment of live privates yesterday. Live privates was scarce, until they started another war. All the privates of the last war was killed off in it. My pa was never a private. He was a general. He was born so, and took after his father. The generals mostly stays in the rear. My pa did, and the rear was located at home. The live private is human, but nobody thinks so. When they win the battle the government pats the general on the back and raises his salary. The private gets $13 a month and shot if he don't behave himself. A private stopped at our house when they were gettin' up a regiment, but the colonels heard he was there, and surrounded him, and took him and went to war commanding him: I wouldn't be a private.—Atlanta Constitution.

Homeseekers' Excursions.
On the first and third Tuesdays in May and June, 1898, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will sell round-trip excursion tickets (good for 21 days) to a great many points in South and North Dakota and other western and southwestern states, at practically one fare for the round trip. Take a trip west and see what an amount of good land can be purchased for very little money. Further information as to rates, routes, prices of farm lands, etc., may be obtained on application to any coupon ticket agent or by addressing George H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Belligerency Recognized.
"Poor Cuba," sighed Mrs. Callahan, "its sad fate is strikingly similar to the fate of many poor women—starved and downtrodden by their lordly husbands." "I don't see why you should have any complaint to make," replied Callahan, "for I recognized you as a belligerent twenty years ago."—Atlanta Journal.

Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets—beauty fortifies. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed. 10c, 25c, 50c.

Quite a Distance.
"Is there a long distance telephone around here?" asked the stranger. "That's the only kind there is, mister," answered the native; "an' the distance is just about four an' a half mile if you don't miss your way. Jest keep a-goin' straight over the hill to the third turn to the right."—Chicago Post.

THE CANNON'S GOSPEL.

"God looks on the earth and it trembles; he touches the hills and the smoke; His ears heard the boast of the mighty; his thunder crashed loud, as he spoke: I, I am the God of the widow, of the poor, the humble, the meek: On you who trust in your treasures, your sinners fell vengeance shall break: You have wrested the law for your profit; you have robbed the helpless of bread: You laugh loud at Heaven and its justice; you trust in the blood you can shed. But your sin shall take hold upon you; it shall throttle you in your wrong. As the strength of the pride that is in you so the strength of its vengeance is strong."

Tuesday, May 17.

First and Sixth regiments of Illinois volunteers left Camp Tanner for Chickamauga and Washington. The Second was ordered to start for Tampa. The Seventh and Fourth were ordered moved South immediately.—It was announced that the war department had changed its policy and would send an army to Cuba within ten days.—The First regiment of Colorado volunteers started for the Pacific coast en route for Manila.—The Thirteenth and Fourteenth regiments left Camp Townsend and Jersey City for Chickamauga. Col. Fred D. Grant is in command of the Fourteenth.—Admiral Dewey dispatched the Concord and the Boston to capture Iloilo, the second port in the Philippines.—Report was made of heavy cannonading during the whole of Sunday off the east coast of the Isle of Tortuga. Particulars have not come to hand, but it is believed a naval battle took place.—It was reported that two Spanish gunboats are in the harbor at Guayaquil, Ecuador.—Admiral Dewey finds the rebels of the Philippine islands are disunited. Nearly half of them favor Spain and he cannot rely upon the others for support. Hundreds of the residents of Manila have fled.—Cervera's Spanish fleet is off the Venezuelan coast in the vicinity of Curacao. Evans of South Carolina; to be commissaries of subsistence, with rank of captain, James Edward Calhoun of New York, James F. Jenkins of Wyoming; to be assistant adjutant generals, with rank of captain, Harry S. New of Indiana, Beverly A. Read of Texas; to be assistant quartermasters, with rank of captain, Haldimand P. Stuart Jones, the Manila sugar king and merchant prince, has arrived on the Empress of India, en route to London, his alleged mission to represent to the British foreign office the hopes and wishes of the Philippine commercial community. Jerome Jones, his traveling companion from Manila, says that business on the island must stand still until assurance is given that some strong foreign power will assume control of the destinies of the islands, the residents, if successful in throwing off the yoke of Charleston, with aid for Admiral Dewey, sails from Mare Island navy yard for its destination.—Refugees from Puerto Rico report that many funerals have been held since Admiral Sampson bombarded San Juan.—Most of the state volunteers are cago. They are calculated on a basis of three months at the rate of a ration a day for each man.

Friday, May 20.

It was announced at Madrid the Spanish squadron had left Santiago de Cuba.—The squadrons of Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley sailed from Key West, presumably for Cuban waters.—Orders were issued transferring two regular army regiments from New Orleans to San Francisco for service in the Philippine Islands.—General Merritt arrived in Washington and took full charge of the preparations for the expedition to the Philippines.—The Sixth Illinois Regiment of volunteers arrived in Camp Alger, Falls Church, Va.—In the Spanish senate Sagasta, on the occasion of the first appearance of the new cabinet, declared that Spain would fight to the utmost.

By the direction of the president, the following assignments of brigadier-generals of volunteers to duty with the several army corps, departments, divisions, etc., were made to-day: Brigadier General Francis L. Guenther, to the Second Corps, Falls Church, Va. Brigadier General Alexander C. Pennington, to command of camp at Hempstead, N. Y. Brigadier General Abram Arnold, to the cavalry division, Tampa, Fla. Brigadier General John S. Poland, to the First Corps, Chickamauga Park, Ga. Brigadier General Simon Snyder, to the First Corps, Chickamauga Park, Ga. Brigadier General Jacob F. preparing to follow.—Recruits for the regular army in camp at Fort McPherson are ordered to San Francisco to join the expedition to the Philippines.—Ships in harbor at Key West are evidently preparing to join the fleets in the vicinity of Cuba.—Three privates of the Sixth Illinois have been taken to the hospital at Fort Myer, suffering from pneumonia.—Volunteer troops at Chickamauga Park suffer from heat and for lack of water.—The monitor Monterey was ordered to proceed to Manila at once.—A dispatch from Cape Haytien stated a battle between American and Spanish fleets had taken place off Mole St. Nicholas, and that twelve Spanish warships had been sunk and two American ships disabled. The report was not confirmed by official dispatches.—Former Spanish Minister Polo y Bernabe sailed from Montreal for Spain. Senor Du Bose, a member of the former legation, returned to Quebec, from which point he is expected to keep his government informed of American war plans.

Sunday, May 22.

The arrivals at Chickamauga were the Second Nebraska and the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Indiana.—The One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Indiana left Camp Mount for Dunn Loring, Va.—Admiral Sampson's fleet is in hot chase after the Spanish armada and Washington naval officials expect a battle Tuesday or Wednesday, unless Admiral Cervera sneaks out of danger.—Admiral Sampson reached the Windward passage at the east end of Cuba.—The Spaniard is believed to have gone to Cienfuegos and Admiral Sampson can reach that port Tuesday.—If, however, the armada has sailed for San Juan, Porto Rico, Sampson can reach that port also by Tuesday.—The American scouts that watched the Spaniard leave Santiago Friday doubtless notified Sampson of the direction the armada took, and Sampson is probably racing after the Spaniard to-day at full speed. Owing to the strict guard kept by Spain at her navy yards and on all sources whence the information concerning them might come, the Washington authorities have had great difficulty in obtaining satisfactory information regarding the Spanish ships that remain at home. The stringent censorship in Spain has kept news dispatches practically barren of all naval information except such as the Madrid authorities desired to be known.

On a telegram from Washington the Carpenter Steel Works sent 150 thirteen-inch projectiles destined for Sampson's fleet.—These weight 1,200 pounds each and will go through anything Spanish afloat. Over 800 projectiles of somewhat smaller size are on hand and they go to-morrow to San Francisco for Dewey at Manila.—The thirteen-inch projectiles are popularly known as "peacemakers."

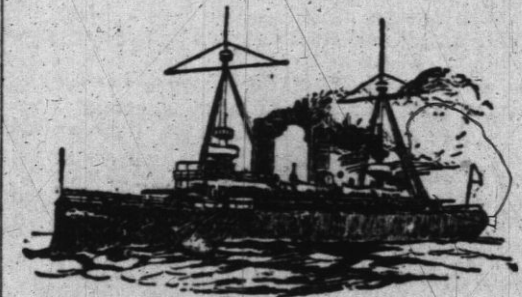

The bureau of navigation, navy department, where official dispatches are received, was open all day Sunday, but the officials were engaged only on routine work and there was no evidence of that activity which would attend the receipt of important information, nor of that keen expectancy which would indicate the near approach of the two fleets. In the absence of exact information as to the location of the fleets, this serenity in naval circles was a fair indication that the official advisers did not give promise of an immediate engagement. It is evidently the view of the war board that an engagement, if it can be brought on, will be decisive of the whole war, and there is no purpose to allow such momentous results to go off on a fluke or on a too precipitous move in deference to the public pressure for results, but to move firmly, yet cautiously, and insure a victory when there is a fight.

Monday, May 23.

In the Spanish senate the cabinet announced that steps were being taken looking to the fitting out of privateers.—The bill for the payment of volunteers from date of enrollment passed the house.—Troops for the Philippines embarked on the steamer City of Peking and orders were issued for the loading of two more steamers today. The three steamers carry 2,300 men and 120 officers in addition to supplies.—The Eighth regiment, New York Volunteers, and Troops A and C of the New York cavalry, left New York for Chickamauga.—Colonel Vincente Cortejo, brother-in-law of General Weyler, and Dr. Isidro Julian, Spanish prisoners of war, were sent from Atlanta to Key West to be exchanged for Messrs. Thrall and Jones, newspaper correspondents now in prison at Havana.—General Wesley Merritt left Chicago for San Francisco to take command of the expedition to Manila.—The British steamer Ardanmor was taken into Key West as a prize of the Osceola for alleged attempt to violate the blockade proclamation. The steamer was released by Commodore Remy.—It was reported that the United States lighthouse tender Mangrove had been captured by the Spaniards.—The election of company officers of the new militia company recruited by William J. Bryan was held. Mr. Bryan's friends had made a canvass in his behalf for the captaincy and he was placed in nomination, but withdrew when it was seen that others desired the place. H. G. Whitmore was elected. Members of the company said Mr. Bryan could have been elected, but anything short of a unanimous vote would have been distasteful to him. The election was behind closed doors and occasioned keen interest.

vehemently protested against the alleged action of some American warships in displaying the Spanish flag in order to deceive the garrison of Guantanamo, as announced on Saturday last in a dispatch from Captain General Blanco, who added that the American ships were "immediately recognized and repulsed." The count asked if the government had notified the powers of this incident. The minister of the interior, Senor Capdepon, replied that he had notified the powers and described this reported action as "cowardly and iniquitous."—Count Almenas said "that in view of America's manner of making war Spain must immediately decree privateering, in order to utterly destroy American shipping."—To this the minister of the interior replied that the government had deliberated upon the matter, "and had even taken certain decisions, which would shortly be known."—Count Guendulain said the Americans' "act of piracy was admitted by certain theorists as international law."—Senor Martinez Pacheco remarked that it was doubtful whether such an act was legal. "But," he added, "in face of the Americans' conduct in the war with Spain we must not show consideration for them." Continuing, the speaker protested against Spain's adherence to the Geneva convention, whereupon the minister of the interior replied that Spain had not yet entered the convention.

cutter Gresham, while being transported to the Atlantic in two parts, is sunk in the St. Lawrence river.—Havana official dispatch to Madrid says a small American naval vessel was blown up off Cardenas, eighteen of its men being killed.—First and Sixth regiments, Illinois volunteers, leave Camp Tanner for southern rendezvous.—William Jennings Bryan obtains permission from Gov. Holcomb of Nebraska to organize a regiment of troops, of which he will be the colonel.—Gen. Merritt denies the published interviews in which he is quoted as saying he would not assume command of the Manila expedition unless he was given 4,000 more trained soldiers.

A report came from London and Madrid that an American ship had been blown up off Cardenas by a Spanish mine and all hands lost. This is without foundation and known to be false. The rumor arose from the fact that the gunboat Wilmington found a schooner drifting off Cardenas, deserted and loaded with car wheels and old junk. It was one of the hulks which are being sunk by the Spaniards inside Cardenas bay to block the channel. It had gotten adrift and floated out to sea, where the Spaniards did not dare to follow to pick it up. Captain Todd of the Wilmington sank the schooner with four well-aimed four-inch shells. It was reported also that this hulk had been filled with explosives and turned adrift to blow up blockading vessels which were supposed to be passing by and run into the deadly craft.

Wednesday, May 18.

While navy department officials refuse to give information on the subject, it is believed a battle is expected at any hour between the Spanish fleet under Admiral Cervera and the American ships under Sampson and Schley.—Spain is about to send a squadron from Cadiz with 11,000 troops to the Philippines.—Secretary Long announces the safe arrival of the Oregon from her long trip around Cape Horn. It is believed she is now not far from Martinique, and may perhaps have joined Admiral Sampson's squadron.—Steamer for the trial test of the torpedo boat Rowan, to defend the Puget Sound coast.—The battleship Alabama was successfully launched at Philadelphia.—At Chickamauga Camp the arrivals were: Second regiment of Missouri, from Jefferson barracks; Second battalion Oregon volunteers; from Portland First Pennsylvania infantry, from Philadelphia; Battery A, St. Louis light artillery; Sixth Ohio infantry.—The new Spanish cabinet has been formed as follows: President of the council, Senor Sagasta; foreign affairs, Leon y Castillo; war, Lieutenant General Corres; marine, Senor Anon; colonies, Romero Giron; finance, Lopez Pulgicerver; interior, F. R. Capdepon; justice, C. Groussard; public instruction, Gamao. Senor Sagasta submitted the names of the ministers to the queen regent during the mustered in and moving or ready to move south and west.—Arrangements making Hughor of the District of Columbia, withdrawals, Captain James Parker, Fourth United States cavalry, for inspector general of volunteers, with rank of major; James F. Jenkins of Wyoming, for commissary of subsistence, with rank of captain; Harry S. New of Indiana, Beverly A. Read of Texas, for assistant adjutant general, with rank of captain, H. P. Young of New York and Frederick Bughor of the District of Columbia for assistant quartermasters, with rank of captain.

San Francisco—Major General Otis is now in full command of the troops and ships in the Philippine expedition and it is hoped more progress will be shown. Major General Ellwell S. Otis, General Merriam and Major Long went down to the mail dock to visit the steamer City Spain, being too incompetent and unstable for effective self-government.

Thursday, May 19.

The cruiser Columbia anchored off New York.—It was reported at Madrid that on Wednesday three American ships bombarded the defenses at Santiago de Cuba, but the news was definitely denied at Key West.—Spanish flotilla reaches Cuba.—It was announced by the Madrid newspapers that Admiral Camara's fleet is still in port at Cadiz.—Admiral Sampson's squadron returned to Key West, joining Commodore Schley's fleet there.—Madrid dispatches positively confirm report that Admiral Cervera's Cape Verde squadron arrived yesterday at Santiago de Cuba.—The auxiliary cruiser Harvard, after giving twenty-four hours' notice, left the harbor of St. Pierre. The Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Terror, in the same harbor, made no effort to follow.—Volunteers at Chickamauga now number 24,000.—It was reported from Kingston that the insurgent army in eastern Cuba was pressing close to Santiago de Cuba with the purpose of besieging the city.

The regular troops which are to accompany the expedition to the Philippines were determined upon at the war department, and orders for them to proceed promptly to the coast will be issued. These, with the volunteers from California, Colorado, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oregon, Utah, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, and Idaho, will make up the sum total from which are to be taken the troops which are to be sent to reinforce Admiral Dewey and enable him to take and hold the city of Manila. The public admission that the occupation of the islands is intended was made known in an order of the department detailing several officers for duty in that connection. The quartermaster's department reports that four ships which have been chartered for the transpacific trip should be ready to sail within ten days at the most. The commissary department was advised that supplies for 13,000 men were to reach San Francisco at once from Chi-

Ludlow, to the headquarters of the army. The officers assigned to corps and divisions will report in person to the respective commanding generals thereof at the places named. General Pennington proceeds to Hempstead, N. Y., for the purpose herein indicated. General Anderson proceeds to San Francisco, Cal., to report to the commanding general, Department of the Pacific, for duty with the expedition to the Philippine Islands.

Saturday, May 21.

It is announced from Gibraltar that another Spanish fleet is about to sail for Cuban waters.—The transport Florida leaves Tampa with an expedition of volunteers for Cuba, and is believed to have effected a landing on the island.—Madrid sends notice of the bombardment by American ships of the forts at Nuevitas last Thursday.—Cruiser Charleston sails from San Francisco for Manila with aid for Admiral Dewey. ## Comic Opera Warriors.

Richard Harding Davis is the London Times correspondent with Captain Sampson's fleet. In one of his letters he gives the most picturesque description yet printed of the ordinary Spanish character. In moments of excitement or where it is to his interest to lie the Spaniard apparently cannot save his soul stick to the truth. Blanco's dispatches as to the operations of the blockading squadron were a tissue of exaggerations. Blanco reported that the firing of our cruisers on the Matanzas forts did no damage. Davis says, "I saw the shells cut the ramparts down and lift them and throw them into clouds of earth 50 feet high." A Spanish officer captured with one of the prize vessels swore solemnly that if he had only known war was declared he would have blown his brains out rather than be taken. A midddy with a sense of humor was at pains to examine this patriot's pistol and found not only that it was not loaded, but that it would not go off if it were loaded.

Mr. Davis says of the Spaniards:

They are all blown about by bursts of passion, fits of hysteria. In Madrid the mob pulls down the wooden American eagle advertising an insurance company and feels better. In Havana a man bites his arm and sucks the blood to show how he longs for that of the enemy. They are children; with all of a child's unreasonable rage. Their idea as to how civilized warfare is conducted is shown by the fact that the crew of every prize vessel we have taken receive the boarding officer either on their knees or with their hands above their heads in token of submission. Some beg for mercy, some try to leap overboard, some lock themselves in the cabins. They expect to be shot down or hung to the yardarm.

This was on a par with the cavalry troops that fired on the flagship when she was two miles out at sea. They did it because they like to hear their guns go off. They are a comic opera people. They are ridiculous, and they cannot help it. It is impossible to take them or their untruthful war bulletins seriously. It is not necessary to say that they have no sense of honor. All is explained when you point out that they have no sense of humor.

Good Fighters.

English papers are enthusiastic over the splendid fighting qualities of American seamen and marksmen in the present war. It is not surprising. Americans are like Shakespeare's model man in peace, modest and mild behaved, in war transformed to men who can give blows so fast and heavy that none may withstand them. This is a way we have.

No individual or nation is worth being kept alive that is not a good, strong fighter. This does not mean quarrelsome. The best fighters are the best tempered people. They hold themselves in control and on ordinary occasions are as good natured and amiable as a Newfoundland dog. They do not froth and foam. The qualities that enable them to whip in a fight they control and utilize for pushing their way in the peaceable victories of industry, and they always go up head. But if their rights are trampled on it will not be healthy for the person who undertakes it.

The nation that can fight, but does not do so unless compelled to, is the one that wins. The nation that cannot fight has lost its manhood and is a sheep among governments. China is an example. With her vast population, wealth, fertility, resources and area she ought to be one of the great powers of the globe. Instead of that she is falling in ruins, and the other powers are seizing the pieces.

A man in Austria has invented a machine which transforms light into electricity. The electricity is then transmitted over wires as sound and power are transmitted. Arrived at its destination, the electric current is once more transformed into light rays. That is the principle of the invention. Now, if the rays of light that are sent electrically a long distance are rays from a picture, a house, a person or any other object, these rays will be carried faithfully to the point of destination, where they may be reflected upon a screen and seen. Thus any scene whatever may be transmitted over distances. The man in Chicago may see his friend in St. Louis by means of this device at the same time that he talks to him over the telephone. The machine by which rays of light are transmitted is called the teleoscope—literally sight at a distance. The name of the young man who invented it is Jan Szczepanik. With such a name Jan ought to be able to do anything.

The most disagreeable people on this earth are those who consider their own opinions on all subjects absolutely correct.

Stages of National Growth.

History shows that nations and races, like individuals, have their childhood, youth, prime and old age. The leading countries of the earth represent the various stages of national life and duration.

If there is one country that exemplifies the prime of life, that country may be said to be England. Science and art flourish. The land is prosperous. It has the greatest navy and the largest commerce of any country. Today the real greatness of a country is measured by the strength of its navy. Great Britain could conquer in a sea fight any two other nations of the globe. Her people are free, intelligent, wealthy and full of pluck. The quaint old inscription written of Nuremberg in her day of glory may be applied to Great Britain today:

England's hand
Goes to every land.

Our own country is entering on its prime. Its childhood is past. It is passing from its athletic and promising youth and taking what will be perhaps the greatest place ever held by any country in the world's history. It will be so if we follow out the traditions of the founders of this republic, if we do not let wealth, luxury and corrupt old world ideas suck the lifeblood and manhood out of us.

Russia is in her youth, emerging now from barbarism. All children are barbarians. Russia will be the next nation after the United States to rise to grandeur. China, country and people, is decrepit, shriveled up and feeble, going down into old age and death. Spain is a dying old nation; so is Turkey, perhaps also Italy.

In all Asia only one nation is alive and throbbing with red blood. That is Japan. The most singular race spectacle of the time is the Chinese on the one hand, a dying people, and the Japanese, and next door to them, belonging to the same one of the great racial divisions, as full of pluck and all conquering energy as any people of the northern blood.

Finally the trend of historic events shows that the ruling peoples of today, the nations present and to come, belong to the northern regions of the earth. Those whose glory is past are of the south, chiefly. Again, only the nation owning a great geographical area can today figure in history. The small country is nothing but a little country.

The remarkable speech of Senor Silvela in the cortes showed that at least one Spaniard has a grain of common sense left. His assertion that while honor demanded Spain should fight before surrendering Cuba there would be nothing dishonorable in stopping the fight when she found she had nothing to gain by it, really pointed a way out for the queen regent and her advisers. The Latin nature is a curious one. The "honor" of south European nations requires a fight when Americans or English would not think of it. When private individuals of the south European blood fall out, nothing short of a duel will satisfy their honor. It does not matter much which gets the worst of it. So that there is a slight scratch and blood is drawn that is enough. They shake hands and are friends. Applying this reasoning to Spain, she can now stop any time and withdraw honorably to herself from the fight with the United States. Cuba is certainly lost to her anyhow, as Silvela pointed out, since by the granting of autonomy she gave up the right to tax it as she pleased.

There is considerable truth in the statement made by a recent writer that "there can be no general prosperity in this country that is not born and sustained in the west." The writer should have added also the south. From the south and west come most of the original raw material on which are based the manufactures and commerce of the nation. When the producers of this raw material are prosperous, manufacturers and merchants will likewise be prosperous.

A late ruling of the United States supreme court is directly in line with the sentiment of all civilized individuals. It affirms the legality of the New York law prohibiting persons who have been convicted of and punished for crime from practicing medicine in New York state.

The editor of a good newspaper has as much influence in his day and generation as any man living, and we care not who he is.

Commend to us the rosy optimism of that poet mathematician Mr. Edward Atkinson. More than 20 years ago he sang us the cheerful song that we of this country had not begun to develop our industrial resources. Today, brisk and happy as ever, he sings the same cheerful song still.

Baseball Men's First Lesson.

What is the first lesson to be learned in training to be a professional baseball player? According to the New York Sun it is not a muscular one, but an intellectual and moral one. Briefly it is embraced in the three following propositions: Learning and heeding strictly the rules of the game; minding one's own business; keeping one's mouth shut.

The Sun editor remarks, just as though he had been there himself:

When the captains of the various professional baseball teams assemble their men for the customary practice preliminary to the regular opening of the season, they should understand that the most important study to begin with is literary and intellectual rather than athletic. In other words, the prerequisite of a successful season in 1898 is a thorough understanding of the rules and an accommodation of the ball player's state of mind and habit of play to their intention.

If any player thinks that the new rules are too rigid and too restrictive of the liberty that he has been enjoying for some years, he should change his mind and perceive that they in no wise curtail the requirements of sport. If a player thinks that it is an expression of liberty to be forbidden to pit his opinion against the umpire's, and that the order for him, when declared out, to retire to his seat in silence is a violation of the principle of free speech, let him remember that he is hired to play and not to talk. All the talking this year is to be done by the umpire. We hope for less talking and better playing.

At the baseball training grounds this year, therefore, the class in manners and discipline should come before the class in pitch, hit and catch.

The benighted ignorance of the Spanish masses is shown by the fact that the majority of them, with the possibility of getting a republican government in the event of the downfall of the present monarchy and with a free choice before them, actually prefer another fool king to the liberty enjoyed by an independent people. They would rather have the profligate old Don Carlos for king or even Butcher Weyler for a dictator than to govern themselves. What can be expected of a people like that, a people, moreover, among whom only one woman in six can read and write?

Away back in the fourteen hundreds the wage laborer was better paid, according to the cost of meat, which is a fair estimate of the ratio between work and wage, than he is now. A day's wages for a laborer in the fifteenth century was one-quarter the price of a sheep, Thorold Rogers tells us. In our time it is only a little more than one-seventeenth the price of a sheep. Sheep are more valuable, men less so, than they were in the fifteenth century.

In teaching morality to school children a sufficient foundation on which to base all the rest is simply the golden rule.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THE visitors at Ravensmere became dimly aware that some more important business than usual was on hand. The earl was seen with a preoccupied face. He had been heard to refuse Lord Damer's challenge to a billiard match. He had distinctly stated that he should not join in the hunt that Colonel Hungerford had arranged. What was the matter? Lady Caraven was, as usual, bright, beautiful and graceful; but those who knew her best saw that she was engrossed by some thought.

The earl rang for his footman. "When Mr. Blantyre comes, show him into my study," he said; and then he went over to his wife. "You do not feel nervous at the task you have undertaken?" he questioned.

"No," she replied, calmly, "but I fancy that Mr. Blantyre will feel nervous before we have done with him." The earl smiled. If this trusted servant of his had deceived him, the sooner he was unmasked and punished the better.

"I think," said Lady Caraven, "it would be quite as well if we looked over that balance sheet before Mr. Blantyre comes—it will shorten the interview."

He acquiesced at once, and followed his wife to the study.

She went to the table, and took her seat. Her husband stood at some distance from her. Silently she bent her head over the papers.

"You have seldom, I suppose, looked over one of these balance sheets," she said to the earl.

"No," he replied, "I do not remember that I have ever examined one."

"Then I will look over them," she said, quietly. Before long she added, "Will you look at this, Lord Caraven? All this is quite wrong—several entries are incorrect, and the reckoning is falsified."

The earl was slightly embarrassed. "I do not think, to tell you the truth, Hildred, that I am very clever at accounts," he stammered.

"But surely you can see whether this is correct? Believe me, a child could see it."

"Then I am not so wise even as a child," he said, ruefully; but, leaning over her shoulder, he tried to understand what she said.

It was indeed easy enough—the whole sheet, as she pointed out, had been got up to meet the eye.

"And you have never noticed this?" said the young countess.

"No, indeed," he replied, "I have never even thought of it."

"Then you have been a very easy master to please," she remarked. "I need hardly say, Lord Caraven, that the man who falsifies his accounts is a rogue. You know it."

"I know that much. I am afraid to think whether all the balance sheets he has prepared since he has been my agent have been like this."

"You have never looked into one, I imagine."

"No, never."

They were interrupted by the entrance of the agent himself—the man whom from his face Lady Caraven suspected from the first of being dishonest.

John Blantyre was a tall, gentlemanly looking man of specious manner and good address. A rogue from liking as much as anything else, he would not have cared to be honest if he could. He had contrived to ingratiate himself into the favor of Lord Caraven from the conviction that he could do as he liked with the easy, indolent, pleasure loving nobleman. He had done so. The result was irretrievable confusion. John Blantyre had laid aside a fair fortune for himself.

"Let the worst come," he said to himself; "if I am caught there will be only a few years imprisonment; then I can go abroad and enjoy my savings."

Yet he relied implicitly upon his good fortune that he should not be caught.

He entered the room smiling, with his usual bland, obsequious manner. His face changed when he saw the Countess of Caraven looking over his balance sheets. The earl pointed to a chair; the detected thief sat down.

The young countess' eyes were raised to the bland face of the agent; they seemed to burn him. The earl left the discussion to her, as he had said he would. Words could not have expressed the proud, cold contempt of her face as she spoke to him.

"You are well aware, Mr. Blantyre, that this balance sheet is worth nothing? The accounts are all falsified."

"I am not aware of anything of the kind, your ladyship. There may be a few mistakes—it was hurriedly made out. May I ask permission to—"

"You may ask nothing, sir," she replied, curtly. "Tell Lord Caraven if it be correct that you have taken a bribe from some one who wants Bromhill farm—a bribe to turn out the old tenants and bring in a new one."

"Lord Caraven knows that he—"

"But the countess interrupted him. "Did you take the bribe? 'Yes' or 'No?'"

"Yes," he replied, sullenly. "Mr. Blantyre," said the young countess, "you are a detected thief. You have robbed your employer, you have falsified your accounts, you have ground down the poor, you have oppressed the helpless, you have made my husband's name hated and loathed, you have betrayed your trust, you have drawn down upon your own head the curses of those people whom ill-luck has brought into contact with you."

"Stay, my lady. You accuse me, and give me no chance to defend myself."

The earl was watching his wife intently. He saw the color rising in her face, he saw the light in her eyes, he heard the passion, the scorn of wrong-doing that trembled in her voice.

"She is equal to it," he thought; "there is no need for me to interfere."

"You cannot defend yourself," she replied. "I hold innumerable proofs of what I assert."

John Blantyre cowered before the bright indignation of the fearless eyes, and, turning to the earl, said:

"My lord, I have been a faithful servant of yours; have you nothing to say for me?"

"Upon my word, Blantyre, I believe you have been a most consummate rogue," answered the earl. "I have placed all my authority in the hands of Lady Caraven. She is to do as she will."

The bland smile on the agent's face changed to an ugly sneer. The young countess rose from her seat, and, extending her arm, pointed with her finger to the door.

"I shall waste no words with you, sir," she said. "Go! We might prosecute you, we might force you to give up your ill-gotten gains, we might expose you to the contempt of the world—but you are not worth it. I bid you go, and the punishment of your conduct will be that everyone will know that you have been dismissed characterless. Not one word!"

He made as though he would speak. She still kept her hand outstretched to the door; her eyes overmastered him. He turned to quit the room.

When he reached the door rage overcame prudence. He looked back at the noble figure of the young wife.

"I thank you, Lady Caraven," he said. "I owe this to you."

She made no sign that she heard him.

"To you," he continued, with a sneer; "and we all know that you are here only on sufferance. Take care that your own turn does not come."

There was no answer. Not even a quiver of the white eyelids showed that she heard. His rage increased.

"Good-bye, Countess of Caraven," he said. "You have called me a thief; you have, after a fashion, ruined me. I will be revenged—I swear it! Even should years pass before I can carry out my purpose, I will be revenged."

And with these words he quitted the study.

Lord Caraven made a hasty step across the room to punish John Blantyre's insolence, but his wife touched him gently.

"You would not surely," she said, "soil your hands with him?"

"I'll kill him if he insults you!" he exclaimed.

"He will not have the chance of insulting me again, Lord Caraven; now we will forget him. The unjust man shall pass away, and his place shall know him no more; we have finished with John Blantyre—now for happier times. If the poor people on the Ravensmere estates knew what has happened, they would set the bells ringing for joy."

He watched her as she went with her free, graceful, proud step, and flung the window wide open.

"We will have some fresh air," she said. "I can never bear the atmosphere in which a bad man has breathed."

"You would not be a good prison matron," he remarked, laughing.

"No, I hate wickedness. I have a constitutional dislike to it; and I love goodness with all my heart."

"Then to win the love of your heart one must be good?" questioned the earl.

"Not only good but noble," she replied; and then their tete-a-tete was interrupted. Lord Damer's wanted the earl.

Long after he had left the room she stood wondering if John Blantyre would keep his oath and, if he did, what manner of vengeance he would take. Not even a gleam of the terrible reality came to her.

CHAPTER XXXV.

BEFORE many days had elapsed it became apparent that a new reign had begun at Ravensmere. Sir Raoul was charmed and delighted; he never wearied of praising Lady Caraven, and telling her what a noble work she was doing; he did his best to help her. A wonderful change was coming over the earl. Not that he was beginning even in the least to love his wife—that idea had not yet occurred to him; but he was beginning to treat her with great respect, to recognize the fact that she was a high-souled woman.

But, although the idea of love had not occurred to him, their relations toward each other were fast changing. The beautiful, gifted wife was fast taking her place in every respect and in every way, except in her husband's heart.

Lady Caraven lost no time when her husband had once given her permission to act. He affected to laugh and feel amused at her zeal and her enthusiasm—in reality it shamed him. He asked her what her first reform was to be; and she told him all the laborers' cottages were to be pulled down, and fresh houses built for them—houses where the first laws of health could be regarded. She wanted good fresh air, dry walls, pure water, plenty of room. She did not rest until the workmen were busy in removing what she called the "fever-acres."

She was to have her own way, yet she showed the sweetest submission to her husband. When the architect and builder waited upon her with plans for the model cottages, she took them at once to him. He looked up laughingly.

"You pay me a compliment, Hildred," he said, "but it is your affair entirely, not mine."

"I shall find no pleasure in it unless I have your approval," she replied. "I am your head steward, not your guide. Look over these with me."

They discussed them in full detail, and that conversation had something so interesting, so piquant in it, that the earl was deeply interested.

"Thank you," said Hildred, looking up with a charming smile—"I am grateful to you for relieving me in my perplexity."

"The pleasure has been all on my side," he answered; and that was the most gallant speech that the earl had yet made to his wife.

So time passed on, and the beautiful summer days were filled with schemes and plans for the benefit of others.

It seemed to the earl that he was really waking up from a long sleep. The world was wearing a different aspect for him. He had never even given a thought to politics. With the arbitrary insolence of youth he had pronounced them nonsense—and that was one of the things that Sir Raoul most deplored. Hildred, too, was sorry for it. She had been so successful in other matters that she ventured at last upon this. It was by a series of well-directed questions that she first aroused his attention. In trying to answer them he grew interested himself. "If I could vote," Hildred had a fashion of saying, "I should try to urge that measure."

At last Lord Caraven awoke to the consciousness that in the government of Britain's mighty empire he, too, ought to have voice.

A poor man never knows how many relations he has until he becomes suddenly rich.

LIVES AND PROPERTY LOST.

Fearful Tornado Sweeps Over Three States.

ENORMOUS DAMAGE REPORTED

Forty-Nine Persons Known to Have Lost Their Lives, and 106 Were More or Severely Injured—Country Districts Have Suffered Severely.

Details of the tornado which swept over northeastern Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin show the death list is a long one and the property loss enormous.

In Illinois the storm seems to have been the hardest in the vicinity of Stillman Valley, where four people were killed. Other Illinois towns in the path of the storm were Paw Paw, Ohio Station, Adeline, Foreston and Walker. The greatest damage occurred in country districts and it is difficult to place an accurate estimate upon the property loss, but it will, it is believed, amount to $1,000,000 when all reports are in.

In Iowa the greatest damage was inflicted in the vicinity of Delmar Junction, where at least $100,000 worth of property was destroyed.

Wisconsin seems to have felt the fullest force of the tornado. Reports indicate that fully 150 small towns suffered more or less and the aggregate property loss will, it is believed, foot up to $1,000,000.

Nearly a score of persons lost their lives in the cyclone that passed over Ogle and Carroll counties, Illinois. Severely were Forreston, Adeline, and Stillman Valley.

FOR A SUNDAY OF REST.

Assembly at Winona Lake Adopts Resolutions for Sabbath Observance.

Winona Lake, Ind., May 25.—The Sabbath observance committee of the Presbyterian general assembly found the commissioners waiting to adopt the string of suggestions. There was but one dissenting voice. It came from Michigan.

Dr. Barclay, of Detroit, said he favored the resolutions, but he wanted the committee to take up a little more space in decrying Sunday newspapers. "Don't stop with a mere mention against them," he shouted. "Let us resolve to go and talk with their publishers and managers and managing editors."

Here he was cut into by "Let us not only refuse to buy them, but stop advertising in them."

Moderator Dr. Wallace Radcliffe put his gavel in motion and said the question before the assembly was on the adoption of the report. In a whirlwind of "Ayes" the Sabbath rules were embraced.

That part of the resolution which developed the discussion of last week was changed to read thus:

"That we call upon all the members of our churches, members of the young people's societies and Sabbath schools, together with all friends of God's law, to use their personal influence for the biblical observance of the day by abstaining from the purchase and reading of the Sunday newspaper, from all riding or driving for pleasure or recreation on the Lord's day, from all forms of amusements, from unnecessary work, traveling and visiting and from all things prejudicial to holiness."

The resolution also set apart some Sabbath in October as one in which every minister shall preach a sermon on some phase of the question and incidentally secure an offering for the work of the American Sabbath union.

Deaths in a Tornado.

Dallas, Texas, May 24.—A tornado struck Ravenna, in Fanning county, Saturday night from the southwest, blowing down eleven barns, ten dwellings and the Methodist and Christian churches. The tornado traveled in a northeasterly direction and passed just north of Ivanhoe, where Captain Joe E. Dupree was killed and his house wrecked. At Clarksville a negro was killed and eleven people injured. Many horses and mules were killed. The property damaged in the Red River valley will reach $100,000.

Toledo Blade Burned Out.

The large block owned by the Toledo Blade company, at Toledo, Ohio, was partly destroyed by fire. The Blade office was burned out, and the Dow & Snell Co., wholesale grocers, sustained a loss of $250,000, mostly covered by insurance. The losses will aggregate nearly $500,000.

An Old Soldier.

Jacob M. Shafer, Farmington, Ill., writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. Kay's Renovator is the most satisfactory of anything I ever used. I have been a great sufferer from blood poisoning and biliousness received as a reward for loyalty to sick and disabled comrades in the hospital. Have tried everything and no remedy has given me the pleasure and comforts received from Dr. Kay's Renovator."

We know Dr. Kay's Renovator never has had an equal as a Spring Medicine, or for dyspepsia or any stomach trouble, constipation, liver or kidney diseases. Why not give us a chance to prove it to you? Send address for our 68-page book of recipes and prescriptions. Several have said it is worth five and ten dollars. Druggists sell Dr. Kay's Renovator at 25c and 50c, or six for $5, but if they do not have it, do not take any substitute they may say is "just as good" for it has no equal. If they do not have it, you can get it from us by return mail. Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co., Omaha, Neb.

Big Pieces of String.

The largest cable of modern times is, perhaps, the manila hawser which was used to tow the drydock to Havana. It is twenty-three inches in circumference, but it is by no means the largest that ever has been made, although it has the reputation of breaking the record. There are at least two others of a greater circumference, says the Boston Traveler, but both older. One of these had a circumference of twenty-three inches, and was used for the purpose of anchoring the ship North Carolina in the navy yard at Brooklyn, while the other was a twenty-four-inch hawser, which was used as a sheet-anchor cable on the Tennessee when she was stationed in the Mediterranean in the sixties. Such an enormous rope was naturally found to be unwieldy, a fact which was abundantly demonstrated when the vessel encountered a storm in the Bay of Naples. When the Tennessee returned to her native home in America the hawser was sent to the oakum mills and made into oakum.

Our Patriotic Publisher.

The enterprising publishers, Hammersley Publishing Co., 167 Dearborn street, Chicago, have produced the American and Cuban waving lithographed flags in colors, with cord and tassels for window decorations. They look like silk; 500,000 have already been sold and the effect has caused a great craze in that city. They appoint agents and large money can be made by selling them. Send 12c for both flags and let them know if you want to become their agents. They will be pleased to quote you prices in quantities.

Eggs That Are Eggs.

Have you an egg of the great auk in the house? Refrain from eating it, even if the grocer assures you that it is fresh. There are just fifty-one of these eggs in England. The odd one, which was supposed to be broken to pieces in 1871, was discovered last month in an attic among remnants of the late Lord Garvaghs's collection. In 1894 an egg of the great auk sold for $315.—Boston Journal.

A SCHOOL GIRL'S BATTLE.

From The Mail, Milford, Ind.

Miss Emma Rybolt, a prepossessing school girl of Milford, Ind., is of more than usual intelligence, and is ambitious to rise in the literary world.

"In the fall of 1896," said Mrs. Rybolt, "Emma was taken ill. She was a close student and her work began to tell on her. She grew weak, pale and nervous, and complained of pains in her back, chest and limbs. A few weeks passed and she grew worse. The doctor said she was a victim of nervous prostration, and should have been taken from school weeks earlier. She gradually grew worse, her nerves were so tense that the least noise irritated her, and she had a fever and a continual twitching in her muscles. The symptoms were much like St. Vitus' dance.

Her Battle.

"A year passed and, under a change of physicians, Emma became somewhat better, but was soon as bad as ever. One day I read of a case similar to hers which was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and decided to try them.

"Emma had no faith in proprietary medicines but tried the pills, and after taking a dozen doses, she began to improve. It was about the first of April when she began, and by the middle of May, after taking about eight boxes, she was entirely cured."

"While ill, she lost twenty-eight pounds, but now weighs more than ever before. Her nerves are strong and she is in perfect health. We are all confident that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cured her, and I cheerfully recommend them in all similar cases."—Mrs. E. A. RYBOLT.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this third day of September, 1897.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE will cure all cases arising from a poor and watery condition of the blood, will build up a run down system and are a specific for paralysis, locomotor ataxia and other diseases long regarded as incurable.

The Grasshopper War.
About the time the Pilgrim Fathers came to New England in the Mayflower (1620), there arose a great quarrel and war between two Indian tribes from a very insignificant cause. It occurred in this way: An Indian squaw, with her little son, went to visit a friend belonging to another tribe. On his way the little boy caught a large grasshopper and carried it with him. A boy from the other tribe wanted it, but neither coaxing nor cajoling, nor even threats, would induce the little fellow to surrender his prize. A quarrel took place, which soon drew the mothers and father into the dispute, and before long the chiefs of both tribes were engaged in a struggle which did not end until one tribe was almost exterminated.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Condensed Report of the Doings in Senate and House.

ARBITRATION BILL PASSED.

Senate Amendments to the Measure Agreed to by the House—War Revenue Measures Are Under Consideration by the Senate.

Thursday, May 19.

In the house, after debate, confined to the proposition to send the labor arbitration bill to conference, a roll call upon agreeing to the senate amendments, thereby affecting the bill's passage, was ordered, resulting in yeas 219, nays 4.

While several important paragraphs in the war revenue measure were passed over for future consideration, excellent progress was made by the senate in the consideration of the bill. Two-thirds of the measure have been read, the committee amendments generally having been agreed on.

Monday, May 25.

Representative Pearce, of Missouri, introduced a bill authorizing the construction of five first-class cruisers to cost $4,000,000 each; ten torpedo boats to cost $200,000 each and thirteen torpedo boat destroyers to cost $650,000 each. The senate bill providing for the pay and allowances of volunteer troops for the interval between their enrollment and muster into the service, and a bill authorizing the Kansas City, Northern & Gulf railroad to construct a bridge across the Missouri river, were passed.

For five hours the senate had the war revenue measure under discussion. No action of any kind was taken upon the bill.

THE DUTY OF MOTHERS.

Daughters Should be Carefully Guided in Early Womanhood.

What suffering frequently results from a mother's ignorance; or more frequently from a mother's neglect to properly instruct her daughter!

Tradition says "woman must suffer," and young women are so taught. There is a little truth and a great deal of exaggeration in this. If a young woman suffers severely she needs treatment and her mother should see that she gets it.

Many mothers hesitate to take their daughters to a physician for examination; but no mother need hesitate to write freely about her daughter or herself to Mrs. Pinkham and secure the most efficient advice without charge. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

The following letter from Miss MARY E. JOHNSON, Centralia, Pa., shows what neglect will do, and tells how Mrs. Pinkham helped her:

"My health became so poor that I had to leave school. I was tired all the time, and had dreadful pains in my side and back. I was also troubled with irregularity of menses. I was very weak, and lost so much flesh that my friends became alarmed. My mother, who is a firm believer in your remedies from experience, thought perhaps they might benefit me, and wrote you for advice. I followed the advice you gave, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as you directed, and am now as well as I ever was. I have gained flesh and have a good color. I am completely cured of irregularity."

HEAD ACHE

"Both my wife and myself have been using CASCARETS and they are the best medicine we have ever had in the house. Last week my wife was frantic with headache for two days, she tried some of your CASCARETS and they relieved the pain in her head almost immediately. We both recommend Cascarets."—CHAS. At the Baptist church the following services will be held: Morning, at 10:30 o'clock, memorial preaching services at which the Baptist and Methodist congregations will unite, and which will be attended by the G. A. R. and W. R. C.; in the evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the pastor will deliver a patriotic address, taking for his topic, "Our Flag." Patriotic singing will be one of the features. All are welcome.

Misses Mary Schoppe, Amanda Schoppe, Bertha Schoppe and Ida Landwer, and Messrs. H. H. Landwer, Louis Schoppe, Harry Schoppe, Henry Dol, Milo Elfrink, Percy Elfrink, Ira Elfrink and Henry Freye participated at a pleasant party given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landwer at Deer Grove, on Sunday, the occasion being the little gentleman's sixth birthday. Social games were the order of the day. A bountiful repast was served.

Mrs. COLLEN GIVES A TEA.—Mrs. John Collen entertained the Thursday club and several invited guests at her home, on Lake street, Thursday afternoon. A memorial program consisting of patriotic quotations, songs, duets, readings and recitations was very interesting and well rendered. After the program the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. H. K. Brockway, served a delicious luncheon on small tables. A strong patriotic feeling was manifested by the ladies, in honor of the brave soldiers who gave up their lives for their country.

Two special meetings were held by the Village Board the past week—one on Saturday evening and one on Wednesday evening—to consider ways and means to settle the squabble with the C. & N.-W. Railroad Co. The result of the two meetings was that the village made a proposition to the company as follows: That the village will take $360 in cash and the company to furnish all the 2-foot tile needed. If the company agreed to this, and to take care of the water when it again came on its right-of-way, the village would take the water-course off the land of the company and run it through private property, provided the consent of the property owners could be secured. The judiciary committee was empowered (in case they got the consent of the property owners) to make the above proposition to the company. We understand the consent was secured and the proposition made.
