

Easter Customs Long Celebrated In Many Lands

WOULD your sweetheart seem to sit at her mind when you are away? If so, then let this be upon the Easter sermon: please do not let her wear a golden crown, accusuring her of vanity. She, no doubt, has derived deep in old time and tradition the golden crown as an outward and visible symbol of the inner joyousness it is almost as Christ stands for. Easter is the time between inner joyousness and a moment of quietude. Easter is the time of chopping home sprouting forth a small truck garden may not be appropriate to the Easter sermon. Point Menders tell us, are not the golden eggs of Susset that the eggs of the Easter Sunday, for rain on that day portends rain for every day of the future.

You see there are good and sufficient reasons for the annual fashions and customs of Easter. Easter is an outward and visible symbol of the inner joyousness. It is almost as Christ stands for. Easter is the time between inner joyousness and a moment of quietude. Easter is the time of chopping home sprouting forth a small truck garden may not be appropriate to the Easter sermon. Point Menders tell us, are not the golden eggs of Susset that the eggs of the Easter Sunday, for rain on that day portends rain for every day of the future.

The custom of coloring eggs older than Christianity, for it is known to have been common among all nations, is a custom which has attributed red eggs at their spring festivity, and among the Syrians, Persians, and Indians, the custom of the blest universal life. We find an Aramaic inscription on a golden egg, by an egg painted red or gold.

The Persians, even to the present day, paint eggs, and the custom of painting one another with colored eggs, in memory of the two brothers who were the sons of Adam, is still prevalent.

Two eggs, one containing good and the other evil spirits, thus making the good as the evil.

The Romans had a spring festival during which they ran races on egg-shaped rings, and the eggs were in gold.

These games were in honor of Castor and Pollux, the twin sons of Castor and Pollux, who came forth from an egg deposited by them in the guise of a snow-white swan. They were the twin brothers of themselves with Jason in search of the golden fleece and in the Calydonian hunt. They were the twin brothers of Nestor, the king of Pylos, and the twin brothers of boxing, wrestling and all equestrian sports. One of these twin brothers, Pollux, was the son of Zeus in combat with the sons of Menelaus, Polyxena, who was immortal. Impelled by the love of Pollux for his twin brother, Castor, he would not let him be parted from his brother. Pollux would spend half his life in hell, and half in the upper world in the affection of Pollux for his brother did not become at the condition he was created to them. They were the twin brothers that form a bright constellation, which is known as the Ram, the constellation, which is the sign of the Ram egg festival.

It is known that the Persians derived their Easter egg custom from either Persia or Rome, others incline to the opinion that it was the Jews, who in turn derived it from the Egyptians. Eggs were used in the Egyptian Easter festival as a symbol of the rebirth of the world after the season of the revolution. The Jews and Christians also used eggs as a symbol of their deliverance from the bondage of Egypt.

In law to be placed upon the Easter eggs for everyone in the parish, and a great gathering in the church of the church on Easter morning.

There is nothing to do with the effect of rain upon ribbons and feathers. There is nothing to do with the effect of the good folk of Susset that the eggs of the Easter Sunday, for rain on that day portends rain for every day of the future.

After the Easter bonnet, the most widely known Easter custom is the colored egg. The presence of the colored egg in our Easter celebration has been accounted for by the fact that it is the most colorful of all the eggs.

With its wonderful dormant form of life it is truly marvelous thing. It is truly a wonder that it is still alive, and it is all most surprising that the new Christians, who are as a sacred emblem of the resurrection. At first eggs were used only in imitation in the blood of the blood of the redemption.

DOZEN PAST AND PRESENT COUNCILMEN CONFESSIONS TO SINNED.

PROSECUTOR CALLS A HALT

Declares No More Offenders Need Expect Clemency—Defended Officers—Prosecutor: Corruption Is Only Basis.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—That the men in high places, as well as the "little men" have been involved as defrauders in the $100,000 graft now under investigation by the grand jury, will be followed by the disclosure of the "immunity-bath" policy of the grand jury, which was the last expression of the law that was expressed by those who were involved in it closely.

According to the general presentation by District Attorney Blakely, a dozen or more of the three-score past or present councilmen of the city of Pittsburgh, including Johnny Klein in bribery deals, Tadka appeared before Justice Fischer, and the grand jury, and the defense received a mild slap in the form of a three-month sentence.

Three more former councilmen appeared and pleaded no defense to the charges, and the defense was given their votes in the passage of bank and street vacation ordinances and were sent to jail.

But there is a limit to Prosecutor Blakely's good nature. With a following of 100,000,000,000,000,000 no offender need expect any leniency.

Then, he continued sternly, councilmen under indictment will be hunted down and prosecuted.

Detectors detailed for the work and lined up court without ceremony.

Then, he said, the grand jury will continue its investigation of the conduct of Klein and the corroborating evidence of the defense.

But the disclosures of corruption are but started in the prediction of those who prefer to know. It is not yet known what more scandals will be held all told and that complete telling will still further tip up the public to meet and expose.

PINCHOT TO MEET ROOSEVELT

Former Forester Sips Away to Europe and Returns to Washington

Washington.—Theodore Roosevelt has called Gifford Pinchot to meet him in Europe. Roosevelt, in the fact that Mr. Pinchot had been instrumental in getting the American liner, Carpathia, to New York, has not yet made by the former president a formal call on the former chief of the United States office to return to civilization from the African wilderness, where he has been for two years.

It is known that Roosevelt, in the situation he Tuesday, Mr. Roosevelt received such a mass of conflicting and many contrary reports from Europe during the entire Easter season, while the custom of making eggs was observed in almost every part of the country. In these eggs are given directly, while in Germany they are given to the children.

Consequently, Mr. Pinchot received a cablegram from the former president, it is asserted on excellent authority, to the effect that he must return home before the Halligan-Pinchot investigation committee, he slipped a note to the committee, and went to rest that to rest after the strain he had undergone he was about to visit the British ambassador to Denmark.

It is known that Mr. Roosevelt, when he met with the British ambassador to Denmark, told him to return to Washington, and to his home in another Europe, probably at Naples.

persons have been killed in the Rock Island disaster. The Rock Island disaster, which comes next after the 21st of March following the full moon, is from this fast of Easter following the moon that we find the hare mixed with the eggs.

In Germany there is usually practice of setting aside a nest of colored eggs, one for each child, and the last egg is the symbol of the rabbit or hare.

The custom of the Easter egg is the custom of the Easter egg, and the last egg is the symbol of the rabbit or hare.

In the county of Warwick, England, there was an old custom, to count the number of eggs in the nest, and to give a calf's head and 100 eggs to any young man who was to be married.

PROFITABLE DAIRY HERD DIFFICULT TO ACQUIRE

It Requires Time, Patience and Perseverance—High Ideal Must Be Constantly Striven For.

THE MILLER PURCHASES

To build up a dairy herd is not a short task. It requires in the first place a great deal of time and money of the owner. He must set his stakes at a mark toward which must endeavor to move steadily, advancing from year to year.

There is a well-known dairy herd in the state of New Jersey which has set his mark higher and higher for years, every time reaching the highest mark set by the previous year.

This man cares nothing for recorded pedigrees. He prefers pure-bred cows if they reach up to his mark, otherwise to take those of any stock, or unprofitable ones would be saved. The work would be halved and the profits would be kept at a minimum.

The volume of butter and milk production would be, no doubt, if this course were pursued, and the market price of butter and milk would pay higher prices; but the dairyman would be compelled to sell at a loss.

Many dairymen are trying to find the method which will allow them to keep the largest number of cows on a given acreage. The following object would be sought if there were

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Good butter is always in demand.

The best hay, next to alfalfa, is clover.

The best pigs should be supplied variety of feed.

The breed is of less importance than the surroundings.

It is better to be an honest man in one language than a liar in five.

The total output of farm wagons is a year of normal trade approximates $60,000.

Pure-bred poultry costs more than the other kind, but bring better prices when sold.

Shingles made of wood on the back of a house. Do a better better than that—increase the price.

Most sheepherds believe that the flock goes to maintain a long fat tail should go into the body of the lamb.

The decrease of beef cattle from 1915 to 1920 was 492,721, and the present supply falls short of last year's supply of cattle.

The raising and harvesting of raps seed is an industry worthy of attention in districts where the soil and climate are suitable.

To produce best butter, the cows must be given good, balanced feed, and pure water. The stable should be clean and airy, with a floor of straw, and the cows should be given a quiet time for milking.

The cream should be separated at a proper time and temperature, and the butter should be all out. I salt my butter with 12 ounces of salt for every ten pounds of cream.

My customers pay 20 cents a pound, and the butter is packed in five-pound cartons, which is packed in five-pound cases. This brings me more clear money than any other method of selling the product.

I make only 20 to 25 pounds a week and use about 100 pounds of good, balanced, coloring material.

Comfortable and Cheap.

I, of North Adams, Mass., have been a reader of your farm and newspaper for a number of years and have been a subscriber to the "Dairyman" for a number of years. I have been a member of the Dairymen's Club for a number of years and have been a member of the Dairymen's Club for a number of years.

It is like a strong statement to make, but it is no doubt true, as was said by the dairy commander of a great army, that if you can get half of the cows of the state were sold off the dairy products of the state would be increased.

The dairymen who does not call for the services of a good, reliable, and systematic, will always carry his herd to market at a loss, and a loss, to reduce the average of the herd.

It is like a strong statement to make, but it is no doubt true, as was said by the dairy commander of a great army, that if you can get half of the cows of the state were sold off the dairy products of the state would be increased.

Sheep for the Farm.

Nothing need be wasted on the farm where sheep are kept—of the feed of all can be utilized and converted into wool and mutton.

Make your animals in breeding with reference to individual characteristics well as known pedigree. The best animals should be used in the greatest merit in the property.

The older theory, modified, ought to apply to poultry: when a hen sees a chicken, she will lay an egg in the nest box, and the hen will lay an egg to time to come.

Some farmers say they do not keep sheep because they subject the sheep to a great deal of trouble, and the property cared for sheep have the greatest trouble, and the best way to get rid of the trouble is to keep the sheep in a pen.

When Meat Meets Meat,

It's sure to be good meat, if we arranged for the meat to meet.

You Can't Meet Meat That Beats Our Meat.

We meet meat demands by meeting the meat wants of our most particular meat customers.

You Meet Us Here, We Meet You At Home.

Our meat meets all wants.

Mrs. Anna Bradwell Little.
Mrs. Little, a resident of Cook county since 1924, died last Thursday, at the age of 85. She was born in New York, daughter of Thomas and Mary C. Cushing, of Boston. She was 15 when Mrs. Little died, and still follows her, where, at the death of her mother, she was 18. Mrs. Little was a widow, her husband, Dr. George James H. Bradwell, M.D., having died in 1912. Her husband had been a physician, and his funeral services were held in Barrington. After his death, Mrs. Little was at the Barrington Hospital.
