Cabinet Dinners Net Fogular.

Cabinet dinners have been voted a bore by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and will be abolished this winter if they have their way. There are nines of these dinner each season, one being given by each member of the cabinet. The guests invariably concluded, the guests invariably concluded, which were the cabinet of their families. Occasionally one or two outsiders are included, but very seldom, and it is hardly to be wondered at that the affairs have become borsome. For the past two years Mrs. Roosevelt the affairs have become borsome. For the past two years Mrs. Roosevelt has felt that the dinners were an unsecessary tax on the cabinet families.
