The New United States Navy.

Nothing in modern life is undergo-ing more rapid evolution than the navies of the world. The problem seems to be how to make war vessels that are proof against all projectiles and to make projectiles that no was vessel can withstand.

Since the American war with Spain reasels have been authorized that will almost completely transform the Unit-ed States navy. The new ships will be heavier, better armored and will be equipped with many more modern ap-pliances. The first of these, the Cali-fornia, was recently launched at San Francisco. She belongs to the cruiser class, has a length of 503 feet, a dis-placement of 14,000 tons and calls for placement of 14,000 tons and calls for a speed of twenty-two knots an hour. She will be probably the first vessel of the newer neary to be added to sur present armored neet of afteen vessels, lacibility the buttleships Maine, Mis-sourt, Albarna, Hillods, Wiecolskin, Kernarge, Kentacky, Josep, Indiana, Massachusetts, Oregon, Olini (sout Del be in commission Bloodly), and New
