PALATINE LOCALS.

A. G. SMITH, LOCAL EDITOR

Firemen's dance November 23.

Watch Schoppe's Bros. window next week.

James Baker came out from Chicago to spend Sunday with his parents.

The body of Mrs. Plow of Chicago was brought here for burial last Tuesday.

A light covered spring wagon for sale. Enquire at PALATINE REVIEW office.

Miss Mildred Hicks entertained her cousin and friend of Wauconda over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McMiching have been visiting friends in Michigan this week.

Chas. Frye, who has been quite sick with typhoid fever out west, is reported much better.

The masquerade ball given in Knigge's hall last Friday night was a success in every way.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Smith of Pittsburg were guests of Fred and A. G. Smith Wednesday and Thursday.

I will pay two cents a copy for a limited number of last week's REVIEWS. A. G. SMITH.

Mr. Chas. Stewart of Chicago and Mr. Mock of West Chicago were guests of Rev. F. B. Handin and family over Sunday.

Prof. Smyser was unable to attend to school duties Monday on account of a bad tooth, which he got rid of and went to work again Tuesday.

Miss Lillian Hopkins of Palatine and O. E. Heineman were married at the latter's home in Chicago Saturday. They have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Manager Engelking has cancelled all football games and the team has disbanded for the season. Now the objectionists can have nothing to say against football.

Schoppe Bros. will have a display worth looking at in their show window next week commencing Monday. The ladies especially are invited to witness this display.

The defeated candidate has time now to sit down and reflect how easy the editor of the little country paper "pulled his leg" without deriving any signs of returns for the money spent.

Miss Anna Rogers Lamper and daughter, Miss Harriet, of South Haven, Mich., who have been visiting old friends in this place, left Wednesday en route to the South-western states, where they expect to spend the winter.

The case of the State vs. Garms was called before Justice Filbert Wednesday. The defendant made a satisfactory settlement with Mr. Mundhenk. The case brought by Henry Mundhenk was postponed until this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Anna M. Salzer entertained the Sophomore and Freshmen of the high school at the home of Mrs. H. Meyer last Saturday night, and the young people highly enjoyed the entertainment. Miss Salzer entertained the seniors and juniors last week, instead of Miss Jewell, as stated.

The election last Tuesday brought out a good vote and the republicans made their usual good showing. There were 365 votes cast in all, of which the Republicans voted 149 straight and the Democrats 108. The following is a partial list of votes as cast:

Whittemore,	230	Dunlap,	124
Foss,	235	Frank C Rogers	121
Humphrey,	156	O'Neill,	119
Magerstadt,	228	Kersten,	130
Raymond,	216	Gahan,	140
Knopf,	229	Eldred,	126
Reddick,	228	Strain,	125
Cahill,	230	Jandus,	122
Bright,	228	Cooley,	126
		Engelhard,	79

For banking law 42, against 24.
For court house bonds 46, against 20.
For gold bonds 45, against 25.

Much scratching was done and the counting was not finished until the next morning at 3 o'clock. Four ladies voted.

The Athletic club rooms have been renovated and new paper and new carpets make the rooms look elegant. The members are justly proud of them.

The Athletic club held its fourth annual election in the club rooms last Friday night. The following officers were elected: President, W. J. Filbert; vice-president, Robert Mosser; secretary, W. E. Daniels; assistant secretary, A. G. Sutherland; treasurer, H. J. Stroker. After the election the club members, together with some of the foot ball players, repaired to Knigge's hotel, where a substantial repast was soon done away with, after which the newly elected president made a few appropriate remarks and the other members smoked. The event was greatly enjoyed by all.

St. Charles 6; Palatine 0.

Palatine was defeated in the roughest game of the season at St. Charles last Saturday. The boys came home with faces bruised and scratched, received from the rough playing of the St. Charles team. Heretofore the team has enjoyed the trip to this place but it is not likely that our boys will go again as they play only with gentlemen. John Williams received a fracture of a bone in the ankle during the first few minutes of play and this had a discouraging effect on the team. Palatine made good gains through the line and on tricks but the opponents did so much slugging at times that a man dared not leave the team for an individual play. St. Charles scored in the last minute of the last half of the game and the contest would have been a good one had it not been for roughness and the accident met by John Williams.

Board Proceedings.

PALATINE, Nov. 7, '98.

The Village Board met in regular session with President Battermann in the chair and all members present. Minutes of October 3 and October 31 were approved as read. Treasurer's report for October showing a balance of $238.80 was received, accepted and placed on file. The following bills were allowed:

A CLEAN SWEEP.

Republicans Carry Everything Like Chaff Before the Gale.

The election of last Tuesday was one of the quietest ever held in the village of Barrington, and but little or no interest was taken in the affair by the voters. It was a pleasant day but the voters were not interested enough to go to the polls.

In Cuba township, Lake county, the vote was very light and only 93 of the 225 registered voters cast their ballots. The Republicans received a majority of about 30, and Hendee, Republican candidate for county clerk, ran ahead of his ticket, getting 66 votes—largest number of votes in the township. Mawman, the Peoples' Party candidate for the legislature, polled 1014 votes, and Donnelly, the democrats choice, received 21, an evidence that a hard fight was made for Donnelly's seat by the Mawman supporters.

In Barrington township, Cook county, everything went Republican and they succeeded in getting three-fourths of the vote cast. A great fight was made on "Farmer John" Humphrey, and as a result of the knife Englehard, the independent Republican, received 28 of his votes.

The Republicans elected their full tickets in both Lake and Cook counties, with the exception of two judges of the Superior court.

The vote was small throughout the state and the Republicans won the state offices by close margins.

Conductor Thomas Freeman Meets With a Fatal Accident.

Thomas Freeman, conductor on one of the E. J. & E. freight trains, met with a sad and fatal accident about midnight Tuesday. While doing switching in the Barrington yards of that road Mr. Freeman fell from the top of one of the cars and a part of the train passed over him before it could be brought to a stop. Dr. Clausius, the company's doctor, was quickly summoned and found the injured man had sustained a compound comminuted fracture of the right leg below the knee and a fracture in two places above the knee of the left leg. It was thought probable that he sustained severe internal injuries as well. After his wounds were dressed an effort was made, at his own request, to move him to his home at Joliet by special train, but before Spaulding, five miles south of Barrington, was reached he expired.

Mr. Freeman was considered one of the oldest conductors on the road, as well as in years. He was 65 years old. He leaves an aged wife at his home in Joliet and several grown-up children.

Great Sale of Underwear and Hosiery at the Dundee Cash Store of C. F. Hall Co.

Our sale of underwear has been remarkable and our low prices still keep the sale in progress. We are doing the underwear business for 25 miles around. Note the prices: Ladies' underwear at 19, 25, 35, 49 cents. Gents' underwear at 25, 39, 49, 50, 79, 98 cents. No such values obtainable elsewhere. 50 dozen gents' Rockford wool hose at 10 and 12 cents a pair. Remember us on all these lines.

Mrs. Lines Entertains.

The Busy Brownies were entertained at the home of their Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Flora Lines, last Tuesday afternoon and evening. The hours between 3 and 6 were spent in playing a very interesting game of progressive authors, in which Miss Cora Burtis took the first prize and Miss Lottie Palmer the second.

The happy crowd then marched to the dining room where their appetites were served to the Queen's own taste.

The evening was then spent in music and fun, and ended by having the merry company photographed by flashlight. Those present were:

Miss Lottie Palmer,	Miss Emma Jahnke.
" Cora Burtis,	" Jennie Fletcher.
" Myrtle Burtis,	" Myrtle Comstock.
" Ethel Austin,	" Bulah Oels.
" Mabel Wagner,	" Iva Robertson.

Shell Wilden.

A ROMANCE

Shell's life has been so very uneventful during the absence that it does not take long to recount the few small incidents which have broken its monotony.

"It was so stupid of you to come," remarks Ruby, during a brief pause in the dialogue going on between Mrs. Wilden and Shell. "I don't suppose we shall any of us be stopping here more than a few days longer."

Mrs. Wilden looks surprised. "How so? I have no intention of going home just yet, Ruby," she says a little tartly. "The cottage is taken for two months, and since the rent must be paid, we may as well make the best of our bargain."

"There is no best about it," grumbles Violet.

"No, indeed—it is a downright snare and delusion," agrees Ruby. "Since even the Champley brothers couldn't stand it there can be no wonder if we run away."

"I don't think they grew tired of the moor," says Shell honestly.

"If not, why did they leave it?" demands her sister defiantly.

"Can't say," responds Shell; then, after a pause, she continues—"I suppose you know that they are going abroad in a few days."

"Going abroad!" repeats Ruby, in a tone of positive consternation. "No, I had no idea of it; I understood that they were merely going back to Champley House."

"They are starting for Switzerland in two or three days," says Shell quietly; "and I rather fancy they won't be back till autumn."

"In that case we may as well stop where we are," observes Ruby, without her usual caution.

"My dear Ruby, their movements cannot in any way affect ours," says Mrs. Wilden, looking puzzled and a trifle shocked.

"No, of course not," stammers Ruby, with a momentary flush; "only I promised Robert Champley in a way to look after the children! and, since he is going abroad, I should not like to leave them alone on the moor. That nurse is a very illiterate person—I doubt if she can write—and of course he will want to hear how they are getting on."

"Ahem!" ejaculates Violet suggestively, and then indulges in an amused laugh.

Shell does not laugh, but turns with impatient step from the room.

CHAPTER XIII.

"Where are you going, Shell?" asks Ruby, glancing up from an elaborate band of crewel-work, destined to trim a morning-gown.

"I am going over to Meadowcroft to superintend Bob's donkey-ride. I promised him yesterday I would come."

"What folly! You know he is never allowed a donkey-ride unless he has been particularly good; and when I ask Piper if he has been good enough to have one, she invariably answers 'No.'"

Shell gives one of those low rippling laughs of hers, which has in it a mocking ring.

"Piper does not care for running after donkeys—doubtless she considers it infra dig. As she knows that I always do the running business and leave her free, I invariably hear that the children are deserving of a ride."

"Well, it's a bore any way," grumbles Ruby. "I wanted you to cut out my collar and cuffs, as I feel inclined for a good day's work."

"That won't take five minutes," laughs Shell, stripping off her wash-leather gloves and good temperedly setting to the task.

When, some twenty minutes later, she arrives at Meadowcroft Farm, she finds the children established in a hay-field near the house, and Piper nowhere visible.

"Where is Piper?" asks Shell, sinking down in the fragrant hay.

"Busy," answers, Bob, laconically.

"Have you been good children—good enough for a donkey-ride?" pursues Shell, smiling.

"Don't know," responds Bob, with placid indifference—"s'pose not. Piper boxed my ears this morning."

"Well, never mind," laughs Shell—"since Piper isn't here we can't ask her—you shall have your donkey-ride today, and then you'll be a good boy tomorrow."

"Don't want a donkey-ride," responds Bob stolidly; "tell us a story instead."

"Not want a donkey-ride? Why, what sort of a boy do you call yourself?" demands Shell, turning the child round to laugh him out of what she imagines to be a fit of the sulks; then she becomes aware that Bob's generally rosy face is pale and languid looking—that his bright merry eyes are dim and misty.

"Do you feel ill?" asks Shell, thinking that the child must have been allowed to eat something unwholesome.

"No-no," falters Bob, with all a boy's reluctance to give in to physical suffering; "only my head aches rather."

With a strange thrill at her heart Shell turns to Meg. The little girl is sound asleep on a soft bed of hay, her attitude betokening thorough lassitude—one fat little arm shields her eyes from the light. Removing it gently, Shell notes that poor Meg is wan as a white may-blossom—even the slight movement sends a convulsive shiver through her little frame.

Shell is not one to waste time over speculations. Stooping down, she raises the sleeping child in her arms, and, telling Bob to follow, proceeds to the farm. At the door she is met by the farmer's wife, a kind, motherly creature, who takes in at a glance Shell's sign to be silent.

Mounting to the children's room, which is deserted, she undresses Meg and lays her in her little cot. A few minutes' persuasion and the promise of a fairy tale soon induce Bob to follow his sister's example. But Shell has no need to cudgel her brains for the promised legend. No sooner does Bob's head touch the pillow than he, too, sinks into a troubled sleep.

Descending to the big flagged kitchen, Shell holds a hurried consultation with the farmer's wife, the result of which is that a boy is despatched for the nearest doctor.

Whilst she is waiting his arrival, Piper turns up explaining that she has only just been down to the village for a few stamps; she looks much taken aback when she hears of the children's illness and finds that she cannot pooh-poo it.

After two hours' waiting the doctor comes. He is an elderly man, genial, reliable and fatherly. Shell and the mistress of the house accompany him to the sick-room. When the three return to the big kitchen there is a scared look on two at least of the faces.

"All connection with that part of the house must be cut off," Mrs. Pomfret, and a sheet with Condy's fluid hung at the end of the passage. I will telegraph at once to Mr. Champley, if you can furnish me with his address."

Piper, looking scared and pale, produces the address, and the doctor takes his departure.

"The doctor is not certain," answers Shell in her low sweet voice—"but he fears small-pox; it seems there are some cases in the neighborhood."

"Small-pox!" shrieks Piper. "And am I expected to stop here and lose my life through nursing children with small-pox? I won't do it—no, not for Queen Victoria herself!"

"Shame upon you, woman!" cries Mrs. Pomfret wrathfully. "Do you mean to tell me you would have the heart to go away and leave them poor little babies, with their father away goodness knows where, and their poor mother lying buried? I'd nurse 'em myself, and welcome, only I've got my own children to think of, and I can't be running to and fro to the sick-room with small-pox hanging about my clothes."

"Let who will nurse 'em—I won't," remarks Piper doggedly.

"Do you think I would allow you?" flashes Shell, her bosom heaving with suppressed scorn and anger. "Do you imagine for one moment that you are fit to be trusted to nurse them?"

"You are right there, miss," agrees Mrs. Pomfret; "for she neglects them poor dears, shameful. As for nursing, I wouldn't trust her with a sick cat;" then, turning to the nurse, she continues loftily—"Take your precious person out of this as soon as may be—though who's to attend to them children, I don't know."

"Don't trouble yourself about that, Mrs. Pomfret. I will take care of them till a proper nurse is found," says Shell gently.

"You mustn't miss—it's catching—dreadful catching," remonstrates Mrs. Pomfret.

"Only when people are afraid," laughs Shell. "I don't feel in the least nervous about illness."

"Cause you haven't seen much," opines Mrs. Pomfret, with a sage head-shake.

There is general consternation at Gorse Cottage when Shell arrives with her news.

"Small-pox! Are you quite sure he said 'small-pox?'" cries Ruby, with a shudder. "How terrible! But surely it can't be small-pox—the children must have been vaccinated."

"That is the strange point," answers Shell. "There is no mark whatever on Meg's arm—a very faint one on Bob's. The doctor says he can't be sure for another twenty-four hours. They ought to have been in bed two days ago—they do nothing but shiver and shiver and shiver."

"What is to be done?" asks Ruby blankly; and then, a bright idea suggesting itself—"We must telegraph at once to London for an experienced nurse."

"And who is to nurse them till she arrives?"

"Piper, of course."

"Piper has flown by this time. I left her packing her box."

"How disgraceful of her! However, Mrs. Pomfret must get some one to see to them."

"Robert Champley told me that you had promised to see to them during his absence."

"How utterly absurd and unpractical you are, Shell! Of course I am very sorry for the darling children; but—I can't possibly risk such a catastrophe as small-pox—no one could expect it. Had it been anything else"—grandiloquently—"anything less repulsive, I would have gone to them myself."

"And they are to be left entirely to strangers, with no familiar face beside them?" queries Shell in her even voice.

"I don't see any other possible arrangement, since you have been foolish enough to let Piper forsake her post," answers Ruby, with a sigh.

"But I see that some other arrangement is imperative," says Shell decidedly. "It would be too cruel and cowardly to leave them to strangers. If you won't go and remain with them till the nurse arrives I shall."

A PEASANT WEDDING.

Mrs. Alec Tweedie, in her journeyings through Finland, appears to have displayed a happy aptitude for forming friendly relations with all sorts and conditions of people. At one peasant cottage of the poorest sort, where she stopped to buy a bowl of milk, she fell into conversation with its mistress, a very clean and apparently very aged woman, clad in a short serge skirt, a loose white chemise and a striped apron of many colors—these simple garments being all of her own weaving. Over her head she wore a black cashmere kerchief. Her face might have belonged to a woman of a hundred or a witch of ancient times, it was so wrinkled and tanned; her hands were hard and horny; and yet, after half an hour's conversation, we discovered she was only about fifty-five. Hard work, poor food and life in dark, ill-ventilated, smoky cottages age the peasants fast; at seventeen many a girl begins to look like an old woman. The old, or middle-aged, woman was a cheerful and friendly soul, and was soon beguiled, by the visitor's comments on a woven band hanging in sight, into narrating an episode of family history. It had been one of the presents given by her son on his marriage, to his groomsmen. He had married a girl of another village—asking her hand in accordance with immemorial Finnish custom, through a pühemies, or spokesman, a kind of preliminary best man, who must do all the talking while the suitor himself sits dumb. Being accepted, he exchanged rings with his betrothed and gave her father the usual kihlarat.

"What is that?" the visitor asked. "Why, it is a sort of a deposit given to the girl's father to show he really means to marry the girl—a cow or something of that sort." A two years' engagement, during which the young people were earning their household equipment, was followed by a grand wedding, celebrated, as usual in Finland, at the bridegroom's house. "It is a very expensive thing to get married," said the mother, "and my son had to give many presents to the father-in-law, mother-in-law, bridesmaids and groomsmen. To all the bride's maids he gave stockings, that being the fashion of our country; to the groomsmen he gave shirts; to his mother-in-law a dress; to the father-in-law a belt, and to other friends head handkerchiefs. In short, she confessed that the occasion was a very serious drain upon the family resources. "But, oh, it was a lovely time," she added. "A wedding is a splendid thing. We had a feast all one day and the next, and then the priest came and they were married. Every one we knew came from miles around. Some brought a can of milk, and some of them brought corn brandy, and others brought porridge, and Johansen had been to town, so he brought back with him some white bread. Aye, it was a grand feast! We danced and ate and sang and made merry for two days, and then we all walked with my son and his bride to that little cottage on the other side of the wood and left them there, where they have lived ever since."

Some men's idea of making a night of it is their inability to remember anything the next morning.

RESULTS OF THE ELECTION.

Incomplete Returns Only So Far Received.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM CONGRESS.

Col. Roosevelt Elected Governor of New York State by a Good Plurality—Indiana Figures Not In—Illinois Shows a Republican Loss.

Partial returns from forty-two states indicate that the democrats have elected sufficient congressmen to insure a majority of at least thirty in the next house of representatives.

The republicans will probably have a working majority in the United States senate as a result of the election of republican legislatures in states considered doubtful, which will elect republican senators from those states.

The democrats have made gains in several states and have won many congressional seats from the republicans. North Carolina, which was claimed for the republicans, has gone democratic beyond a doubt.

In Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia the democratic congressional and state tickets are elected. Several other doubtful states are yet to be heard from.

Theodore Roosevelt is elected governor of New York by a majority which at this writing does not appear to exceed 20,000, although earlier it was placed at 40,000.

Platt's man Quigg was beaten for congress in New York by William Astor Chanler, democrat. Indiana has probably gone democratic, with the result that Senator Turpie will succeed himself.

The republicans have carried Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Washington and Wyoming.

Two congressional districts in Connecticut are in doubt. Delaware is claimed by the republicans. The republicans probably elect two congressmen in Kentucky, the rest of the state being solidly democratic.

Maryland probably sends one democrat to congress, the other districts electing republicans. The republicans may have one congressman out of a solid democratic delegation from Missouri.

Montana and Nebraska are in doubt, both parties claiming the victory. Iowa is entered in the republican column, though one democratic seat in congress has been gained. Kansas is republican. The fusion ticket was elected in Colorado. California elected the republican ticket.

In the eastern states there are various breaks in the republican delegations. One congressional district in New Hampshire is in doubt. The democrats have probably elected two congressmen in New Jersey. The democrats will have at least six congressmen from Pennsylvania.

The only breaks in the solid democratic delegations from the south seem to be in Tennessee and Texas, in each of which states the republicans elect one congressman. West Virginia is very close, the republicans claiming the state by a slight majority.

The returns from Wisconsin show an extraordinary close contest. The republicans claim the election of Gov. Scofield and the state ticket.

In Illinois the democrats have elected at least twelve congressmen out of a delegation of twenty-two. Ex-Speaker Curtis is defeated in the Kankakee district. The re-election of Senator Humphrey in the Seventh district is in doubt. Cook county elects at least four democratic congressmen out of seven.

Gov. Pingree won in Michigan with the aid of the fusionists.

The democrats won two congressional seats in Pennsylvania.

CHAIRMAN BABCOCK'S FIGURES.

Says Republicans Will Control House of Representatives.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Chairman Babcock of the republican committee still claims thirty-seven majority for the republicans in the next house. His figures are that there will be 197 republicans in the house, or twenty more than a majority, giving the party a majority of thirty-seven.

Mr. Babcock, in his statement, claimed the following for the republicans: Alabama, 1; California, 5; Connecticut, 4; Delaware, 1; Illinois, 14; Indiana, 9; Iowa, 11; Kansas, 16; Kentucky, 3; Maine, 4; Maryland, 4; Massachusetts, 12; Michigan, 11; Minnesota, 6; Missouri, 3; Nebraska, 4; New Hampshire, 2; New Jersey, 6; New York, 22; North Carolina, 2; North Dakota, 1; Ohio, 15; Oregon, 2; Pennsylvania, 23; Rhode Island, 2; South Dakota, 2; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 1; Vermont, 2; Virginia, 1; West Virginia, 4; Wisconsin, 10, and Wyoming, 1—total, 197.

Mr. Babcock admits that doubtful districts may cut from this list several names, but he is positive that these reductions cannot possibly reduce it below a good, safe working majority for the republicans.

The following table is made up from Mr. Babcock's figures:

State—	Republican.	Opposition.
Alabama	1	8
Arkansas	6
California	5	2
Colorado	2
Connecticut	4	..
Delaware	1	..
Florida	2
Georgia	11
Illinois	14	8
Indiana	9	4
Iowa	11	..
Kansas	6	1
Kentucky	3	8
Louisiana	6
Maine	4	..
Maryland	4	2
Massachusetts	12	1
Michigan	11	1
Minnesota	6	1
Mississippi	7
Missouri	3	12
Montana	1
Nebraska	4	2
Nevada	1
New Hampshire	2	..
New Jersey	6	2
New York	22	12
North Carolina	2	7
North Dakota	1	..
Ohio	15	6
Oregon	2	..
Pennsylvania	23	7
Rhode Island	2	..
South Carolina	7
Tennessee	2	8
Texas	1	12
Utah	1
Vermont	2	..
Virginia	1	9
Washington	2
Wisconsin	10	..
West Virginia	4	..
Wyoming	1	..
Totals	197	160

Mr. Babcock has very meager advice from the far west, and he has conceded to the opposition all that he does not know is republican. He has no advice from Washington, and credits the state to the democrats. He expects the west to show better results than he has indicated in the table given, but he is absolutely certain of the house by a good working majority.

ROOSEVELT A WINNER.

Captures the Empire State—The Entire Ticket Elected.

New York, Nov. 10.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt is elected governor of the Empire state. The entire state ticket went in with the rough rider and the legislature remains republican on joint ballot, assuring the election of a republican to succeed the present democratic United States senator, Edward Murphy, Jr., of Troy.

Col. Roosevelt's plurality is estimated all the way from 10,000 to 35,000 on incomplete returns.

Nebraska Appears for Fusion.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—Unless the vote becomes much more erratic than at present the entire fusion ticket of the state is elected, but by materially reduced pluralities, losing from 5,000 to 6,000 votes, which are gained by the republicans. In this event the state ticket will be: Poynter, governor; Gilbert, lieutenant governor; Meserve, treasurer; Cornell, auditor; Porter, secretary of state; Wolfe, commissioner of public lands; Jackson, superintendent of instruction. Both sides are very sanguine of carrying the legislature, at least by a small plurality.

Good News for Sick Soldiers.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 8.—Capt. R. P. Page Wainwright, United States army, chief paymaster in Illinois, has decided that soldiers unable to be present at the muster out of their commands can, on presentation of surgeon's certificate, be granted an additional furlough and paid to the time of final muster out, and has been sustained by the war department telegraphing that his ruling was right. The department also held that soldiers admitted to hospitals and unable to be mustered out with their regiment should receive pay to time of discharge from the hospital and muster out.

Not Offered to Barrows.

Oberlin, O., Nov. 9.—Prof. H. C. King, chairman of the faculty of Oberlin college says that Oberlin has not offered the presidency to Rev. John Henry Barrows of Chicago. Dr. Barrows visited Oberlin last week at the invitation of several members of the board of trustees, with a possible view to the presidency of the college.

Strange and Sudden Death.

Marshalltown, Ia., Nov. 10.—While listening to election bulletins Fred Grumme, president of the Marshalltown State bank of this city, dropped dead of heart failure. He was for years a member of the city council and one of the most prominent and oldest German residents of the city.

Orders for the British Cruiser.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 10.—The British cruiser Cordelia, it is understood, will be ordered to this port, to remain here during the winter. She will hold herself in readiness to scour the grand banks for the enemy's shipping if war should be declared.

Comfort for Women.

Some time ago Pullman's Palace Car company built three parlor cars for the B. & O.'s New York trains, and the radical departure from other cars of this character lay in the toilet room for ladies, which was eight feet in length. Recently the same company has built eight new sleepers for the New York-St. Louis line of the B. & O., and the designer of the cars has evidently been impelled by the popularity of the ladies' retiring room in the parlor cars to give to the ladies a vast deal more space than they ever had before in sleeping cars. These new cars are said by the Pullman people to be the finest they ever turned out, and the ladies' retiring room is exceedingly commodious, and contains, besides other toilet necessities, a dresser with a long pier glass. The cars are finished in vermilion wood, decorated with inlaid marquetry work, and the upholstery on the backs and seats is entirely new and different from any heretofore used, being a sort of a moquette with a dark green border and a center pattern of bright color. A similar design of ornamentation has been applied to the ceiling, giving the car an arabesque effect. They are also supplied with all the modern appliances, such as wide vestibules, anti-telescoping device, air pressure water system and are lighted with Pintsch gas. A very pleasing effect is obtained by the oval windows of opalescent glass, the first that has been used in the construction of the sleeping cars.

A FATHER'S STORY.

From the Evening Crescent, Appleton, Wis. A remarkable cure for a disease which has generally wrecked the lives of children, and left them in a condition to which death itself would be preferred, has attracted a great amount of attention among the residents of the west end of Appleton. The case is that of little Willard Creech, son of Richard D. Creech, a well known employe of one of the large paper mills in the Fox River Valley. The lad was attacked by spinal disease and his parents had given up all hope of his ever being well again when, as by a miracle, he was healed and is now in school as happy as any of his mates. Mr. Creech, the father of the boy, who resides at 1063 Second Street, Appleton, Wisconsin, told the following story:

He Goes to School.

"Our boy was absolutely helpless. His lower limbs were paralyzed, and when we used electricity he could not feel it below his hips. Finally we let the doctor go as he did not seem to help our son and we nearly gave up hope. Finally my mother who lives in Canada wrote, advising the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I bought some.

"This was when our boy had been on the stretcher for an entire year and helpless for nine months. In six weeks after taking the pills we noticed signs of vitality in his legs, and in four months he was able to go to school.

"It is two years since he took the first of the pills and he is at school now just as happy and well as any of the other children. It was nothing else in the world that saved the boy than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Season's Dress Goods in Black.
Black dress goods suitable for any and all occasions are whipcord, serge, Eudora, or a granite-like weave; none of these are recommended for coolness, as the coolest black gown for best wear, outside of semi-transparent goods, is a foulard. Where one dress has to answer for many occasions, black is the best choice, and a silk-warp fabric will present the more dressy appearance if made with a white yoke covered with cream-colored gull-pure.—November Ladies' Home Journal.

Typewriters' Cramp.
Although little is yet put on record as to typewriter's cramp, it is a wonder that it is not more frequent, when the heavy, relentless "pounding" and the inflexible position of the hand and wrist of some operators is taken into consideration. The hands and wrists should be flexible and "devitalized." If typewriters would use their machines as Paderewski plays the piano there would be no more typewriter's cramp.

Try Grain-o! Try Grain-o!
Ask your grocer today to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. One-fourth the price of coffee. 15c. and 25c. per package. Sold by all grocers.

ELEVEN MEN KILLED.

New Wonderland Building at Detroit, Mich., Goes to Pieces.

The new Wonderland building at Detroit, Mich., collapsed Nov. 5. Eleven men were killed, as follows: August Sallach, laborer; George W. White, tinner; Theodore Mertens, laborer; Martin Shafer, painter; Cornelius McArron, lather; James Gegerschke, laborer; August Januschowski, laborer; John Creszelski, laborer; Peter Pfeifle, carpenter; Frank Wolf, tinner; MAX Pott, tinner.

In addition to those known to be dead there are still missing Fred Miller, Charles Mielke and O. Mullin.

All the injured at the hospitals are reported as improving excepting Edward Fischer, who is expected to die. A mass meeting of representative citizens was held in the mayor's office and more than $1,000 was subscribed for the relief of the families of those who were killed. The loss on the property has been estimated. It is believed that $102,000 will entirely cover it.

VALUABLE RECORDS LOST.

Serious Fire in the Capitol Building at Washington.

An explosion of gas in the basement of the capitol building at Washington completely wrecked the supreme court room and the room adjoining, and many valuable books of the congressional law library were destroyed. This library contained 75,000 volumes and its value was placed at $1,000,000.

Many of the volumes were destroyed by fire and others by the floods of water poured into the place by the firemen. The loss cannot be estimated until the remaining books are examined. It is not known whether the rarest and most valuable books, which cannot be replaced, are lost.

David A. Wells Dead.

David A. Wells, the economist, is dead. He was long prominent in public life. In 1889 he was awarded the gold medal at the French exposition for his contribution to economic literature. He was the author of a number of books on tariff and financial questions.

Fire at Cleveland, Ohio.

The works of the Standard Car Wheel Company at Cleveland, Ohio, were destroyed by fire. Three thousand car wheels were damaged, and the total loss, according to the owners, will foot up between $80,000 and $90,000, partially covered by insurance.

STORIES OF RELIEF.

Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. JOHN WILLIAMS, Englishtown, N. J., writes:
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot begin to tell you how I suffered before taking your remedies. I was so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without falling. I had womb trouble and such a bearing-down feeling; also suffered with my back and limbs, pain in womb, inflammation of the bladder, piles and indigestion. Before I had taken one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great deal better, and after taking two and one-half bottles and half a box of your Liver Pills I was cured. If more would take your medicine they would not have to suffer so much."

Mrs. JOSEPH PETERSON, 513 East St., Warren, Pa., writes:
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered with womb trouble over fifteen years. I had inflammation, enlargement and displacement of the womb. I had the backache constantly, also headache, and was so dizzy. I had heart trouble, it seemed as though my heart was in my throat at times choking me. I could not walk around and I could not lie down, for then my heart would beat so fast I would feel as though I was smothering. I had to sit up in bed nights in order to breathe. I was so weak I could not do anything."

"I have now taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and can say I am perfectly cured. I do not think I could have lived long if Mrs. Pinkham's medicine had not helped me."

5 DROPS CURED BY "5 DROPS" TWO YEARS AGO
FROM RHEUMATISM AND HEART WEAKNESS
After Suffering 49 Years—69 Years Old and Still Well.

[TRADE MARK.] IT PROVES TO BE A PERMANENT CURE.—READ LETTERS.
SWANSON RHEUMATIC CURE CO., 167 Dearborn St., Chicago: DEAR SIR—Your bottle of "5 DROPS" received. It was for an old friend, Mr. Wm. Edwards, of Martintown, Wis. He has had Neuralgia in his chest, suffering a great deal of pain, so much so that it affected his heart, and he could not sleep on account of a smothered feeling. He had been under the care of the most eminent physicians, but obtained no relief until I gave him a dose of "5 DROPS." He rested well the very first night, and has ever since, and is gaining daily. I myself am 69 years old, and commenced taking "5 DROPS" last April for Rheumatism, which has troubled me terribly for 49 years; also for weak heart, from which I have suffered since I was 18. Since taking "5 DROPS" the Rheumatism has all disappeared, the stiffness has gone from my joints and my heart never misses a beat. In all my life I have never felt so well, and I owe my health to "5 DROPS." I only wish I could sound my bugle of praise loud enough to be heard the world over, and could convince every sufferer that "5 DROPS" is all you claim it to be and more.—Mrs. D. T. Carver, Winslow, Stevenson Co., Ill. Sept. 9, 1896.

STILL WELL TWO YEARS LATER.

SWANSON RHEUMATIC CURE CO.—Two years ago this present month I sent you an unsolicited testimonial of what "5 DROPS" had done for myself and friend, Mr. Edwards, and now I want to send you another, saying we have not had a return of Neuralgia or Rheumatism since. I think the cure must be permanent; but if it should return, I keep "5 DROPS" in the house and I know that would stop it. It is good for so many things no house should be without it. Yours truly, Mrs. D. T. Carver. Sept. 26, 1896.

The wonderful success that has attended the introduction of "5 DROPS" is unprecedented in the history of the world. Think of it! It has CURED more than One Million and a Quarter sufferers within the last three years. This must appeal to you. One million and a quarter people cannot all be mistaken. If suffering we trust you may have sufficient confidence to send for three large bottles of "5 DROPS" for $2.50, which will surely cure you. If not, then send for a $1.00 bottle, which contains enough medicine to more than prove its wonderful curative properties. Prepared by mail or express. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief and is a PERMANENT CURE for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, La Grippe, Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitic, and kindred diseases.

The World's Intellectual Growth.

That humanity has gained vastly in knowledge and continues to do so each generation is beyond dispute. But does this carry with it a genuine growth in depth and penetration of mind? The London Spectator has been discussing this again and concludes that "the theory that there has been real intellectual progress in the world is one of very doubtful validity. We have progressed in social efficiency, in the multiplication of contrivances for making life easier, in our grasp of an ever increasing repertory of facts, but what we know of ancient Babylon and Greece compels us to doubt whether the human mind has really become more powerful as human life has opened out on the planet. The men who were capable of appreciating the logic and eloquence of Demosthenes were certainly, from the intellectual point of view, a higher people than the human items that compose a London jury. In short, we must realize the fact that, whatever may be the determining factor in what we call progress, it is not, so far as can be discovered, a progressively deepening intellect."

It has more than once been observed that the most subtle speculations of modern philosophy do little more than reproduce the daring thoughts of the Hindoo thinkers whose remains exist in the ancient Sanskrit literature, the language of which was dead when Hebrew and Greek were yet alive, and the profound researches into the intellectual and moral side of man which culminated in the dreams of Plato and the logic of Aristotle. Art and poetry were illustrated with a fullness of imaginative splendor which modern ages have not surpassed, in some ways scarcely equalled. But if the powers of human intellect have not deepened they have broadened over such a sweep of inception that no comparison can be drawn. It is as a trained observer of facts, and in drawing accurate conclusions from this increased knowledge of phenomena, that man is constantly surpassing his earlier achievement. It is this kind of power which lies at the root of science and the useful arts and dignifies his superiority over that of the ancient world.

The death of M. Pierre Pavis de Chavannes, the greatest of modern mural and decorative painters, calls attention to a branch of art which, however neglected, is yet of the highest importance. He turned his attention from the more frequented walks of the painter's ambition to a field for its exercise which is closely associated with the public need and the uplifting of the popular taste. The art of beautifying great buildings and making the pictorial art walk hand in hand with architecture has not inspired many great men since the days of Raphael, Michael Angelo and Da Vinci. They transmitted their spirit to a worthy successor in Pavis de Chavannes. His work, characterized by great breadth, dignity, yet simplicity of style, has scattered itself widely throughout France. In the United States it is exhibited solely in the beautiful panels of the staircase hall of the Boston Public library, placed there in 1896. The subjects of the panels are "The Muse Greeting the Genius of Enlightenment" and "Astronomy" and "Pastoral," "Dramatic" and "Epic Poetry." One wishes that genius for art in this country would find expression through this outlet as it has done through sculpture. There could be no nobler ambition for the pictorial artist than effort toward the more public and widely refining results which appeal so directly to the general heart, so directly affect the taste of the masses and their sense of the beautiful.

Counting the Cost.

How much it taxes the productive energies of the world to keep up the "armed truce" which modern European nations preserve so sedulously, is the substance of a suggestive computation. This is furnished by the last report of the bureau of statistics, summarizing the war budgets of 1897-8. The sums appropriated by the five great powers, with the three lesser ones of Italy, Spain and Turkey, reach the frightful total of $691,415,859, and the war budget of British India adds $116,637,228 more. The per capita charge is apportioned as follows: England, $3.21; Germany, $2.70; France, $2.21; Spain, $2.12; Austria-Hungary, $2.08; Italy, $1.45; Russia, $1.17; and Turkey, $3 cents. England on the part of her great comparative wealth and the more adequate means of support enjoyed by her population feels the apparently greater charge the least, less than the Russian, the Italian or the Turk. But in India it is different. Though the per capita charge there is only 40 cents, it would take but little in addition to drive the dark skinned subjects of Great Britain into rebellion. The Italian war tax, too, though only $1.46 per head, was one of the causes which co-operated with the bread famine to precipitate the terrible riots of last spring. In partial comparison with these figures, it may be stated that American war expenditures for five months to September inclusive exceeded those of France for a year and were nearly 50 per cent higher than those of England. But then the expenditure had an extraordinary cause, not applicable to the regular budget.

It is the tendency of medical men in Germany as well as in nearly every other country now to scoff at Dr Robert Koch's rightful claims to his worldwide renown. This is too general to be credited to professional jealousy. His discovery of the tuberculosis bacillus was his first and last real triumph. Even that has failed to be the practical triumph in medicine which was hoped for it. His cholera bacillus treatment proved to be a failure. His investigations into the cattle plague in his notorious visit to Africa only resulted in the widely trumpeted allegations as to the connection between malaria and mosquitoes, an old story. The latest charge of reckless statement is against the terrible black water fever of Africa, which Dr Koch pronounces to be only a form of quinine poisoning. This is not only without sound grounds, it is claimed, but it has prejudiced African colonists against a drug of indispensable value. His pretensions are held up in contrast with those of Pasteur, whose profound inductions made with the utmost care, have saved France 100,000,000 francs a year by his conservation of the interests of the cattle and sheep farmer and of the grape grower.

The evacuation of Crete by the Turkish military forces is an end apparently of a question which should have been settled a long time ago. The bickering tendencies of the great powers found themselves diverted to other more pressing matters, and so they ceased to operate for dissension of purpose. The absurd feature is that precisely the same reasons, pro and con, were in force at the end of the Greco-Turkish war, and a little pressure on the porte would have yielded the same result. What is called diplomacy in modern Europe is the attribution of the most sinister designs on the part of each to all the other powers, and, acting on the principle of the scheming trickster, diamond cut diamond. The belief in trickery inevitably breeds it. It is time that the international business was run on the same basis as ordinary trade operations, the concession of honesty till roguery is proved.

One of the great eastern railroads is about to put on passenger coaches 7,000 pounds lighter than any hitherto built. These cars, it is said, will be equally strong and commodious. As a saving on draft power the gain will be very large in a year's coal bills. All American plans run to lighter forms of mechanism without losing strength. This distinguishes our machinery from the cumbersome devices of Germany and England.

The short apple crop of 1898, a good deal less than half of that of 1896, will be a serious blow to the farmer not only in the matter of money returns, but in lessening one of the most important factors of his ordinary food consumption. The prohibition people will, however, be inclined to chuckle over the deprivation of tippie, which that toughest of all inebriates, the hard cider drunkard, will be compelled to undergo.

CHARMS OF THE WEST.

Letter from a Presiding Elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Doubt was expressed by some of the earliest colonial fathers whether this country would ever be settled west of what is now a suburb of Boston.

On the Chicago & North-Western railway train that bore me to South Dakota a few days ago a mother and children looked eagerly from the car window on nearing Canby to see if they could discover the new home the husband and father had selected for them. Two evenings before, seventy-five people got off at Canby to populate the prairies round about that one town. The country from Canby east to Marshall shows a remarkable advance in the few years I have known these parts.

A recent Bostonese accession to cultivated St. Paul society asked several if he had pretty near reached the frontier. Whether this question is a projection of the forefathers above mentioned or prompted by St. Paul society, I do not know, but I am confident the time is not far distant when there will be no frontier in the United States.

To an inhabitant of Norway and Germany, with a map of this country before him, a distance of a few hundred miles east or west counts for naught. He sees none of our imaginary frontiers. He seeks a home where land is cheap and asserts dominion over the wild region.

In the lifetime of the original settlers that community is classified with the established order and the "pioneers" are becoming "old settlers." And what about the land? The "pioneer" planted his shanty on the virgin soil and staked out his "claim." In the progress of getting his living, with small additional money expenditure to the government, the "claim" became his "farm." As for advance in value, price some of the farms in south-eastern Minnesota that are still in possession of the men who first settled upon them.

The history of eastern Minnesota is being repeated in western Minnesota and beyond. Canby is almost as far from Winona as Winona is from Chicago. The train that put off the mother and children at Canby carried me onward for a journey of more than a hundred miles beyond in South Dakota. Along the journey communities gave evidence of thrift and contentment that assure the future of this region which surprises me beyond measure with its already accumulated wealth and the unbounded confidence of the people. I write this mindful of the doubtful tales which others than I may have been led to consider as the only incidents to an otherwise dreary monotony. What I have just seen makes me a convert to the faith of the people, who are already supplanting the pioneer shed and shanty with substantial barns and comfortable homes.

Dr. Chauncey Hobert, yet living in Red Wing, was pastor of the little frame Methodist church, located in what is now the heart of the great business district of Chicago. He was with the pioneers in south-eastern Minnesota. I have been in Chicago upon the site of that early church and felt the throbbing of life within that mighty city whose vast piles that could gracefully wear the age of centuries were reached within the mature years of one man. I have traveled over Minnesota where that same man saw civilization beginning.

Wearied with the march he turns aside and succeeding generations leave ancestral homes and push on to repeat the history of what has been. In the new Methodist church in Conde, costing $1,300 and dedicated with all bills paid, I was privileged to preach. The people I met, the prosperity they enjoy, their intelligence and earnestness make it plain that this was no longer frontier.

Said Gladstone, "America is another name for opportunity." In this I concur, but realize anew that the door of opportunity opens westward.

 The new veranda in front of Feidler's meat market is completed.
 John Hodge and Frank Meyer were in Wauconda Friday of last week.
 Frank Roney of Wauconda shipped a carload of hogs to the city last Tuesday.
 Miss Ella Seip, who has been visiting friends in the city, returned home last Friday.
 Supervisor Huntington went to Waukegan Tuesday to attend supervisors' meeting.
 Fred Kropp has taken the contract of finishing the railroad grading for Bruce Bros. for $50.
 John Forbes was in Crystal Lake recently where he had business interests to attend to.
 Mort. Besley of Wauconda had business in town last Tuesday.
 Mr. Lindstrom of Barrington was calling in town Wednesday.
 Wm. Knigge and lady attended the Autumn party at Wauconda November 5, and report a good time.
 If you attend the masquerade dance November 24 you will surely have something to be thankful for. Tickets, 50c.

Henry Seip and daughter, Miss Emma, went to Chicago Monday, where Emma will spend a few days with friends.

"Rolling Thunder" and family with three tame bears came to town Tuesday afternoon and camped a few miles east of the village at night.

The Lake Zurich Fire company will give a masquerade ball Thanksgiving night and you are invited to attend. Remember the date, November 24.

Work on the new ice house is rapidly progressing. Mr. Bruce intends to have the weed cutter at work in a short time. More machinery arrived last Monday.

A number of the farmers in this vicinity are willing to draw gravel a day for nothing if they can get help from the town, to gravel the road leading to Barrington. This road is known as one of the poorest roads in Lake county. It needs improving to insure safety to any traveler.

Oh hills may shake and vales resound
 Beneath the flying car,
 And driven by steam and winds abeam
 Our ships ride fast and far;
 Cities may grumble 'neath the guns,
 Which guide our flag unfurled,
 We'll greet when needy the great
 King Feely
 To rule the frightened world.

WAUCONDA.

J. E. Pratt transacted business in the city last Friday.
 Mrs. Frank Garland, jr., is reported very sick at present writing.
 Adam Ibs of McHenry visited with Mr. and Mrs. H. Maiman Sunday.
 Miss Ruth Neville spent a few days with relatives at Nunda last week.
 Messrs. A. Cook and K. V. Werden were Waukegan visitors Wednesday.

Messrs. J. Golding and H. E. Maiman transacted business at Libertyville last Friday.

Lester Burdick of Rockefeller is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hill.

C. A. Golding went to the city Wednesday, where he expects to secure a position in the near future.

Mr. Gleason of Gurnee, representing the Waukegan Weekly Sun, was a pleasant caller in our village Tuesday.

Mrs. Kingsman of Wisconsin and Mrs. Sherman of Waukegan were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harris last week.

The Royal Neighbors of Nunda visited our local camp Tuesday and received a royal reception. A jolly good time is reported.

E. L. Harrison left our village Sunday for the city, where he has secured a position in Marshal Field & Co's wholesale establishment.

G. M. Fitch gave a regular old-time husking bee at his home last Thursday. The huskers were provided for and in the course of the evening about 160 baskets were turned out.

C. E. Wheelock, having sold his farm, will sell at public auction all his personal property, on the premises, one-half mile south of Wauconda butter factory. Sale commences at 10:30 sharp, Tuesday Nov. 15, 1898.

Mr. Spencer has now closed his sorghum mill, having had a very large run this season, by far the largest he has had since opening his annex and patrons came from miles around. He has one of the best and most complete mills in this part of the state. Remember him with your flour and feed this fall.

The Harvest party at the Oakland last Friday evening was attended by about forty couples. The music was good but not what had been expected as O'Connor was sick and unable to come. We understand that Mr. Miller will not give another dance until Christmas.

A lively runaway caused considerable excitement in our village last Thursday. C. E. Mead, who had been out hauling hay, stopped at V. D. Kimball's market to get something and left little Alvin Kimball on the sidewalk holding the team when it became frightened, jerking the lines from his hands and started up the street at a lively pace. When they reached Jenks & Cook's cider mill they deliberately turned around and again started down town. Coming down Main street they struck Jas. Welch's wagon, damaging it slightly and smashing the hayrack. They were now thoroughly excited and sped down the street more rapidly than ever until they reached the alley going down to the lake, by R. C. Hill's residence, when they turned and the wagon was crashed into a large maple tree, overturned and the horses brought to a standstill. They were immediately caught.

Election Returns

The election last Tuesday was very poorly attended and very little interest was manifested. Out of 320 on the register, only 171 votes were cast. The official vote for the town of Wauconda is as follows:

A Sure Sign of Croup.

Hoarseness in a child that is subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by A. S. Olms, Palatine and A. L. Waller, Barrington.

LATEST MARKET REPORT.

Table with market prices for various goods in Chicago, St. Louis, Toledo, Milwaukee, and Peoria. Columns include item name, price per unit, and market status.

THE VOTING IN THE STATES.

Results of the Count Throughout the Country.

FIGURES NOT YET DECISIVE.

Later Returns May Disappoint the Party Leaders—Democrats Claim Illinois House of Representatives—Gov. Pingree and State Ticket Win in Michigan.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—It looks as if the republican plurality in Illinois has been reduced from 141,000 in 1896 to 30,000 or less in 1898. This represents approximately the pluralities of Floyd K. Whittemore over M. F. Dunlap for state treasurer.

The legislature will be close. Sparse returns indicate that the democrats will control the lower house by a narrow margin. In the fortieth assembly there were 88 republicans, 62 democrats and 2 populists. It looks now as if there would be 79 democrats in the lower house of the forty-first general assembly, 73 republicans and one prohibitionist. Six of this democratic gain are from Cook county.

The senate will remain republican, but the democrats have gained seven, three in Cook county and four in the country. One Chicago district, the twenty-third, is still in doubt and may be democratic. Two districts are also doubtful in the county, the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth, the latter of which involves a state senator.

CLOSE IN INDIANA.

Republicans Are, However, Confident of a Victory.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—The returns from members of the two parties in the several counties in the state to the chairmen of the respective committees are very conflicting, but the weight of testimony is in favor of republican success, and it is more than probable that complete returns, which will not be received before late today, will show that the republicans have carried the state by from 8,000 to 10,000 majority.

While the returns from fifty-four counties, which are not, however, complete, indicate an increase over the majority of two years ago, it is construed that this will be greatly reduced by the returns from this, Marion, county, which will show a large republican decrease, and possibly a democratic majority.

The reports so far are from the towns and cities of the state, and none has been received from the precincts that are not easily accessible to telegraph stations.

There is some danger to the republicans in this fact, and the democrats are taking some comfort from the conditions, but it is hardly probable that the country districts will show sufficient democratic gain to overcome the majority of 18,000 for McKinley two years ago.

If the state is republican by the figures indicated, the legislature will also be republican, and the democrats will not make any gain on congressmen, if, in fact, they are able to hold the four districts which are now represented by that party in congress.

SCOFIELD GOES IN.

Wisconsin Republicans Win with Decreased Pluralities.

Milwaukee, Nov. 10.—The republicans came out victorious from the fight at the ballot box, though with considerable loss in plurality, as compared with that of 1896, when President McKinley received 103,000 and Gov. Scofield 95,000.

The republicans elect their state ticket, eight or nine congressmen, a working majority in the lower house and two-thirds of the seventeen senators elected this year, which will give them an overwhelming majority in the senate.

The returns are slow in coming in, and less than one-tenth of the towns in the state have been heard from, but these returns showed that the republican ticket was safe.

Gov. Scofield, contrary to general expectation, did not fall much behind the remainder of the state ticket, in spite of the bitter fight which was made against him personally. He will have within 5 per cent of the vote which the rest of the ticket receives.

On the basis of the returns already received it looks as if the state ticket would receive a plurality of between 25,000 and 35,000, and there will be little difference between the vote for governor and the rest of the ticket.

GOV. PINGREE WINS.

Republican State Ticket Is Elected in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10.—Gov. Pingree held his own in Tuesday's elections. The republican state central committee claims his election by from 50,000 to 60,000 majority. The democratic state committee do not yet concede defeat. The governor ran several hundred ahead of his ticket in Detroit, and ran up a plurality of 2,000 in Grand Rapids. In Saginaw he doubled on his plurality of 1896. In Jackson, Lansing, Bay City and other smaller cities he was cut considerably, but the country districts surrounding went quite strongly for Pingree. The balance of the republican state ticket is elected. The upper peninsula gave its usual republican majorities, but there was a great amount of splitting on governor in the lower peninsula. The vote on congressmen is close in half of the twelve districts, the others returning republicans with certainty.

The legislature will have a republican majority, but whether Pingree or anti on the equal taxation issue is as yet undetermined.

NO CLASH AT THE POLLS.

Election Day Passes Off Very Quietly in North Carolina.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 10.—The democrats have apparently carried the dangerous counties of this state without the aid of shotguns or the shedding of blood. In this county almost every negro who had registered appeared at the polls and voted without hindrance. Almost at the last moment the democrats, feeling sure of the result, abandoned their avowed intention of keeping the negroes away from the polls and allowed them to vote as they pleased.

So far as can be learned the election throughout the entire state has been exceedingly quiet and orderly. Most of the stores were closed. In order to avoid the slightest chance of danger the saloons will remain closed until Thursday.

STONE IS ELECTED GOVERNOR.

Republican Candidate in Pennsylvania Has a Heavy Plurality.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 10.—Stone, the republican candidate for governor, will have a plurality over George W. Jenks, the democratic candidate, variously estimated from 35,000 to 70,000. It is believed that Quay still retains control of the legislature and can go to the United States senate again. No figures are available on congressmen, but it is claimed by the republicans that they will have as many members of the lower house as in the last congress. The democrats claim to have gained four or five members.

For governor, the Rev. Silas C. Swallow, independent, it is claimed, ran behind his vote of last year for treasurer. His failure to poll a heavy vote was a surprise and a disappointment to his backers.

Republican Gains in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—Incomplete returns indicate that the republican plurality on the state ticket will exceed the plurality of 51,109 for McKinley for president in 1896, and probably double the plurality of 28,105 for Bushnell for governor last year. The republicans elect fifteen of the twenty-one congressmen, and four districts are carried by the democrats. Two districts, the Third and Twelfth, are in doubt. The present delegation in congress is fifteen to six.

New Jersey Goes Republican.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 10.—Republican victory is conceded by the democrats. The estimates of Foster M. Voorhees' plurality for governor run from 10,000, the democratic figure, to 25,000 and 30,000, the republican estimates. James Smith, Jr., democrat, it is conceded, is defeated for another term in the United States senate, as the legislature is safely republican by from eight to ten majority. Six of the eight congressmen have been elected by republicans, and possibly seven.

Result in Missouri.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—The returns from the Eighth Missouri, Bland's district, are incomplete, but enough have been received to indicate the re-election of the free silver champion by a majority ranging from 1,500 to 2,000. This will be a falling off in his majority of upward of 1,000. On other candidates the state has gone democratic by 40,000 majority. The democrats elect the entire congressional delegation, with the exception of Barthold of St. Louis.

John Lind Is Elected.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—The election returns of Minnesota are sweet music to democratic ears for the first time in forty years. That John Lind is elected governor is quite obvious from the figures already in, although not one-tenth of the state has reported. As to the remainder of the state ticket, however, not much is yet known further than that the republicans are leading and are probably successful.

Result in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 10.—Reports from over the state are very meager, but indicate slight republican gains over 1896, except in Grand Forks county, where the republican ticket was badly cut. Spaulding and Fancher, republicans, for congress and governor, are running ahead in Fargo, but the vote is far from being counted. An estimate on the state gives the republican ticket 4,500 majority.

Republicans Sweep All in Iowa.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 10.—Iowa has gone republican by a sweeping majority for an off year. Returns from 168 of the 1,120 precincts have been received. This is a small proportion, but it is sufficient for the republicans to be assured of the election of the eleven republican candidates.

EVENTS IN ILLINOIS.

Seven Days' Doings in the Prairie State—Telegrams Received from Various Points.

State Public Charities.

The 1898 meeting of the Illinois State Conference of Charities, under the auspices of the State Commissioners of Public Charities, will be held at Kankakee Wednesday and Thursday, November 16 and 17. Officers of the conference: President, Rev. Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Chicago; first vice president, William A. Talcott, Rockford; second vice president, Mrs. H. F. Rainey, Carrollton; secretary, Mrs. James W. Patton, Springfield. The special topic for discussion will be "Children of the State." The conference will be devoted to the discussion of the care of those who have been well called in other countries the "Children of the State," children who, through natural or acquired defect, or through lack of parental protection and training, are left to the care of public or private charity. The laws of Illinois regarding defective, dependent and delinquent children are far behind the needs of our commonwealth. There are fifteen hundred urgent applications for admission to the now over-crowded Asylum for Feeble-Minded Children at Lincoln; children are still permitted in our poorhouses, jails and city prisons; the number of juvenile arrests in Chicago is greater than in any other American city; in 1892 Chicago had 16,000, while New York had only 10,000 juvenile arrests. These facts certainly demand the serious consideration of good citizens, and it is believed the discussions of the conference on the urgent problems suggested by the program on pages three and four of this circular will prove timely and valuable. The committee on arrangements is as follows: Dr. William G. Stearns, chairman; Mr. H. A. Magruder, Dr. A. F. Smith, Mr. H. C. Clark, Mr. H. K. Wheeler, Mr. A. L. Granger and Dr. W. O. Krohn, secretary.

Light on Hickey Mystery.

Evidence that may yet result in the solution of the murder of Jennie Hickey, whose mangled body was found Sept. 21 beneath the Thirty-sixth street pier, is in the possession of State's Attorney Deneen of Chicago. He has a statement from a prominent lawyer, whose name is withheld, that he saw the schoolgirl with a young man at 8:30 o'clock the evening of Sept. 20. Previous researches had indicated that Jennie's death occurred at an earlier hour. The lawyer's description of her companion tallies with that of one of the men who has figured in the case. The lawyer says he was standing at Thirty-sixth street and Cottage Grove avenue the night the crime is supposed to have been committed, when he saw a young girl with a man about 21 years of age approaching from Thirty-fifth street. He declares he is certain as to the hour, as he had a few minutes before looked at his watch. The witness declares he was attracted by the girl's extreme youth and followed the couple in Cottage Grove avenue to Thirty-seventh street and thought no more of the incident until he saw a picture of Jennie Hickey in a New York paper while he was traveling in the east. It was only two weeks ago that he communicated with the coroner's office and was asked to examine the clothing of the murdered child. Upon seeing the oil skin cap which was found near the pier shortly after the body was raised from the hole he declared it was the hat worn by the girl he saw in Cottage Grove avenue the night of Sept. 20.

Justice of the Peace War.

Belleville, Ill.—As a result of the intense rivalry among the justices of the peace here to marry eloping couples from St. Louis and other adjacent cities a warrant was issued today by Justice Cannady and Needles against Justice Boneau on complaint of Justice Ward. The accused is said to have used language calculated to provoke a breach of the peace. The other warrant is to force the settlement of a note. Both are the direct outcome, it is alleged, of this fight. All trains and street cars are eagerly watched by the justices for couples intending to marry. The fees usually are good and the scramble for them has precipitated a lively war. Yesterday a couple arrived at the courthouse and Boneau and Ward were there, ready for the job, but a justice had been secured. Ward says Boneau advised the groom not to get married in "Ward's hog pen." Words followed and the chasm of enmity broadened. Now the fight is general. A threat has been made by one of the justices to reduce the rates, it is said, but nothing so rash has taken place yet.

True Bill Charges Robber with Murder.

James S. Caldwell, the highwayman who shot Ward Fish, a bartender at 14 State street, Chicago, August 31, was the subject of a true bill charging murder voted last week.

Addressed by Booth Tucker.

Commander Booth Tucker came to Chicago last week to participate in the closing exercises of the Red Crusade against vice which the Salvation Army has been waging. The commander was driven directly from the railroad station to the Princess rink on West Madison street, the headquarters of the army, and at 8 o'clock in the evening conducted the meeting regularly arranged in the programs of the crusade. The presiding officer was Lieutenant Colonel French, who made a brief address in introducing the commander. The chief officer of the Salvation Army in America took as the subject of his talk "Cain and Abel." He said that his reason for discussing the incident in which these biblical characters figured was the desire to impress upon his hearers the great sin of soul destruction, not only of self but of others. The commander's brother, an officer in the army in India, was killed by robbers only a short time ago and the story of this tragic affair was told to show the shortness of life and the necessity of soul salvation instead of destruction.

Ahern Is in Jail at Peoria.

Peoria, Ill.—Louis Ahern, alias Gehrke, the alleged murderer of W. J. Mahoney, alias Manning, of Chicago, was brought to this city from Chicago by the Peoria officers Thursday afternoon. After being put through a "sweat box" ordeal at the police station he was turned over to the sheriff and is now in jail. Ahern adheres to his story that he parted company with Mahoney at the station Wednesday afternoon, five hours before the murder, but a number of people identified him positively to-day as the companion of Mahoney in the vicinity of the murder. He also claims to have been sleeping all of Wednesday forenoon, but this statement has been disproved by five witnesses who saw the men together during that time. Officials claim to be in a position to prove that a gang of robbers planned to make away with Mahoney for betraying them and for an unfair division of spoils, and that Ahern, being at death's door with consumption, was chosen to do the work, since he had but a short time to live anyway, and the manner of his death could make but little difference to him.

Minister Denies a Forgery.

Sycamore, Ill.—When the case against Rev. George Parrish, the Marshalltown minister, who is charged with forgery, was called and the clergyman was asked by the court what he wanted to do he replied that his attorney had not arrived and if he pleaded guilty it would leave a cloud on his soul and would be an injustice to his friends and those dear to him. Parrish's principal witness, by whom he expected to prove his innocence, died last week. The court informed him if he wished to go to trial and had no means counsel would be appointed, and that any member of the bar would serve him well. Parrish then engaged Attorney T. M. Cliffe of Sycamore and the case was passed for the present, but will come up again at this term of court.

Canal Injunction Case.

Joliet, Ill.—Judge Hilscher has been in consultation with the attorneys of the Chicago sanitary district and the Illinois and Michigan Canal trying to agree on a decree in the injunction case. Each side submitted a decree. One of the principal bones of contention is brought out by the claim of the sanitary district that the canal commissioners be required to safely care for the discharge of surplus water going through the tail races by dam No. 1, and also the body of water in the upper basin after the drainage channel is in use. Another difference is the water power rights on the Channahon level. The case will again be taken up and an agreement may be reached.

Metal Checks Permitted.

In the case of the United States against Christian H. Hanson in Chicago, Judge Grosscup decided that the sale and circulation of metal checks as token money was legal. Hanson is a manufacturer of stencils and tags, and he furnished the evidence against himself, in order that a test case might be made. Judge Grosscup said that token money was a convenience in business, and could not be treated as counterfeit money. He could not agree that there had been a violation of the law, and dismissed the bill. Several days ago other United States authorities decided the other way. Considerable token money is still used in Peoria.

DEATH OF DAVID A. WELLS, THE POLITICAL ECONOMIST.

David A. Wells, who died at his home in Norwich, Conn., last week, lived to be known the world over as an eminent economist, a practical thinker and a man of fine literary attainments. His seventy years of activity were crowned with success in many allied fields. A graduate of Williams college and of the Lawrence Scientific school at Harvard, Oxford conferred upon him later the degree of D. C. L., and Berkshire added an M. D. to the LL. D. of Williams as an earnest appreciation for his service in the practical fields of science. Mr. Wells had a colonial ancestry of which he was proud. He was a lineal descendant of Thomas Wells, governor of Massachusetts, and through his mother he traced the line back to David Ames, who built and established the national armory in Springfield. He was born in Springfield, June 17, 1828. When he left Williams he became assistant editor of the Springfield Republican. While there he invented the device for folding newspapers by machinery and in the office of the Republican the first machine was successfully operated under his direction. It was while at Harvard that Louis Agassiz took a personal interest in him. In 1852 he was made an assistant professor in the institution and began a series of scientific productions, among them being "Elements of Natural Philosophy" and "First Principles of Geology." His "Principles and Applications of Chemistry" was soon adopted as a text-book by the United States military academy, and later the schools throughout the country introduced others of his works. His first appearance in public life was in 1864 when he was appointed chairman of the commission to inquire into the subject of raising by taxation the revenue needed by the government. He reconstructed the internal revenue system and also established a national bureau of statistics, of which he was given charge. In quick succession followed his appointment by the governor of New York as chairman of the commission on state taxation, a membership in the national board of arbitration, the receivership of various railroads, a lectureship on political science in Yale. He served as a delegate to the democratic national convention in 1872 and 1880 and was at one time a candidate for congress. On the financial question he contributed a number of books from the standpoint of bimetallicism.

Movement in Western Range Stock.

Scattered reports received by the National Live Stock Association from various sections of the range country and the different markets indicate that the rather confused conditions that existed up to a few weeks ago are rapidly becoming clearer, and it is now possible to speak with some degree of certainty as to the fall movement, says Kansas Farmer. The movement of both cattle and sheep has been late this season, due principally to dry weather and unfavorable conditions on the ranges. The copious rains of the early season in nearly all sections were followed by a long period of dry weather. In the far West the drought injured the feed in some sections, while in others the grass had advanced to a point where the sun and dry weather only made it better. Scarcity of water for the cattle was another drawback, but as far as can be learned the actual losses from this cause were but trifling and confined to a few isolated sections. In the mountain ranges the cattle have found good feed in the high pastures where timber is plentiful, but some sections report a scarcity of hay and will market their cattle when finished rather than carry them through the winter.

The greatly discussed shortage of range cattle has manifested itself beyond doubt, principally in the Northern and Western sections, where shipments will show a falling off from last year's record of from 10 to 15 per cent. The heaviest decrease is in aged cattle, three years old and over, of which class there is an actual famine in some sections. Young cattle are also not as plentiful in the range sections as last year, but the territory covered by Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota report a large increase, hardly enough, however, to make up for the decrease in the West and North.

The percentage of range cattle that will go for feeders this year is considerably less than usual, owing to the good feed that has prevailed on the range and the strong demand for beef cattle. Most of the markets report a good percentage of arrivals fit for beef, and for the first time in some months the range steer is worth more for beef than as a feeder to be finished on corn. The demand for feeders in the West, including the territory west of the Missouri river, has been far less than last year up to the present time; but in the territory east of the river the demand is larger than it has been before in years. This is believed to be due largely to the conditions surrounding the corn crop. Owing to the drought and hot winds at a critical time, the crop west of the Missouri river as a whole is below the average, while east of the river a fairly good crop is assured. Feeders of Kansas and Nebraska have been waiting and holding back, demanding lower prices on feeders. Within the last two weeks there has been developed more of a demand, but it is largely filled at home, these two states having been well filled with young cattle and breeding cattle last year.

Gobblers for Next Year.

Get rid of all male turkeys as soon as the market opens full for that class of stock, and get a male from some source which will insure against the possibility of his being related to the hens, says the "Poultry Keeper." If a gobbler has a dash of the "wild" blood in him, say one-fourth, it will be an advantage. The use of young gobblers should be avoided. One that is two years old should be preferred to a yearling.

The hens may be as young as one year, but if older it will be better. The point should be to secure vigor in the young ones, and as in breeding and the use of immature parents has done much to cause loss to the young ones hatched in the past, it is important to secure strong young turkeys in order to be able to raise a larger number than is usually done every year. The loss of a single young turkey in a brood is quite an item considering its value for market when it matures, and the safest way to prevent loss is to begin with the breeding stock and secure vigor.

Organization Among Farmers—There is a power in organization which no single individual possesses and no amount of isolated individuals can possess, the age in which we live has produced them in every branch of industry, until it is now recognized as the only road to success. This power, if used in a strictly business-like manner, seeks justice to all, oppression to none. It does not mean monopoly and extortion. It does not mean that the most ignorant member may have all the benefits possessed by the most intelligent, and that the most intelligent must not suffer through the unbusiness-like methods of the most ignorant.—A. C. Bennett.

Price of Canned Meats.—There has recently been a considerable decline in canned meats, and there is no immediate prospect that the price will recover, as there is a falling off of demand from the government and foreign markets as well. This may slightly affect the price of that class of cattle known in the Western markets as canners, which have ruled higher the past few months than for years.—Ex.

Through the appeals of the citizens of Park Ridge, the Northwestern road has decided to erect a new depot at that place. Work will be commenced as soon as possible. The new depot will be a handsome and commodious structure. The waiting room will be 25x50 feet, the baggage room 14x25 feet and the ticket office 11x12 feet. On either end of the building will be a shed 45x13. The depot will be steam heated and will cost $7,000. Park Ridge has a population of about 1,000.

THE REVIEW has on hand three new maps, size 5 1/2 feet square, which we will sell for $2 each. They are made by Rand, McNally & Co. and are sold by them at $5. On one side is a map of the world and on the reverse side is a map of the United States.

The Misses Minnie Gleske and Amanda Troyer, successors to Miss B. A. Lamey, have opened dressmaking parlors on the second floor of the McIntosh building, one door west of Schafer's meat market, where they will be pleased to meet old and new customers.

A small blaze was discovered Monday shooting through the roof of the Northwestern round house, and but for its timely discovery it would soon have become a hot one. The fire department was called out but when it arrived the fire was nearly under control by the use of a few pails of water by those who arrived early on the scene. However, the fire department turned a stream of water on the burning roof and quenched it almost instantly.

From New Zealand.

REEFTON, New Zealand, Nov. 23, 1896. I am very pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicines the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children. E. J. SCANTLEBURY. For sale by A. S. Olms, Palatine and A. L. Waller, Barrington.

Hogs Strayed.

Strayed from the John Schoppe farm, in the north-west part of the town of Palatine, 7 heifers—5 with horns and a hog ring in each ear. The other two have a hog ring in right ear.s Address E. LOOMIS, Barrington.

There's a Tenderness

About our meats that is appreciated by the cook.

It is not necessary to pound the steaks with a mallet to make them yield up their juiciness. Nor to use great care in broiling or roasting.

Our beef, lamb, veal, mutton and pork is so good in itself that the chances of spoiling them in bad cooking are small.

Every piece of meat we sell is cut from prime, well fed, and carefully handled animals.
