Mr. Brink, of the Woodstock Steam Laundry, was in town Tuesday, as was also Mr. Gleske of the Barrington laundry.

Henry Bicknase and family have moved from Chicago in D. B. Wood's house, formerly occupied by Charles Rennack.

Mrs. Ed Lincoln is slowly recovering from her illness and her mother returned to her home in Langenheim Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller returned from their wedding trip Tuesday and will make their home in Palatine for a short time.

Mrs. G. H. Arps started for Peoria Tuesday, where she goes to attend the G. A. R. and W. R. C. reunion as delegate from Palatine Corps.

Mr. Hall, superintendent of the cabling department of the Western Electric company in New York, was a guest of Albert Beutler over Sunday.

The Macomber presented their entertainment at Long Grove Saturday night and were greeted with a good and enthusiastic audience. They expect to go on the road again soon.

Miss Mary Putnam has formed a class for instrumental music at Ivanhoe and has a class of nine pupils with many more wishing to receive instructions. Miss Putnam is an accomplished musician and well capable of teaching music.

"Two Yokes Every Man Needs to Wear" Sunday evening at the Methodist church by Rev. D. J. Holmes. At the same time and place installation of officers of the Epworth League. In the morning on "The Glory of God's Promises to All who Love Him."

The school board met in special session Tuesday night and it was decided to retain the following teachers for next year: Principal, W. L. Smyser; teachers, Misses Avalee Hopkins and Emily Snider. Three of the teachers have not, as yet, been engaged.

On Monday evening, May 20, at 8 o'clock, the Palatine Memorial association will meet in the Sunday school room of the M. E. church for the purpose of making final arrangements for Decoration Day. It is desired that a full attendance of the association will be present at this meeting.

John Evans died at the home of his son on the Hirm farm May 8, 1901. The deceased was about 84 years of age and was born in England, coming to this country 40 years ago. His wife has been dead about 4 years. The funeral took place from Mr. Evan's home Saturday and the remains were laid to rest in Northfield cemetery.

Two men formerly employed by Ben and John Wilson, stole a team of fine horses near Arlington Heights Sunday night and took them to Chicago, where they tried to sell them to a stock yard buyer. The stock buyer became suspicious, as a telephone message had been sent to Chicago to look out for the men. He gave them $5 to hold their offer and notified the police, who arrested them.

The annual meeting of the Palatine High school Alumni association will be held in the school house Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

August Pahlman had a runaway experience one day the first of the week. He was passing over the little bridge near Mr. Grigg's farm when his horse became frightened and jumped into the ditch. August was thrown out and the horse ran to town, where it was stopped.

CARD—I wish to thank my friends and members of the I. O. M. A. for their kindness and help through their lodge after the death of my husband, Henry Diekmann, I having received the full face value of the policy, with assessments paid added to it.

Mrs. MARY DIEKMANN.

Louis Bergmann's Birthday.

The children, grand children and great grand children of Louis Bergmann celebrated his 83rd birthday anniversary at the home of his son, Daniel Bergmann, Sunday afternoon.

Although Mr. Bergmann is past four score, he is hale and hearty, with more life than most men at fifty. He is bound not to rust out and keeps busy about his son's farms. He helped milk until a short time ago, when the cow kicked the pail and Mr. Bergmann said that when the cows commenced to kick it was time to quit.

He entered into the festivities Sunday as heartily as the little folks and during one of the selections by the orchestra he tripped the light fantastic with grace and ease. A grand supper was served and the birthday cake was a mass of sweetness on which were perched eighty-three lighted candles.

An orchestra composed of the following, rendered music: Violins, Rev. Holz, Dan Bergman, Delia and Frank Knigge; clarinet, Arthur Knigge; piano, Mrs. M. Holz. The music they rendered was first-class in every way and added much to the enjoyment of those present. A photograph of Mr. Bergman and his descendants was taken by photographer Will Mosser.

Those present were Henry Bergmann and family, John Bergman and family, Mrs. Henry Knigge and family, Henry Herschlag and family, Will and Robert Mosser, Ernst Beutler, Walter and Miss Lydia Meyer.

Epworth League Program.

The Epworth League gave a very interesting program at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

The meeting opened with a song and after prayer by the pastor the choir sang an anthem. Miss Mattie Hodgkins read a paper on "The First Epworth League." Miss Grace Beutler gave an interesting account of the district convention at Woodstock. Miss Elora Arps rendered a solo in her usual pleasing manner, followed by Miss Adella Smith, who gave an insight to the works of the Mercy and Help department. Miss Agnes Danielsen read "King Robert of Sicily," which was exceptionally interesting. "The Social Department" was the subject of a paper presented by Mrs. P. H. Matthei and she was followed by Miss Rose Converse, who sang a solo that was well received and presented. Miss Winnie Sawyer rendered a reading entitled "Last Hymn," and the manner of presentation left a good impression upon the audience. "How the League can help the pastor" was discussed by Miss Delia Rea. Mr. W. L. Smyser sang a solo in his usual pleasing manner.

A Forcible Demonstration.

J. C. Cleveland, of the advertising department of Montgomery Ward & Co., was in town Monday looking for old customers. It seems that The Review article last November, stating that this firm was not selling in Cook county any more, caused a big shrinkage in the firm's business in this section. They found out the reason and sent a man here to let the people know that they were still selling in Cook county. The article was published in good faith and was proven to the agent to be correct. He said that the little article cost the firm thousands of dollars of trade and wanted our advertising rates. He knows this paper is a good advertising medium.

Palatine Wins.

The Palatine High school base ball team went to Wauconda Saturday to meet the Wauconda school team on the diamond. The game proved an exciting one and interesting from the start. Palatine went to bat and started the ball to rolling by running in five scores the first innings. R. Beutler made the first score. With two men out and three men on bases Wasmann came to bat and rapped out a three-bagger and succeeded in reaching home. Scores were made in the fourth, sixth and eighth innings, with a total of 8 runs.

The fielding of both teams was first-class and the batteries did good work. In the third inning Golding made the only score for Wauconda. The teams play at Palatine this afternoon.

The line-up was as follows:
Palatine. Wauconda.
Filtbert. catcher Duers
R. Beutler. pitcher W. Golding
Wasmann. 1st base C. Griswold
Slade. 2nd base Murray
Williams. 3rd base Maiman
Hanns. short stop Potter
Clay. right field Ladd
I. Beutler. center field Potter

DOWIE DOOM IS SEEN.

Zealots Quit Zion and Declare Its Impending Ruin.

We extract the following from the columns of the Chicago Daily News, and in common with the majority of the people who are not in sympathy with John Alexander and his practices, hope the report of the disruption may prove true:

Dissension and disruption are looming up on the horizon of "Dr." John Alexander Dowie's Zion. The big religious oligarchy which he has built up with years of shrewd labor, with himself as supreme dictator, and which has brought him wealth said to amount to millions, gathered for the most part from the poor who have flocked to Zion's standard, is said to be tottering to its fall. For months mutterings of discontent have been heard in the highest ranks of the faithful and recently some of the "general overseers" most trusted and valuable lieutenants, men and women, who were sincere zealots, have become disgusted with his recent preposterous claims that he is the object of many of the prophecies of the old and new testaments, a second Elijah, and also wearied with what they call his hypocrisy, have resigned their positions in the church and are now very strongly denouncing their former leader.

It was declared Wednesday that the schism is just starting and that many of the highest and most influential officers of the Dowie church are preparing to leave the organization. The recent death of Mrs. Lucy Judd, wife of Deacon H. Worthington Judd, and her new-born baby, who received no medical treatment, together with other similar cases also has aroused a storm of popular indignation against the "healer" and the authorities are threatening criminal action against him.

Judge Dunne's Decision.

The decision of Judge Dunne of Chicago, in declaring that unearned wages cannot be assigned, is a body blow to the loan brokers and in interest to labor—a protection to all who have been beguiled into making improvident contracts incurring the pay which they are to receive in the future. The judge cites the enlightened laws of the state for the protection of labor and the security of its wages to show that the spirit of the statutes is contrary to the validity of liens which a workman may indiscreetly place on his future income.

In a broader sense Judge Dunne says that the system of assigning unearned wages, giving to another control of the sums to be paid when a contract for labor is filled, constitutes such a form of slavery as that which was abolished in the United States by the thirteenth amendment to the constitution. It is certain that a man who mortgages his future earnings enters a condition of servitude from which he has but little prospect of emancipation.

The Man Who Rents a Farm.

The following article has been going the rounds for some time. We found it somewhere but unable to give the proper credit. It tells the story of a farm renter who made a success of the undertaking though he had been told that he would hardly make a living. He was a young married man and rented a farm of 100 acres. He purchased household goods, horses, farm implements and stocked the place with cattle and hogs. He was obliged to go in debt for all this outlay and Mar. 1 he began work. His corn did not average 30 bushels to the acre, but the oats crop was better. Only a short time ago he 'settled up.' The first task was to pay for all he had become indebted for in the spring. Then he paid his cash rent, which was $500. After all this expense of starting in had been paid and the high rent settled for, he had $250 to put in the bank. He also had paid the living expenses of himself and wife during this time. This we consider is remarkably well done. It was accomplished by work and close attention to all details. This case is proof again that a renter can make money on a farm.

IS NEAR UNTO DEATH

Mrs. McKinley's Life Hangs by Only a Slender Thread.

Advices from San Francisco, received at noon Friday, state that the wife of President McKinley is in the valley of the shadow of death and may pass away at any moment. For years Mrs. McKinley has been an invalid, being a victim of aggravated heart trouble. During the progress of the continental tour of the president, so suddenly brought to a close in San Francisco, Mrs. McKinley's health had shown a slight improvement, but upon reaching the land of sunshine and flowers she was stricken with the old ailment and medical attendants have given up all hope of her surviving this attack.

The Associated press issued the following report yesterday forenoon:

"The wife of the president is gradually passing away, being kept alive by a treatment of salt injections into the veins. For the first time in several days she has taken nourishment and seemed to derive benefit from it. The physicians state that life hangs by a slender thread, and that she cannot possibly survive another sinking spell such as she experienced yesterday.

The patient suffers little and bears up bravely. During her periods of consciousness today her mind has been clear. The president is constantly at her bedside, and although worn out by his long vigil is standing the awful strain with remarkable fortitude.

Every banquet and public function planned in honor of the presidential party here has been abandoned."

The regret at the curtailment of the president's tour will be coupled with concern for the health of the first lady of the land, whose sudden illness is the cause of the change of plans. The entire country unites in the hope of her speedy recovery and the completion of a tour which is unique among the journeys which have brought an American president into close touch with the people.

Definition of News.

To a certain extent people realize that the duties of the responsible and conscientious editor are difficult and demand a wider range of experience than the duties of any other profession, says the Waverly (La.) Independent. While some of them, sometimes mildly and sometimes thoughtlessly, harshly criticize because the press gives prominence to sensational articles, yet the majority of them want a press that shall tell us the vices of mankind as well as the virtues. The most of our people look upon these questions from a common sense standpoint. They feel that the prodigal son ceases to be news when he has abandoned his riotous life and returned home to live an honest and sober life. They believe that it is fortunate for the community that sober and honest lives are not news, that sober and honest living is taken for granted as the natural and normal order of things and that it would be a sad day for human society when correct and orderly conduct was news and when disorderly and criminal actions were not news.

A newspaper which should present only the bright gleanings would be justly unpopular, even though it were pleasant enough reading, for everybody would know it to be a false presentation of life. Newspapers are by no means perfect, but they will become so just as fast as men and women become perfect; and not a whit faster. The press serves its purpose when it shows the pitfalls and snares into which a neighbor has fallen precisely as much as when it reports, with flattering encomium, some one's latest donation to some good cause.

Didn't Get the Suit.

Mr. Smith ran over the bills which had come from the dry goods man, the dressmaker and milliner during the month, says an exchange, and by the means of pencil and paper deducted the whole amount from his salary for the three months past. He was rejoiced to find a balance in his favor of $15.98. He was at once bewildered by visions of a new hand-me-down suit which was now almost within his grasp. He had seen ready made suits advertised somewhere at $9.98, and was hunting in the daily paper for the ad, when his wife pranced joyously into the room.

"Oh, Henry," she gurgled, "see my beautiful new spring jacket! Isn't it a perfect love? It was only $15, and I told them to send the bill to you, my dear!"

Smith let the paper slide to the floor, murmured "buncoed," and lapsed into idiotic admiration.

Never help a man into trouble; try to help him out.

Objectionable Booth Moved.

The booth in the Manufacturers' and Liberal Arts Building at the Pan-American Exposition grounds, Buffalo, which has caused so much friction between the labor unions and the Exposition officials and which threatened to involve all the men employed on the grounds in a general strike, has been removed and it is now believed that all the carpenters will go to work at once. The booth objected to is the only one in any of the buildings manufactured in mills where non-union men are employed, and as this is the only cause of complaint that the union carpenters have the officials are confident that there will be no more trouble. The attendance at the grounds today was good, notwithstanding that it rained for about two hours during that part of the day when most of the sight-seers visited the Exposition.

Englishman Finds Strange Animal.

Sir Henry Johnson, special commissioner to Uganda, reports the established existence in the Semliki forests of a peculiar ruminant thought to be long extinct. The natives call this animal the okapi. It is a graffe-like creature, which is closely akin to the ox in size. The neck is a little longer, proportionately, than that of horses, the ears like those of the ass, with silky, black fringes; the head tapers like and the nostrils are like those of the graffe. The forehead is a vivid red, and the neck, shoulders, stomach and back a deep reddish brown. Parts of the animal are almost crimson and others blackish in hue.

For School in Jerusalem.

The council of the Archaeological Institute of America began in New York City Saturday. Prof. John Williams White of Harvard university, the president of the institute, presided. Prof. J. Henry Thayer of Harvard university on behalf of the committee on the American school for oriental study and research in Palestine submitted a report. The school, the report shows, is in straitened financial circumstances. An effort is being made to raise $100,000 for the erection of a suitable building at Jerusalem for the school and $55,000 of the sum has been subscribed.

Passengers Taken from Wreck.

The passengers on board the steamer Princess Louise, which ran aground at Thormanby Island, just south of Taxada, were taken off of the wreck, says a Vancouver, B. C., dispatch, by the tug Falcon, which had been hailed as she was passing the wreck. Princess Louise is valued at about $100,000. It is believed the steamer will be brought off safely if the wind keeps down, but a storm would soon pound her to pieces.

Body Accidentally Cremated.

The remains of Mrs. Kate Dwyer, while awaiting burial at Piqua, O., were cremated in a fire which had originated in a peculiar way. Early this morning the wind blew a lace curtain into the flames of candles set about the bier, and the fire that ensued enveloped the shroud and consumed the coffin, cremating the corpse before discovered by the inmates of the house.

Swears He Wrote the Bordereau.

The independence Belge at Brussels publishes affidavits signed by Count Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy, before the French consul in London, admitting the authorship of the Dreyfus bordereau. He also declares that the bordereau was written with connivance of Colonel Sandherr, ex-chief of the secret intelligence bureau.

Tarat Is a Hero in Austria.

Jockey Fred Tarat, writing from Vienna, is delighted with his surroundings in Austria. Up to April 29 Tarat headed the list of winning jockeys, with a record of eleven victories and five seconds in twenty-one starts. Other American jockeys have done well, viz., Hamilton, with two wins in eight starts; Doggett.

Two Die in Southern Wreck.

The south-bound Illinois Central passenger train from Chicago jumped the track on the curve near Hazelhurst, thirty miles south of Jackson, Miss., at daylight Monday. C. E. Rose of Fulton, Ky., mail clerk, and Tom Lee, fireman, were killed. Gus Nelson, the engineer, sustained a fracture of one leg. M. R. Stappen, assistant mail clerk, was badly bruised. Physicians have been sent to the scene from Jackson. The train was running fast on a section of track undergoing repairs.

China Offers to Pay Indemnity, Demanding Terms.

IS SILENT ON INTEREST.

United States Still Favors a Reduction of the Amount—Commissioner Rockhill Is Instructed to Continue His Efforts to Secure an Abatement.

The state department at Washington has been informed in a cable dispatch from Special Commissioner Rockhill that the Chinese peace plenipotentiaries had informed the foreign ministers at Peking that the Chinese government would assume the obligation to pay the indemnity of $337,000,000 demanded by the powers, but desired, thirty years in which to do it, as the resources of the empire would not permit a better arrangement. Acting Secretary Hill sent instructions to Mr. Rockhill to continue to use his influ-

"GREATER THAN KING"—J. P. MORGAN.

The portrait herewith reproduced is believed to be the best likeness of J. Pierpont Morgan, America's greatest financier. J. J. Hill said in an interview that had Mr. Morgan been in New York instead of in Europe last Thursday's riot in stocks would not have occurred.

Business enterprises organized under Mr. Morgan's direction, and in great part remaining under his control, represented a third of the wealth of the United States engaged in railroad and industrial affairs, or about $7,000,000,000. The billion-dollar steel trust is one of Mr. Morgan's enterprises still fresh in the public mind.

Mr. Morgan began business life at 20 as a clerk in his father's bank. He inherited $10,000,000, and has given $5,000,000 to charities in the last fifteen years.

ence with his diplomatic colleagues to secure a still further reduction in the aggregate amount of the indemnity. This government adheres to its assertion that China is not able to pay more than $200,000,000. Nothing was said in Mr. Rockhill's dispatch in regard to the interest. The answer of the Chinese plenipotentiaries is accepted at Washington as evidence of China's willingness to comply with any demands for indemnity made by the powers, and to that extent the international situation is simplified. Navy department has sent orders to Rear Admiral Kempff, acting commander of the Asiatic station, to send home the ships Concord, Marietta and Castine during the latter part of the coming summer. This is in pursuance of the policy announced some time ago of reducing the naval strength in the east. The Bennington, Petrel, Oregon, Newark and Brutus have already been ordered home, so that with these three ships there is a total reduction of the fleet in Asiatic waters to about forty-two vessels.

Late Spring Causes Failure.

The Bee Hive department store at Burlington, Ia., managed by the Weber Smith Company, has assigned, with assets of $9,000, and liabilities at $5,000. The cause given is poor collections and a backward spring. Two Chicago firms are involved for small amounts. There are fifteen Ohio firms involved.

Not Ready to Stop War.

The war office at London denies the statement published in New York that Lord Kitchener has telegraphed advising granting all the demands of the Boers, with the exception of independence, owing to his conviction that they cannot be forced to lay down their arms without a long continuation of the war.

C. K. Eddy Is Dead.

C. K. Eddy, president of the C. K. Eddy & Sons Lumber Company of Saginaw, Mich., died Monday at his temporary home in Los Angeles, Cal., aged 80 years. Besides the widow, who will remain in Los Angeles, he leaves two sons associated in the lumber enterprise bearing his name.

Harvard Student Fleeced.

Stoughton Bell, Harvard '95, in a letter to the Harvard Crimson, alleges that money lenders, in addition to charging students exorbitant interest, make a practice of obtaining from them post-dated checks instead of promissory notes.

Mrs. McKinley Stricken.

Illness which attacked Mrs. McKinley made necessary an unexpected change in the plans of the presidential party and may cause a curtailment or possibly the abandonment of the programme for the remainder of the trip.

Teller Shot; Money Spilled.

Phillip Schumacker, paying teller of the Teutonia bank, a state institution at New Orleans, was shot in the calf of the leg while at work in the bank counting the cash previous to a meeting of the finance committee. When assistance came he was lying on the floor, badly bruised, a pistol near him, and money scattered on the floor. He said he was attacked and fired on by two men, and that he had returned the fire. Although the bank is in the heart of the city, the men could have entered and escaped by the rear. The police have been unable to find any trace of the thieves. An examination of the books tonight seems to point to a shortage of $18,000.

The bank of Danforth, Ill., was broken into Wednesday. The steel vault and office fixtures are a wreck. The outer door of the burglar proof safe was completely destroyed. The burglars failed to get the money chest open, though they knocked one layer of steel off the door with explosives. The damage to the safe, furniture and fixtures was about $2,000. The work was evidently that of experts.

FATAL WRECK OF STEAMER

City of Paducah Goes Down in Mississippi.

TWO PASSENGERS DROWNED.

Many of Crew Missing—Accident Happens Late at Night While Boat Is Heavily Loaded with Coal—Stories of the Rescued.

The steamer City of Paducah, bound from St. Louis to Paducah, went to the bottom near Brewkhorst Landing, six miles north of Grand Tower, Ill., Sunday night, after striking a snag. Two persons are known to be dead and several of the crew of the boat are reported missing. The known dead are J. W. Bell of Bells Landing, Tenn.; Miss M. Gardner of St. Louis. The captain reports as missing: Watchman Charles Johnson of St. Louis; fireman, pastry cook, deck sweep, Texas tender, sixteen roustabouts. The vessel is valued at $15,000 and the cargo at $75,000. Both are considered total losses. The boat belonged to the St. Louis and Tennessee Packet company and was in charge of Capt. W. D. Kilpatrick of Clifton, Tenn., a master of forty years. The captain testifies that the boat was in No. 1 condition and that the obstruction was unseen. The boat was loaded with corn, meats, cornmeal, flour and groceries. The bodies of the two passengers who were drowned have been recovered. All of the officers were saved. First Mate Tobias Royal of St. Louis says only about twelve passengers were on board, and that all were saved except two. The body of Dr. J. W. Bell was taken out of his stateroom, and the remains of a young woman from St. Louis were recovered from her stateroom. Several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry was found on the body. Only the Texas and the hurricane deck are above water, which reaches to the skylights of the cabins. All the staterooms are completely filled with water. The steamboat drifted a third of a mile below the landing before it sank. The first mate says the boat went down within three minutes after striking the snag. He was on the cabin deck and escaped by climbing through the skylight. It is supposed that most of the missing deckhands, who were on the lower deck, were washed down the river and may have escaped. Thomas Johnston, watchman of the boat, who is said to be among the lost, was 85 years old and had been a steamboat man for sixty years. He lived in St. Louis.

Miss Fannie Block, who in company with her parents, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Block, was going from St. Louis to Evanston, Ind., was roused about 10:30 o'clock from sleep by a sudden jar. She asked her mother if her berth had broken, and no sooner had the words passed her lips than water rushed into the apartments and they were compelled to act quickly to save their lives. With four others they escaped to the Illinois shore by holding on to driftwood and swimming. They lost all their clothes and valuables and had nothing but their underwear and blankets about them.

NOTED ACTOR, WHO IS DANGEROUSLY ILL.

James A. Herne, the veteran actor, has been ill for some weeks at his home, 79 Convent Ave., New York. He is suffering from pleuro-pneumonia, resulting from a cold taken about six weeks ago, and his family and friends are anxious over his condition, which has been critical for some days.

Searles' Assets Are Large. Schedules of the assets and liabilities of John E. Searles, who made an assignment to Edward F. Dwight on March 5 last and against whom bankruptcy proceedings were instituted four days later, have been filed with the clerk of the United States district court in Brooklyn. The schedules show on their face that Mr. Searles' assets greatly exceed his liabilities, being $3,616,545. He owes, all told, $2,135,785.

Oratory of Elective List. President Eaton at Beloit, Wis., has announced that the faculty of Beloit college has decided to place rhetoricals on the elective list of studies. This, he said, was because of the little interest some students manifest in oratory. He stated that an annual prize of $50 had been offered to the winner of the annual home oratorical contest to encourage interest in that event.

No More Faro in Montana. Every gambling house in Montana is closed. Attorney General Donovan instructed every county attorney to see that they were closed or else he would proceed against them for neglect of duty. This is the most radical effort at reformation ever made in Montana, and for the first time since the discovery of gold faro has not been dealt in the state.

Great Northern Is Bigger. The Great Northern railroad has filed with the secretary of state at St. Paul the certificate of the increase of $25,000,000 in its capital stock. The fee paid to the state was $12,500. The same certificate was filed with the Ramsey county registrar of deeds.

British Dislike Trade Combinations. At the session of the Iron and Steel Institute, London, the discussion of the paper read Thursday by William Garrett of Cleveland was resumed. A majority of the British engineers maintained that combination was all very well in America, but that it would not meet the requirements of the multitudinous customers throughout the world, who sent British firms small parcel orders. They also asserted that Great Britain could hold her own.

Plans Massacre of Christians. The Reforma, of Sofia, learns from Constantinople that a massacre of Macedonian Christians is being planned which will put the Armenian atrocities in the background. The sultan has assented to the plan and Effendi Pasha has been entrusted with the execution of the project. The paper further states that the Macedonians have a choice between being slaughtered by the Turks and making a bold fight for freedom. The paper urges an immediate revolution.

Cleveland Is After Fish. Grover Cleveland, former president of the United States, arrived at Sandusky, O., Thursday, to spend ten days fishing at Middle Bass. With him are Admiral Lambertson, U. S. N.; Professor John L. Lloyd of Cincinnati; Judson Harmon of Cincinnati and Charles Foster of Postoria, former secretary of the treasury. When asked regarding his reported Wall street winnings Mr. Cleveland smiled and replied: "I have nothing to say." He declined to be interviewed on any subject.

Irish Newspaper Is Seized. The police seized at Dublin William O'Brien's weekly paper, the Irish People. It is reported that the seizure was on account of reflections upon King Edward. Another report says that the organ was seized for a coarse personal attack upon Mr. George Wyndham, the Irish secretary. It is probably for "lese majeste," a crime almost obsolete in England, that the paper has been confiscated. It is surmised that the attack on King Edward was Mr. O'Brien's comments on the civil list, which passed the house of commons, the Irish Nationalists voting against it. Several Irish papers have been seized recently for alleged scurrilous and articles the English administration regards as seditious.

For Shooting a Preacher. Attorney S. D. Stokes is on trial in the circuit court at Williamson, W. Va., for the murder of Rev. J. J. Wood, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, last December. Rev. Mr. Wood had severely censured members of his church, and, meeting Mr. Stokes, there was a heated discussion. A few evenings later several shots were heard in Rev. Mr. Wood's study and Stokes was found standing over the dead preacher. Stokes was wounded in the leg. The attorney claims Wood fired at him first after slapping him in the face, and this statement is corroborated by Mrs. La Neive, who was living at the house at the time and saw the fight.

Pastor Toasts Liqueur Men. In bumpers of beer the Rev. A. F. Sterger, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Evangelical church, Baltimore, drank the health of the Knights of the Royal Arch. The Knights are saloonkeepers and men in the liquor business and the occasion was the annual banquet. The Rev. Mr. Sterger recently publicly announced his sympathy with the saloonkeepers of Baltimore. The Anti-Saloon league denounced his course. The other Lutheran ministers of the city held a meeting and adopted resolutions declaring that the Rev. Mr. Sterger did not speak for the ministry of his church, and they regretted his action.

Workmen Are Killed. The second fatal accident in the excavation for the new Frick building, Pittsburgh, for the week occurred Thursday. One man was killed and two were hurt. On Tuesday two men were killed. The accident has caused a panic in the ranks of the army of workmen employed to rush the work through.

James A. Herne, the veteran actor, has been ill for some weeks at his home, 79 Convent Ave., New York. He is suffering from pleuro-pneumonia, resulting from a cold taken about six weeks ago, and his family and friends are anxious over his condition, which has been critical for some days.

Mildred Trevanion

BY THE DUCHESS.

"Don't be alarmed," said the newcomer, "it's only me, and not the long-expected come at last in the shape of the 'midnight marauder'—I like my grammar, don't you, Mildred? How are you old boy? Glad to see you. Had no idea I should first come upon you spooning with my sister in the moonlight, but accidents will happen. Are they all quite well, Milly?"

"Quite well," Miss Trevanion answered, feeling rather disgusted and sore about the moonlight inuendo, and indignant that Denzil should stand there silent and allow it to pass for granted; "but you need not accuse me of flirting so soon, Charlie. I am not given that way, as you know, and Mr. Younge came out merely because he felt the night warm."

"Just so," said Charlie. "Odd how one always does feel the night warm when there's a girl on the balcony! And so," glancing through the bright red curtains that concealed the room, "you have been going in heavily for society tonight. I can see Mrs. Deverill, and a fat young man, and your father, Younge, and 'my pretty Jane,' and Sir George eloquent on South-downs, and here, to excite my curiosity, the end of a blue silk dress, and there—I say, Mildred—come here. Who is the young person in tights?"

"That's young Mason of the 10th," said Miss Trevanion, "and though he doesn't intend it, his slothes always seem too small for him. The blue dress you see belongs to Frances Sylverton."

"Oh, does it!" exclaimed Charlie, turning away abruptly.

"Come in and show yourself" suggested Denzil. "You can't think how awfully glad they will be to see you. It was only yesterday your mother was complaining about the short leaves of absence you get, and your coming now so unexpectedly, will enhance your value doubly."

"My dear fellow, consider—I'm in morning costume," protested Charles, gayly. "Would you have me throw discredit on the house of my father? Why, these Deverills are so nice they would not know exactly how to treat a fellow who could so far discard appearances as to turn up at half-past nine in a gray tweed. Mildred, I will bid you a fond good-night, and be visible again some time tomorrow, when you have gently broken the news of my arrival. Is my old room appropriated by anyone? Can I have it?"

"Never mind your room yet," said Mildred, "do you think I can let you go again so easily? No, come in this moment when I desire you, and show yourself to the company in general. I would not miss mamma's look of surprise and delight for anything; so I must insist on your obeying me—and, besides, you look charming in gray. Come, darling—do."

"Well, on your head be it, if Mrs. Deverill retires in confusion," Charles murmured, and followed his sister obediently into the warm, handsomely furnished drawing-room.

Miss Sylverton, sitting just inside the window, looked up with a sudden start as he passed her, and, crossing the room to where his mother sat, laid his hand lightly on her shoulder.

He was not a handsome young man—was, in fact, the plainest Trevanion of them all—but the action he used toward his mother was full of such tender, beautiful grace as might have belonged to the most polished courtier of the olden days.

Lady Caroline turned, and half cried aloud in her intense surprise and joy. He was her eldest-born, the beloved of her heart, and she welcomed him accordingly; indeed, every one seemed only too glad to see once more Charles Trevanion's fair, sunburnt face, and hear his honest, happy voice, unless perhaps Miss Sylverton, who, on her astonishment at his sudden appearance was at an end, appeared to lose all interest in his presence, and went back to the rather one-sided flirtation she was holding with "the man in tights."

"How d'ye do, Miss Sylverton?" Charles said presently, and Frances put her hand coldly into his. "Have you been getting on pretty well? You cannot think how happy it makes a fellow to be heartily welcomed after a long absence, as I have been welcomed by you."

"I cannot say how long or how short your absence has been," Frances retorted, "as I have had no means of remembering when it was when you went."

"Whose fault was that?" he said, gently.

"Was it mine?" There was just a suspicion of tears under the long dark lashes. "I don't think I ever forbid you to come and say good-by at Sylverton, did I?"

"No, not exactly, perhaps; but there are more ways of forbidding than those expressed in words. I have a dim recollection, a faint idea, that somebody told me, a few months ago that she hated me."

"And I dare say she will tell you so again before she dies," returned Frances, with a little, low, happy laugh; "meantime I am very, very glad indeed, Charlie to see you home again."

"Are you, Frances?" said Charles, softly.

After that, the young man in close fitting raiment got very little of Miss Sylverton's society.

CHAPTER V.

It was just at this period that Miss Trevanion became aware of a certain falling of Eddie's about which she had hitherto been ignorant. It came to her knowledge in this wise: One hunting morning during the chilly early breakfast, at which she always presided, her father having a prejudice in favor of the coffee administered by her fair hands, it so happened that the post arrived rather more than twenty minutes before the usual hour, and consequently the various letters were handed to the assembled men to peruse at their pleasure, while getting through the agreeable task of devouring cold game-pie.

"Two for you," said Sir George, and he flung Eddie a brace of missives that fell a little short of his coffee-cup, and lay with the black sides turned up-most. One had a large square envelope, and a crimson splashing crest and coronet, singularly unfeminine, which attracted general attention for a moment.

Mildred, idly toying with a teaspoon, looked up a minute later and noticed that the lad's face had grown wonderfully dull and pale for him, and that he was staring at the now open letter with a pained gravity unusual in his case.

"Has she bowled you out, Trevanion?" asked young Cairns, with a gay, thoughtless laugh, from the far end of the table, where he sat near two other men of his regiment staying at King's Abbott for a few days' hunting. "Regularly knocked over, eh? You look like it."

"Not quite so bad as that," Eddie answered, the dejected expression disappearing altogether from his countenance with such rapidity that Miss Trevanion, still watching, concluded her fears had been groundless and dismissed the incident, as meaning nothing, from her mind.

Later on, toward the evening, however, wandering leisurely up-stairs to dress for dinner, and having occasion to pass through the picture gallery, beyond which lay many of the bedrooms, her own amongst the number, she beheld Eddie at a distant window, his head pressed against the painted glass, his entire attitude suggestive of despair. Even as she looked there arose before her a vision of broken bread and half-cut pasties, with much plate and china, and a gaudily-crested envelope lying in their midst.

She went up to him and laid her head upon his shoulder.

"Anything the matter?" she asked, lightly enough, not anticipating any real trouble.

He turned and faced her, thereby displaying a countenance betokening anything but that inward peacefulness commonly supposed to come from the possession of a quiet conscience.

"Why, Eddie," Miss Trevanion exclaimed, "what is it? What has happened? Why are you standing here alone?"

"Nothing has happened," returned Eddie, in a voice that perfectly suited his face, and so was lugubrious in the extreme; after which he most ungratefully turned his back to her.

"Surely you will tell me," she expostulated. "It can be nothing so dreadful as your manner seems to imply. Come, Eddie, speak to me; perhaps—who knows?—I shall be able to help you."

"Nobody can help me," said Eddie. "Nonsense! It isn't like you to be so down-hearted—is it? and I can generally assist everybody, you know; so let me try with you. You will confide in me, dearest, will you not? Indeed I cannot be happy while you look so miserable."

"Just so," broke out Eddie at last, with the reckless scorn people generally indulge in when conversing with their best friends—that is when their best friends have succeeded in driving them into a corner—"and of course you will have no difficulty in putting your hand in your pocket now this moment and giving me three hundred pounds on the spot."

"Oh, Eddie, what is it you mean?" Miss Trevanion asked, now thoroughly frightened, ready money being an article very scarce and difficult of attainment in the Trevanion household, and Sir George's private affairs and general "hard-upplishness" being well known to the elder members of the family.

"I mean that I have been gambling and have lost three hundred pounds," Eddie said.

And then Miss Trevanion felt that the trouble was a very real trouble, indeed. She could not speak to him for a moment, and so kept silence. Presently he spoke again.

"There is nothing to be done, Mildred, that I can see," he went on—nothing, I have no means of paying the money, and so I suppose the sooner I proclaim myself a blackguard and get out of the country the better for you all."

"Do not say that," Mildred said, in a low voice. "Is there no way of managing it? Let us think well before we give up in despair."

"There is no way," he said—"none." I have long overdrawn my years allowance, and the governor is too hard up to advance, even if he would, another fifty—to say nothing of what I want. Besides, Mildred, I—I could not bear to tell him of it; he has so often warned me against gambling on account of that wretched old story about Willoughby Trevanion. I think it would almost break his heart if he fancied the family curse had broken out again in me, and—oh, Milly, I swear to you I never meant it; it all came about so suddenly, so miserably. I had always been proverbial for my luck, until that evening at the vic-count's rooms, and then I lost my head, I think; and the worst of it is Poyntz is just now so deucedly used up himself that he can't afford to wait."

"For how long has this—this gambling been going on?" Miss Trevanion asked.

"About a year and a half."

"And how have you managed to pay your debts during all that time?"

"I never lost much before, and, when I did, was always sure to win it back again the following night. That was the evil of the thing, you see; it drew me on, encouraged me, until I felt I couldn't lose, and then in the end, as I have told you, my luck deserted me, and left me as I am now, hopelessly in debt, and dishonored, and so on," wound up the poor boy with a miserable choking sensation in his throat.

"Oh, dear, what can the matter be?" sung bonny Mabel, at the top of her clear, sweet voice, the words, singularly appropriate, albeit unmeant as they were, echoing merrily through the chamber as she came swiftly toward them through the gathering gloom.

Her advent, unexpected as it was, left Eddie and Miss Trevanion speechless.

"Why, you two," she said—"are you struck dumb that you both stand there so silent in the twilight? Has the 'holy friar' of our establishment appeared unto you and deprived you of the organs of speech? Mildred, you remind me of some stricken saint, leaning in that position, with the painted light of that window falling full upon you in such a dim religious ghostly sort of manner; while Eddie—Good gracious, Eddie, what's the matter with you?"

Miss Trevanion glanced at her brother, and he said:

"Oh, tell her—there is little good in keeping it secret now, when every one will know it soon, and so 'the queen' was enlightened forthwith and, contrary to all expectations—as she was generally the most easy-going of the Trevanions—was supremely indignant on the spot.

"Well, I have never heard anything so disgraceful," declared that august young personage, when the recital was finished to the last word—"never!" And, if anyone but you had told me of it, Mildred, I should not have believed them. I think—to Eddie—"you ought to be thoroughly ashamed of yourself, when you know poor papa is in such difficulties, and no earthly way of getting out of them. No, Mildred, I won't stop; it is useless to shake your head at me behind his back; I mean to say just what is on my mind—and I think too much could never be said on such a subject. You may spend your life glossing over other people's faults, but I am not an angel, and cannot; besides, what is to be done? How the money is to be paid I cannot imagine, I'm sure; and, in fact, I have no patience with him!" concluded Mabel, slightly out of breath, but with a finishing touch of scorn that would have done credit to a parliamentarian.

Farms Can Be Made to Pay.

A professor in Cornell university has been discussing in print the question whether a farm can be made to pay. He thinks it can, but with some mental reservations on the subject of what it means to have a farm "pay." He says of one of his early experiences with his farm: "Half of country life is in the living. It is in the point of view. It is in the way in which we look at things. Thoreau rejoiced when it rained because he knew that his beans were happy. One day my man was agitated because the woodchucks were eating the beans. He would go to town at once and buy a gun. I asked him how many beans the woodchucks would probably destroy. He thought from one-eighth to one-quarter of an acre. Now, one-quarter of an acre of field beans should bring me a net cash return of $3 or $4. I told him that he could not buy a gun for that money. If he had a gun he would waste more time killing the woodchucks than the beans would be worth. But the worst part of it would be that he would kill the woodchucks, and at daylight morning after morning I had watched the animals as they stole from the bushes, sniffed the soft morning air and nibbled the crisp young leaves. Many a time I had spent twice $4 for much less entertainment. My neighbor thought that I ought to cut out the briars in the fence corner. I told him that I liked to see the briars there. He remarked that some folks are fools. I replied that it is fun to be a fool."

Let children know something of the worth of money by earning it; over-pay them if you will, but let them get some idea of the equivalents; if they get distorted notions of values at the start they will never be righted.—Talmage.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

The Sand Plum.

In a book written by Professor Waugh, on plum culture, he prints a letter received by him from D. M. Adams, of Sumner county, Kansas, on the sand plum. We believe it will be interesting to our readers and so reproduce it here:

"This plum grows wild in this country along the Arkansas river. The best patch of wild ones I have seen was on the bank of the Arkansas at the mouth of Slate Creek, a few miles above Gueda Springs. There was about forty acres in the patch that had been left in its natural state. The ground looked like a barren sand-bank. There was no grass or weeds or other shrubbery, except a few wild grape vines. It was a hot day in August. The sand was so hot that the boys could not walk over it in their bare feet. The bushes grew down to high water mark in the river. Most of the hills were about ten feet above the level of the river. The person that owned the land sold the fruit and let us pick it. They watched and had it picked clean as they went. It was about the middle of August. They had been picking for a month and thought there would be plums there for another month. The bushes were from three to six feet high. The plums were brown, the size of a May cherry, the size of a Damson plum. Some were a bright scarlet, the color of a cherry; others were a bright yellow or amber color. Where they had not been picked, the bushes were bending to the ground with their load of fruit. The fruit was so thick as almost to hide the leaves. It was the grandest sight in the fruit line that I ever saw. They looked like a large flower garden at a short distance. We cultivated them in our yards and gardens. All you have to do is to set out a few bushes. Soon they will spread until they make a thicket that one cannot walk through. When they are in bloom they look like a bank of snow. They begin to ripen at about the same time as wheat, and continue to ripen for six weeks to two months. They do not all ripen on the same bush at once. There will be ripe ones and others perfectly green on the same limb at the same time. They are one of the best fruits for cooking that grow. We have a patch of four or five square rods. It gives us all we want while they are going, and then we have a supply for canning. Here is one of the most valuable fruits. Some of the small-sized plums have a bitter taste, still are very juicy and acid. I do not know how they will succeed further north. Since I have been here I have sent several lots of seeds and roots to different parties in different states, but have never received reports from any of them. I sent a lot of seed to a nurseryman in Indiana. He advertised them in his catalogue as Kansas dwarf plums."

An Appeal to Breeders.

The committee representing Poland-China, composed of R. D. Burnham, H. M. Kirkpatrick and Frank D. Winn, makes an appeal to the Poland-China breeders throughout the United States for help in making the Kansas City show the great success it promises to be with the support of the liberal spirited breeders of the United States. The condition of the Poland-China breed in this show is most unfortunate in having no association or Record Company behind it. When the Kansas City Stock Yards Company offered $500 to each breed on condition that this amount be duplicated by each breed, the Berkshire and Duroc Jersey Record Associations made the guarantee, while the $500 of the Poland-Chinas had to be guaranteed immediately by the three members of the committee. The committee wishes it to be distinctly understood that all the work they are doing in condition with this show is entirely gratis and that in addition to this the current expenses which have to be met are being taken care of personally and will have to be until after the show and besides this, each of the three members have made a liberal subscription to the special prize fund.

It would not be fair to even think that the breeders of the country who will derive as much good from and who should be as much interested in this show as the committeemen, will refuse to aid this great undertaking. The $2,500 to be raised for the state fair list is about all provided for and a good portion of the $2,500 for special prizes to be raised by the breeders has already been pledged, but there is yet considerable to be raised which can be done easily by a little help from each. It is not expected that breeders living at a distance will give a large amount, but they can afford to give something and the committee wants it understood that anything offered will be gratefully accepted. If you do not feel able to give $25, give $10 and if not $10 then give $5. There are thousands of Poland-China breeders, and even $1 from each would more than raise the money, although there are few breeders who could not afford to give at least $5. The subscription blanks are now being sent out and it is to be hoped that no breeder will return same without something filled in.

The Record Companies have practically refused to take an interest in the show, the state fairs have cut the premium list down on hogs until no exhibitor can win enough money to pay expenses and it is due to the three members of the committee who are working untiringly to make this show a grand success and when the subscription blanks are sent around that a donation of some kind be made. This is a breeders' show and nobody but the breeders will be benefited and each should see that he does his part. There is a friendly rivalry between the two breeds as to who will make the best show and have the most attractive premium list. Will the representatives of the great breed of Poland-Chinas stand still and see their favorite outdone? Consider this when filling out your subscription blank, is the earnest request of the management.

Is the Robin a Friend or Foe?

An Illinois professor, who has made a study of birds and bird-life, says:

Gardeners have long looked on the robin with suspicion; its abundance, its size, its boldness in entering our gardens and orchards, render him quite a factor for the weal or woe of the fruit grower; so it has received an unusual share of attention from investigators. Even when the snows of winter linger late the robins come at their appointed time and content themselves with last year's sumach or wild grapes. Once the lawns are clear they descend to them and subsist chiefly on fly larvae, of these 175 have been counted in a single stomach. As the season advances the diet is more varied, larvae of many kinds, beetles, grasshoppers and other ground insects receiving attention. During March twenty per cent of their food is cutworms; in April beetles are often in the majority; but up to the end of May, ninety-five per cent of their food is insects. Then comes a change. During June—I use figures compiled for our own state—fifty-five per cent is fruit, in July this figure rises to seventy-nine per cent, in August it is fifty-six but more than half of this is wild cherries. For the balance of the year fruit predominates, wild grapes being most favored but forty-one different kinds of wild berries have been found in the stomachs. For the whole year sixty-five per cent of the food is insects, twenty-five domestic and ten per cent wild fruit. Of the insects we find that forty-three per cent are injurious and thirty-six per cent beneficial species, while twenty-one per cent are neutral. The question becomes very complicated for we would not only have to know the value of the fruit, but the damage done by the injurious species, including those that would have been destroyed by the beneficial species, and other details, all reduced to dollars and cents. It is evident we cannot enter on this subject here, but it has been worked out thoroughly and carefully elsewhere, and in concluding an exhaustive paper on the subject Professor Forbes says: "I, for my part, do not believe that the horticulturist can sell his small fruits anywhere in the ordinary markets of the world at so high a price as to the robin, provided he uses diligence that the little huckster does not overreach him in the bargain."

Horticultural Items.

According to a man who is said to be the biggest dealer in palms in New York, above 6,000,000 of them were distributed throughout the country for church use on the Sunday previous to Easter day.

From Dalmatia has come a perennial cabbage, which forms the principal food of hundreds of families in Dalmatia. It grows to a height of five feet and bears tender leaves throughout the winter. These are picked singly or the whole head is cut and the stems sprout again. It stands in the fields for three or four years.

A table, published in the annual report of the department of agriculture, is enlightening as to the amount of money the people of the United States spent in purchasing favorite flowers at retail in 1899—roses, $6,000,000; carnations, $4,000,000; violets, $750,000; chrysanthemums, $500,000; miscellaneous, including lilies, $1,250,000. These vast sums found their way into the pockets of nearly 100,000 producers and retailers.

Cleveland has a home gardening association which encourages children to cultivate flowers at home. Last spring the association distributed to children 50,000 penny packages of flower seeds, accompanied with printed instructions how to prepare the soil, plant and water. The teachers supplemented these instructions by talks. In the fall exhibitions were held in many schools, which revealed the fact that about 75 per cent of the efforts of the children were successful.

Wise Handling of Clay Soils.

Prof. L. H. Bailey, in his recent book, "Principles of Vegetable Gardening," says: Many people spend more time and muscle on wet lands than are required. The one important item is timeliness. When the soil is betwixt wet and dry, it breaks as it turns from the plow. Turn it up loose and open. Then let it lie for a few hours or a day. As the clouds begin to dry work roughly with a strong harrow. Do not try to work it down fine. As the lumps begin to dry after the next rain, hit them with the boot. If they break and crumble, work the land again, this time with a lighter harrow. A few timely workings when the soil is just right will accomplish more than thrice the labor at other times. Many people make the mistake of tilling their clay lands until they become too fine. Then a rain packs and cements them, and the trouble begins all over again. Because sandy and loamy soils are best when fine and mealy, people think clays must be; but clay is not sand. The addition of humus enables one to make a clay soil mealy.

LATEST ILLINOIS NEWS.

Partello Claim Denied.

Governor Yates vetoed the Partello claim for $40,000 and when the news of his action reached Mrs. Partello in the state capitol building she was almost overcome and was taken away in a closed carriage. There are half a dozen people in Springfield who in one way or another are connected with the matter, who are each talking mysteriously concerning a scandal that is likely to result. Partello and his attorney claim that he owes but $1,200, and that the persons opposing him wanted to hold him up for something over $6,000. Governor Yates in his veto message suggests that the matter ought to have been referred to the court of claims, and that the state should waive the statute of limitations. The Odell bill, providing for the consolidation of rural school districts and the free conveyance of pupils to and from school, was also vetoed by the governor. The governor signed the congressional apportionment bill, the bill extending the powers of sanitary districts, and the bill placing guaranty and title companies under the state auditor.

G. A. R. at Peoria Meetings.

Peoria's magnificent Coliseum recently dedicated, one of the largest buildings in the United States, is where the Grand Army of the Republic, department of Illinois, held sessions during the week. The building was erected by the people of Peoria at a cost of $70,000, and has a seating capacity of 6,500. The building is broad and low with simple architectural lines. It has a gallery around three sides of the auditorium. All conveniences have been arranged inside the building, and there are sixteen double-door exits. The interior is of Peoria sand mold brick with Bedford sandstone trimmings. It is the property of the city and fills a want that has long been felt by the people.

Sues Millionaire for $3.

S. E. Gross, real estate dealer, author and millionaire, has been sued in a justice court at Chicago for $3, which it is claimed is due Samuel Azato, a former office boy. The suit was brought May 2 by Attorney M. C. Koebel, who has an office in the Ashland block, and who appears in the proceedings for the boy as "his next best friend," the plaintiff being a minor. The boy in his complaint states that he was employed in Mr. Gross' office at a salary of $3 a week, and that he entered upon his duties March 24. He says that he received $3 for the first week he worked, but that after working five days the next week he was discharged, and was not paid for his services.

Woman and Sons Disappear.

Mrs. Frank Oday, wife of a well-to-do farmer near Trilla, and her two small sons have been missing since Saturday night. Her husband and relatives are distracted, and, aided by the police in surrounding cities, have failed to locate the missing ones. Mrs. Oday came to Mattoon Saturday afternoon ostensibly to shop, and cashed a check for $100 at a local bank. Investigation shows she made no purchases. Three weeks ago she sustained a painful operation on her teeth and has been affected since. It is believed that during a moment of mental aberration she wandered away. Her husband has gone to Kokomo, Ind., hoping to find the missing ones there with relatives.

Barn and Stock Burned.

Fire destroyed a valuable stock barn belonging to William Barding, a wealthy stock raiser, six miles southeast of Pana. In an effort to extinguish the flames Barding was seriously burned about the face and feet. The barn contained six head of fine horses, seven head of cattle, several head of hogs and sheep, all farming implements, about fifty tons of hay and a large amount of grain. The loss is estimated to be about forty thousand dollars, with no insurance.

Dies at Age of 103 Years.

Mrs. Abigail Pugh, who passed the century mark of her life three years ago, died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Pye, 73 East Huron street, Chicago, Mrs. Pugh was born in Addison, New York, Nov. 25, 1797. While a child her father moved to Fayette county, near Connellsville, Pennsylvania, where she spent most of her life. She was married twice and had eight children by her first husband, but none by her second marriage.

William E. Rollo Is Dead.

William E. Rollo, founder of the insurance firm of William E. Rollo & Son, died at his home in Chicago of organic heart trouble. Mr. Rollo was 80 years old and one of the pioneer insurance men of Chicago. The death was sudden and as no attending physician was present to issue a death certificate the matter was reported to the coroner. Dr. Leininger of the coroner's office issued a certificate.

Black and Bradley Decline.

Governor Yates has received letters from General John C. Black of Chicago, and Samuel H. Bradley of Quincy declining appointments as trustees of the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors' home at Quincy. Bradley will probably be appointed secretary to the board of trustees and chief clerk at the home.

Boer Side of South African War.

The information which we get in this country regarding the situation and progress of the war in South Africa is quite naturally apt to be pro-British, as the British authorities have control of all telegraph communications, and the news must come mainly through British sources. It is therefore of interest to receive a report of the situation from a Boer source, even though that source is hostile to everything British.

Montagu White, the representative or diplomatic agent of the Boers in the United States, has just returned from Europe, where he met a number of persons from the Boer fighting camps, "which they quitted for legitimate reasons as recently as the end of January, and others from Johannesburg and Pretoria, from which places they have been deported by the British authorities. They one and all tell the same story—namely, that the Boers in the field are determined to fight on to the end unless their independence is recognized. Even the victims of the reconcentrado system, who are fed upon weevily corn and damaged sugar, share the optimism of those in the field as to the ultimate triumph of their cause." Mr. White declares that the reports concerning ill treatment by Boers of uitlanders and peace envoys are false. "Several men like Lanham, Walker and others, reported to have been murdered in cold blood, are still alive, and Andreas Wessels, a peace envoy, reported shot by order of General De Wet, is now known to be alive and well." Mr. White claims that the great opportunity for a peaceful settlement was lost after General Cronje surrendered at Paardeberg. "This disaster for a time so disheartened the Boers that had Lord Roberts, instead of insisting on unconditional surrender, offered anything like generous terms it is certain that peace would have been established long since. On the other hand, the demand for unconditional surrender and the burning of homesteads, the destruction of crops and gardens, the carrying off of cattle and, above all, the harrying of the women prolonged the war." Mr. White concludes with the statement that wealth has been powerless to break the spirit of the Dutch republics. "Not only have they been pitted against the richest power on earth, but the sympathies of cosmopolitan wealth have been, almost without exception, actively directed against the Boers."

According to a recent report sent to the British foreign office from the representatives of German East Africa, it is desired that Great Britain take a hand in the development of that territory not only because of the projected Cape to Cairo railway, but because German East Africa would furnish a suitable outlet for the surplus population of India. The report states that the white population now numbers 1,078, of whom 821 are Germans. Besides these there are already some 3,000 British Indians and a like number of Arabs, while the Swahili and native population is estimated at 6,000,000. In order to develop the natural resources of the country, and especially the cultivation of rice and cotton, for which the land offers exceptional opportunities, the immigration of agriculturists from British India would be welcomed. The Germans themselves, the report points out, are quite anxious for this, for the estimates for 1901 include a demand for £1,500 to be used in grants to such immigrants.

The seizure by an Illinois game warden of 22,000 grouse, ducks and quail which had been shipped to the Chicago market from Indian Territory is probably the largest seizure of game on record. The birds were seized under the federal law known as the Lacey act, which prohibits the shipment of game into any state in which the season is closed. The incident shows an intention of the game commissioners to enforce an act under the provisions of which it is possible for them to do more than was ever done toward the protection of the game birds of this country. Let the good work go on.

The relentless iconoclast is again busy in his effort to destroy our patriotic and historic idols. A writer in a Boston paper insists that, while there may have been such a person as Paul Revere in Revolutionary times, his famous ride cut no figure in the struggle for independence. But the world is likely to give little heed to these prosaic pundits who would knock all the poetry and romance out of history.

A Chicago man bequeathed $100,000 in a 15 word will. The lawyers ought not to be able to make much capital out of such a brief and concise document.

W. T. Stead has his prophecy works in operation again. This time he prophesies war between the United States and Great Britain.

The Situation in China.

The powers have again fixed the amount of indemnity which China must pay. This time it totals $263,000,000, and Russia, Germany and France are to get the major portion of that amount. Sir Robert Hart, the best western observer of oriental affairs, said some time ago that China cannot pay more than $200,000,000, and possibly the figures may be scaled down to that amount before the dickering for damages is over. However, the powers have made steady progress toward moderation. The first tentative and unofficial figures which reached the light last fall placed the total of their claims for indemnity at about $600,000,000. There was more authority for the statement published a month ago that the total would be $500,000,000, and the preliminary estimates did exceed $400,000,000. After further caucusing the powers have concluded that they can get along with the modest sum of $263,000,000.

It is evident that no offsets are to be allowed the Chinese on account of claims for damages suffered by them through butchery of loot. It is evident also that their creditors are going to crowd at least to the limit their capacity to liquidate their debts without going into bankruptcy. If the dominating purpose of the allies is to drive a hard bargain, but not to break up the empire, they will make it their business to nurse and develop its resources in order to get their money out of it.

Despite the heavy burdens that the powers are likely to place upon the empire there are indications that China will in the long run be benefited by the encounter it has been having with western civilization. There are some evidences that ancient Cathay is on the eve of a reform era. This is evidenced by the waning power and influence of the dowager empress and the placing of more enlightened and liberal men, of whom Prince Ching is a type, in practical control of the affairs of the empire. China evidently is beginning to realize that she must rise and shake off the lethargy of the ages or suffer dismemberment. She can become a sovereign power and compel the western world to treat her as an equal, but if she lapses into apathy, corruption, ignorance and stagnation her doom is sealed, no matter how heavy or light may be the financial exactions of the powers.

Oklahoma has "a second Daniel come to judgment" in the person of a local magistrate who lately handed down a decision decidedly unique in criminal jurisprudence. It appears that an Oklahoma man stole two hogs and sold them for $30.22. He was caught red handed, as they say in the police courts, and for awhile his case really looked serious. However, the judge before whom the hog stealer had been taken for trial came to the rescue in a manner that was at once beautiful and ingenious. He decided that inasmuch as the thief had been compelled to dispose of the hogs 12 miles from the scene of the theft he ought to be allowed at least $1 a mile for the expenses of transportation. This brought the amount for which the lawbreaker was held accountable down to $18.22. In Oklahoma no thief can be sent to the penitentiary for stealing less than $20 or its equivalent; hence the man who had taken and disposed of the hogs which did not belong to him was rescued from the shame and inconvenience of stripes and hard labor and after serving three days in the county jail was set free.

As indicating something of the development of wireless telegraphy United States Consul General Guenther of Frankfurt writes to the state department that the captain of a channel mail steamer which is equipped with an apparatus for wireless telegraphy reports that on his last trip a message was received from the French lightship which is anchored about 25 miles from Dunkirk stating that the latter would be unable to light up the next night unless help arrived from shore. The captain at once sent a second wireless message to La Panne, on the Belgian coast, from which point it was forwarded to Dunkirk by the regular telegraph line. From this place a boat was dispatched to the lightship, and the necessary repairs were made.

United States Consul Warner of Leipzig reports that the long distance telephone line connecting the cities of central Germany with Frankfurt, Kalk, Muhlheim, Cassel and Wiesbaden, in the western part of the country, has been opened for use of the general public. The charge for using this line is 1 mark for every three minutes to any one of the above mentioned places.

Minister Conger seems to have come home in a receptive mood. The governorship of Iowa would, it is intimated, be an agreeable change from his late strenuous duties in Peking.

The twentieth century promises to be an era of discovery, if not of new worlds, of new possibilities in the development of the resources of old Mother Earth.

Events seem to be moving rather slowly in China. It has been some time since Li Hung Chang lost a yellow jacket or Prince Tuan his head.

Tenure of Office in Consular Service.

The information comes from Washington that few changes are to be made in the consular service during President McKinley's second administration, but that good, experienced men are to be encouraged to remain in it and are to be rewarded by promotion to better places as vacancies occur. This is as it should be and will doubtless increase the efficiency of the service, which should be made of the greatest value possible to American merchants and manufacturers who are seeking foreign markets, and consuls all over the world are on the alert for information that will aid in extending American markets.

Much has been done in this direction already. Early in Mr. McKinley's first term the system was adopted of issuing advance sheets of the consular reports from the state department daily, and in this way the information forwarded by the consuls is made available for every one interested practically as soon as it is received.

Much of the development of the foreign commerce of the United States within the past few years is attributed to the improvement in the consular service and to the zeal of the consuls in keeping American merchants informed of everything of interest commercially in their respective territories. When large contracts for locomotives, railroad rails, bridges, electrical machinery or anything else manufactured on a large scale in the United States are to be awarded, the information is promptly forwarded to the consular bureau, with all the details which an American wishing to compete should know in preparing his bid, and Americans are thus enabled to enter into competition with all the world.

This kind of efficiency comes only by permanency of tenure in consular places. Time was when these positions were mainly awarded for party and political service, with little discrimination as to the especial fitness of the appointee. It is therefore an encouraging sign that consuls who have demonstrated their competency and usefulness are to be continued in the service.

It has been charged, writes Earley Vernon Wilcox in the May Forum, that weeds and other less desirable plants take the place of the native forage plants when the native plants, including grasses, are grazed upon continuously by sheep. So far, however, as the writer's observations go, in Montana the exact reverse of this is true; and it may be stated as a general proposition for that state that the continued grazing by sheep brings about the gradual extermination of all weeds except a few which are not regularly eaten by those animals. In fact, this matter has long been recognized by a number of the more prominent sheep men, and several of these have informed me that, according to their experience, the only plants which had become or could become weeds on the range were those which the sheep would not eat. It is well known that native and introduced grasses endure continued close cropping far better than other plants, and as a result the grasses come to occupy the ground as the other plants are gradually exterminated by the sheep. In some localities the writer observed two aggressive plants which were gradually spreading, and as far as they had extended they occupied the ground almost completely. These plants were a native species of plantain and chickweed, which were undesirable as forage and were never eaten by sheep.

The Salisbury government seems to be floundering in a sea of trouble. The export duty on coal, the most striking feature of the recently presented financial budget, may result in a hostile demonstration on the part of the miners, while the army reform proposals are opposed by all the military men in the house of commons. On top of all this is the growing and widespread feeling of dissatisfaction over the progress of the war in South Africa, for which the ministry is mainly held responsible.

It is stated that 186 Protestant missionaries and children were slain during the Boxer revolt in China. It is to be regretted that the life of even one Christian teacher was lost, but does it not appear that in the demand for retribution the civilized nations are rather enlarging upon the old Mosaic law in insisting on a basketful of eyes for an eye and a whole set of teeth for a tooth?

It is stated that roof gardens have not been successful in St. Louis. Doubtless the St. Louis man thinks there is no sense in going to the top of a building to get a drink as long as the beer tunnels are handy.

The allied forces in China shot into a covey of Boxers the other day and made the scene of the engagement look like a pigeon tournament.

In connection with the price that was to stagger humanity it is noted that Oom Paul persistently refuses to mark down the goods.

Abdul Hamid is unquestionably the most promising debtor of modern times.

Our local G. A. R. post is making extensive preparations for Memorial Day, May 30, and have succeeded in securing the services of Gen. Green B. Raum, ex-pension commissioner, and who, at the opening of the Civil war, was colonel of the 56th Illinois, to deliver the memorial address. He is a very able speaker, and the post has done well in securing his services.

Fire broke out in the rear of the Lakeside hotel about 9 o'clock Thursday evening, destroying out buildings and the ice house. The hotel building was saved only by hard work on the part of the fire department, which had two streams of water on the blaze within four minutes after the alarm was given. The damage will not exceed $200. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Quite an interesting base ball game took place Saturday at Bang's ball park between the Wauconda Juniors and the Palatine High school, the latter winning by a score of 8 to 1. The Palatines got a good lead in the first innings, but after that the Juniors settled down and allowed only three runs during the remainder of the game. Wauconda's only run was made by W. Golding, who came in on a single to right. The pitching by W. Golding for Wauconda was a feature. In one inning only three batters faced him and all were struck out. This was the Juniors' first game and, considering the size of the opposing players, was very satisfactory. The Juniors challenge all teams in Lake county averaging not over 16 years, to a game or series of games. Address Elmer Duers, Wauconda.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hapke and family visited with relatives in Chicago Sunday and Monday.

George Hapke was appointed as village marshal to succeed E. J. Reilly at the board meeting Monday evening. Although this is a very responsible position, we predict Mr. Hapke will make a good officer and take an interest in the affairs of the village. Mr. Reilly, the retiring marshal, has held the position for the past two years, and has performed his duties well, which will serve as a credit to him and everything is left in good shape for his successor.

All three saloons were closed Sunday in pursuance of the orders given them Saturday evening by our new mayor, L. C. Price, to close promptly at 11 o'clock Saturday evening and remain closed until 5 o'clock Monday morning. Many sober faces were seen around the street corners on Sunday morning, and although they were compelled to submit to the inevitable, it was hardly fair to issue the order without giving them warning so they would have been prepared to withstand the draught for the day.

PETERSBURG, ILL., Oct. 13, 1899.
PEPSIN SYRUP Co., Monticello, Ill.
Gentlemen:—Our baby Esther has never tasted a drop of medicine other than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for more than a year. It entirely cured her of constipation. She is a lovely child and since I gave her your medicine she has been perfectly healthy, although she had not been well and strong until we began using it. We know of others who are using it with equally good results. Wishing you success.
Gratefully yours,
Mrs. C. A. TRUCKMULLER.

OLD-SETTLER AT REST.
Mrs. Mary Cooke died at her home in Wauconda Sunday, age 93 years and 3 months.
She was one of the oldest residents of the county, locating at Wauconda in 1840. Mrs. Cooke's children, grandchildren and great grand children number eighty-eight, of whom seventy-two are living. Thirteen children were born to her, six of whom still survive—Homer of Waukegan, Monroe and Arthur of Wauconda, Mary Ann Foster of North Dakota, Louina of Volo, the wife of Supervisor A. J. Raymond and Lucy, the wife of W. M. Clough, who resides on the homestead at Wauconda. Zilpha Weagant died some years ago, Rodman was shot during the war, Aurelia died at age of five and four died in infancy.

All of the surviving children were in attendance at the funeral, which was held Tuesday.

A Remarkable Record.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for nearly thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Chas. E. Churchill.

Petition to Probate Will.
State of Illinois, ss. Lake County,)
County court, Lake county, May term, 1901.
In the matter of the probate of the last will and testament of Mary Gibney, deceased.
To all persons whom this may concern, greeting:
Notice is hereby given that on the 9th day of May, 1901, a petition was filed in the county court of Lake county, Illinois, asking that the last will and testament of Mary Gibney, deceased, be admitted to probate. The same petition further states that the following named persons are all the heirs-at-law and legatees, so far as known:
Richard Heslin, Thomas Gibney, Catherine Henning, Daniel F. Lamey, Margaret Lamey, Anna Lamey Collins, Julia Lamey, Ella M. Snyder, Edward Lamey as trustees of St. Ann's Catholic church of Barrington, Illinois, the Little Sisters of the Poor, a Catholic organization in Chicago, Illinois.
You are further notified that the hearing of the proof of said will has been set by said court for the 8th day of June, A. D. 1901, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon, at the court house in Waukegan in said county, when and where you can appear, if you see fit, and show cause, if any you have, why said will should not be admitted to probate.
ALBERT L. HENDER, County Clerk.
Dated at Waukegan May 9, 1901.

Resolutions of Respect.
WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst, John M. Foote, county treasurer of Lake county, and
WHEREAS, said John M. Foote has served the county of Lake both as a member of the Board of Supervisors, and as county treasurer, and
WHEREAS, it seems fitting that we, the Board of Supervisors of said Lake county, should express to the public, and to the family of the said John M. Foote, our appreciation of his sterling qualities and unflinching devotion to duty, and the pleasant relations which have always existed between him both as supervisor and treasurer, and the Board. Therefore, be it
Resolved, That in the death of John M. Foote, the county of Lake has lost an official who served her well and faithfully, and who by his unceasing attention to duty, has earned the praise of all. Be it further
Resolved, That in his relations with the Board he has always shown that fidelity to duty and eagerness to serve the best interests of the county, which were his distinguishing characteristics during life. Be it further
Resolved, That the clerk be directed to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the widow, and that a copy be spread upon our records and furnished to the county papers.

Northern Wisconsin Railway Farm Lands for Sale.
The North-Western line has for sale in Northern Wisconsin, at low prices and easy terms of payment, about 350,000 acres of choice farm lands.

Early buyers will secure the advantage of locations on the many beautiful streams and lakes, which abound with fish and furnish a never-ending and most excellent water supply, both for family use and for stock.

Land is generally well timbered, the soil fertile and easy of cultivation, and this is rapidly developing into one of the greatest sheep and cattle raising regions in the Northwest.

Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Superior, Ashland and other towns on the North-Western line furnish good markets for stock and farm product. For further particulars address George W. Bell, land commissioner, Hudson, Wis., or G. H. MacRae, assistant general passenger agent, St. Paul, Minn. 6-23

The Best Blood Purifier.
The blood is constantly being purified by the lungs, liver and kidneys. Keep these organs in a healthy condition and the bowels regular and you will have no need of a blood purifier. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, one dose of them will do you more good than a dollar bottle of the best blood purifier. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at Chas. E. Churchill's drug store.

The materials of dreams may be enumerated as memories of waking sensations, memories of waking thoughts and new sensations received in sleep, whether from without or within. Dr. Gregory mentions of himself that having on one occasion gone to bed with a bottle of hot water at his feet he dreamed of walking up the crater of Mount Etna and feeling the ground warm under him. He had at an early period of his life visited Mount Vesuvius and actually felt a strong sensation of warmth in his feet when walking up the side of the crater, and he had more recently read Brydone's description of Mount Etna.
On another occasion, having thrown off the bedclothes in his sleep, he dreamed of spending a winter at Hudson's bay and of suffering distress from the intense frost. He had been reading a few days before a very particular account of the state of the colonies during winter.—Cassell's Magazine.

Fish and the Alphabet.
Perhaps the funniest thing to be told respecting the antiquity of fishing relates to the holy wars which were waged in ancient Egypt over the fishy denizens of the water, the conflicts arising from the circumstance that, as often happened, one tribe would insist with the utmost irreverence upon eating up the fishes which the inhabitants of an adjoining territory held in divine adoration.
The child of today, in learning his alphabet, calls the letters by their names simply because the ancient Phoenicians were pleased to make similar figures the symbols of certain sounds, and it is thought very likely that the Phoenicians have been driven to invent that alphabet by the necessity of corresponding with peoples of various tongues incidentally to the great commerce which grew out of the fishery.
The letter "p" is like a selfish friend, the first in pity, but the last in help.—Chicago News.

FOR HER HAIR.
 Milady of fashion can select from an infinite variety of combs and ornaments for her hair, even without going into any of the precious metals. There is the ever handsome and ever useful shell, amber, which is beautiful with some tresses—not least frequently with blonde. Combs of amber with waved tops of lovely design are sometimes ornamented with rhinestones set in sterling silver. The combs of tortoise shell have lost none of their popularity. Among the fads of the moment are hair clasps, or barrettes, of plain or chased matt gold. A novelty is the stout hairpins with jeweled heads. These come either singly or in pairs and are used at the back of the head, crossed, if desired, and, as an excuse for their existence, they are supposed to keep stray short hairs in order. Verily, if many more of these dainty devices are brought into daily use, we shall soon have as many different pins and combs to support our coiffure as the Japanese maiden herself, with her innumerable fanciful hair ornaments. These jeweled hairpins are, however, extremely pretty. Particularly effective is a branch of mistletoe with berry and leaves all done in miniature, the finest rhinestones being used, the pine itself being of sterling silver.

SLEEP, MY LADY, SLEEP.
 Sip a glass of hot milk slowly just before going to bed and bathe the feet in hot water. Imitate the breathing of one who is asleep, and drop the head very slowly from one side to the other as one does when falling asleep in a chair, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Another plan is to close the eyes and then allow them to gently roll toward the nose as though looking cross-eyed. Let the breath out through the nose and imagine it to be vapor, then seem to draw it back again, as though drawing back the vapor.

These are far better than the ancient device of counting sheep jumping over an imaginary fence.

FOR GIRL BRIDESMAIDS.
 Bridesmaid's gown for a girl 16 or 17 years old. Both plaited bodice and skirt are of white lousine dotted with blue and black spots. The latter opens over a tablier composed of three founces of light blue mousseline de soie.

The décolletage is prettily draped with a fichu of this mousseline de soie, edged with a lace ruffle and caught up a little on the left with a strass buckle.

The full elbow sleeves are of the material, the girdle of black panne.—Wiener Chic.

"Why did you send for me, Mrs. Youngwife?" asked Dr. Redlight. "There is absolutely nothing wrong with the baby." "Oh, I'm so glad, doctor." "But what made you think there was?" "Why, doctor, he hasn't cried a bit all morning."

WOMEN AT PAN-AMERICAN.
 One of the many interesting features of the Pan-American Exposition, at Buffalo, is an extensive exhibition of women's manufactures. The general public little realize the extent and importance of this class of industries. It has been made apparent to the Board of Women Managers of the exposition, however, by the numerous applications from prospective exhibitors. One woman makes rugs and has built up quite an industry. She keeps a large number of wives and daughters of New England farmers busy with her work. Another manufactures artistic jewel settings, another carved and decorative leather goods, etc. In fact, the women's manufactures are so many that it would require much space to enumerate them all. The committee on applied arts of the Board of Women Managers has arranged to establish in the manufactures and liberal arts building a commodious booth in which articles manufactured by women may be exhibited at a nominal cost to the exhibitors, and arrangements will be made under which orders may be taken for articles like those displayed.

VEILS.
 The veils just now coming in are rather extravagant in design—clusters of dots in various combinations and striking effects. Here and there a large dot, possibly, but combined with the smaller ones, and the greater number of the most stylish veils in clusters of medium-sized dots. The chenille dots are appearing in these clusters in new veils.

CHASED THE SUPER.

The Exciting Race Between Kean and the Stage Hand.

Some strange tales have been told by old-timers in the stage business about the Keans, both the elder and the last to be seen on the American stage. Some have said that hard study made them a little wrong at times, and some of the things they did certainly looked queer. It is told by an old New Orleans horseman, who is here from the Crescent City, that when Kean, the younger, was playing there, he nearly scared a super to death and came near "pinking" him. It was in "Richard III." in the scene where he sees the ghosts. The stage manager was a little bit the worse for drink and determined to have some fun. He did not like Kean, as he was a hard man behind the scenes. Among the supers was a raw Irish lad who had never seen a stage before. The manager told this fellow that if he would run across the stage when he gave him the tip he would stand to earn $2. The poor fellow was broke, and a two-spot looked to him like a national bank. He agreed and the stage manager gave him a gaudy oilcloth banner bearing these words: "Smoke General Jackson Cigars." It was nearly a panic that this Irish lad started. He ran across the stage, and when Kean saw him he was furious. He made a lunge at the unfortunate super with his sword, and as the "rag" came whizzing down to a hurry call he chased the poor standard bearer off the stage, down the passage and to the street. For two blocks he followed him in his Richard costume, and finally the super escaped down a dark alley. What effect it had upon the show the turfman does not say, but certainly it was only the super's agility of foot that saved him.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

AMONG ANCIENT PERUVIANS.

The Early Tribes Trephined Skulls with Stone Instruments.

Prof. W. J. McGee of the bureau of ethnology, in Washington, has received official permission to exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo his studies of trephining among the early Peruvians. He will show ancient skulls trephined by stone implements, and in connection with this, some animal skulls, showing experimental work done under Prof. McGee's direction, using the same flint implements which the aborigines were forced to employ. It is doubtful whether the ancient operations were performed for a distinctly surgical purpose or whether the operation was of some mystic significance. In some cases the freshness of the wounds in the bone showed that the patient did not long survive the operation, and in one or two instances it is plain that the ancient operator must have cut down upon a large blood vessel, causing almost instantaneous death, but in other cases the operation was more successful and the patient must have survived for some years at least. Prof. W. H. Holmes, of the National Museum, will exhibit a dozen groups of models representing the domestic life of the aborigines of both North and South America, and will show also the houses in which they lived and some of the garments and implements of their daily life. This exhibit, although under the auspices of the National Museum, has been planned to supplement the regular ethnologic and archaeological exhibit of the exposition.

The St. Louis Show.

Everything is show, show, show. In 1903 St. Louis will celebrate the Louisiana purchase, an affair of some note in the days of Thomas Jefferson, involving disposition of 1,171,931 square miles of virgin territory. The tract reached from the Mississippi river to the Rocky Mountains, from the Gulf of Mexico to British America, and was about twenty-four times as large as the state of New York. The price paid was $15,000,000, the cost of two or three big office buildings in this city at the present day. Now, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition already has in its treasury more money to begin the show with in 1903 than our government paid in 1803 for nearly the entire west, a princely domain of 750,035,840 acres. The municipality of St. Louis has given $5,000,000, the federal government $5,000,000 and the people of Missouri by voluntary subscription, $5,000,000; total, $15,000,000. Add to this sum the amount already received from concessionaires, or agreed upon, and you will have some $17,000,000 or $18,000,000.—New York Press.

London's Neglected Opportunity.

At the best of times the Thames steamboat service has never been anything like adequate for the real demands of the metropolis, says a London correspondent. Ugly, slow-moving little boats running every half hour, and quite unpunctual at that, have been the Londoner's lot for years past, and because the service did not pay, as well it might not, it has been entirely discontinued since last summer. So that a fine thoroughfare, which if properly utilized would at least go some way toward solving the problem of London's congested street traffic, lies neglected and unused. To remedy this state of things the London county framed and lately brought before the house of commons a bill empowering them to build and run on the Thames passenger steamers of their own. This bill, however, has been thrown out, certain vested interests being wholly opposed to it, and London is left pretty much where it was.

The man who's now life has no time to be busy.

THE SASKATOON DISTRICT.

ONE OF THE NEW WESTERN CANADA DISTRICTS.

The Great Advantages of Settlement Where the Soil is of Unexampled Fertility.

During the past year or two a large number of American settlers (those going from the United States to Canada), have made homes in the Saskatoon district in Western Canada. They have found the climate all that could be desired and their prospects are of the brightest. In writing of it a correspondent says:

The lands for sale are choice selections from a large area, and every farm is within easy distance of a railway station. Experience has shown that this district enjoys immunity from summer frost, from cyclones and blizzards. The South Saskatchewan, flowing through the tract, is one of the finest rivers in the country, being navigable and having an average width of stream of 1,000 feet.

The agents of the Canadian government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere in your paper and who will be pleased to furnish full information, tell me that within the limits of the tract there are two distinct varieties of soil. One is a rich black loam, and the other is a somewhat lighter loam, containing a small admixture of sand. There appears to be no appreciable difference between the fertility of these two kinds of soil. Both are alluvial in their characteristics, both are marvellously productive, and both rest upon a subsoil of clay. The advantage of this formation is that it retains the heat of the day during the night, and is favorable to the early maturity of crops. Every kind of crop will here attain the highest perfection of quality. The land is admirably adapted for stock-raising and dairy farming, as well as growing grain. Some idea of the richness of the natural grasses of the prairie may be formed from the fact that more than 200 tons of hay were gathered within a short distance of Saskatoon and stored up for use during the winter. A growth so luxuriant demonstrates beyond all possible question the suitability of the land for pasturing cattle, and no doubt this important industry will be largely carried on.

Nature has been lavish in her gifts to this territory. Not only is the soil of unexampled fertility, but the climate is delightful and healthy. Such is the testimony of every settler, and this opinion is confirmed by enthusiastic opinions from every traveler, explorer, missionary or newspaper correspondent who has ever visited this far-famed Saskatchewan Valley. In former years vast herds of buffalo came here to winter from the elevated storm-swept regions south of the United States boundary line, proving thereby the adaptation of these rolling prairies to the purpose of raising stock. The land is dry, with sufficient, but not excessive rainfall, capable of early cultivation in the spring, and free from summer frosts. The configuration of the country renders artificial drainage unnecessary, and prevents the accumulation of stagnant pools; mists and fogs are seldom seen. The days of summer are full of sunshine, under the genial influence of which crops rapidly ripen. Autumn is characterized by an almost unbroken succession of fine weather, during which the crops are safely garnered. In winter it is cold, but extremely exhilarating and pleasant, owing to the wonderful dryness and bracing qualities of the air. The winter is a source of profit as well as enjoyment to the people, being far healthier than a humid climate.

Water and fuel—these two prime necessities of life are plentiful throughout the district.

NEW PLATE FOR CAMERAS.

Invention That Will Prove a Boon to Amateur Photographers.

The difficulties involved in the manipulation of a long celluloid film have prevented the extensive use of cinematographic apparatus by amateur photographers. To avoid this objection Leo Kamm has invented a camera—the kammatograph—in which a circular glass plate takes the place of the celluloid film. The plate can be made to rotate rapidly by means of a multiplying gear, and at the same time it travels laterally. A small lens forms an image upon the plate, and when the plate is put in motion these images are multiplied into a series of pictures arranged in a spiral. The plate is, of course, developed precisely in the same way as an ordinary negative, and a positive is then taken from it. To display the series of pictures it is only necessary to place the positive in the camera and to arrange the camera so that the beam from a lantern close to it can pass through the lens. The plate is then rotated as before, and the succession of the pictures projected upon the screen reproduces the original movements. About 600 pictures can be photographed during the motion of a single plate at a rate of about twelve or fourteen a second. The camera is very compact, and both as regards price and adaptability is within the reach of any photographer who wishes to secure pictures of rapidly changing scenes and moving objects. The small size of the pictures will not permit of projection upon a large screen, but the views can be shown large enough for ordinary purposes.—Chicago Chronicle.

Is the title of an illustrated booklet just issued by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, descriptive of the country between Aberdeen and the Missouri River, a section heretofore unprovided with railway facilities, but which is now reached by a new line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. Everyone contemplating a change of location will be interested in the information contained in it, and a copy may be had by sending a two-cent stamp to F. A. ARE ROLLING IN WEALTH.

Osage Indians Are the Wealthiest People on the Earth.

At the office of the commissioner of Indian affairs a few days ago contracts were let to cattlemen for the renting of the pasture lands of the Osage Indians in Oklahoma. These Indians have 800,000 acres of pasture lands, of which 600,000 acres were rented. This will add to the annual income of the tribe about $120,000, says the Washington Post. "And already," said Captain A. C. Tonner, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, yesterday, "the Osage Indians are the richest people in the world. Several years ago the lands of the Osages in Kansas were sold, the sale realizing $8,000,000. This money was placed in the treasury of the United States, and from it the Osage Indians derive an annual income of $400,000. In addition to this they own 1,570,195 acres of land, which is fairly worth $5 an acre, making the value of their land holdings $7,850,875. There are 1,972 Indians in the tribe, counting men, women and children. They all share alike in the tribal wealth, and when a child is born it becomes a joint property owner with all the other Indians in the tribe. The profits from the $8,000,000 held in the treasury, the recent rental of pasture lands, and other sources of revenue, give the Osages an annual income of approximately $600,000, a per capita income of $304.25 for each man, woman and child. When a family consists of man and wife and eight children, as often happens, the family receives each year in cash $3,040, and on their lands they raise all their foodstuffs and considerable grain for the market.

The realty holdings of the tribe have a per capita valuation of $3,937, or, for a family of ten, $39,370. There is no other race of people in the world, it is declared, that can make such a showing. The Osage Indians have not failed to profit by this wealth. The sons and daughters of families are sent east to colleges and boarding schools to be educated, many of them receiving professional training. There are a few families, of course, which still live with almost the simplicity that marked the lives of their savage ancestors, but the desire for education and culture is rapidly spreading, and when the Osages become citizens a few years hence they will be fully equipped for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. The homes of some of the most progressive Osages compare favorably with the dwellings of white people of equal wealth. Their houses are richly furnished with carpets and modern furniture, and in many homes there are pianos upon which the boarding school training of the daughters has taught them to perform. Horses and carriages are not infrequent, and though the automobile has not yet made its appearance, it is not an impossibility of the future.

Long Island Claims Gen. Meade.

Robert L. Meade, who has been promoted from colonel to brigadier general by brevet in the marine corps, "for distinguished conduct and public service in the presence of the enemy at the battle of Tientsin, China," is commandant of the marine corps at the Brooklyn navy yard. Long Islanders claim him as a native of Huntington.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. GRAIN-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about 1/2 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 35c.

Short of Water.

Utah proposes to avert pending calamity to her agricultural section by supplying the Great Salt Lake basin with needed water. Irrigation has cut off the supply and the lake itself is in imminent danger of drying up. The usual supply of water is being withheld and evaporation is rapidly lowering the level of the lake. Centuries ago the shores of the great inland salt sea were high on the mountains, where the line of the ancient brook is visible today, and the lake, which has sunk to its present dimensions, promises to disappear far more rapidly than in the ages past.

Traveling First Cabin.

General Francis Vinton Greene always travels first cabin. He is a millionaire, and can afford to. Mrs. Greene, who was a Miss Chevalier, lived in Washington before her marriage, and whenever she and the general revisit the capital they have a royal time. Their recent inauguration jant lasted ten days, during which period they occupied the home of Archibald Hopkins in Dupont Circle, paying a rental of $700. "Wouldn't you like to rent a few Washington houses at $25,000 a year."—New York Press.

PASS LAWS OUT OF DOORS.

Swiss Legislative Body Holds Session in the Open Air.

There are almost as many kinds of parliament as there are races which elect them. Some are amazingly antiquated in their methods of procedure, while others are as go-ahead as it is possible to be. On the continent, however, more or less of a family likeness exists between the parliaments of the various great powers, though in the lesser states there are many interesting and distinctive methods of government. One of the most remarkable instances of these existing today is the "landsgemeinde" of the canton of Glarus, in Switzerland. The government of no Swiss canton by the people is more absolute than in that of Glarus, where the burghers assemble annually to hold their outdoor parliament in a large square—usually on the first Sunday in May, weather permitting. The honored president occupies a platform in the middle of the square. There are places for boys around this platform, the young idea thus being taught early how to legislate wisely and well for his beloved country. Altogether the landsgemeinde is one of the most quaint and ideal little parliaments in existence.—Chicago Chronicle.

A Miracle Explained.

Bryant, Mo., May 13th.—The sensational cure of Mrs. M. A. Goss of this place has sent a ripple of excitement all over Douglas county, and Dodd's Kidney Pills, the remedy in question, are receiving thereby the greatest advertisement any medicine has ever had in this state.

To satisfy the many inquiries which she finds it impossible to answer by letter, Mrs. Goss has sent the following statement of her case to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat:

"I did not think I could live a day and suffer as I have lived and suffered for months, with Sciatica and Rheumatism. I used baths and liniments of all kinds. Two physicians treated me, one of them for two months. Nothing helped me in the least. I never slept more than ten or fifteen minutes at a time. I was bedfast and had to lie on one side all the time. I used to wish for death to deliver me from such torture.

"A friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after I had used them a week I began to improve, and in about four weeks I could sit up in bed. A few days later I walked a quarter of a mile and back. I now do all my own cooking and housework. The pain has entirely left me and I am a well woman. I have taken altogether sixteen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life.

"Mrs. M. A. Goss."

People come for miles to see Mrs. Goss and hear her wonderful story. Dodd's Kidney Pills are working marvellous cures in Missouri.

Miss Jennie Benedict, a confectioner, has been elected a member of the Louisville Board of Trade. She is the first woman in the city to join that body.

The transportation facilities would seem to be ample for all possible demands of the mammoth crowds which are expected at the Pan-American Exposition. The entire street railway system of Buffalo, driven by the power of Niagara Falls, is so laid out as to secure direct communication from all parts of the city to the Exposition grounds. At the northern boundary of the grounds there has been built a fine steam railway station. A two-track steam belt line encircles the city of Buffalo, reaching this station, and all the steam railroads centering in Buffalo have access to these tracks. This means of transportation will be extensively used both for excursion trains from out the city and for conveying people from the various parts of the city to the grounds.

It Seems as though my Back Would Break.

Is it not true? Women suffer, feel the very life crushed out of them, grow old before their time. Each morning wake up determined to do so much before the day ends, and yet—

Before the morning is very old the dreadful BACKACHE attacks them, the brave spirit sinks back in affliction; no matter how hard they struggle, the "clutch" is upon them and they fall upon the couch crying:

"Why should I suffer so? What can I do?"

The answer is ready, your cry has been heard, and a woman is able to restore you to health and happiness.

Backache is only a symptom of more fatal trouble—heed its warning in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will stop your torture and restore your courage. Your pains come from unnatural menstruation or some derangement of the womb. Let those who are suffering read Mrs. Morton's letter and be guided by her experience.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been so delighted with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would write and thank you. My system was entirely run down. I suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back and could hardly stand upright; was more tired in the morning than on retiring at night. I had no appetite. Since taking your Compound I have gained fifteen pounds, and am gaining every week. My appetite has improved, have no backache, and I look better than I ever looked before. I shall recommend it to all my friends, as it certainly is a wonderful medicine."—Mrs. E. F. MORTON, 828 York St., Cincinnati, O.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health more than a million women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free.

INSECTS HURT KANSAS WHEAT

Expert Estimates Crop at Sixty Per Cent of Last Year's Yield. Last week John Rawlins, an expert on wheat, was sent into southern Kansas by some Chicago grain men to investigate the damage reported by Hessian fly and Texas locust. Rawlins says there is not a field of wheat in Montgomery, Chautauqua or Cowley county that has not been damaged by these pests. The worst damage so far, he states, is to the early sown wheat. The late sown wheat is looking well. He found the fly in all three stages. In some fields he found that the fly was in the first stage and had done no apparent damage. This stage is called the flyseed stage, it being only an egg, which resembles the grain of that name. These eggs are found at the junction of the roots with the stalk of the wheat in quantities of from five to fifteen eggs in one stalk of wheat. They were deposited in the roots of the wheat last fall and remained there until warm weather. When the Hessian fly changes from the egg stage it moves to the stalks of the wheat, and in scores of fields these have practically destroyed the crop. In the Verdigris Valley farmers are plowing up wheat and planting the fields to corn.

To Do as Jesus Would Do

Articles of incorporation were issued by the secretary of state to the School of Methods of 238 Sixth avenue, New York. The school is founded on a plan which aims at the practical application of the teachings of Jesus to everyday life. The members—twenty-eight in number—carry on a bakery and lunch room and have leased a farm at Rosville, S. I., where they will raise vegetables for the use of their restaurant.

Jester Expense Bill Allowed

The state authorities of Missouri have just allowed the expense bill incurred in the famous Alexander-Jester murder trial which was held at New London, Rulls county. Jester, it will be remembered was tried for killing Gilbert Gates, a brother of John W. Gates, the steel magnate. The expenses allowed amount to $3,135.45, the second largest bill ever allowed in the state, and exceeding the Duestrow case by nearly $3,000.

One Killed, Another Dying

At Peoria, Ill., a runaway team attached to a milk wagon dashed into a single buggy in which Joseph Fleming and Joseph Blumb were riding, completely telescoping it. Both rigs were demolished, and the two men were thrown beneath the fallen horses, where they were terribly injured. Fleming, 71 years of age, died as the result of concussion of the brain, while Blumb is not expected to live.

Visible Supply of Grain

The statement of the visible supply of grain in store and afloat on Saturday, May 11, as compiled by the New York Produce Exchange, is as follows: Wheat, 45,761,000 bu; decrease, 907,000 bu. Corn, 17,338,000 bu; decrease, 1,327,000 bu. Oats, 11,449,000 bu; decrease 1,077,000; Rye, 963,000 bu; increase, 17,000 bu. Barley, 719,000 bu; decrease, 24,000 bu.

Shot by Vigilance Committee

Dr. Herman, colored, was fatally shot at Topeka, Kan., by a vigilance committee. Herman lived at the home of Mrs. George Hamler, whose husband died under Herman's care several weeks ago. The mob found Herman armed with a shotgun and revolver. The weapons were taken away from him and someone fired the gun at Dr. Herman.

Eastman Acquitted of Murder

Professor Charles R. Eastman, acquitted of the murder of Richard H. Grogan Saturday, devoted his first day of new found freedom to his wife and family and friends. Newspaper men he would not see. Saturday night he went to his home in Brookline street, Boston, stopping only long enough at the jail to collect necessary baggage.

Died at the Age of 100

John Fitzgibbon, aged 100, died on a farm near Bloomington, Ill. With one exception he was the oldest man in McLean county. He had been blind two years, but up to the time he lost his sight was active and robust, and able to do manual labor regularly. He was born in Tipperary, Ireland, and had lived here for fifty years.

Wrestlers Thrown by Train

Dr. Ernest Ziegler and George Browner, well-known citizens of Fairbury, Neb., were struck by a freight train as they were engaged in a wrestling match on the track. Ziegler, who is a liveryman, was so badly crushed that he has since died, and Browner's right hand has been amputated.

Escaped Prisoner Recaptured

John Davis, who escaped from jail at Winchester, Ind., by knocking senseless the wife of Sheriff Overman when she was serving his supper, was captured here today. He had been held for trial on the charge of shooting an officer at Blountsville who attempted to arrest him for burglary.

Kills Wife Shooting at Target

Charles S. George shot and instantly killed his wife at his home in Barre, Vt. George was arrested. In explanation he said that he had been accustomed to shoot at a target in the house with a Flobert rifle. He got up early and setting up his target in the kitchen, went into the next room to shoot. Just as he fired the first shot Mrs. George came out of the bedroom in her stocking feet, and stepped in range, receiving the bullet in her neck near the jugular vein. She died within a few minutes.

What Changed His Life Current

When Henry Isben was in his teens he took up the study of medicine and read for examination in Christiania. In the course of his study he read "Salust," and the character of Cattaline so took his fancy that he wrote a little play, introducing him. It was so successful from a literary standpoint that the young author's life current was changed at once.

POOR LITTLE JOHNNY! AND HIS "TUMMY"!
Small boys, and many times large ones, and occasionally girls, too, big and little, suffer terribly from convulsive pains or "cramps" in the bowels and stomach—pain so violent that it "doubles up" the ones attacked, and makes it impossible for them to stand up.
Some people call it colic, but most honest, plain-spoken people call it "belly-ache" and very properly, for the seat of the trouble is in the bowels, and caused by the violent efforts of the bowels to rid themselves of something which doesn't belong there. The small boy usually gets it from over-eating or from eating forbidden fruit, and suffers mostly in the summer time.
It's spring now, and "in times of peace, prepare for war." Let the boys and girls and the big folks, too, for that matter, clean out the dormant channels filled with winter bile and pending undigested food, strengthen the 30-foot of bowel canal, liver up the liver, and "banish belly-ache" will have no terrors, because they won't happen. The way to make the body ache-proof is to use CASCARETS, the perfect system cleanser and bowel-strengtheners. For fear that anybody in the family should ever be attacked by belly-ache, keep a box of CASCARETS in the house always, and remember that all pains and troubles in your insides are

It is not necessary for a man to be poor in order to be honest, but sometimes it seems necessary for a man to be poor if he is honest.

Give the Palatine dramatic company a crowded house tonight. The drama "A Woodmen Picnic or The Forged Certificate" is a good one.

The Royal Neighbors were reuniting in Springfield this week. The annual report of officials showed the order to be in a prosperous condition.

If people were bound to silence upon all subjects of which they are ignorant, what a sudden and all-prevailing hush there would be at times!

Of course a woman would rather drive nails with a hairbrush than with a hammer. When the brush hits her thumb it doesn't hurt so much.

The Junior League of the M. E. church will give a flower social in the parlors of the church Wednesday evening May 22. Admission 10 and 15 cts.

E. W. Brooks was appointed postmaster at Wauconda last Friday to succeed E. A. Golding removed owing to adverse report of government inspector.

Rev. S. A. Harris of Milburn seems to have found that section of Lake county a profitable field to combine religion and speculation. He didn't do a thing to 'em.

A large force of workmen are now employed on the foundry building at Chicago Highlands. Material is arriving in carload lots and the company rushing construction.

Services will be held at the Baptist church Sunday at the usual hours. At 6:45 the Y. P. S. C. F. will meet. Topic—"A Nameless Girl's Heroine." All are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Miller, wife of Henry Miller of Elgin, died at her home, Friday, May 10, aged 67 years. She was an aunt of Henry G. Miller of this place. The funeral was held at Elgin Monday.

The committee of ministers that will look for the effects of the anti-liquor law may find that they consist of business prosperity at Highwood and headaches at Fort Sheridan.

J. F. Gieske's new building on Station street is enclosed and the interior being finished. When completed the Barrington steam laundry will have a building adapted to its increasing business.

The fourth annual May party given by the Barrington Social and Athletic club at Stott's hall, last Friday evening, was attended by 25 couple and proved enjoyable. An excellent luncheon was served by Mrs. Fletcher.

Our former townsman, E. B. Clark, now a resident of Colorado Springs, is a member of the city council and chairman of the finance committee of that body. The city treasurer is reported to have misappropriated the public funds and Alderman Clark is engineering the investigation.

The Barrington M. W. A. band favored the populace with an open air concert Tuesday evening which was highly appreciated. The boys are generous with their music and our people should be equally so in their support.

A band of gypsies passed through here Monday evening bound for Grant county, Wis. They were about the worst looking lot of nomads who ever followed a country highway, and the chief prophetess said they had come across the state from Danville.

Frank Hoyer, who was arrested at Libertyville some weeks ago on the charge of attempt to kill Marshal Freshman, has been released from the county jail and discharged from custody, there being insufficient evidence to hold him on that charge.

Supervisor M. T. Lamey of Cuba township and Mayor R. G. Evans of Highland Park, completed the work of making an abstract of delinquent taxes of Lake county, Wednesday, and turned the books over to Treasurer Gridley who is now receiving such taxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wolaver, residing near Dundee, were tendered a pleasant surprise Wednesday evening. About 50 friends from Dundee, Barrington Center, Elgin and other towns were present. Dancing, refreshments and a social time was the order of the evening.

Apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y.

If the patriotic people of Barrington propose to observe the day of National Independence this year the time is at hand to agitate the matter. A regular old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration would be the proper way to open the first year of the new century. Last year the money went of this town in a goodly sum to the celebrations held elsewhere. Keep it at home this year.

The Thursday Club met at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hawley on Thursday afternoon. A paper entitled "Napoleon Bonaparte" was read by Zoa Meyer and one entitled "Victor Hugo," by Mrs. S. E. Howarth. After the program a dainty luncheon was served at small tables set throughout the parlors. The club will be entertained at a tea next Thursday at the residence of Mrs. H. Brockway.

Railway employees whose duties require that they work near the signal tower, are complaining of the sewer that empties near the C. & N. W. Ry. repair storage house. These complainants say that the north side drain, about which so much has been said, gives forth a perfume that is triple extract of American beauty roses compared to that coming from the sewer mentioned. Here is a case for the committee on health and sanitation.

The first picnic of importance to be held at Fox River grove this season will be that of the Cook County Democratic Marching Club of Chicago, accompanied by the Harrison Guards. The marching club is the finest appearing political club in the country and their annual picnics are attended by thousands. Saturday, June 15, is the date and such renowned orators as Hon. David B. Hill, of New York, Hon. Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland, Mayor Maybury of Detroit, and local speakers, will entertain the crowds.

A gentleman accosted the reporter of this journal on the street Monday and thanked THE REVIEW for calling attention to the need of beautifying the grounds near the depot. He suggested that the question of erecting a neat band stand around the base of the liberty pole, be agitated. This paper will do all in its power to advance any improvement that will aid in improving the appearance of the village. The suggestion is a good one and a platform could be constructed at small cost and should be built by public subscription. As the base of the pole is unsightly it might be hidden from view by the proposed platform. Somebody start the subscription paper for this needed improvement.

We meet a lot of agreeable people, and a lot of disagreeable people meet us.

The railway boys on this division await with much anxiety the memoirs of Engineer Will Loco soon to be published. He will therein tell his experience in "Swiping Pigeons" "One Hour in a Bath Tub or How I was Converted to Bryanism;" "A Treatise on Valve Motion," and other harrowing tales. This work will be profusely illustrated with colored plates showing Will Thorp in his suit of many colors, the hen house at Palatine; the turkey roost at Shopierre; John Nicholson's leap for life from an incline to the coal chutes; the hunt for a keg of boiler compound in the tank of a tender, and other scenes. The work is prefaced by a biographical sketch of the author written by the boys at the Chicago round house. Bound in boller plate to prevent the lie escape. No engine cab complete without this volume. Corkscrew clasps by Nicholson; title by Purcell; poetry by Hill. Given away by all trainmen.

Mesdames Finn of Chicago and Ellison of Colorado Springs, Colo., were guests of their sister, Mrs. Wm. H. Thorp, Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. E. W. Olcott has removed his family from Chicago to this village and occupies the Henry Roloff residence. We are pleased to have the doctor and his family as permanent residents.

H. B. Burritt of Wauconda, has decided to move here and make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Flora Lines. Mr. Burritt has been justice of the peace in Wauconda for a number of years and one of the most prominent citizens. It is with pleasure we welcome him to Barrington.

Chester Purcell and his friend Mr. Webster of Chicago, attended the May party given by the B. S. & A. C. last Friday evening. Chet entertained his fellow club members with that pathetic imitation "How No. 95 Refused to Steam," and the touching ballad "You'll Never Go Broke If You Save Your Coin."

Enoch Colby Jr., a resident of Barrington thirty-five years ago is again among us having removed here from Chicago and leased, for a term of years, the C. B. Hawley homestead on Hough street. Mrs. Colby is a sister of Fred E. Hawley and remembered as one of the leading young ladies of this section in the years ago. We are pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Colby back to the place where they passed the days of their early life.

Alas! How Soon Forgotten!

is an ache or pain or trouble of any kind when one is well rid of it and if it happens to be headache or stomach trouble that bothers you, take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will not only forget you ever had it, but will know that you are not liable to have it again. The dose is small and it is pleasant to take. Sold by Chas. E. Churchill, Barrington.

The first thing necessary to enable a girl to marry is an opportunity.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS OF AMERICA Auxiliary to the Modern Woodmen Organize a Local Camp.

After a number of years of waiting and agitation the Modern Woodmen of America in this vicinity have a valuable auxiliary in cementing still more firmly the principles of fraternal union, in the organization of their wives, daughters and immediate female relatives into a local camp of the Royal Neighbors.

This society is one of the most prominent of what is termed "women fraternal benefit orders" in the country, and rapidly gaining headway. There are now 2,470 camps in good standing, having a membership of 110,800. The members take a benefit certificate of from $500 to $2,000 as they may wish, or enter as social members. The plan of assessment is about the same as that adopted by the Woodmen, the rate being a trifle higher.

Mayflower Camp is the name of the local organization instituted in this village at Schaefer's hall last Friday evening. Mrs. Rebecca Prickett of Nunda, deputy organizer, inducted about 30 ladies into the mysteries of the order, and on Saturday evening installed the following officers:

Oracle—Mrs. Rose Lamey.

Vice Oracle—Mrs. Jennie Churchill.

Past Oracle—Mrs. Hermine Weichert.

Chancellor—Mrs. Belle Shales.

Recorder—Mrs. Teresa Hoffman.

Receiver—Miss Margaret Lamey.

Marshal—Miss Julia Lamey.

Inher Sentinel—Mrs. V. Comstock.

Outer Sentinel—Mrs. Nora Kirmse.

Managers—Mrs. Etta Kirschner, Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, Mrs. M. Smith.

Meetings will be held the first and third Monday nights of each month.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The classic Auditorium in Chicago is about to be the scene of one of the most remarkable productions ever made in this country—Wm. A. Brady's marvelous rendering of Uncle Tom's Cabin. This production, which has been crowding the New York Academy of Music to the doors since December, is to be sent out of the Eastern Metropolis and direct to the Western in a special train of ten cars. Except for a single Pullman to be devoted to the principals of the organization, the train in question will be occupied wholly by the numerous supernumeraries and numberless accessories necessary to a presentation which will fill the gigantic stage of the Auditorium. Interpreted by such people as Wilton Lackey, the Reb Shemuel of "Children of the Ghetto"; Theodore Roberts the Canby of "Arizona"; Odell Williams, the Squire Bartlett of "Away Down East"; Wm. Harcourt, once the leading man with Julia Marlowe; L. R. Stockwell, for twenty years at the head of a "Tom" company of his own; Artie Hall, the celebrated vaudeville; Mrs. Annie Yeaman, the "cook lady" of "Why Smith Left Home"; Mabel Amber, formerly leading lady with James K. Hackett; and Emily Rign, an emotional actress of recognized ability, the familiar situations must take to themselves new force and the familiar lines new humor or pathos.

To these qualities much is said to be added by the singing of an auxiliary corps of 250 colored jubilee shouters. A afternoon performances will be given on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Decoration Day.

Is Still Boss.

It may interest women to know that in 37 states a married woman has no right to her own children. In sixteen states a wife has no right to her earnings outside the home. In eight states a wife has no right to her property after marriage. In seven states there is no law compelling a man to support his wife and family. In all the states except the four where women are voters, there is discrimination against women in the matter of employment and consideration. Still, with all these drawbacks, the owner of the hand that rocks the cradle still continues to boss the establishment.

Another Railway on Paper.

D. W. Jeffers of Chicago, a member of the contracting firm of Webster, Morris & Davis, was in the village Monday and drove over the road between here and Wauconda to note the grades liable to be encountered in the construction of an electric railway. It seems that some five years ago there was more or less talk of an electric line to be built between Aurora and the Wisconsin line. The project has shown little life until lately and is now revived. The proposed line is to run from Elgin via Dundee, Barrington, Wauconda to Fox Lake and from there to Lake Geneva. There is no question about the route being a good one but we do not expect to be on this earth when the trolley cars on that line sing their merry song through the shady boulevards of Barrington. Of course surprises are likely to come, but not in the form of electric railways.

C. F. HALL CO.

Good Outlook for Grain and Fruit.

The rains following the continued dry spell, which had threatened to become serious, have placed vegetation generally in a very favorable condition. Planting corn continues the principal farm work, and in many localities the work is completed. As a rule gardens are doing nicely. Grass is improving and pastures are looking fine. Potatoes are coming up nicely as are early peas and beans. Fruit prospects continue very good, excepting strawberries, which will, it is said, be a short crop.

A drive through the beautiful, productive counties of Lake, McHenry and Kane, at this the most lovely season of the year, will convince any one that the northern tier is rightly named the garden spot.

Dissolution of Partnership.

The partnership heretofore existing between J. H. Hatje and George Stiefenhofer under the firm name Hatje & Stiefenhofer, was on the 8th day of May, 1901, dissolved by mutual consent, J. H. Hatje retiring. All outstanding accounts must be paid to either one of the undersigned inside of 60 days to settle the business.

J. H. HATJE,
GEO. STIEFENHOEFER.
