Smoke King Clay cigar.

THE REVIEW is still the old stand-by.

A foot ball game may be a feature on Thanksgiving day.

One of the best smokes in town is the new King Clay cigar.

Mrs. John Rose of Irving Park visited friends here Sunday.

Miss Della Rea visited her brother Harry at Evanston this week.

Halloween passed off with but few depredations. Too many "cops."

W. E. Daniels of Ravenswood visited old acquaintances here over Sunday.

Mrs. Rolle Lincoln and baby of Cary have been visiting at J. Lincoln's the past week.

Does the tag on your paper read correct? If not, notify the editor immediately.

Miss Mollie Flury returned Thursday of last week from a five week's visit with friends in Iowa.

Miss Elliott of Chicago, who so talentfully favored the Missionary ladies with her music last year, visited them again this week.

Ladies Aid society meeting Friday afternoon and also next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Everybody come who will help.

Mrs. James Young and her sister, Miss Mildred Hicks, have returned from a visit with Mr. Young's sister, Mrs. Gay, at Detroit, Mich.

The village board met in special session Monday and granted saloon licenses to the following parties: Henry Knigge, P. H. Hartlett and Henry Mundhenke.

Communion services in the M. E. church Sunday morning and temperance meeting in the evening. Subject, "Who Slew all There?" All are invited to attend.

Earl Lincoln, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lincoln, died Thursday morning after a two weeks' illness. The funeral services will be held at the home this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. W. H. Brockway invited a number of friends to her home Friday of last week to enjoy a birthday celebration in her honor. The bad weather kept many away but due honor was done to the occasion, nevertheless.

Paul Patten has been home this week from Culvert Military academy. He was injured while mounting a horse and received a few days' leave of absence. He is the envy of his former schoolmates here in his natty suit of gray.

The Epworth League announce an Experience social for November 24. Young and old are cordially invited to earn their dollar and write up their experience to give before an appreciative company at the church parlors where refreshments will be served to all.

The Halloween party given to the High school pupils by Miss Salzer last Saturday night proved a very interesting affair for those present. Nearly every attendant of the High school was present and the evening was spent in games, etc. All pronounce the occasion a happy one.

Mrs. Delle Geggie of Duluth spent Tuesday and Wednesday in town, inquiring as to the possibility of organizing a Queen Esther society, auxiliary to the Home Missionary society, among the young ladies. She left much encouraged and expects to return and speak from the Methodist pulpit Sunday, November 12.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society met with Mrs. Robertson on Wednesday and had a splendid company and a delightful time. A meeting will be held the first Wednesday of each month unless otherwise announced. The December meeting is called for the second Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Arps. New members are solicited.

FOR RENT—Farm of 200 acres. Enquire of Elmer Robertson, Palatine. tf

John Fink went to Racine Wis., last week, where he is visiting with his sister.

A new bakery and restaurant will be started in the Anderman building by a gentleman from Arlington Heights.

Mr. Werite was about to pull up his drill in the water works well when the pipe broke, eighteen feet from the bottom. A good flow of water was struck, but the drill has not yet been removed.

Dr. Muffat and Dr. Halstead of Chicago performed an operation on Mr. Filbert Tuesday, an abscess having formed in the wound in his head. Although he is resting quietly at present writing, his recovery is doubtful.

The Epworth League will hold its regular monthly meeting, Friday evening, November 10, at 7 o'clock, in the parlors of the church. All members and friends of the League are invited to be present at the business meeting as well as at the "Social Hour," which will follow. A pleasant evening is anticipated.

The Methodist ladies are very busy with brains and fingers preparing for their bazaar which is set for December 7 and 8. The latest booths contemplated are the California booth and the Teachers' booth. All friends of the church are kindly invited to assist in any way they may feel disposed. The society is working to clear the indebtedness on the church.

Sugar Beet Culture.

The efforts now being made by the agricultural department at Washington to promote sugar beet culture in this country, together with the efforts of several state legislatures to stimulate the industry with state bounties, naturally excited public interest in the latest developments of sugar beet production in Germany, which is the greatest sugar beet growing country in the world. There is much apprehension in Germany over the probable effect of the increased sugar beet area in the United States upon the bounty fed industry of Germany.

That country's sugar production has been stimulated by bounties until it has reached enormous proportions, and any threatened curtailment of the market for this product is naturally viewed with alarm. The United States is a heavy customer of Germany in this line, but with the annexation of several sugar growing islands and the rapid development of the beet sugar areas in California, Nebraska, Utah and Virginia, which states raised 52,000,000 pounds in 1896, it is but a question of time when this country will be able to supply the domestic demand. In fact, it is not improbable that the United States may become at no remote period an exporter of sugar.

According to the reports of our consuls in Germany, the sugar beet industry, though still fostered by liberal bounties, is practically at a standstill. Indeed there has been a slight decrease in the output, there being 1,054,000 acres under cultivation this year against 1,080,000 acres in 1897-8. The crop of beets grown amounted to 12,144,291 metric tons in 1898, which was 1,553,691 metric tons less than the year before.

It is easy to see that the most generous bounty system on the part of the German government cannot long maintain the industry against diminishing markets.

Next to the demand for the Missouri mule one of the earliest developments of the South African war, in its effect upon the markets of the world, has been made manifest in the shape of a sudden and material advance in the price of beans. This was likewise the case during the course of our late war with Spain and obtains also as an incidental feature in the operations in the Philippines. The nutritive and sustaining qualities of the bean serve to render it almost indispensable to the men of fierce fights and long marches. This increased demand and consequent higher price is of course a good thing for the bean grower and the bean merchant, but it is tough on Boston, whose great food staple it is. Obviously the more beans that are eaten by the soldiers of this and other countries the fewer beans will be left for Boston folks to eat. Not even second to her devotion to beans is Boston's love of peace. Here are the headquarters and propaganda center of various peace societies. It has long been the hub from which has radiated the spokes of peace. Can it be that there is a selfish and sordid motive behind Boston's affection for the white winged goddess? May it not be possible that her love of peace and hatred of war have their basic principle in fear of the curtailment and possible exhaustion of her favorite food supply? Indeed it is no marvel that in Boston war in any part of the world is regarded as "a conspiracy to take away our liberties and raise the price of beans."

Admiral Farragut's old flagship, the Hartford, which has been reconstructed at the Mare Island navy yard, San Francisco, is again in commission and will soon sail around the Horn for New York, where she will be used as a training ship. As compared with modern warships, the Hartford is small and vulnerable, but her history entitles her to a place in the navy alongside the frigate Constitution. If for no other reason, the preservation of this historic ship, as well as "Old Ironsides," is fully justified as an inspiration to the young Jack Tars and a reminiscence of naval heroism in the past.

Snowden is a remarkable township in Alleghany county, Pa. With farm property assessed at over $500,000, it has neither church, minister, physician, lawyer, almshouse nor saloon. While the people may not be positively pious, there seems to be pretty good evidence that they are not wholly bad.

Able journalists in various sections of the country are already writing President McKinley's message to congress for him. It is understood, however, that the president will be graciously permitted to revise the copy.

It is now stated that Mrs. Langtry's proposed reminiscences will not be published. Possibly the Jersey Lily found it more profitable to forget than to remember.

John Rachow is somewhat crippled up from an accident that he met with while in the employ of a railroad company at Joliet. Mr. Rachow was on top of a high furniture car making repairs on a brake when an engine in the mean time had coupled on the other end of the train of cars. The unexpected start of the car on which he was standing dashed him to the ground. While no bones were broken he was seriously bruised at the hips from which he has not fully recovered, although the accident occurred nearly a month ago.

At the monthly meeting of the Barrington Social and Athletic club Thursday evening the advisability of starting a dancing school was discussed. A committee of three—Dr. T. H. Rath, Carl Ernst and M. T. Lamey—was appointed to see what could be done towards getting the required number of members for commencement. The start made that evening was pleasing to the promoters of the idea and two-thirds of the club members present manifested themselves as willing by signing the list prepared by the committee. Several more names have been added since. It is the intention of those who are working ardently for the establishment of such a school to have a sufficient number of members at the start, before final arrangements are made that the expense of each individual's instructions may be moderate. Those who care to join the class should hand in their names at once to any of the members of the committee so that the class may be started at an early date.

The papers of Iowa contend that the cornfields of the state look finer and better than those of Kansas. The way to test this, says the Chicago Tribune, is to select samples from the fields of both states, stand them side by side and let the cornstalk.

The Northwestern University male quartet will be here Wednesday evening, November 15, at the M. E. church. Their concerts given here last winter will long be remembered by those who heard them sing and they promise us another fine treat. They are in demand more than ever and Barrington is fortunate in getting a date with them. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

Mrs. P. Donlea met with quite a severe accident Wednesday forenoon. While attempting to go down a cellar stairway she fell several steps to the cellar floor. One of her arms was broken close to the shoulder besides a gash, which necessitated a few stitches by the family physician, was inflicted on the left side of the head. She is getting along as well as can be expected.

A Social Success.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather Friday evening of last week the reception given at the M. E. church in honor of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Robinson and Rev. and Mrs. T. E. Ream was a success in every detail. Those who did not avail themselves of the opportunity to attend missed a rare treat.

Promptly at 8 o'clock Chairman Heise announced that the program would begin with an organ solo by Prof. Stedman. It was a touching farewell to the retiring minister. Mr. Fred Lines delivered the opening address, extending a pathetic farewell to the retiring minister and a cordial welcome to the new one. Mr. Lines said in part:

"Five years ago Rev. and Mrs. Ream first started in Barrington to take a part in the great drama of life. How well they have played their part no one knows better than the Methodist church and the people they so faithfully served. For five years they have been scattering flowers all along our pathways. Tonight they are still in bloom and the fragrance will surely be wafted across their pathway, laden with the best wishes of our people."

To Dr. and Mrs. Robinson he said: "Come tonight to welcome you to our little metropolis, where the spreading elms and maples cast their invigorating shadows; where the air comes to us freighted with the rich perfume from the flower-strewn prairies and groves of Illinois; where man is measured by his brain and not his bank account; where our sons and daughters are blessed with culture and christian refinement. Such is the spot that bids you welcome."

In response Rev. Ream said that he had prepared no lengthy address and that what he would say would be a brief friendly talk with his people that he loved so well; that five of the pleasantest years of his life had been spent in Barrington, and his people had in so many ways endeared themselves to him that time could have no hand in erasing it from his memory. He congratulated them on the acquisition of the new minister, Dr. Robinson, a man very dear to his heart. After some useful farewell instructions to his people Rev. Ream bid them farewell.

Dr. Robinson then came forward and acknowledged in a very appropriate response his appreciation of his Barrington friends. He said he felt somewhat like the little boys called up to speak their pieces; that he scarcely knew how to act as it was a case of "good-bye" and "how do you do," but as he had not been coached he would try to act natural and put up with the results. He assured the friends that he was in love with them as a town and a people; that he expected his stay with them would be a most pleasant one and thanked them for their kind tribute in behalf of himself and family.

Miss Carrie Kingsley rendered a vocal solo in her usual charming manner.

Rev. W. L. Blanchard, of the Baptist church, then welcomed Dr. Robinson, the new pastor, in behalf of his people, not only as a pastor of a sister church, but as a friend and neighbor. He paid a sweeping tribute to Rev. Ream by saying wherever his field of duty called him new laurels would be added to his fame. After a selection from the choir and an organ solo by Prof. Stedman, all repaired to the church parlors where refreshments were served and the exercises concluded.

Mr. M. C. McIntosh acted as toast master and in a most scholarly and familiar manner proposed the toasts, which were responded to in an able way by those called upon.

Mrs. Lines responded to the toast, "Mr. and Mrs. Ream as members of the Chautauqua Circle," paying a just tribute to their faithfulness when she said: "In no class of society has their worth been more keenly felt than in the Chautauqua Circle."

"The Laymen" was responded to by Dr. Robinson in a very eloquent and able manner.

A toast was then proposed to the choir to which Miss Gertrude Meyer responded to in a most proficient manner.

"How to Get on in the World," was then explained in a masterly fashion by Mrs. J. I. Sears.

Last, but not least, by any means, came the response to "Our Sister Members," by Dr. Lytle, who in well chosen and appropriate words vouchsafed for the sisterhood of the church as a whole. The worthy toast master made no mistake when he assured those present that he had reserved for the last a choice morsel in the shape of a modern Chauncey Depew.

A Revival in Music.

That music has a refining influence none will deny, and it may justly be called a Devine art. Our citizens are always anxious to secure the best teachers that money can secure in any of the departments of music. With this in view, and to still gain greater proficiency, the band has secured the services of Prof. C. W. Gee of Marengo, who is a thorough musician and one of long experience in band teaching. We are informed that he now has four bands under his care. His method of teaching is similar to all conservatories, in which every member is required to take private instructions, in which each pupil is taught the rudiments, as well as the higher branches of music.

Associated with him in his work, he has secured the services of C. S. Horn, one of the famous cornet soloists of the West. Mr. Horn has just closed a very successful concert season and has occupied positions as cornet soloist in some of the best bands in the country. Among them we mention the 7th Regimental band of Chicago.

We congratulate our boys upon their good fortune in securing Professors Gee and Horn as their instructors. Prof. Gee also has a class of sixty members of the Salem church, to whom he gives instructions in vocal music every Friday evening. He shows an unusual amount of ability in the work and the class is progressing rapidly.

Get in on the Ground Floor.

This applies to two classes of people. Those who are interested for the purpose of investment or speculation, and those who for any reason desire to change their business locations.

To any person in either class the new towns located and owned by the Chicago & North-Western Railroad company along its new lines of railroad now being constructed, offer the most tempting inducements.

Prices of lots in these towns are still absolutely on the ground floor, and are sure winners either for investors or locators.

The North-Western also owns nearly one-half million acres of splendid timber land, adapted to general farming, which is for sale at very low prices. Write for information to
