Remember that all voters living on the south of the center of Chicago avenue vote at Damelsen's furniture store and all others at the town hall.

Palatine will line up against one of the best teams in Chicago, Saturday afternoon, when they play the St. Ignatious college team. The latter defeated Bush Medics in Chicago Wednesday by a score of 6 to 0. Come out and see the game.

The illustrated lecture by Major E. H. Cooper in the Methodist church last Friday night was one of the best ever given in Palatine, and despite a rainy night, a good audience was present. Prof. Diggett played on the violin and concertino, and he was exceptionally good on the latter instrument, answering to a hearty encore. Maj. Cooper was in the known ancient parts of America for thirty years and his lecture was highly interesting and instructive. He was given careful attention by all present. The second of the series of entertainments will be given November 28, when an entertainment of magic and music will be given.

Republican Rally.

The republican rally last Saturday night was not largely attended and but little enthusiasm shown. The importance of the election was pointed out to the audience and it was shown that the coming election is as important as a national election as the civic federation of Chicago is working hard to send only those to legislative offices who have agreed to merge the entire county into a Greater Chicago.

Mr. Struckman explained why he is opposed by the Municipal Voters' League and read the clause he was asked to sign, which gave promise that he would do all in his power to bring about a consolidation of county into one city. Mr. Struckman refused to sign.

Prof. Nightingale, nominee for superintendent of schools, made far the best speech of the evening and he protested strongly against the attack made upon him by the notorious ex-school teacher, O. E. Valle, of Oak Park, in his paper, "The Intelligence." He droye home a ten-pounder when he read a letter from Prof. Bright, stating that he knew he had not sought the nomination against him and assured him that he had nothing but the kindest feelings toward him. Does this look as though Prof. Nightingale helped "run out" Prof. Bright, as Valle states? Prof. Nightingale also stated that he did not seek the nomination, as he had for several weeks been in correspondence with the Boston school directors and had been unanimously elected to the position of supervisor of the Boston city schools, but refused the position after his nomination for Cook county superintendent. The professor stated that no book concern had a string tied to his kite and never should, and that it was his only great regret that school officers were placed in nomination by partisans instead of some other way. He was roundly cheered during his eloquent address and was heartily greeted by those present.

Palatine 5, Irving Park 0.

Palatine won its second game in a fierce contest on the gridiron last Saturday. The Irving Park team put up a good game, both in offensive and defensive, but they were not able to threaten Palatine's goal. Palatine had several substitutes in the game but managed to hold their opponents. For Palatine Ray Smith made some big runs and Smyser for Irving Park did some good line bucking. It was as good a game as was ever seen on the grounds and was a fine exhibition.

To the Voters of the Seventh Senatorial District.

George E. Cole and Hoyt King, styling themselves president and secretary respectively of the Legislature Voters' League, have issued a circular which reflects upon my honesty and integrity. Although making no direct charge of dishonesty, the wording of the circular is such that by inference and insinuation the intention to charge dishonesty is apparent. It is peculiar that my alleged wrong-doings are confined to the time when the so-called reform elements were attempting to force the abolition of township organization. Early in the campaign the Voters' League sent to candidates for the general assembly blank pledges. One of these pledges was in favor of the consolidation of the tax-levying and tax-spending bodies in the city of Chicago and county of Cook. This meant the abolition of township organization in the country. My determined opposition to this undoubtedly is responsible for the determined opposition to me. At no time during my term of office as a member of county board have I ever been solicited to accept any reward or favor of any kind for my vote on any proposition and I never received any. To my knowledge or information there never was any "boodle" connected with any contract for which I cast my vote.

The cell work contract was a question of two grades of steel. I voted for the better grade to cost $229 more than an inferior grade. I am informed that in the proceedings to compel the board to grant the contract to the inferior steel the court was purposely led to believe that both contracts called for the same grade of steel. Had the county attorney made a proper defense the result would have been different.

I voted for the traction ordinance because the people in my section of the county desired street car facilities. I did not, directly or indirectly, receive any compensation.

As to the alleged "salary grab" of 1899, I was absent from the board meetings, being confined by sickness. I took no part in fixing the salaries, and the records disclose the fact that I never voted for the increase. I suggest that any so-called "Voters' League" who indorse a person for office whom they know to have been indicted for perjury and who is supposed to have become a voluntary exile on account thereof cannot be relied upon to furnish a just opinion of the record of one who has been instrumental in upsetting some pet schemes indorsed by them. Very truly,
GEORGE STRUCKMAN.

CAMPAIGN NEARS END.

But Little Interest Manifested in the Outcome November 4th.

Democratic Candidate for Sheriff Out for War—Mason Asked to Prove Boodle Charges.

Next Tuesday the voters will have an opportunity to give expression to their choice for officials placed in nomination by the several political parties of county and state. The campaign from the start to finish, has been one devoid of show or excitement. In this immediate vicinity the voice of the campaign orator has not been heard. Candidates for office have not been amongst us and asked for support. There has been no brass bands, no distribution of poor cigars and lying campaign documents. The apathy surrounding the campaign means something but what the public will not know until the ballots are counted.

The nominees for state and county offices have been lost sight of the only prominence, in Lake county, being given to candidates for the legislature. The election of a United States Senator next winter is the important matter. Congressman Hopkins has, it is said, a lead pipe cinch on the toga as a large majority of the members to be elected, that is regularly nominated republicans, are pledged to vote for him in the caucus. It is the independent candidates who are causing the trouble. That there is going to be an independent vote polled next Tuesday is admitted by those in a position to know, but who is going to profit by that vote is a mystery.

In this, Lake, county, A. K. Stearns will endeavor to divide the republican vote in an effort to defeat the regular republican nominee Geo. R. Lyon. As Mr. Stearns has bolted the republican party he deserves nothing from the adherents of that party. Mr. Desmond, the democratic nominee, is deserving the support of his party, and if there are any populists in this district George W. Mawman represents their principles. But Stearns don't represent anything.

For county officers the republicans present an excellent ticket, deserving the support of the party and all those who believe in placing qualified men in public office. The county being strongly republican there is no reason to question the result.

The democrats of Lake county present to the voters of that faith a good ticket, not with a thought that it will be successful, but to keep up a party organization. The Review has not one word of fault to find with the gentlemen whose names adorn the democratic ticket. They are up against a hard proposition and deserve their party support.

Voters should bear in mind the questions of public policy to be voted upon and vote Yes on them all, and if not on the three especially on the question providing for the election of United Senators by the direct vote of the people.

Monday morning's addition of the Chicago American contained a big front page article on Lake county politics in which was stated that the great issue in the race for sheriff was the extermination of the pool room at Lorillard, Deerfield township.

The "issue" has been declared by the democratic candidate for sheriff, John Sheehan, of Highland Park, who is said to have issued a pledge to the effect that he's for ousting gambling, etc. The article went on to say that the millionaire residents of Waukegan, Lake Forest, Highland Park and other towns had joined forces to elect Sheehan on this issue. Accusations of boodle, etc. are made against Lake county officials in the article, which loses its effect when the source of publication is considered. Things are so one-sided now that it appears that the article was planned in hopes of digging up a fight in the election.

The Waukegan Sun says that Geo. N. Powell, republican candidate for the office, is not losing any sleep over Sheehan's possibilities and the condition of affairs is illustrated when it is known that frequent bet-offers are made that not only will Mr. Powell head the ticket, but that he will receive more democratic votes than Mr. Sheehan.

CALL SENATOR MASON.

The Waukegan Gazette says: "Senator Mason has stated that corruption was used to defeat him in Lake county, and at his make-or-break speech at the Auditorium, Senator Mason said, 'In Lake county, in Waukegan, every vote on both tickets at the primaries instructed for me. * * * I did not have a supporter in either the county or senatorial conventions. I will show when the legislature meets how much of the money went from the Elgin Insane asylum to Lake county.'

The Gazette has dispassionately treated the senator's bolt from the republican party and has never believed that Lake county republican delegates can be bought and sold and to show its sincerity in honest politics the Gazette will join both hands with Senator Mason and expose any or all corruption in Lake county politics. The senator has made a most serious charge against the honor and purity of Lake county republicans and it is his duty to prove his claims at once, or be branded as a billingsgate campaign liar and slanderer of the party that he has lately represented."

HALLOWEEN

A Night of Tricks, Wonders and Romance—The Night Cupid Stalks.

This day and night will be conspicuous in the annals of love. First, because it is the night of all Halloween. Second, because the date occurs on Friday, when charms are more potent and when love draughts work most intently.

The elf sleeps on other nights and never does he wake at unseemly times. But on Halloween the midnight bell is a signal for his waking and out he steps into the world to go his rounds and work his havoc. Cupid is generally sly and shy, but on Halloween he is very bold. He plays his tricks openly and he makes no secret of his preferences.

On Halloween, for one night of the year, the maiden, be she ever so modest, can declare her love. She can peer into the future and strive to read the book of fate which is opened to her in mystic ways.

She can study the stars, consult the vegetation of the earth, peer into the fire and bring all the forces seen and unseen to bear to aid her in her magic love search.

The object of Halloween, as it is now descended to us, is the unraveling of the future. The girl who is not married and who hopes to marry some day, fates willing, can learn the character of her true love. The element of uncertainty always lingers around the Halloween rites and it is this element which makes the evening all the more mysterious.

Of all the festivals of the year that of Halloween remains the same. It does not change from year to year nor from generation to generation, and the games which your grandmother played are the games which you will play and the tricks by which she unraveled the future are the tricks by which you will unravel it also. All sorts of pranks will be played tonight and care should be taken that no amusement is carried to the extreme or property destroyed.

Busse For County Commissioner.

Mr. Busse, republican candidate for re-election as county commissioner in Cook county for country towns has given great satisfaction to the citizens of Cook county.

Mr. Busse was born of German parents on a farm in the township of Elk Grove, January 27, 1864 and received his education in private and public schools. He was a hard worker from his early youth, helping his father on the farm in the summer and attending school in winter.

From 1890 to 1895 he assisted his father in the manufacture of butter and cheese besides carrying on a general merchandise business.

At the age of 21 he commenced farming for himself, in which undertaking he was very successful. He was always a staunch Republican, public spirited, taking a warm interest in the work of his party.

In 1890 sheriff Gilbert offered him the position of deputy sheriff and by the advise of his neighbors and friends he was induced to accept the position.

The office he held for ten years and by his devotion to duty, his affable manner and his strict honesty he has won a host of friends and admirers.

Mr. Busse was instrumental in saving the county on one contract for coal $73,000. He also used his influence in requiring that the supply of milk be shipped direct from the farm in sealed cans to the county poor farm, for the use of that institution.

The interest of the public are safe in the hands of such men and the citizens of Cook county will surely show their full appreciation of the sterling character of candidate Busse by re-electing him to this responsible office by a large majority.

SINGLE-HANDED TRAIN HOLD-UP

Lone Bandit Kills Engineer and Cows Railway Employes.

COVERS CLOTHES WITH BURLAP

Completely Disguised, the Robber Uses Dynamite on Express Safe, Then Compels Fireman to Carry Him Two Miles on Locomotive.

Helena, Mont., dispatch: A lone bandit held up the eastbound limited train No. 2 on the Northern Pacific road near Drummond, Mont., killed the engineer, robbed the mail, dynamited the safe in the express car and got away into the mountains on horseback with an eight-hour start over his pursuers. The amount of his plunder is not known, but is thought to be large.

It was shortly after midnight when the robbery was committed. The train, which is usually known as the North Coast Limited Mail, passed through Missoula at 10:20 o'clock, and nothing suspicious was noticed about it. It made other stops, and it is not known here where the robber got on board.

Opens the Throttle. When a point three miles east of Bear Mouth and two miles west of Drummond was reached the engineer, Daniel O'Neill, received a signal to stop. He obeyed at once, and had almost brought the train to a standstill when he happened to glance back at the tender. He saw a man creeping toward him over the coal and at once understood what was to happen. "Stop the train at once," said the man with an oath.

For answer O'Neill pulled open the throttle and tried to give the train full speed ahead. Then the robber fired at him. O'Neill fell to the floor and died a few minutes later, leaving the robber in full control of the situation. The latter drove the other men in the crew to the rear of the train, and by frequent shots in their direction held them and the passengers at a distance. There was a panic among the passengers, but the robber paid no more attention to them.

Uses Dynamite. First he plundered the mail car, taking all the registered letters. Then he turned his attention to the combination express and baggage car. The dynamite charge which he put under the safe was heavy enough to completely wreck the car. When he had gathered his booty together he made the fireman carry him on the engine four miles east, to a place two miles east of Drummond.

"I've got a horse in the timber, there," he said to the fireman, "and I've got a good get-away. Nobody will ever catch up with me."

As he was getting off the engine he shouted back to the fireman: "If anybody asks who I am, just tell them that I'm the fellow who held up the Southern Pacific train near Portland about a year ago."

The robber wore a black mask, which was found on a mountain trail two miles away by the first posse in pursuit. He had his clothes covered with burlap, so that no description of them could be given by his victims.

PIONEER WOMAN SUFFRAGIST DIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton Expires at Her Home in New York.

FATHER THOUGHT HER BEREFT

Hurries to Daughter's Home to Care for Her When He Hears of The Then Strange Dogma She Was Spreading Abroad.

New York special: Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the well known woman suffragist, died at her home in West Ninety-fourth street in this city. Old age was given as the cause of death. She was conscious almost to the last. Recently Mrs. Stanton began to fail rapidly. This became more noticeable and then it was known to the family that her death was only a question of days or hours.

The children with Mrs. Stanton when she died were Mrs. M. F. Lawrence and Mrs. Stanton Blatch of New York, Henry and Robert L. of New York, lawyers; Theodore of Paris, and G. Smith, a real estate broker at Warden Cliffe, L. I.

Mrs. Stanton's History. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who signed the first call for a woman's rights convention in the United States, was born in Johnstown, N. Y., on Nov. 12, 1815. She was the daughter of Judge Daniel Cady and Margaret Livingston Cady, both persons of unusual education and refinement.

As a child she displayed unusual intelligence and began her education at the Johnstown academy. After finishing the course at her home school she went to Mrs. Emma Willard's seminary in Troy, N. Y., where she was graduated in 1832.

In 1839 she met Henry Brewster Stanton, an anti-slavery orator of some note, and in 1840 they were married. Immediately after their wedding they went to London, where the international anti-slavery convention was to be held.

Woman's Rights Pioneer. Mrs. Stanton was one of the delegates from America, but was denied participation in the proceedings because she was a woman. While in London she met Lucretia Mott, and with her signed the first call for a women's rights convention.

Returning to Boston Mr. and Mrs. Stanton made their home there until Mr. Stanton was compelled to remove to Seneca Falls, N. Y., because of his health.

It was in Seneca Falls, on the 19th and 20th of July, 1848, in the Wesleyan chapel, that the first women's rights convention was held. Mrs. Stanton was the head of the movement at that time, and beside caring for the delegates wrote the declaration of aims which became the subject of ridicule and jest throughout the United States.

Father Doubts Her Sanity. When Mrs. Stanton's father, Judge Cady, heard of her resolution, "That it is the duty of the women of this country to secure to themselves their sacred rights to the elective franchise," he was impressed with the idea that her mind had become deranged and hastened from Johnstown to Seneca Falls to care for her. He tried to reason with her on the elective franchise question, but failed to move her from her purpose.

From 1867 to 1874 she went from state to state campaigning for woman's suffrage and became associated with numerous organizations having that end in view. She became the candidate for congress from the Eighth New York district. She became associated in the management of the revolution with Susan B. Anthony and was the joint author in many books bearing on woman's suffrage. She had five sons and two daughters, all of whom are living and successful in life.

MORGAN CLEARS MANY MILLIONS

Great Financier Gets Large Commissions for Forming Combines.

STEEL TRUST NETS A FORTUNE

Handsome Returns From Louisville & Nashville and Other Roads—Steamboat and Realty Mergers Add Immense Sums to His Wealth.

It is figured out that J. Pierpont Morgan has up to date cleared $42,190,000 for his firm on deals this year. This is outside of the interest from investments, the amount of which no one knows. Mr. Morgan is a director, trustee or officer in companies whose combined capitalization amounts to $4,802,280,527.

His greatest profit was made in the promotion of the United States Steel corporation. He headed a syndicate that put up $25,000,000 to underwrite the stocks of the concern. This $25,000,000 was the first installment of $200,000,000, but the remainder was never called for. The members of the syndicate have received interest and profits in the full $200,000,000, which, with the next payment, to be made about November 14, will amount to $56,500,000, or about 200 per cent on the actual investment.

Clears $20,000,000. Mr. Morgan, it is understood, gets 20 per cent of this sum, which, with the stock he received and the $10,000,000 cash, makes his profits from the steel corporation about $20,340,000.

His next largest profits were made in the Louisville & Nashville deal, and amounted to $6,000,000. He bought 100,000 shares of Louisville & Nashville stock and sold it to the Atlantic Coast line, getting a profit of $2,000,000. He also received $1,000,000 par value of the new bonds, which are valued at $147.70, thus making another $1,477,000 profit. For the full 306,000 shares turned over to the underwriters at $150 a share, the value of which was $45,900,000, there was received $10,000,000 in cash, $35,000,000 in 4 per cent bonds and $5,000,000 in Atlantic Coast line stock. Figuring the bonds at par, the stock at $147.70 a share, it is clear that Mr. Morgan's profit out of the deal approximated $6,000,000, and probably more.

No Need of Cash. In the purchase of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, Mr. Morgan's genius was shown to better advantage than in any other of his deals. For this reason: He did not put up a cent, yet made a profit of $350,000, which, according to Wall street, is a great financing feat.

Mr. Morgan cleared in the Northern Securities combination $4,500,000, and nowhere has he earned a profit more legitimately. By his promptness in coming to the rescue of the financial world at the time of the Northern Pacific panic he saved Wall street from ruin. Forty leading commission houses were ready to close their doors and there was hardly an operator on the street that was not ruined but for Mr. Morgan's action.

Some of the Profits. In the steamship combination Mr. Morgan made $2,500,000, and in the United States Realty merger $3,000,000. His latest profits are to come from the great combination of harvesting and farm manufactures. The amount received for financing this merger was $65,000,000 and Mr. Morgan received outright for engineering the combination a fee made by the purchase of the Milwaukee Harvesting company's plant. This was bought for $1,500,000 and was put into the combination for $5,000,000.

Thus Mr. Morgan has received $42,190,000 and the year is not yet over.

ST. JACOB'S OIL.

In cases where bronchitis has become chronic from want of proper treatment in the earlier stages, there is nothing so good as Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Brest Tea, in conjunction with which is strongly advised the use of St. Jacobs Oil as an outward application along the front of the throat, from close up under the chin to well down to the top of the chest; the one remedy assists the other and as intended, they work in complete unison. The wonderful penetrating power of St. Jacobs Oil enables it to reach the adhesion of foreign matter, which lines the bronchial tubes and which makes breathing more and more difficult. As these adhesions become inflamed and enlarged St. Jacobs Oil causes such adhesions to break away, making expectoration easier and more free. Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Brest Tea, drank slowly and very hot, soothes and heals the parts, is comforting and quieting, stops the cough and relieves the breathing. This manner of treatment (and there is no other two remedies that will work together so successfully) reaches the difficulty from the outside and the inside at the same time. St. Jacobs Oil reaches the roots of the adhesion and assists Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Brest Tea in clearing them; then both remedies act in unison in healing and curing. The above remarks apply with equal force in cases of asthma, croup, whooping cough, enlarged tonsils and all bronchial affections. Every family should have St. Jacobs Oil and Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Brest Tea always in the house in order that they may be promptly used in the first stages. Often the maladies develop with wonderful rapidity and complications take place with equal suddenness.

She Carried Thirty-Two Hats.

A lady traveling by the Ostend express train de luxe arrived recently at the customs station at Passau and attracted the special attention of the customs officer by the enormous number of her trunks and boxes. She is a Viennese dame, living in London. The official had passed almost everything when he perceived a long box, and asked what was in it. "Only hats, but nothing liable to duty!" "What! only hats?" said the officer, astounded that so large a case could be used for nothing but headgear. "Yes, there are thirty-two of them!" The official was still more astounded. "Thirty-two hats! That is incredible. I must see for myself; please open the case." The lady became excited and retorted: "Do you think I can get along with only two hats? Why, I have twelve more at home!" The box had to be opened, all the same; and lo, and behold! It turned out to be quite true. There were actually thirty-two hats of different kinds, which the elegant and pretty passenger was taking with her for use on her journey. The officer bowed, and asked pardon for the trouble he had caused her.—London Daily Telegraph.

Helped Everybody.

Gainesville, Tex., Oct. 27th.—Mrs. L. E. Burton, formerly of Eureka, Kansas, has been at 507 Gladstone street, this city, for some time. While here Mrs. Burton has been the means of doing much good by introducing to her sick friends a remedy which it seems is very popular in Kansas, but which has not been very much heard of in this neighborhood. It is called Dodd's Kidney Pills and in every case where it has been used it has produced wonderful results.

Mrs. Burton has good reason to speak well of Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they have done much for her and her family. She says: "I must tell everybody what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me and for as many of my friends as have used them."

"I had a very bad case of kidney trouble for which I had been doctoring for a long time without benefit. I saw Dodd's Kidney Pills recommended. I tried them and was completely cured. My mother and my brother were ill and they took them and were soon well again."

"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done much for us."

Emery Wheel Breaks Loose and Seems Imbued With Life.

An accident without a known parallel occurred at the works of the Sattley manufacturing company at Springfield. A 14-inch emery wheel, revolving at a high rate of speed, broke from its arbor and severely injured the man who was using it at the time. The peculiar feature of the accident consisted that the wheel did not burst, but remained intact. It struck the unfortunate man squarely in the chest, breaking two ribs and tearing the clothing entirely off the upper part of his body. Then, its rotary motion still continuing, it climbed up his chest, tearing the flesh as it went, until it reached the jaw. This was entirely denuded of flesh, and most of the teeth were knocked out. Finch's nose and cheek were torn and burned, as was also the forehead. All this occurred in such a small fraction of a second that the man was unable to dodge the wheel.

COLOMBIA ASKS LARGE PAYMENT

Wants $600,000 Yearly Rental and $10,000,000 for Right of Way.

DELAY IN PANAMA CANAL DEAL

Contents Government Has No Power to Cede Territory, but is Willing to Grant Long Lease in Line With Spooner Bill Terms.

Washington dispatch: The Colombian government has at last responded to the proposition of the state department for the negotiation of a canal treaty on the lines of the Spooner act, but the actual work may yet be long delayed, because the report does not close the negotiations. It was presented to the state department by Mr. Herron, secretary of the Colombian legation.

It is difficult to learn the exact nature of this communication, but it is known that it is not altogether an unqualified acceptance of the state department's propositions. It is, however, friendly and dignified in tone, and it unquestionably sets back the date of final agreement by opening up new topics for argument.

Wants More Money.

For one thing, the Colombian government now is entirely dissatisfied with the small amount of the payment to be made to it by the United States, under the terms of the protocol which, it is proposed, to use as the basis for the treaty. This sum is $7,000,000. Colombia wants at least $10,000,000.

Moreover, the original proposal looked to a wait of fourteen years before beginning the payment of annual rental, the amount of which was to be then fixed by mutual agreement. Colombia now asks the United States to agree at once on a plump yearly payment of $600,000, which will considerably increase the immediate cost of the enterprise.

Is Willing to Lease.

The Colombian government clings to its contention that it has no constitutional authority to alienate any Colombian territory and reiterates that the best it can do to meet the language of the Spooner act, which looks to perpetual control by the United States over the canal strip, is to make a 100 year lease with the distinct stipulation that the same shall be renewable by the United States at the expiration of the first century.

One obstacle which it is believed will interfere somewhat with the immediate resumption of negotiations of the treaty is the feeling aroused in Colombian by the actions of American naval officers during the revolutionary movements there. These are declared to have been bitterly resented in Bogota, where it was felt the American officers had exceeded their authority in interfering with the transportation of Colombian soldiers across the Isthmus railroad—a right the Colombian officials have asserted is guaranteed them by treaty.

Question of Sovereignty. The controversy growing out of the attitude of these officers was taken up by the Colombian state department with United States Minister Hart at Bogota, and, so far as known, has not yet been definitely settled. The question at issue touches the question of sovereignty, and has an important bearing on the pending subject. The Colombian legation officials decline to discuss the latest responses made by Colombia, but the opinion prevails that, included within its scope, are some representations respecting or growing out of recent events on the isthmus.

KILLS HIS DAUGHTER'S LOVER

Postmaster Shoots Soldier Who Threatened to Slay Family.

Sullivan, Ind., special: Newton B. Staugh, postmaster of Riverton, Ind., shot Herman McCannon, firing one shot in his breast and another in the back of his head, death resulting instantly. McCannon had been the sweetheart of the postmaster's daughter and had just returned from service in the regular army. Miss Staugh and her mother witnessed the shooting. It is claimed McCannon threatened to kill the entire family before he was slain.

TO RESTORE WHITTIER'S HOME

Haverhill House, Damaged by Fire, is to Be Rebuilt.

Boston dispatch: The Whittier homestead at Haverhill, which was damaged by fire, is to be restored on exactly the old lines. The ancient furniture and the desk of his grandfather, on which Whittier wrote his first verses—and, as it happens, also the last poem he ever wrote—will go back where it stood two generations, and perhaps three, before the poet's birth.

Democratic Candidate is Ill.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., dispatch: Louis Lange, the democratic candidate for secretary of state, who was touring the state with Mayor Rose, was taken ill with the grip and left for his home in Fond du Lac.

PROMINENT FILIPINO TO TELL NEED OF ISLANDS

Ramon Reyes Lala, the Filipino author, arrived in San Francisco last week on his way to Washington to give the results of his investigations in the Philippines and tell the island's needs. Mr. Lala is recognized as one of the greatest authorities on the Philippines. He is the author of the most comprehensive history of the islands yet published. He is a graduate of Oxford, and is a naturalized American citizen.

MINISTER FORCED TO RESIGN.

Canadian Minister of Public Works Suffers for Indiscretion. Unlike M. Pelletan, who made indiscreet speeches and still retains his post in the French cabinet, J. I. Tarte, Canadian minister of public works, has been forced to resign because of unauthorized remarks he delivered in Europe recently. In accepting the resignation Sir Wilfrid wrote Mr. Tarte that "his action in discussing a policy of high protection during his absence in Europe without ever consulting with him was wholly unconstitutional and contrary to all notions of responsible government." He was a Conservative up to 1891, when he changed his politics and joined the Liberals. His home is in Quebec.

Parisian Character Dead.

One of the familiar figures of the bohemian quarter of Paris was known as Marius, a small, slight, weakened individual whose chief characteristics were the habit of smoking countless cigarettes and a liking, equally extravagant, for the company of literary men and their talk of "shop." Not long ago Marius failed to appear in his usual haunts and repeated knocks at his door elicited no response. It was presently found that Marius was dead and was a woman.

CAREER OF JOHN O'DONNELL.

Irish Member of Parliament Has Long Been Prominent.

John O'Donnell, who shook his fist in the face of the British prime minister in the House of Commons, was elected in 1900 to represent South Mayo in parliament. He is a native of the County Mayo, is 30 years old and was the first organizer of the United Irish League. Mr. O'Donnell has been imprisoned in Castlebar jail and in Sligo jail for alleged illegal agitation. He is secretary of the directory of the Irish League.

BANK FOUNDED FOR WOMEN

New York Institution Promises to Be Great Success.

A new woman's bank, opened in Thirty-fourth street recently, ended its first day's business with deposits aggregating $155,000. It seems only a few years since it was a difficult and somewhat embarrassing matter for a woman to secure bank accommodations. Now she is tempted by lures of handsomely furnished rooms, pretty stationery, new styles in check-books, so important has her patronage become to banks that make a specialty of it.

The French woman has always been a financier, the American only recently. With her emancipation has come an understanding of business affairs, the transaction of which in a former generation was left to the men folk. The new way is the better by far.—New York World.

DE WET IN TIME OF PEACE.

Boer Commander Who is Now Making a Tour of Europe.

Gen. Christian De Wet is one of the trio of Boer commanders who have recently had an audience with King Edward, visited Holland, and been cheered in the streets of Paris. He is coming to this country later. With his comrades he is appealing to the peoples of all nations for contributions to assist the destitute and educate the children in the land for which he fought. He accepted the results of the South African war at the time he sheathed his sword and hopes for continued peace. As a leader of a Boer army he was for months before the surrender the sharpest thorn in the side of Lord Roberts. Again and again he escaped the taps of the British and kept the field against overwhelming odds.

The Crops of Nebraska.

The acreage and yield of Nebraska crops has been compiled for the present year by Deputy Labor Commissioner C. E. Watson. His estimate of acreage and yield is: Winter wheat, 1,904,939 acres, 45,781,536 bushels; spring wheat, 645,828 acres, 7,749,963 bushels; corn, 5,516,801 acres, 176,537,632 bushels; oats, 1,638,647 acres, 52,463,704 bushels; barley, 78,414 acres, 1,960,350 bushels; rye, 483,554 acres, 8,703,972 bushels.

Balzac as an Inventor.

A Paris searcher after facts has made the discovery that to Balzac belongs the honor of having invented the wood-block pavement for streets. The first reference to it is found in that author's comedy, "Mercadet," which was played at the Francaise, in which Mercadet dilates on the advantage of such pavement, since with wooden blocks in the streets barricades are impossible.

NEW IDEAS IN CHURCH BUILDING.

MILLARD AVENUE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The plan which is followed in the building of the Millard Avenue Presbyterian church, Millard and Ogden avenues, Chicago, is a departure from the traditional ideas and methods of church construction in this country. The edifice will have a gymnasium, bowling alleys, a large hall for social entertainments, and other unusual features. Part of the church was completed a year ago and the entire structure will soon be finished. It will cost $50,000 and will be constructed of brick and stone. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 1,500. The basement will be provided with a large assembly room, a gymnasium, and bowling alleys, a church parlor, kitchen, toilet and wash rooms, dressing and choir rooms, and the furnace and fuel room. The first floor will contain the auditorium proper, a primary room, five Sunday school rooms, a large organ and choir room, and the pastor's rooms. The gallery will contain additional seats for the congregation, a mothers' room, a women's parlor, and Sunday school galleries. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Granville Ross Pike, is confident that his plan will prove of great benefit to the community.

Move Railroad Offices.

It has been officially announced at Springfield that the trainmaster's and train dispatcher's offices of the Springfield division of the Chicago and Alton would immediately be removed from that city to Bloomington.

Sues Saloonkeepers.

Hattie Paynter has sued three saloon keepers of Diverson, Sangamon county, for alleged selling liquor to her husband in spite of her warnings. She says that the liquor caused his death, and she asks for $5,000.

Asks Damages for Injuries.

Frank McCormack has brought suit against the Chicago-Virden coal company for injuries received, which were due, he says, to a defective wheel on a mine car. One leg was broken and he was otherwise injured, and he asks for damages amounting to $5,000.

Good Roads.

A hard roads movement has been started in St. Charles county, opposite Alton. The West Alton roads will be made permanent by putting down cinders.

M. T. LAMEY, Editor and Publisher.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1902

Next Tuesday is election day. See that your ballot is cast for the men best qualified to fill the offices.

People who think that a campaign is on have evidently forgotten the days when the silver question was walking about with a chip on its shoulder.

An odor as of "high" game which is wafted from the Seventh Senatorial district indicates that the voters have not yet succeeded in chasing "Honest" Mr. Humphrey into the tall timber, says the Chicago Chronicle.

Senator Mason and A. K. Stearns have said some naughty things about Editor Fred Whitney of the Waukegan Gazette, and Fred don't like it. Don't notice it brother. Read Hende's Life and Services of A. K. Stearns.

Meats have advanced nearly three cents a pound since the federal injunction against the Beef Trust was granted, but nobody has been punished for contempt of court. It makes all the difference in the world, in the enforcement of an injunction, whether it is against a striking wage worker or against a trust magnate. Who gets the injunction also makes a difference.

It does not follow that the voters are not interested in politics because they do not attend political meetings. They have their independent newspapers and their own well-developed judgment, which are more reliable than the unreasoning partisans who so frequently appeal to them. The vote at the election next Tuesday may not be ordinarily heavy, but it is not going to be so light as the man on the stump fears.

Patrons of partisan newspapers in this district may rightfully expect to receive a fair amount of local news and interesting matter to which they are entitled after this week. The diet of boiler plate editorials prepared by the central committees of the leading parties, the worst rot ever compiled and published, has no doubt been a God send to that class of editors who are unable to express an opinion; to the class who bow to political bosses and obey the crack of a party whip. The political organ reduces its expense account by putting into use the matter sent them by the committees and that is all they get out of it. The editor who has not independence enough to conduct his own publication without the aid of a political censor, had better give up the newspaper business.

Under the heading "Fair Play is a Jewel," the Cook County Herald, (rep) says: "At the last meeting of the Country Towns Federation in the county board rooms at Chicago, Mr. Starr was present by invitation of the vice-president of the Federation, for the purpose of stating his position on the Greater Chicago idea. John Humphrey refused to permit any one who was not a member of the organization to speak on the question. Mr. Humphrey and his friends have persistently misrepresented Mr. Starr's position on this question and it does not lie in Mr. Humphrey's mouth to say what Mr. Starr thinks or would say about the Greater Chicago idea while trying to prevent Mr. Starr from saying it himself. Fair play is a jewel well worthy of respectful regard even by politicians." When it is known that Western Starr is the opponent of Mr. Humphrey for a seat in the legislature and that Mr. Starr is pledged to the interests of the country towns in this important matter, the reason for Mr. Humphrey's refusing to allow Mr. Starr to address the Federation delegates is made clear. John Humphrey is not friendly to the country towns of Cook county in their remonstrance against being swallowed by the city of Chicago.

We have been asked to give information relative to the "Iowa idea." The best answer we can give our inquirer is to publish the following tariff plank to which Speaker Henderson took exception.

"We stand by the historic policy of the republican party in giving protection to home industries, and point for its ample vindication to the extraordinary rapidity with which our national resources have been developed and our industrial and financial independence secured. We favor such changes in the tariff from time to time as become advisable through the progress of our industries and their changing relations to the commerce of the world. We endorse the policy of reciprocity as the natural complement of protection, and urge its development as necessary to the realization of our highest commercial possibilities."

That is the "Iowa idea," and meets the approval of the leading republicans of not only Iowa, but of the entire west. There don't seem to be anything in that plank but what a republican of the Roosevelt stripe can swallow.

Work of The Hague Tribunal.

The verdict of The Hague court of arbitration in the pious fund case is not only gratifying because it upholds the contention of this country, but for the fact that this long standing issue has been duly presented to an international court and that the United States and Mexico have the honor of first committing a case to this permanent tribunal. The United States, acting in behalf of Roman Catholic interests formerly under the jurisdiction of Mexico, sought to recover from the latter state moneys alleged to be due under the terms of administration of the pious fund, founded in 1687 for the support of Roman Catholic missions among the Indians of California, then a part of Mexico. The interest of this country in the matter dates from the cession to it of upper California, when the Roman Catholic interests therein gained a new protector. Some time after the refusal of Mexico to pay over a share of the fund to the Roman Catholic authorities in California a commission appointed in 1868 after seven years gave a decision that the interest of the fund should be equally divided between the church in Mexico and in California and that Mexico should set aside half of the annual interest. The verdict affirms this decision, awarding the accumulation of interest up to Feb. 2 of this year, amounting to about $1,500,000.

More important than the verdict itself is the fact that a precedent has been established for the settlement of international disputes by a permanent tribunal composed of eminent jurists and statesmen from all the leading nations. That this precedent is to be followed seems to be assured in the fact that another important case is soon to be brought before The Hague court. It is sufficient to say that on one side is Japan and on the other are Great Britain, France and Germany. Here within a few weeks are six nations willingly submitting matters for adjudication in a spirit which shows that they intend to abide by the decision. Opponents of the court rejected the suggestion that great powers would ever dream of submitting matters involving national sovereignty to an international court. That is doubtless true; but it is a triumph for civilization to get them to submit anything.

The French Coal Miners' Strike.

The great anthracite coal strike in this country, which has at last been submitted to an arbitration commission, is likely to be followed by a long continued up of the French coal mines. Following the refusal of the operators to grant their demands for an eight hour day, an increase of wages and old age pensions, three-quarters of all the coal miners in France went on strike. The region affected is almost exclusively in the north.

Although the French strike does not involve a third as many men as did that in Pennsylvania, its political importance is greater. Its chief storm center is close to the great iron and steel works of Creusot, which are almost as important to France as are the Krupp works at Essen to Germany. If the 17,000 men at Creusot become involved, government supplies for the army and navy will be crippled. The striking miners ask M. Combes, the French premier, to intervene with the operating companies and, this failing, to place the demands of the employees before the chamber of deputies. They warn the premier that if he does not do these things he will lose his important Socialist support, and that they say, may quickly lead to his complete overthrow.

A Pennsylvania farmer wanted a horse chestnut to carry in his pocket as a safeguard against rheumatism and so climbed a tree to get it. A little later he fell and broke a leg and an arm. It is not stated whether he secured the horse chestnut, but he is not likely to need it for several weeks to come.

In the nine months of 1902 the United States Steel corporation has earned $101,142,153 and after making all allowances has on hand undivided profits of $34,647,992. This is doing pretty well for an infant industry which has been organized less than two years.

The eminent Austrian meteorologist, Professor Ledochowski, says that the coming winter in Europe will be the coldest in fifty years. Any meteorologist who made a similar statement in this country would stand a chance of being mobbed.

There would have been more sympathy for the people of Camden, N. J., where 8,000,000 gallons of water were wasted by the breaking of a reservoir, had there been anything like a shortage of the supply throughout the country this year.

Now that the board of lady managers of the Louisiana Purchase exposition has been fully organized, we ought soon to know what the styles are to be for the world's fair.

Pingpong punch has made its appearance in New York cafes. It is said to be fully as bad as its name indicates.

The Cry of Macedonia.

The facts, as stated in late dispatches, that Turkey is sending a large force of troops from Asia Minor into Macedonia and that great military preparations are in progress in Salonika, indicate that the war cloud in the Levant is already somewhat larger than the traditional "man's land."

Macedonia is of course the storm center, and the years are few in which the mutterings of discontent are not distinctly audible at Constantinople and at the European capitals.

It hardly need be said that Macedonia means to be free from Turkish rule; it is simply a question of time and opportunity. But time and opportunity involve several things—ripeness of preparation and feeling in Macedonia, unreadiness of Turkey, neutrality or friendliness of Russia and the quiescence of the other great powers.

However, the situation is causing great uneasiness in European capitals, and the Turk is unquestionably girding himself for another struggle to maintain his prestige in Europe. During the last century Turkey lost slice after slice of its territory, and it begins to look as if it were time for another portion of her domain to be freed. Early in the last century Greece became independent, and Servia, Roumania and Bulgaria, and later Crete, have secured their freedom, and Bessarabia and Batum have been taken by Russia, and Egypt and Cyprus by England, while Syria is put under the protection of France and other powers.

The great celebration of the victory of Shipka pass by the Russians and Bulgarians occurred just as the outbreak in Salonika and Monastir had become serious and is taken by the Macedonian revolutionists as a most favorable omen. It is regarded as significant that at the foot of Shipka pass the Russian government has built a magnificent Greek church, which was presented to Bulgaria as a permanent memorial of the five days' battle between the Russians, commanded by General Gourko, and the Turks, commanded by Sulleman Pasha. This was one of the greatest and most sanguinary battles of modern times. In it the Turks lost 50,000 in killed and wounded, and the Russians, whose defensive attitude exposed them to fewer perils, lost 30,000. It was fought just twenty-five years ago. In it Russia held its ground and subsequently under General Todleben captured Plevna and forced its way to the gates of Constantinople. Just why Russia chose to remember the battle in this signal way at this time may be surmised. It is not, however, to be wondered at that the building of the memorial should be interpreted in Macedonia and Bulgaria as evidence of the underlying purpose of Russia sooner or later to drive the Turk out of Europe and open the Black sea through the control of the Bosphorus.

If they are still living, the five Hungarian game beaters who were shot by Grand Duke Nicholas Constantino-vitch of Russia while hunting on the preserves of Count Zichy, near Budapest, may well be proud of the distinction thus achieved. To have been shot by a grand duke must be a great honor. There are no doubt some Americans who would travel far to gain such a distinction. Unfortunately the people who are shot by our hunters have no special reason for saving the bullets as souvenirs, which is one of the disadvantages of living in a grand dukeless country. However, our guides and game beaters and other frequenters of the woods need not be discouraged. Since it has become fashionable for princes and grand dukes and such like to visit this country for pleasure and excitement, it may come to pass in the future that those who are shot by mistake in our hunting grounds shall have the satisfaction of knowing that the trigger was pulled by a royal or at least a noble finger. Thus a custom prevailing in the Maine woods and the Adirondacks which under existing conditions seems almost sinful would become a rare and praiseworthy pleasure.

The young bloods of Goshen, N. Y., who held up a coach as a joke, frightening the women passengers into hysterics, had a peculiar sense of humor. The law should continue the merry jest for a term of some years in the penitentiary.

The French coal mine operators announced that they had "nothing to arbitrate" with their striking miners. The phrase has a very familiar sound. That is what certain gentlemen said in this country, but they changed their minds.

King Alexander of Servia stopped the pin money of his wife and thereupon Queen Draga boxed her husband's ears. All of which indicates that kings and queens are not very different from other people.

If Lieutenant Peary had that $200,000 with which he says he could find the north pole, why in the world would he want to do anything so disagreeable as discovering the pole?

Richard Harding Davis ought to be able to make his two hundred acre farm pay if he keeps his publishers well supplied with copy.

Fire at Loon Lake.

Sunday morning about nine o'clock the large ice house owned by Esch Bros. & Rahe at Loon Lake, near Antioch, was totally destroyed by fire, entailing a loss upon the company of some $50,000.

The house was built about a year ago and was a large, modern constructed ice plant with all the latest improvements, consisting of an electric lighting plant and equipments for the rapid handling of ice. The house at the time of the fire was partially filled with ice, several rooms, however, being empty.

In addition to the loss of the ice house eight cars belonging to the Wisconsin Central railway were burned, five of them being loaded with coal, which will make the total fire loss fully $80,000.

Caution.

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of consumption and throat and lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe coughs, bronchitic croup—and especially for consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. H. T. Abbott.

HE WENT TOO FAR.

What the Sweet Girl Did, Could and Could Not Accept.

Who shall fathom the heart of a woman? If he had not been so young, he would not have tried to.

But the ingenuousness of youth was upon him.

There was no uncertainty about his action as he put his arm around her waist and, drawing her to him, kissed her fervently—kissed her with that acquired ease, that sureness of touch, that lack of embarrassment, that comes from a perfect understanding.

And she did not even blush.

"Dearest," he said, "I have just been thinking that we have known each other a whole week."

"It seems, oh, so much longer than that!" she replied.

"Doesn't it? Isn't it wonderful how much feeling, how much love, can be compressed into such a short time? I like to dwell upon it."

"It is nice."

"Yes," he went on. "The first evening we met as I looked into your eyes I felt that I loved you, and yet I did not dare that night to do anything more than press your hand as we parted."

"But afterward you were?"

"Yes; the next evening, with that sort of confidence that came to me I know not why, I went further. I held your hand in mine, I drew closer, and then I suddenly left you, not daring to frighten you with the sudden intensity of my love."

"And then the next night?"

"Ah, then it was that my arm unconsciously and as it were inevitably stole around your waist, and, inspired by your sweet acquiescence, I kissed you. Since then I have loved you more and more until now I feel I must show you some real substantial token of my love."

He drew from his pocket a small package. He handed it to her triumphantly. She opened it rapidly. It was a diamond pin.

There was a silence. Then she handed it back to him slowly, reluctantly.

"What?" he cried. "Are you not going to accept it?"

She shook her head.

"I cannot," she replied. "Don't you know that it wouldn't be proper for me to accept anything more than flowers or candy from a man I have known only a week?"—Tom Masson in Brandur Magazine.

Took the Order Literally.

A suburban golf club has a Japanese steward named Ocka. He is an excellent cook and his neatness and good taste are beyond question, but he has a very slight knowledge of English, and this sometimes causes him to make ludicrous mistakes. A young woman gave a tea at the clubhouse and sent for Ocka a few days ahead of time, so that all the details of her party might be perfected. She arranged for everything and at the end said: "Now Ocka, at the tea we must have apple pie order." "Yes, madam, apple pie," Ocka returned. "No, apple pie order," said the young girl. "All right. Me understand. Apple pie," Ocka repeated with an obstinate smile. "Apple pie order," the other corrected again, and Ocka took his leave. He served at the tea along with the dainty little sandwiches and cake twenty huge pieces of apple pie.—Philadelphia Record.

Cinders in the Eye.

Persons traveling by railway are subject to continued annoyance from the flying cinders. On getting into the eyes they are not only painful for the moment, but are often the cause of long suffering that ends in a total loss of sight. A very simple and effective cure is within the reach of every one and would prevent much suffering and expense were it generally known. It is simply one or two grains of flaxseed. These may be placed in the eye without injury or pain to that delicate organ, and shortly they begin to swell and dissolve a glutinous substance that covers the ball of the eye, enveloping any foreign substance that may be in it. The irritation of cutting the membrane is thus prevented, and the annoyance may soon be washed out. A dozen of these grains stowed away in the vest pocket may prove in an emergency worth their number in gold.

Future Vengeance.

"You'll be sorry for this some day!" howled the son and heir as his father released him from the position he had occupied across the paternal knee.

"I'll be sorry? When?"

"When I get to be a man."

"You will take revenge by whipping your father when you are big and strong and I am old and feeble, will you, Johnny?"

"No, sir," blubbered Johnny, rubbing himself, "but I'll spank your grandchildren till they can't rest!"—New York Times.

Owls in Asia Minor.

Perhaps Asia Minor is richer in crude and interesting fancies than any other country. When children hear an owl hooting from the cypress groves, they cry, "Good news for us; good messages for you." If they catch an owl they hold it up by the beak and chant, "Palm Sunday owl, how does your mother dance?" The meaning of the rite is lost, but the habit lingers.

Unreasonable.

"Why did she leave him?" "Oh, he was so unreasonable. She wanted to frame her divorce decrees and hang them in the library, but he insisted that they were not artistic and wouldn't have them there."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A simple decoction of hemp was used in China 1,700 years ago as an anesthetic in surgical operations, according to a Chinese manuscript in a Paris library.

THE SPLASHING HOUSE.

A French Yarn That Was Printed to Ridicule Englishmen.

One of the most extraordinary tales ever invented about Englishmen by foreigners was the "splashing house" story, given to the world by the Paris Journal Patrie in 1838. An ingenious writer in the paper gravely informed his readers that in the suburbs of London were houses where "earth beaten up into mud is retailed." To these houses men were accustomed to resort in hunting kit for the purpose of being splashed with mud.

"These curious establishments are provided with muds of different counties, but principally of those counties where the hunting is best. The sale of the mud is conducted in the most serious manner imaginable; the attendant inquires, 'From what county, sir, do you wish it to be supposed you have just returned?' 'From the county of Kent.' The pretended sportsman thereupon takes a seat on a wooden horse whose legs throw up the selected mud; after having been well splashed the customer pays his bill (3 shillings), casts an eye of approbation toward the mirror, takes a whip in his hand and goes to exhibit his muddy clothes in Piccadilly, Bond street or Pall Mall, in order that it may be supposed that he has just returned from a grand hunt."

In addition to the chance of marrying an heiress which this remarkable display of dirty clothes confers on their wearer, says the French newspaper man, the patron of the "splashing house" has another more immediate advantage. "The mud with which he is splashed affords, if not proof, strong presumptive evidence that he is a landed proprietor in the county whose mud bespatters him." And landed proprietors being held in vast esteem as solvent and desirable creditors, the man can obtain anything he likes at any shop on credit.

One wonders whether such a wonderful tale finds any believers among those who read it.—London Live Stock Journal.

JUMPING THE DEER.

A Style of Hunting That Looks Easy Till You Try It.

"Jumping a deer" is a highly attractive phrase, quite apt to make a tingle in the back hair of the tenderfoot who hears it for the first time. It is also intensely satisfactory to the chap who always has to shave before wooing nature. You may, indeed, get a good shot in this way, and it is generally the only way to see the grandest of all the sights of the woods—deer running through a windfall. To see the glossy curves of fur curl over the lofty logs that lie piled on each other in boundless confusion is well worth a trip to the woods, while for him who loves the rifle as I do, more for what cannot be done with it than for what can, there is no such target elsewhere. But for the tyro who is dying to get that first deer, "jumping a deer" generally means out of sight and out of hearing both. For the deer that goes off to lie down after feeding does not go to sleep, but to ruminate and take life easy. Once in a great while one falls into a doze, but almost always the head is well erect and all senses keen for danger. And even if one is in a doze it may slip away without your suspecting its existence, for sleep deadens little of the senses of this wary animal. The man who "wouldn't shoot such an innocent creature as a deer" should by all means see one getting out of a heavy windfall, while the man who loves game that can get away can here find the attraction of the woods at its climax.—"Hunting the Virginia Deer" in Outing.

The Ant's Toilet.

A naturalist has been making observations on the toilets of certain ants, and has discovered that each insect goes through most elaborate ablutions. They are not only performed by herself, but by another, who acts for the time as lady's maid. The assistant starts by washing the face of her companion, and then goes over the whole body. The attitude of the ant that is being washed is one of intense satisfaction. She lies down with all her limbs stretched loosely out; she rolls over on her side, even her back, a perfect picture of ease. The pleasure the little insect evinces in being thus combed and sponged is really enjoyable to the observer.—Philadelphia Press.

The Way of the World.

We met the people going one way with their arms loaded with beautiful flowers.

"Whither do you drift?" we asked.

"We go," they exclaimed, "to adorn the graves of our dead heroes."

Later on we met them with their arms full of bricks.

"And now where?" we asked again.

"To throw these at our living heroes," they again explained, with pitying smiles at our dumbness.

The Small Brother.

"I heard him call you 'duckie,'" announced the small brother.

"Well, what of it?" demanded his sister defiantly.

"Oh, nothin' much," answered the small brother. "I was only thinkin' maybe it's because of the way you walk, but it ain't very nice of him."—Chicago Post.

"What does Freddy like to play?" asked the caller.

"Freddy," replied papa, "likes to play whatever games his mother and I decide are too rough for him."—Detroit Free Press.

"You?" cried Captain Fairweather sharply.

"Yes. If she sails for Juneau from Seattle in the 'President,' I will sail from San Francisco in the 'Occident.'"

"Would not your presence awaken her suspicion?"

"Why should it? Everybody is going to the Klondyke now, and why not I as well?"

"That's so," with a craning swallow which ended in a bow. "Seems all right. Plan is a good one, but it will be very uncomfortable to you."

"I am willing to undergo all the discomforts when it is a matter of such importance," said Lackland. "I want two more faithful, trusty men. Men who will go wherever I send them, obey every order I give, and keep still tongues in their heads. Money is no object."

"Well, well!" said the captain, winking and rubbing his hands gleefully; "that's talking to the mark; that is talking just as I like to hear a gentleman—"

"What is your price?" asked Lackland, his pale, white face almost quivering in his intensity.

"Well, they come high. I expect to pay high for them. How much do you want for finding two such men for me in the next twelve hours?"

With a wink and another craning neck and swallowing bow, he gasped: "One thousand dollars."

"I take you up; go bring them at once."

"Meet 'em at my boat at midnight to-night."

"I will do it and the money is yours as soon as they are secured."

CHAPTER IX.

Paul's Departure From Metlakahlia.

Paul Miller's discovery that the white man prospecting on the island was one of the men who had captured the hermit, and beyond doubt one of the four who had robbed him, for a moment deprived him of speech. He had his own reasons for not wishing to be recognized by the man who had robbed him and attempted his life. He also had strong reasons for wishing to have him held a prisoner. He believed the man could unfold the whole story of the robbery and mystery of the hermit, and determined to make him do so before leaving the island.

After a few moments the babel of voices without ceased, and the crowd gathered near the house began to disperse. The thought then occurred to his mind that the prisoner, having been arrested for trespassing, might be released on his solemn promise never to return. With this new danger in his mind he started toward the door, when he was met by Father Duncan.

"What have they done with the prisoner?" he asked anxiously.

"He has been sent to the prison to be detained for a while until certain mysteries with which he is connected are cleared up," said the old man.

"Father Duncan, do you think the fellow is secure? Do you think there is no danger of his escape?"

"None whatever. My Indians are very watchful and careful. They will obey me to the letter."

"Then let us sit here and compare notes for a few moments."

He seated himself by the old missionary and told him of his rescue by the mysterious old man of the mountains whom he had called the hermit. Then he told of the capture of the hermit, and concluded with:

"This man was one of the three who seized the good old man and took him away from the cavern."

The interest of good Father Duncan increased, and he shook his head, saying:

"This is certainly very, very strange."

"There is a mystery in it all which I am unable to solve. I cannot comprehend who this strange hermit can be, unless he is the captain to whom you refer."

"It looks very much as if the unfortunate man was the beloved captain whose mysterious disappearance has occasioned so much distress."

Paul remembered the story which the ex-sailor, Glum Ralston, had told him of his captain, and also recalled to his recollection the mysterious warus hide.

His anxiety to escape from the island and return to the Klondyke, where his friends were, was more than over-balanced by a desire to learn something of the motives of the trespasser.

"Mr. Duncan, will your friends see that he does not escape?"

"There is little danger of his doing so," Father Duncan answered. "My friends are kind and Christian men, yet they have by no means lost their native watchfulness."

Paul had ample proof, in time, of the danger of over-confidence. The third night after his visit to the jail he was awakened by a loud noise in the direction of the little wharf. There came the report of a gun, something rarely heard at Metlakahlia, and he leaped from his bed hurriedly dressed and ran out upon the street. At last he met Father Duncan, whom he found as calm and firm as usual.

"What has happened, Father Duncan?" he asked.

"Alas! my son, you were all too good a prophet. The prisoner has escaped. The wicked are ever cunning and watchful, and Satan sleeps not."

Paul gave utterance to a groan, sank upon a large stone at the side of the road and bowed his head in his hands. One more hope, and, in fact, about the last hope he had, was gone.

Paul remained two weeks longer with the Metlakahlias, and then decided to leave his dusky friends and start for the Klondyke.

Father Duncan selected four stout young Indians to accompany him. The Indians were well supplied with provisions suitable for crossing the mountains, and he and his escort were provided with dried meat and compressed bread and hardtack.

The four Indians selected for Paul's party were stout young fellows, injured to hardship and danger. They were strong, brave and faithful. The instructions given them by the old missionary were carefully listened to and they promised to carry them out to the letter.

There is always something enchanting in a great, deep forest, with its tall trees clothed in moss and solemn depths which seem to speak of divinity. At night in the forest adds to the gloom, the solemnity and awfulness of the scene. A camp fire in the great northern woods, with its rocks and cliffs, its moss-covered trees, has something grand in it.

Gathered about a camp fire built at the base of the mountain range were five persons—Paul Miller and his four Christian Indians.

It had been a long, hard day's travel, and the poor fellows were almost exhausted. It was only Paul's indomitable will driving him on to more than super-human energies that kept him on his feet. He had abandoned all hope of finding the men who had robbed him, and now he longed to get back to the Klondyke, take another fortune from the frozen earth, and return to Laura and his mother.

The faces which ever seemed to smile at him from the smoke and darkness gave him courage and hope.

"It has been a long time since I wrote to them," he thought. "They have no doubt given me up for dead. How sad to cause them grief, and all through a mischievous yet truthful message written in a fit of delirium!"

He was suddenly roused from his painful reverie by the falling and rolling of a great stone down upon and across the camp fire, scattering the burning brands in every direction. The great, round boulder passed within a few inches of where Paul sat and between two of the Indians, but fortunately did not touch any one. The stone was heavy enough to crush out life or break bones had it struck one.

Paul leaped to his feet and the Indians started up with exclamations of fear.

"From whence came that stone?" cried an Indian.

Paul's first suspicion that some convulsion of the earth had shaken the stone loose from the mountain side and sent it thundering down the cliff upon them, but there had been no perceptible quaking.

While he was still trying to discover the cause, there came another object rolling down the steep descent mingled with dirt, fine stones and snow. It seemed a great dark ball, from which there issued a human cry. It rolled to Paul's feet and stopped. He seized one of the burning brands and held it so the flame threw the light upon the face of the stunned and half-insensible man, who sat stupidly gazing about him. The sudden and unexpected advent of this stranger was enough to startle the campers and disturb their wits. The Indians, starting to their feet, stared at him in amazement. Paul was first to recover his speech.

He cried:

"Throw the wood on the fire!"

They obeyed, and the light flashed up, throwing out a broad red glare on the scene which illumined the dirt-be-grimed face of the man who had tumbled down the cliff. Paul, starting back, said:

"It is the escaped prisoner, the abductor—the robber—and perhaps murderer." He seized one of the Indian's muskets and raised it to brain the scoundrel, but two stout Metlakahlias seized him and said:

"Nay, brother, Thou shalt not kill!"

The man who had so suddenly fallen into their midst was rapidly regaining his faculties and by this time able to speak. He growled an oath and rubbed the side of his head.

"Where did you come from?" asked Paul.

"From aloft on the cliff," he answered.

"What were you doing up there?"

"Tryin' to cross. Was any harm in that?"

"I recognize you as one of the men who robbed me."

"Mate, yer off yer course when ye accuse me o' doin' that."

"You are one of the two men who seized your captain a few years since and have made away with him."

"Yer on the wrong tack again, mate. I hain't done nothin' o' the kind, I tell ye."

"Where is your captain?"

"Don't know."

Paul determined to keep a close watch on the rascal and conduct him across the mountains to the camp on the Klondyke, where punishment would be meted out to him according to frontier ideas of justice.

Paul bound his arms behind his back and told him to sit in front of the fire.

The night passed guarding the prisoner by turns, and when the day dawned he was still among them.

Breakfast over and they began to prepare to ascend the mountain.

It had snowed considerably during the night, but toward morning it changed to a rain and later in the day a sleet.

The ascent became every moment more and more difficult. About every one hundred paces they came to mountain torrents, fed by the glaciers, and augmented by recent rainfalls, which they had to wade, the cold water often coming above their knees.

After struggling up a steep ascent of twenty-five or thirty feet they were often forced from sheer exhaustion to rest for a moment, but when they stopped ever so short a time the piercing wind cut them to the marrow, chilled them to the bone and they were compelled to continue their course to keep from chilling to death.

When evening came they were on the other side of the mountain in a valley wet, shivering and benumbed with cold. They had no tent nor shelter, save the lowering heavens from above. Some dry pine and scrub oak wood was collected and a fire kindled. They all gathered about it to dry their bedraggled garments and warm their shivering bodies.

They had just made a supper on dried salmon, moose meat and hardtack, when they were startled to see an old man with long white hair and beard standing on a slight elevation not far away, gazing at them. He wore a seal-skin cap, which shaded his face, but not too much for him to be recognized by all the camp.

"The captain!" cried the Metlakahlias.

"The hermit!" exclaimed Paul.

The prisoner gave utterance to a curse and was bounding away when a blow from the hermit's staff sent him staggering to the earth.

Paul Miller started quickly toward the hermit, saying:

"Where are you from?"

The old man gave him a piercing look and answered:

"I am from everywhere, which means nowhere. This is precious fine company you keep!" He clutched his stout staff as Paul approached and warned him not to come too close. "I will strike you as I did your companion if you come too near me," he added, in a voice made ferocious by long years of suffering and disappointment.

Paul halted and gazed at him in amazement.

The old man at last said: "I have been cheated, deceived, betrayed and lied to until I have about lost faith in all men. Can I trust you now?"

"Do you know those men?" asked Paul, pointing to the Metlakahlias. "If you know them, you must know they can be trusted."

"Yes, they are brothers, but they have been deceived as often as I."

One of the Indians approached the hermit and addressed him in his native tongue. The old man answered in the same language and grasped his hand. Though Paul could not understand a word of what was said, he knew from their manner and gestures that it had some relation to the man on the ground.

After a long conversation with the Metlakahlia the hermit approached the fire. His face was very grave, and his brow lowered when he gazed upon the prisoner. The mien of the prisoner had been defiant until he met the glance of the hermit, then his countenance fell, and his eyes were upon the ground.

"Ned Padgett," said the hermit, "you will some day receive the reward you so much merit; you will die a dog's death yet."

The ruffian gave a sneering chuckle, but made no answer.

"How long have you lived in Alaska?" asked Paul, trying to draw the old man into conversation.

"Yes."

"How many years?"

"A great many."

FREAK DINNERS A FAD.

Entertainments Where Guests Cook for Themselves.

Freak dinners are a fad. An ordinary dinner has lost its charm for some people who go out much during the season, and now that Paris has set its seal of approval on the Corinthian dinner at which everyone is obliged to cook something, New Yorkers and Chicagoans will select this form of entertainment as a diversion.

In a studio a few weeks ago the wife of an artist gave one of these cooking parties to a dozen guests who knew nothing of the fun in store for them when they arrived at the house. The studio was arranged with a long table holding a chafing dish for each person, with some particular viand before it ready to be cooked. Each guest received a chef's cap and apron, and in a short time the dishes were bubbling and sizzling in a promising fashion.

When the meal was cooked it was served by the men, who acted as the waiters. Strangely enough, the dinner in every particular was a success. But cooking has become such a fad of late that it is considered quite smart to know how to cook some particular dish in a chafin.

The bachelor apartment feasts, at which the host acts as cook, have increased the desire for culinary knowledge, as these occasions prove very enjoyable to those used to more formal entertainments.

Mrs. Tupman, a prominent lady of Richmond, Va., a great sufferer with woman's troubles, tells of her cure by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For some years I suffered with backache, severe bearing-down pains, leucorrhœa, and falling of the womb. I tried many remedies, but nothing gave any positive relief.

"I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in June, 1901. When I had taken the first half bottle, I felt a vast improvement, and have now taken ten bottles with the result that I feel like a new woman. When I commenced taking the Vegetable Compound I felt all worn out and was fast approaching complete nervous collapse. I weighed only 98 pounds. Now I weigh 109½ pounds and am improving every day. I gladly testify to the benefits received."—Mrs. K. C. TUPMAN, 423 West 30th St., Richmond, Va.

When a medicine has been successful in more than a million cases, is it justice to yourself to say, without trying it, "I do not believe it would help me"?

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak and sick and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. You have some derangement of the feminine organism, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as surely as it has others.

Mrs. W. H. Felham, Jr., 108 E. Baker St., Richmond, Va., says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I must say that I do not believe there is any female medicine to compare with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I return to you my heartfelt thanks for what your medicine has done for me. Before taking the Vegetable Compound I was so badly off that I thought I could not live much longer. The little work I had to do was a burden to me. I suffered with irregular menstruation and leucorrhœa, which caused an irritation of the parts. I looked like one who had consumption, but I do not look like that now, and I owe it all to your wonderful medicine.

"I took only six bottles, but it has made me feel like a new person. I thank God that there is such a female helper as you."

Be it, therefore, believed by all women who are ill that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they should take. It has stood the test of time, and it has hundreds of thousands of cures to its credit. Women should consider it unwise to use any other medicine.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women. Perhaps she has just the knowledge that will help your case—try her to-day—it costs nothing.

Wm. Peters will be the auctioneer.

Residents along Lake street are saying unkind things about the board of trustees because that body did not provide for gravelling that street this season. It is true that Lake street ought to be gravelled, and the same might be said of a number of other streets, but how are such improvements to be made without funds? It is probable that Lake street will be taken care of next season.

A committee of citizens representing Arlington Heights, Palatine and Barrington called on General Manager Gardner of the C. & N. W. Railway, Monday morning, and laid before him a request for better train service, one train each way daily to make the run between Barrington and Chicago in 40 minutes. Mr. Gardner will consider the request. Should the request be granted the trains affected will probably be No. 526, going south at 7:30 in the morning, and No. 541 which now is scheduled to arrive here at 8:03 p.m. from the south. A forty minute train between here and Chicago would prove a great convenience to our people.

Vote early next Tuesday.

"Remember, my son," said the old man to his offspring, who was going forth in the world to do for himself and to do others, "that there are times when it is best to saw wood and say nothing." "That's right, dad," replied the wise innocent. "If a fellow was to say what he thinks while sawing wood it might effect his standing in the church."

Henry Shumacher, tenant on the William Howarth farm, lost an opportunity to pose as the owner of a dime museum and side show freak. One day this week a cow belonging to him gave birth to three well-developed calves. One of the triplets had to be helped into the world and was dead when dropped. The other two died soon after birth. Triplet calves or colts are rare occurrences. The cow is getting along nicely.

Poultry is in good demand. It will soon be time for the hucksters to go around buying chickens and other poultry. Shut the birds you are going to sell in a rather small pen a few days before you sell them and give them all they will eat of corn meal and wheat middlings mixed into a dough. When first he took the plunge into the rushing business swim he made the golden rule his only guide, and tried to do to others as he'd have 'em do to him, and soon he found he could not stem the tide, fell back in the procession till he seemed as but the tail, his lucky rivals marching far ahead. And then he did some thinking of the cause why he should fall while others walked with such successful tread. A light broke in upon him as a great awakening glim. He at once changed his tactics to the other hand, and now does others plenty when they think they're doing him, and he's marching mighty close behind the band.

Palatine Ladies Entertained.
Mrs. C. H. Kendall assisted by her sister, Mrs. Lyman Powers, entertained twenty-eight ladies from Palatine, members of the Palatine Cinch club, Wednesday afternoon. The beautiful and commodious Kendall home was tastefully decorated for the occasion, carnations being the flowers used. Cinch was the game and it was well played. The first prize was won by a Palatine lady, and consisted of a handsome Chinese fan. The second award, a pretty silver olive fork, was won by Mrs. Leroy Powers. The booby prize, while not a costly affair, was very ornamental, and captured by Mrs. Laura Hawley.
A luncheon consisting of cold boiled ham, Saratoga chips, potato salad, pickles, olives, cheese, coffee, angel cake, wafers, fruit cake, fruit salad, and salted peanuts was served.

It is the wish of our people that Rev. and Mrs. Mayhew may find a more lucrative field of labor and unbounded prosperity in Plainfield.

Roll of Honor.
The following pupils in the Fifth grade of the public school, taught by Miss Yertson, have been neither tardy nor absent during the first eight weeks of school: Sanford Rieke, Fred Sandeman, Edith Rieck, Amanda Schultz, Mabel Schaefer, Lillian Augenstein, Laura French, Lillie Volker, Ethel Wilmer.

Selecting a Good Cow.
It is safe to say that no farmer can buy a cow without risk of loss, as she may be of spiteful disposition, may bring disease on the farm, may yield but little or give inferior milk and may prove unprofitable from several causes. To sell her may be but to get another no better. The presence of two or three inferior cows in a herd affects the average profit of the whole. No dairyman can buy a cow and know what she is worth until he has tested her. It is impossible for him to know how long she will keep up her flow of milk, even if she is apparently a good animal. Such cows will fall off before they are eight months in milking, and when one becomes dry another must be procured in the place. When a heifer is raised, and her sire and dam are known, the dairyman can depend upon it, if she is from good stock, that she will prove better than the best unknown cow that can be purchased, as it is seldom that the best cows are offered for sale. Success in dairying can only be guaranteed when the dairyman pays some attention to breeds.

Officers of Lonsbury Chapter.
In an item published last week, relative to the Eastern Star chapter, only a partial list of the officers was given. In that item it was stated that new officers had been named for secretary and assistant conductress. This was an error, the officers mentioned being protem appointments. Mrs. Zoe Meyer and Mrs. Nellie Robertson continue to hold office until the close of the term. The full list of officials of the Chapter is as follows:
Worthy Matron—C. M. Sears.
Worthy Patron—Fred Kirschner.
A. W. M.—Jennie Powers.
Treasurer—Carrie Kendall.
Conductress—Corra Purcell.
A. C.—Nellie Robertson.
Sec.—Zoe Meyer.
Chaplain—Flora Lines.
M.—Alice Olcott.
Warder—Hannah Powers.
Sentinel—Rose Thorp.
Stars—Luella Austin, Olive Blocks, Clara Alverson, Anna Ulitsch, Anna Otis.
Organist—Ida Bennett.
The Chapter has now a membership of 28 and a number waiting for admission. At the installation Mrs. William Roberts, P. G. A. Grand Chapter Ills., residing at Nunda, was present.

Married.
SMITH-MILLER—At the residence of the bride's parents, Thursday, October 30, at 12 o'clock noon, by Rev. W. H. Tuttle, Edward P. Smith and Miss Florence Z. Miller. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Miller of Barrington Center, and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Smith, residing three miles west of the village on the county line road.
The wedding was strictly a family affair, only relatives being present. The bride was gowned in navy blue trimmed in white, and carried white carnations. The groom was attired in the conventional black. After a sumptuous wedding dinner the couple departed for their future home, at 78 North Liberty street, Elgin.
Many articles of utility in the household were presented them.

Many Sided Citizen.
The most accomplished, versatile and many-sided man in Illinois is said to be the Hon. John Adams Atwood, editor and publisher of the Stillman Valley Graphic. Here is a partial list of his vocations and avocations: Editor, Assessor, Justice of the Peace, Insurance Agent, Preacher, Police Magistrate, School Trustee, Tombstone agent and Undertaker.
He belongs to six lodges, is secretary or chaplain of most of them. Still Bro. Adams pines for more activity and complains that time hangs heavy on his hands. The Elgin News suggests that Mr. Adams be incorporated into a city, and asks if he pays the 5 per cent assessment on all his offices.

The Innocent Canine and His Pious Persecutor.
Considerable agitation has been created recently in our little village as a result of the poisoning of some fine dogs by some contemptible sneak. The wrong of the matter appears to us in two phases: The destruction of property which has, according to our laws, a certain value, which act is equal to incendiarism or thievery. The brutal destruction of the life of a harmless and innocent domestic animal, which in itself shows a disposition that if fully developed and allowed absolute freedom of action, would result in the taking of human life. It is our humble opinion that the perpetrators of such acts as these, be they old or young, rich or poor, fiends or devils, will have a warm time hereafter unless proper repentance and restitution is made.

New Railroad.
Articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state Saturday of the Waukegan & Western Railway company, with principal office at Waukegan and a capital stock of $50,000. It is to be constructed from Waukegan, Lake county, in a westerly direction to the boundary line of Lake county.
The incorporators and first board of directors are William H. Dodge, Clarence A. Murray, John W. Besley, Daniel A. Grady, William W. Pierce and Peter McDermott, all of Waukegan.

WHAT IT COSTS

The Editor For Complimentary Passes to Local Entertainments.

One of the most unjust of the many evils of the present day is that which appears to obtain with regard to what are styled "free passes." Here's a case in point, and it happens every day in the year, says the Schenectady Union. A society decides to give an entertainment or concert to raise needed funds. In order to get the people out to the affair—which nine times in ten is altogether too mediocre to pass muster anywhere—it is necessary to utilize the press; otherwise no one outside of the immediate friends of the participants would know anything about the thing.

Now, how do they go about it? Do they walk up to the newspaper office and buy space in the paper in a manner similar to that which would obtain if they were doing business with a merchant in need of whose wares they stood sadly? Not a bit of it, my countryman! No, siree! They've a handier way than that.

They go to a newspaper office, take up half an hour of the editor's time with the alleged glories of their show and then ask him to boom it along for them. Being a public spirited individual who is in the business altogether by his physician's orders in order to save him from an early grave, the glad-faced editor spends another half an hour in the preparation of an article that is public spirited, even if it does leave the soul of the hapless writer in peril of the place where the delinquent subscriber ceaseth not to smoke and the wicked are never at rest, and then he sends it to the compositor. The advertisement is read by hundreds who accept the word of the editor, who is generally a man of marked probity and truthfulness, barring these little affairs, and make up their minds to attend the seance, consenting therefore to be separated from their money.

The cost of this publicity on the part of the principal contributor to its success, the editor, is considerable. The average local show gets about $40 worth of advertising. In return the editor receives a pass "free of charge" to witness the show. Ye gods and small sized hemlocks! What are we up against?

As a fraternity we are up against a class who have little use for us except when they want something for nothing. Not long since The Review gave to an organization in this village $30 worth of local advertising. Not even "we appreciate your kindness" in thus helping along our entertainment" was tendered in connection with a small bit of pasteboard on which was written, "admit one." No, instead of a vote of thanks the editor is lamponed because he does not deem it advisable to consult certain people as to what he shall write for publication. Any kind of charity should be appreciated.

Purpose of Church Auxiliaries.

Church societies composed of women are organized and maintained for only one purpose—that of doing as much as possible toward the support and advancement of the church to which they belong. The day of the "sewing society" is past, and in its stead has come a band of hustling women who not only "sew" but arrange entertainments, serve luncheons and give suppers, hold bazaars, and in many ways endeavor to earn the money that is constantly needed and being used for the support of the church. Churches are lighted, heated, and in many ways made comfortable for the public through the efforts of these women, and oftentimes a certain amount is given toward the pastor's salary, which probably would not, or could not be otherwise obtained.

In this busy age, when so much is expected of the wife and mother, it means something for these women to go out of their own homes, even for one afternoon a week, and put in several hours of work for the church, and it is more often from a sense of duty than anything else that they do so. The women today who are giving themselves to church work are not the ones who are neglecting their own home duties. As a general rule it is not the husbands of these women who are wearing nails for trousers buttons. We have found that as a rule they are Christian women who fully believe that "charity begins at home" but should not end there, and the more perfect and beautiful their own home life, the more faithful they are to their own families, the more they see the need of helping onward those things which are going to aid them in keeping their homes what they have made them.

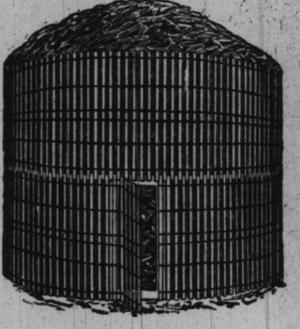

There are churches scattered about our land today, the doors of which would long since have been boarded up and covered with cobwebs were it not for the women who are faithfully working that they may be kept open.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following is a list of unclaimed letters remaining in the post office at Barrington, October 30, 1902:

Card of Thanks.
To the many friends and neighbors who assisted us during the illness and death of a beloved husband and father, we extend our sincere thanks. Dearest father, he has left us, and our loss we deeply feel, but 'tis God who has bereft us. He can all our sorrows heal; yet again we hope to meet thee when in heaven with joy to greet thee where no farewell tear is shed.

PORTABLE
CORN CRIB.
CHEAP AND HANDY.

8 feet high and 12 feet in diameter. 14 inches between slats.

HOLDS 400 BUSHELS, PRICE $6
Can be set up in ten minutes and when empty can be used for chicken fence and for corn again when needed, or can be sawed in a 2-foot hog fence, as each section contains 6 cable wires, thus leaving 3 cables in each piece of 2-foot fence. This is just the thing to pen up small pigs to wean or make a yard to feed small chicks in.

Directions with each crib on back of tag for setting up and making door. A grand thing to set up in the field while husking or to feed out of during winter. If wanted to store corn in, some pieces of boards or something else should be laid on the ground and the crib on top. A covering can be made of hay with stringers to hold it on. Will also make a good grain bin if lined with straw or canvas. Tar paper laid in bottom will keep out mice and rats. The two sections are done up in one roll.
Nearly all farmers, grain dealers and storage men use them.
