Dr. Sowles brought to our office three interesting relics of gone days. Two of them are in the form of invitations to letters sent to his grandmother, one in 1824, and the other in 1822. It is notice able about them that the gaily started early in those times "promptly at 6 o'clock, p. m." and "at four o'clock this evening." The third specimen is an itemized statement rendered by a Dr. W. P. Hale to one of his patients, and several of the items are figured so closely that it is common to see "tonic 3c" or "pills 12c" listed. The papers were brought to light by a casual glance through a family relic box.
