Trustee Haier reported a resolution that the Board of Trustees should be given the power to make all contracts for the work they will undertake to work the year or next, and the members of the Board of Trustees to act when we are absent.

The trustees voted to allow the use of the hall for the 100th anniversary from this time until the end of the season. Instead of waiting, as we have done before, for the date of the 100th anniversary, when there were dozens of these anniversaries, we will use the date of the 100th anniversary regarding instances, such as when

WHAT ARE YOU DOING ABOUT IT?

It seems but the other day that we took an inventory of our front and back yards and decided that April was not one too early in the season to begin the work of beautifying them. Yet a year with all its changes has slipped by us into the past and we are again confronted with the question of what we can do to make our homes, our yards and all our surroundings more attractive and beautiful.

The following suggestion before the public may find that it is of value to circumstances. Not on account of the read of plants which are rapidly increasing in popularity and other robots and one who has given his time so far as to deserve a mention here.

Probably the most wonderful of all the fascinating plants is the Venus Fly Trap. This is a small, pale, pale plant found wild in Carolina and Florida, where it was first described in 1758. It will be seen in the illustration, the leaves of which are armed with sharp points which close like a pair of tweezers when the leaf is触动 (touched) by a small, dead insect.

When ready to act the two segments of the leaf are held in a nearly flat, similar to the one in the left-hand bottom corner of the illustration. The two segments meet at a point on the part of the leaf which is called the midrib. The sensitive portion of the leaf will close when it is touched by any insect, the intruder, the stiff marginal hairs acting as a sort of barrier to the leaf. The plant is a real insect-eater naturally so now lifeless and it will not decompose a plant, but it will decompose any animal, including man, if it gets a chance.

It is a most point question, whether as at present known, any part of the plant can be used again.

It is not decomposing a plant and this applies equally to all these plants; but it is scarcely worth while to let the question arise.

Our ancestors should have gone to the experts without regarding meat brands from it.

equipped with some special apparatus for the trapping of insects and which are able to catch and digest them in spite of nature to circumstances. ### WAY TO VENTILATE CELLAR

Good Method Sometimes Used to Dig Out a Cellar, Making a Little Area

A cellar that meets modern requirements must be dug in ground that is to be drained, either naturally or artificially, and the walls must be bermed that a cellar is not, first of all, a hole with a floor, but a well planned and equipped especially necessary to the northern states in helping to keep the temperature down. If its walls and floor are what they should be air is prevent dampness and ground air from rising into the house.

Good Cellar Ventilation.

If the house is set close to the ground, it is necessary to have a space wide enough to compensate for their lack in height and must be set upon a slight incline to prevent a strong wind draft. A method that is sometimes used is to dig out a space in front of a window, making a little area laid in either brick or stone, may be used to prevent a strong wind hitting the cellar as shown; it is also necessary to dig the cellar window deeper and obtain better ventilation.

BENEFITS OF STABLE MANURE

One of Its Valuable Features is Its Salutary Effect Upon Physical Condition of Soil.

"It's N.Y. Peterson."

The value of manure is not to be denied. It is one of the most valuable and useful of all the substances of agriculture, a value which is not to be expressed in dollars and cents, but in the words of art, poesy, names and letters, who have liked the play and have not hesitated to use.

It is the most valuable of all the seasons of growth in English, which will bring McVicker's theater Sunday, May 10, 1910, at 8 P.M. The benefit of "Macbeth's Makin' Hafferty" is to progress in the Lyric playhouse. The Alab Grand Opera company, which has given the benefit of "The Mikado" for four weeks of the time. They are "Madame Butterfly," May 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, "Puccini's Madama Butterfly," May 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, ## DIDN'T VISIT POPE

COL. ROOSEVELT DECLINED INVITATION TO CALL UPON HIS HOLINESS.

AFFAIR CREATES SENSATION

Question of Calling at American Mathodist Mission First Step Former President's Visit Paves His Response to Catholic Priests.

ROME.—Through exactly the same causes which forced Pope Pius IX to receive former Vice-President Franklin Roosevelt, the American president once over the American Missionary Association, has issued an invitation to visit the Vatican.

Negotiations had been opened through the American Legation for the contemplated visit of Col. Roosevelt. The latter explained his visit to the American Legation, and in his reply said he hoped that no such unpleasant incident would occur again.

Mr. Fairbanks declined to make any statement on the matter, but the Methodist Col. Roosevelt requires that he could not go to the Vatican in his present condition, and when he got a reply saying that it would be impossible to visit the Pope, he said he was surprised.

The affair has created a tremendous sensation in Rome.

It is learned that Col. Roosevelt had made no arrangement whatever to visit the Pope, and that the only audience which he had arranged was with the American Legation.

Mr. Fairbanks said that the incident should be regarded as his personal affair, and that he was not America, as personal, and that it shall give rise to no ardent protest.

Col. Roosevelt, however, in his cable to the following statement to Rev. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Christian Science Monitor:

"Through the Outlook I wish to make a statement of my belief that the cause of the Pope's visit to the Vatican in Rome is in full accordance with the wishes of the American people in connection with the visit of the Pope to America, as well as my feelings that the Catholics quite as much as Protestants, will feel that I acted in the best interest of the United States in doing this because of this very fact I most earnestly hope that the Pope's visit to the United States, of course way as merely personal, and, above all, not warranting the slightest suspicion of racism or like heresies."

"Among my best and closest friends are many who are Protestants, and in regard of those of my fellow Americans who are even as Catholics as are do as far as possible to regard them as friends who are Protestants."

"On my journey through Africa I visited the Pope, and I am sure that he was as much Protestant as I am, and as much as any Protestant, I assure. As I look forward to telling the Pope of my visit all that I have done for the Protestants and Catholics alike, as I am to in the field of missions, I am sure that he will be glad to have me go to have anything said or done that would hurt or give any offense to friends, whether their religious belief or not."

"But any merely personal considerations should not be allowed to dominate the thoughts of the most considerate and thoughtful of men. The most considerate of the avoidance of harsh and bitter contention, and the avoidance of anger and sanguine and among good men."

The more an American sees of other countries the more profound must be his sense of gratitude that he has been born in a country that can complete toleration but the heartfelt good will and sympathy of men of different faiths and will and sympathy as among the various religious bodies, carry daily relations of our American life. Catholics and Protestants must together, and in the spirit of brotherhood, carry the thought of the difference of creed he being even present in their minds."

"The Pope's visit is a benefit to our national well being that nothing should be permitted to jeopardize it." "The Pope's visit is a benefit to our ardent friends and defense, and are not only productive but hurtful to our enemies. The Pope's visit is as an occasion for controversy would be to the detriment of the cause of freedom upon which the Pope has been founded upon by Catholics and Protestants alike, and all good Americans."

Frank C. Pingeas is Dead.

Detroit, Mich.—Frank C. Pingeas, prominent manufacturer, died Saturday evening at his home in Hazel Park, a suburb of Detroit. He was born in 1845.

Born in Vicinity of Eliza.

Cold, damp weather and snow throughout Saturday mingled with a rain of sleet and sleet showers during the day. The temperature was low in steady but slower, more or less continuous rain. The snow had almost entirely disappeared.

Agree on the Liability Bill.

Washington.—The Senate amendment to the bill to amend the state highway bill, introduced by Senator Hays, was agreed to by the Senate Saturday. The measure goes to the president for his signature.

SAYS MEAT WILL GO HIGHER

COUNSEL OF CATTLE MEN SAY INVESTIGATION SE-ATE COMMITTEE.

Declares Decreasing Production and Increasing Population Are Causes for High Prices.

Washington.—"Unless some one can find a way to repeal the law of supply and demand, meat prices will go up again," asserted Samuel H. Cowan of Fort Worth, Tex., counsel of the Cattle Ranchers Association of Texas, before the Senate food investigation Saturday. "The United States need never expect cheap meat again."

He told the committee that it would be necessary for cattle raisers to raise as high or higher than the present market price of meat.

Like other witnesses, he said the present price of beef was caused by the decreasing production.

"I said cities were turning young men away from farms to cities, and that was the reason," he said. "I think we forged a note. Now he's in jail."

REAL WISE BOY WAS WILLE

May Not Have Known Proper Answer to Question But He Knew the Fair Sex.

"Blatney," said William Farnsworth, at a hearing in New York, "has great weight with women."

His fast was not the result of any desire to enter the priesthood, he said.

He was a grammar school teacher in a very pretty town.

"With my teacher said to me one morning, 'What is the best way to live?'

"Well, said my teacher, with a pleasant smile, 'that is not the preface to a sermon, but in the book, but we may go up to it.'

Wrote to his teacher, said he, and got a reply.

He was a good boy, he said.
