The last dance of the summer season will be given at Forbes' pavilion tomorrow night.

Forty five different kinds of magazines and periodicals on sale at Barrington Pharmacy.

The Honey Lake school opened the fall and winter term September 27, with Miss Parr as teacher.

The Chicago Highlands plant is advertised for rent for a term of five years in the Daily News last Monday.

Edwin Gieske, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gieske, living west of this village is very ill of malignant diptheria.

Melbourne Topping has secured a position in the freight department of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway at Chicago.

The corset is said to be one of the principal issues in Utah and Wyoming, and reports indicate that the campaign is tightening up.

Arnold Schaub has put down a 5 foot cement walk about his factory property on Williams street. It is an improvement highly appreciated by the public.

The post office was closed today from 10 o'clock until 1, o'clock on account of the funeral of Postmaster General Henry C. Payne, which occurred at Milwaukee.

Rev. W. H. Tuttle will return Sunday evening from Rock River M. E. conference and participate in a meeting at Salem church. The conference will adjourn next Thursday.

If you want a good time to go to the social to be given Wednesday evening Oct. 22, 1901 at the Baptist church given for the benefit of the Sunday school. Program and supper for 15 cents. All are cordially invited.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Wm. Howarth gave a large reception to members of the Thursday club and invited guests, from two to six o'clock. Several ladies aided in the entertainment of the guests, refreshments were served.

Job Thompson has brought to this office some strawberries picked off vines growing on his farm at Gieske's Corners. The fruit is nicely developed and well ripened. Great climate where we raise two crops of strawberries a year.

George Schaefer has disposed of his market to W. W. Welch of Wauconda, who took possession Monday. Mr. Welch is known to our people having for a time been employed in the Schaefer market under Ben Naedien's management.

Last week Francis Wolaver, the young son of Edward Wolaver who lives near Barrington Center, broke his left arm and will be disabled for a long time. Miss Edna Wolaver, whose right leg was broken in a runaway this summer is now able to walk without crutches.

R. S. Phelps, who was employed as watchman at the American Malleable Iron Works, Chicago Highlands, after the plant shut down, departed with his family Wednesday for Beloit, Wis. Mr. Phelps has secured a position with Fairbanks, Morse & Co. in that city.

When a man reaches that stage when he must take an "eye-opener" when he gets up, a "bracer" at 10 o'clock, an "appetizer" before dinner, a "feeler" before supper and a "night cap" before bed time, it is time for some member of his lodge to give him the danger signal.

The village has put in a cement crossing on Williams street at the intersection of North Railroad street which is the most substantial crosswalk in the village and the only one constructed of cement. This improvement meets the approval of the public with the exception of one taxpayer who believes the old flagstone crosswalks are the only thing. The new walk will remain regardless of the remonstrance of the objector.

Bowman's Contract Day.
The Bowman Dairy company will open milk for the ensuing six months, at its plant in Nunda, on Wednesday, Oct. 12. The company will make contracts at its plants in Elburn and Barrington on the same day.

STORIES OF THE VILLAGE.

Told by Mackay.

Consistency, thou art a Jew! One night last week aithen whose importance, (in his own estimation) is a good deal, was telling a number of listeners about the habit of drinking intoxicants and the evil of taking such beverages into the home. Monday night I noticed that some individual conducting a push wagon loaded with 24 pints of the liquid that made Milwaukee famous in the direction of his home.

While workmen were putting down cement walks on Williams street the other day and had erected a barrier to keep pedestrians off the unfinished work. The barrier consisted of a plank laid across the walk the ends resting upon supports about 16 inches above the walk. A young lady garbed in a tailor-made suit came along on the finished portion of the walk and when she reached the barrier started to step over it. A workman spied her and shouted: "Where are you going? Don't you know nuthin'? Get off'n that cement!" The young lady attempted to step back when her taffeta ruffe got foul of the plank and there was an exhibition of pretty hoosery. A workman went to rescue the plank and told the young lady that she ought to know better. She replied: "You're no gentleman." "From the awkward way you tried to get over there and the kind of socks you wear I don't believe you're a gentleman either."

I noticed a gentleman who is deeply ensnared by Cupid assisting his advanced wife in getting out the family washing Monday morning. If his disposition to assist the wife is as pronounced as his disposition to lighten the h. h. duties of the bride to be, he will make a most husband.

A gentleman who a year or more ago gained an entrance into what is termed by some "the codfish aristocracy" of this village, incurred $55.00 losses in the purchase of a dress suit, encased in which he proposed to shine at the many functions to which he, of course, would be invited. He has not had an opportunity to exhibit his fine broadcloth since the Chicago tailor sent it here C. O. D. A man should never have a dress suit made to order until his position in society is assured.

"So modest and quiet, no hint of a riot or rough-house to cause people pain—but wait for the humming, the spellbinders are coming to close with a whirlwind campaign!" is what Lewis H. Bennett, high chief ranger of the Denene phalanx in Barrington township will soon announce.

The boys are telling a story on Melvin Clark McIntosh. "Mc," as he is familiarly known from Chicago to Mr. Prospect, was once a candidate for congressional honor in this district. The democratic central committee, "Mc" is a democrat, advised him that he was a sure winner so in expectation of going to Washington "Mc" traded off a lot of old notes (he had taken to collect) for a sunburst as large as a walnut. This he had soldered to his shirt front and his wife worked three days (it is told by "Mc") to cut his vesta down so the sunburst would have a chance to show off. Well, the other fellow was nominated and Melvin C. packed the brilliant away in cotton batting to await a popular clamor for his election to congress. The clamor didn't materialize. One night "Mc" put on his abbreviated coat, (Seemore) they call them, and went over to the three linkers meeting. They were having some kind of degree work and "Mc" got in. He wore the sunburst. Isaac Business Fox was the N. G. that night. It was a dark scene and "Mc" brilliant promised to throw the degree tent off its feet. Isaac drew himself up to a commanding position and said: "Will the municipal judge of this colony please remove that 16 electric incandescent from the dickey covering his emaciated bosom?"

I overheard several substantial, religiously inclined citizens talking politics the other evening. They were very bitter in their opinion of democrats and especially those who happen to live south of Mason and Dixon line. All the crimes committed in the south since the war were charged to the democrats. One of the bunch said: "Don't talk to me of the democrats of the south havin' souls. Why they advocate and carry on lynching. Good citizens don't believe in stringing human beings without a trial." Wednesday night the same bunch was again talking politics when the report of the murder near Palestine was received. The man who was where the bullets were the thickest (under the ammunition wagon) during the late unpleasantness, and who condemned the southern people for giving swift punishment to ravishers of their wives and daughters, suggested getting up a mob and lynching "the damned peckish stunk." And still he ain't a democrat.

The little girls have "beaus" at a much tender age than some years ago, and the progress the kids just out of Knickerbockers have made in the way of shinin' up to the little maids makes the old fellows acknowledge that they were slow indeed when sparking. It was Sunday evening that two young lads from the "country" (around Cuba town) were persistent in making goo-goo eyes to a couple of little ladies of the village. Their method of getting acquainted was a novel one and their antics if pictured would make the comic page of a Chicago Sunday Tribune doubly interesting. One of the Romeos were about as gaudy a shift waist as ever was basted together. It was set and one little lady said: "You could see it from here to Palestine. It was so loud that it almost scared the railroad cars." The girls in the 7th and 8th grade would compose a poem about that shift waist.

DEEEN

WHAT IT MEANT.
During the Republican state convention held in this city this year, it was noticed that the Denene delegates wore badges with the figures "10,000" printed on them in large type. Those figures meant that State's Attorney General had been ahead of President McKinley in Cook county at the election in 1890. That shows that he is very popular in the metropolis of Illinois. His record as prosecutor for Cook county is such as to command him to all good, law-abiding citizens of whatever party. He has defeated his rivals without force or favor and has allowed no guilty man to escape, regardless of whether he might be a pauper or millionaire.

In Joliet prison there is what is known as "Banker's Row," and the eminent financiers who occupy those cells were given quarters in that big building through the efforts of Mr. Denene.

At the same prison there is what is known as "Banker's Row," and the eminent financiers who occupy those cells were given quarters in that big building through the efforts of Mr. Denene.

In the performance of his duties as prosecutor Charles E. Denene has shown that he is the kind of a man needed for governor of this great commonwealth. He has been weighed in the scales of public opinion and found wanting, and that he will be elected by an immense majority goes without saying. His record is a strong plank in the Republican platform.

In addition to all this, Mr. Denene is a self-made man, and what he is today is the result of his own efforts. From his youth up to manhood he had a rocky road to travel. His candidacy will appeal to the old boys of the state, for he is a fighter, a fighter under the old banner of the One Hundred and Seventeenth Illinois infantry and helped to bring it back in honor to the state. He is a fighter, a fighter at the state house, a silent testimonial to those whose valor made Old Glory supreme on land and sea, to the brave men of the Philippines.—Springfield Journal.

Get in Line with Progress.

A young man about to form his earliest political alliance and cast his first vote should seek to be with a progressive party. The young naturally look to the future rather than to the past. A political record that holds out no promise of future achievements is of little value. The Republican record of things done shows that it is a party of progress and the only one that appeals to patriotic young Americans.
