PALATINE LOCALS

Gathered and Compiled by A. G. Smith, Local Editor.

Handleman's sale Friday. See posters.

Village board meeting next Monday night.

Eric Brown of Evanston visited here Sunday.

Richard Taylor has been confined to the house all week.

F. W. Karstens has opened up his fruit and candy store.

Ralph Beutler is improving, but is still confined to the house.

Miss Annie Olcott of Chicago visited Palatine friends Friday.

Arthur Knigge has been absent from school on account of sickness.

A new Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine for sale at this office.

Lecture in Methodist church on March 19. Watch for dodgers.

Miss Libbie Hutchinson attended a party in Chicago Friday night.

Mrs. Harris of Arlington Heights visited at Ernest Beutler's Sunday.

Mrs. Will Dahms and baby of Chicago visited her parents here Sunday.

Mrs. George Grigg's daughter returned to her home in Chicago Monday.

Mrs. Ray Gibbs of Arlington Heights was calling on Palatine relatives this week.

Ladies and gentlemen's shoes repaired in first-class manner by Wm. Vogel.

Orion Williams of Englewood visited his aunt, Mrs. H. P. Williams, Sunday.

Clarence Sizer, wife and baby of Barrington visited C. H. Keyes and wife Sunday.

A sleigh load of Barrington young people came to Palatine last Saturday afternoon.

Misses Lela Catlow and Jennie Wadhams of Evanston visited Palatine relatives Saturday.

George Kuebler sprained his wrist last week and has been unable to handle the razor since.

John Hirn will hold a sale of cattle and a few farm implements on his farm next Saturday.

The drama given here by the Woodmen will be presented in Long Grove next Saturday night.

Horses clipped with flexible machine by R. H. Lytle at his barn in Palatine. Several years experience.

J. Handleman will sell his household goods at public auction next Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Holmes next Wednesday afternoon.

Charles Patten returned from the South Tuesday. He was quite sick with quinsy during his visit.

Get your horses clipped by Nichols & Bennett. Flexible shaft clippers. All work neatly and promptly done.

W. H. Brockway is no longer operator at the station here and has been called to Chicago for an appointment.

No "scissor-junctums" or "mussings" in THE REVIEW. We print our own news and don't bore our readers with would-be poetry.

Erford Alverson has been dangerously ill the past week with inflammation of the bowels, but is getting along nicely at present.

Rotha J, the fast pacer sold by Mr. Boyle to Alderman Fowler recently, was sold in Chicago last week for a trifle over $2,000.

John Bergmann has been busy of late making maps of the village, which will be marked to show the sewer and water works systems.

Willie Vehe worked for A. G. Smith in the printing office Tuesday. Chicago and Arlington Heights, with the local work, has kept the office busy.

James Moorhouse's house, barn and sheds on his farm west of town burned to the ground Monday. The origin of the fire is unknown. The house was unoccupied.

The drama given here last week by the M. W. A. may be given in Long Grove soon, as those who took part are contemplating giving the drama at some near by town soon.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will hold its annual thank offering meeting in the M. E. church on Tuesday evening, March 5th. A program will be given by the society. All are invited.

Prof. O. Bright, county superintendent of schools, says some ex-teachers don't know enough to drive mules. We have observed that some even try to drive men.

The pupils of the High school attended the funeral services of Miss Meade at Arlington Heights Saturday of last week and a beautiful flower tribute was given by them.

The entertainment in Plum Grove school house proved an interesting affair. The school house was well filled and a number from Palatine were present. The affair does credit to the teacher, Frank Bicknese.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of collector for the town of Palatine and ask the support of my friends at the republican caucus to be held next month.

CONRAD H. SCHROEDER.

The effort to get city water on Chicago avenue in the east end of town has been dropped as there were not enough signers to carry the project through. Mr. Putnam will run a private pipe for use in his new house.

E. J. Meyer was in town Saturday trying to negotiate a loan to tide over the run on his bank which failed on Monday. Mr. Meyer was village treasurer and had $8,000 of village funds in the bank. His bonds were for only $6,000.

The Passion Play of Oberammergan, which has been world renowned for 200 years, will be nicely reproduced by moving pictures at St. Paul's church Monday and Tuesday nights, March 4 and 5, at 8 o'clock. The young people's society will apply proceeds towards renovating the church. Miss Julia Young, soloist, of Cincinnati will sing. Come and pack the house.

J. C. HOFFMEISTER.

Royal Arch Masons Banquet. Palatine chapter, No. 206, R. A. M., conferred the Royal Arch degree on Dr. Best and Henry Lorenzen of Arlington Heights and Henry W. Harmoning on Tuesday afternoon. After the work was finished the members and their ladies, to the number of forty-eight, sat down to a sumptuous supper, which was served by Mrs. Henry Bergmann in the lower masonic hall. The tables were nicely arranged and a button-hole bouquet placed at each plate. The supper was nicely served and all did justice to the occasion.

After supper the company repaired to the lodge room where all were most highly entertained. Carpet bowling and cards were enjoyed and the ladies vied with the men for honors. About half of those present were from Arlington Heights and Barrington. Those present state that it was one of the most social events they had ever attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Entertain. Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Baldwin entertained a party of friends at their home north-west of the village last Saturday night and a very good time was had by all present. The party went in a sleigh and they were ready to enjoy themselves after the "pleasures" of the humpy road. Miss Eloda Baldwin and sister, Mrs. Heise, entertained the guests with a number of duets. Those present were: Mrs. H. C. Matthei, Mrs. W. L. Smyser, Mrs. R. Esterbrooks, Miss Emily Snider, Sim Snider, Miss Ava Lee Hopkins, Messrs. and Mesdames Henry Heise, C. E. Julian, D. J. Holmes, G. D. Stroker, G. H. Arps and G. H. Andermann.

Dowie Scores the Legislators. John Alexander Dowie has for the moment let up on his abuse of the newspapers and the men who conduct them, and is paying his respects to the members of the legislature. In one of his spasms he gave utterance to the following: "They are thugs and murderers. I returned from the city of Springfield in the same railway coach with a number of legislators, and they are nothing more nor less than a band of thugs and murderers. One man, whose breath smelt of whiskey, announced that he would like to hang me and another replied that he would rather nail me to the wall. These are the same kind of men who crucified our Christ. We will show in court that the legislature is not so anxious to protect depositors of Zion, but is far more desirous of murdering me—your leader! Springfield, because of the gathering there of the legislature, is a sink of corruption and vice. Young men go down to that place and return moral wrecks. I say it and I can prove it, that hundreds of low women go there every time the legislature convenes. If I get before the bar of the Illinois legislature I can preach them a sermon they will remember."

IN POLITICAL CIRCLES

Numerous Candidates Groomed For Warm Race at the Primaries.

Hardly have the voters recovered from the excitement of the national and state elections when the machinery is again set in motion to attract their attention to the contest for village and township officers. If one is to judge from the opinions expressed and the number of candidates mentioned for the several positions, there will be a hot time at the primaries March 16. And if all we hear, or even a portion of it is true, there will be a hot time anyway, because someone will be forgotten at the caucuses and his desire to feed at the public pie counter must be satisfied. He will be in the race as an independent.

There is one great fact that the majority of electors overlook and that is that the primary is the place to file objections to a candidate. As a general rule the caucus attracts but few voters. Those present, as is their duty, choose the nominees. Those who remain away howl and kick at the selection. There is no valid excuse for a man to grumble about the nominee for an office or the way town or village government is administered, when he will not take interest enough in such affairs to even attend the primary and register his choice. It is the duty of every taxpayer to attend to this important matter when the opportunity is offered or forever after hold his peace.

There will be a lively scramble for a number of the offices this spring and the campaign will prove of unusual interest, therefore the primaries to be held Saturday, March 16, should be largely attended. There are a number of Barkis who are willing—good, substantial timber to select from—so but little trouble is anticipated in securing a set of officials who will wisely, economically and justly administer public affairs, and right here THE REVIEW wishes to state that the village of Barrington and townships of Cuba and Barrington are to be congratulated on being free from the maladministration of affairs that has prevailed in many of the towns and villages of this section of the state. In our village and township party lines are wiped out and the voters, as is their duty, select the men best fitted for the positions—that is they have an opportunity to do so by attending the primaries, for the candidate who secures the endorsement of the citizens' or union caucus is generally the winner.

Go to the primaries March 16.

The Reporter's Specials.

We note with unfeigned delight that our brother news gatherer of the newsy and valued contemporary, the Palatine Enterprise-Register, is devoting considerable space to original poetry. Nothing like publishing an original poem once and awhile it interests the fraternity and pleases the author. Being the subject of that ten verse effusion we are happy in the knowledge of having amused our collaborer in the noble profession.

"How charming and beautiful the Easter cards are this year. Did you notice them while in the city the other day?" asked a young Barringtonian of the lady to whom he was making talk. "Yes, indeed, they are most elegant; but there are some things I would prize more than Easter cards." "Yes, I presume so. If I should offer—to—" "Now—really—I—to be frank with you, I don't know what Pa and Ma would think about an offer just now. You know how very much they need me at home—" "But—" "No, don't say anymore relative to the matter just now," and she blushed prettily. He was merely going to offer to take her to a Chicago theater to see Maude Adams. A man cannot be too careful or guarded in his conversation.

A lady engaged in teaching a school south of Barrington, came to the village Washington's birthday just for a brief respite from the monotony of her farm house boarding place. She remarked to a lady whom she met here, "I was so overcome by ennui that I just could not stand it another hour, so I started out and came to town." "Good gracious!" exclaimed the lady, "it does beat all how much sickness there is around here this winter, and so many new diseases too. What's the nature of that ailment they got out there? Anything like the grip?" "I don't believe there's any of the ennui here in Barrington." This reminds us of "Dad" Warner. Last summer a lady from Chicago came out to this section in search of recreation and rest. She had been told that this vicinity was the ideal spot for health and comfort. That was true. She stopped at the Warner House, and about the first question she asked "Dad" was whether they had any malaria around here. "We haven't any in the house," said "Dad" "but I can find it for you," and in about ten minutes "Dad" presented himself and two quarts of the stuff that made Milwaukee famous, at the parlor door.

Of course half the number who read this will say "that's not true," and the other half will say "it's just like some women." Dear reader, the story is a naked, unvarnished narrative of happenings in the nursery of a Barrington home. A young mother living on the Cook county side of the village is the owner of a cherub about five months old. It is her first child and she proposed to take charge of it in her own way. She had but little experience in caring for cherubs. The other day the cherub's Grandma appeared on the scene just as baby was to be given a bath in a small foot tub. Grandma dipped her fingers in the water and doted the little angel would surely catch its death of gold in such a frigid bath. The supply of warm water on hand was not sufficient for the demand, so Mamma hit on a novel plan. She would place the tub over a small oil stove located beneath and old, worn cane seated chair. Soon the water was of the right temperature and baby proceeded to a bath, but the wise Mamma neglected to remove the oil stove. The bottom of the tub got warm; so did certain parts of the baby there was a yell. Grandma grabbed the cherub, placed a handful of flour where it would do the most good, and the mother, after a fit of hysterics, dressed baby and read a chapter in a work entitled "How to Care for Baby" by a woman of experience.

We republish this item from the Chicago Journal which paper credits it to the Clay Center (Kas.) Times. It is as true in Illinois as it is in Kansas. "Editing this paper is a nice thing. If we publish jokes people say we are rattle-brained. If we don't we are an old fossil. If we publish original matter they say we don't give them enough selections. If we give them selections they say we are too lazy to write. If we don't go to church we are heatless. If we do then we are a hypocrite. If we remain in the office we ought to go out and hustle for the local news. If we go out then we are not attending to business. If we wear old clothes they laugh at us. If we wear good clothes they say we have a pull. Now what are we to do?"

Curbstone Musings.

Barrington has within its confines an anti-treating club. Every member is obligated to purchase his own soda water, cigars, etc. Violation of the obligation subjects the member to a fine. It's a sight to see the members practice self denial rather than appear puerous. It is a good rule and encourages sobriety and thrift.

A lady in speaking of a neighbor's baby the other day, said "it is a well spring of pleasure," to which a crusty old bachelor replied, "yes, and if they had another one they'd have a regular deluge."

There is a pointed paragraph which says "you can't always judge a man by the cigars he gives to his friends." We hope that is true for the sake of some of our friends who are prowling about in search of public office this spring.

Barrington is promised many new things in the near future if dame rumor is correct and listeners to the grape vine telegraph sounder hear rightly. A millinery store, two or more weddings, a shake up in village and township officers and a lodge of Good Templars. Verily the days of prosperity will soon dawn upon us.

A new fad which the women have adopted, says the Chicago Tribune, is hornet's nests woven about gaunt branches for household decorations. They will probably continue the rage until the hornets are thawed out.

It takes some men a long time to find some things out. It was at the club masquerade the other evening. A gentleman came to one of the floor committee and said: "There is the finest representative of femininity on this floor," pointing out a dainty little piece of humanity in mask, who was flitting about in the two step. "I'll bet she's a peach and not a Barrington peach either. Keep your eye on that costume. I ain't no good remembering costumes. I'd like to know the identity of a woman who makes an appearance like that." After masks were doffed the floor manager sought the inquisitive gentleman and pointed out the object he longed to see. She was the lady who has been his wife for 17 years.

PERISH AT GOLDEN GATE.

Big Vessel Sinks and 128 Persons Drown.

CONSUL WILDMAN IS LOST.

The Steamship City of Rio de Janeiro Strikes Upon Mile Rock in a Fog, Backs Off and Settles Down—Struggle for Life Boats.

The Pacific Mail company's steamship City of Rio de Janeiro, while entering the San Francisco harbor from the orient during a heavy fog Friday morning, struck a sunken rock and went down in about fifteen minutes in thirty fathoms of water off Fort Point.

A revised list of the dead shows that 128 persons were lost. Capt. William Ward, the ship's master, and an old employee of the Pacific Mail Company, went down with his ship. There were 201 persons on board the ill-fated ship.

Vessel Strikes a Rock.

The City of Rio de Janeiro was on her way in from the oriental ports via Honolulu with a valuable cargo. It sailed from Hongkong Jan. 22 for San Francisco via Yokohama. Quartermaster Frederick Lindstrom gave the clearest idea of the striking of the craft and let it be known that the mass of rock with which the iron prow came in contact was Mile rock, against which a pretty stiff current was setting. The rock is in a line off Fort Point with Point Lobos, and two-thirds of a mile from the San Francisco shore. His explanation was that the vessel struck head on, crushed in her bows and filled immediately. Instantly the decks were crowded with the passengers and crew and the Chinese steerage passengers rushed up from below and tried to crowd into the boats. The members of the crew, headed by Capt. Ward and his assistants, kept the Chinese and the white men off while the boats were being lowered. By this time the ship had backed off and was settling down by the head.

Struggle to Reach the Boats.

A number of women were hurried into the lifeboats, but as the ship was going down fast confusion got the better of heads that were not cool, and there was a struggle to get into the smaller craft. Some of the Chinese and male passengers on the afterdeck jumped overboard. No one can say just how many took to the water, but it is reckoned that about forty went over the side. The fog kept settling down on the bay and it became difficult to see a ship's length abaft the bows.

Rounseville Wildman, United States consul-general to Hongkong, his wife and two children, were among those who perished in the wreck.

Ship Sinks Quickly.

It was all over in ten minutes. In ten minutes after the Rio Janeiro struck on Fort Point reef, in sight of land had the mushy fog permitted, she had filled, settled and sunk, and more than half her passengers and crew remain unaccounted for.

In the tale of dead and living, in the dark hour that comes before the dawn, sleeping men and women were rudely, violently summoned to meet their Maker on the instant and without warning.

The women were calm. It may be they did not realize the imminence of the danger, or it may be that in moments of strong emotion women have more control of themselves than men; but it is true that not until the final moment, when the ship broke her back and sunk with a roar of escaping steam, were the voices of women and children raised in lamentations or fright.

Some were drowned sleeping in their beds, many were carried under in the devouring suction of the whirlpool and never rose again, and many driving about in the black and blinding fog went down from exhaustion in the waters before help came.

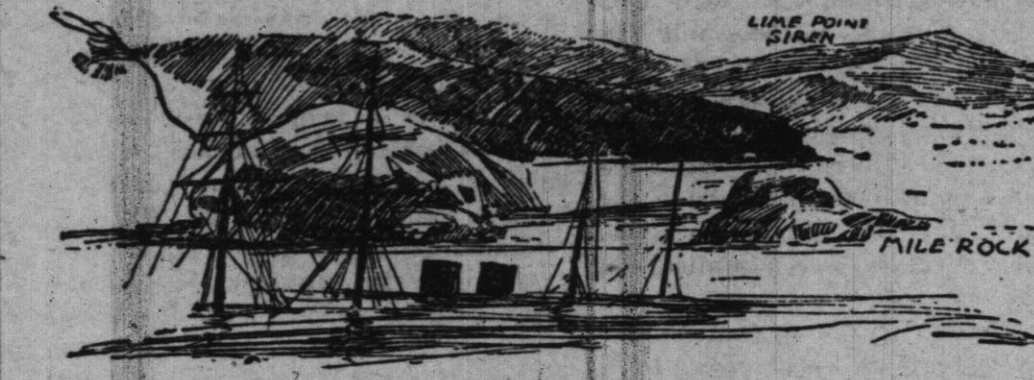

It is told how men in the boats could hear the screams of swimmers in their agony, but could not reach them before they sank forever, drowned in the dark like rats in a hole.

It was save yourselves who can on an ebb tide running out at sea like a mill race, and this may serve to account for the fact that only three or four women are among the survivors.

The children all perished. Many were carried out to sea floating on spars, wreckage or rafts, and were never heard of again.

Only two of the ship's boats ever reached the shore. One of these, by hard rowing, carried nine persons to Meigs' Wharf. The other two boats either were never launched or were wrecked by the plunging ship before they got clear.

Roused from sleep in their cabin as the first gray of daylight stole into the enshrouding fog, Rounseville Wildman and his wife and children had but a few minutes of struggling before they went down to death. The story about the drowning of the Wildmans was told by Pilot Fred Jordan and Phillip Nussenblatt, a steerage passenger.

The Wildmans had begun dressing when Captain Ward hurried along routing passengers out of cabins, for they ran out half clad in response to the alarm. They followed the captain aft in a general rush of the passengers, as the bows were well down in the water. All lights on the ship had gone out, but in the misty twilight persons could be distinguished a few feet away.

Captain Ward led the Wildmans and others to a gangway that had been dropped over the side. A boat already lowered had struck bow or stern first and filled with water, but the air-tight compartments kept it afloat. It was manned by the Chinese sailors.

"Where are your bailing buckets?" shouted Captain Ward.

Two or three passengers had at that time clambered down into the boat sitting in water that was up to their waists. Pilot Jordan stood at the head of the gangway, hurrying the passengers down over the ship's side.

"Get in, get in," he shouted to Mrs. Wildman, as the consul's wife hesitated at the gangway.

Mother Cries for Her Boy.

"I want my boy," answered the excited woman. Her eight-year-old son, Rounseville Wildman, Jr., was a few feet behind her, and Jordan picked him up. Consul Wildman was close to the pilot, carrying Dorothy, two years old.

"We'll follow you," shouted Jordan. "The boy's all right."

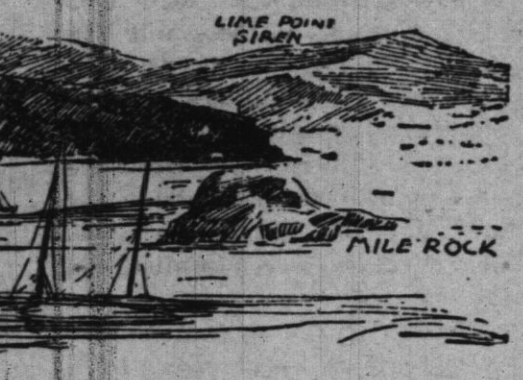

Mrs. Wildman started down the gangway, the others following closely. She got to the fourth step, and the survivors can tell no more of the Wildman family.

"The decks were split and forced up just as though there had been a great explosion," is Nussenblatt's story. "The boats plunged down and stern heaved upward, the ship surged over on the side toward the small boat and we all went down into the sea. I hardly know what happened except that I had the sensation of being carried a long way down under the water, and when I found I was going upward again I thought I could not survive to reach the surface. But I finally got to air and found a plank, on which I floated until I was picked up, an hour and three quarters later."

Nussenblatt saw nothing of the Wildmans after his return to the surface.

Risky Investment in Coffee Raising.

With a great flourish of trumpets did the colonial circles announce a few years ago that capitalists at Hanover, Hamburg and Berlin had decided to take up on a large scale the coffee culture in the Usambara district of German East Africa, a section which, it was asserted by experts, was particularly well adapted to such an enterprise. A cash capital of 1,000,000 marks ($238,000) was raised and 500,000 young coffee trees were planted. In 1899 the trees were to bear their first crop. However, not more than 10,000 marks ($2,380), or 1 per cent of the capital stock was realized. The following year the managers succeeded in getting 1 1/2 per cent, but these proceeds were not sufficient to meet more than one-fifth of the annual running expenses. At the recent meeting of the shareholders it was stated that the whole matter was to be regarded as a failure, and that coffee culture in the German East African colonies was not advisable, as the trees could not be made to produce more than a half-pound net. Nevertheless, the directors of the company succeeded in carrying a resolution calling for the issuance of bonds to continue experimenting, and, if possible, to save the money already invested.—Wolfgang Voltz, in Chicago Record.

The Mother Got Him.

"Joseph Kimmel, the Leavenworth boy of 19 who married a widow of 40 one day recently," says the Atchison Globe, "was formerly a Midland student. He was engaged to a young girl named Wolsperger, of Leavenworth, also an ex-Midland student, but her mother refused consent to the marriage, intimating that the boy could have her if he wanted. He transferred his affections from daughter to mother and they eloped to Kansas City, she from her children and he from his guardians, and were married."

Licorice Business Is Profitable.

In the southern Caucasus large tracts of land are covered by the licorice plant. A Scotch gentleman who visited this country from Constantinople had his attention drawn to this potential source of wealth, and erected a factory on the spot for the distillation of the licorice juice. The erection of similar factories quickly followed, so that now a large export trade is carried on in this product, and the peasantry of the district find a remunerative occupation in the gathering and sale of the root to these establishments.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Sure things are more or less uncertain. "Not guilty" isn't necessarily an innocent remark. Probably its many feet enable a gas ball to run up so rapidly. Make the best of your surroundings. The duck pond is an ocean to the tadpole. When looking for game it is useless to visit the bargain counters of humanity.

Contribution to "Conscience Fund."

The West Chester and Philadelphia Street Railroad company a few days ago received a contribution to its "conscience fund," accompanied by this letter: "Sir: Inclosed find a $2 bill to pay fare I did not pay in the '60s. To get right with God, Sir, are you right with God? Get ready for the judgment day—get ready, man; do you hear?" The president of the road intimates that the unknown writer must have a tough conscience, considering that it stood the wear and tear of wrongdoing for something like forty years.

REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS.

Kitz Gould of Chicago Prepares a Bill to Punish Wife Beaters and Wife Deserters with the Lash—Educational Commission Asked For.

Thursday, February 21.

Senator Mahoney of Chicago introduced a bill in the senate which is designed to put an end to most of the justice-shop evils in Chicago. The title of the bill sets forth its purposes, and reads as follows: "A bill for an act making any act done with willful intention of unduly annoying, harassing or oppressing any party or parties to any legal proceeding, a crime, and to prevent agreements with judicial officers as to their fees." The terms of the bill are designed to make criminal any collusion between justices of the peace and constables, and the crooked crowd which generally is found hanging around the justice shops in Cook county. Some of the bills introduced are as follows: By Senator Hunt—To make kidnapping a felony, punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary. By Mr. Lichtenberger—a bill making it unlawful for a corporation to engage in the practice of law. The bill makes it unlawful for any corporation to engage an attorney for services in a suit to which it is not a party, or to furnish directly or indirectly any money, advice, counsel, or legal services, or pay for the services of witnesses, doctors or experts, or to examine abstracts of title to real estate, or to give or furnish opinions of title to real estate except in cases in which the corporation has a direct interest. By Mr. Swigart—Providing for a uniform system of school textbooks. The bill provides that in counties where the act is adopted school textbooks shall be purchased by the directors of each school district and paid for out of the school fund, the amount so expended not to exceed $1.50 per annum for each pupil.

Friday, February 22.

The University of Illinois was inspected thoroughly by the legislators and all now think that a number of new buildings are needed. On the arrival of the legislators at the university grounds they were met by the corps of cadets and the regiment formed for review and inspection. After the review of the battalion the lawmakers, headed by President Draper, inspected each building. After all the buildings were inspected the body was collected in the main building and a convocation was held, all students and many town people attending. Interesting and encouraging speeches were made by the legislators. The inspection was then finished and the body of lawmakers, well pleased with the institution, departed at 2:30 o'clock.

Saturday, February 23.

The farmers and live stock raisers of Illinois are after the Chicago stockyards. They say they are getting weary of paying railroad and stockyard companies terminal charges in addition to the regular freight. They have framed up a bill against this practice, which will be introduced in the house by Representative William A. Rankin of Iroquois county, who is regarded as one of the most substantial farmers in that section of the state. The bill is different from the general run of bills aimed at stockyards because there seems to be no suspicion that there is anything of the sandbag character attached to it. In brief the bill provides that the charge for the entire service of receiving a car load of live stock and delivering it to any public stockyard in the state shall be included in the single item of freight rate, and this freight rate charge shall cover and be the only compensation which the railroads or other common carriers can charge, collect or receive for each and every expense or service connected with the transportation of the live stock from the shipping point to the stockyards.

Sunday, February 24.

Senator Putnam in the senate and Representative Montellus in the house introduced a bill which enlarges the power of railroad companies in respect to consolidation. The bill was introduced for the specific purpose of enabling the Pennsylvania company to acquire the Toledo, Peoria & Western railroad, which runs across the state from a point opposite Keokuk. It is part of the railroad's plan to use this road as a connection to make a direct line east and west with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. This would give a direct line between Burlington, Iowa, and Logansport, Ind. The Pennsylvania company now owns about 90 per cent of the stock of the Toledo, Peoria & Western road. Although the bill was introduced to enable the railroad mentioned to make the contemplated connection, its terms are so broad that any railroad or railroads could take advantage of them and effect consolidation. "Dr." John Alexander Dowle may claim credit for a bill which William Sullivan introduced to place private banks under the supervision of the state auditor. The bill was suggested by the recent legislative agitation against Dowle's bank.

NOTES OF THE SESSIONS.

Representative Wall introduced a bill providing that dray wagons in Chicago shall have tires not less than 4 1/2 inches in width.

The house on motion of Mr. Curtis adopted a resolution memorializing Congress to amend the federal constitution so as to make United States senators elected by the direct vote of the people.

Representative McCulloch of Peoria is pushing a bill allowing courts which commit girls to a training school to discharge the same at any time that it may appear proper.

President Templeton, of the Illinois Pan-American Exposition Commission, has appointed the following committees: Executive committee, Stanton, Brenton, Smyth, and Templeton; horticulture, Stanton and Davidson; agriculture, Brenton and Grier; manufactures, Brenton and Brundage; education, Smyth and Evans. The commissions will be assigned to an office in the south end of the state library in the state house until the time comes for them to be on duty in Buffalo, which will be some time in May.

Senator Campbell introduced a bill providing for municipal ownership of street railways, being the bill drawn by the Street Railway commission of Chicago and a copy of the bill introduced in the house by Mr. Mueller.

Senator Payne of Rock Island introduced a bill providing that insane criminals in the state reformatory may be sent to the hospital for the criminal insane at Chester.

Representative Kettering of Cook introduced a bill requiring life insurance companies to invest in securities with this state 50 per cent of their net reserve on all policies issued to residents of the state.

Method of Reducing Weight. The Banting method of reducing weight was invented and practiced by William Banting, an Englishman, about the year 1871. Before commencing his experiments his weight was 220 pounds, and his breath was short and his motions slow and laborious. For breakfast he took about five ounces of beef, mutton, broiled fish, or cold meat of any kind except pork; a large cup of tea, without milk or sugar; a small biscuit or one ounce of dry toast. His dinner consisted of five or six ounces of any fish except salmon, any meat except pork, any vegetable except potato, one ounce of dry toast, any kind of poultry or game, and two or three glasses of Madeira, sherry or claret—beer, porter or ale being forbidden. For tea, two or three ounces of fruit, one or two small biscuits and a cup of tea without milk or sugar. For supper, three or four ounces of meat or fish, similar to dinner, with a glass or two of claret. He breakfasted between eight and nine o'clock, dined between one and two, took tea between five and six, and supper at nine. Under this treatment he lost forty-six pounds in weight in a little more than a year.—New York Weekly.

A WISE DRUGGIST.

For $5.00 He Guarantees to Do That for Which a Lady Offers Him $100.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 25, 1901.—(Special.)—Some two years ago a local druggist engaged in a transaction which was in its details somewhat remarkable. He was visited by Miss Anna P. Nichols, who had a doctor's prescription for rheumatism, which the druggist was filling. In the course of conversation the good lady said: "I would give one hundred dollars to get well."

He immediately replied: "Give me five dollars and I will guarantee to cure you."

She agreed, and he at once handed her a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, saying: "They are 50c a box. Two boxes may cure you, but I am quite sure that ten will."

Miss Nichols tells the story as follows: "Dodd's Kidney Pills are veritable life preservers. I was troubled for five years with Rheumatism, so that at times my right arm seemed paralyzed and I could only walk with difficulty, and could not go out of doors if the air was damp or cold. I took so much medicine that I think my system was poisoned rather than helped. One day when my druggist was putting up a prescription for me I remarked to him that I would give one hundred dollars for a remedy that would make me better."

"Give me five dollars and I will guarantee to cure you," he said. I readily agreed and he handed me a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, saying, "They are 50c a box. Two boxes may cure you, but I am sure that ten will." I left my prescription intact and, instead, took these Pills, and I found them, as I said before, to be veritable life preservers. Before I had finished the second box I had my first perfect night's rest in years. I gradually improved. I had determined to use ten boxes before I would give up, but imagine my surprise to find that before half that quantity was used I was completely cured. This was two years ago, and I have not had a twinge since."

Miss Nichols is Vice Grand Baxter, Rebekah Lodge I. O. O. F., and is one of the best known and most highly respected ladies in Kansas City, and her experience will be read with interest by her many friends.

Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure Rheumatism. They are 50c a box, six boxes for $2.50. Buy them from your local dealer if you can. If he cannot supply you, send to the Dodds Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Latin Phrases.

The word "re," largely used in business letters as "re your communication," is a contraction for "in re," a Latin phrase composed of the preposition "in" and "re" the ablative case of the word "res," a thing. Freely translated, the phrase means "in the matter of." "Re" is used instead of "in re," simply for convenience, and custom has sanctioned its use. "Ultra vires" is also Latin. "Ultra" means beyond, while "vires" is the accusative plural of the word "vis," strength or power. The phrase "ultra vires" means beyond the power or right of. Thus if we say that some action is "ultra vires," a certain body, it is meant that the body has no right to act as it has done.

Wise is the man who can keep appearances up and expenses down.

CHAPTER IV—(Continued.)

And then Harold amazed them by the question:

"Is there a school at Easthill-on-Sea? I never heard of one."

Easthill-on-Sea was about two miles from Easthill proper, in the opposite direction from Dynevor Manor and the Uplands. Within the last few years some speculators had got possession of land there, and were trying hard to convert what had been a fishing hamlet into a watering-place. They had not succeeded well, and the present result was a kind of straggling, unfinished settlement, which was neither town nor village. The old inhabitants of Easthill rather made game of the new watering-place, which will account for Kitty's laugh.

"I really don't know, Harold; I hardly ever go to Easthill-on-Sea. There may be half a dozen schools; but I hope not, for their proprietors' sakes, for I can't imagine that any one would send children there."

"I think you're hard on the place," said Harold. "There's a very good beach and a splendid air. I suppose people are to be found who can do without niggers at the seaside."

"Ah, but they'd want decent roads and tolerable comfort," objected Kitty; "and you know when it rains Easthill-on-Sea is almost a swamp, because no one has made up the roads. Then they only bake every other day, and the butcher's shop opens twice a week. It would take a good deal to make up for such drawbacks."

"It is all so unfinished," said Mrs. Dynevor. "The roads are staked out, and imposing names painted on signboards, like 'Elm avenue,' and 'Sea View gardens,' but neither avenue nor gardens boast a single house, and the roads are not even divided from each other, except by a few posts."

"Why are you so suddenly interested in Easthill-on-Sea?" demanded Kitty. "You can't possibly have been asked to recommend any one school there?"

"Oh, no; but I came home from Marton by train, and a girl got out at our station who wanted to go to Easthill-on-Sea. She asked the porter the way to Mrs. Tanner's school. He questioned the ticket collector, and even the station master himself, but neither of them had ever heard of it. I couldn't help feeling sorry for her, she looked so tired and sad. It must be hard lines to come off a long journey and not find any one who can direct you to your destination."

"Poor thing!" said Kitty, and then the subject dropped. None of the three guessed the influence the lonely little traveler was to have on their lives. It never dawned on Kitty that the unknown girl who was bound for a school no one had ever heard of was to be her dearest friend.

CHAPTER V.

Nothing will describe the desolation which filled Beryl Lindon's heart when she stepped on to the platform at Easthill. She had left London filled with the one desire of escaping from her father and stepmother. Ever since she heard of the former's marriage her one end and object had been to get safely away from Elchester square. It was only when she had actually started, when Mrs. Markham's kindly face was lost to sight, that she realized she was going among strangers, that a new, untried life lay before her, with not one friendly voice to brighten it.

It was a long, tedious journey, and involved two changes. Easthill was on a branch line, at which only the slowest of trains descended to stop. She was very plainly dressed in black; but all her things had come from a West End shop, and there was an air of distinction about her not often seen in a lonely little third-class traveler.

She was eighteen, though she looked older—a very small, fairy-like creature, with soft, wavy brown hair, and big, lustrous blue-grey eyes. Her complexion was very fair, and had the faintest carnine tint.

She knew absolutely nothing of the country. Brighton, Brussels, where she had been at school, and the tall house in Elchester square had made up her world. To find herself at a little rustic station, with only a few cottages in sight, was almost alarming. And no one at the station had heard of Mrs. Tanner's school. That of itself was enough to discourage her.

"Don't you be afraid, miss," the station master said kindly. "If you wrote to the lady, and she had your letter, she must live here somewhere, and the postoffice is the best place to help you find her. You go straight along this lane till you come to a sign post, take the road marked 'Easthill-on-Sea,' and presently you'll see four or five shops. The postoffice is the first of the lot, and they'll put you right."

Beryl left her luggage to the porter's mercy and started. The lane seemed interminable. Perhaps in summer time it was pretty; but it was a late season, and the trees were hardly in bud. Their bare branches almost met in the middle of the lane, looking very like black, threatening hands uplifted against her—or Beryl thought so. She reached the sign post without meeting a single creature; but another half-mile brought her to the shops, and her heart gave a thrill of relief as she recognized the postoffice.

It was quite unlike any postoffice Beryl had ever seen, being a cottage with all business transacted in the front parlor; while the room on the opposite side appeared to be a baker's, one stale loaf and half a dozen stodgy-looking buns being arranged in the window.

"Can you tell me the way to Mrs. Tanner's school—Woodlands, the house is called?" asked Beryl anxiously.

The young woman behind the counter was better informed than the railway people, for she answered without any hesitation:

"It's the last house on the front. The name's not up; but you can't be mistaken because there are no more houses."

This was conclusive; but Beryl felt positively sinking from weakness and fatigue. She looked at the loaf of bread and buns, and finally asked the dame in charge if she could have some refreshment—"a cup of tea or something."

"The fire's out, I expect. You can have a glass of milk and a plate of bread and butter, if you like."

The fare was plain, but it revived the traveler. The attendant gave her plenty of local information while she ate and drank. Mrs. Tanner had not been at Easthill-on-Sea long. There wasn't much opening for a school; there were very few residents, and naturally visitors didn't want to send their children to school when they came down in the summer.

"You do look tired!" she concluded. "But it's not much further now. The end of this street leads to the front, and Mrs. Tanner's is the last house on the right."

Beryl found the house easily; but her heart sank as she looked at it. It was so new, that at the back the piece of waste ground called a garden was not yet fenced off, and the front railings had not yet been fenced off. Woodlands looked as though it had been built elsewhere, brought to Easthill on a trolley, and just popped down on the first vacant space. The wind howled round it, and the waves which dashed over the shingle seemed to laugh derisively at it, and even to poor Beryl the huge board over the front windows—"Ladies' School"—seemed grotesque in such a place.

She rang the bell. It was so stiff her fingers could hardly move it, and when at last it rang it made such a noise she decided Mrs. Tanner would think her new teacher very impatient. There was not the least sound of movement in the house, and Beryl was actually contemplating a second ring when the door was flung suddenly open, and a very small servant in a very big white apron stood regarding her curiously.

"Is Mrs. Tanner at home? I think she is expecting me. I am the new governess."

"You're to come this way," said the child—she really was very little more. And Beryl followed her across a good-sized hall to a small sitting-room at the back, the door of which her guide opened encouragingly.

"You go straight in," she commanded. It was a very small room, and rather sparsely furnished; but what Beryl saw first was a tall, slight woman in widow's weeds, who came forward to meet her with such a frightened face that the girl felt compelled to take the initiative.

"I am afraid I am later than you expected, Mrs. Tanner; but it is a long walk from the station, and I came slowly so as not to lose my way."

"You look cold and tired," said Mrs. Tanner gently. "Sit down and warm yourself. Rhoda will bring tea soon; I waited for you."

"It was very kind of you," Beryl began, and then she broke down helplessly and cried as though her heart would break. Of course it was behaving disgracefully, it was most unscholastic and childish; but those few kind words had been the last touch.

Mrs. Tanner did not seem in the least angry. She took Beryl's hand and held it for a minute or two, then she said gently:

"I don't wonder at your being upset, my dear. When I first came here in January I loathed the place quite as much as you can do. I came from a pretty country rectory, with a dear old garden and trees that had stood the test of centuries, and this bleak, desolate place seemed terrible to me; but, Miss Lindon, work is the best cure for sadness, and even Easthill-on-Sea seems brighter when one is busy."

"Please forgive me!" said Beryl, pleadingly. "Indeed, I am not discontented; it was only that you were so kind to me."

"Did you expect me to be an ogress?" asked Mrs. Tanner. "When you have had some tea and feel rested I will tell you all about things. I am afraid you will find plenty of rough places at Woodlands, but they won't be of my making."

Tea was delightful. With curtains drawn and the lamps lighted, the room seemed quite a snugger; and Mrs. Tanner saw that Beryl had plenty of the fare provided.

"I would rather tell you everything before you see my sister," she said, when Rhoda had taken away the things. My husband died last November. He was the best and kindest man who ever lived, but he wasn't businesslike, and when all the expenses were paid I had only £20 and the furniture to keep myself and the children. Of course I knew I should have to work; but I had never had to earn my living, and I did not know how to set about it. My sister is the only near relation I have. She is very rich, and she likes to manage. She decided I had better keep a school, then the twins could be educated for nothing. Her husband has a good deal of property round here, and they offered me this house rent free for three years.

"Of course"—she flushed painfully—"the Wilmots are in a very good position here, and it would not do for it to be known any one connected with them had to keep a school, so I promised Mrs. Tanner I would never mention the relationship. She has really been very good. She speaks of me to people as a 'young widow in whom she is interested,' and altogether I have twelve pupils. If the new ones promised this term come tomorrow I shall have fifteen. They pay £2 a term, so that I have £30 a year; but I found out if I had any one who could teach French and really good music I should get more scholars and keep them till they were older. That is why I thought of getting help. Besides, with only Rhoda, there is a great deal to do domestically, and the twins' clothes have to be made and mended."

"How old are the twins?" asked Beryl.

"Four. Rather young to be in school all day; but I can't send them out alone, and I don't like them to be in the kitchen with Rhoda. Miss Lindon, I know I am offering you a very small salary; but I think if you and I 'fit in' you may really be happier here than in a grander situation."

"I am sure of it," said Beryl. "Mrs. Tanner, I don't think any one in the whole world can be lonelier than I am, and if only you will keep me, I shall be glad to stay."

Mrs. Tanner gave a little sigh. "Mary—Mrs. Wilmot—will be round in the morning. You must not mind if she seems a little overbearing. Oh, and there is the thing she wanted me to say—she does not like your name at all."

Beryl professed her regret, but hardly saw the objection was her fault. "It's in this way," explained Mrs. Tanner. "The show place near here, Dynevor Manor, belongs to a Mr. Lindon, though General Craven lives there. Mary thinks it a slight to Mr. Lindon that my teacher should have the same name. Her husband is his agent, and goes to see him sometimes at his grand house in Elchester square, Belgravia. Of course I told Mary Mr. Lindon would never hear of my school, much less my teacher's name; but she was very disagreeable, and said it could not matter to you, and that by changing one letter the name sounded quite differently. Do you mind being Miss Lindon? You see, it won't make any difference to your letters, because most people loop their i's now, so that they look like e's."

Beryl felt inclined to bless Mrs. Wilmot. If, as she now felt positive, her father were the owner of Dynevor Manor, why, then, her one desire was that he might never hear his fugitive daughter was living beneath its shadow. She had never heard him speak of Sussex, or of possessing property in the country. Surely it was strange that, with all England before her, she should have drifted to the one place where he had interest.

School began the next day. The fifteen girls were nice things. Mrs. Wilmot's interest had procured some. The clerk of the works employed by her husband to watch his interests in the building operations, sent three small daughters; but there was a sprinkling of a higher grade—the curate's only child, and the doctor's two little girls. Mrs. Wilmot struck Beryl as far less refined than her sister. She and her husband were rich, and gloried in their money, though as yet it had not been able to force an entrance into the society of Easthill proper, which was of the select and exclusive kind known as "county."

CHURCH MONEY.

Some Old Ways in Which Women Earned It.

The women folk of the Methodist church at Oxford recently set out to earn money for certain church purposes, and a meeting was held at which each woman or girl recited the method by which she had earned her contribution, says the Boston Journal. Some of the recitals were funny enough to convulse the audience, and a few are epitomized as follows: Miss Mary Dobbis started out to do some janitor work, but got tired and sub-contracted the job, though saving for herself a margin of profit. Mrs. M. Collins said that one day her husband was tearing around the house hunting for his overshoes and said he would give a half a dollar to know what had become of them. She told him she had sold them to the ragman, and demanded the half. Mrs. Bay kalsomined her own house and saved the dollar which an old colored man demanded for the job. Miss Zulie Cole engaged in a great variety of employments. She got 5 cents for washing Mrs. Middleton's dishes, 10 cents for doing some sewing for her sister, 5 cents from her uncle for keeping her mouth shut five minutes, 5 cents for killing three cats, 15 cents for sweeping the sidewalk in front of two stores, and 5 cents for popping some corn. Miss Lydia Mills made 50 cents by mending the harness and making a new halber for her cow. Miss Lettie Morrill got 50 cents for doctoring a sick calf.

Tombs are but the clothes of the dead. A grave is but a plain suit, and a rich monument is one embroidered Fuller.

A WEEK IN ILLINOIS.

RECORD OF HAPPRINGS FOR SEVEN DAYS.

Teachers of the State Hold Important Meetings—Illinois State Miners Want Mine Inspector Elected Instead of Being Appointed by the Governor.

Two Roads Incorporated.

The secretary of state has licensed the Geneva, Batavia and Southern Railway company, whose principal office is in Chicago, and the capital stock of which is $100,000, to be constructed from Geneva, Kane county, to Aurora, Kane county. The incorporators and first board of directors are made up of L. J. Wolf, Cleveland, Ohio; E. E. Barrett, Western Springs, Ill.; Charles Jones, Wheaton, Ill.; W. T. Hapeman and A. T. Long, Chicago, Ill.

The Batavia and Eastern Railway company, whose principal office is also in Chicago and the capital stock of which is $10,000, was also licensed to be constructed from Batavia, Kane county, through the counties of Kane and DuPage, to a point on the Aurora, Wheaton and Chicago Railway company between Wheaton and Aurora. The incorporators and first board of directors are as follows: L. J. Wolf, W. T. Hapeman, A. T. Long, E. E. Barrett, Charles Jones.

Tax Case Is Decided.

The Supreme court at Springfield reversed and remanded the case of William E. Hayward against the board of review of Christian county, which had ruled that Hayward was on April 1, 1900, owner of credits to the amount of $145,845, which were liable to assessment for taxation in Christian county, and which assessed him accordingly. Hayward admitted owing credits to the amount named, but claimed he was a resident of Indianapolis, Ind., having removed from Pana, Ill., and that therefore he was not subject to assessment by the Christian county board of review. The Supreme court held that while Hayward had established a residence for business purposes in Pana, Ill., it appeared from the facts cited by the board of review that the domicile of Hayward was Indianapolis and was so conceded by the attorney-general. The Supreme court therefore held that the credits are not subject to taxation in Illinois.

Teachers of State Meet.

The annual Teachers' association convened at Shabbona for a three days' session. The opening address was given by Professor Edwin Sparks of Chicago university, his subject being "Chief Justice Marshall and the Constitution." An address was given by Professor Stout of Sycamore on "The Teaching of Physiology in the High School," followed by Professor Charles of Normal, Professor Charles Wolbert of Aurora discoursed upon "English Literature." Other prominent speakers were Superintendent Bright, author of the language series; Professors Gilbert and Keith of Normal, and many other prominent educators. Dr. John W. Cook lectured on "The New Profession." Many other prominent educators took part.

Edinburg Club Advised to Smash.

Edinburg, near Pana, has a Carrie Nation club that is becoming threatening and which it is believed is about to emulate the deeds of its namesake and do a little smashing at home. Despite a cold and blustering day the club marched in a body to Attorney Prater's office, and then to the office of Justice Beryl, where it adjourned. Taylorville attorneys, who have been consulted have advised the club members to get their hatchets and begin to smash, and the outcome is expected to develop a sensation. It is charged that two or three residents of Edinburg have sold liquor illegally for a long time.

Edward S. Easton Is Dead.

Edward S. Easton died at Peoria at the age of 59. Mr. Easton had been a resident of Peoria for more than fifty years. He was at the head of the Edward S. Easton company, one of the founders of the Peoria board of trade and for several years a director of the whisky trust. He was founder of the Edna Easton home for young women. Gov. Tanner appointed him a member of the board of commissioners for the new asylum for the incurable insane at Bartonville. While acting on this commission Mr. Easton's health broke and his mind weakened. He is survived by a widow and two sons.

Honors for Peoria Lawyer.

Lyman J. Carlock, a lawyer of Peoria, Ill., has been notified that the Taft Philippine commission has appointed him a judge in the principal court of the islands. He is directed by the government to be ready to start for the islands April 1, and will be expected to assume his new duties at once. The annual salary is $4,500.

Illinois Doctor Missing.

Dr. Charles Cederlund of Caledonia, Ill., has been missing since last Wednesday. His pocketbook was found near the river bank in the east part of the town. It contained only a few receipts, and it is said he had $100 in his possession when he left home. Dr. Cederlund came to Rockford on Wednesday to make some purchases. He missed his train, and bought a ticket to go home later by way of Belvidere. Acquaintances of his, who were passengers, say he did not board the train, and nothing has been seen or heard of him since. The finding of the pocketbook make his friends fear he has met foul play.

Thirty Mills May Combine.

A number of milling plants in the neighborhood of Hanover have been secured by Philadelphia promoters to be combined under one management. Among the thirty mills said to have been secured are the York Milling Company, the Philadelphia Milling Company, the Lancaster Milling Company, the Lakeside Milling Company of Chambersburg, John D. Graybill's mill at Carlisle, the Steelton Flour Milling Company, the Paxton Milling Company of Harrisburg and the mill and warehouse of E. T. Moul at Felton.

Prominent Virginian's Suicide.

Major Randolph Harrison Finney, a man of means and a member of one of the most prominent families in Virginia, hanged himself to the transom of his chamber door at his residence in Richmond, Va., and was dead when found by his wife. A wound received while at the head of a battalion in the confederate army resulted in blindness some years ago, and this, with bad health, caused him to take his life. One of his sons is secretary to the secretary of the navy.

Women Smashers Must Pay.

Three weeks ago sixteen South Sloux City women caught the Carrie Nation fever and smashed several saloons in that suburb. Monday they were made to pay for their escapade, a verdict of $173 being rendered against them in the case of John Payson, owner of the fixtures in one of the saloons raided, who sued for the value of the property they damaged. The women will appeal.

Revokes Indianapolis Saloon License.

The Anti-Saloon league of Indianapolis have scored what its leaders assert is a great victory. Judge Alford revoked the license of saloonkeeper John Heitkam, it being Heitkam's second conviction to a charge of violating the Nicholson liquor law. It is the first case of the kind in the county, although many saloonkeepers have been twice convicted.

Find Arsenic in Medicine.

Mrs. Frank Beatty narrowly escaped death at Hamilton, Ohio, through arsenic placed in medicine which was being administered to her for nervous prostration. Her husband noticed something was wrong and secured a physician, who succeeded in saving the woman's life. A relative is suspected of placing the poison in the medicine. The police have the case in charge.

Kenosha Killed by a Fall.

Edward Griffin, a well-known man, died at Kenosha, Wis., the result of having his skull fractured by a fall while descending the stairs at Mayor Gorman's barber shop. Griffin was at one time one of the society leaders of that town and was well to do. Dislocation, however, had reduced him to almost actual want at the time of his death.

Grief Leads to Suicide.

Insane from brooding over the death of her brother Frank, a soldier, who died while coming home to be mustered out, Miss Nonie Prowse, aged 20, daughter of County Clerk John B. Prowse, committed suicide at Hopkinsville, Ky., by swallowing carbolic acid. "I will see Frank now," were her last words.

Lives Lost in Cyclone.

News has been received at Marshallville by the British steamer Oxus of a cyclone which swept over the islands of Mauritius and Reunion Jan. 12 and 13, doing great damage. The British steamer Kalsari, from Rangoon, went to pieces off the coast of Reunion and twenty-five of the ship's company were drowned.

Want to Elect Inspectors.

An effort will be made by the miners of Illinois to secure legislation providing for the election of the state mine inspectors instead of their appointment by the governor. A resolution directing the legislative committee to work to this end was unanimously adopted by the convention at Springfield.

Most of the time of the convention was occupied in a discussion of plans to force the operators of the Brush mine at Carterville to recognize the union.

Gets $3,500 for Death of Husband.

Mrs. Ella Ruddell, of Mattoon, wife of Daniel Ruddell, a Big Four fireman, who was killed at Terre Haute recently, has compromised with the railway and secured $3,500 damages.

President Sexton Calls Meeting.

A meeting of the Illinois-Iowa-Indiana Baseball league directors has been called by President M. H. Sexton at Davenport, Iowa, March 1, when first plans for the opening of the season will be formulated.

Arabs Rise Against Turks.

It is reported that a general Arab rising has occurred in Yemen, Arabia, against Turkish authority and that the situation is serious. The porte has ordered four regiments to reinforce the Turkish troops there.

Otis Assumes New Duties.

General Otis arrived in St. Paul from Chicago Thursday and assumed temporary charge of the Department of the Dakotas. Inspector General C. H. Murray is with General Otis as aid-de-camp.

Fifty Men Lost in a Mine.

A disastrous fire in Diamondville coal mine, No. 1, near Kemmerer, Wyo., was attended with serious loss of life and great destruction of property. There were some fifty miners and fifteen horses entombed, but one miraculous escape was made, however, by John Anderson, who was working near the mouth of the level when he realized the mine was on fire. With much difficulty he reached the main lead, and by throwing a heavy overcoat over his head and shoulders he pushed his way through the flames and reached the main shaft completely exhausted and terribly burned, but will recover. He was taken out by friends. It is believed that none of the others can be saved.

Petrified in the Grave.

At the cemetery near Fountain City, north of Richmond, Ind., when the grave of Mrs. Thompson Smith was opened, in order to remove the body to another cemetery, it was found to be solid stone. The features are plain, and the teeth and hair are the same as when the remains were placed in the grave. It took four persons to lift the body from the grave. The body is as white as chalk, and is intact, except a portion of one foot. It is said that the petrification resulted from the fact that the ground is a peculiar clay mixture, and that water stands there a considerable portion of the year.

Her Contribution Limited.

In a letter to Senator Vest at Springfield, Mo., inclosing a check for $500, her contribution to the Missouri Confederate Monument association, Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst says: "I note what you say in regard to my husband's generous donation to the confederate home in your state. While he was living he was making money, and since he passed away I have been trying to accomplish a great many things which have consumed all my income. Besides, I have divided my estate with my son, giving him the better half, and I am precluded from doing many things which otherwise I would be in a position to do."

Drowns Her Six Children.

Mrs. Rose Wurzer, a widow, in a fit of insanity, drowned her six children, aged 4 to 12 years, at Uniontown, Wash. Two were boys and four girls. She threw them into a well thirty feet deep, containing two feet of water, then jumped in herself and held the heads of the children beneath the surface until all were drowned. Mrs. Wurzer was found alive in the well with her six murdered children by the neighbors, who pulled her out with a rope. She is violently insane. The woman's husband died a year ago, since which time she has been supported by the county and the charity of neighbors.

Points Out Danger to Russia.

The Journal de St. Petersburg asks: "Will not a dangerous precedent be created by the desire to prove at any price that alleged secret premiums are concealed by the Russian sugar regime? If Russia employed the same logic she would with even greater justification, be driven to impose countervailing duties upon cast iron, steel, copper, and other American products to which the principle now being established could be applied with equal justice."

Exile Dies in Squalor.

A veteran of the Franco-Prussian war and an exile from the fatherland because he wrote a poem criticizing the policy of Bismarck, Hugo C. Schultze died in squalor and poverty at 259 East Sixty-fourth street, Chicago. The body was discovered by the police on Wednesday morning, two days after death. For the last five months Schultze had lived over the candy store of Julius Fink.

Nominations by the President.

The president has sent these nominations to the senate: John H. Fesler of Colorado, to be consul at Amoy, China; Captain William Crozier, ordinance department, to be professor of natural and experimental philosophy at the military academy at West Point; First Sergeant Thomas F. Lowden, Fourth Infantry, to be second lieutenant, U. S. A.

Crased by a Killing.

From the steppes of Siberia to prosaic New York the face of a beautiful woman, who he slew, has followed Col. Otto Biernath. He shot the woman when a pack of wolves was ready to tear her limb from limb. He gave her, as he believed, a merciful death, and at the same time saved her from a living death, as an exiled prisoner of the czar. But that has not taken from him the mental torture he has since suffered, and in despair he surrendered himself to the authorities and was placed in the Bellevue insane hospital.

Few people, we imagine, realize the vast extent of the commerce of the inland seas known as the great lakes. According to figures secured by the treasury bureau of statistics, coupled with the report of the officer in charge of the Sault Ste. Marie canal, there were received by vessels at the 37 principal ports on the great lakes between April 1, 1900, and the close of the year a total of 1,266,234 tons of flour, 52,834,256 bushels of wheat, 70,805,801 bushels of corn, $3,290,767 bushels of oats, 11,526,501 bushels of barley and 1,840,892 bushels of rye. These figures relate purely to the movements between United States ports and do not therefore include the shipments to or from ports on the Canadian side of the canals or through the Welland canal. The great bulk of the grain traffic originated at Chicago and Duluth and had Buffalo as its point of destination.

The receipts of iron ore by water at the ports embraced in the bureau's compilation reached a total of 16,268,027 tons, and this may be accepted as about 85 per cent of the entire movement of iron ore both by rail and water. All the principal ore receiving and shipping ports are covered by the bureau statement. Of the 16,268,027 tons handled 15,843,681 tons are shown to have been shipped from the six ports of Two Harbors, Duluth, Escanaba, Ashland, Marquette and West Superior, and 13,623,609 tons were received at the six ports of Ashtabula, Cleveland, Conneaut, South Chicago, Buffalo and Erie, a remarkable exemption of the extent to which the iron ore traffic is concentrated.

Many different classes of commodities, such as provisions, dry goods and hardware, are reported under the general head of unclassified freight. This movement at the principal lake ports during the past year reached the aggregate of 3,471,131 tons. In this traffic the city of Chicago led with $42,221 tons. The receipts at other ports were: Buffalo, 668,831 tons; Cleveland, 275,673 tons; Detroit, 234,482 tons, and Milwaukee, 325,124 tons.

In view of the efforts being made by the owners of the lumber carrying vessels on the great lakes to effect a combination with the purpose of maintaining rates it is perhaps interesting, as illustrating the scope of this branch of inland commerce, to note that lumber shipments were made during the season from 32 of the 37 ports the commerce of which the bureau of statistics kept a record, receipts being recorded at an equal number of ports. The total receipts aggregated 2,122,403 thousand feet.

Delaware does not seem disposed to part with her unique mode of punishment, the whipping post and pillory. Early in the present session of the state legislature a movement was made to reduce the scope of their use, and certain bills looking to that end were passed through one branch of the legislature, but these efforts have ultimately resulted in an enactment in precisely the opposite direction. Not only has the other house refused to pass the bill abolishing the pillory, but both houses have now passed a bill, which awaits the governor's signature, prescribing public whippings for wife beaters, who are to receive from 5 to 30 lashes. By a general consensus of judgment wife beaters are among the most despicable of characters and ought to receive severe and humiliating treatment. Imprisonment is hardly a fair penalty, for the wife suffers from the lack of the husband's services. Fines scarcely reach the evil, for the vicious man is seldom cured by a mere stroke at his pocketbook, and often the fine reacts upon the wife. Public humiliation and physical suffering, giving to the offender his own medicine, used to be found most effective in the days of drastic treatment in the name of the law.

The publisher of Burke's Peerage says he receives orders for more copies of the work from America and receives more inquiries from this country about questions of precedence than from all the rest of the world. Still it can be asserted that there is a fair percentage of people in this country who are not snobs.

Minister Conger's objection to the immediate execution of Prince Tuan and General Tung is likely to prove effective in view of the fact that these two distinguished Celestials are 1,000 miles distant from Peking and at the head of a well equipped army of 100,000.

The freshmen at Kendall Green institute, Washington, are hazed by being obliged to talk until their hands are swollen. It might be added incidentally that this is a school for the deaf and dumb.

Mr. Morgan is credited with having made $25,000,000 in a single deal lately. And yet there are people who say that there are no chances for making money nowadays.

The Steel and Iron Combine.

The United States Steel company, with $800,000,000 of capital and the very foundations of the iron and steel business of the country in its control, becomes quite the most powerful and extensive corporation ever created. It is the consolidation of consolidations, the constituent elements of which, we are told, are these great industrial combinations, the most conservative statement of their capital being given:

Table listing companies and their capital amounts, including Carnegie Steel, American Steel and Wire, National Tube, American Bridge, etc.

The combination of these concerns forms a substantial monopoly of the iron and steel industry of the United States. It need have no fear of successful rivalry, since it possesses extraordinary facilities for crushing competition. Its organizers are the men whose names are identified with recent operations of magnitude in the railroad world by which a "community of interest" has been established between important transportation lines. These gentlemen are also extensively engaged in the coal business and, besides, control vast deposits of iron ore. They hold in their hands the raw materials, the facilities of manufacture and transportation and the control of the markets. If in their capacity as railroad men they should kindly accord to themselves in their capacity as producers of iron and steel the favor of discriminating rates or if through their control of coal production they should lend to their iron and steel business a helping hand, any attempt at competition would be futile. Probably the worst capitalistic abuse of the present time is the secret rebate, and it is a matter of public concern to know whether the organizers of the United States Steel company feel a just abhorrence of that illegitimate and pernicious practice. Since legislation has been quite unable to check it in lesser and comparatively insignificant corporations it will be difficult indeed to reach this colossus if it chooses to use its vast opportunities to the public detriment. If it be content to do a legitimate business in a legitimate way, giving labor, which is the most important factor in its operations, a just and equitable reward and selling its products to the consumer at a fair and reasonable margin of profit above the cost of production and transportation, the public can have no special reason for quarrel with this greatest of all industrial combinations, though there are many who will decry as harmful to the public interests the centralization in a single corporate body of such vast elements of power and influence as are embodied in the United States Steel company.

The Missouri senate has passed a bill affixing the penalty of death to child abduction. This will strike most people as a wholesome and necessary measure in view of the enormity and cruelty of the crime, especially when it is remembered that the recent escape from punishment for it in a case that has attracted the attention of the entire nation makes the danger of its repetition greater. It will hardly fail to be noted also that wretches are threatening to torture children and put out their eyes in case ransoms are not paid. To say that the lives of fends like these should be spared is worse than mawkish and mischievous sentimentalism.

At Granite City, Ills., the other day a lot of girls went on a strike because one of their number was discharged by the foreman for kissing a male employee during working hours. The girls declared that the foreman was jealous because he was not selected for the osculatory demonstration. Perhaps, however, he believed in the germ theory and feared an epidemic.

The latest bids for the construction of United States warships shows two new firms ready to undertake the highest class of shipbuilding. With this development at home the entrance of one of the older firms into an international trust can be looked upon with complacency.

The rumor of the pardon of Mrs. Maybrick unhappily proved to be without foundation. However, it may serve to bring the case to the attention of King Edward and remind him that such an act of clemency would not be an unworthy start for a new reign.

Crawfordsville, Ind., is the great Hoosier literary center. It was the home of the late Maurice Thompson and also that of General Lew Wallace, the eminence of both of whom in the world of letters is recognized.

At the Michigan Agricultural college the other day a freshman held a crowd of hazers at bay with a revolver. One does not need to go to the frontier to see real life nowadays.

The strike of the Paris dressmakers is not likely to interfere with the production of those divine creations of the Parisian modiste's art made in American cities.

Among the many things charged against the late King Milan of Servia was a vast amount of debts.

Seeking the South Pole.

While expedition after expedition has sought the north pole, each benefiting by the experience of its predecessor until the map of the arctic zone is about completed, there has until lately been comparatively little effort to discover what there is in the antarctic region.

Whether the south pole is, as some believe, the center of a vast and mountainous continent, covered with unknown depths of ice and snow and having little or no animal or vegetable life save upon its borders, or whether, as others contend, it is a vast leucopynd archipelago, is not absolutely known. The ancients supposed this austral land to be of vast extent and peopled it with mysterious progeny, and scientific men now believe that in the geological ages it was connected with both South America and Australia. Not until the adventurous voyaging of Captain Cook a century and a quarter ago was it circumscribed within the limits of the antarctic circle. Long after that the explorations of Ross traced dim outlines where Victoria Land was named, and subsequent expeditions added new fragments to the map at long intervals.

For some time extensive preparations have been making for as thorough an exploration as can be made of the frozen south. A vessel is being built for a British expedition at Dundee and one for a German expedition at Kiel, and the two are expected to set out next summer and pursue their investigations in cordial co-operation, dividing the vast field between them for three years of persistent research. Doubtless these expeditions will bring back more definite information of the mysterious antarctic zone than the world yet possesses and possibly determine whether this bleak region is really a continent and, if so, trace the circuit of its icy shores, explore its bays and inlets and define the position of outlying islands, so giving us an outline map of that part of the terrestrial globe.

The governors of several states have cautioned the legislatures against the needless multiplication of statutes. This is wise and should be heeded. The passage of a few carefully considered bills is far preferable to a flood of unimportant measures rushed through without care. Not only does hasty legislation lead to subsequent regrets, but the needless piling up of laws cumber the statute books and produces confusion and public injury. It will be generally conceded that in most of the states of the Union there are too many laws which are frequently conflicting and inoperative. While no one will dispute the general proposition that the number of laws ought to be kept as small as possible consistent with good government, there is much difficulty in putting the principle into practice. In most states legislatures are assailed on every hand by persons seeking the passage of laws in which they are especially interested. There are petitions and lobbyists urging general laws that are desired to meet purely local conditions as well as measures for private and corporate interests. Besides this, nearly every legislature is bombarded with requests for experimental legislation, otherwise called reform measures, while many an ambitious member is anxious to put through some act that shall bear his name, quite heedless whether it will conduce to the public good. The tendency, therefore, is toward a multiplication of legislative acts, with all the evils which follow in the train of hasty and ill considered legislation and overcrowded and cumbersome statute books. The wise and patriotic legislator who has in view the best interests of his state and community will guard against this tendency, which prevails in many commonwealths.

The branding of the daughter of the late Governor Lewelling of Kansas by feminine high school hazers is quite as strenuous as any of the outrages reported at West Point. The letters of the Greek society into which she was being initiated were burned into her forehead with chemicals. If the Kansas girls must haze each other, they ought at least to be considerate enough to burn the letters in where some girls get vaccinated, so that the marks won't show.

Notwithstanding the fact that the report of the commissioner of patents shows that more than 300 smoke consuming devices have been patented in recent years, every large city in the country is still complaining of the smoke nuisance.

According to reports Mr. Carnegie notified the steel trust to meet him at a given place and time with a sack containing $200,000,000. Mr. Carnegie furnished the lantern and also the wagon in which to carry off the money.

A recent magazine prints eight pictures of Richard Harding Davis in one issue. This gives him a greater score up to date than that of Mrs. Nation.

Andrew Carnegie remarks that war is foolish. He might go a step farther and say that in many cases it is actually dangerous.

It would require more heroism to "barkeep" in Kansas than to campaign for the orient.

WAUCONDA.

L. C. Price was a Chicago visitor on Monday.

Mrs. A. E. Kirwan is reported seriously ill at present writing.

Will Dillon of Chicago spent Saturday with friends in our village.

Miss Jennie Green spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives in Chicago.

P. J. Maiman of Waukegan spent Sunday with his parents in our village.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson of Grayslake were pleasant callers here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hapke are the proud parents of a little daughter, born Monday.

J. Golding, H. E. Maiman and A. J. Raymond transacted business in Chicago Tuesday.

Polar Ice Machine Oil will not freeze. Just the thing for windmills Sold by Lamey & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hill of Waukegan were visiting with friends and relatives here last week.

J. W. Gilbert went to Chicago Monday to take a course of instructions in undertaking and embalming.

Martin E. Fuller returned to Chicago Wednesday, after spending a few days in our village with Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Fuller.

Messrs. L. E. Golding, H. T. Graham and Orton Hubbard came out from Chicago Friday to celebrate Washington's birthday at home.

C. W. Sowles has been at home on the sick list for the past two weeks. He returned to Chicago Monday to resume his studies at the Chicago Dental college.

The board of highway commissioners and town clerk met at the city hall Monday and Tuesday and adjusted the bills for labor, amounting to over $600.

J. E. Gainer has rented the Johnson residence, recently vacated by J. S. Haas, for a term of three years, taking possession Thursday. He will conduct a summer resort the coming season.

My heart and hand another claimed, His plea had come too late.

Another transfer of property was made in our village Tuesday, J. W. Cook purchasing the R. C. Hill residence. It will make a very convenient home for Mr. Cook, being located near his shop and we congratulate him upon his purchase. Quite a number of transfers of property have been made in our village of late and this certainly goes to verify the statement that property is in demand.

AGENCY, IA., Oct. 17, 1899.

PEPSIN SYRUP Co., Monticello, Ill.

GENTS: I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with marked success. I unhesitatingly recommend it to those suffering with stomach trouble or constipation. It's certainly a blessing to humanity. You are at liberty to use my testimonial. Very respectfully,

F. M. WILCOXSON.

At Chas. E. Churchill's.

Mr. and Mrs. James Manicom were tendered a pleasant surprise at their home, about two miles west of Wauconda, Thursday evening by fifty of their friends and neighbors, it being the 37th anniversary of Mrs. Manicom's birth, who was kindly remembered with a most beautiful rocking chair. Music and various games was the order of the evening. Mr. Manicom kindly rendered a vocal selection of special request of Miss Jennie Green. At about 10:30 supper was served and all sat down to a most bounteous repast, which was as highly enjoyed as the best number on the program. It was near the midnight hour when all departed, having spent a pleasant evening.

J. Thull, sr., met with a serious accident Saturday of last week at the home of Albert Hafer of Fremont. He had been their guest for a few days, and although requested to remain in the house Saturday morning, went out to the barn with a pail of water for his horse. When he reached the stable he slipped and fell under the animal. The horse became frightened and pranced around in the stall, stepping upon Mr. Thull and cutting his face and head in a most frightful manner and rendering him unconscious. He was immediately carried to the house and Dr. Wells of our village speedily summoned, who revived the patient and dressed the wounds, which required twenty-six stitches. Mr. Thull, being an old man, will be laid up for some time, although the wounds will not prove fatal.

Walter Helmuth of our village and Miss Anna Fisher of Fairfield were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Prehm at Lake Zurich Wednesday evening, the Lutheran minister of Fairfield performing the ceremony. It was a quiet affair, only the immediate relatives being present. Thursday morning they returned to our village, where they will make their future home. The bride, Miss Fisher, is the daughter of Mrs. H. Fisher of Fairfield, and, although not intimately known here, is highly spoken of in the vicinity of her home as a very esteemed and highly respected young lady. Mr. Helmuth, whose former home was at Park Ridge, where his parents now reside, but for the past two years has been a resident of our village, is one of our most progressive business men, having recently bought out Gustav Fiedler and conducts the only meat market in our village. We extend our congratulations to the happy couple and wish them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

LAKE ZURICH.

Mrs. Wm. Eichman is on the sick list.

The dance Saturday night was fairly well attended.

E. A. Ficke, who was on the sick list, is on duty again.

Wm. Bicknase transacted business at Long Grove Monday.

Leonard and Charles Vehe have returned to their Western home.

Ed Underwood has moved into the house recently vacated by I. B. Fox.

I. B. Fox has moved his household furniture to Barrington, where he now resides.

Frank Meyer and Lester and Miss Mary Courtney visited friends at Long Grove Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Frank on Tuesday, a boy. Great cause for rejoicing, Emil.

Chas. Schultz and sisters, Misses Emma and Hannah, visited friends and relatives out of town Sunday.

The basket social and entertainment at the school house was a grand success. Much credit is due to the teacher, Miss Courtney, who had everything nicely arranged for the occasion.

She.—I have never loved before.

He.—And why not, precious? Surely there are others as worthy as I.

She.—That wasn't it. I had indignation so bad I never could endure their prattle. But I took a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and have never seen any sign of it since.

Washington's birthday was highly observed by the Lake Zurich school. The program rendered by the pupils was carried out in an excellent manner, under the management of Miss Courtney, their instructor. Prizes were awarded to Myrtle Bicknase, Henriette Dickson, Mame Pepper, Emma Schaefer and Mame Dettmann. The highest price paid for a basket was $3.25. The proceeds amounted to $21.05.

A NEW BANKING BILL

Introduced in Legislature For the inspection of Private Banks.

A new bill relating to the inspection of private banking institutions has been introduced in the legislature and although a powerful lobby of the parties who control such institutions is on hand to work against its passage, the chances are bright for it becoming a law. Such a law is an absolute necessity, and no man or collection of men who believe in honest business methods, who are engaged in the banking business, will object to their institutions being inspected and to publishing a statement of their financial condition. The press throughout the state favor the new measure. An editorial in the Chicago Journal hits the nail square on the head. It says: "Whatever may be the law at the present time in respect to the investigation of Dowie's bank, there can not be two opinions as to the necessity for some law that will make all private banks subject to the same supervision that is maintained over incorporated and public banks.

"During the past five years the citizens of Chicago have had a large experience with private banks and bankers, as has also many small towns in the state. A number of bankers have been punished for swindling their customers, but that has not restored to the defrauded depositors the money they have lost. Many persons have been reduced to poverty through the maladministration of private banks, and it is but indifferent compensation to them that the man that cheated them is behind prison bars.

"Private banks should be placed under the supervision of the state auditor, and those who go into the business of banking should be required to take out a state license or be registered. They should be compelled to report their condition like other banks, and their books and papers should be open to inspection by proper state officials.

"In this way the people would be protected to some extent at least; and there would be fewer cases of 'unfortunate' bankers in prison."

HISTORY OF PALATINE.

COPYRIGHTED BY A. G. SMITH.

Ezekiel Cady and wife started with horses, wagon and a cow from Faberg, Oneida county, N. Y., to seek their fortunes in the far west. They got as far as Lake Michigan and traded their horses for two yokes of oxen, and pushing on they arrived at Deer Grove in June, 1837, settling on 240 acres in sections 7 and 8 in Deer Grove. They lived in their covered wagon for several weeks before building their log house. One day Mr. Cady started for Chicago and built a shack of logs and bark to shelter his wife until his return. That night a heavy rain storm set in and Mrs. Cady lighted a tallow candle lantern and stood all night in the rain with a covering over her head. In the morning she started a fire by means of her tallow candle and was soon dried out. Matches were not then in use by the settlers and fire had to be kept burning or started by means of flint, the latter would be a hard matter during a heavy rain. Mr. Cady built a good log house and this house was often used for school purposes, where the children of the neighborhood met and were taught by Miss Nancy Sutherland. Religious services were also held in Mr. Cady's house for a number of years. A short time after their arrival, August 28, 1837, a little daughter came to bless their home—the first white child, so far as known, born in Palatine. The little girl thrived in this new healthy country and the little pioneer is still living in Palatine—Mrs. M. L. Pinney. She was married to Morton Luther Pinney on October 23, 1853. The other children born to Mr. and Mrs. Cady were: Arad, who died in the Civil war, being a member of the 113th regiment; Fannie, who married Milton Fosket and died June 27, 1879, at Palatine; Wilbert died December 17, 1841 and he was the first to be buried in the old Cady cemetery; Madison, who is deceased; Thursy Ann, who married Beala Abbott, is deceased; Jane, who married Homer Galpin, is deceased; Wm. Benton is married and lives at Oxford, Neb.; Nelson went to Dakota and was lost trace of.

Russel Andrus settled in Deer Grove in 1836.

T. H. McClure settled at Deer Grove in 1836 and was a surveyor. His house was used for church services for some time.

Asa Dunton settled at Deer Grove in 1836.

The histories of these three settlers we were unable to obtain as they did not stay in this section for any length of time.

Miss Nancy Boyington came from New Hampshire with her brother-in-law, Mr. Hill, in the fall of 1838. They came through the Great Lakes on the steamboat James Madison and landed in the village of Chicago after a good voyage. Here they hired a team and started for Deer Grove, where Miss Boyington's brother David had settled the spring previous. Mr. Boyington settled on a farm of 200 prairie and 40 acres of timber land. He had one of the best log houses in this section. His floor was made of sawed logs and it had a shingle roof. Miss Boyington taught school in different places in and around the Grove. Her wages were one dollar a week and she boarded 'round. On November 29, 1843, she was married to Mason Sutherland. (Continued.)

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The Items Collected and Compiled by One of the Opposite Sex.

"In choosing their associates young women do not sufficiently observe the law of contrasts," remarked an observant individual the other day. "They would never dream of putting two colors together that do not accord, and are even particular not to let their gowns clash with another's, but as far as their own personality is concerned they never take that into consideration, and yet some women who are really good looking when alone become decidedly plain when walking or standing next to someone of their acquaintance. Tall, willowy creatures, for instance, have a way of making a medium-sized companion, with waist and hips of ordinary proportions, appear stout and stunted; a freshly colored, rather large face will cause its contrast to appear sallow and even weazened, and so on. In contrast it must be acknowledged that the larger and taller people have the best of it. They dwarf other people, but do not look oversized themselves, as they ought to do if the rule worked both ways. Some girls, however, are clever enough to recognize this fact and act accordingly."

Marriage, says an old maid, is like any other disease; while there is life there is hope.

A temperance movement that will doubtless accomplish good results, if those engaged in it are true to their pledge, has been inaugurated at Trenton, N. J. Five hundred working girls of that city have banded together into the Business Girls' league for the purpose of "downing" the drink habit in young men, and the promoters of the movement express themselves as hopeful of causing it to take such an impetus that it will eventually spread over the entire United States. All sign a solemn pledge to neither keep company with nor marry a man who touches a drop of liquor of any kind. They, of course, pledge themselves not to touch nor even handle alcoholic liquors of any kind and emblazoned on the formal card in big black type are the words, "Don't marry a man to save him."

There is no law to prevent a woman from planting herself in front of a milliner's show window and wishing she had a bank account of her own.

No doubt the women of the next century will be radically different from those of today, but whether or not they will fulfill the expectations of a writer in an English woman's journal remains for the future to disclose. "By that time," she says, "women will be all 6 feet in height, many of them considerably over, while the average height of a man will be 5 feet nothing. Women will be strong and lusty, broad and heavy in build and will be very proud of her large feet, thick wrists, powerful limbs and great muscular development, while men will have grown vain of their trimly corseted waists, nice pink and white complexions and soft voices. Love will not have been completely done away with though sentiment will have given away to common sense. Every woman will be required to marry and support two husbands, one whom must be a useful, domesticated creature, capable of tending the children and looking after the household (while the wife is in the city earning good money to keep the home together), and the other will be a better looking and therefore more ornamental creature (not a general utility man like the housekeeper), whose duties will be to act as companion or 'gentleman help' to the mistress and ruler of the mansion and keep things up to the mark generally."

A woman who has no mind of her own to speak of is the first to give others a piece of it.

Weir Mitchell and Whitman.

In Dr. Weir Mitchell's book a pleasant story or two is told of Walt Whitman, the writer, to whom some would deny the name of poet, while others regard him as one of the greatest of all poets. One of the characters in the story of "Dr. North and His Friends" says that Whitman was eaten up by his own vanity, regarding everything he did as of such supreme value that he had lost all power of self criticism and could not tell good from bad or indifferent. Once he was asked if he thought Shakespeare as great a poet as himself. He replied that he had often thought of that, but had never been able to come to a decision.

He went to a physician upon an occasion, thinking himself seriously out of health. When he learned that his ailment, whatever it was, could be treated best by living as much as possible out of doors without dosing with medicine, he was leaving in all good humor when he bethought himself of the physician's fee. "How much will it be?" he inquired. "The debt was paid long ago," said the doctor, who knew and liked his creditor. "It is you who are still the writer." Whitman thanked him and went out. Another patient, a lady, had taken his place when he returned, put his two great hands on the table opposite his medical adviser—he had not stopped to knock or announce himself—and said, "That, sir, I call poetry."

The lady was scandalized by his abrupt appearance and demeanor and asked as soon as the writer had gone for the second time, "Is the gentleman insane?" but, learning his identity, she wished he had asked for his autograph.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for nearly thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Chas. E. Churenil.

NEGRO KILLS WHITE GIRL.

Terre Haute Teacher Murdered with Razor.

A MOB AVENGES HER DEATH.

Miss Ida Finkelstein the Victim of a Black Man Who Shoots Her, Then Cuts Her Throat—Her Assailant Hanged and Burned.

Miss Ida Finkelstein, a teacher in a school near Terre Haute, Ind., whose family lives in Chicago, was killed by a negro Monday evening. A posse of and it went down with a crash. As the mob rushed for the entrance deputy sheriffs with shotguns blocked the way and succeeded in driving back the angry populace. The first repulse only made the crowd more desperate and added to its numbers, and when the second attack was made the county officials, despite their brave stand, were easily swept aside. Guns, revolvers and clubs were freely and recklessly used, and during the melee many shots were fired. Three deputies were hurt by scattering shot, but none of the crowd was injured in the least. Leaders of the mob rushed through the jail corridors to Ward's cell. A rope was thrown around his neck and without any notice of his pleading and terrifying police and citizens began searching the city of Terre Haute for her slayer and there were threats that he would be lynched if caught. Miss Finkelstein had dismissed school and started to the house at which she was boarding. It was getting late, and as she was hurrying through a desolate piece of woodland a negro armed with a gun, who evidently had been hunting, called upon her to stop. She quickened her steps, thinking to escape, but the negro opened fire with a shotgun and several of the shot struck her in the face. Thinking the negro meant to rob her Miss Finkelstein stopped and waited for the man to approach, and when he came up to her she handed him her purse containing $3 and started to go. The negro, however, grabbed her around the waist and held her. The girl struggled and the negro drew a razor and cut her throat. She continued to struggle and scream and the negro finally fled. Miss Finkelstein, weakened from her struggle and loss of blood, walked half a mile to a house, where she fell, and was taken in. She gave a good description of her assailant. An ambulance was summoned, and Miss Finkelstein was brought to a hospital in Terre Haute, where she died at 11:30 p. m. Miss Finkelstein has no relatives in Terre Haute, but she has many friends among the Jewish residents of the city, who know her heroic struggles as the main support of a widowed mother with six young children. Seven years ago her father, a pack peddler, was murdered in a saloon at Hymera, a mining town. After that time she graduated from the high school and then spent two years in the State Normal school. She has been teaching two years at the little country schoolhouse. Her mother and brothers and sisters moved to Chicago some time ago, and the daughter sent to them nearly all her salary as teacher.

Tuesday morning the police arrested the murderer, who proved to be George Ward, an iron-works laborer. He at first denied the charge, but later made a full confession. The knife with which he cut the girl's throat was found in one of his pockets.

No sooner did it become known that the guilty man was in jail than citizens began to organize themselves for vengeance. Alarmed by the growing excitement in the city, the sheriff and his deputies took precautions against a possible lynching. Arrangements were made for the prisoner to be taken before the court at 3 p. m. and sentenced. But that was too long for the excited men to wait. Shortly after noon the crowd surged down the street leading to the jail, determined to punish the negro in their own way at whatever cost. Without any preliminary strong men among the leaders swung a large timber against the door, cries he was dragged out of the jail and through the streets to the wagon bridge across the Wabash river, three blocks away. On the way the negro was beaten with sticks and shot at and people almost fought each other in their frantic efforts to get hold of the rope. Ward was unconscious and in all probability dead when his body was dropped from the bridge and dangled at the end of the rope ten feet below, in full view of thousands of men, women and children who had gathered on the bridge and river bank to witness the dealing of summary justice.

As the body fell a strand of the rope broke and the crowd became apprehensive that it would unravel and permit the body to drop into the river. This was not in accordance with the plans, so the battered and lifeless remnant of humanity was drawn up to the bridge, dragged to the west end of the structure and cremated. There was no need of a stake. The body was laid on the ground, covered with turpentine and other inflammables and slowly consumed. The frightful spectacle was witnessed by thousands, who crowded and fought for positions where they could see all the details. No attempt was made by any member of the mob to disguise himself, and nowhere was there heard a word of sympathy for the wretch whose life was being taken as reparation for his inhuman deed.

Fight with Knives Over Girl.
Lewis Parrish and Henry Lawson, young men of good families, met in a billiard room at Zanesville, O., and engaged in a quarrel over a young woman. They retired to the rear yard to settle the matter, where Parrish attacked Lawson with a knife, cutting him in the neck, arm and body. It required sixty-seven stitches to close his wounds, and his life is hanging by a thread. During the fight Parrish slipped and fell upon his own knife, severing an artery in his wrist. He is being held without bail to await the results of the wounds inflicted on Lawson.

Ryerson to Give a Library.
Martin A. Ryerson of Chicago has offered to build Grand Rapids, Mich., a library to cost $150,000 provided guaranties be given that the library will be maintained and that a site will be furnished. Fear Dynamite at Woodstock.
Woodstock is undergoing a dynamite scare. In a wreck which took place on the Grand Trunk railway there last week forty tons of dynamite were spilled and has been carried to different points about town. E. C. Rice, a telegraph operator, found a stick sufficient to blow up several houses in his coal bin. An open window near by faced the street, and someone evidently had thrown the dynamite in. Of the forty tons four are missing and are scattered about town.

Will Not Invite President.
Turney Camp, Confederate Veterans, of Winchester, Tenn., has adopted another resolution in regard to inviting the president to attend the Memphis reunion. The veterans oppose it, "because it is contrary to the spirit of the constitution and laws of the association, and tends to change the character and defeat the purposes of the organization. It was intended to be purely and exclusively a Confederate organization, for Confederate veterans alone."

$2.50 SENT FREE!

The Well Known Chicago Heart Specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. D., will send $2.50 Worth of His New and Complete Treatment to our Readers.
There never was a better opportunity for persons suffering from diseases of the heart, nerves, liver, stomach or dropsy to test, free, a New and Complete Treatment for these disorders. Dr. Miles is well known as a leading specialist in these diseases, and his liberal offer is certainly worthy of serious consideration by every afflicted reader.

This new system of Special Treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods. It consists of several remedies carefully selected to suit each individual case, and is the final result of twenty-five years of very extensive research and experience in treating this class of diseases. It consists of a curative elixir, tonic tablets, laxative pills and usually a plaster selected for each case. Extensive statistics clearly demonstrate that Dr. Miles' New Treatment is three times as successful as the usual treatment.

Thousands of remarkable testimonials from prominent people will be sent upon request which prove the doctor to be one of the world's most successful physicians. Mr. Julius Kestler, of 350 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, testifies that Dr. Miles cured him after ten able physicians had failed. Mrs. R. Trimmer, of Greenspring, Pa., was cured after many physicians had pronounced her case "hopeless."

Col. E. B. Spelman, of the 9th United States Regulars, located at San Diego, Cal., says: "Dr. Miles' Special Treatment has worked wonders in my son's case when all else failed. I had employed the best medical talent and had spent $2,000 in so doing. I believe he is a wonderful specialist. I considered it my duty to recommend him." "For years I had severe trouble with my stomach, head, neuralgia, sinking spells and general treatment entirely cured me," writes Hon. W. A. Warren, of Jamestown, N. Y.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially adapted to their case, free, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 203 to 207 State St., Dept. L, Chicago. Mention this paper.

HELP FOR WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED.

"I do not feel very well, I am so tired all the time. I do not know what is the matter with me."
You hear these words every day; as often as you meet your friends just so often are these words repeated. More than likely you speak the same significant words yourself, and no doubt you do feel far from well most of the time.
Mrs. Ella Rice, of Chelsea, Wis., whose portrait we publish, writes that she suffered for two years with bearing-down pains, headache, backache, and had all kinds of miserable feelings, all of which was caused by falling and inflammation of the womb, and after doctoring with physicians and numerous medicines she was entirely cured by

MRS. ELLA RICE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you are troubled with pains, fainting spells, depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere, headache, backache, and always tired, please remember that there is an absolute remedy which will relieve you of your suffering as it did Mrs. Rice. Proof is monumental that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine for suffering women. No other medicine has made the cure that it has, and no other woman has helped so many women by direct advice as has Mrs. Pinkham; her experience is greater than that of any living person. If you are sick, write and get her advice; her address is Lynn, Mass.

Sour Stomach?

Back up a sewer, and you poison the whole neighborhood. Clog up liver and bowels, and your stomach is full of undigested food, which sours and ferments, like garbage in a swill-barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, headache, furred tongue, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. CASCARETS quietly, positively stop fermentation in the stomach, make the liver lively, tone up the bowels, set the whole machinery going and keep it in order.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

Summary of Legislation in National Body.

MEASURES IN BOTH HOUSES.

President Issues a Proclamation Requiring Meeting of the Senate—Says That Public Interests Require Such a Meeting on March 4.

Thursday, February 21. The senate considered postoffice appropriation bill. Amendment providing for pneumatic tube service killed. The old controversy over the special appropriations for fast mail service engaged much attention. It was decided to begin holding night sessions Friday night.

The house passed deficiency appropriation bill, after day of exciting debate.

Friday, February 22. Senate passed two of the great supply bills—the postoffice and the diplomatic and consular appropriation. During the greater part of the session a proposition to discontinue the appropriations for fast mail facilities from New York to New Orleans via Atlanta, and from Kansas City, Mo., to Newton, Kan., was under discussion. By a decisive vote the appropriations were continued. An effort was made to obtain an appropriation to continue the pneumatic tube service in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, but it failed.

House devoted an hour to unanimous consent legislation and two hours and a half each to the passage of private claims bills and private pension bills. Nine bills were passed by unanimous consent and twenty-nine claims bills and 139 pension bills were passed. Among the latter was the senate bill to pension the widow of the late Gen. Henry W. Lawton, who was killed in the Philippines.

Saturday, February 23. The president has issued a proclamation calling a special session of the senate for executive purposes immediately upon the dissolution of the present congress, March 4.

The text of the proclamation is as follows:

"By the president of the United States of America—A proclamation: Whereas, Public interests require that the senate of the United States be convened at 12 o'clock on the 4th day of March next to receive such communications as may be made by the executive: Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, president of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and declare that an extraordinary occasion requires the senate of the United States to convene at the capitol in this city of Washington on the 4th day of March next, at 12 o'clock noon, of which all persons who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body are hereby required to take notice. Given under my hand and the seal of the United States at Washington the 23d day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-fifth.

"WILLIAM MCKINLEY, By the president: JOHN HAY, Secretary of State."

Monday, February 25. Senate devoted the day to debate on the Philippine amendment to the army appropriation bill.

House devoted the day to conference reports. Concurred in senate amendment to navy bill, striking out appropriations for new battle ships and cruisers.

Tuesday, February 26. Senate: Important amendment to Philippine amendment to army appropriation bill was agreed to. It was simplification of amendment previously offered by Mr. Hoar, laying restrictions upon sale of public lands and granting of franchises and concessions in Philippines. During the afternoon Mr. Allen severely arraigned Rear Admiral Sampson for indorsements upon application of Chief Gunner Charles Morgan of the navy for promotion to grade of commissioned officer.

House agreed to a partial conference report on Indian appropriation bill, and sent bill back to conference; defeated conference report on the naval bill on account of item creating assistant chiefs in navy department. Adjournment taken in the midst of violent attack upon the speaker by Congressmen Lentz, Richardson and others because a speech by Mr. Lentz had been withheld from the Congressional Record on account of its offensive nature.

St. Joseph, Mo., Carpenters Win. Union carpenters of St. Joseph, Mo., have gained a victory in their demands from the contractors, the latter according to the men. The minimum price per hour is to be 30 cents, and eight hours shall be considered a day's work unless the men care to work overtime at increased pay.

To Start a School of Prayer. The Rev. H. L. Derr, a Lebanon, Ill., minister, has originated and is to establish a school of prayer. Until recently he was pastor of the Baptist church at that city. He resigned his pastorate to devote his time to his new educational project.

Diamonds Worth $150,000 Stolen. The arrest at New York of "Judge" Lewis, a negro, in the act of pawnning a $2,500 diamond brooch, has brought to light part of the details of the largest private robbery in the police history of the city.

MAY MAKE UP A CABINET.

Spain's Queen Will Ask Silveira to Form Ministry.

The queen regent of Spain, Maria Christina, is sadly perplexed as to the selection of a new premier. She desires above everything to avoid a renewal of the anti-clerical disturbances and demonstrations. For this reason she fears to call on Senor Sagasta, the liberal minister, to form a cabinet, as his anti-clerical ideas are well known.

A cablegram from Madrid says the regent will not hear of anything being done that might displease the pope and play into the hands of the pretender, Don Carlos, by giving offense to the religious orders, especially the Jesuits. She has therefore determined to ask Senor Silveira to form a ministry. Whatever government may assume power the queen regent will insist on the re-establishment of the old relations with the church and the religious orders.

General Weyer will be continued in his command as well as all the generals recently appointed through his influence.

Get Four Alive and One Dead.

Sheriff J. W. Taylor and his deputies arrived at Sedan, Kan., Tuesday with Sid Appleby, Sol Appleby, Ross Graves, Arle Benning and a dead man named Reed, having captured the prisoners after a pitched battle in which Reed was killed. The prisoners Monday night terrorized the citizens of Wauneta and Cedarvale, nearby towns, by riding through the streets firing off pistols and raiding stores. Sheriff Taylor traced the men to the Appleby home, four miles from Wauneta, organized a posse and surrounded the house during the night. At daybreak Reed came out and was ordered to surrender, whereupon he drew a revolver and was killed. After an exchange of shots the mother and sister of the Appleby boys induced the men to surrender.

Sell Sand for Sugar.

Chicago police are looking for a gang of sugar swindlers which has been operating on the west side. Barrels mostly filled with sand and stone, with a top layer of sugar, have been sold for $8 each. Mrs. Bertha Ault, 367 West Van Buren street, was one of the victims. She purchased a barrel of the alleged sugar for $8 and soon discovered that she had paid for a barrel of sand. After discovering the fraud, the woman went to the Desplaines street station and swore out a warrant against a man named Bruker, who she said was the peddler who had sold her the barrel.

Fertilizer Output Concerned.

The Virginia-Carolina Chemical company, the $12,000,000 which controls practically all of the fertilizer output in the south, has entirely wiped out all danger of opposition by purchasing the plant of the Charleston Mining company for $1,500,000. The purchase includes 27,000 acres of phosphate land. Farmers fear the price of fertilizer, an absolute necessity for the cotton industry, will be advanced. Philip Godley is president of the Charleston Mining company, and nearly all of the stock is owned by Philadelphia capitalists.

Five Persons Burn to Death.

The home of George James, four miles from Versailles, Ind., burned and James and four daughters were burned to death. Mrs. James and another daughter were absent. James got up at 5 o'clock, built a fire and went back to bed. The stove tipped over and set the house on fire. The daughters, who slept upstairs, were aroused and came down, but instead of going out doors they rushed into the room where their father was. A son of 12 years old who was sleeping with his father got up and escaped through a back door, though he was badly burned.

Hetty Green Wants Money.

Mrs. Hetty Green of New York has filed an appeal at Taunton, Mass., to the supreme court from the decision of Judge Fuller in the case which she prosecuted several months ago in a contest over the terms of the will of Sylvia Ann Howland of New Bedford. By the terms of this will Mrs. Green was a beneficiary to the extent of nearly $1,500,000, but she contested the will and the decision was averted to her.

Missouri Legislator Proposes Lash.

In the Missouri house Representative Haines of Salina presented a bill providing that persons guilty of misdemeanor shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months or by fine not exceeding $200, or by both, or by being whipped on the bare back with a rawhide by not less than ten nor more than thirty-nine lashes. It is left to the court or jury to say whether whipping shall be substituted for the prison penalty.

Says He Is Willing to Lose a Leg.

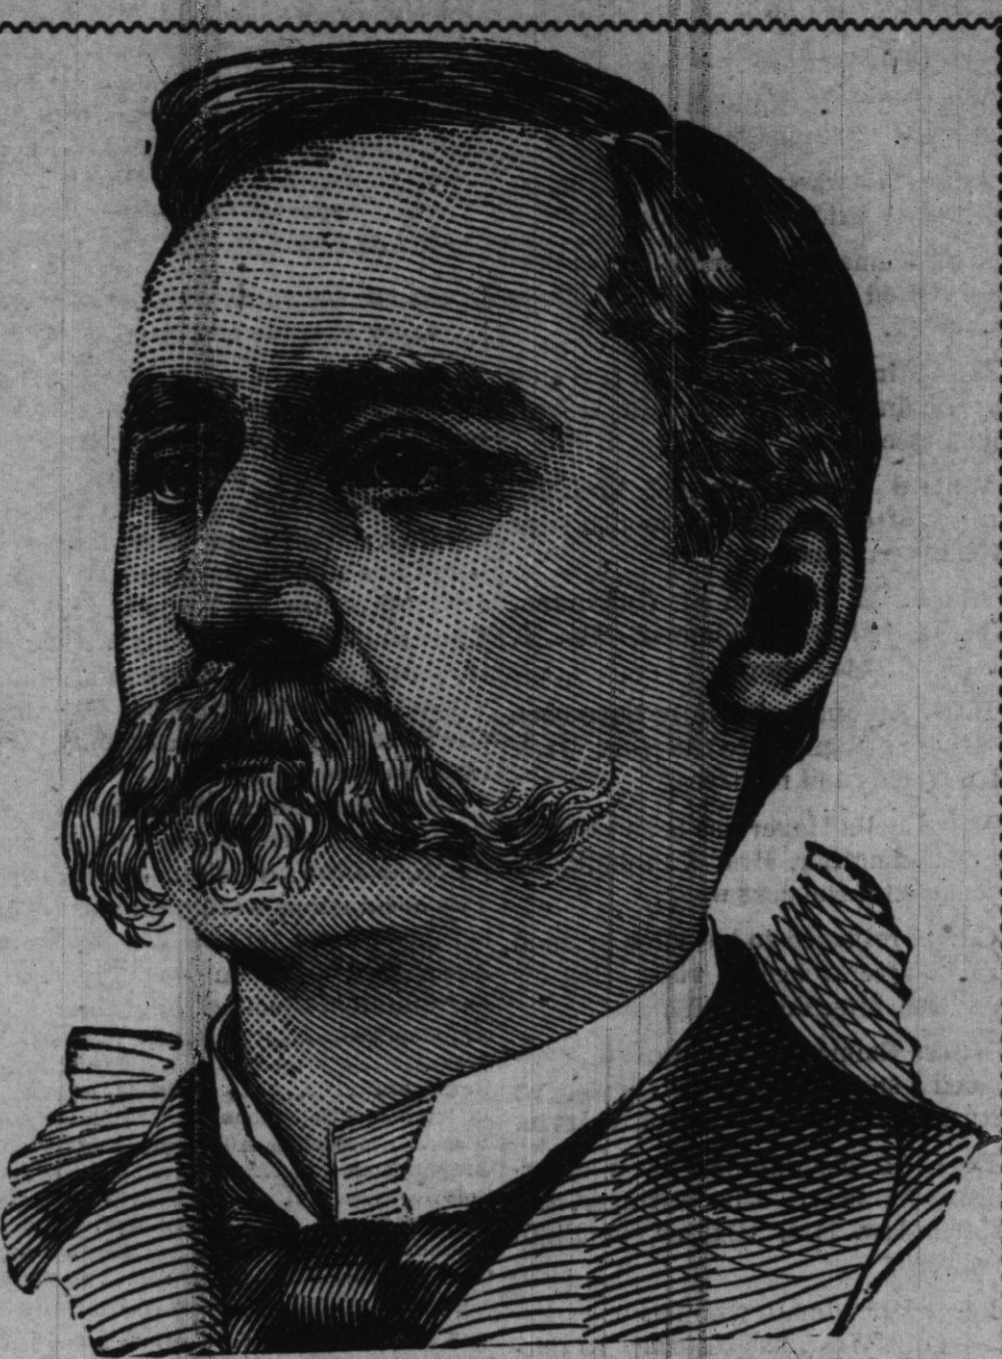

Jeffries, when seen at Cincinnati Thursday, as to the condition of his knee, said: "I do not feel any ill effects. I can give it proper rest now that I am not in training. You can rest assured I'll never quit the ring, even if I lose my leg, until I get another crack at Fitzsimmons."

Buttermakers Award Prizes.

The National Buttermakers' convention came to an end at St. Paul, Minn., the closing hours being devoted to discussion of topics of interest to the delegates. The choice of a place for the next convention was left to the executive committee. Over 4,000 delegates attended the convention, which is said to have been the most successful in the history of the association. Minnesota secured the highest award, and three out of four medals. Kansas won the silk banner for the highest state average, 89.44 per cent.

A UNITED STATES SENATOR

SAYS THAT PE-RU-NA, THE CATARRH CURE, GIVES STRENGTH AND APPETITE.

Hon. W. N. Roach, United States Senator from North Dakota.

Hon. W. N. Roach, United States Senator from North Dakota, personally endorses Peruna, the great catarrh cure and tonic. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Company, at Columbus, Ohio, written from Washington, D. C., Senator Roach says:

"Persuaded by a friend I have used Peruna as a tonic, and I am glad to testify that it has greatly helped me in strength, vigor and appetite. I have been advised by friends that it is remarkably efficacious as a cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—W. N. Roach, Larimore, North Dakota.

No other remedy can take the place of Peruna.

Mr. Ed J. Makinson, contractor and builder, 610 Grand Block, Wash street, St. Paul, Minn., says:

"Many doctor bills can be saved by the use of Peruna. I have all my friends taking Peruna, and I have heard nothing but praise from them. Last fall I had a bad cough. I took four bottles of Peruna and it cured me. I am inclined towards consumption, as all my family have died with it. I weight 185 pounds, and I believe it is Peruna that has given me such good health."—J. Makinson.

Mr. E. J. Makinson, Contractor and Builder.

Mr. E. J. Makinson, Contractor and Builder.

As a result of the changeable climate, catarrh has become one of the most prevalent and universal diseases known to man. Nearly one-third of the people of the United States are afflicted with catarrh in some of its many phases and stages. Add to this the fact that catarrh rapidly tends to become fixed or chronic, also the further fact that it is capable of producing a great many other diseases, and we begin to realize the true nature of this dread disease.

So formidable has catarrh become that in every city or town of any size numerous doctors are to be found who make the treatment of catarrh a specialty. Of course a great deal of good is accomplished in this way, but as yet a comparatively small number of the people can avail themselves of this treatment because of the great expense necessarily attached to it.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's remedy, Peruna, comes as a great boon. Not only is it more successful in curing catarrh than the treatment of the catarrh specialists, but it is within the reach of every person in this land. Peruna can be bought at any drug store, and is a remedy without equal for catarrh in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter.

Peruna is not a guess, nor an experiment. It is an absolute, scientific certainty. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. Peruna has no substitutes—no rivals. Insist upon having Peruna. Let no one persuade you that some other remedy will do nearly as well. There is no other systemic remedy for catarrh but Peruna.

Mr. Byron J. Kirkhuff, attorney, counsellor-at-law writes from 691 Gates ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., the following:

"I have used your Peruna for catarrh and find its curative powers all you recommend. It cured me of a very bad attack and though I suffered for years I feel entirely relieved, and if it will benefit others, I gladly give it my endorsement."—B. J. Kirkhuff.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, president of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

WONDERFUL CURE OF PSORIASIS.

As a sufferer for thirty years from the worst form of Psoriasis, finally cured by Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I wish to tell you my experience, that others may benefit by it. I was so grievously afflicted that the matter that exuded from my pores after the scales had peeled off, would cause my underclothing to actually gum to my body. After remaining in one position, sitting or lying down, for an hour or two, the flesh on my elbows and knees would split, so thick and hard would the crusty scales become. The humiliation I experienced, to say nothing of physical agony, was something frightful. The detached scales would fairly rain from my coat sleeves. I have read none of your testimonials that appear to represent a case so bad as mine. But as to the cure. I commenced bathing in hot Cuticura Soap suds night and morning, applied the Cuticura Ointment, and then wrapped myself in a sheet. In two weeks my skin was almost blood red in color, but smooth and without scales. Patches of natural colored skin began to appear, and in less than a month I was cured. I am now passed forty years of age and have skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Hoping that others may benefit by my experience, and regretting that sensitiveness forbids me from disclosing my name, I am yours gratefully, J. H. M., Boston, Mass., Sept. 30, 1900.

Millions of People Use Cuticura Soap

Assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Millions of Women use CUTICURA SOAP in the form of baths for soothing irritation, inflammation, and excoriations, or too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially mothers. CUTICURA SOAP combines delicate emollient properties derived from CUTICURA, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients, and the most refreshing of flower odors. No amount of perspiration can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers to use any others, especially for preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, and hair of infants and children. No other medicated soap is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines in ONE SOAP at ONE PRICE, the best skin and complexion soap, and the BEST TOILET and baby SOAP in the world. Sold by all druggists.

Pass Drastic Measure.
With not a vote to spare the country members of the state senate on Wednesday passed the resolution for an amendment to the constitution limiting the total of Cook county's representation to one-third of the total membership of the Assembly. The move, designed to forever cripple Chicago, and prevent the city, no matter what its population, from having representation to which it is entitled, is denounced as a political move, as a move toward secession, and as a blow to representative government, by the press of Chicago.
Cook county pays one-third of all the taxes for state institutions and receives only an appropriation of $100,000 from the state for its public institutions. The bill now goes to the house and there the fight will be bitter.

Private Banker in Limbo.
Edmond Palmer, the private banker who looted the Desplaines bank and also his financial institution at Ashley, Ill., was arrested at Desplaines Wednesday and taken to Nashville, Ill., to escape the threatened bodily harm of defrauded depositors of the two institutions. The amount of the funds taken from the vaults of the Ashley bank was $25,000 in currency and $15,000 in notes. Only a few postage stamps were left for depositors.
At Desplaines $20,000 was taken. Of this amount $5,400 was funds of the village of Desplaines, and the balance belonged to local tradesmen and truck farmers in the vicinity. The amount of 48 cents was the cash on hand and in bank when the balance was struck Tuesday.

E. J. Meyer, merchant and treasurer of the village of Desplaines was a partner in the bank, having furnished $5,000 capital against Mr. Palmer's experience. Mr. Meyer has now the experience and Mr. Palmer the capital. The bondsmen of Mr. Meyer as treasurer will make good his deficit to the village. Depositors will realize nothing. It is said that no blame is attached to Mr. Meyer.

MRS. KENDALL ENTERTAINS.
Opens the New and Palatial Home to Lady Friends and Neighbors.
One of the most pleasant events of the season in society circles was the reception tendered by Mrs. Dr. C. H. Kendall to her many lady friends at her home Wednesday afternoon and evening. The new and handsome home was thrown open to those who are most competent to judge what a home should be in the way of furnishings and comfort. The unanimous verdict was that the home is one of the most comfortable and richly furnished in this section.

The guests numbered fifty and no expense had been spared to prepare for their entertainment and comfort. The decorations were pink and white carnations and ferns. The following interesting program was given and each number received an encore:
Graphophone.....Selections Solo.....Eleanor Arps
Recitation.....Mrs. M. A. Bennett
Instrumental Selections.....Eleanor Arps
Duet.....Mesdames Austin and A. Robertson
Graphophone.....Selections Solo.....Eleanor Arps
Recitation.....Mrs. McIntosh
Instrumental.....Eleanor Arps
Graphophone.....Selections
Cards and dominoes were introduced and a spirited contest entered into for pleasure and prizes. Mrs. Howarth took the prize in the domino contest while Mesdames Fred Hawley and L. H. Bennett carried away first rewards in the card games. Mrs. Churchill secured the booby prize.
Following the program of entertainment the guests were feasted with a repast the menu being as follows:
Potato Salad, Chicken Salad, Cold Baked Ham, Olives, Cheese, Pickles, Deviled Eggs, Sandwiches, Pickled Apples, Salted Peanuts, Angel Cake, Fruit Cake, Waters, Ice Cream.

At the conclusion of lunch came a season of sociability such as only fifty ladies given the freedom of a home such as presided over by Mrs. Kendall, have opportunity to enjoy. The following is a list of those present:
Mesdames—
F. J. Alverson M. A. Bennett
Wm. Howarth Geo. Comstock
C. O. Otis Robert Comstock

RESTRICT THE COUNTY PLAN.
Delegates to Meeting of Federation of Country Towns Propose It.
The opposition to a Greater Chicago is still a lively question among the towns which that municipality desires to annex. Although but little relative to the important question is heard here, the fight is still on, and Delegates John C. Plagge, Dr. C. H. Kendall, Leroy Powers and Frank Robertson are watching the interests of Barrington.
The Federation delegates met in Chicago last Saturday to pass upon the report of the committee to which was referred the constitutional amendment proposed by the Civic Federation of Chicago, providing for the consolidation of county and city functions within the city of Chicago. The report favored substantially a new amendment as drawn up by the delegates from the towns of Lyons and Cicero and differed from the bill of the Civic Federation in providing that the limits of the proposed county of Chicago should be coexistent with the present limits of the city of Chicago. The delegates from Evanston had a new scheme and presented a recommendation providing for the subordinate local government by districts and for local control of schools, police, fire protection, libraries, public lighting, improvement of streets, sidewalks, parks, sewers and waterworks in any territory hereafter added to the city.

There was a lengthy discussion on consolidation matters but action was deferred until the next meeting of the Federation to be held March 30.

DOWN IN ALABAMA.

Max Lines Writes of Scenes in the Sunny Southland.
The many friends of Max Lines, a popular young Barringtonian, who is traveling in the south, will be pleased to read the following which we are permitted to extract from a letter written to his mother, Mrs. Emma J. Lines. The letter is dated at Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 18:
"I have visited St. Augustine, Florida, and it is a very picturesque place; so different from the other cities I have visited in my wanderings down here. It seemed strange to see the narrow streets and odd looking Spanish buildings. The streets in the old portion of the city are scarcely wide enough for two teams to travel abreast, and balconies project from the buildings on each side until they almost meet in the center, giving the street the appearance of a tunnel. The old Spanish fort, San Marco, is still standing. It is the oldest on the continent; constructed like those of the olden times; built of coquina, a sort of rock composed of small shells pressed together.
In the center of the city is the great Plaza, formerly the old Spanish slave market. Here is also a house built for the use of the first Spanish governor, now used as a post office and custom house. On the north side of the plaza (Spanish for public square) is the ancient Spanish cathedral, and also a building said to be the oldest house in United States, but it does not look so very old. There are a number of old cemeteries here. In one are the graves of General Dade and 110 soldiers who were massacred by the Seminole Indians in 1835.
Nearly everything in and about St. Augustine has a Spanish name; hotels, churches, streets, etc. One of the pretty spots in the city is Ponce de Leon hotel, a beautiful building occupying over a block of ground and cost $3,000,000. The exterior is constructed of coquina, decorated by many towers and balconies. The interior is of marble and choice woods. It has a plaza in the center filled with fountains, flowers, palms and ferns. On the opposite side of the street is the Alcazar, another beautiful hotel building. The city is a great resort for the northerners touring the south, and the shipment of oysters seems to be the chief industry. I attended service at the Baptist church here. It is an elegant edifice, supports an excellent choir and eloquent preacher.
At Montgomery.
Today I am 400 miles nearer home, at Montgomery, Alabama. It is a typical southern city—the cradle of the Confederacy. This is where Jefferson Davis lived, and his old residence is only two blocks from where I am stopping. The capitol building here was the first capitol of the Confederate States of America, and on the steps is a brass tablet marking the spot where President Davis stood when inaugurated. This is a city of hills and quaint old buildings with pillars and columns, grounds surrounded by brick walls surmounted by iron fences. I attended service here Sunday morning and evening, at the Baptist church, an edifice built before the war, (one of most curious churches on the interior I ever entered), you'll observe I'm getting to be quite a Baptist, listened to an excellent sermon and the best of music. In fact the music rendered in the churches of the south cannot be excelled anywhere.
The labor market is overcrowded by the colored population here and it is difficult to find employment. I was much more favorably impressed with Florida than with Alabama."

Eat a Whole Cabbage
If you want to. It won't hurt you. People used to think cabbage hung heavy in their stomachs. After each meal, no matter what you eat, take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You will never suffer with constipation, indigestion, sick headache or stomach troubles. Chas. E. Churchill.

Notice to Taxpayers.
I will be at the Barrington Bank, Barrington, on Tuesday and Saturday of each week to receive taxes for the town of Barrington. Taxes should be paid on or before March 5.
