AS THE FARMER SEES IT

REASONS WHY HE BELIEVES IN AND TRUSTS REPUBLICANS.

They Have Never Deceived Him. They have followed the New Agricultural Policies. Legislation for His Benefit.

Each national campaign emphasizes the fact that the "farmer" vote must be reckoned with and catered to, and all parties put forth their best arguments when addressing the farmer. Away from the maddening crowd, untrammelled by the prejudice and false cries of the politician, the farmer calmly reads and thinks and thinks and reads, and decides the question with a discerning judgment that leads to a decision which is honest and right.

In 1890 it was generally feared that the farmer would be deceived by the great promises made or the benevolent results to be attained by voting for free silver. But the farmer, who was away from home, but at his own free will, with plenty of time to weigh the question, he decided for the gold standard. AND THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND ITS CANDIDATES ON THE NATIONAL TICKET NOW SAY THAT THE FARMER DISCLOSED HIS RIGHT.

It was important, and with his love of freedom it was said that the farmer might be stampeded, but again he allowed common sense and calm consideration to decide the question, and, seeing no danger of militarism or overthrow of the established government by the new order of things, forced upon us by the war with Spain, the farmer again cast his ballot for the Republican ticket, and time has proved that his judgment was good and his decision right.

Can We Not Answer? In the present campaign no new or striking issue is presented. The Democrats arraign the Republican party, vilify the president and hold out a general "resistance" home is no argument, and to secure the farmer vote it is necessary to provoke more than dissent.

On two of a Democratic president, two years only of absolute Democratic administration, was sufficient to practically paralyze business throughout the nation, deprive the worker of the chance to earn an honest living, depress values and prices and make us the laughing stock and subject of ridicule of the nations of the world.

McKinley was elected, a Republican congress enacted a constant protective tariff. Industry was revived, factories started, unemployed given work at the highest wages ever known, consumption stimulated, values restored, Spain defeated, Cuba freed, order established in the Philippine Islands and the people given civil liberty in its fullest sense, the opportunity of becoming a creditable part of the greatest nation on earth. The stability of the currency has been assured by the action of the Republican administration; the public debt reduced and interest charges lowered; laws passed that will bring the lands under cultivation, and that, too, without tax or cost to any person except the one directly benefited by the purchase of the land from the government.

The securing of the route for an isthmian canal, the construction of which is now under way, is a triumph for a Republican president and the party, and no one else will receive a greater benefit from the connection of the Atlantic and Pacific by this great waterway than will the farmer.

The opposition to the Cuban reciprocity bill, on account of the reduction of the tariff on raw sugar, came largely from a misconception of what the result would be. Instead of retarding production and lowering the price of sugar, the opposite has been the result, and the production has been stimulated and profits increased.

Benefits of Protection. The policy of protection which grants and develops the industries of our country, carried with the Republican party, is necessary to the prosperity of the farmer. A tariff on agricultural products may not increase the price if the demand does not equal the supply, but a tariff which protects American labor and home industries against foreign competition, and the consequent increase in the price of money and increased consumption, insuring high prices for farm products.

The farmer is indebted to the Republican party for the rural free delivery system. First suggested by the editor of a leading farm paper, himself a Republican, the idea was reported upon and carried by the Republican postmaster general, adopted and enlarged upon by the Republican party, appropriation made by a Republican congress, and the system of universal free delivery inaugurated and tried of the proposed system. A Democratic postmaster general supported by a Democratic president, refused to expand the appropriations and reported not only adversely to the system, but that the scheme was impossible. Not until the Republican case was again in full power was the system given a fair trial, and its entire practicability, as well as the great benefit derived by the rural population fully demonstrated. From a $10,000 appropriation for the trial of the system it has grown to an appropriation of over $20,000,000 under the friendly encouragement and aggressive business policy of Republican administrations. No other act of Congress could have been of such great benefit to the farmer; it has placed him in daily communication with the market, and from the isolation of farm life he emerges and becomes a part and parcel of this great nation and is not only able to read of the things throughout the world, but the facilities afforded for frequent and prompt communication enable him to take part in its affairs. The farmer is now recognized as a big, broad-minded, level-headed man, and the discovery is due to the rural free delivery system, established and fostered by the Republican party.

The Republican party has always been aggressively in favor of legislation for the benefit of farmers, and the record will be considered and remembered when the farmer casts his vote.

The platform of the Republican and Democratic parties are so similar on important subjects that the distinction is inevitable that the latter followed the former for vote-catching purposes, and that the Democratic party is in all cases and at all times under false representations and the former never favors or supports insolvency or fraud.

Balfour, the prime minister of England, in a speech delivered at Sheffield, declared that "Cuba, the apostle of free trade, was a great man, but he failed to foresee the developments of the last half century which had made free trade an empty name and a vain fancy."

There is one truth that seems beyond the comprehension of the Democracy, that "the old order changes, yielding place to the new." Otherwise it would not try to fit the Jeffersonian knickerbockers of 1804 on the busy American of 1904.

Maybe This Road Will Come Here. We expected the publication of just such an item as the following, not because we had heard of the proposed road, but because it was time for an item of this kind. The report came early every April and September. It Harrington had all the electric roads projected to come within its corporate limits, our village would be a railway center of importance.

Chicago the rail road company proposed by the Illinois & Wisconsin company may be built, at least it promises more than some other companies that have "promised" to come here. The Illinois & Wisconsin company, with principal offices in Chicago and a capital stock of $50,000, was incorporated at Springfield, Mo. The road is to be constructed from Chicago to Harrington. The incorporators and first board of directors are: Robert K. Burke, Henry Lutzkenrich, Clayton K. Crafts, Harry K. Crafts and Abraham L. Shifman of Chicago. It is the intention of the company to take over franchises secured by other companies projecting lines outside the limits of Chicago in a northwesterly direction from Austin to Fox Lake. It is said that the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin company is the real power in the move to put the line through.

Democrat's Defeat. As has been reported in the papers of last week the Hon. William Desmond has been retired as democratic representative from this senatorial district. In his place an unknown gentleman from Lake County will be the minority candidate for re-election and receive the votes of this county. That he would be re-nominated was, however, freely predicted for several days previous to the date of the adjourned convention.

And it had been ever thus with this democratic district. His ability, honesty, capability and unselfish devotion to duty are not qualities which appeal to the delegates at a democratic convention. They want other benefits and railroad passes are among the least of them. Why, it is even charged that Desmond had ever got a pass to Springfield and return for a friend or more. And as to the other and more liberal distributions of "pie" which "Herald" are sometimes made at Springfield, he was no good to himself or any body else.

There is one William Desmond should and probably will cost the democracy of this district many hundred votes at the coming election—Woodstock Sentinel.

A Thousand Ways of Lying. There are a thousand ways of lying, says an exchange, but all lead to the same end. It does not matter whether you wear lies, tell lies, act lies, or live lies, your character is ruined just the same.

There is no more demoralizing influence in modern life than the unnatural straining to seem other than we are. Nothing else so quickly lowers self-respect, takes the edge off of honor and blunts the conscience as the sense of being a sham, a gifted fraud, or an untruthful. It cheapens standards, lowers ideals, saps ambition, and take the spring and joy out of living. No man can make the most and best of himself until he is absolutely honest with his own soul, and unflinchingly true to his high ideals, and this is impossible while he is living a lie.

Must Ante or Quit.

Dawls has issued an order to employees of his printing plant at Zion City that after October 1st no one will be continued in the employ of the Zion City Printing and Publishing house who does not take regularly into the Lord's (EJ) storehouse.

What a blessed privilege to work in the employ of a self-constituted Jesus!

A Prolific Year.

This is the bumper year for the farmer. The corn is better than for the last year. The potatoes are as large as watermelons. The gem melons are sweeter than John the Baptist's honey. The sweet potatoes are as large as the apple of a teenager old boy. Irish potatoes are in difficulty to find skin enough to cover them. Cabbage heads look like Japanese gun barrels. Beans are luscious and a pod like a sea serpent. Chickens are fat and tender as soft corn. Let us be thankful to the weather clerk, who has given us the shower bath—blessed standard.

Nunda Shaken.

The Herald says: "A distinct shock of earthquake was felt between 3 and 4 o'clock Wednesday morning by many residents of Nunda. Those who were awake at that hour say that the vibrations were distinct and that houses creaked and groaned under the racking given them by the quaking earth. The same time rain was falling. Slight seismic disturbances are often felt in the middle states but there is never any violent movement of the earth."

RUSSIA LIKE AMERICA.

PEOPLE KINDLY AND DEMOCRATIC.

Country News Recalling New England and Swampy Pine Lands Similar to Georgia—No Slaves in the Slave Land—Children of Nature.

It is quite a new light that is thrown on the Russian character by Louis Kitchell in a current issue of the New York Evening Post.

My first experience to Russia, she says, were much in the nature of a revelation. Here was an outgrowth of country and people and life at first sight astonishingly like America and the Americans! The boundless level stretches of woodland and wheatfields, the great rivers and lakes seen from our car windows, the ranchlike settlements, the small country towns at which our train halted, transported me on my first day in Russia to the prairies of Iowa and Nebraska. When we left the railroad at Luga, the woods on both country town, and drove the fifteen versts to my friend's estate, among the chief impressions of my first intimacy with the Russian country were the miles of swampy pine land, reminiscent of Georgia, through which ran the rough macadam road; the newly cultivated fields, with piles of stone by the roadside; American log machines, and little villages of log built cottages, with their American "yard." As we arrived at the simple village and drove through the pine bordered avenue to an old fashioned wooden mansion surrounded in trees, with its flower beds, tennis court, apple orchards, and, beyond, farm buildings of New England's general proportions, sensations strangely familiar could not be quite crowded out by the characteristic enthusiasm of the Russian welcome that awaited us, by the barefoot peasant maids who ran down the steps to unload our baggage, and by my immediate introduction to the streaming summer and to a bath with a handful of snowy flax for a sponge.

The forbidding Russian peasants inevitably came to be the object of my warmest interest and study. It is true that they are children of impulse, and drunkenness is said to be at least weekly custom among the men. But although one of the villages was situated within a quarter of a mile from the house, I did not see more than half a dozen peasants during the two months of my visit. The village school building would be a model of its kind, and the schoolmaster, with his growing plants and all modern appliances of maps and blackboards. As to the present relations between the peasants and their former masters, they are even among the settled workers of our great cities have I seen more ideal relations between rich and poor. The greatest practical interest shown by the general masses of the peasantry is in all that concerns the welfare of their peasants.

Above all, unfeeling love, sympathy and kindness with each other and in full measure between them. Upon the return home of a daughter of the house as a bride the peasants join the family in the general welcome at the entrance to the village, offering their homemade sweets and toasts in their own homes brewed wine. The latitude which is always exchanged between them, as well as the whole category of common saying, "little soul," "little heart," "little mother," etc., with the Russian language, is a revelation of the Russian language.

This close bond of freedom of relations with the lower classes brings us to one of the salient characteristics of the Russian nature. Mindful of the probable exceptions there must be to prove the rule, one can say in absolute truth that a Russian mind is an untrustworthy. When the peasant girl becomes engaged to be married and is about to leave her father's house her first duty is to follow the time honored custom of throwing herself at her father's feet, there to sob out her thanks for her just life and give forgiveness for all she may have done amiss. High and low alike show this spirit of really Christian humility.

Many other traits of the present's children are rooted deep in the heart of every son and daughter of Russia. Simplicity, unselfishness and frankness seem to be chief characteristics, coupled with the paradoxical semi-civilized intensity and almost morbidly of children. Yet, above everything else, their extreme religious faith stands supreme.

We are striving to return to nature in our civilization; the Russian has never left it. His simplicity and freshness bear the unconscious charm of some bright, radiant fountain bursting forth from the heart of nature.

As we continue our observation of the Russian character we are recalled to our first impressions in again coming across variously American traits. There are even some that seem to be such and perhaps, like our own, greatly the result of a large, new and developing country. The American notes with a thrill of sympathy the Russian's open-handedness, the freedom with which money is spent and even wanted on little external luxuries of buttons and flowers, the recklessness of spending the last penny in his purse with as much freedom as the first. There is a much more American generosity about the Russian, who knows no such thing as "Dutch treat," but must pay everything himself, even his friends' hotel bills and cab fares, and who cannot come home from a shopping list without arms laden with gifts.

PECULIAR KINDS OF JUSTICE

Issue Which the Constitutional Amendment.

Trade unionists all over the state are taking an interest in the pending constitutional amendment, which will enable the legislature to grant Chicago a new charter. Their interest lies mainly in the fact that working people in that city are the most sufferers from the present situation. It is precisely under the justice of the peace and constable system. The evils of that system, which are notorious, do not result solely from the inequality of the justice and police machinery. In the city, jurisdiction is uneven. Throughout Cook county, and thousands of cases are brought against poor people of the city and taken before justices in remote parts of the county where they are not at unreasonable hours. Most of such cases are on claims that are extortionate or evidently unfounded. The object, of course, is to weary the defendant and get judgment by default. Hundreds of such cases are brought every month. Poor people, particularly the colored, are unable to fight the cases in the higher courts, and many of them are thus driven to mortgage their earnings with the loan sharks.

It is intended to change the system of minor courts under the pending amendment by creating district courts of somewhat larger jurisdiction in the city, and limiting the jurisdiction of justices of the county outside to their own territory. It is a plan that all labor organizations may well regard with favor.

VOTE FOR THE AMENDMENT

Present Constitutional Measure Interpreted by Attorney General Hamilton A. Rice.

All the county clerks in Illinois have received a copy of the statement of the constitutional amendment which will be on the special ballot of the November election. The statement includes a copy of the amendment and the interpretation of it by Attorney General Hamilton. Both the amendment and interpretation are being published throughout the state, and the construction placed on the amendment by the attorney general leaves no room for any stupid mistake in fear that there is something dangerous in it. It is in reality a simple proposition. If adopted it will enable the legislature to grant Chicago broader charter powers in managing her local affairs. It does not and can not relieve Chicago from any obligations to the state, and is not an intended. Before being adopted by the legislature the amendment was long and carefully considered by the judicial committee of both houses and senate, and it would be idle to suppose that there had been anything looking in to the disadvantage of the state at large. It would not have been detected.

A proposition to amend the constitution of the Republic, Democratic and Prohibition parties and strongly advocated by their campaign speakers can easily be misled for

'Lend a Hand' Girls Social

The basket social and entertainment given by the Lend a Hand girls in the M. E. church Monday evening was a very successful affair. A program of music, and several readings by little girls, who give promise of making accomplished readers, was given at 8 o'clock, after which the baskets were sold at auction by Geo. Lytle, who acted in an able manner as a seller. The baskets were all beautiful and sold rapidly after which the company proceeded to enjoy themselves.

The little ladies conducted a raffle and popcorn booth, and a souvenir table which were well patronized. The "Magic Well" did a rushing business. Just after a raffle a general good-will time was enjoyed by all until a late hour.

During the evening a handsome, engraved altar serving spoon was presented to Rev. and Mrs. Tuttle by the Lend a Hand class and their teacher, Mrs. McIntosh, as a token of appreciation for the faithful work done by them in the Sunday school during the past four years.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be given toward a fund for a new organ for the church parson.

As the Lend a Hand girls wish to thank all who assisted on the program and those who contributed toward making their entertainment a success.

CHICAGO'S DIRE NEED

NEW CHARTER FOR CITY WOULD BENEFIT WHOLE STATE.

Recent Reasons Why Voters of Illinois Should Favor the Pending Constitutional Amendment—Indorsed by the Leading Political Parties.

Every voter in Illinois should know that an amendment to the Constitution is pending. It is the duty of every voter to vote on every constitutional question submitted to the electors by the General Assembly. This proposed Amendment is unusual in that it applies only to one city in this State—Chicago. It is a reality as an amending act. It raised it with certain constitutional restrictions from the legislature and enable that body to provide a special charter for the great city of the lake.

Chicago needs a new charter which will give the city broader powers in conducting its local government. Ever since the Cities and Villages act, provided by the Constitution of 1870, went into effect Chicago has felt that the provisions of that act were too restrictive. The amendment submitted to the electors by the General Assembly, it is a cosmopolitan character, its widely varied interests, and the problems in municipal government which these create have for years been a serious question.

The many taxing bodies work confusion not only to the levying of taxes, but to the economical and efficient application of the revenues. The collection has long been demanded, and no one system that by such changes of the city would be greatly benefited. Township government in the city has long been worse than useless, and the evils of the system of justices of the peace and police magistrates are notorious.

The evil that it is proposed to remedy under the proposed Amendment and the New Charter that will follow are of the kind that can not be wiped out in any other way.

The Amendment itself changes no existing law. It does not empower the legislature to change any law for any part of the State outside of Chicago. It does not change any law applying to that city to the detriment of the rest of the State. Chicago will continue to pay the same proportion of state taxes as now.

Every voter in the state should mark his special ballot in favor of the Amendment. It is endorsed in the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition platforms.

FATHER WAS ALL RIGHT.

Knowledge That Lifted Load from Young Man's Heart.

She had agreed to become his wife. For a long time he sat in silence, too full of joyful emotion to say anything. At last his face became clouded. A glow of annoyance settled upon it.

"What's the matter?" she asked in alarm. "You are not sorry that I consented? Oh, Fred, I hope that is not it."

"No, dear. You know that I love you as never woman was loved before. It is the duty of a little while to comfort her husband in affliction, and I am glad to be your little wife, ain't I, Fred?"

"Yes, darling, you are."

And there was a silence during which no word fell upon the air except a note like the popping of champagne corks.

"Well, Fred, now tell me all about it."

"Well, dear, I was wondering what your father will say when I ask him for your hand. I feel as if I were robbing him of the greatest and most precious thing in his world."

"Well," she replied, "if that's all that's the matter with you, I might as well tell you that father and I returned the whole act last night after you left, and I am sure he will reflect credit upon my training."

And a great load was lifted from his heart, while he immediately deposited another in his lap.

"The nation man is here to stay," said a better, "and his coming did not meet with the opposition that the shrewd man has incurred."

"All but the baldheads were nation men this summer. At the seashore, among the mountains, automobile driving, walking, the young men were invariably nation men. Their faces were tanned, and the sun had given a bright, coppery hue and a crisp quality to their hair."

"I know a half-dozen undergraduates of Princeton who took a cross-country walk of 700 miles in August last year. The new fashion has hurt the hat business undeniably. On account of it my summer sales have been smaller than ever before. Still I don't regret it. I like the idea of going bald. The fact is, I went bald myself during my vacation. The sun and air did my hair good."

FORT MUST SOON FALL

Port Arthur Garrison Has Fallen Back to Its Last Line of Defense—Japs Still Seek to Outflank Kouropatkin.

London, Sept. 22.—A dispatch to the Standard from Liaoyang, dated Sept. 21, via Tientsin, states that the crisis at Port Arthur is rapidly approaching. The speedy capture of the last line of defense is anticipated. The recent successful assault by the Japanese sealed the fate of the fortress, enabling the besiegers to mount heavy guns on the hills to the eastward, which command a section of the town and harbor.

The Russian garrison for many days has not been as vigorous as usual. It is believed their ammunition is scarce. The correspondent confirms the reports of severe bombardments, severe losses by the garrison, and the cutting off of the main aqueduct supplying the fortress with water.

A dispatch to the Chronicle, vaguely dated "Liaoyang, peninsula," Sept. 21, reports that the bombardment of Port Arthur goes on unceasingly. The fortress is surrounded by a ring of fire from Japanese shells. The last line of the defense is being battered to pieces preparatory to the final assault.

At one point the Japanese have tapped into within a few hundred yards of the Russian line, but it will be difficult to cross the intervening space owing to the intensity of the Russian rifle fire.

The correspondent mentions that the Russian made a sortie, but were driven back into the fortress. They lost some howitzers. Both sides are

The situation, as viewed by military experts here, is altogether a grave one for the forces of the czar, for if the Japanese succeed in turning Kouropatkin's flank the Russians practically will be trapped and either will be annihilated or forced to surrender.

Additional dispatches say that the Japanese are rapidly repelling the railroad and already are shipping large amounts of stores and ammunition to Liaoyang. As a corroboration of this report it is stated that a large force of Japanese is advancing from Liaoyang by way of Taihe to Shian-shan.

Planning Operations of Japanese Worry Kouropatkin.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—Beyond the fact that Kouropatkin's cavalry is trying rapidly to discover the nature of the Japanese movements, nothing new is known. The Japanese are making wide detours through the mountains and building roads to make the passage possible. Kouropatkin, unless he can stop the turning movements, will shortly have to retire.

The Port Arthur squadron may make a sortie soon, but the Vladivostok cruisers are ready to repeat the movement for co-operation tried on Aug. 10.

Sounds Indicate Naval Battle in Progress.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—A telegram from Harbin says a dispatch has been received there from the island of Sag-

Map showing possible routes which may be taken by the Battle fleet to the far east and diagrams showing comparative available naval strength of Japan and Russia in these waters. The dotted lines from Cronstadt indicate the routes by which the fleet may travel.

displaying unparalleled fortitude and determination. The bands of Port Arthur play anthems bravely, while the defenders in the advanced works sing the Japanese respond with cries of "Banzai" and by singing patriotic songs.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Canton says a junk which left Port Arthur at midnight Monday has arrived there, having on board a Russian woman, her child, and several Chinese. The woman says there has been continuous and severe fighting since Sept. 20. Large numbers of the garrison have been killed or wounded. The terrific bombardment causes considerable destruction in the town, a rain of huge shells falling upon it. She is of the opinion that the capture of the fortress is near.

Fleet Expected to Reach Port Arthur in January.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—In spite of the constant assertions to the contrary, there are no doubt indications that a second Pacific squadron will leave the Baltic no that under economical coal consumption and moderate speed it will reach Port Arthur in January.

Then, with greatly augmented forces, Kouropatkin will reach himself for a simultaneous effort to reach the fortress of the stronghold while Admiral Wiro will leave the harbor and attack the Japanese fleet.

Attack by Two Japanese Divisions Is Unsuccessful.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—An official dispatch from Harbin states that on Wednesday two Japanese divisions, with a strong force of artillery attacked the Russian left flank on the banks of the Hon river. Gen. Biderling repulsed the attack after three hours' fighting. The enemy's loss was over 100. The Russians lost 56 killed and 200 wounded. The Russian forces maintained their advanced position on the chain of hills before the Hon river ten miles southeast of Mukden.

Immense Flanking Movement.

London, Sept. 21.—Advices received here from the seat of war in the east indicate that the Japanese are planning a gigantic assault on the Russian rear. The recent sortie made with Gen. Kouropatkin's telegram to the war office at St. Petersburg, to the effect that the Japanese are preparing an extensive campaign with a view to turning Kouropatkin's flank.

hellen, stating that firing was heard at sea Sunday night last in the direction of Cape Aniva, the southeast point of Sakhalin. It is believed a naval fight is in progress.

Czar Creates Second Army.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—The creation of the day is the publication of the imperial decree, in which the czar announces that as the Japanese have shown such unexpected fighting powers it is necessary for Russia to create a second army, the command of which is given to Gen. Grippenberg. This depotes Kouropatkin from his position of commander in chief, for in the future he is to be an equal footing with Maj. Gen. Grippenberg.

The second Manchurian army will comprise 100,000 men and be made up of the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Eighth and Sixteenth army corps. It is reported that five additional army corps will be mobilized at once and that altogether a force of 700,000 men will be massed in Manchuria.

Army Under Marshal Oyama.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—The knowledge that Kuroki's army has been reinforced by two full corps of three fresh divisions, outnumbering considerably the reinforcements Kouropatkin has been able to receive since the battle of Liaoyang, causes the belief here that Kouropatkin will avoid anything approaching a decisive battle. Seeing the advantageous results of the recent retreat from Liaoyang as reflected in the consequent Japanese failure in the policy of Japanese blood, the policy of retreat, which at one moment threatened to become unpopular, is now fully approved in the highest quarters.

All Classes of Russians Anxious to End Struggle.

Berlin, Sept. 21.—Col. Gerdie, the military editor of the Tagblatt, who is with the Russian army in Manchuria, says he meets with many who wish the war ended at any price. Even in the highest circles this view prevails. He adds it is not impossible that this feeling will result in a sudden and surprising cessation of hostilities.

PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM ACCIDENT

Time on Wheel of Engine Curbs Up and Penetrates the Boiler as Train Pulls into Depot.

Washington dispatch: The engine of the special train on which the president and his family were returning to Washington from the coast yesterday with an accident at Baltimore which probably would have resulted in a terrible disaster but for the fact that it occurred during the few moments of the entire trip when the train was not running rapidly.

Just as the train was entering the tunnel, and gathering speed after slowing down at the depot station, the fire wheel of the rear driving wheel of the engine on the fireman's side. The heavy steel ring, four inches wide and two inches thick, curved up and struck the boiler and entered it, was driven into the boiler. The jar and rush of escaping steam told the engineer, Joe Westberry, that something was wrong, and he instantly applied the brakes.

The train was not running more than three miles an hour, and it came to a stop within a car length. The steam escaped from the torn boiler and the engine was "dead" in a few minutes, and it was pulled away and a fresh engine substituted, causing a delay of forty-five minutes.

SEX BARRIER IN ODD FELLOW

Sovereign Lodge Defends Amendment to Give Rebekahs Representation.

San Francisco dispatch: Amended proposals that the barrier of sex be removed so that the Rebekahs might become representative in the grand lodge and that the color line be extended so as to permit the admission of men who were partly of Indian descent were defeated at the annual session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows. The grand lodge has reconsidered its action designating Washington as the meeting place next year. By a unanimous vote Philadelphia has been selected.

WILLS BRAIN TO UNIVERSITY

Dead Doctor Believed Disease Could Be Traced to This Origin.

New York dispatch: Dr. George S. Conant, aged 51 years, who died here of diabetes, is said to have willed his brain to the medical faculty of Cornell university that further investigation may be made of a theory that his disease could be traced in the brain. He suffered for years and consulted many specialists without obtaining any promise or hope of a cure. Dr. Conant then took up the study of diabetes, using himself as a subject for his experiments. After an exhaustive study he came to the conclusion that diabetes had its root in the brain, which he believed to be affected.

FROST RUINS CRANBERRY CROP

Loss in Massachusetts Amounts to Thousands of Dollars.

Barnstable, Mass., dispatch: The heavy frost has ruined a large part of the cranberry crop which remained unharvested in this section of the state. About one-third of the crop had been housed and of that remaining in the fields it was badly damaged. The loss amounts to thousands of dollars. The frost was the heaviest ever known in this section in September.

Kills Himself for Girl.

Akron, Ohio, dispatch: The dead body of Joseph Blake, aged 30, was found on the north at the house of C. N. Belden. Blake having committed suicide by shooting because Miss Hattie Rowe refused to see him.

Frier Land Payments.

Washington dispatch: Arrangements have been made whereby the American Indians in the Philippines can secure the money in payment for their lands in London, as they desire, instead of in Manila.

SIXTY-TWO DIE IN RAIL CRASH

Trains Come Together on Curve, Killing and Injuring Many Passengers.

CREW FAILS TO OBEY ORDERS

Engineer Does Not Take Siding, as Instructed, and Wreck Occurs Without Giving Men a Chance to Apply Air Brakes.

Knoxville, Tenn., dispatch: Death in terrible form came to scores of persons in an instant Saturday forenoon when two passenger trains on the Southern railway crashed together head-on on a curve west of Hodges Station, eighteen and one-half miles east of this city. Sixty-two persons are dead and one hundred and eighteen injured are in the hospitals here or at the homes of friends, and many of them may die.

Many died of their injuries after being extricated from the debris. An array of rescue parties has been on foot to save those pinned beneath the masses of twisted iron and splintered wood, driven to frenzy in their efforts to help the shrieks of those unable to help themselves and by the groans of the injured.

Death in Day Coaches.

The story of the killed and injured in this, the worst crash in the history of railroading in this section, is the old familiar story of slaughter in the day coaches.

"The sleepers did not leave the tracks" was one of the early bulletins that came from the scene of the wreck. A single sleeper was attached to one of the trains and four sleepers to the other.

But the lighter coaches—the regulation kind—were nearly all the railroads of the country for the accommodation of local traffic, and in which by far the greater percentage of passengers must be accommodated—were crushed as if they had been so many berry crates. The locomotives and practically the entire complement of both trains, with the exception of the heavily constructed sleepers, were demolished.

Failure in Orders.

Failure of the crew of the west-bound train to carry out orders to meet the east-bound train at Hodges Station is believed to have been the cause of the wreck. According to the reports of the railroad people the west-bound train should have taken the siding at Hodges. Each train was running at a speed of about thirty miles an hour.

There was not the slightest warning of the approaching disaster, according to passengers who escaped, the trains suddenly coming around the curve with such velocity that neither of the engineers had time even to apply the air brakes before the crash occurred.

MORGAN AND PRIMATE IN CRASH

Special Carrying Financial and Archbishop Mitz Engine.

East Brookfield, Mass., special: A New York Central two-car special train, carrying a party that included the archbishop of Canterbury and J. Pierpont Morgan, struck a light engine here Friday. The special was running at thirty miles an hour, but no one, even the crew of the light engine, was hurt. Mr. Morgan was at breakfast and was considerably shaken up, as were the others in the party. Miracles and other articles were broken by the impact. The special remained on the track and carried the light engine 100 yards. The party was taken to the hospital at Watlington. There was a delay of an hour. Mr. Morgan sent several messages, emphasizing the fact that no one was hurt.

AMERICAN STEAMER IS SEIZED

Dominion Government Alleges Vessel Poached on Fisher.

Vancouver, B. C., dispatch: The steamer Alert left Bellingham and two large scows, one of them loaded with salmon, and $1,000 worth of nets were seized at Orford creek, Vancouver island, by the British Columbia government fisheries protection steamer. The value of the property seized is about $15,000. The authorities allege that the American steamer had been poaching on fisheries 125 miles from the American boundary. The seized steamer has been brought to this port.

AT BUDDHA'S SHRINE.

Tommy Atkins Camps In Shadow of Lama's Palace.

LAMA'S MYSTERIES REVEALED.

Door of Eagle City, Closed For Many Centuries, Opened by Anglo-Tibetan Treaty mark the elimination of the last vestige of Russian influence and the firm establishment of British control in Tibet. They mark also the end of the remarkable seclusion which has been preserved for so many centuries by the mysterious inhabitants of "the roof of the world."

The veil has been lifted from the magic city of Lassa, the "seat of the gods," and today Tommy Atkins, the strong, camp beside the palace of the dala lama, while George Macdonald tramps through the streets of the lama's capital.

Above the heads of the British soldiers near the massive gold covered roofs of Potala, the famous "Red Palace," as it is called, and of the Jero Khang, or temple of the "Lord Jero," of the Khandro, or goddess, the regent or "king" of Tibet and the massive buildings of the upper and lower schools of metaphysics.

Better miles in circumference is Lassa, in the form of a great oval, but the densely populated part of the town is comparatively small, and its golden roofs and minarets cluster thickly together.

The reports from the British forces all agree that the first view of the town in approaching it from the west is remarkable. On the left is a conical hill, on which is situated the dala lama's residence, with its lofty buildings and its roof of gold, between which and the town winds a broad avenue of ancient trees.

To the right is Chamsang hill, surrounded by the medical college, an immense structure over a quarter of a mile long and several stories high. Between these two great hills, crowned by their wonderful structures, the view to Lassa extends over the Faldra City. It appears a closely packed mass of well built, white houses, surrounded by roofs of blue, silver tiles, with here and there the glittering minarets and spire thrusting upward toward the cold, clear sky overhead and over all the dominating presence of temples and palaces.

The most striking feature of the city is undoubtedly Potala, the palace of the dala lama. Potala's view is a revelation on earth. The palace is an aggregation of several hundred buildings, of which dominate the most, being the Red Palace, containing the greatest audience hall, where the dala lama, clad in red robes and seated on a throne supported by carved lions, was wont to receive pilgrims.

The Red Palace is crowned by a dome covered entirely with plates of gold, and from this red roof the golden dala lama contemplated his worshippers as they advanced along the plain and prostrated themselves at the feet of the sacred monarch.

Three-quarters of a mile to the southwest is Norbu Ling, the summer palace of the dala lama, situated in the midst of a large garden, in which the British force is now encamped.

The Jero Khang, or Temple of the Lord Buddha, is an immense building with three Chinese roofs covered with gold, the upper stories of the edifice being supported by great wooden pillars ten feet in diameter. Here is an exquisitely modeled image of Buddha, said by the priests to have been made during the life of the great teacher. Around this are placed many golden lamps, which are kept burning constantly, supplied with melted butter.

North of this temple stands the house of the astrologer royal and his hundred retainers, with an enormous golden cupola which is visible for many miles.

There is enough gold in Lassa to pay the national debt of Great Britain and the United States if the gold is constantly repeated by true, and something of the truth of this statement is inferred from the massive plates of gold which cover the roofs of the buildings.

On the southern side of the city flows the Kyin river, while a canal diverted from the river flows to the north, including the city entirely by water. Across the canal is the huge stone bridge over which crossed the British forces.

As yet no accurate idea of the population of Lassa has been obtained. It is the home of the very heart of Buddhism, and every tenth person is a priest of Buddha.

Those who are not priests are more or less intimately connected with the administration of the religious government of Tibet either as the servants of the priests or laborers in the temples or as subordinate officials of the priesthood government.

Human life is held so cheaply that the slightest offense, the most trivial infraction of the rules of the order of Buddha, is punished by death and usually death by torture. The people of Lassa are temperate, drink little wine, but the priests, it is said, are immoral, given to drunkenness on barley wine and leading lives within their monasteries which are hardly fit for publication.

Lassa is constantly in the throes of some form of religious convulsion. The priests of Tibet have the same origin from the union of a monkey and a goddess, and in the streets of Lassa are

MRS. CECILIA STOWE.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1908.

For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian trouble. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation.

My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disagreeable place at best. I finally decided to try a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and to my surprise my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Cecilia Stowe

Mr. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by ovarian trouble and how completely Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People can bring health and happiness again. It is not so in ordinary cases, but in four out of five cases a $1.00 bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

celebrated "devil dances," in which the priests danced as monkeys and apes, and in which the women of the city were the worshippers of the Buddhist faith to the sight of the creatures which they shall have passed into the presence of the gods of the next life.

While, willing music rises through the streets of the mystic city as the priests in their hideous masks chant their incantations and perform the frightful parades that are marked by a trail of blood, for human sacrifices are required for the performance of these ceremonies.

In the town are many strange classes of hangers on of the Buddhist monasteries—the rascals, the men who feed up the bodies of the dead and feed them to the parish dogs, the low caste creatures who wash the bones of the dead and clean them for the relatives may make prayer dials of them for rosaries, and the thousands of temple attendants.

It is a curious fact in connection with the establishment of British control in Tibet, with all that it portends, that four years ago it was prophesied that the reincarnation of Buddha in the person of the grand lama would cease after his thirteenth transmigration. The last lama who has died in Mongolia, is the thirteenth lama, and the incantation myth was first started for his own purpose and upheld by force of arms by the Chinese Emperor.

SOME STORIES OF HOAR

How the Massachusetts Senator Got Out With Harris.

FORA FRANK AND TILMAN OORROTT

Take-up on General Butler, Hoar's Pet American-Imperialism as the "Corrupt" Site of Abolitionism, and the Wonderful Cotton and Alabama.

An incident in Senator Hoar's public career which occurred some years before the death of Senator John G. Harris of Tennessee is thus described by a man who spent much of his time in Washington, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat:

"The senator from the Bay State and the senator from Tennessee had been friends for twenty years and, while belonging to different political parties and often clashing in the senate, talking against each other and voting against each other, nothing had ever happened to disturb the intimacy of the relationship.

"One day some question was up in the senate which developed a great deal of party wrath, and Senator Harris had been well to the front in the debate and had given very probably too much to his Confederate sympathy and a certain confederate prejudice which he carried to the capital with him. He was attacked, of course, and in defending the position he had assumed one of the younger members took occasion to refer to Senator Hoar as a major. Senator Hoar daily drifted into the debate, and in the course of his remarks he criticized Senator Harris rather sharply.

The senator from Tennessee did not mind this so much. But the statements from Massachusetts did not stay here. He began to have a few remarks in the senate. Senator Harris had ever been a major and clannish his scoldingly sarcastic remarks by saying he could not conceive a senator from Tennessee being a major, unless, he added, he was a major in the drum corps—a drum major.

The Thirteenth Amendment was strong in the quick. He made a reply. He would barely speak to Senator Hoar. One day Senator Hoar was talking to one of his senatorial associates when Senator Harris passed. By way of Senator Hoar, said the friend, you have wounded Senator Harris deeply by your reference in the senate a few days ago in which you compared him to a drum major. Senator Hoar was surprised, for he had intended no offense. The next day when the senate met Senator Hoar rose to a question of privilege. He recounted the incident in the senate a few days before. He said on this score, he said, "I have more respect for the feelings and the ability of the senator from Tennessee than I have. I regard him as not only the great practical parliamentarian in this body, but as the greatest in the world, and I offer him my hand continued and intimate friendship as sufficient evidence that I did not mean to offend him and I trust he will accept it." And so he did. Senator Harris shook hands with his friend from Massachusetts, and that day they left the capital together."

General Hoar once said in explaining and defending his drum major remark that the "drum" was meant "let there be light." "Let there be light," he said, "and there was light. He argued that that money was excellent for that it cost nothing and had no intrinsic value. So if a bill were lost or destroyed a new one could be supplied without cost. He said that it would stay in the treasury and would not be much in the measure of Asia, especially in China and India, where silver and gold were absorbed and never found of it in the same amount. To answer Senator Hoar quoted these sentences with the following comment: "That fellow citizen, is precisely the difference between abolitionism and hanging, between the Almighty and General Butler. God said, 'Let there be light,' and there was light. General Hoar says, 'Let there be money,' and there is—money. This is the first time in our history that the American workingman has been gravely asked to take for his money what he costs nothing to make, that is in no way to law, that it is an insult to get and that even a 'chicken won't touch'."

The relations between Senator Hoar and all the presidents were, of course, the most cordial, and the visits of the Massachusetts senator to the White House were frequently quite prolonged. On one occasion Mr. Hoar was ushered into the president's room, and Mr. Roosevelt asked him to be seated in one of the big chairs. Then the president and the senator plunged into a discussion which stretched out for over an hour. In the meantime other senators who wanted to see the president were held up in the secretary's room. As time went on half a dozen or more were waiting, and they became impatient at the delay. Presently Senator Culham, who is seventy-three years old, asked Senator Allison, who is also seventy-three, what was the cause of the delay. "Why, old Hoar is in there," said the youthful Iowa disrespectful-

ly. "That's just like an old man," said Culham. "They never know enough to let their brains and bodies go. If he was not so old I would ask him if he had slept at the White House all night." Senator Hoar was then seventy-six years of age.

Senator Hoar was quite a match for the Irish blarney that came his way a year ago in Worcester when the oldest Irish orator in the town did him honor on his seventy-seventh birthday. Afternoon McElroy, president of the United Irish League, declared that the senator had done more for the Irish cause in New England than any other man.

"Thank you, sir," responded Mr. Hoar, "but the abundant compliment ever paid the Irish was paid by Wendell Phillips."

"What was that, senator?" chorused the voices.

"Phillips' little lecture on 'The Lost Arts' or to some other," blarney replied the Massachusetts statesman, breaking into a potent snarl. "I told you, you fellows, new under the sun and that all the Irish blarney was Greek. You, by the same token, I submit every liberal may claim himself with Demosthenes and Thucydides."

Senator Hoar's abominable exploit last year of securing the passage by the senate of a measure which had already become a law recalls the story of the senator which is sometimes told about Worcester. He was at a private dinner attended by a number of public men and citizens. One of the guests had just finished an anecdote, and the laugh had scarcely subsided when Mr. Hoar started in, saying that reminded him of something, and told over again the same story that the company had just listened to. Mr. Hoar's telling was naturally a great success, for every one realized at once that he had been thinking of other matters when the story was being told the first time, but had caught barely enough of the thing to be reminded of the anecdote as it lay in the recesses of his own mind. It should be added that little fables like this have only endeared Mr. Hoar to the people of Massachusetts.

Join a Live Party.

Alliance with a political corpse offers no inspiration, no attraction to the first voter. No young man would be tempted by the high inspirations of love of action and achievement, of the "fervor of reason" and compelling courage, should willingly consent to an alliance with a dead man.

The first voter should ally himself with a live party.

What has become of that grand army of 15-thousand Democrats Judge Foster summoned from the rubrics of Cleveland's terms for purposes of comparison with Hay and Taft, and Shaw, and Root? Are they and Carlisle and Fairchild and Harmon and Vicksburg waiting their powers in behalf of the man who stung him all at the feet of Senator Gorman, the sleek, crying, "Save me, Arthur, or I sink."

A CONSTITUTIONAL LAWYER OF THE AMENDMENT

Former Judge Thomas A. Moran, known far beyond the boundaries of the state for his legal attainments, says he has advocated such a scheme of government as is contemplated in the proposed new charter for which the pending constitutional amendment is required for nearly a generation.

Twenty-five years ago he introduced a resolution in a local convention, providing for the reorganization of the existing laws and a different system of minor courts. The need for such changes has been constantly growing since the whole community has at last become aroused. Mr. Moran spoke on the subject Wednesday night before the Credit Men's Association, and in referring to the difficulty of getting a majority of the vote cast at the November election for the existing constitutional amendment he said: "It is not a mountain of antagonism that we have overcome, it is the necessity of starting a current in the dead sea of indifference."

CANDIDATES FAVOR AMENDMENT

State Senator Lawrence R. Stricker, Democratic candidate for governor, is the son of a Baptist minister. Charles R. Bennett, state attorney in Chicago, and Republican candidate for governor, is the son of a professor in a small Illinois college. Both are natives of the state and know conditions political and industrial in all parts of the commonwealth. Although Mr. Stricker was in Illinois he talks about municipal affairs in Chicago with pretty much the same fluency as Mr. Bennett, a resident of that city, does. This is accounted for by the fact that he lived in Chicago five years, and studied law there. Both are advocating the adoption of the constitutional amendment to be voted on in November, which it will give the city and those from other parts of the state in the legislature in the future will be avoided if Chicago is given broader powers to manage her own local government. This is the object of the amendment.

A TALE OF ONE CITY

The Illinois Metropolitan-Her Troubles, Hopes and Future Prospects.

Chicago has nearly twice as many miles of streets as any other city in the Union. That is because it is built on a level prairie with no hindrance to its extending out almost infinitely in three directions. But this has not been a blessing in all respects as will be seen by the following figures. Greater New York has 2,527 miles of streets, Philadelphia 1,540 miles, St. Louis 1,100 miles, Chicago 413 miles. Comparing the figures, it is seen that Chicago has 2,516 miles of unpaved streets. Most of these unpaved streets are without proper lighting and with no policing. The trouble is that Chicago has spread out over so much territory that it is a much more expensive city to maintain properly than others that are more compactly built. Another trouble in Chicago being deprived of the power, by the restrictions of the state constitution, of using her credit to make permanent improvements. Such permanent improvements of absolute necessity have been made out of the current tax levy and other funds that should have been devoted to operation and maintenance. The bonded debt of the city has not been increased for twenty years. But street cleaning and lack of police protection have been the inevitable consequence.

Now, what Chicago is trying to do is to get rid of the constitutional restrictions so that she can extend her debt limit to a reasonable extent and place the expense of permanent betterment partly on succeeding generations. To do this it is necessary to get an amendment to the constitution. It has been a very difficult thing. Having failed in three or four attempts, the present amendment, that city induced the last legislature to submit such an amendment to the people. It will be voted on in November. Being a constitutional measure, it must have a majority of all the votes of the whole state, hence it is that voters in the southern counties have a very slight local vote in Chicago. That may be right, but it is hoped that they will vote affirmatively. Should this amendment be adopted Chicago will go to the next legislature with the demand of a new charter and ask its adoption by that body. These under the terms of the amendment such charter will have to be ratified by the people of Chicago. When all this is accomplished Chicago will be able to pave more streets, light more alleys, employ more police, have more law, less robbery and house-breaking and murder. It means cleaner streets and a better city in every way. It will not necessarily mean higher taxes for the residents of the city, and the amendment, if adopted, can not possibly affect any other part of the state. Chicago is asking every voter in Illinois to take her out of her trouble by marking his special ballot for the amendment. There is no apparent reason why the voters should not respond.

Miss Nellie Holmes, treasurer of the Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N. Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered miserably for several years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restless sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dived the long nights as much as the weary day. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief, but finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, I tried your Vegetable Compound on the recommendation of a friend from the East who was visiting me. "I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My recent ailment is suffering makes it to put away all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Miss Nellie Holmes, 140 No. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Irene Crosby, prominent in Social Life in East Savannah, Ga., adds her testimonial to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—"It always gives me pleasure to find an article of real and unquestioned merit. I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound well calculated to relieve and cure the various troubles arising from irregularities and menstrual pains. "Much suffering could be spared if we only paid more attention to proper living and diet, but as long as women do not do this, your Vegetable Compound has come to the front as a true friend in need. I have been very pleased indeed with the relief it has brought me. I find that I have perfect health now, and that my mind is also more clear and active since I used your Vegetable Compound. It has been of great benefit to me, and I gladly recommend it. Very sincerely yours, Miss Irene Crosby, 213 East Charleston St., East Savannah, Ga."

Remember that every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her case or symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and is cheerfully given to any ailing woman who asks for it.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot improve women's ailing letters and signs of distress. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 140 No. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1902

The Review $1.50 a year.
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson on Sept. 12, 1902.

The village board will meet in regular session Monday evening.

Next Thursday the Odd Fellows will install officers for the ensuing term.

The October term of court in Lake County opens next Monday at Waukegan.

Miss Genevieve Dolan will enter a Chicago school of domestic science Monday.

Mrs. Henry Schneider and Mrs. Herman Glanville were Chicago visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vogel and the Misses Uelman of Dundee were here Saturday.

Mrs. Addie Lines of Woodstock is visiting her sister, Mrs. Leroy Powers, this week.

L. D. Castle who has been quite ill for some days is reported as somewhat improved today.

Mrs. Joseph Waterschild of Chicago visited at the home of W. H. Amis on Sunday.

Mrs. Gus Arps and daughter, Miss Elmore of Palatine, visited with Mrs. Carrie Kendall Saturday.

Another game of ball between "expert" players is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon on Heise's field.

Miss Lizzie Schmidt of Elgin left here Sunday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Heimerdinger.

The members of Mayflower Camp No. 1, N. A. are entertained at Elgin yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shales.

The work of putting down cement walks about the Stage and Lipinsky business blocks is nearing completion.

Gus Neimer, formerly of Arlington Heights and now of New York, visits here this week at the Ryan home.

Prof. Clayball of the Metropolitan Business college, Chicago, was here Saturday visiting former and present pupils.

Mrs. Vincent Davila of Waukegan has been the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hutchinson, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Henderson of Harvard returned home after spending several days at the Henderson home here.

Mrs. George Steele, who has been visiting with her sister Mrs. L. F. Kewler, has returned to her home at Aurora, Indiana.

The Review gives considerable space to political matters this week. Every four years the press is expected to "educate" the voters.

Mrs. George Lytle leaves tonight for Denver where she will visit her brother, Frank Robertson, and family for about two weeks.

Mrs. John Hattower who has been visiting with her sister Mrs. L. F. Kewler, has returned to her home at Aurora, Indiana.

Ed and Charles Thies now enjoy the luxury of a stamper runabout automobile. The financial business press and financial artists believe in enjoying life.

The work of laying cement walks about the Stage and Lipinsky business blocks is nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Stenger went to Mokena, Ill. Sunday to attend a Mission Festival of the St. Paul Evangelical church. They returned early in the week.

The many friends here of Rev. Moore will regret to learn that he has been very ill and confined to his apartment in Chicago since September 3. He is doing better today.

H. H. Kampert and family are moving in their new residence on their farm north of this village this week. Mr. Kampert now has as fine a farm residence as is seen about this part of the country.

A LaSalle woman is 68 years old and the mother of 21 children. That is a regular Rooseveltian family. The parents have certainly been strenuous enough to suit the president who advocates large families.

Joseph Magosa a former resident here, an employee of the American Malleable company now residing in Cincinnati has been confined to the city hospital there since the first of August owing to severe illness.

Peter Fackelman, is at St. Luke's hospital Chicago owing to injuries received Monday while at work for C. & N. W. Rr. The beam of a derrick struck him on the head causing a bad wound but not a severe fracture of the skull.

Last Friday evening the members of St. Ann's church held tendered surprise party to Miss Rose Volker at her home on Liberty street. The occasion was Miss Volker's birthday. The surprise was complete and enjoyment great.

Ed Hlocks squared himself to the home plate, swung the hickory stick and the home-plate covered sphere went over among the galleries that decorate the E. J. & E. right of way. "Twat-a-two-hite hit. Ask Ed about it and watch him smile."

The record of transfers in Lake County the past week show sale of Lots 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 13 in Block 7 and lots 2, 3, 4, in Block 12 in Subdivision of lots 9 and 10, Chicago Highlands, to H. J. Fink. The consideration is $2,725 or $272.50 per lot.

Manager Traffic Manager Knicker of the Chicago & Northwestern R.R., states, says the Waukegan Sun, that about the road's 1,200 railway stations with a tributary population of 7,000,000, are to be beautified by landscape gardening. That means Harrington.

An exciting game of ball was played at Heise's park last Saturday. Civil Service men of Honor, resulting in a victory for the former team by a score of 8 to 1. The Civil Service team was made up of the four rural mail carriers, Postmaster Brockway and other government employees.

There will be a series of meetings in Lake County under the auspices of the Republican County Committee, at which there will be present Hon. Geo. E. Borman and the County business, as follows: Zion City, Oct. 5th; Antioch, Oct. 7th; Graylake, Oct. 9th; Highland Park, Oct. 10th; Waukegan, Oct. 11th; Libertyville, Oct. 12th.

People who are figuring on the presidential election should not lose sight of the fact that the electoral college now consists of 49 votes against 46 in 1900. This means an increase of 29 votes. New York, Illinois and Texas each gain three votes; Minnesota, New Jersey and Pennsylvania each two; 14 other states gain one each. The total vote of the electoral college will be 476, necessary to elect 275.

Do you know that many good items are lost to newspapers every day by the majority of people who fail to tell the editor matters concerning themselves. The right way to do is to stop a newspaper man on the street, or any other place you may happen to meet him tell him that you were away on a visit, that you had been visiting you, that you were had been gone. If you have been doing anything mean, keep it to yourself, for there are others that will tell that.

The following announcement appears in the Woodstock Sentinel of last week: "Mr. E. M. Wells, who has been the editor of The Sentinel for the past year is no longer connected with the paper, in consequence of the work formerly performed by him will be looked after by others. Mr. Wells left on Sunday, for Chicago where, we understand, he has secured a position." Comment is unnecessary on E. M. Wells' withdrawal from journalism in McHenry county.

Baseball Tomorrow.

Tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon a game of ball will be played on Heise's field between members of Barrington fraternal organizations and nine unknown. The Ladies' band will furnish music.

There will be exciting features during the game. The fraternalists will present Hucks, the wonderful hitter, Chas. Hutchinson and Dr. Shearer, expert in battery work; Roy Meyers and Ed Myers, base runners; Sam Landwehr, Steve Palmer and others who wear medals for work on the diamond.

There will be a luncheon given to the members of the County and township committees, the several county assemblies, and members of the Republican Press of Lake County, on October 8th, at 12:00 o'clock noon, at Graylake. After the luncheon there will be a general conference, at which campaign work will be discussed and outlined.

What is this?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is a story law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly to adjust this. Its gentle, yet thorough, action, at Geo. C. Roberts & Co., drug store.

The County Editor.

The local editor has more local power and less profit than those who follow other pursuits, and he abhors that power less than any other vested with even half so much. The country newspaper is the most complete exponent of a community of any other civilizing influence connected with it. In those communities where a good patronage is extended, both in advertising and in paid subscriptions, it means that the communities are progressive and prosperous, and where there are no newspapers enterprise languishes and the people become listless and dormant.—Knowledge (Ill., Sentinel).

Readers Field Harvest.

Of special interest at this time is the history of Mrs. Florence Nightingale, says the London Herald. At the time of the Crimean war she was head of the Russian order of Sisters of Mercy and attended operations at the field hospitals regardless of danger. She and her sisters also had the courage to discard their uniforms and don sheepskin coats and long boots and go out in the snow and render first aid and help bring in the wounded. This order of nurses, which was founded by the Grand Duchess Helena Pavlovna in 1854, has many members now at the front.

Faithful Obedience to Him.

Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, O. For years he was troubled with kidney disease and neither doctors' medicines gave him relief. At length he tried Electric Bitters. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies: "I'm on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for Liver and Kidney troubles and all forms of Stomach and Bowel Complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by Geo. C. Roberts & Co., Druggist.

It may be asserted without fear of successful contradiction that nowhere else in recent years has there been so fine an example of constructive statesmanship and wise and upright administration as has been given by the civil authorities, aided by the army, in the Philippine Islands.—Roosevelt's Letter of Acceptance.

A Texas Wonder.

One small bottle of the Texas Wonder, Hall's Great Discovery, cures all kidney and bladder troubles, removes gravel, cures diabetes, restores emaciated, weak and lame backs, rheumatism and all irregularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women; regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist, it will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two months' treatment and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Dr. E. W. Hall, sole manufacturer, P. O. Box 223, Little Rock, Ark. Send for testimonials. Sold by all druggists.

"UNCLE JOE" ON THE PENDING CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Speaker Cannon is among those who are giving the voters throughout the state to vote for the pending constitutional amendment. He has been in Chicago and knows what a vast deal of room for improvement there is to that city. He says that if the amendment were to be adopted to improve conditions there (and he thinks it can) (the voters of the state would simply be increasing the wealth of God to cast their votes for the measure. A great many of "Uncle Joe's" hearers are likely to take his word for it and not ask for any further instruction or information.

CANDIDATE SHERMAN FAVORS CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Judge Lawrence T. Sherman, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, is said to understand municipal conditions in Chicago remarkably well for a man living in the central part of the state. In the legislature Judge Sherman has usually favored legislation, asked by Chicago, which he regarded reasonable. In some instances, however, he has shown that city service terms. He advocates the adoption of the pending constitutional amendment, designed to give Chicago a new charter on the ground that it will give the legislature in the future of a great deal of trouble, which, if the amendment is defeated, Chicago will be sure to give that body no doubt some of its own position in the legislature. He knows also that Chicago needs a broader charter, and that it is the right thing for the state to assist her in getting it.

CONCERNING THE SPECIAL BALLOT

There will be three propositions on the special ballot at the November election for the voters to consider. In all probability the first will be the constitutional amendment to enable the legislature to grant Chicago a new charter. The other two will be the questions of direct primaries and home rule in taxation. The vote on them will be cast on Nov. 4, but for the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment of the people in respect to these questions. The constitutional amendment is considered of vital importance to Chicago. Efforts were made for several years before the legislature was induced to submit such an amendment to the people, and should it be lost through the vote of the legislature, it would be a great deal of trouble to get it back to the election judges. The amendment to enable the majority of the vote cast in the state in order to be adopted. No majority or specific number of votes are required on the other two propositions, but it is well for the voter to mark his ballot for each question one way or the other. It is estimated that 1,200,000 votes will be cast in the state at the coming election, and if so this will be about 80,000 in excess over the last presidential election.

BROADEN POWERS FOR CHICAGO

Vote for Constitutional Amendment and Avoid All Need of Another Convention.

The agitation for the adoption of the constitutional amendment this fall revives recollections of the constitutional convention of 1870. Of the seventy-nine members composing that convention more than forty have passed beyond. The youngest man to the convention was George R. Wendling, who subsequently achieved fame as a lawyer and who now resides in Washington. One of the youngest members was George W. Wall, who was also a member of the convention of 1902, the constitution proposed by which failed of adoption by the people. Judge Wall is still comparatively a young man, and is now practicing law in Chicago. In a recent interview he stated the hope of the persistence of the constitution which caused the warmest debates in the convention have also been the subjects of amendments. Of these questions perhaps the most important was that of special legislation. The prohibition placed by the convention against specially special legislation is really the cause of Chicago's seeking an amendment now to enable the legislature to grant that city a special charter. Should the amendment carry it will apply only to the city of Chicago.

Chicago on doubt needs broader charter powers. She has had to go to the legislature too frequently for things that concern the people of that city alone, and it would be a relief to have the state give them more authority over her own affairs. Some years ago Chicago agitated the question of a constitutional convention in order to give them these additional charter powers. It is much better that the city should get what it needs through an amendment. There is no demand by the state at large for a new constitution. The people feel that there would be too much risk and uncertainty, as well as expense, attending a constitutionally convened legislature. Undoubtedly they will prefer to vote for the pending amendment, and if it is adopted, as it should be, there is no likelihood of any agitation for another constitutional convention for many years to come.
