None Without Socks.

An unusual sight was witnessed in Palatine last Thursday night. Men, women, boys and girls were seen going through our streets each carrying a sock in their hands. The crowd wended its way towards the M. E. church, where, after being held up by a female foot-pat, they entered the social room of the edifice. The socks gave forth a sound of the "felthy lucre" when shaken and such it proved to be. It was some new "doins" by the Ladies' Aid society, who have a habit of making a person's pocket burn if there is too much small change there. The affair was called a sock social and it was as enjoyable as it was novel. Each person attending brought as many pennies in his little sock as the size of both his socks. Dr. Wood sent his sock, but found that express would be so high he sent a postal money order instead. If the doctor was here we would not dare say it, but he had the largest understanding of all donors. He sent in sixty cents, which was forty cents more than the average. He sent in his donation in the following letter:

LONG BEACH, CAL., Feb. 1.

MY DEAR MRS. ARPS.

Your esteemed favor of January 22 with enclosures of cards and socks galore came duly to hand. I commend your enterprise and that you may not lack for our encouragement, I return three of the socks, one each for self, wife and Mrs. Williamson. I enclose herewith $1.00, via post office order, which is intended to cover all five of the foot covers sent us. This will be an average of 20 cents for each one, which, probably will not run short of a fair average for two girls and one boy. My two girls wanted to keep the two extra socks as mementos of the event but I did not feel free to let them do so without redeeming them by payment of an average sum. Of course you will have no trouble in selecting our respective socks. The big long one with the variegated circular stripes and yellow string is mine; the invisible green, ornamented with the elaborate visible green embroidery and pink string, that is my wife's, although she doesn't wear always just that combination of colors, at any rate, not all the time. I know that from personal observation. The polka dot business with the brilliant coloring, the soft tinted longitudinal stripe, the plump ankle and the wide—no, it does not go quite up to where you find the infant cow—well, this sock is duffly held in place by the bright green string, I have assigned to Mrs. Williamson.

We should be glad to be there and enjoy with you all your social fun, but we get along as we have no snow or zero weather. We are well and send love to you all. Kindly remember us to all who may enquire. Hoping that you are well and that Brother Arps has fully recovered his usual health, we are sincerely yours,

DR. AND MRS. E. W. WOOD.

Money to Loan.

I have money to loan on unincumbered real estate or approved personal property. WILLARD M. SMITH, Attorney.

ENTERED INTO REST.

Mrs. Julia Lamey Called to a Home Beyond—Death of J. H. Deuel.

Again are we called upon to chronicle the passing away from the scenes of this life two of the pioneers of our village. The angel of death has again entered this community and summoned to follow into the valley of shadows, two of our citizens who had lived to almost the allotted age of humanity; who had been content to live here for many years, who were held in high esteem by our people; whose going into the great unknown breaks into the ranks of the fast disappearing multitude who has lived to watch the progress of this section from days of its early settlement.

Mrs. Julia Lamey.

In the passing away of Mrs. Julia Lamey the village of Barrington has lost one of the pioneer residents; one who for 46 years made this her home; one who withered by the cares and trials of a busy life—busy in the most noble work of womanhood—the upbuilding of home, the unselfish duty to husband and children. She lived to tenderly nurture; imbue with the sound principles of right, a large family whom she endowed with all those attributes which fitted them to enter a life of honest, upright service, to meet its successes and disappointments. She was spared to see them grow to manhood and womanhood honored and respected in the community in which they had learned their first lessons of duty to God and man as she had taught them. In her call to the mansions prepared for those who serve Him, the home lost its most precious ornament. Nothing can replace the mother and her constant watchfulness of the welfare and happiness of those dearest to her. There is no love like that of mother love to brighten the home and make it a heaven on earth, and to her children the deceased devoted her life work. Her home and its surroundings was her ideal world.

The passing years had dealt none too kindly with Mrs. Lamey, dread disease having undermined her strong and vigorous constitution for several years, she having suffered greatly of rheumatism, it finally developing into an acute form and was the cause of her death. During the past two weeks members of the family had been constantly at her bedside realizing the end was near. All that medical aid could do to prolong her days among loved ones was done, but without avail, and she sank into the sleep that knows no awakening in this life, crossed the dark river into the great unknown, after a pilgrimage on earth of over 69 years, idolized by her family, respected and esteemed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Lamey was a devout adherent to the Catholic faith and a member of St. Ann's church in the upbuilding of which she had always shown a deep and unflinching interest. From the house of worship where for so many years herself, aged companion and family had listened to the words of the Master, her funeral was held Monday morning at ten o'clock, Rev. Father Quinn of Woodstock, conducting the solemn high mass, and Rev. Father Leyden of Apple River, Ill., her former pastor, preaching the sermon.

He chose for his text: "I am the Resurrection and the Life," and delivered an eloquent discourse, eulogistic of the life and virtues of deceased; filled with words of condolence for the husband and children. After the mass the choir rendered "Abide in Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee." The services were attended by a large concourse of residents, many of whom had known the deceased since the days of early settlement of this locality. The casket was borne by the three sons, two son-in-laws and nephew of the deceased and remains laid to rest in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery, where only a few months ago was consigned to earth the son whose sudden death this mother had not ceased to mourn. The family and large circle of relatives have the sympathy of all in this the greatest bereavement. He who doeth all for the best doth inflict.

Biographical.

Mrs. Julia Lamey was born in Dublin, Ireland, August 15, 1831, and came to America in 1852, settling at Chicago, which was then considered in the far west. May 11, 1854 she was married to Edward Lamey at Chicago, making that city home, until July 5, 1855, when they came to Barrington, and laid the foundation of a home. This was a struggling hamlet at that time, and but little to attract except natural advantages. Here the deceased endured the trials and privations of pioneer life, and witnessed the country advance in civilization.

She was active in all that went toward building up a pleasant abiding place for the husband and children, frugal and one of the best of home managers.

In the vicinity of where she spent the last days of life she reared a family of nine children which were her jewels, and her life was given to their service. Surviving her is the aged companion who for the past 47 years accompanied her on life's journey and the following children, Mrs. John Collins and Mrs. W. H. Snyder, residents of Chicago; Edward Lamey of Oregon, Wis., Daniel F. and Miles T. Lamey and Misses Julia and Margaret Lamey of this village. One son died in infancy and Joseph D. Lamey passed away last August.

Jonathan H. Deuel.

The residents of Barrington were not prepared to receive the sad news that one who only a day or two before had occupied his accustomed place among them in the usual meeting places of the old residents, had been called to cross the dark river into the land from which no traveler returns. But such is life. Mr. Deuel was in the best of health, appearing, last Saturday, and little his associates thought that they had conversed with him for the last time in life, and the tidings sent out Monday morning that he had passed away could hardly be credited. Since 1861 the deceased had been a familiar character to our people—everybody in the village was acquainted with him, and although not engaged in business or identified with social organizations he claimed a large circle of friends who will miss him. He was universally respected by all, and his sudden departure to the other life removes one of that class who have witnessed the village grow from a mere group of unpretentious buildings to its present importance. He was a pioneer.

Jonathan H. Deuel was born March 17, 1823, at Saratoga, N. Y., and at an early age learned the carpenter trade, working for a time at Victory Mills in his native state with his friend U. R. Burlingham, who died some years ago. Mr. Deuel came to Chicago in 1856 and from there went to Waukegan where he remained until 1859 and then took up his residence at Dundee remaining there until 1861 when he settled permanently in Barrington this being his home since that date with the exception of six years spent in Florida, where he had a fruit plantation. He worked at his trade here until of late years. He was a bachelor and up to three years ago made his home at the residence of U. R. Burlingham, since then at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Fletcher, where he was taken suddenly ill Sunday evening and died Monday morning at 8:30 of heart failure. He leaves to mourn his departure a brother, Abraham Deuel of Ketchikan's Corners, N. Y., Miss Ruth Deuel sister, of Bloomington, Ill., who came here and took charge of the remains, and Mrs. Maria French, a half sister, residing at Saratoga, N. Y.

Funeral services were conducted at Mrs. Fletcher's Thursday evening, Rev. W. L. Blanchard officiating, and remains taken to Bloomington, Friday, for interment.

Death of Henry Koelle.

Henry Frederick William Koelle was born in Vinclarr, Hanover, Germany on January 16, 1828. He came to America in 1854 and was married in April, 1855. He died in Highland Grove Monday. Death was due to pneumonia, which started with grip. He lived in Highland Grove for the past 37 years and was well known throughout this section of the country. The funeral services were held at the house Thursday afternoon, Rev. M. Holz, conducting the services. Besides the widow, three sons, Henry C., Willie and Herman and three daughters, Corine, Mrs. Herman Dierker and Mrs. Herman Berlin survive. Four children preceded him across the dark river.

Drama a Success.

Battermann's hall was crowded to the walls Thursday night when the Woodmen presented their second annual drama. Many were present from Barrington, Arlington Heights, Long Grove and surrounding country. The drama went through smoothly and was very pleasing to the big audience. All parts were carried out in a creditable manner and comic characters delighted all. Palatine can boast of some talent in the dramatic line. Much could be said in praise of those who took part, but space forbids. The committee feels highly gratified over the result as their dance, after the drama, was one of the best ever given in the hall.

Werking, who was a traveling hypnotic, made his home alone in the log cabin which the shed adjoined. Robbery was evidently the motive. Roy Powell, aged 19 years, a companion of Werking, and who has been trying to dispose of Werking's personal effects during the past week, and John Heth, aged 17 years, were arrested on suspicion.

Will Buy Knit Goods Mills. There is good authority for the statement that the owners of mills manufacturing knit goods in the Mohawk and upper Hudson valleys have given options on their plants to a party of New York capitalists. The talk of a combination among knit goods men has been in the wind in that section for a long time, but definite information has just been given to the effect that every mill in Troy and Cohoes, with the possible exception of two, has given an option and it is reported that a majority of the stockholders in the sixty mills of Troy, Cohoes and Amsterdam will do likewise.

Prize Oration Is a Theft. It was discovered at Princeton, N. J., that an oration by George W. Kehr, entitled "An Ideal of American History," which won the McLean prize of $100 in June last in the junior oratorical contest, had been written and twice delivered by Frank P. Hellman of Pennsylvania college, Gettysburg, Pa., under the title of "Abraham Lincoln." Kehr has confessed the plagiarism and has been dismissed by the authorities of the university, which would have conferred upon him the degree of bachelor of arts next June, for he was a senior of good standing in his class.

Delegate Wilcox Wins. At Washington, Delegate Wilcox of Hawaii, scored a distinct triumph in securing a unanimous vote of the house committee on elections No. 1, confirming his right to a seat in the house of representatives and holding that the charges filed against him were not sufficient to warrant his removal. Chairman Taylor was authorized to make the report to that effect, which will be submitted in about a week.

Dam Burst Drowns Two. The dam at the village electric light plant at Thompsonville, Mich., went out with a roar Monday, carrying four men and a team of horses, who were working on the structure, with it. The chases of the morning were two, one after a coyote and the other after a big gray wolf. Both animals escaped by reason of barbed wire fences.

THE ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

Work in Both Houses at Springfield.

REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

Kitt Gould of Chicago Prepares a Bill to Punish Wife Beaters and Wife Deserters with the Lash—Educational Commission Asked For.

Thursday, February 14.

Among the bills introduced were the following: By Mr. Nohe—Fixing sleeping-car charges as follows: $1 for single berth, $2 for section and $3 for a stateroom for a period of twenty-four hours. By Mr. Rankin of Warren—Amending the dramshop act so that section 13 thereof reads as follows: "The giving away of any such intoxicating liquors or the taking of orders or the making of agreements at or within any city, village, town, township or precinct wherein no license to keep a dramshop shall at the time of the taking of any such order or the making of any such agreement be in force for the sale or delivery of any such agreement be in force for the sale or delivery of any such liquors or any other device to evade the provisions of the act, shall be held to be an unlawful selling." Also a bill providing for the establishment of a state sanitarium for the scientific treatment of persons afflicted with tuberculosis. It appropriates $200,000 for the purchase of grounds and the erection of buildings. The institution to be known as the Illinois state sanitarium and to be in charge of three trustees. The cost of treatment to indigent patients is to be defrayed by the counties of which they are residents. By Senator Alden—To punish the sending of threatening letters for blackmailing purposes by imprisonment in the penitentiary.

Friday, February 15.

Representative Jones of Chicago introduced a bill in the house to prohibit indecent advertisements. Among other things the bill makes it unlawful for any person or agent of any theater, show, circus, firm or corporation, museum, theatrical troupe or actors, dancers or male or female performers to post in any street, alley, avenue or public highway any theatrical bill or any other bill on which are the pictures of male or female forms of performers or other persons in a nude or semi-nude state, whether in lights or other thin garments, so as to expose the body in an offensive and objectionable manner in order to attract the attention or excite the curiosity of any person or persons so as to invite or have any person or persons to attend a performance. Any one guilty of violation may be punished by a fine of not less than $50 or more than $300 and be imprisoned in the county jail not less than one month nor more than two months of both, in the discretion of the court. Mr. Jones also introduced a bill making kidnapping an offense punishable by death.

Monday, February 18.

The only business of any importance done in either house of the general assembly was the introduction of a report from the Illinois practice commission, which was appointed under a resolution by the last legislature. With the report were thirty-five bills to carry into effect the recommendations made by the commission. Among the bills are several designed to prevent some of the evils of justice-shop practices of Cook county. Illinois will have a whipping post in Delaware if the lobby talk is crystallized into bills. It is said here that Kitt Gould of Chicago is preparing a bill to punish wife-beaters and wife-deserters with the lash. Mr. Gould is not here tonight, but a week ago he was looking up the Delaware law, and the recent publication of the report of Chicago's Bureau of Associated Charities, which recommends the whipping post for wife-deserters. It is said, has induced Mr. Gould to draft a whipping-post bill. Speaker Sherman is whetting his tomahawk preparatory to taking the warpath against the men who are blocking the progress of congressional and senatorial apportionments. He called in the individual members of the committees and told them they must get down to business at once or he would make trouble.

Tuesday, February 19.

The senate passed bills as follows: By Juul of Cook—Preventing the grouping in tax deeds of descriptions of property sold for taxes. By Stubbfield of McLean—Providing for the marking of ballots cast at primary elections. By Evans of Kane—Providing that the penalty attending the offense of wife abandonment shall apply to husbands who refuse to maintain their wives and minor children. By Coleman of Fayette—Repealing the law giving a bounty for the killing of English sparrows. In the house Mr. Trautmann offered a resolution for the creation of an educational commission, consisting of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the president of the University of Illinois, and five additional members, to be appointed by the Governor, one of whom shall be the principal of one of the state normal schools, one a county superintendent of schools, one a member of the senate, and one a member of the house. This commission is to revise the school laws of the state and report the same with amendments to the next general assembly. The members of the commission will get neither salaries, fees nor compensation. It was referred to the committee on education.

NOTES OF THE SESSIONS.

Mr. D. E. Sullivan introduced a bill in the house providing that the city council of Chicago may permit the building of bridges and passageways over alleys, places or courts. It is stated that the purpose of this bill is to settle the controversy which has grown out of the court proceedings to compel the removal of certain bridges and passageways over the alley which separates the two divisions of the store of Marshall Field & Co.

The appointment of Thomas A. Smyth of Cook county as one of the Pan-American exposition commissioners is said to be a compliment to Senator Riley, who is fighting the Busse party. Senator Templeton, named as one of the commissioners, is an anti-Busse-Campbell man, and the eighteen Republican senators who organized that body feel that Governor Yates has slighted them.

Mr. Rinker of Macoupin has favored a measure exempting from taxation shares of building and loan associations upon which loans are made to their full face value.

A subcommittee of the house committee on appropriations has been investigating an expenditure of $20,000 for attorney fees made by the canal commission. Mr. Purdum, a member of the committee, insists that the services for which these amounts have been paid should have been performed by the Attorney General. A subcommittee will visit the Bartonville Insane asylum to investigate the institution with a view of determining the amounts of the appropriations which should be granted.

Maurice Thompson Is Dead.

Maurice Thompson, the author, died at Crawfordsville, Ind., Friday, after an illness of many weeks. He had been kept alive for several days by the use of stimulants. Mr. Thompson's literary career began in 1871, when he wrote some articles and poems for the New York Tribune. In 1873 he became a contributor of the Atlantic, forming in this way a friendship with William Dean Howells which continued until Mr. Thompson's demise. His first book was published in 1875 under the title of "Hoosier Mosaics," and attracted but little attention. Before the appearance of "Alice of Old Vincennes" Mr. Thompson had written a number of other novels which obtained more than ordinary success. Chief among them may be mentioned "The Tallahassee Girl," "His Second Campaign" and "At Love's Extremes."

Entire Town in Quarantine.

H. P. Packard of Redfield is at Huron, S. D., being shut out from his home because of smallpox. The city is quarantined and no one is allowed to enter or leave. Railway crews remain in cars and no trains stop except for orders. Mr. Packard says sixteen families are quarantined, one of which is his own, three children being affected with the disease. The most serious cases are Dr. Burch and William Boots. The president of the state board of health has been sent for to examine cases. No farmers can enter the town and no mail is sent out. Redfield is the county seat of Spink county and is one of the best business towns in that part of the state.

Alton R. Dalrymple Is Dead.

Alton R. Dalrymple, a millionaire, who, with his brother, Oliver A. Dalrymple, owned and operated the "Bonanza" wheat farm in North Dakota, died at his residence in St. Paul, Minn., Friday. Mr. Dalrymple had suffered from Bright's disease for several years. Three weeks ago he had an attack of the grip and the resultant complications caused his death. Mr. Dalrymple was 48 years of age. The Dalrymples formerly had as much as 25,000, 30,000 acres sown to wheat at a time. The greater part of their immense farms has been sold.

Nebraska Acts on Kidnaping.

The Nebraska state senate passed by a unanimous vote the anti-kidnaping bill. It provides for three degrees of punishment for the crime of kidnaping, as follows: 1. The death penalty or life imprisonment, at the discretion of the court, for kidnaping when ransom is demanded and the victim is threatened with death or injury. 2. A maximum sentence of twenty years when ransom alone is demanded. 3. From three to seven years for plain kidnaping.

Death of David Robertson.

After a life of sixty-three years, more than half of which was devoted to ferreting out criminal cases, David Robertson passed away in Chicago Tuesday. For thirty-four years he had been in the service of the Pinkerton detective agency rising from clerk to assistant superintendent. The deceased was born in Perth, Scotland, and came to the United States soon after the civil war. He was a graduate physician, but never practiced.

Peach Buds Are Vigorous.

The midwinter examination of the peach buds in the fruit districts of northern Indiana and southern Michigan shows not only that the trees are abundantly budded, but that the buds are in a healthy and vigorous condition. Fruit growers say that the rest of the winter holds but little danger in store and there is every prospect that the peach crop this year will be the largest of any previous season.

Philippine Mines of Gold.

Gold discoveries of some importance have been made in the province of Lepanto, Philippine islands. Two miners made $3,000 in two weeks. The mining prospects in the provinces of Benguet and Bontoc, adjoining Lepanto, are encouraging, but it is impossible to obtain a title to mining claims at present.

Fires a $5,000,000 Mortgage.

A mortgage for $5,000,000 was filed at Joliet, Ill., by the Pressed Steel Car Company, covering the works here and at Pittsburg. The mortgage is given to the Morton Trust Company of New York to secure an issue of bonds in that amount. Payments of $500,000 yearly must be made until the bonds are taken up. The instrument required $2,500 in revenue stamps. The local works burned last December and are being reconstructed and will be ready for operation early next month.

WOMEN OF THE UNITED STATES

REGARD PERUNA AS THEIR SHIELD AGAINST CATARRH, COUGHS, COLDS, GRIP AND CATARRHAL DISEASES.

MRS. BELVA A. LOCKWOOD, LATE CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Mrs. Belva Lockwood, the eminent barrister, of Washington, D. C., is the only woman who has ever been a candidate for the Presidency of the United States. She is the best known woman in America. As the pioneer of her sex in the legal profession, she has gathered fame and fortune. In a letter to The Peruna Medicine Company, she says:

"I have used Peruna both for myself and my mother, Mrs. Hannah J. Bennett, now in her 83rd year, and I find it an invaluable remedy for cold, catarrh, hay fever and kindred diseases; also a good tonic for feeble and old people, or those run down, and with nerves unstrung."—Belva A. Lockwood.

Mrs. T. Pelton.

Mrs. T. Pelton, 562 St. Anthony avenue, St. Paul, Minn., writes: "Peruna has done wonders for me. It has cured my headache and palpitation of the heart; has built up my whole system. I cheerfully recommend Peruna to all sufferers afflicted with catarrh. My mother is never without Peruna. When one is tired and generally out of sorts, if Peruna is taken it immediately removes that tired feeling."

Peruna cures catarrh by removing the cause, inflamed mucous membranes.

Dr. Hartman, the compounder of Peruna, once said, in a lecture to women: "A great number of women consult me every year. I often have occasion to say to these patients, 'I fear you have catarrh, madam.' They will generally reply, 'Oh, no, I never had catarrh. My nose is perfectly clear and my breath is not bad, I am not troubled with coughing or spitting, or any other disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.' But, my dear madam, you may have catarrh all the same. Catarrh is not always located in the head. You may have catarrh of the lungs, or stomach, or liver, or kidneys, and especially you may have catarrh of the pelvic organs." The doctor went on to say: "I have been preaching this doctrine for the last forty years, but there are a vast multitude of women who have never heard it yet. Catarrh may attack any organ of the body. Women are especially liable to catarrh of the pelvic organs. There are one hundred cases of catarrh of the pelvic organs to one of catarrh of the head. Most people think, because they have not catarrh of the head, they have not catarrh at all. This is a great mistake, and is the cause of many cases of sickness and death."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

Summary of Legislation in National Body.

MEASURES IN BOTH HOUSES.

The House Passes the Bill Appropriating $5,000,000 for the St. Louis Exposition—The Senate Votes for Leniency in Dealing with Cadets.

Thursday, February 14. The senate considered the agricultural appropriation bill during the day and the district code bill at a night session.

The house considered the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Friday, February 15. Senator Mason secured amendment to river and harbor bill providing for survey for turning basins in Chicago River. Made clear that vote on ship subsidy bill will not be permitted at present session. Gen. MacArthur reported important surrender of insurgents and arms in Luzon. Believed river and harbor bill will fail on account of many amendments. Inaugural ball will cost government $35,000.

Saturday, February 16. The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was reported to the senate with an increase of $47,420 over the allowance of the house, making the total $1,865,228. The largest item of increase is $20,000 for legation grounds at Pekin, China, and $5,000 for student interpreters in China. Other changes are: Salaries of ministers to Bolivia and Persia increased to $7,500; consul general at Ottawa increased to $4,000; consuls at Marseilles and Coburg made consuls general; new consuls at Christopher, W. I., and St. Pierre, S. P., islands, at $1,500 each; consular salaries increased at Quebec, Odessa, Para, Lourenzo Marquez, Asuncion, Copenhagen, Leghorn, Port Stanley, Liege, Stettin, $500 each. The senate committee on appropriations completed the fortifications bill. It carries an increase over the house bill of $311,000.

Monday, February 18. Senate: Nearly the whole day was devoted to consideration of the post-office appropriation bill. Amendment appropriating $500,000 for an extension of the pneumatic tube service remains undisposed of. Mr. Pettus of Alabama delivered a speech in opposition to the ship subsidy bill. Conference report on the military academic appropriation bill was submitted. Mr. Daniel of Virginia, made a vigorous attack upon the provision which debar a cadet convicted of hazing or holding a commission in the army, navy or marine corps. The house, under suspension of the rules by a vote of 191 to 41 passed the bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the St. Louis exposition. The bill to define the word "conspiracy" in the Sherman anti-trust law to avoid the possibility of its being held applicable to labor organization was defeated by almost a two-thirds vote on account of two amendments which the judiciary committee placed upon the bill and which were opposed by the labor organizations. The sundry civil bill was under consideration late in the day.

Tuesday, February 19. The senate, by vote of 18 to 42, rejected conference report on military academy appropriation bill. This action came at conclusion of spirited debate upon provisions against hazing inserted in bill by conference committee. Report of conferees was rejected because regarded by large majority of senate as too drastic. Mr. Deboe delivered his announced speech upon Nicaragua canal, advocating construction of waterway by United States. Effort was made to obtain consideration for bill reviving grade of vice admiral of the navy for benefit of Rear Admirals Sampson and Schley, but it was unavailing.

The house devoted the day to consideration of sundry civil appropriation bill, debate being chiefly upon national irrigation of arid lands. Passed resolution calling upon secretary of state and secretary of treasury regarding shipments to South Africa of horses, mules and other army supplies.

Suicides as Peace Offerings. The ministers were approached at Pekin by attaches of the Chinese Peace commission, who inquired if the compulsory suicide of Chao Shu Chao and Ying Lien, whose heads are demanded by the powers, would be satisfactory to the foreign representatives. It is understood that all the ministers said that the suicide of Chao Shu Chao and Ying Lien would be satisfactory if the other punishment were inflicted. It is probable that the action of the Chinese in this matter is based on instructions received from the dowager empress. Chao Shu Chao and Ying Lien are the only officials whose punishment is causing trouble.

Wag Starts Run on a Bank. Police were called at Pittsburg, Pa., to preserve order against a crowd of depositors clamoring for money at the German National bank, Allegheny. Actions of telephone repair men on the roof of the bank building on Friday started a wagish report about a run on the bank. The rumor spread and on Saturday depositors began drawing their money. Over $180,000 was paid out Tuesday, and all requests for money were complied with.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS

RECORD OF HAPPENINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Alleged Cattle Swindle at Dallas—Burglars Fail to Get Booty at the Wagoner Bank—Convention of Illinois Young Women's Christian Association.

Illinois Y. M. C. A. Convention. The state convention of the Young Women's Christian Association of Illinois, which adjourned Sunday night, assembled at the Presbyterian church, Bloomington. The state association was organized at Normal thirty years ago by young women who were students of the Illinois State Normal university. The convention was opened by Mrs. Joseph Bond, a member of the American committee. Mrs. Frank Y. Hamilton of Bloomington, chairman of the entertainment committee, welcomed the visitors, also Miss Grace Adams, president of the Chicago Y. W. C. A., and Miss Grace Cochrane, president of the association of the Illinois Wesleyan university. The response was by Miss Sarah Jensen of the Woman's Medical college, Chicago. A feature of the program was an address by Rev. Joseph R. Vance, D. D., of Chicago, recently of Baltimore, on "The Rest Cure."

Cattle Swindle Is Alleged. The filing of a suit in replevin by the Lee County Savings bank of Port Madison, Iowa, against E. W. Brown of New Berlin, a wealthy stockman of Springfield, brings to light an alleged cattle swindle. Sheriff Woods went to Brown's farm and replevined forty-eight head of cattle, valued at $1,700. It is claimed that J. W. Laswell of Dallas, Ill., from whom Brown bought the cattle, had mortgaged them to the Lee County Savings bank. Laswell, it is alleged, has disappeared.

The property of the American Strawboard company was sold under foreclosure. Bondholders bought in the property for $40,000.

Columbia Paper Mills Sold. The Columbia Paper company's mills, twenty-six in number, of which eighteen are located in Illinois, were sold at the federal building in Springfield by Special Master in Chancery Dupree of Chicago, under a decree of foreclosure made in the United States Circuit court. The mills were purchased by an eastern combination under the name of Wyman, which represents all the bondholders of the company, for $40,000, though the actual value of the mills is $250,000. The Columbia Paper company was some time ago forced into insolvency in the United States court.

Boy Kills a Timber Wolf. Fred Meadows, 12 years old, had an exciting adventure in the northwest part of Galesburg with a large gray timber wolf, and succeeded in killing it. Young Meadows was out hunting sparrows and had only a 22-caliber rifle. While crossing a pasture he heard a noise behind him, and turning saw the wolf charging straight at him. His Dane hound, which had been in an adjacent cornfield, came to his rescue, and then followed a savage fight between the animals, during which Meadows placed a fatal shot in the wolf's body.

Moser Trial at Pekin. The Samuel Moser murder case is on trial at Pekin. Peter Richenburger, an important witness for the defense, has arrived in Pekin. He lives in Gridley, and is an excommunicated member of the Amish church, and relates vividly the persecutions inflicted by the church upon one who has "drifted away from God," as the articles of faith express violation of the church's laws. His testimony is expected to strengthen Moser's claim that persecution by this sect drove him to the murder of his family.

Master Car Builder's Funeral. Mark M. Martin, late master car builder of the Wabash railroad, was buried at Litchfield, Ill. Funeral services were held at the family residence. The pallbearers were selected from among Mr. Martin's associate officers of the Wabash railroad, the Litchfield Car and Foundry company and from among his business friends in Litchfield. Special trains of five coaches each were run from Moberly, Mo., and Decatur, Ill., carrying about 600 officials and shop employees of the Wabash.

Burglars Fail to Get Booty. Burglars entered the bank at Wagoner, thirty miles south of Springfield. They blew open the safe with nitroglycerin, but the heavy report awakened many citizens of the town, and the robbers were compelled to flee before they had an opportunity to get at the funds. The men entered the livery stable of J. C. White and stole a horse and buggy and several lap robes and whips. They then drove away toward Raymond and escaped the posse which pursued.

Grocer Molested by Jurors. In the damage suit brought by Mrs. Martin Daily of Maquon against Charles Walker, a grocer, the jury at Galesburg brought in a verdict giving the plaintiff $2,000. Mr. Daily died suddenly last May, and the allegation was that his death was the result of drinking lemon extract purchased at Walker's store. He was one of three men who died within a week from lemon extract drinking. The evidence showed that Daily and several others had bought extract from Walker.

THE WORLD'S BEST KNOWN TRAIN.

The Empire State Express—What It Does Daily and How It Does It. There is only one train in the country that exceeds fifty miles an hour in speed for 100 miles run, and that is the Empire State Express.—Public Ledger, Philadelphia. The Ledger might have added that this great train averages fifty-three and one-third miles per hour for the entire distance from New York to Buffalo, 440 miles, including four stops and twenty-eight slow-downs; that it does this each business day of the year. The attention which the Empire State Express has attracted in every country of the world has proved one of the greatest advertisements for American machinery and American methods that has ever been put forth, and that the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company is entitled to the thanks of not only the entire state of New York, but of every person in the United States from one end of the land to the other for placing before the world an object lesson without an equal.—From the Syracuse Post-Standard.

Manufacturing Signal Flags. One of the busiest industries in England just now is that of the manufacture of signal flags. On Jan. 1 next the mercantile marine will be obliged to adopt the revised system of the international code of flag signaling, and each vessel will need ten new flags. As England and her colonies have nearly 11,000 vessels in this category, a prodigious amount of preliminary work in hunting is made necessary.

THANKFUL TO MRS. PINKHAM

Letters Proving Positively that there is No Medicine for Woman's Ills Equal to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I cannot say enough in regard to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has done me more good than all the doctors. I have been troubled with female weakness in its worst form for about ten years. I had leucorrhoea and was so weak that I could not do my housework. I also had falling of the womb and inflammation of the womb and ovaries, and at menstrual periods I suffered terribly. At times my back would ache very hard. I could not lift anything or do any heavy work; was not able to stand on my feet long at a time. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for doctors but they did me no good. My husband's sister wrote what the Vegetable Compound had done for her, and wanted me to try it, but I did not then think it would do me any good. After a time, I concluded to try it, and I can truly say it does all that is claimed for it. Ten bottles of the Vegetable Compound and seven packages of Sanative Wash have made a new woman of me. I have had no womb trouble since taking the fifth bottle. I weigh more than I have in years; can do all my own housework, sleep well, have a good appetite, and now feel that life is worth living. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel that it has saved my life and would not be without it for anything. I am always glad to recommend it to all my sex, for I know if they will follow Mrs. Pinkham's directions, they will be cured." Gratefully yours, Mrs. ANNIE THOMPSON, South Hot Springs, Ark.

CHANGE OF LIFE. "I was taken sick five years ago with 'The Grippe,' and had a relapse and was given up by the doctor and my friends. Change of Life began to work on me. I flowed very badly until a year ago, then my stomach and lungs got so bad, I suffered terribly; the blood went up in my lungs and stomach, and I vomited it up. I could not eat scarcely anything. I cannot tell what I suffered with my head. My husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken half of it I began to improve, and to-day I am another woman. Mrs. Pinkham's medicine has saved my life. I cannot praise it enough." M. A. DENSON, Millport, N. Y.

PROFUSE PERIODS. "I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound about 3 months ago, and cannot express the wonderful good it has done me. Menstruations were so profuse as to leave me very weak for some time after. Was also troubled with leucorrhoea, tired feeling, bearing down sensation, pain across the back and thighs. I felt as though there was a heavy weight in my stomach all the time. I have taken two bottles of the medicine, and now have better health than I have had for four years." Mrs. LIZZIE DICKSON HODGE, Avon, Ohio.

SMALL BOAT TO BE USED IN A RACE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

Dean S. Webster of Chicago, a retired lake captain, proposes to enter in a race across the Atlantic with Captain Howard Blackburn of Gloucester, Mass., if he can agree with Blackburn on terms of the race. Captain Blackburn some time ago issued a challenge for such a race in any boat of less than thirty feet in length.

Captain Webster is the inventor of what he terms an "unsinkable" craft, which he proposes to use in the race.

Captain Webster comes from an old Nantucket family of seamen. His grandfather, Folger, sailed from that island for many years as a trader. Young Webster enlisted as private at the outbreak of the civil war, but was transferred to the navy and served on the United States steamship San Jacinto, which was wrecked on Jan. 1, 1865, on the coral reefs of Green Turtle Key, one of the Little Bahamas. He is now 59 years old.

Two Killed by One Bullet. A tragedy occurred at a dance at Jellico as the result of an old grudge between two miners named Strunk and Surgener. The two men were dancing. One of them accidentally jostled the other and a quarrel resulted. Strunk fired at Surgener, the ball passing entirely through his body and killing a boy of the name of Martin, who was directly behind him. Strunk covered all the occupants of the room and then fled, going to the Tennessee side, where he was arrested.

Our Exportation of Minerals.

Mineral products, both crude and manufactured, have in recent years become a very important feature of the domestic exports of the United States. Of the $1,565,228,606 exports of domestic products, including gold and silver, in the year 1900, $436,227,477 in value were composed of mineral products. Thus 28 per cent of the total domestic exports originated beneath the surface of the earth, though of course much of their selling value was added by the labor which turned them into the form required for the use of man.

A comparison of these enormous exports of metals and minerals and their products with those of a decade ago shows the remarkable progress which has been made in this branch of American industry—the production and manufacture of the mineral wealth which nature has so lavishly supplied the United States.

The following table, compiled by the treasury bureau of statistics, showing the exportations in 1890 and 1900 of the principal products of minerals, metals and the more important manufactures thereof, illustrates the great development during the decade of this branch of our domestic industries:

	1890.	1900.
Iron and steel manufactures	$27,000,134	$129,788,296
Mineral oils	$2,270,943	74,495,797
Copper and manufactures	5,215,355	85,881,529
Coal and coke	7,277,892	22,883,047
Paraffin	2,029,362	8,185,518
Scientific instruments	1,500,389	6,788,468
Phosphates	1,818,439	5,217,500
Cycles	—	3,069,161
Zinc and manufactures	844,991	2,316,981
Clocks and watches	1,691,896	2,194,319
Brass and manufactures	7,277,892	2,068,072
Copper sulphate	—	2,050,989
Jewelry and plated ware	1,235,077	1,310,489
Marble stone and manufactures	948,321	1,656,081
Nickel	—	1,382,727
Tin	202,343	467,322
Lead and manufactures	521,921	455,571
Quicksilver	48,192	425,812
Cement	—	225,396

Total domestic merchandise $103,093,955 $24,167,296
Domestic gold exported 20,654,960 $2,787,523
Domestic silver exported 16,098,189 $9,272,698

Total materials, metals and manufactures $140,447,104 $436,227,477
In the meantime imports of this character have materially decreased except in case of natural products not obtained from the mines of the United States, but required for use in manufacturing. Imports of manufactures of iron and steel, for instance, fell from $41,679,501 in 1890 to $20,443,908 in 1900, while pig tin used in the manufacture of tin plate increased from about $6,500,000 in 1890 to $19,458,586 in 1900.

Altogether the showing is decidedly encouraging for the producers of metals and the manufacturers of merchandise therefrom in the United States.

Mr. Patrick Crowe, lately of Omaha, has apparently gone to join the surprisingly large number of men and women who for one reason or another have been moved to vanish utterly from the knowledge of people who once knew them. It is almost incredible that such a disappearance should be possible in the face of the fact that $50,000 reward is offered for his capture and that probably as many thousand men are anxiously looking for him. Yet there have been enough instances of the same kind to prove that the case of Crowe is not a miraculous exception and to provide plenty of company for him in the unknown country where the mysteriously missing make their home. There are the men who stole Charley Ross, for instance, and Willie Tascott, for whom the world was searched in vain. Of more obscure people there are hundreds whose stories are told only on the "missing books" at the police stations and who have disappeared entirely and apparently forever from the world.

It appears that Colonel McClure has not yet exhausted his large fund of anecdotes of Horace Greeley. Concerning Mr. Greeley's prodigality, Colonel McClure tells how he once ventured to suggest to the sage of Chappaqua that he was giving away more money than his means justified. "Well," said Mr. Greeley, "I guess that's so, but I can't stop it. I am like the southern planter who after spending the proceeds of his crop in winter reveling closed up the account by selling a nigger. I do it by selling a share of The Tribune." He originally owned nearly or quite one-half the paper. When he died, he had but one share remaining of the 100.

The experience of the citizen who is suing the Pullman company because his trousers were stolen from under his pillow, making it necessary for him to sit for hours wrapped up in a blanket, the jest of all the other passengers, furnishes a warning for nocturnal travelers. The prudent man, traveling by night, keeps his pants on.

It is stated that the late P. D. Armour saved something like $2,000,000 in inheritance taxes by giving away to his sons three-quarters of his fortune before he died. This furnishes another substantial advantage of gifts over bequests.

Congress' Antihazing Law.

The military and congressional investigations of the hazing at West Point have already borne good fruit, and it is highly improbable that the cadets at that institution will ever again resort to their cruel and unmanly practices. In connection with the Military academy appropriation bill the United States senate has declared that "the superintendent of the Military academy shall make such rules, to be approved by the secretary of war, as will effectually prevent the practice of hazing, and any cadet found guilty of participating in or encouraging or countenancing such practice shall be summarily expelled from the academy and shall not thereafter be reappointed to the corps of cadets or be eligible for appointment as a commissioned officer in the army or navy."

The measure in the house, based upon the report of the special committee appointed to investigate West Point hazing, is even more stringent than that of the senate and goes more into detail. It demands expulsion for hazing or for sending or accepting a challenge or for taking any part in a challenge or its results and ineligibility for reappointment as cadet or for appointment to the army in case of dismissal for hazing and recommends closer association between academy officials and cadets, with a view to placing a full knowledge of what is going on within the range of the officials, and increased responsibility for the action of the cadets.

The house bill very justly puts some portion of the onus and responsibility upon the managers of the institution for the disgraceful proceedings, which they could not, or would not, prevent, for as men of reasonable intelligence they could not have been ignorant of them. It is now incumbent upon the officers in charge at West Point to see that the dictum of congress is strictly enforced.

Among the nominations made by the president under the army reorganization act just passed by congress was that of Colonel Samuel S. Sumner of the Sixth cavalry to be brigadier general. He is a son of the late General Edwin V. Sumner, who fought in the Black Hawk and Mexican wars and closed a distinguished military career in the third year of the civil war. While the father was a corps commander in the Army of the Potomac the son served on his staff with the rank of lieutenant, and years ago a very pretty story used to be told of the two. In one of the hottest actions of the peninsula campaign General Sumner had occasion to send an important order across a wide stretch of open land, swept by the constant fire of the enemy. Selection for the service was little less than condemnation to death, how little less the general fully realized as he noted his own son in the group of aids from whom the messenger had to be selected. There was a moment of hesitation, and then the call came, "Lieutenant Sumner!" The answer was prompt, the order was given and received with formal brevity, and the young officer, after the regulation salute, turned to ride away on his dangerous mission. Then the father in General Sumner replaced the soldier for a moment, and hurriedly calling his son back, he said, "Kiss me, Sammy." The kiss given, with full expectation that it was a last farewell, both became soldiers again. The lieutenant carried the message and, though encountering great peril, returned in safety. When asked about the episode afterward, General Sumner is said to have explained that he chose his son for the perilous duty because he was afraid to choose any one else. This way of putting the case was exact enough perhaps, since fear takes many forms and is something that the bravest are the least reluctant to confess.

The fortune left by the late Baron Wilhelm von Rothschild is estimated at $40,000,000. He was the head of the most famous banking house in the world, which has supplied the nations of Europe with immense sums of money for all sorts of purposes for generations. Yet the fortune he left looks small in comparison with those of a considerable number of American millionaires. It is another reminder that the United States is the great money making country of the world.

It is understood that young Adelbert Hay has succeeded in maintaining the dignity of his position in South Africa at the expense of his entire salary and a considerable part of that of his distinguished father.

The woods of Massachusetts are to be stocked with Belgian hares. Arrangements should be made at once to enlarge the woods.

For some unexplained reason the correspondence between Edward VII and Mr. Creelman has not been made public.

It is asserted that Mrs. Nation's first husband drank himself to death. The story does not seem unreasonable.

It is hoped that by this time the public has heard the last of the odious Bosschleter case.

The oldest Yale graduate died recently in Brooklyn. The oldest Mason, however, is still living.

The Baseball Outlook.

Baseball "magnates," the persons who are in the game for revenue only, are a peculiar set of men. The less money there is to be made the more bitterly they fight as to who shall gather in the meager profits. The present outlook is anything but hopeful. There is nothing in sight on the baseball horizon but war and a war that will put all former strifes of this sort completely in the shade. Even in the unlooked for event of an arbitrator arising and bringing unity and harmony out of the tangle he would not be able to make the sport very successful financially next season at least.

The various factions have their plans for next summer well formulated by this time and for a short period have been resting on their arms. A glance at the situation as it is today does not promise well for the patron of the sport, whose chief concern is the kind of ball that will be meted out to him during the playing season. He cares naught for magnates and their squabbles, and yet on the results of their acts his pleasure and the future of baseball depend. If the three big leagues now formed carry out their plans, the situation in a nutshell will be as follows:

There will be 24 clubs in 15 of the big cities, an average of nearly two clubs per city. In two of these places, Boston and Philadelphia, each of the three associations has planned to locate clubs. This means that in these two places at least one club must go to the wall. The National league in making up the circuit of the American association, which it controls, has refrained as far as possible from cutting its own throat; consequently the latter body will have clubs in only two of the major league's strongholds, and in both of these there will be opposition on the part of the American league anyway.

The American league has only one city—Cleveland—all to itself, while the American association is minus opposition in two—Louisville and Indianapolis. The National league will have five towns in which it will be the whole thing as regards baseball—that is, unless a return is made to the 12 league circuit, concerning which there are many rumors.

The real struggle for supremacy is going to be between the National and American leagues. In regard to funds and grounds, the former is by far the better off, but the American league has been much better managed and has no interese troubles to contend with, as is the case with its older adversary. It is a terribly tangled mess. The interests and schedules are so confusing that the public will turn in disgust from the green diamond until the warring factions shall have finished their contentions, and by that time the fans will have become interested in their new diversions.

Thomas A. Edison being recently asked if he thought the twentieth century would surpass the nineteenth in invention, and particularly in the application of electricity, promptly replied that it would and then, with characteristic modesty, added that in the first place there are more inventors to work and in the second place they know more to start with, "but, all the same, none of us knows anything about anything," which is his way of saying that until it is definitely settled what electricity is we are only on the threshold of achievement. The opinions of Mr. Edison, who is a practical man and who has turned his many inventions to commercial uses, are in sharp contrast with those of Mr. Tesla, a dreamer and impractical man, who assumes to have settled all the electrical and scientific affairs on this earth and is now adjusting those of Mars.

Anne Longfellow Pierce, sister of the poet Longfellow, died the other day at Portland, Me., in the old Longfellow house in Congress street, where she lived all her long life of 90 years and 10 months. Her famous brother's life, however, is not to be measured by years.

Now that George Gould's converted yacht is all equipped for the defense of Venezuela the asphalt dispute may as well be submitted to arbitration. What a pity it would be to line up this little craft against one of Uncle Sam's broadsides!

Jugged from the London Illustrated papers which are now arriving in this country, Edward must have taken the precaution to lay in a large and varied assortment of "latest photographs."

Tabled lunches are the experiment in Paris at present, but it is safe to say that they will never become popular at the free lunch counters or among the tramp fraternity.

It is now time for the people of the smart set to contract the measles. Several persons of high rank in Europe have it.

It is now expected that Mr. Murat Halstead will take a day off and write the history of the Victorian reign.

The Kansas papers are now engaged in printing "before and after taking" pictures of the Nationalized saloons.

It is very considerate on the part of Mr. Morgan to allow Mr. Harriman to own a few railroads.

Of Service to Our Readers.

[From the Camden, S. C., Messenger.]
We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for coughs, colds, and that alarming complaint, croup. We refer to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it with such good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. By its prompt use we haven't any doubt but that it has time and again prevented croup. This testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially those who have small children, always keep it in their homes as a safeguard against croup. T. V. Slocum opened his heart Monday evening, and pocketbook as well, and took five of our young ladies to the masque ball at McHenry Monday evening and showed them, as he had promised, one of the most pleasant times of the season, all returning home at 6:30 next morning, loudly praising the benefactor. Those who attended were Mesdames Woodhouse, Graham, E. J. Cook, Misses Eloise Jenks and Estella Grace.

A number of our young people attended a party at the home of Elmer Duers Saturday evening. Caroms, perchessi and various social amusements was the order of the evening. At 10 o'clock the call for supper was heard and all sat down to enjoy the refreshments that were patiently awaiting their turn in the program. A jolly good time is reported and it was 11:30 when all retired.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Francisco were given a royal surprise at their home last Wednesday evening by about 40 of their neighbors and friends. They had made all preparations for attending a surprise at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Werden, but unknown to them the tables were turned and their home was made the scene of tumult. Refreshments were served, which are always enjoyed and a genuine good time is reported.

The W. R. C. of our village entertained twenty-one members of Barrington W. R. C. at G. A. R. Saturday afternoon, it being the repayment of a visit our corps had tendered them last fall. A short program was rendered as follows: Reading, Miss Edith Turnbull; a letter was read from T. Baseley from the Philippines by Mrs. Wm. Baseley; song, Miss Lillah Golding; song, Rev. D. C. Dutton. The program closed with a short address by Rev. Dutton, after which refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

The G. A. R. and W. R. C. Thursday evening of last week took possession of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Baseley, as they have been in the habit of doing with several of their most prominent members of late, and although it had been planned as a surprise Mrs. Baseley got onto the racket and when the proper time arrived, invited the guests to come and partake of an elegant oyster supper she had prepared for the purpose. Varied and numerous were the amusements of the evening and it was past the midnight hour when all retired, thanking Mr. and Mrs. Baseley for their kind hospitality and a most pleasing evening.

The Mystic Workers' social held at the M. W. A. hall Friday evening was attended by about 100 guests and it proved one of the enjoyable events of the season. Progressive euchre had been planned for the leading feature of amusement, but as the guests arrived they began to enjoy themselves to the full extent of the law at cards and caroms and to try to divert their attention to the progressive idea seemed fruitless, and as all were enjoying themselves, the idea was abandoned. A grand relay of refreshments was served at 11 o'clock, for which all stopped to enjoy. After the repast dancing was indulged in until about 1 o'clock. The Mystic Workers now have a membership of 107 and has the distinction of being the largest lodge in our village.

The marriage of Mr. Vincent E. Davlin and Miss Edna Hutchinson was held at McHenry Thursday morning of last week at 11 o'clock, Rev. Father O'Neil performing the ceremony at his residence. Miss Evelyn Davlin, a sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and Mr. James Leonard of Geneva Lake as groomsman. After the ceremony all repaired to the Riverside hotel, where they partook of the midday meal and at 5 o'clock the bridal couple took a train for a short wedding trip to Geneva Lake, returning to Wauconda Saturday evening. Sunday they attended a grand reception at Barrington at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hutchinson. The bride was one of Barrington's fairest and estimable young ladies and we shall be pleased to welcome her in our midst. Mr. Davlin, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davlin, is a young man of sterling ability and ambition and one who will strive to make his mark in life. He has chosen a noble companion and we wish the couple a prosperous and pleasant future.

Wm. Mason Wins Friends.
"Billy" Mason has won the lasting friendship of the country editors by his efforts to kill the Loud bill, which passed the house of Congress last week. The members who voted for the bill have made donkeys of themselves and show their unfitness for such a position as a government representative of the people. The bill was introduced to compel the country papers to pay an exorbitant rate for distribution through the post office in their own town. The bill was a big piece of Loud's bungling and is not worth the paper it is written upon so far as carrying out the intention of the author. Some congressmen are going to hear something drop when the list of those who voted for the proposition is obtained by the country papers. Senator Mason in this one act has done more towards his return to the Senate than anything he has done during his term. The country press is a power.

He Employed No Physician.
Having succeeded in curing an attack of the grip without the aid of a physician, the editor of the Glenwood (Colo.) Avalanche, tells his readers how this feat was accomplished, as follows:
"We don't know much about the effect of materia medica upon the human system, but we did write, fill and take the following prescription, which knocked the grip higher than Gilderoy's kite: Four quarts of whiskey, into which were dissolved four ounces of loaf sugar. To this we added a teaspoonful of water and another quart of whiskey and then placed over a hot fire and let it boil sufficiently long to boil out all the water. We then stirred in a little more whiskey to cool and gulped it down without batting an eye. In order to remove the taste from our mouth we took a little more whiskey."
That is what we would consider an homeopathic dose for a Colorado editor.

HISTORY OF PALATINE.

COPYRIGHTED BY A. G. SMITH.

[The later settler of Plum Grove will be taken up later and the settlement of Deer Grove will now be given.]

The first settler in Deer Grove, so far as we can learn, was George Ela, who took up a claim which was mostly situated in what is now Ela township. This was in 1836.

On March 11, 1837, Harris Webster, with his brother, Palmer, and wife settled on a farm of 80 acres in section 13, on the south side of the Grove. There were twenty acres of timber land in this tract. Both brothers staked out the land for their farms and they worked hard to obtain the money necessary to purchase the land from the government when the sale should occur. Harris worked at teaming on the canal at Summit for about two years and then had to borrow $10 in order to make his payment at $1.25 per acre. Harris and Palmer cut the timber and split the rails to fence the farms. Harris cut all the timber to build his house; it was made of logs and considered very good at that time, the logs being hewn all around and was plastered on both sides. Their dinners in the woods often consisted merely of buckwheat cakes—frozen, and had to be chopped before they could be eaten. Provisions were very scarce and hard to get, even for those who had plenty of money. Pork was 25 cents per pound, and so poor that it would not fry without the assistance of butter or lard. Harris thought he would like to have some fowls, so as a beginner he brought a hen from Elk Grove tied in a pocket handkerchief. He walked the eight miles, as they had no teams then, simply oxen. The county was crossed and re-crossed by Indian trails. There were plenty of prairie chickens and quail and they did not seem afraid as they often came around the house to pick up crumbs. One night a hungry wolf, more venturesome than the others, grabbed a two-months-old pig from the pen and ran. Hearing the pig squeal, Harris and Palmer gave chase. Before long the wolf dropped the pig and it was picked up and brought home, where, upon examination, it was found to be slightly hurt by the wolf's teeth, but otherwise uninjured.

Everyone was friendly and willing to help his neighbor, and though friendly visits were not made often, they were enjoyed much more than the fashionable calls of today. A year or two after these people settled a man came along and asked for some dinner. He would be called a tramp today. Of course, he was fed and welcomed as a traveler was a good medium of news in those days. They found he had an old violin and when asked if he would play for a dance he readily consented. Mr. Harris jumped onto a horse and started out to extend the invitations. He first went to John Robertson's, where he found the landlord with hot cloths around his face suffering with a toothache, but a smile and "certainly" was the response to the invitation and Mr. Harris proceeded on his journey asking all the neighbors for a few miles around and he returned at night to find the guests arriving. And what a dance they had on that log house floor. It was a dance those old settlers clearly remember to this day. The fiddler went on his way rejoicing the next morning.

Harris Webster was married November 17, 1844, to Charlotte A. Jones of Bloomington, Ill. Three children were born to them, all at Palatine. Arminia Caroline was born November 30, 1845. She was married to Col. L. Whitecomb September 9, 1868, and died at Fredericksburg last month. Seth was born April 16, 1849, and on July 13, 1873, married Ellen P. Patten. She died February 5, 1885. He married Clara F. Johnson December 24, 1893, and they now reside in Chicago. Ida Belle was born February 16, 1857, and on March 11, 1880, was married to Jas. R. Whitecomb and they now reside at Fredericksburg, Iowa.

Harris Webster kept the old farm until 1874 or 1875, when his health failed him and he sold it and purchased a lot in the village of Palatine, where he built a house and lived until 1884, when he went to Fredericksburg, Iowa. In May, 1885, he went to Chicago and lived with his son until his death, which occurred January 15, 1887. He was the first assessor of the township and held the office for eighteen consecutive years. He served also as collector for one year, supervisor one year and held other offices.

Good Advice.

The New York Journal may be "yellow" in many respects, but it gives good advice when it says: "Take ten cents to the nearest available savings bank and deposit it to your credit. Keep it up until you have a dollar. Don't wait to do this until you have a situation. Do it now. If you have change for car fare, walk. This is the only way to save money. If you wait until your salary is raised, or until you happen to have an errand near the savings bank, you may be dead before you lay by a cent. There is only one way to save money. That is to begin now." This is good advice for the youngest boy or girl.

Mustn't "Own" Their Engines.

The railroad engineer who "owns" his engine is not in favor with his superiors. Complaints about trivial matters are likely to be made against him, and soon he finds himself without a berth. The phrase "owning an engine" does not mean that the engineer has acquired title to his iron horse. The expression is used of a man who has been with a certain engine so long that he becomes a part of it. He knows its every peculiarity, he feels its every protest against a heavy load, and he nurses it and coddles it as if it were his child. He dislikes to run the engine at top speed for fear something will happen to it, and in consequence his train is frequently behind time. He takes a grade at half the rate he should, and he runs cautiously down hill. In a word, he "owns" his engine.

Of course this is all very nice and idyllic, and it is the kind of thing a person likes to read about in stories of the railroad. But plain, practical railroad men look at it differently. They argue that the best engineer is the man who never fails to run his train according to his running time, the man who is never behind and seldom ahead. So it comes about that the engineer who makes a master of that which should be his servant wonders who has a grudge against him. But it isn't a grudge; it's business.—New York Mail and Express.

A Bit of Red Tape.

The absurdities of officialdom have perhaps never been better illustrated than by the incident in the career of Lord Shaftesbury which the author of "Collections and Recollections" relates: One winter evening in 1867 he was sitting in his library in Grosvenor square, when the servant told him that there was a poor man waiting to see him. The man was shown in and proved to be a laborer from Clerkenwell and one of the innumerable recipients of the old earl's charity.

He said, "My lord, you have been very good to me, and I have come to tell you what I have heard." It appeared that at the public house which he frequented he had overheard some Irishmen of desperate character plotting to blow up Clerkenwell prison. He gave Lord Shaftesbury the information, to be used as he thought best, but made it a condition that his name should not be divulged. If it were, his life would not be worth an hour's purchase. Lord Shaftesbury pledged himself to secrecy, ordered his carriage and drove instantly to Whitehall. The authorities there refused, on grounds of official practice, to entertain the information without the name and address of the informant. These, of course, could not be given. The warning was rejected, and the jail was blown up.—Youth's Companion.

When monsieur—the first monsieur at the court of Louis XIV—discovered at his levee that his watch had been stolen, presumably by one of his valets, he finished dressing hastily and, addressing them all, said: "Gentlemen, the watch strikes. Let us separate as quickly as we can." What a tact and finish were here!

The spirit of monsieur was admirably caught by the French gentleman of the time, who, attacked by robbers at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, simply observed, "Sirs, you have opened very early today."—Cornhill.

He was a station hand in from a three months' spell of work, during which he had tasted no other meat than mutton; also he stuttered badly. His eyes fairly leaped at the stuffed turkey on the hotel dinner table, though the boiled mutton made him shiver.

Said the host, "What will you try, Mr. Straps?"

Eagerly, "I'll t-try a b-bit of t-t-t—" The word floored him. Again, "G-give m-me a l-little t-t-t—" Then, red faced and disgusted: "Oh, h-hang it! Give me some b-blooming mutton! I h-hate it, but I can s-s-say it, anyhow."—Sydney Bulletin.

They Changed.

A Vienna paper relates an anecdote of the painter Makart, who was sometimes as tactful as Von Moltke. One evening at a dinner he sat for an hour next to the soubrette Josephine Galmeyer without volunteering a word. Finally she lost patience and exclaimed, "Well, dear master, suppose we change the subject."

A correspondent of London M. A. P. tells a story of the Duchess of Montrose, whose beauty is no less renowned than her philanthropy. The scene was a bazaar where the duchess was selling photographs. One old Scotchwoman was very anxious to secure a photograph of the duchess, but the price asked was 5 shillings. The old woman hesitated. She wanted the photograph, but she could not well afford so much.

"You can have my husband," said the duchess, with an amused glance at the duke standing near. "for 2s. 6d." The would-be purchaser looked at the duke and then at his photograph contemptuously.

"Half a crown!" she blurted out. "I wouldna give a silver shapence for him. But," she added insinuatingly, "I am right willing to give half a crown for your bonnie sel'."

The duchess was unable to resist this, and herself added the other half crown to the bazaar coffers, or, as another version of the story goes, the dejected duke proffered the balance.

CHAPTER III.

Poverty presses harder on a man's side generally than on a woman's, perhaps because most women care more for persons than for things; and while these near and dear to them are well and happy, the pin pricks of having to go without many things their neighbors have are not so keenly felt, while to a man each is a mortification.

Harold Dynevor was a good son, and a brave man; but poverty tried him sorely, and there was a constant chafing at the injustice of circumstances which made his life harder than it might have been, but which those who knew his story thought only natural.

Harold was a gentleman farmer. He worked quite as hard as many farmers who did not own the prefix; but he was the last male representative of a good old county family, who had been known in Sussex for many generations. He was popular wherever he went, his mother was devoted to him, his pretty sister, Kitty, looked up to him with fervent admiration; but Harold Dynevor could not be called a happy man. He had inherited a grievance, and the recollection of it marred his content.

"You're tired out, Harold," said Kitty gently. "I'm sure you work as hard as any of your own men. Sit down in your armchair, and I'll go and buy tea."

"All right, dear," he said gratefully. "It may do me good, for I've a splitting headache."

Mrs. Dynevor waited till her daughter was out of hearing, then she asked anxiously:

"Is there anything wrong, Harold? You were going in to Marton; did you see Mr. Proctor?"

"I saw him, mother, and got a receipt in full. There's bad news. I meant to keep it from you, but I can see I've betrayed there's something wrong, so I'd better tell you the truth, for fear you think it worse than it is."

"You don't mean that the mortgagee wants to foreclose, Harold?"

"Poor lady! that was the bugbear of her life. Uplands, the land which her son farmed, was her very own. It had been her wedding portion, and the home of her married life. When bad seasons came, and expenses multiplied, with her full consent her husband raised a mortgage on the farm. They had thought lightly of it then—a few good harvests would soon enable them to pay off the debt; but it had never been paid off in all those years. It hung like an incubus about them, and Mrs. Dynevor's one dread was that some day the mortgagee would foreclose, and, if they could not find the £5,000 due to him, they would have to leave their beloved home."

"No, mother," said Harold quietly. "It's not so bad as that; but you will like the news as little as I do. It seems Mr. King has been settling his affairs, and he has transferred the mortgage on the Uplands to some one else. Proctor told me the interest was still to be paid to him, so we shall have no personal dealings with our new creditor."

"Then I don't see that it matters," said Mrs. Dynevor. "Your dear father always said Mr. King was a very honest man. Do you mean that you have heard a bad account of the new mortgagee?"

"He is a man we both have cause to fear and dislike, mother—Eustace Lindon!"

Mrs. Dynevor had grown white even to her lips—nothing could have terrified her more; but she was a brave woman, and she knew, besides, where help and strength were to be found. One silent prayer to heaven, and she answered calmly:

"There is only one thing for it, Harold—we must raise the £5,000 and pay off the mortgage. To be at that man's mercy is more than I can bear!"

"I don't see how we're to do it," said Harold, gloomily. "There's no money in the bank, and we must spend a good sum on the farm this year, for everything wants renewing. The blow couldn't have come at a worse time."

"I wonder what his object is?" said Mrs. Dynevor quickly. "He has never once been near this place since he left it with your poor Aunt Nina just after their wedding. Not a year after her death he let the Manor to General Craven for fourteen years, and, except pocketing the money from the estate, he has taken not the least interest in the property since."

"Proctor says he has married again, and thinks he means to settle at the Manor. The general's lease expires year, and he has refused to renew it."

"If he means to live here, of course he would want to get rid of us first," said Mrs. Dynevor quietly. "For men never like the near presence of those they have wronged."

Now, according to the strict letter of the law, Eustace Lindon could not have been said to have wronged the Dynevors, yet every one for miles around Dynevor Manor regarded him as their despoiler.

It was a sad little story, so well known that every villager could have repeated it. When Mrs. Dynevor married and settled at the Uplands, her husband had an elder brother, Frank, who was squire of Dene, and the largest land-owner for miles round. Frank Dynevor was devoted to the young couple at the Uplands. A good deal older than his brother, Charles, and a very studious, reserved man, he had reached the age of 40 without marrying. People were beginning to look on him as a confirmed bachelor, and to regard the little boy at the farm as the heir of the Manor, when, before Harold was 5 years old, his uncle suddenly returned from a summer holiday with a wife of 18.

There was not the least mystery about his young wife's antecedents. She was an officer's daughter, and had been brought up in an orphan asylum, which found her a situation as soon as she was old enough. She had been in it just six months when Mr. Dynevor came on a visit to her employer, and converted their little nursery governess into the mistress of the Manor.

If the family at the Uplands were disappointed, they made no sign, and welcomed the bride warmly. Frank Dynevor told his brother he meant to settle a small fortune on little Harold, "in case farming failed," but he was not a businesslike man, and, being in sound health, no doubt, he thought there was no hurry, and he might well wait till his nephew was out of the nursery.

The baby who arrived at the Manor within a year of the wedding was a girl. She was 2 years old when her father took it into his head to go out to Australia to hunt up some information for a book he was writing. Nina dreaded the sea, so he left her and her little girl at home. From that voyage he never returned. He died at sea. And Mr. Eustace Lindon, a fellow passenger, who had been with him a great deal at the last, brought the news to the poor little widow at Easthill.

CHAPTER IV.

There was consternation at the Manor and the Uplands; but when Frank Dynevor's will was read, his brother was amazed to find there was no mention whatever of his promise to secure Harold's future. It had been made immediately after the birth of little Lillian, and it left everything in trust to his wife for her daughter, and if the child died before reaching the age of 21 her mother inherited everything, with power to bequeath it to whom she pleased.

No wonder the Charles Dynevors were aggrieved. They would not have grudged the estate to Lillian; but that it should revert to her mother, that a girl who had never seen the old house three years before should have power, if her child died, to leave it away from the family who had owned it for centuries—it was terrible!

Perhaps their sense of injustice made the Charles Dynevors keep aloof from the young widow, and so they did not realize how quickly her acquaintance with Eustace Lindon ripened into intimacy; and it came on them like a thunderbolt when, a year and a day after her husband's death, Nina married the specious adventurer and went abroad with him.

Very little news of her reached Easthill. That she had a second child—another daughter—and that her health failed so rapidly she was obliged to live always in the south of France, was all the Dynevors heard in the first few years. Then there came a formal letter from Eustace Lindon, acquainting them with his stepdaughter's death; and, barely six months later, another to announce that his wife had passed away.

"She will have left him all the ready money; but she can't be so base as to bequeath him the Manor," Charles Dynevor said to his wife.

"I don't know. She was perfectly infatuated with him, and I suppose she would think of her child," replied Mrs. Dynevor.

But there was no mention of her child in the will. Mr. Dynevor paid half a guinea for a copy of it. It had been made immediately after the death of her firstborn, and it simply bequeathed "all property of which I may die possessed, real or personal, of every description whatever, to my dear husband, Eustace Lindon."

It had been drawn up by an English lawyer, and witnessed by the doctor and nurse who attended little Lillian in her last illness. Everything was perfectly in form. Mr. Proctor, the leading solicitor of Marton, who had been at school with Harold Dynevor, and remained his close friend, said that to upset it would be quite impossible.

So Eustace Lindon enjoyed his thousands and the Dynevors grew poorer every year. The father lived till his only son was old enough to take up the burden he had borne so bravely. His dying words charged Harold to be good to his mother and Kitty, and never, if he could help it, accept any favor at the hands of Eustace Lindon.

"I can't explain it to you, my boy," said the dying man, solemnly, "but I have thought a great deal about the past since my illness began. I would not say a word to your mother, lest she should brood over it; but I can't help feeling Lindon did not play straight. Your Aunt Nina was little more than a child when he married her; but she was singularly frank and true. Knowing as she did that Dynevor Manor had been in our family for centuries, I can't believe she would have left it away from the old name willingly."

"Do you mean you think the will was a forgery?" asked Harold.

"No; I believe it was obtained from her by undue influence. When she was very ill he must have worked on her fears in some way or other. I can't explain what I think, Harold; but I seem to know Nina Lindon never did us such a wrong willingly."

"I could understand it better if she had left anything to her child," said Harold. "The injustice to us would have been the same, but it would have been more natural."

Mr. Dynevor shook his head.

"It's a mystery we shan't fathom here, my boy. Only, with the instinct God sends sometimes to the dying, I seem to feel that Lindon is to blame. If he comes to live at the Manor, avoid him by every means in your power."

And that was the story of the past. It was not strange that, remembering his father's last words, it was torture to Harold Dynevor to think that the mortgage on his mother's home was held by Eustace Lindon.

Kitty and the tea tray came in together. There was a capable woman servant at the Uplands, but she had her hands pretty full; and both Mrs. Dynevor and her daughter were thoroughly domesticated, sweet, home-keeping women both of them, not learned inologies and science, perhaps, but well gifted to make those about them happy.

Harold felt quite refreshed after his tea, and asked his sister cheerfully if any one had been there that afternoon.

"Only Helen Craven. She wants us to go to dinner there next week. I said Tuesday would suit you best."

When the Cravens settled at Dynevor Manor they made it perfectly clear to the family at the Uplands that they regarded them as friends and equals. The young Dynevors had spent some of their happiest days at the Manor, and Helen Craven was Kitty's closest friend.

"Tuesday will do nicely," said Harold. "I shall be glad of a little talk with the general. He may be able to tell me something about his landlord."

"Helen was quite radiant," went on Kitty. "It seems Alice is coming home next week on leave, and is going to bring his friend Captain Tempest with him."

She spoke with studied carelessness, and yet the speech had cost her an effort. Kitty and her mother were both dreadfully afraid Harold cared for Helen Craven. Loving him as they did, they were of course persuaded he could have won the general's daughter had he only made up his mind to woo. Both believed only his poverty and pride had kept him silent, and it had come on them as a blow when they discovered the great interest Helen took in the visits of her brother's chum, and they were forced to see that Captain Tempest was already more to her than Harold had ever been. So Kitty made this remark tentatively, as a sort of breaking the news to Harold that if he entered the lists he would be too late.

Dynevor never guessed Kitty's suspicions. He smiled quite cheerfully as he said:

"Sets the wind in that direction? Well, you will miss Helen dreadfully, Kitty, if she marries; but she is 22, so I suppose it's time she began to think of such a thing, and Jack Temple is a right down good fellow. I took a great fancy to him when he was here at Christmas. I only hope you'll have as good fortune, Miss Kitty, when your time comes."

Kitty and her mother exchanged congratulatory glances, which seemed to say: "He does not mind! he could not have cared for her really after all." (To be continued.)

NOBLE RED MAN.

Difficult for the Indian to Become Self-Supporting.

How to make the Indian self-supporting is a problem which William L. Brown tackles in the Southern Workman. He would solve the problem by making the red men a race of goat herders. He says: "The question of self-support for Indians is a difficult one. The limitations imposed upon them by the nature of the country in which they live and the lack of an inherited habit of work, together with the pauperizing tendency of the ration system, make it difficult for them to progress very rapidly toward self-support. And since a training having this end in view should be one of the factors in their education the question is one in which the schools should be particularly interested. It has been suggested that goat culture might offer a solution of the difficulty in some localities. The Indians' familiarity with and love for animals makes herding a natural calling for them, and they can therefore be easily trained in the care of stock. Then, too, goats can sustain life where cattle cannot. That goat culture may be made profitable there is little doubt, since there appears to be a ready market for the various products. Statistics show that the importation of the skins, from which the chief value is derived, increased 28 per cent in the fiscal year of 1898 as compared with 1897. Most of the goat skins used in this country are imported. It has been estimated that the market value of the importation of these skins amounts to twenty million dollars."

Parents Liability for Child's Fare.

A parent entering a railroad train with a child non sui juris, but old enough to be required to pay fare, is held, in Braun vs. Northern Pacific Railroad company (Minn.), 49 L. R. A. 319, to be under an implied contract to pay the child's fare and, on refusal to do so, liable to be expelled from the train with the child, even though the parent offers to pay his own fare or on refunding it to him if he has paid it.

CHASE FOR A DEBT.

To Collect Bill a Woman Follows a Man 10,000 Miles.

All the way from Honolulu to Cleveland, more than 10,000 miles, Mrs. Sybil Cooper followed the man who owed her a large sum of money, and then, when she found him here, discovered she had left in Honolulu the documentary evidence of the debt, says a recent dispatch from Cleveland, Ohio. While waiting for the papers to arrive the man left for New York, but Mrs. Cooper is still after him. In New York she hopes to overhaul him and get the case started in the courts. Mrs. Cooper once lived in New York, but years ago went to Honolulu with her husband, and both are now wealthy. In making investments Mrs. Cooper loaned a large sum of money to a Cleveland man, who forgot to pay her when he left the island. She decided to follow him. From Honolulu she went to San Francisco, then to Salt Lake City, to Denver, to Kansas City, St. Louis and Cincinnati. With her brother, from New York, Mrs. Cooper located the man in an apartment house in this city, but could do nothing without the evidence. She refuses to give the man's name.

HALF DEAD SOLDIER.

Returns All Broken Up to His Home in South Dakota.

Bristol, So. Dak., Feb. 18th, 1901.—(Special).—Peter Behres says: "When I returned from the war I found that I was in a very critical condition. My system was all run down, and I gradually became worse, until I was half dead with Kidney and Bladder Trouble. My family wanted me to consult a physician, but as I had learned through several of my comrades of the wonderful cures of Dodd's Kidney Pills I determined to give them a trial first."

Mr. Behres, or Capt. Behres as he should be called, because he was captain of the 1st Minnesota Cavalry, and in 1862 was for fourteen months in continual service in warfare with the Indians, is now an honored member of the G. A. R., who has reached the ripe old age of three score years and ten. He continues: "I am now an old soldier, seventy years of age, and enjoying almost perfect health, and all thanks for this is due to Dodd's Kidney Pills. I found after having used the first few boxes that my faith was not misplaced in them, and in a very short while my kidneys were doing the work required of them and the bladder trouble was soon eliminated. It was almost a year before I was myself, but during that time I used Dodd's Kidney Pills faithfully and with the very best results that anyone could wish for. I would not have been without them for a king's ransom. I am now well as any man of my age."

"DEALING WITH CRIMES IN CANADA."

(From the Chicago Times-Herald, on Jan. 12th, 1901.)

The citizens of the Dominion of Canada have just cause to be proud of their record as law-abiding people. The annual report of the criminal statistics of the Dominion, which has a population of over 6,000,000, shows that there were only twenty-five indictments for murder in 1899, of which only two were left without final action. Eleven of those indicted were hanged, nine acquitted and three confined as insane.

Canada is a country of vast proportions. Its people are scattered over a wide stretch of territory, making police surveillance particularly difficult and in many districts impossible. Yet a city like New York or Chicago alone furnishes a far greater criminal list every year than the whole vast stretch of territory from Quebec to Vancouver.

The Canadians ascribe their immunity from crime to the promptness with which punishment is meted out to offenders. When a man is caught red-handed in the act of robbing another he is not released on straw bail by some justice of the peace from the slums, to go out and repeat the offense. Sharp and sure justice is meted out to criminals of all kinds, the result being that when the guardians of the public peace succeed in bringing a thug to the bar they are seldom called upon to hunt him a second time.

Furthermore, there are few court delays in Canada when a criminal is brought to book. They have no Dreyer cases over there. There are no methods whereby Canadian criminals can have the proceedings stayed from month to month and from year to year or after being convicted, appeal from one court to another until witnesses die of old age or opportunities for corruption can be found.

Nor does this swift method of treating with wrong-doers in Canada leave the innocent unable to properly defend themselves. They have all the opportunities and privileges that our own laws extend to them. The extent to shield the guilty is lacking—that is all.

The above, taken from the editorial column of the Times-Herald, gives some idea of the immunity from crime that exists in Canada, and this is one of the many inducements held out for Americans to settle in the district known as Western Canada. The season of 1901 will see a few new sections of the country opened up for settlement. They are attractive in every respect. It is understood that one of the best Indian Reserves in the famous Valley of the Saskatchewan will be opened up this year, and an invitation is extended to those desiring homes to make inquiries. The price of the land is said to be nominal. Besides these lands, the several railway companies have lands to sell; also the government. For particulars write to the agent of the government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere.

A wise man never asks children questions in public unless he is quite sure of their answers.

WILL SEND $2.50 FREE.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the Celebrated Chicago Specialist, Will Send $2.50 Worth of His New Special Treatment Free to Each of Our Readers.

When an experienced physician offers to give away $20,000 worth of a New Treatment for disease of the heart, nerves, stomach, or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in it. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Special Treatment his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

That Dr. Miles is one of the world's most successful physicians is proven by hundreds of testimonials from well-known people. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two after being given up by six and seven Chicago physicians, another after nine of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed. Thousands of testimonials sent upon request.

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in The World's Standard: "Prof. J. P. Ross, M. D., Ex-President of Rush Medical College, wrote in 1874: 'Dr. Miles has taken two courses of my private instruction in disease of the heart and lungs.' Mr. Truman DeWesse, editor Chicago Times-Herald, states: 'Dr. Miles cured me of years of inherited headache and dizziness.' The well-known manufacturer of Freepoint, Ill., J. C. Scott, says: 'I had fruitlessly spent thousands of dollars on physicians until I consulted Dr. Miles.' Mrs. Frank Smith, of Wabash Ave., Chicago, writes: 'Dr. Miles cured me of dropsy after five leading physicians had given me up.'"

This new system of special treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment, especially prepared for their case, free, with full directions, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 338 to 337 State St., Dept. L, Chicago. Mention this paper.

THE ALIMENTARY CANAL. 1. Lower end of esophagus (meal-pipe) which carries the food from the throat to the stomach; 2. Cardiac end of stomach; 3. Pyloric end of stomach; 4. Duodenum; 5. Gall bladder; 6. & 7. Small intestine; 8. Cecum; 9. Vermiform appendix; 10. Ascending colon; 11. Transverse colon; 12. Descending colon; 13. Sigmoid flexure; 14. Rectum; 15. Anus. The duplication is continuous with the small intestine. The small intestine empties into the large intestine or colon at the cecum. The arrow indicates the direction in which the contents of the bowels must take in passing through the alimentary canal.

are packed away in your insides and must be kept clean, in order and doing business.

It's a long way, with many turns and pitfalls to catch the refuse and clog the channel if not most carefully cleaned out every day.

When this long canal is blocked, look out for trouble—furred tongue, bad breath, belching of gases, yellow spots, pimples and boils, headaches, spitting up of food after eating—an all-around disgusting nuisance.

Violent calomel purges or gripping salts are dangerous to use for cleaning out the bowels. They force out the obstruction by causing violent spasms of the bowels, but they leave the intestines weak and even less able to keep up regular movements than before, and make a larger dose necessary next time.

Then you have the pill habit, which kills more people than the morphine and whiskey habits combined.

The only safe, gentle but certain bowel cleansers are sweet, fragrant CASCARETS, because they don't force out the foecal matter with violence, but act as a tonic on the whole 30 feet of bowel wall, strengthen the muscles and restore healthy, natural action. Buy and try them! (Look out for imitations and substitutes or you can't get results. Cascarets are never sold in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the long-tailed "C" on the box.) You will find that in an entirely natural way your bowels will be promptly and permanently

CARRIE NATION IS IN JAIL.

Placed Under Bonds in $2,000 at Topeka.

ACTS AS HER OWN COUNSEL.

Cross-Questions the Chief Prosecuting Witness in a Way That Would Do Credit to a Criminal Lawyer—Passing on Material Testimony.

Mrs. Carrie Nation is now in the county jail at Topeka, Kan. She was placed under bond to keep the peace, especially with reference to Moeser Bros., proprietors of the ice plant and cold storage room which was raided by the crusaders yesterday. Cal McDowell was held in the sum of $1,000, and Mrs. Rose Crist and Mrs. Madeline Southard in the sum of $500 on similar warrants. Mrs. Nation's bond to keep the peace an appear for trial at the next term of court was fixed at $2,000. She announced that she would not give bond, but would go to jail. The judge remanded her to the custody of the sheriff, and she will be held in the hospital ward of the county prison. In addition to the above, a peace warrant was sworn out by William Moeser against Mrs. Nation, C. R. McDowell, Mrs. Rose Crist and Madeline Southard, charging them with threatening maliciously to destroy property owned by Moeser at his cold storage plant. Mrs. Nation was immediately arraigned in the District court, and the judge inquired if she had counsel. She replied that she had not, that she could not afford it, and would plead her own cause. William Moeser was the first witness called. He testified that the defendants visited his place Sunday, chopped the door down, entered the parts of the building known as the butter room, and tried to enter the machinery room. He said he had stock in the butter and ice rooms worth $3,000, and that his plant when the deprecation occurred was worth $100,000. Mrs. Nation had a hatchet, and broke a lock on the west door. As the officers were taking her away to the patrol wagon she said she would come back and smash the walls in. Mrs. Nation cross-examined the witness.

"Did you see me break in the door?" asked Mrs. Nation.

"Yes."

"What did I use?"

"You used a hatchet."

"Did you see me strike the first blow on the door?"

"Yes."

"What did I strike at?"

"The lock."

"How did I approach the door? What did I do?"

"I saw you use the hatchet."

"Well, everybody knows I use a hatchet; but how did he see me use it?"

"That's not material," said the judge.

She then asked the witness if he stored beer in his place. Objected to and objection sustained.

"Did you have a carload of beer carried away?" was the next question. The court ruled it out.

"But I'm a woman, judge, and you ought to let me ask what I want to," protested Mrs. Nation.

"You have no more rights than a man in this court," said Judge Hazen.

"The question whether he kept beer there or not is immaterial."

"Then it is immaterial whether I broke the door or not," was her reply.

Three Score in a Tomb.

The town of Cumberland, which lies across from Union bay, where all the Alaskan liners call to fill their coal bunkers, was shaken by a terrific explosion Friday morning. The explosion was at shaft No. 6, Union mines, owned by the Welling Colliery company. Sixty men were imprisoned in the mines. From the force of the explosion, which covered the ground in the vicinity of the head with a layer of crushed and broken mine timber, men of experience fear the worst. Little hope is expressed that any of the unfortunates imprisoned below will be brought out alive.

Woman Shot While in Hiding.

Everett S. Richards, an iron worker at Minneapolis, Minn., chased his wife, from whom he had separated, from the rooms of a dancing teacher into a closet near by and fired several bullets into her body. When the police arrived they found the woman had bled profusely. Mrs. Richards was removed to the hospital, where it is thought she will live. The husband was arrested.

Arrested as Cudahy Kidnaper.

James Callahan is a prisoner in the city jail at Omaha charged with complicity in the Cudahy kidnaping case. Eddie Cudahy, the victim, has identified Callahan as the man who accosted him on the street and represented himself to be the sheriff of Sarpy county, and as the man who guarded him while he was a prisoner in the Melrose Hill house.

Tennessee Mob Lynches Negro.

An open-air trial was held in the courthouse yard, Dyersburg, Tenn., at which Judge Lynch presided over a jury of twelve of the most prominent men in the town. This court, after "a fair hearing," adjudged Fred King, a young negro, guilty of attempting to criminally assault Miss Elise Arnold, and it was not long until his lifeless body was dangling from a limb made famous in this section because four other negroes have met their punishment there at the hands of enraged men.

Lynch Negro for Murders.

A negro, Thomas Jackson, was lynched at St. Peter, a station on the Texas & Pacific road about 220 miles above New Orleans, for a series of crimes. Sunday he visited the home of Alexander Bourgeois, the engineer of the draining machine on Belle Pointe plantation, some distance from the plantation quarters, going there on a railway tricycle. He told Bourgeois the manager wanted him and the engineer mounted the tricycle with the negro. A little further on Jackson stabbed the engineer in the back and threw the body into a ditch.

Shoots Her Father Twice.

Bessie Slater, a pretty 15-year-old girl, at Fort Wayne, Ind., twice shot and fatally wounded her father, Isaac Slater, at their home tonight. Slater is addicted to drink, and when in liquor he frequently threatened to kill his wife. The wife is ill and feeble. Slater quarreled with his wife, knocked her down and choked her. Slater is in a critical condition at Hope hospital, and probably will not survive. Mrs. Slater, who is also badly hurt, is in an adjoining room. Bessie was placed under arrest, but almost immediately released.

Death Blow to Boxing.

There was no prize fight between Jeffries and Ruhlin at Saengerfest hall Friday night. Everything was settled for the pugilists and the Saengerfest Athletic association. The threatened invasion of troops at the order of Governor Nash was made unnecessary by the decision of Judge Hollister in the trial for an injunction. The court granted a permanent injunction, and the contest of months between the state and the fight promoters is thus ended.

Mother and Child Perish.

Near Circleville, Ohio, Mrs. John H. Roop and her 8-year-old daughter Della, were burned to death at their home in Wayne township. The child was playing about a fire and her clothing ignited. The mother attempted to extinguish the flames and her own clothing took fire. A little son ran to give the alarm to the father, but by the time the latter arrived both had been fatally burned. Mrs. Roop was 35 years old and the mother of five children.

Held Up by Two Bandits.

John Fitzgerald, an employe of the Knickerbocker Ice company, was held up by two highwaymen and robbed of $27 at Clark and Harrison streets, Chicago. The men carried clubs, which they threatened to use if their victim made any resistance or made an outcry. Fitzgerald reported the robbery to the police of the Harrison street station, which is within a stone's throw of the place where the robbery occurred.

Folding Bed Claims Victim.

James Stewart, a retired lumberman, aged 60 years, is the latest victim of the folding bed. He was killed at his home in Minneapolis. The supports of the bed did not rest squarely upon the floor, and in some way the heavy top of the bed fell, the edge striking Stewart and severing his spine at the sixth cervical vertebrae. Mrs. Stewart narrowly escaped meeting the same fate as her husband, the edge of the top striking her across the shoulders.

Cyclist Collides with King.

According to the Copenhagen correspondent of the London Mail, while King Christian and Prince Waldemar were promenading a bicyclist collided with the king, whose leg was slightly bruised and whose clothing was soiled with mud. The bicyclist, ignorant of the identity of the king, spoke rudely, and Prince Waldemar seized him and handed him over to the police. King Christian, however, ordered that he be released.

Liabilities Double Assets.

The Genesee National Savings and Loan association, with offices in Rochester, N. Y., has gone into the hands of a receiver. The liabilities, which are about $200,000, are more than double the assets. The receivership was established upon a petition of State Superintendent of Banks Kilburn and John H. Bosworth, who is the treasurer of the association, was named as receiver, giving bonds at $30,000.

Murders His Stepdaughter.

Hall Frampton, a colored man, quarreled with his wife at Nebraska City, Neb., and attempted to kill her. His stepdaughter, aged 15, took the part of her mother, when Frampton turned on her, sized a shotgun, chased her a block, shot her in the head, and then beat her brains out with the stock of the weapon. Frampton is in jail, with a strong guard, as there is talk of lynching.

Laborers Held as Slaves.

A labor contract system, which is virtually a system of slavery, has been in existence for some time in Anderson county, South Carolina. During the session of court testimony in a murder trial brought the facts to light and Judge Bennett immediately ordered a full investigation by the grand jury, the report to be made to a special term next month.

Killed by Smashers.

Mrs. Rosa Hudson was killed and two farmers wounded during a raid by twenty masked farmers on a saloon run by John Hudson at Millwood, Kan., fourteen miles north of Leavensworth. The woman killed was the wife of the bartender.

Kills Foreman with Gas Pipe.

Frank Giltner, night foreman of the tinplate mills at Middletown, was struck on the head with a gaspipe by Vincent Gynn. Giltner died from the injuries in three hours.

It has been placed in a room ninety feet long and thirty feet wide, and is raised on trestles three feet high.

A Question of Partisanship.

Major General O'Grady Haly of London, who went to Canada a few months ago to assume command of the Canadian militia, has come to loggerheads with a portion of the people of the Dominion. The general was asked to lend a military band for a political meeting in Quebec, but declined on the ground that the meeting was of a partisan character. In consequence the press of the party he offended has made a vigorous attack upon him.

Usefulness of Megaphones.

Megaphones are by no means a "foolish" instrument. They are, in fact, capable of great practical use, and will doubtless be so recognized in the near future. On the water, shore or in any open country where there are no obstructions and no local sounds to interfere, one may talk through a megaphone and be distinctly heard for over a mile, while a loud call can be heard through this instrument for at least two miles.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

Physicians recommend KEMP'S BALSAM for patients afflicted with the grippe, as it is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms, but get a bottle today and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected, the grippe brings on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists, 25c and 50c.

"Man is as old as he feels, and Woman as old as she looks."

DR. GREENE'S NERVURA

Makes Health and Beauty for Women.

Remember! Not Age, but Disease, Weakness and Ill Health Make Women Look Old!

You cannot look your best unless you feel your best—that is, unless you feel well, strong, vigorous, with pure blood, strong and steady nerves. If you have no appetite, poor digestion, are bilious and constipated, your skin will be dark, sallow, pimply, with unhealthy pallor. If you are sleepless, nervous, irritable, despondent, with nerves all on edge, feel as if you could fly, and are startled at every sound,—these nervous troubles will certainly fine your face with wrinkles like age, make you look haggard, hollow-eyed, take the lustre from your eyes and the elastic spring from your step. If you suffer from female troubles, the dragging pain, the aching head, the tired limbs, the utter weakness, prostration and misery will turn youth to old age unless cured at once.

Beauty Means Good Health, and Good Health Always Means Beauty for Women.

A resolution was introduced in the legislature, Tuesday, asking that body to authorize an investigation of Zion bank, Dowie's institution. The resolution received the support of every member of the house with the exception of Representatives Lyon of Waukegan and Osgood of Winnetka, and Speaker Sherman appointed a committee with full power to act. Representatives Lyon and Osgood objected because they claimed the action of the house illegal, and not because they approved of Dowie or his methods. Their opinion is shared by the attorney general and leading lawyers of the state, who claim the private affairs of no individual can be investigated by a legislative committee and that the action of the house is unconstitutional. The committee propose to proceed until stopped by the courts and that will be when the committee make a demand for the books of the faith healer's financial institution. Representatives Lyon and Osgood are now credited with a knowledge of what is and what is not constitutional in this state.

FOURTH ANNUAL MASQUE.

B. S. & A. C. with Their Friends Make Merry.

It was the event of the season; pleased everybody who participated and the management, who had worked diligently to make it a success. There was only one draw-back about it and that was the fact that another party, having for its entertainment the same program and Barrington is not large enough for two masquerade balls on the same night.

However, Stott's hall was filled with a merry crowd of people in mask and a large number of spectators when O'Connor's orchestra of Chicago played the first strains of the "Blue Danube" waltz. The number of characters represented was in excess of the previous year and the costumes were many of them elaborate.

The typical dude "coon" was there, as was Mother Goose, the flower girl, representations of Uncle Sam's cavalry, infantry and navy, the German immigrant and the gentleman from the boys of County Clare; the belle of society, just of the noble red men; the Monks, ladies in white, black, green, red and every other shade of costume, and the old ladies who sell ginger bread and clothes pins. To give a list of the costumes and those who wore them would be a difficult task, as many changes were made before the time of unmasking was called. The judges awarded the prize for the most elaborately dressed lady to Miss Welch, who wore a costume of seal brown, with cape of same material, trimmed with quantities of bullion fringe and bangles to represent dollars, half-dollars, quarters and dimes. The prize was a beautiful hand mirror. To the most comical costume, the prize of a gentleman's toilet set encased in morocco, went to Messrs. Carl Ernst and Will Cannon, the old lady peddlers, whose make-up was immense.

The grand march was called at 11:30 and when masks were removed there were many surprises, and any number of "I told you so's."

Supper was served at Mrs. Bennett's from 12 to 2 and it was an enjoyable part of the program. The floor was managed by Mr. Phillip Hawley and assistants to the satisfaction of all. The music was just what was ordered and the whole affair was successful in every particular. Guests were present from Palatine, Cary, Langenheim, Chicago, Wauconda and Lake Zurich.

W. R. C. Visit Wauconda.

Saturday forenoon the Woman's Relief Corps indulged in another junket. This time they visited the corps at Wauconda, and, as one of the ladies informed us, "had an elegant time." The ladies departed from Barrington at 10:30 and arrived at Wauconda at 2 o'clock. They were welcomed at the G. A. R. post by a large assemblage of Wauconda ladies and in an address by Rev. Dutton, of the M. E. church, given the freedom of the village.

A business meeting of the corps was held, after which a sumptuous dinner was served. Those attending from Barrington were:

Mesdames— John Robertson J. B. Bennett Laura Hawley H. J. Lageschulte Delos Church T. F. Wooding John Page C. Wool Miss Esther Elvidge	M. A. Bennett, George Lytle, Gertrude Schwemm, C. B. Otis, E. M. Fletcher, Elysa Prouty, — Gray, George Foreman.
Messrs— J. B. Bennett C. P. Hawley	L. E. Runyan.

The party returned home at 7 p. m. having only words of praise for Wauconda and the hospitable people.

Early Life Molds the Man.

Rev. Frank C. Bruner, pastor of the Second M. E. church, Englewood, delivered the following discourse last Sunday, which is another example of "modern methods in preaching the gospel." We print a portion of the discourse because it contains excellent advice to the boy whose character is shaped by the actions of early life: "A boy is denominated a small thing. But the little incidents in his life have an evolution into human life that is deathless. The thoughtless forget that out of small things comes the march of greatness. The boy is destined to be the man sun-crowned in the heights. It was only a small pot of oil of a poor woman, but it multiplied until it paid a large debt. What of a handful of meal of a poor widow woman? It grew so under the hand of divine plenty that it fed several persons for months. What about the small flake of snow that continues to augment in the mountain tops until they slip down and crush the village in an instant in the vale below? That boy feeding a few sheep in the wilderness shook the then known world with his power, with a heart after God's own heart. What of that stripling of seven summers playing yonder under the old oak in front of the cabin where he was born in Kentucky, finally the incomparable Lincoln, whose mighty heart has moved all liberty-loving nations? "Only boys—but the evolution like that of the lad in the gospel, linked to the divinity—has moved millions of millions of persons into the fragrant land of the golden rule: 'As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them.' The field of this boy must be recognized if he is properly cared for. He is here. What are you going to do with him? He dies just like others. As a tree falleth so it lieth. He has an influence obvious to the Almighty. He is God's favorite; he is a kingdom boy. How the man of Galilee looks with interest when his attention is called to the boy with cheek of tan who is to feed the multitude. That boy will either wave a palm or rattle a chain. It is for you to say which."

Maennerchor Masquerade.

Members of the Barrington Maennerchor gave a masque ball for members only at Schaefer's hall on Friday evening and it was a great treat for all who attended, and there were many. The hall was full, the majority being in mask and the enjoyment started in a whirlwind at 9 o'clock and ended in a cyclone at daylight. The moving spirits of the occasion were Emil Schaefer and Fred Kirschner, who managed the floor and made it a point to see every one properly cared for. It is to be regretted that the hall would not accommodate a larger number, as many were the friends of the society, who would have delighted in assisting them in their evening of genuine fun.

Among the costumes noticeable were those of Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. Emil Schaefer, Mrs. Fred Kirschner, Henry Butzow and Ernst Schenning, upon which had been expended no little time and money in preparation.

Not only as a ball was the occasion made one to be remembered, but for the general sociability and extraordinary amount of old-fashioned enjoyment.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Of Interest to Parents and Pupils of Barrington School.

Miss Arps of Palatine visited the High School Friday afternoon.

The pupils of the school had a vacation on Friday in memory of Washington's birthday.

Miss Frye attended the teachers' meeting at Wilmette Monday, her pupils enjoying a holiday.

Messrs. Bright and Farr will give an entertainment for the benefit of the school, March 15.

The program which was to have been given yesterday by the High school was postponed on account of Washington's birthday.

Herbert Plagge visited the High school Friday.

Miss Jennie Fletcher was missed by her school mates last week, her absence being caused by duties to attend to at home.

We should judge that some of the pupils have learned all about telephoning from the attention they have bestowed upon the telephone men at work.

The physics class is much indebted to Alex. Boehmer for his kindness in lending them for their study and induction coil and a motor.

Gov. Yates on Prize Fighting.

Several fights have been scheduled to take place in the state the past two weeks and the governor has announced his policy relative to same in the following:

"All I have to say is that the law and the people of this state are against prize fighting, and the law will be enforced whenever I have the power to enforce it. I have not the power to prohibit by proclamation, but I have the power to stop any fight, for the statutes give me the power 'on application of any civil officer or otherwise' to call out all force necessary to execute the law whenever any body of men are about to break it."

"I have every confidence, however, that every Illinois sheriff will enforce the law without my interference. The law specifically makes prize fighting a felony and an exhibition of sparring and boxing a misdemeanor, the penitentiary being the punishment of the former and the jail and fine for the latter. I believe that when the public knows this as well as sheriffs now do there will be no attempt to incur these penalties."

For Highway Commissioner.

I desire to announce myself a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Highways of the town of Cuba, subject to the decision of the caucus to be held Saturday, March 16.

J. F. HOLLISTER.

For Assessor.

I am a candidate for reelection to the office of Assessor in the town of Cuba, subject to the decision of the voters of said town at the caucus to be held March 16.

FRED KIRSCHNER.

A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale by all Druggists at Barrington, and A. S. Olms, Palatine. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box.

PIONEER AT REST.

Mrs. Wm. H. Otis of Chicago Passes Into Her Eternal Home.

Not dead, but our sister has just spent three weeks in heaven. The subject of this sketch when she came into this world was known as Rhoda L. Streetor. The Streetors were all lusty New Englanders, reverent and devoted as was always manifested in their faithful connection with the Baptist cause.

The family living in the village of Gouverneur, N. Y., consisted of three sisters, one brother and Miss Rhoda, who was born May 17th, 1837. In 1853 Mrs. Streetor, Miss Rhoda and her only surviving sister, Mrs. Dally, with her family, came West and settled at Elk Grove, Ill. Here the family remained for about one year and thence moved to Palatine, near Plum Grove; after a stay of about nine months the family again moved, this time to Dundee.

While at Dundee Miss Rhoda met Wm. H. Otis, whom she married July 19, 1857, and the same year with her mother moved on a farm in Barrington Center. In 1860 her mother died. During her thirty years residence at Barrington Center her life was perhaps uneventful for the most part, yet, we venture, by no means an idle one. There are some callings in life where we never find all our work done; such is life on the farm. To wonder over the broad acreage and well kept Otis homestead shows us that no idle hands could have lived there; business and busy-ness on the part of the men must also be shared by the mistress. Life on the farm is certainly active, yet it affords retreat and rest for the weary.

In the solitude and silence of nature one gets time to listen to other sounds than that of the city's rumble and growl. In this heaven of noiseless growth I think Mrs. Otis must have been laying up treasures of characters which she is now realizing in that heaven above. Her years here were not always to be uninterrupted, for June 3, 1879, Wm. H. Otis, husband and father, was taken from the home, leaving her to walk in the dark valley of widowhood for 22 years, but not alone. When Mrs. Otis stepped into her new home she became mistress of seven children, one daughter and six sons. We should omit one of our most important tributes if we did not say for the step-children that the new relation then formed was most happy; other circumstances could not have made each loved by the other to any larger degree. By the fault of cupid and other reasons the children became separated with the one exception of George, who, with his mother, made a home each for the other. In 1887 the two moved from the farm, Mrs. Otis spending some time in visiting and travel, while her son George was building a house. In 1889 mother and son moved to Elgin, whence after eight or nine months they went to Chicago.

As to her religious experience Mrs.

Otis, with her family, has always been a regular church attendant, in fact, so much so that it was generally believed she was a member. She always arranged and planned her work so she might be present at the Sunday school and church service. Before her reception to membership she was an active worker and did as much christian service as if she were more closely identified. Of a conscientious mind, she would not unite with a church until she felt herself ready and worthy. Accordingly, in the summer of 1896 she was baptized in Grace Baptist church of Chicago by Rev. W. C. McNaull. It is now two years since I have been her pastor; I wish it had been longer. She was a choice character, not simply to meet, but to know. There are some people who hang themselves all on the outside; some characters are more active and display more than others. Mrs. Otis was a quiet, unobtrusive woman; timid, less in any way she might seem to give offense. These quiet ones exert a might, though silent, influence in the world and in the home. I come to admire them more. Do you wonder that the large number of grandchildren and relatives came to her house as a home? The many pleasant remembrances which these were able to recall and the large love they had for her is unexampled. We grieve over her short illness which led to her sudden death. From about the first of November she had been feeling poorly; one or two severe weakenings caused our hearts to fear. We were not quite ready when the first of February, her heavenly birthday, came. We are never ready to let them go.

February 4 she was laid beneath the sod but a short distance from the farm. There she is at rest. To those who know her christian life, I know you will prize her God the more because of her example and faith. To those in the home and of the relatives we expect more because of her.

Her pastor,
C. H. SNASHALL.

Should a Man be Vain?

Certainly he should. He should have ambition to look well and feel good, which he cannot do unless he digests his food. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin aids digestion, clears the head, keeps the bowels regular and makes a man feel at peace with the whole world. Chas. E. Churchill.
