Philip Noian, "the man without a coun-try," can appreciate something of the himilitation and regret of these men who have upon their own confession disfranciased themselves and have been pilloried as unworthy to exercise the inestimable privilege of participating in the government under which they live.

No sympathies or prejudices which we may entertain in relation to the combatants will prevent us, of course, from supplying the nations involved in the oriental difficulty with such little commodities in our line as they may provide northly arms unless and beef.

The United States senate, according to the expense account, used 30,000 quinine pills last year. Probably the sonators themselves furnished the oth-er ingredient of the prescription.
