Obituary.

Mrs. Charlotte Koelling died at her home, 5722 LaSalle street, Chicago, after a long illness, aged 64 years, 3 months and 10 days. The cause of her death was heart trouble.

Her maiden name was Miss Charlotte Hottendorf. She was married to Conrad Koelling in Germany October 16, 1858, and they came to America in 1865, settling at Elk Grove. After a few years they moved to Iowa but soon returned to Illinois and in 1876 settled on a small farm near Barrington. Mr. Koelling died in 1888. For the past three years Mrs. Koelling made her home with her sons in Chicago.

Her remains were brought to Barrington Tuesday on the noon train and the funeral services were held in St. Paul's Evangelical church, Rev. Menzel officiating. She leaves three sons, Fred, Henry and Herman, and one daughter, Mrs. Henry Winkler, who greatly mourn her loss. Her remains were laid to rest in the Lutheran cemetery.

Lake County Democrats Meet.

The Lake county democratic convention met at Libertyville Thursday afternoon. The delegates to the senatorial convention, yet to be called, were instructed to use all honorable means to nominate a Lake county man for the legislature. Hon. George Wait of Volo will probably be a candidate for the office. The delegates to the state convention were: F. C. Rogers, W. E. Miller, W. F. Hogan and Geo. Wait, who were uninstructed. Delegates to the congressional convention were Judge Coburn, General George Rogers, Daniel A. Grady, Henry Seip, J. J. Morley, Charles Gordon, Thomas Graham and Harry Wheelock, who were uninstructed.

Resolutions were adopted reaffirming and indorsing the Chicago platform of 1896, indorsing William J. Bryan for president and instructing delegates to the state convention to vote for delegates pledged to him.

Duties of Assessors Defined.

The annual convention of the county assessors was held at Joliet Saturday, and two orders of far-reaching scope were read to assessors on their duties in spreading the next assessment. Attorney General Akin and Auditor McCullough submitted opinions, which were read by County Treasurer Gifford, in which it was held that no change can be made in the supposed erroneous assessments spread in 1899, and which must stand for four years, unless the mistake was a clerical error in transcribing the records. The only cases in which this year's valuation can differ from last year is where the property has been improved or altered so as to give it another value since the last assessment. Auditor McCullough says: "The assessor, under the law, has no right or authority to change the assessment of real estate made for the year 1899, on account of any supposed erroneous mistake in the value of the property for any year."—Waukegan Gazette.

How to Save Doctor Bills.

We have saved many doctor bills since we began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home. We keep a bottle open all the time and whenever any of my family or myself begin to catch cold, we begin to use the Cough Remedy, and as a result we never have to send away for a doctor and incur a large doctor bill, for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never fails to cure. It is certainly a medicine of great merit and worth.—D. S. MEARLE, General Merchant and Farmer, Mattie, Bedford county, Pa. For sale by A. L. Waller, Barrington and A. S. Olms, Palatine.

CURRENT TOPICS

TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

As a general thing the idea of making a special study of children in a scientific way, much as a scientist would observe a beetle or a baboon, seems rather cold-blooded to most people. Such investigations of childhood's tendencies and motives as Prof. Ashcroft has recently been making do not fall under this category. Formulating certain questions as to what children would do with money which they earned or found or which was given to them, Prof. Ashcroft obtained certain data which lead to conclusions quite favorable on the whole as to the charitable, generous and saving instincts of boys and girls. Of nearly 1,000 children questioned as to what they would do with a dollar if given them to spend as they pleased, 62 per cent expressed themselves in favor of buying useful articles, 30 per cent non-useful articles, 3 per cent would use it for benevolent purposes, and 5 per cent for buying presents for their friends. Other investigations showed that in a school where penny savings banks were established the latter were an undoubted encouragement to thrift. On the whole, Prof. Ashcroft's investigations seem to give a complete refutation to the materialistic idea that children are naturally savages, who must be trained in the ways of civilization.

ATTEMPT ON WALES' LIFE.

The attempt upon the life of the prince of Wales was quite what might have been expected, because, happily for the credit of human nature, ninety-nine out of one hundred of the persons who believe in murder as a political agency are so close to the line of idiocy that their attempts strike at that person who, of all others, is least responsible for the wrongs they allege as the motives of their acts. Every sane person knows that the prince of Wales has no more to do with the South African war than the man in the moon. He is an absolute nullity in politics. Only a short time ago a crazy Italian "anarchist" as he chose to call himself, struck down the blameless empress of Austria. The assassinations of President Carnot, of Garfield, of Mayor Harrison, all show the same blind imbecility. It is well known that the murder of Alexander of Russia removed the one person from whom radical political improvements in that country were to be expected, putting back political progress in the empire for twenty years.

DETROIT SUPPRESSES LANGTRY.

Mayor Maybury of Detroit, who witnessed "The Degenerates" at Toledo the other night, threatened to revoke the opera house franchise in Detroit if the play was put on there, and so it was given in Windsor, Ont., a little Canadian town across the river from Detroit. The play, according to Detroit's mayor, is based upon the theory that actions can be performed and insinuations made on the stage which are not tolerated in decent society. The plot, he says, is a continuous liaison and the dialogue has reference only to these liaisons, the language being unmistakable and pointing directly to the purpose of the plot. This arraignment is just, and yet Mrs. Langtry's play drew good houses instead of protests when it was presented in Chicago recently.

"TAKING THE TIDE."

Prof. Goldwin Smith says that Queen Victoria's visit to Ireland should have been earlier in order to have its best effect. A good many politicians, also, are now saying Dewey's declaration of his candidacy for the presidency comes too late. Shakespeare seems to have had a pretty firm grasp of the part opportunity plays in the affairs of men when he wrote the oft-quoted lines about taking the tide at its flood.

NEW YORK AND ALBANY.

Mayor Van Wyck of Greater New York says that his city is but a colony under state government, ruled absolutely by a coterie at Albany. This may be hard upon Mr. Van Wyck, but the nation at large would rather see Manhattan ruled by the farmers of New York state than see the state controlled by corrupt politicians.

STATUS OF THE WAR.

Is Bloemfontein to be a Ladysmith on a larger scale? In the bewildering situation of Roberts' army and with lack of news as to active operations it is difficult to form an opinion as to what is taking place. One thing alone seems certain—that the victorious march to Pretoria has been delayed for the best of reasons.

During almost the entire session of the senate Saturday an amendment to the Indian appropriation bill offered by Mr. Jones (Ark.) providing for the continuance of the government's employment of the contract Indian schools, in certain circumstances, was under consideration. The debate took a wide range, the whole question of sectarian schools being gone over at length. The notable feature of the discussion was an eloquent speech delivered in support of the amendment by Mr. Vest. The amendment was pending when the senate adjourned, the vote upon it disclosing the fact that no quorum was present.

The house Saturday paid tribute to the memory of the late Richard Parks Bland of Missouri, popularly known as "Silver Dick" Bland, who was a member of the house for twenty-six years. Splendid eulogies of the life and career of the great champion of silver were offered by members on both sides of the political aisle. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the house, as a further mark of respect, adjourned. A resolution was adopted calling upon the secretary of war for information as to whether Charles E. UPHOLDS INDIANA GAS LAW.

U. S. Supreme Court Decides Messara Protects Private Property.

Justice White in the Supreme court handed down the opinion of the court in the case of the Ohio Oil company vs. the state of Indiana. The case involved the validity of the state law prohibiting persons from boring wells to permit the escape of gas into the atmosphere as opposed to the general interests of the community. The oil company in its petition alleged that the enforcement of this law was a violation of the federal constitution in that it amounted to taking property without due process of law, declaring that it practically meant that the oil in a certain district could not be removed until the gas was exhausted. The state courts upheld the law, refusing to accept this view of the case. The opinion sustained that view. Justice White said that the oil company had apparently proceeded under a misconception of the law, for under the view presented each property owner could proceed to do as he might please with his property to the injury of an entire community. For this reason the prohibitory law of the state was held to be valid and not in contravention of the constitution of the United States.

RAISE GERMAN FLAG.

Mataafa, in an Address, Expresses Satisfaction in Samoan Affairs.

The ceremonies attending the raising of the German flag over the islands of Upolu, Manono, Apolima and Savaii began on March 1, and were attended by over 5,000 natives and all the foreign residents. Mataafa made a speech at the flag-raising, which was very peaceful and full of expressions of good will. Mataafa said: "I wish to declare my gladness and great thankfulness on this very day. Thanks be to God in heaven for his continued love of our islands. Great thanks to his majesty the German emperor in that he has declared Samoa under his rule. Thanks that it is now made known and is now come to pass that there is a chief who is governor of Samoa. Thanks to our sovereign lady, the queen of Great Britain. And thanks to the president of America. For they have made and appointed this agreement which is appointed, and which is known certainly this day. We obey and pay respect to the rule of his majesty, the German emperor. I also speak of the great benefits to be derived by Samoan children in the future from the grand schools we now have in Samoa. I am sorry the dear departed ones are not present to behold this glorious day. Samoans naturally love one another. Cease from variance, I place before you the saying of holy scripture, as the root of my address, 'Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.' May the kaiser live. May the governor live. May all Samoa be happy."

HELPS THE AMERICAN FARMER

Great Britain's Embargo on South American Shipments.

Cablegrams have reached Chicago to the effect that the British government has prohibited the importation of live cattle from South Africa. The reason for this embargo is that for some time England has been troubled with that dread scourge of the farmer, foot and mouth disease. The prevalence of this disease has caused much apprehension to the authorities, who made a thorough investigation and found several cases in shipments from the Argentine republic. The embargo takes effect May 1, so as not to work any hardship to those who have shipments afloat on their way to England. To the live stock industry of the United States this means that South American cattle have been prohibited from being landed at English ports and that this country will be called upon to furnish England with the beef that has formerly been supplied by the South American countries. This will bring millions of dollars into this country that formerly went to South America. The American farmer will receive the greatest benefit from the order. England takes only the finest cattle, and as really fine cattle are none too plentiful, an advance in price will naturally result.

Train Wrecked and Burned.

One of the most serious wrecks in the history of the Fort Worth and Denver City road occurred at 3:35 o'clock Thursday morning just south of Magenta, 376 miles north of Fort Worth, Texas. As a result two men are dead and many others badly injured. The train, which was running at full speed, was ditched, and the cars were piled in one promiscuous heap. To add to the horrors of the situation a fire started in the wreckage, consuming the wrecked cars. The shrieks of men and women pinioned in the wreckage were sickening. Many passengers who managed to extricate themselves were badly burned.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Rob Cleverdale's Adventure.

By Edward W. Hopkins.

Copyrighted, 1896, by Robert Bonser's Sons.

CHAPTER XVI.

"Those who are with me to the death, come behind me!" said Starne. Less than half the crew obeyed. There was a shout from those who remained. "No kill the boy, we all go," said one. "The cub must die. Stand aside!" The pistol was raised again, and at the same moment a dozen other pistols came into view. Starne's men had some, and Rob's men the rest. "This is mutiny!" yelled Starne at those who stood by Rob. "I will have you all in prison."

Back in the group there was one of lighter shade than the rest. He had quite an intelligent face. He had as yet said nothing. In reply to Starne's last threat this man stepped forward. "You lie," he said. "This is not mutiny. A crew cannot mutiny only against its officers. You have no business on this schooner. You have killed our captain. We will not stand by you."

"Then take this!" said Starne, firing his pistol at the man. The ball took effect in his arm, and he uttered a shout of rage. In an instant a half dozen shots had been fired. Several of the crew were wounded. And Lemuel Starne lay writhing on the deck. It was over in an instant. The crew as if suddenly bethinking itself of what it was doing, stopped and looked at Rob.

"Men," he said, "this could not be avoided. This man is a wicked man. He killed Torrevo, and he would have killed me. I never did anything to him. He wanted to kill me to get my uncle's wealth. As for that cause he spoke of, it is as dead as Torrevo, dead as a dead fish. If you stand by Elvin

Cat Bay, Rob smiled. It was not so long ago that he had been in that bay, lugging bales of cotton, sacks, kegs of powder, and feeling the sting of blows; and now he was sailing past it, the master of the "Black Cat" and her swarthy crew.

The "Black Cat" sailed into the harbor of Buenos Ayres, and an inspector came on board.

"Well!" he said, "it's a long time since the 'Black Cat' sailed into this harbor. What's the cargo?"

"None," said Rob. "I am here on service for the government. I must get at once to Mr. David Horton. Do you know him?"

"Horton, the millionaire? I should say I did. What do you want with him?"

"I will tell him that," said Rob. "There is nothing to be taken ashore from this vessel but me. If you think I am contraband, come with me. But I warn you not to delay me."

The inspector was impressed, and his curiosity was aroused.

"Come along," he said.

They were soon ashore, and Rob was amazed at the fine streets and buildings he saw. They got on an electric car—something that Rob had supposed was limited to New York—and then got off before a splendid residence of brick and stone.

"Horton lives here," said the inspector.

Mr. Horton was with his wife and Elsie eating supper, when a servant announced that two persons wanted to see him on important business. He went into the wide hall where the two sat waiting, and looked at Rob curiously. Rob was worth looking at just then. His face was flushed with

An officer in uniform was called in, and the story was told to him.

Rob went home with his uncle, and they sat up late that night listening to his recital, over and over again, of his adventures with Starne and Elvin, and on board the "Black Cat."

What pained them most was to learn that Lemuel Starne, the man whom they had trusted, and who had almost succeeded in winning the regard of Elsie, was such a villain.

Rob told his uncle of the promise he had made to the crew of the "Black Cat," and Mr. Horton assured him that it would be substantiated by the president.

There was little need of proceeding to any extent to identify Rob, for Mr. Horton recognized him from the photograph sent from New York. And if any further identification should prove necessary, there was time enough for that in the future.

Mr. Horton had taken all Rob's things from the "Royal Mail," and he was soon clad in a trim New York outfit. As he was taking leave of the now soiled Spanish jacket he felt in the pockets, and there he found the three lists of names given him by Elvin. These were used by the president at the trial.

All the conspirators were brought to justice, and the stores in the cave at Black Cat bay were seized. Richard Elvin was shot and Lemuel died of his wound.

Not only was Rob received with enthusiasm by his uncle, aunt and cousin, but he was the hero of Buenos Ayres. The president gave him a gold medal, on which was the date and the story of the valuable services Rob had rendered the government. The "Black Cat" was now the property of the government, and the president used his influence, and this was also given to Rob. It was a very handsome little schooner, none too large for a yacht, and Mr. Horton accepted it for Rob, and at once placed a reliable crew on it.

Many a good sail has Rob had on that schooner since that day, and many a stirring adventure has he had while off on business for Mr. Horton.

Mr. Horton is delighted with Rob's quickness in grasping the details of his large business enterprises, and there is no doubt that if Rob lives, he will be not only a true, brave man, but a rich one as well.

Ancient Coffee Houses.

The coffee house is every night crowded with men of parts, says the Connoisseur. Almost every one you meet is a polite scholar and a wit. Jokes and bonnets are echoed from box to box; every branch of nature is critically examined and the merit of every production of the press or performance at the theaters weighed and determined. This school—to which I am myself indebted for a great part of my education, and in which, though unworthy, I am now arrived at the honor of being a public lecturer—has bred up many authors, to the amazing entertainment and instruction of their readers. Buttons, the grand archetype of the Bedford, was frequented by Addison, Steele, Pope and the rest of that celebrated set who flourished at the beginning of this century and was regarded with just deference on account of the real geniuses who frequented it. But we can now boast men of superior abilities—men who, without any one acquired excellence, by the mere dint of a happy assurance, can exact the same tribute of veneration and receive it as due to the illustrious characters, the scribblers, layers, fiddlers, gamblers, that make so large a part of the company at the Bedford.

Made Her Account Good.

It was only a dainty little note from a woman depositor, but it caused a gentle ripple of merriment among the accountants and tellers of an uptown bank. The institution caters to women, and the president has often remarked that the women depositors were in some respects more careful in their business methods than the men. A few days ago the discovery was made that the account of one of the women depositors had been overdrawn a few dollars. The usual notification in such cases was sent to the depositor, with the request that the account be made good. A prompt and polite reply was received from the delinquent. She apologized for the overdraft, thanked the bank officers for informing her of the fact so courteously—and inclosed her check on the same bank for the amount of the overdraft. It is needless to say that an explanatory note was sent to this depositor reminding her that an overdraft was not a credit to be drawn upon.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Better Girl Now.

"I am so thankful," said good Mrs. Upjohn, "for the change that seems to have taken place in Bessie. Ever since the first week in December—it was the first week in December, wasn't it, Clarence, we got that new sealskin collar—ette for Bessie—she has gone to church regularly. Hasn't missed a Sunday."—Chicago Tribune.

THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA

Boers Gain Decided Victories Over British.

500 BRITISH CAPTURED.

Five Companies of Roberts' Troops Surrounded by the Boers and Taken Prisoners—Fight Twenty-One Hours Before They Surrender.

Thursday, April 5.

Lord Roberts is concentrating forces to resist threatened attack by Boers, who have been strongly re-enforced. Col. Plumer was repulsed in another effort to reach Mafeking.

Friday, April 6.

Methuen's men left Kimberley to relieve Mafeking and reached Boshof. Near this point sixty-eight Boers were surrounded by British and after losing eight killed and six wounded surrendered. Mareull, French commander of foreign legion, was killed.

Roberts announced surrender of 500 British at Reddesburg. Detachment had been guarding line of communication when Boers swooped down, surrounded them, and, after fighting all afternoon and night, they yielded.

Premier Schreiner may resign because of difficulties with other bond leaders.

Sunday, April 8.

Boers are moving into Natal as if to attack Gen. Buller's forces or to prevent any advance toward Pretoria.

Basutos are threatening to join the Boers, while a reign of terror exists in Swaziland. The British forces thus seem threatened from every side.

Boers are reported in force south of Bloemfontein, threatening the railroad.

Monday, April 9.

Boers about to move through Basutoland against British garrison isolated at Wepener.

Military mines in principal Transvaal roads.

Roberts intrenching Bloemfontein. Fear of native rising increasing.

Tuesday, April 10.

Three dispatches declare Boers under De Wet killed and wounded 500 British and captured 900 at Meerkatsfontein, near Kroonstad. Report doubted in London. Plumer was within six miles of Mafeking when he was driven back with severe loss, he himself being wounded. Chicago ambulance corps landed at Loureng Marques and leave for Pretoria on special train today. French press expects America to intervene. Rumors of fighting near Biggersberg. Boers repulsed at Wepener.

HEIRS FIND WILL LOCKED UP.

Expert Safe Wrecker Trying to Secure a Millionaire's Fortune.

Heirs and relatives of the late Mahlon C. Martin, the millionaire rubber and oil king, who died April 5 at New Brunswick, N. J., were gathered round a safe in his library in New York Tuesday while Policeman John Faulkner, an expert safe wrecker, was trying to force it open and take from it bank accounts of nearly $4,000,000 and a will telling of the disposition of the amount.

Faulkner found the safe built of the best chilled steel plates, and ordinary safe bits were ruined after contact with it. He finally began drawing the steel rivets and removing plate after plate.

Corn for Famine Sufferers.

Governor Stanley presided at a mass meeting held in Topeka, Kan., Thursday night for the purpose of inaugurating a movement to raise 1,000,000 bushels of corn to send to the famine sufferers of India. Rev. Charles M. Sheldon was the principal speaker, and started the subscription by pledging $1,000 of his share of the profits resulting from the Sheldon edition of the Capital. A committee, of which Governor Stanley is chairman, will meet and arrange for a systematic canvass of the state for funds.

Shot Dead by Two Burglars.

Two masked men entered the house of Mrs. James Warrack, an aged widow, residing five miles south of Barnsville, Ohio. Living with Mrs. Warrack were her granddaughter, another young lady and her grandson, Clarence Warrack, who, on hearing the men, ordered them to leave. A scuffle ensued, in which Warrack was shot and killed. The burglars bound the three women and ransacked the house but secured only 6 cents in money. Bloodhounds were placed on the trail of the murderers.

Great Stir in Utica Presbytery.

The Utica presbytery, in session in Little Falls, N. Y., was thrown into a turmoil by an address by the Rev. Dr. Taylor of Clinton, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church at Rome, who advocated the elimination from the confession of faith of paragraphs which cover the doctrine of election and reprobation, in repudiation of which Dr. Hillis of Brooklyn resigned from the Chicago presbytery.

STILL HUNT FOR AGUINALDO.

War Department Would Fain Catch the Elusive Old Fellow.

The war department is making a still hunt for Aguinaldo. The department, however, has not money enough at the command of its secret service to lay hands on the cunning head of the Filipino rebellion. A week ago he was reported at Hongkong; later he was alleged to be at Singapore. One of the most startling reports about him, however, is received by mail from Manila to the effect that the insurgent leader has made several trips to Manila, where he appears now disguised as a beggar, now as an innocent peasant and again as a friar.

So elusive has Aguinaldo been that one of the war department officials said some days ago that it would not be very surprising if Aguinaldo should be discovered one of these fine mornings in a silk hat and other things to match parading the streets of London or Paris.

The war department officials affected some time ago the opinion that it would be rather an embarrassment of riches to catch Aguinaldo. If he disappeared forever, they said, it would be a good riddance. There is, however, some talk now to the effect that the insurrection may break out afresh with troublesome vigor after the next rainy season and that it would be the best possible thing to have Aguinaldo in close confinement.

FIGHT INDIANS AND LYNCHERS

United States Troops Guard Alaska Jail Containing Alleged Murderers.

Stirring scenes followed the arrest of eleven Indians for the murder of Bert Horton and his wife near Sullivan island, Alaska. The steamer Cutch, which arrived at Vancouver, B. C., Monday, from Skaguay, brings the story of an attempted rescue of the Indian prisoners at Haines mission by 100 young bucks, all armed, to repel whom the troops stationed at Skaguay were called out and the Indians driven off without loss. At the preliminary examination of the prisoners it was shown that the Chilikats had first put the husband to death, subjecting him to many atrocities, and during the following week had kept Mrs. Horton a prisoner, repeatedly abusing her before killing her. An organized attempt was made to lynch the prisoners. This, however, was prevented by the troops. There are now twelve Indians in jail awaiting trial, charged with the murder of the Hortons or complicity therein.

SAYS JEWS BELIEVE IN JESUS.

Rabbi Wechsler Holds a Personal Messiah Will Not Save the World.

Rabbi Judah Wechsler lectured at Indianapolis, Ind., on "Ancient and Modern Judaism" at the meeting of the Christian ministers Monday morning. He said: "The modern Jews do not believe in a personal, but rather a spiritual Savior that will eventually redeem all men and bring peace and joy to all the world. But let me say right here that I believe in Jesus Christ, Jew though I am. I believe that the doctrines of Jesus were good and noble, and I believe that He was a great man. It is wrong for people to say that because the Jews do not believe in the divinity of Christ they are inclined to mock at the man Himself and His beautiful teachings."

Plot in Attempt to Kill Wales.

Meert, Sipido's accomplice in the attempt on the life of the prince of Wales, who is under arrest, told the magistrate that Sipido made a bet that he would shoot the prince of Wales. The other boys accompanied him to the railway station to witness the attempt. Meert is a shoemaker and about 22 years old. Sipido apparently fired at the prince in a mere spirit of bravado. Some one wagered five francs with him that he would not carry the plan into execution. Meert told the magistrate that Sipido had not been "dared" to shoot the prince. He himself offered to bet five francs that he would do so. The police have arrested Deckers, a supposed accomplice of Sipido. Deckers wrote a letter giving Sipido a leave of absence from home provided he would attempt to kill the prince of Wales.

Arrests in the G. B. Cox Case.

Charles J. Figge and Dr. R. R. Baxton were arrested at Cincinnati charged with placing an infernal machine last Sunday night at the residence of George B. Cox, the Republican leader of Hamilton county. Figge had been discharged as a clerk of the city board of administration and blamed Cox for his discharge. He had frequently threatened Cox's life. It is thought Figge is demented. Dr. Baxton, whose home is at Bedford, Ind., posed at police headquarters as an expert in mine explosives after the infernal machine had been found on Cox's portico. He explained its operation to the police. The officers later found in Baxton's room what they call another infernal machine.

"UNCLE DAVID, I AM ROB CLEVERDALE."

and his gang, you will probably be shot. If they should by any chance win, what can you expect—after this? You will be shot by either side. Now, if you stand by me, and sail this schooner to Buenos Ayres, I promise you not only safety, but money besides. My uncle is rich. When I tell him what has been done, the government must know it also. You will come in for a reward. The smuggling counts for nothing. You are going to save the government. You will be rewarded for that, and all else will be forgotten. What do you say?"

Some of the crew understood all of this, some a little, and a few none at all. But they talked rapidly among themselves. Those who had stood by Rob had the best of the argument. Those who had been with Starne saw their leader lying on the deck—probably dying. What could he do for them? They gave in, and joined Rob's half.

"We go," said the light-colored fellow who had been shot in the arm. "We go with you. Torrevo dead, you our young captain. You tell your uncle we all good men. No one get in prison." "Not one of you," said Rob. "Hurrah! Now see to these fellows who are wounded. Then let's get to Buenos Ayres."

In a short time the "Black Cat" was swung around, and went speeding up the river. Rob was, of course, not able to give any orders to navigate the vessel, but he felt that the crew could be trusted. He had frightened them when he spoke as if the letter to Mr. Horton had not been the only letter he wrote giving the plot away to the government.

As they passed the entrance to Black pride and happiness, and the spirit of American youth gleamed in his eyes. "What can I do for you?" asked Mr. Horton, kindly.

"Uncle David! Uncle David! Don't you guess who I am?" burst out Rob. "I am Rob Cleverdale."

Mr. Horton turned white and stepped back.

"You thought I was drowned, but I was not," said Rob. "Lemuel Starne threw me overboard, but I was picked up."

A great sob of joy—undoubtedly, blessed joy—welled up from Mr. Horton's bosom.

He clasped Rob to him, and tears rolled down his cheeks. He was so glad to see Rob alive that he even overlooked his statement about Lemuel Starne.

"I have important news for you," said Rob. "I want to see Aunt Anita and Cousin Elsie, then I want to tell you something."

The earnest air of the young fellow impressed Mr. Horton, and he led the way to the dining room. The inspector, readily seeing that there was nothing for him to do there, had the grace to depart.

Rob was greeted with overwhelming caresses by his aunt and cousin, who had expected—before they heard he was drowned—to see a childish boy, over whom it would be necessary to keep a constant watch. Here was a manly young fellow come to them after strange adventures—not to be watched over, but to save them and the government.

Rob soon told his story, and his uncle hurried him off to see the president. Rob soon told his experience, and was listened to with great eagerness.

Don't Be Funny.

It does not pay. If you have a good thing, tell it right out. Don't use false means to attract attention. We say "right out" and mean it, too, that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will cure every case of stomach trouble. It will stop any pain caused by indigestion; it knocks sick headache by attacking the cause of the complaint and aids you to digest your food, no matter what you eat.

A Great Russian Pipe Line.

Russia possesses a pipe line over a hundred miles long in the petroleum region of Baku. This conduit, which is eight inches in diameter, brings the oil collected in the Caucasus region to Batoum, on the Black sea. It leaves from the station of Mikhallovs, on the Trans-Caucasian railway, not far from the frontier of Kutatn and Tiflis. At the wells of Baku the petroleum is collected in tank wagons and brought to the station, where it is poured into two great reservoirs having a capacity of 12,000 cubic meters. From this reservoir proceeds the pipe line in question; it is placed underneath the ground and is provided with safety cut-off valves which divide it into sections in case of accident. On account of the grades passed over by the line it has been necessary to provide three pumping stations; these are each equipped with three pumps operated by steam engines of 150 horse power. The maximum capacity of the pipe line is about ninety tons of oil per day. There is now some idea of bringing it to Baku, thus doing away with the wagon transportation, and to complete the line by others going from Baku to the eastern extremity of the Caucasus towards Petrowsk; from there it is to pass to the north of the mountains by Novorossisk, and finally reach a point on the Black sea.

Her Pertinent Inquiry.

There is one small girl in Washington who has a poor opinion of women's conventions and congresses. She is but 10, and a decade later may change her mind. Her mamma was relating an incident of a recent woman's convention. "The chair," she said, "had no remarks to make. Enough had already been said by the floor." Right here little miss broke in with: "Mercy, me, mamma! Do the chairs and floor talk, too, down there?" And the husband and father is laughing yet.—Washington Star.

A Good Listener.

There is one senator, writes a Washington correspondent, who has not yet spoken a word, but whose personality has become of much interest to frequenters of the galleries. Porter James McCumber of North Dakota sits in the rear row on the Republican side. He is the most regular attendant upon sessions that his side of the chamber has. No speech is so dreary that McCumber does not sit it out. More than that, his face assumes a most serious and attentive aspect. From time to time the North Dakota man bends over the writing pad on his desk and makes a few notes. Then he raises his face and watches the speaker intently. The first time Senator McCumber took notes those who saw him were sure he was going to make some reply. But he didn't. He has taken notes every day, and he has not yet spoken. When the chamber is full and business is of general interest Senator McCumber's devotion to debate does not attract attention. But when some senator is simply killing time, and five-sixths of the seats are empty and nobody but Senator McCumber is listening, the action of the North Dakota statesman is impressive.

Uses of Aluminum.

Aluminum is used by the people of Hartford, Conn., to the extent of 60,000 pounds to bring electricity from a waterfall some twelve miles distant. In the west also aluminum wire is being largely used in place of copper, being almost as good a conductor and cheaper. Ten years ago aluminum sold at $8 a pound; now it sells for thirty cents. An American plant last year produced 5,200,000 pounds of it. As the metal is being produced largely in England, France and Switzerland the price is likely to fall lower than it has yet been. The present age is not the golden age, nor the iron age, but the aluminum age.

DEGENERATE DOG.

Many Diabolical Tricks Played by the Viciously Aberrant Animal.

Now and then there is a degenerate dog, just as there are degenerate men. I once knew a dog of that kind. He was a handsome fellow, a Scotch collie, black, with white breast, and lower forelegs and tip of tail also white. His father was a gentlemanly dog, and his mother was also reputable. At an early age this dog took to killing chickens, and would mouth and kill a whole brood of downy chickens in less than a minute from the first alarmed screech of the mother hen. A little later he killed, as a daily recreation, chickens of all sorts and conditions. Many attempts were made to shoot him, but he seemed bullet-proof. He would run into the street, seize a horse by the nose, and, swinging clear of the pavement, would hang there, while the terrified horse would vainly try to dislodge him. When a man on horseback came along, he would proceed to have fun with him by seizing his horse's tail. No whip could reach him, and when the rider would dismount the dog would beat a successful retreat. He killed all the cats in the neighborhood. When a peddler with samples of potatoes or apples entered the yard of his owner he would greet him with a friendly wagging tail and escort him to the door, but when the same peddler turned his back to go he never failed to take a bite at the calf of his leg. The dog's conduct finally raised the neighbors against him, and the owner was informed that if he did not get rid of him the dog would be shot. To save his life the owner gave him to a butcher. In his new environment he lasted but one day. He bit the butcher's daughter, and the butcher killed him.—Indianapolis News.

HIS DEADLY PRACTICAL JOKE.

Humorous Man Poked His Umbrella Into a Friend's Back and He Died.

It was a joke; a duet sung in celebration of Cuba's dawning era of progress; a slap on the back and a playful retaliation with the prod of an umbrella, that together formed the merry preface to a fatal tragedy. The actors were Cubans. One, who died the other day, was George Alamillo, a cigar-maker, whose home was in 182 Hazeburg avenue, Brooklyn. He was drinking and singing with his friend, Samuel G. Bagley, an insurance adjuster at 50 Howard avenue, in a saloon on Jan. 20. They cracked many jokes about the ejection of the Spaniards from Cuba, and about the relative merits of the cigar trade and the insurance business. Suddenly Bagley, by way of emphasizing his sense of humor, jabbed his Cuban friend in the back with an umbrella. It's sharp point pierced Alamillo's flesh. He cried out in pain, but did not realize at the time the serious nature of his wound. His death was caused by blood poisoning. Before he died the Cuban declared that his friend was blameless. But the police said they would arrest Bagley, if only to cure him of his dangerously playful use of an umbrella as a means to impress upon a victim the point of a joke.—New York Press.

A Murderous Game.

Prof. Charles Oman of Oxford, the English historian and military critic, enjoys playing the German martial game known as "kriegspiel." The game involves the use of a regular map with counters, representing infantry, cavalry and artillery, and is supposed to have great educational value in the learning of tactics and strategy. The doctor played with great regularity, sometimes alone and sometimes with friends. In both cases he would use sanguinary terms commenting upon the various movements. It seems he was overheard by a housemaid, who, after listening a number of times, went in fear and trembling to the door-keeper. "Lor, ma'am," she said, "the gentleman is mad with too many books, and is contemplating murder or suicide. He sits at the table all day long sticking blackhead pins into a sheet of paper, saying to himself in a cold-blooded way, 'Here I'll have to kill a hundred, and there I'll drown fifty. I'll do some shooting there, and I'll cut them all to pieces with horses over yonder.' I think it is your duty, ma'am to send for a stright-jacket or the police."

Discontented Women.

Discontented women are always egotists. They view everything with regard to themselves, and have therefore the defective sympathies that belong to low organizations. They never win confidence, for their discontent breeds distrust and doubt, and, however clever they may naturally be, an obtrusive self, with its train of likings and dislikes, obscures their judgment and they take false views of people and things. For this reason it is almost a hopeless effort to show them how little people generally care about their grievances, for they have thought about themselves so long and so much that they cannot conceive of any other subject interesting the rest of the world.

Wheat in Good Condition in This Great State—Encouraging Reports Received from Many Illinois Counties—Calf Swallowed $30 in Bills.

State Board's Wheat Crop Report.

The following spring crop bulletin was Thursday issued by the state board of agriculture: "Reports received at the department of agriculture from forty-eight counties in the central and southern portions of Illinois, the wheat growing section of the state, give the conditions of wheat on April 1 as 69 per cent of a seasonable average. Considering the fact that the plant had almost no protection from snow during the winter this is a very fair condition, and when the weather becomes warm enough to start the plant to growing, it is probable that it will turn out even better than it promises at this date.

"The most favorable conditions obtained in the central counties, where the lowest condition reported is 70 per cent, in Brown county. Here Hessian fly injured the early wheat, and the late snow was frozen, but in most of the counties in this section the April 1 condition is above 80 per cent, and many of them run above an average. Should the favorable conditions continue, central Illinois will produce the largest wheat crop in a great many years.

"While the reports from southern Illinois are not quite so favorable as in the central division, there is still the promise of a very fair crop should no unfavorable circumstances occur between now and harvest. Union county reports the best condition in forty years—50 per cent above an average. The freeze in March in this section of the state is largely responsible for the low average. While there have been a few reports of damage by Hessian fly, in but two of the counties reporting—Lawrence and Pike—is the damage very noticeable now. In Williamson county there are a great many black bugs of some kind in the wheat, but it is too early yet to know what damage they are doing."

A Prominent Farmer Killed.

Philamon Bertschi, a prominent and wealthy farmer of Appanoose township, near Nauvoo, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun. He was carrying a small log trough and the shotgun up a hill when he slipped and fell, striking the hammer of the gun, discharging its contents and tearing away the right side of his face. He died fifteen minutes later.

Swallowed $30 in Bills.

A calf belonging to Frank McConnell of Burlington, near Elgin, knew a good thing at sight, and swallowed $30 in bills which McConnell had dropped. The owner found the money uninjured after sacrificing the beast's life.

State News in Brief.

Silas B. Cobb died Thursday morning at Chicago, aged 88. Mr. Cobb was one of the few citizens of Chicago who were settlers at Fort Dearborn. The story of his life is unique and interesting. An apprentice in early boyhood at Montpelier, Vt., a seeker of a job in Chicago at 21, the richest Chicagoan in 1867, always regretting that he had lacked the opportunity of school training, he rounded out his career by building at the University of Illinois the splendid Cobb lecture hall.

At Tuesday's election in Chicago the chief interest centered in the aldermanic vote. Thirty-five of these officials were chosen, the republicans securing nineteen and the democrats sixteen. The old city council contained thirty-two democrats, thirty-five republicans and one independent. The new council will contain forty republicans and twenty-nine democrats.

The annual inspection of Hospitaler Commandery No. 31, Knights Templar, was held at Jacksonville, the program lasting from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. A school of instruction was conducted by Sir Knight C. P. Kane, very eminent grand deputy commander, and Sir Knight F. C. Winslow, eminent grand generalissimo of the grand commandery.

THE PLACE FOR A POOR MAN.

A Homestead Clear and Money Ahead in Two Years.

Alameda, N. W. T., Canada, Dec. 22, 1899.

Mr. B. Davies, Canadian Government Agent, St. Paul, Minn.—Dear Sir: As I promised you about two years ago that at some future time I would let you know what I thought of western Canada and the chances of a poor man making a start and supporting a family at the same time, so will write a few facts concerning my own experience the past twenty-one months; and what I have done, any able-bodied man can do, provided he will work.

I left Traverse country, March 20, 1898; landed in Alameda at noon the 21st with $3.55 in my pocket, a stranger and among strangers, and when my family came in October, 1898, my wife had nearly $10, or barely enough to pay freight on her stove, sewing-machine and clothes and beds. I commenced work March 28; also made entry for homestead same day (the man I started work for loaning me $15 to pay entrance fee), and I have earned or at least received $478.10 in wages since then and have been able at least two months of the twenty-one since I came. The homestead I took had twelve acres broke by a former occupant. I paid $20 to have it replowed in July, '98, and the seed wheat for it cost me $8.25. I let it to a neighbor for one-half in elevator, clear of all expense except the seed, and this fall I received $70.10 for my part of the crops off the twelve acres, so my total receipts the past twenty-one months have been $548.10, and my expenses, besides living for self and family, have been as follows:

Entrance fee ($5 being paid for cancellation)	$ 15.00
Summer following 12 acres	20.00
Seed for same	8.25
Cost of house, besides my own labor on same	75.85
20 acres of breaking and double-discing same	60.00
My half of wheat	$179.10
My half of wheat	70.10

Net expense on homestead, $109.00

We moved on our homestead July 10, 1899, have thirty-two acres in good shape for crops in 1900. My wife joins with me in sending best wishes to you and yours.

You can truly say to any poor man who pays a big rent to get a farm (somebody else's land) or works for wages to support a family, that I have personally tried both in Minnesota and tried hard to make a success of it, but found to my sorrow that after working hard a poor living was all I could get out of it, and after nearly two years of western Canadian life I will say that I am very thankful to you for helping me to decide to try it in Canada. Yours respectfully,

W. H. KINKADE.

Thought It Was Poker.

A stranger who looked as though he hailed from the wild and woolly west, drifted into an east side saloon the other day and called for three fingers of whiskey. Just behind was a group of Germans deeply engrossed in a game of pinochle. Suddenly the westerner placed his hands on the bar, cleared it at a single bound, and crouched down behind it. "Here, you shtop dot!" exclaimed the astonished bartender. "Was ist los mit you anyvay? Haf you der chim-chams got, yes?" "Naw, I ain't got no jim-jams," answered the stranger. "I just heard one of them Dutchmen say he had a hundred aces, an' I thort I'd better lay low till the shootin' was over. But, say, ain't they kinder slow? Ef this here'd been Arizona, they'd be sendin' fer the coroner by this time."—New York Journal.

One After the Other.

All our senses do not slumber simultaneously. They fall into insensibility one after another. First, the eyelids obscure sight, and the sense of taste is the next to lose susceptibility. Smelling, hearing and touch then follow. Touch is the lightest sleeper and most easily aroused.

Poison in Nutmegs.

Cases are not infrequently reported in which children, and sometimes grown persons, are poisoned by the free use of nutmegs, it not being generally known that this article of common household use is really a deadly poison. This is true, in fact, of most condiments; but the misuse of these articles, such as pepper, capsicum, etc., are so obnoxious to the taste, except when taken in very minute quantities, that the consumer is warned in a very positive manner before he has an opportunity to do himself serious injury. This is not the case, however, with the nutmeg. This nut, which contains a poisonous principle, may be consumed without inconvenience, in quantities sufficient to produce fatal results.

There is a Class of People.

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over one-fourth as much. Children may drink it with great benefit, 15 cents and 25 cents per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Big Reduction in Rails.

The Pennsylvania railroad has placed an order for 105,000 tons of steel rails, for which it is to pay $33 a ton, and deliveries have begun on this order. In 1864 this road paid $153.75 a ton in gold for iron rails and in 1863 it imported a lot of steel rails, for which it paid $218.53 a ton. These were the maximum rates ever paid in this country for rails.

A MOTHER'S STORY.

Tells About Her Daughter's Illness and How She was Relieved—Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

"Mrs. PINKHAM:—I write to tell you about my daughter. She is nineteen years old and is flowing all the time, and has been for about three months. The doctor does her but very little good, if any. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I want your advice before beginning its use. I have become very much alarmed about her, as she is getting so weak."—

MRS. MATILDA A. CAMP, Manchester Mill, Macon, - Ga., May 21, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It affords me great pleasure to tell you of the benefit my daughter has received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After beginning the use of your medicine she began to mend rapidly and is now able to be at her work. Her menses are regular and almost painless. I feel very thankful to you and expect to always keep your Vegetable Compound in my house. It is the best medicine I ever knew. You have my permission to publish this letter if you wish, it may be the means of doing others good."—MRS. MATILDA A. CAMP, Manchester Mill, Macon, Ga., September 18, 1899.

ALABASTINE

WHAT ALABASTINE IS Alabastine is the original and only durable wall coating on the market. It is entirely different from all kalsomine preparations. Alabastine is made ready for use in white or fourteen beautiful tints by the addition of cold water. It is put up in dry powdered form, in packages, properly labeled, with full directions on every package. It takes the place of sealing kalsomines, wall paper and paint for walls. Alabastine can be used on plaster, brick, wood or canvas, and a child can brush it on.

WHAT "KALSMINES" ARE Kalsomines are cheap and temporary preparations, manufactured from whitening, chalks, clays, etc. They are stuck on the walls with decaying animal glue. Alabastine is not a kalsomine. It is a rock-base cement, which sets, and it hardens with age. It can be re-coated and decorated without having to wash and scrape off its old coats. Alabastine is utilized to a great extent in hospitals, as it prevents the accumulation of dirt and the congregating of disease germs, being disinfectant in its nature.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOL-HOUSES. The interior walls of churches, school-houses and all public halls should never be coated with anything but the durable and pure Alabastine. So evident has this fact become, that hundreds of tons are used annually for this work. The genuine Alabastine does not rub or scale off. It is clearly during the long period of its usefulness. Every owner of a building should use it. Ask your paint dealer or druggist for card of tints, and write for free copy of our interesting booklet: Alabastine Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.

REJECT THE "JUST AS GOOD." The dealer who tells you that he can sell you the "same thing" as Alabastine or "something just as good," either is not posted or is trying to deceive you. In offering something he has bought cheap and is trying to sell on Alabastine's demands, he may not realize the danger to himself as well as to you. Beware of all new substitutes. Dealers risk a suit for damages by selling and consuming by using an infringement. Alabastine Co. own the right to make and sell wall coatings adapted to mix with cold water.

Old Folk's Dance.

Stott's hall was the scene of unwonted revelry on Friday evening of last week when those who had for years suffered under the "yoke of Hymen" threw away care and all thoughts of that destroyer of peace to the mind and gathered in goodly numbers to live again those wild and happy moments of tripping the light fantastic. No sooner had old "sol" hid his round face beyond the western horizon than the above mentioned hall blazed forth in a glory of light and the multitude began to gather. They came by twos and threes, each face beaming with expectancy and each arm supporting a mysterious package. There were greetings galore and broad faces, which for years have been strangers to relaxation, were relaxed into smiles.

Then came one to the front whose face was not strange and whose familiar length is known for leagues, called the attention of the many revelers that they were there to dance. And dance they did until the hour of 11:45 came upon the merry throng almost unnoticed, when the contents of the packages were made known. This proved a grand hour of triumph and dyspeptic stomachs were loaded and reloaded. After doing ample justice to the tempting viands, again Bob Comstock's violin spoke to responsive hearts and the dance was on again with all its former fury. One of the most pleasing features of the entire program was the elegant clog which, after many and more requests from each member of the vast assemblage, Tom Dolan refused to execute. There being none of the "feint-hearted" ones present, the pleasure continued until the end.

All voted an A 1 time, and after good nights were exchanged and the soul-inspiring melody, "Home, Sweet Home," in waltz time was rendered, and all looked longingly towards the hour when Morpheus should fold them to his chest protector and lull them to rest. Come once again, Oh! married men's dance.
