

The New Year's Girl

A New Year's Fantasy

By PHILIP KEAN

Copyright by Associated Literary Press

His wife, Old Year, to be like this kind and sympathetic... she had been so kind and sympathetic.

His long line of people creviced down the window... He thought I shall never see you again.

From the fairy godmother's shoulders... But there was more to follow, for in a few moments the fairy godmother sent the prince.

"OF SUCH IS THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN"

To the Old Year

By Julia Irvine Walker

MANY days we've faced through joy and misery... Some other said you had no wish to share my triumph.

And then a time came when a great wish must be made... It will be mine no more.

It was very odd, but Marica's heart was warm... But she did not say that the real reason for her protest was because of the prince.

Across room now, but who will be the taller when next New Year's day comes?

"Won't You Get in Here With Me?" great cause of happiness... But even as she thought entered, she felt it away.

And as Marica withdrew... But she did not say that the real reason for her protest was because of the prince.

The Curtain Falls

Over the screen and over the bliss... Over the truth and under the smile.

Then the beautiful lady turned back with sparkling eyes... The beautiful lady stepped her hands.

"But You Haven't Come Again... The curtain fell and the light went out.

BETWEEN TWO FIRES

Seeing the New Year In

The New Year is but a mirror of the years that are past... But I am not dressed for that, Marica demurred.

