BLAIR ADDRESS GOOD

Address Given by Francis G. Blair Was Well Liked by All—Class Picnic Ends Commencement Week.

The commencement exercises in connection with the Barrington high school Thursday evening aroused the usual amount of interest among the friends of the graduates, and the citizens generally. The program included a reception to the senior class by the juniors, a faculty reception at the home of Prof. and Mrs. E. S. Smith, a class day exercise at the high school hall, a picnic on Monday, June 24, and the baccalaureate sermon at the Salem church on Sunday evening, June 16, participated in by all the churches, and at which the preacher was Rev. J. Bunte, pastor of Zion Evangelical church.

The main interest, however, centered in the commencement exercises proper, which occurred at the Salem Evangelical church on Thursday evening, June 20. The house was well filled for the occasion and on the walls and over and back of the platform were mottoes and banners reciting the victories of the high school in oratorical contests with other schools. The class colors, purple and white, were in evidence as was also the class flower, the white rose. Other flowers were not wanting. The class motto was in large letters over the platform. It was: "No wind serves him who has no destined port." The principal interest was in the class of graduates. The class numbered six who were: Ruth M. Catlow, Mabel F. Kampert, Alta K. Smith, Josephine A. Catlow, Leah M. Meyer and Homer H. Plagge. These young people took their places on the platform and remained there until the exercises of the evening were completed. Following is the program rendered: march, Miss Almada Plagge; selection, "Godolphin," Barrington Concert company; invocation, Rev. H. H. Thoren; piano solo, Miss Viola Ultsch; address by Francis G. Blair; oration, "The Pilot," Barrington Concert company; vocal solo, "The Village Blacksmith," W. J. Cameron; presentation of diplomas: march, "Army and Navy," Barrington Concert company; benediction, Rev. O. F. Mattison.

The management was fortunate in securing for the speaker of the evening, the Hon. Francis G. Blair, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, of Springfield. Mr. Blair made a very favorable impression both in the matter of his address and in his personal appearance and manner. As he came in with J. C. Plagge, president of the board of education, and took his seat on the platform with Mr. Plagge they seemed to be of about the same size. Mr. Blair selected as the subject of his address, "The High School Graduate." The address was simple and practical in its outline and application and contained just such suggestions for successful living as every young man and woman ought to hear. He captured attention at once by giving a somewhat humorous account of a young man packing his trunk to start away to college and the overhauling of the trunk by his mother to see what he had put in it. Many things were taken out and other and necessary things were put in. This furnished the speaker a good starting point for his address and his real theme which was, "What are you going to put into your trunk as you start on your life journey." We have space for only the merest outline of an address that was packed full of good thoughts and which could not fail to make a lasting impression.

"See to it," said the speaker, "that you put into your trunk, physical strength, strong muscles, good nerves and good health. These you will find absolutely necessary in the stress of modern life." The speaker looked as if he had taken his own advice. "Then," said he, "you will stand in need of a trained mind. This you can only secure by real books and hard work. There is a difference between going through school and having the school go through you. In this particular the high schools are very inefficient. Other things that are put in the imaginary trunk are a correct moral life and such practical knowledge as every man and woman needs in the common concerns of life." All these thoughts, rendered abundant illustrations. The address seemed to have given great satisfaction. At its close Mr. Plagge stated that the presentation of the diploma to the graduates would be turned over to the State Superintendent. This was done in a very simple way, and at the conclusion the graduates received the commendation of their school.

teachers have reason to be congratulated on the successful finishing of another year of earnest work.

It is to be regretted that some of our teachers have given up their positions for places elsewhere, but no doubt other capable instructors will be found. The people of Barrington and vicinity have every reason to be proud of the work that is being done both in the grades and in the higher departments of our public school.

ALUMNAE BANQUET
The sixth annual alumnae banquet of the Barrington high school was held on Saturday evening. A business meeting and election of officers in the school auditorium resulted as follows: president, Almada Plagge; first vice president, Victor Hilde; second vice president, Viola Lines; secretary, Mabel Schaefer; treasurer, Violet Ultsch.

A program of music charmingly rendered by Misses Viola Lines, Stella Hardon, Myrtle and Almada Plagge, Newton Plagge and Lowell Bennett, and readings by Misses Jennie Lines, Mabel Schaefer and Leah Meyer were greatly appreciated. After the program the seventy alumnae members and guests repaired to the parlors of the Methodist church, where a sumptuous banquet was served by members of the high school. Newton Plagge acted as toast master and in fitting words welcomed the class of 1912 into the Alumnae. Homer Plagge, president of that class responded, and very ably voiced the sentiments of the members in their pleasure of becoming a part of the organization. Class '07 was represented by Miss Emma Hager who expressed a few thoughts in memory of their departed members, Mrs. Maude Meyer Shipman and Elmer Peckham. Miss Annabelle Welch of class '08 toasted class '12 in pleasing rhyme. Miss Viola Lines, the only member of class '09 in attendance, gave an interesting review of her first year high school mates. Class '10 was toasted by its president, Lovell Bennett. Miss Stella Hardon toasted the alumnae in the name of class '11. Class and school yells of various descriptions were heartily given and the banquet participants departed at a late hour, hoping to meet with even a greater number next year and many years to follow.

CLASS PICNIC
The class picnic was held at Elgin Monday. There being only six in the class of '12 the class of '13 was invited as guests. The party departed for Wing Park at 8:30 in the morning and reached Elgin, displaying their large purple and white pennant, about 10:30. The morning was passed in Wing park where a beautiful lunch was enjoyed by all. The balance of the day was spent at Lion's park where they were met by Miss Solomon, a former Barrington high school teacher. The afternoon was passed in boating, games and other amusements. As the party left Elgin they sang their school song and gave yells for B. H. S. The day was much enjoyed by all and one of the members declared it to be the happiest of all school or class events.

Cook County Teachers Must Get $50
If a school teacher is now worth $50 a month, she is not fit to be a school teacher, is the opinion of Edward J. Tobin, Cook county superintendent of schools.

And what is more to the point, she cannot work in Cook county. The superintendent has issued a certificate. He has told teachers he would cancel their certificates if they made a contract to teach for less than fifty dollars.

"Next year, no one in the country schools in Cook county will receive less than $50 a month," said Mr. Tobin Monday. "In the school year that ended in June, 1911, many were only getting $35 a month, and in the year previous the records show that a number were receiving only $25 and $30 a month."

"I have told every teacher who comes under my jurisdiction that her minimum wage must be $50. The women I am certifying to the school directors as capable are worth that much and they must get it or they cannot teach in this county."

CONCERT WELL ATTENDED.

The Concert Given by Pupils of Miss Almada Plagge and Miss Elva Chrysler Was Well Attended.

On Tuesday evening at the Methodist church three musical forces combined in giving to music lovers of our vicinity a splendid concert; Miss Almada Plagge, teacher in piano, Miss Elva Chrysler, teacher in singing, and the Barrington Concert company. Miss Chrysler's pupils rendered vocal selections of a technical kind, and the efforts stood out to the great credit of both pupils and teacher.

Miss Almada Plagge presented her pupils of the beginner grades in a recital in the afternoon, twenty-one selections were rendered, and with the exception of the vocal numbers by Mrs. Chas. Thies and Miss Myrtle Plagge, they are piano students.

The evening concert drew a large number of people, and the house was well seated when the Barrington Concert company opened the program with a boy-scout march by Gearen. Dora Lackner gave "March Triumphant," Genevieve Pomeroy sang with due effect "Sunrise," and Ruth Lorenzen rendered "Curly Locks" and "Fife and Drum Brigade" with good taste. Luella Ricks played "The Return and Home Again" with a happy air of feeling. Ruth Waterman and Violet Landwehr were good entertainers in their duet of "Over Hill and Dale."

Miss Irene Thoren sang the technical vocal solo of "Thou Brilliant Bird" by David, accompanied by Miss Chrysler. Gladys Samp gave "Bon Bon Polka," and Lillian Grimm played "Polonaise Brillante," accompanied by Miss Plagge. Miss Allie Torgler of Arlington Heights sang "Lullaby," accompanied by Miss Chrysler on piano and Mrs. Thies on violin. Gertrude Klumke gave a selection of "Musical Caprice," which was followed by an eight hand selection of a Chivari March by Dorothy Nightengale, Pearl Roloff, Theresa Brandt and Elvora Garbisch. "The Danse Bretagne" was played by Helen Collins. Miss Myrtle Plagge sang very ably "Gondola Romeo and Juliet." Frances Beth gave a Hungarian Rhapsody. Mrs. Charles Thies sang "Chaminade's Summer."

The visitors have their only score of the game in the fifth inning. Brown pitched the last three innings, easily holding the visitors scoreless. He got nine men on strikes and had a chance to get eleven, but very ably "Gondola Romeo and Juliet." Frances Beth gave a Hungarian Rhapsody. Mrs. Charles Thies sang "Chaminade's Summer."

Lester Brown pitched last Sunday for Osborne's Colts against Park Ridge striking out thirteen men and winning by a score of 5 to 0. Park Ridge got only two hits, and one of those a scratch hit.

COUNSEL HAVE ROW

HORACE APPEL, LAWYER FOR
DARROW, ANGERS DISTRICT
ATTORNEY FREDERICKS.

TRIES TO THROW INKWELL

Prosecutor's Hand Stayed When Others Rush in and Seize Missile—Court Rebukes Both Sides—Also Rules Against Defense.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 27.—In the course of an argument in the Darrow case here Tuesday in which Horace Appel of Darrow's counsel was engaging in personalities, District Attorney Fredericks suddenly lost his temper and, with a face black with anger, tried to throw an inkwell at Appel.

Assistant District Attorney Ford, Earl Rogers, the bailiff of the court, had surrounded Fredericks by the time he had seized the missile and prevented him from throwing it.

The court rebuked both Appel and Fredericks but coupled with the rebuke a statement that knowing both of them were working under a severe strain, he would not take more drastic action. Just before adjournment of court Fredericks made formal apology to the court for his conduct.

The court had ruled against the defense, after an argument which had lasted nearly a day, in its demand that the prosecution produce the typewritten copy of the stenographer's report of the dictagraph conversation between Darrow and John R. Harrington, Earl Rogers had returned to the cross-examination of Harrington and managed to get from him certain statements as to what he had said to Darrow and Darrow had said to him in these conversations. Upon that basis Rogers had again demanded the dictagraph document, and had declared that the prosecution was suppressing evidence.

"It will come out," said Fredericks. Appel jumped to his feet and shaking his finger at Fredericks said: "Yes, it will come out, you're coming out; you're altogether too prominent in this case. Your honor, just look at the way they interpret the law. Like clanking guns."

"See here, I'm through; I'm done. I've stood all this I'm going to stand," said Fredericks, jumping to his feet and starting around the long counsel table in Appel's direction.

Rogers and the bailiff blocked Fredericks' way and urged him back to his seat, but Appel was still trying to talk and Fredericks was still trying to reach him.

"I've stood all this fellow's rap I'm going to stand," shouted Fredericks, and seized the inkwell in front of him but was prevented from throwing it.

The second demand of the defense for the dictagraph document was denied by the court.

HARRY THAW TAKES STAND

Spends Five Hours Under Examination of Jerome, Who is Opposing His Efforts for Release.

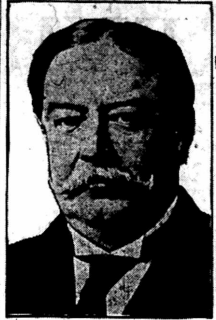

White Plains, N. Y., June 27.—Harry K. Thaw spent five hours Tuesday—the sixth anniversary of the shooting of Stanford White—on the witness stand, under fire examination by William T. Jerome, who is opposing Thaw's fight for release from the Matteawan asylum. Mr. Jerome questioned the witness suddenly of the anniversary of the tragedy and reminded him sharply as to circumstances of the killing. Both Thaw and his counsel, Clarence J. Edwards, quickly interposed objections on the ground that Mr. Jerome was showing animus and "serving private interests."

Mr. Jerome declared his questioning was within the province of a "mental examination," and he was generally upheld by Judge Keogh, but was unsuccessful in his persistent attempts to make the witness display undue agitation. The question of Thaw's motive in killing White did not bother him.

"It was on account of the cold blooded way in which he had done things to my wife and other girls," he declared, firmly. He refused to answer when Jerome asked if he knew Jerome during the half minute he was killing White. But he said later: "I think my mental condition was the same as Dr. Daniel Dickies' when he shot Key."

"But," Jerome quickly retorted, "General Dickies did not hide behind a woman's skirts. Dr. Edwards testified the other day that you had done."

Thaw said that by a combination of his own opinion and that of his attorney he had arrived at the conclusion that he is now sane.

William H. Taft.

James B. Sherman.

TAFT IS RENOMINATED; ROOSEVELT WITHDRAWS

President Again Named to Head Republican National Ticket at Convention Marked by Bitter Fighting—Sherman for Second Place—Story of the Gathering.

Chicago.—William Howard Taft of Ohio and James Schoolcraft Sherman of New York were again named to head the Republican national ticket during the closing hours of the convention Saturday night, after five days of desperate fighting in which every Taft was being contested by the Taft and Roosevelt forces. While Taft was being nominated a new party, headed by the ex-president, was being born.

La Follette was the only other candidate presented to the convention. Colonel Roosevelt early in the afternoon cutting all ties with what he designated as a packed and fraudulently constituted assembly.

Winner on First Ballot. President Taft was nominated at 9:30 o'clock and elected on the first ballot, the vote being:

Taft 561
Roosevelt 107
Cummins 347
La Follette 41
Hughes 3

The total number of delegates was 1,076; necessary a choice, 540.

Roosevelt's Retirement Announced. Henry J. Allen of Kansas made the announcement of Colonel Roosevelt's retirement. He read a statement from the colonel in which he set forth that the convention had no claim to represent the voters of the Republican party, that the convention represented nothing but successful fraud in overriding the will of the rank and file of the party. Mr. Roosevelt urged the men elected as delegates to vote for him to decline to vote on any matter before the convention, and practically all of the delegates who favored his nomination followed his bidding.

Mr. Allen concluded his sensational speech with the declaration that he and the other Roosevelt men did not bolt.

Says People Shall Judge. "We merely insist," and he, "that you, not we, are making the record, and we refuse to be bound by it. We have pleaded with you for ten days, we have fought with you for five days for a square deal. We fight no more. We plead no more. We shall all sit in protest, and the people who sent us here shall judge us."

Immediately after this declaration the committee on resolutions reported, and after the Taft platform had been read the La Follette platform was placed before the convention.

Candidates Are Nominated. President Taft's name was placed before the convention shortly by Harding of Ohio, and the nomination was seconded by John Wanamaker of Philadelphia and Nicholas Murray Butler of New York.

Sherman was nominated by J. Van Vleet of Ohio of New York and seconded by an Ohio delegate in behalf of the 14 followers of the president from that state.

Senator Cummins of Iowa was not placed in nomination, according to the program, although he received 17 votes.

Michael B. O'Brien, a young lawyer from Madison, placed the name of La Follette before the delegates in a speech that was frequently interrupted by applause, and it was seconded by Robert M. Pollock of Fargo, a member of the North Dakota delegation.

Before La Follette was nominated, however, Walter L. Houser, his campaign manager, read a statement from the senator saying he could not stand on the platform adopted by the convention, even if selected, as it did not embody the aggressive principles for which he stood.

Roosevelt Men Give Up. From the time that Chairman Root called the last day's session to order at 10:42 a. m., it was apparent that the Roosevelt men had given up the struggle against their opponents. They had reached a point where they could no longer stand and appeared as if they did to the great enjoyment of the entire convention.

abandoned. By unanimous consent the convention then played all of the delegates with the exception of the contested Texas, upon the permanent roll.

The Texas contests were then submitted to the convention. The credentials committee recommended the same delegates as did the national committee. This decision gave the final sanction to every decision which had been made by the national committee and sealed all of the seventy-two delegates, whom Colonel Roosevelt had charged were stolen, and because of the Taft men he announced he would no longer recognize the convention.

Minority Reports Made. Two minority reports were presented on the Texas delegates—large one by Sullivan, Ohio, and the other by Cady, Wisconsin.

Cady conceded that some of the Taft delegates should have been purged, but expressed the opinion that there would not be enough rightfully thus decided to give the Taft people control of the convention.

"Neither Taft nor Roosevelt had enough lawfully elected delegates to obtain the nomination," read the report at that point.

It further went on to say that the Texas case was a conspicuous contest where the majority of the credentials committee acted on might rather than on right.

The majority report stated that Republican sentiment in Texas "was overwhelmingly in favor of President Taft." This was greeted with groans and guffaws by the Roosevelt adherents. The committee majority in favor of the Taft delegates scored the so-called "Cecil Laron omnibulder" machine in Texas. It also referred to Texas as "boss ridden."

Root Joins in Frolic. Even Chairman Root showed that he was willing to take part in the good-natured "last day" frolic of the convention. During the mad rush of the early morning session, W. Howard McKinley, a Mississippi delegate who bears the distinction of being instructed for both Taft and Roosevelt, arose and announced that he wished to state a point of personal privilege.

"I wish to say that the steam roller is exceeding the speed limit," he said. "The gentleman is sustained," announced Chairman Root to the surprise of the delegates. "But it is because we have hopes of getting home to our Sunday dinners," he added.

The temporary organization of the convention was made permanent at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The only matter in which the Roosevelt delegates took part in his speech he eulogized President Taft for the wise legislation he credited him with; defended the tariff legislation of the party; pleaded for a continuance of constitutional government and the policies of the Republican party.

Senator Root in assuming the duties of permanent chairman omitted the formality of a speech. He thanked the convention for conferring the honor upon him and then asked that Henry J. Allen of Kansas be given permission to present the Roosevelt statement urging the former president's retirement hands down.

The most important of the officers of the convention besides Senator Root were Lafayette B. Gleason of New York, secretary, and William F. Stone of Baltimore, sergeant-at-arms.

As a result of the adjournment, which was the same that have governed the present convention. Delegates will be elected in the same manner.

Rules for Next Convention. As a result of the tabling of both reports when adjournment was taken at 10:30 o'clock a fight that will go down as the hardest ever fought in a Republican convention passed into history.

But the proceedings of Saturday overhauled all that had gone before when adjournment was taken at 10:30 o'clock a fight that will go down as the hardest ever fought in a Republican convention passed into history.

MARRIAGE RESTRICTIONS.

In all the talk of restricting marriage to persons of unsound body and mental health, there has heretofore been no serious suggestion of making the persons who perform the ceremony or issue the license the judges of whether or not the candidate for marriage came up to requirements. It remains for a member of the Ontario legislature to put his idea along that line into the form of a legislative bill. He proposes that he minister or other authority authorized to perform the marriage ceremony shall do so in case he suspects that one of the applicants is insane or intoxicated, and no official charged with the duty of issuing marriage licenses shall do so in such cases, says the Buffalo Express. If they do, they will be liable to a fine of $500 for each offense, and may possibly go to jail for a year. The question arises at once, what clerk will issue a license or what minister will marry a couple in these circumstances? Also, why should these laymen be required to judge of a person's body or mental condition? Why should not that be left to experts in the first place? A way out of the situation is provided, however, for if the licensor had any doubts as to the eligibility of the applicants he may require a physician's certificate.

Bishop Anderson of Chicago, supported by a goodly array of pastors in other cities, has declared that the church should not celebrate marriage unless the intending bride and groom bring certificates of health and sanity. A Boston lady, the Rev. Mabel L. Witham, now proposes to subject the candidates to three other tests as well. She will require the certificate of a financier that the man is able to support a wife, and of a housekeeper that the woman is able to take charge of a household, and finally she would have evidence that the pair are supplied with "love immortal and divine which will render things glorious in their lives," says the New York World. These are hard rules. No man ever lived that was perfectly healthy and sane in the opinion of a physician. No young man was ever deemed quite competent to attend to business by an old man. No young woman was ever adjudged a good housekeeper by a count of grandmother. What if she should give assurance of the love immortal and divine?

Two more theaters are to be built in New York, in spite of the complaints of the managers that all of the theaters are losing money. We have not learned whether the builders of the new theaters are trying to be philanthropists or whether it is their belief that the only way in which one may get a seat in a New York theater without paying an exorbitant price to a ticket scalper is to build one's own theater.

A learned judge holds that a woman has a right to go through her husband's pockets. Possibly the judge does not realize that woman has extended that right ever since man has been to wear clothes.

"A Massachusetts chicken fancier finds a dime in each of four eggs." It looks as though the man who fix the price of eggs have hired a press agent.

The man who says nothing is sometimes surprised to find how popular he is.

Wild West Show Coming.

Three Bill's Wild West show and Indian village will show in Barrington Thursday, June 27, at the ball grounds. The show will have several attractions. "The Horse Riders," "Hanging the Horse Thief," "The Fight at the Water Hole" and many other interesting western scenes. If you want to see good riding, shooting and roping don't fail to see this show.

Our Own Show July 8.

The Owl club will give a dance in the village hall Friday evening, July 13. The dance will be given by Woodcock and will furnish music. Don't miss it. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Safe Blown at Lake Zurich. A safe in the office of Plagge Bros. & Company at Lake Zurich was dynamited at an early hour this morning. The burglars secured about $500 in currency and got away without leaving any clue as to their identity. It is said that the work appears to be that of amateurs and may prove to be a home talent.

Butter Prices Unchanged. Butter remained at 25 cents on the board of trade Monday. There were no changes and James Younger bid 25-1/2 cents.

The quotation committee fixed the price at 25-1/2 cents. The price was objected to by Thomas Gallagher and Fred Miles. On their motion it was fixed at 25 cents by a vote of 16 to 8.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following letters remain in the Barrington post-office unclaimed for the week ending June 22, 1912. Lane Cooper. Mrs. Mark A. Handy. Albert LeBerger. Mrs. P. M. McFadden. Mr. Thos. Roche.

Satisfactory Bargains

By Emily Hamilton

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Library Press)

Celia had chosen the suburb of Kew as a splendid place for her apartment in advertising. It was not far from town, and the houses seemed to be of a more or less distinctive character.

"The people there no doubt would appreciate artistic interiors," argued Celia as she boarded the train. The train was crowded. They were always crowded, was her comment as she trailed through the car looking for a seat. If she could not find an unoccupied seat Celia always chose to sit beside a man. "They usually sit quiet and read their papers," she reminded as she sat down beside a good-looking man who, though ample of frame, did not occupy more than half of the seat.

He scarcely looked up when Celia slipped quietly down beside him. His eyes when the train had pulled out of the tunnel swept in every vestige of the passing landscape. Once or twice he sat up quickly and glanced at something and once his arm touched her shoulder. Celia drew into her corner of the seat. The young man evidently mistook her for a girl and for peevishness and after apologizing with an exaggerated politeness he returned to a more frigid contemplation of things passing.

Celia felt a certain relief when the train pulled in at Kew. Nor did she observe, in her hurried exit that the young man also had left the train. Had she known it it would not have mattered now for Celia's mind was intent on looking for an old house that would seem lost to all chance of ever having another occupant.

She strode about and began to fear that there were no old houses in Kew and that she would have to try another suburb. She turned a corner and there, at a lovely old haunted-looking house lay in the midst of a hopelessly dilapidated garden.

Celia drew a breath of joy. The sign that bore the agent's name was almost a thing of the past, but Celia managed by dint of close scrutiny to make out the name of an agent in Kew.

She peered into the big rambling rooms within and another breath of joy escaped her. Genius lurked in Celia's eyes. She knew that with time and the consent of the agent she could turn the inside of that old house into a veritable dream of beauty. She cast a regretful glance at the unkempt garden and shook her head.

"My house will have to shine like a jewel if I want people to see it through this awful ruin of grounds." But her spirits were in no way dampened by the outlook, but she had her dreams about landscape gardening that would set off the house.

She went into the tiny office of the agent, Celia made known her desire. "There is an old tumble-down house down there," she pointed her finger in the direction where she saw and owned it. "I want you to let me make over the interior at my own expense." Celia smiled upon the agent.

"I am sorry," he said, and really felt as if a change had only ten minutes ago.

"Don't tell me I can't have it!" Celia felt on the verge of tears. "This house has been vacant about fifteen years, and now two people want it. This young chap wanted to do something to the garden—he says it will enhance the value of the property—and I thought I'd give him the advantage he needs."

"Oh!" Celia breathed joyfully. "My plans wouldn't interfere in the least with his. Do you suppose he would mind my doing the interior?"

The agent knew that if the girl looked at the landscape gardener with those sparkling eyes, how he would not deny her the house for her. "You might suggest it to him. His name is Gaynor—Tom Gaynor." The agent handed to Celia a card which he gave her. This was certainly his lucky day.

sitting on a garden bench making a mental picture of the ruined garden. He looked up, a trace of annoyance on his face. "Oh!" said Celia and dropped back. The young man was her antagonist of the train. He stood up, his hat in his hand.

But Celia was not going to miss this great opportunity to advertise her work. She gathered courage and a great amount of aliveness into her voice.

"I beg your pardon, but will it interfere with you in any way if I decorate the interior of this house?" A high color had mounted her cheeks, and it sagged her face as she saw this man smilingly appreciate it.

"Not in the least," he told her, generally. "In fact, I was regretting the dilapidated condition of the house. It would be a fearful crime for my beautiful garden."

Celia repressed a smile and inwardly admired his confidence. "Thank you," she said, a trifle less coldly. "I wish you success," she added, and turned toward the house.

"The agent to you," he called after her and turned to his plans. Weeks sped swiftly by. Out of the ruins and neglect of years a house that promised well for the agent was in rapid development. Already people passing in great motor cars slowed up as they drew near, and many got out to investigate the artistic property.

The spirit of antagonism that had sprung up between them on the suburban train seemed only to grow in proportion as Tom Gaynor made place of the garden's coming home of Kew, and Celia Rosine made of the interior a home that many prospective buyers inspected.

Celia, from behind the soft art blinds in the windows, looked out at the big man in the gardens. Each day she spent many hours looking at the beautiful flower beds made of Kew, and Celia Rosine made of the interior a home that many prospective buyers inspected.

THERE TO RESTOCK WARREN

Normandy Peasant as Ready to Recognize Good Thing as Any American Financier.

A distinguished Parisian, with a country place in Normandy, once maintained near that place a rabbit warren of a few acres in the midst of cultivated fields.

The enterprise was a source of plentiful income to the Normandy peasant, who took the opportunity to plant choice vegetables in the adjoining fields. Then they demanded large compensation for the alleged damage done by the rabbits.

After a while, however, the owner of the warren began to grow tired of the arrangements. He reckoned that under the existing state of things the few rabbits he raised would cost him twenty dollars each, which was rather too much, even for an enthusiastic sportsman. He determined to destroy the warren.

There were only four or five burrows in the inclosure, and a few ferrets soon killed all the occupants. One night, however, the rabbits had been destroyed, the owner happened to visit his former preserve, and detected a man skulking along under the trees with a long bag on his back. The owner at once jumped to the conclusion that the man had come to steal wood. When he challenged the intruder, the man assured him that he was a hunter, leaving the bag behind him. It was found to be filled with rabbits of both sexes.

The owner was so kind, but a neighbor of the Parisian, who, shrewdly reasoning that there could be no more rabbits, had thought it advisable to respect the warren.

Explained. "What have you got in the pocket, Mary?" "My new ball gown."

"I know it was too small to be your ball gown."

Picnic in Willson's Grove.

The annual picnic given by the Palatine band at Willson's grove, four miles east of this village, Sunday attracted a large crowd from Palatine, Barrington, Lake Zurich, Wauconda, and surrounding country. Trains were run hourly between Palatine and the grove and many took advantage of the opportunity to take a ride on the new railroad, which the promoters soon hope to have completed to Lake Zurich where a large picnic and celebration is to be held upon the completion of the work.

The Palatine ball team played against the Chicago Furniture Company team and received their first defeat of the season by a score of 3 to 2. In spite of the fact that the grounds were in poor condition a good game was played.

The Palatine band, under the leadership of W. N. Sears of this village, entertained the gathering with a concert during the afternoon.

A large and substantial pavilion has been built on the grounds and there was dancing afternoon and evening. The Palatine ball club plan to hold a picnic on the grounds July 4.

All places have been filled excepting one teacher in the high school. Erman S. Smith will continue as superintendent with the following teachers: Misses Elsie and Caranda Galzer, Palatine; Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Chicago; Miss Irene Zimmerman, Berwyn; Miss Jennie M. Darcy, Wilmette; Miss Ina Castle, Austin; Miss Alfrida Ackerman, Chicago.

The school year will begin September second.

Kulich Victor With a Ford.

The seventh annual hill climb at Algonquin last Thursday was brought to an end before the close of the afternoon events by a severe hail and rain storm which sent spectators scurrying for shelter. Kulich, in a little Ford carried off the honors of the event. He smashed every record previously made on the steep incline. His best time was 15.25 seconds which beats last years record by more than a full second. The races were not as well managed this year and the attendance was much smaller than usual probably accounted for by the fact that the national Republican convention was in session at Chicago. Barrington was well represented among the spectators.

Wrestling Match at Opatry's Next Sunday.

Joseph Smejkal, the Bohemian wrestling champion is training at Opatry's resort near Cary for his bout with Frank Gotch in Chicago on July 4 for the championship of the world. Smejkal has had fifty-four bouts in America during the past seven months and won them all. On Sunday afternoon, June 30, at Opatry's grove near Cary he will wrestle with Alce Shafford, a French-Canadian giant. The program will also include Ila Vincent, who is a giant colored man and will be matched against the best man that can be secured in Chicago.

Predicts Hot Summer.

In an interview last Friday Dr. R. Jesko, Elgin's weather prophet, predicts that we will have a very hot summer. He says "one extreme must follow another and it is a certainty right now that we'll sizzle before we're through with the summer." We are certain that this week has started out right to comply with Mr. Jesko's prediction.

To Vote on Sunday Theatre.

The voters of the city of Elgin are to vote for or against the Sunday theatre as a special election to be held next Saturday. Nearly all the ministers of Elgin preached against them at the Sunday services last Sunday. There is considerable interest manifested in the debate and it is predicted that there will be a large vote out.

This Article on Clothing is From C. F. Hall of Dundee, an Old Clothing Buyer of Forty Years Experience. Please Read in Your Own Interest.

The writer of this brief article wants to have a little talk with you on the matter of Men's Clothes. As you are aware we sell Abi's Clothing; no doubt the best clothing made in the United States. An opportunity presented itself to the writer a few days ago to buy their entire surplus of summer stock; made an offer and the offer was accepted. These prices are so much

OUT-OF-THE-ORDINARY that we want you to know all about them. We have thirty clothing cabinets full of these fine goods. This large purchase we would not have attempted, but for the fact that we have a large outlet, outside of our community. We have divided this lot of clothing into four lots.

Lot 1, $8.00. Lot 2, $10.00. Lot 3, $11.00. Lot 4, $13.00.

We are prepared to demonstrate to you that we can sell to you clothing at $8.00, which formerly wholesaled at $11.00 early in the season—Suits at $10.00 which wholesaled at $13.00 early in the season—Suits at $11.00 which wholesaled at $13.50 early in the season—Suits at $13.00 which wholesaled at $16.50 early in the season.

Now our proposition is this: come to us on the strength of this advertisement. If we have misrepresented in any way, and you can bring your best judges, we will pay you for your time and car fare. Any representations made here are absolutely correct and we can prove it. Come and see us NOW. This opportunity may not occur again. We want to see men who are paying $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00 for a suit.

A Sane Fourth.

The prospects of a sane Fourth in Barrington appear to be exceedingly good. There will be no celebration of any kind, not even a Sunday school picnic as far as we have been able to learn. However, the best of us are promised relief, the Omeas Vase club will cross bats with the Clover Leaf team of Chicago and a hot game is promised. It is said that there is a possibility of the local team meeting with their second defeat, that is, if they do not lose the game Saturday when they will play the Sterling Athletic club of Chicago.

Auction.

C. P. Harvey, superintendent of Evergreen cemetery association will offer for sale on the premises, Saturday, June 29, at 10 o'clock, three gates with hinges, 90 oak posts, 80 cedar posts, some wood, also stand of grass in new part of cemetery.

They have gone into every state and territory in the United States. There may be some in your town. They are giving them away everywhere to men, women, boys and girls over 18 years of age, on surprisingly liberal conditions. If you could make any use of a $100 typewriter, providing it did not cost you even one cent, there is a letter on a postal card addressed to Frank L. Wilder, President, Woodstock, Illinois, simply say, "Mail me all your free offers" and by return mail you will receive their Free Offers, the names of over 400 who have received typewriters free recently, and you will learn on what any conditions you can get one of these typewriters free right away. The Emerson Typewriter is one of the highest grade, wholly visible typewriters made in the world. Many who have used the "EMERSON" and other makes pronounce the "EMERSON" superior to any $100 typewriter on the market. It is a wholly visible machine, has every new, up-to-date feature, looks like other high grade $100 typewriters, though it is selling just now at an astonishingly low price and on terms of no money with order, trial free in your own home. The "EMERSON" has every new improvement, universal keyboard, back spacer, tabulator, two-color ribbon, everything the best; is the ideal machine for beginners as well as for the most expert typists and stenographers; just the typewriter for the smallest or largest office.

If you could possibly make any use of a high grade typewriter, even though it didn't cost you one cent, money, or if you would like the agency in your town on a plan by which you could make big money, or if you would like a position with the company, then be sure, on a postal card or in a letter addressed to "Frank L. SYNOPSIS.

The story opens on Long Island, near New York city, where Miss Emily French, a relative of the celebrated "Mercury" automobile, is on her way to direct it. She is too quizzical with drink to direct it. They meet another car which is run by a professional driver named LeStrange. The latter fixes up the French car and directs Emily French to proceed homeward. Emily French has disappeared. He informs Emily French that he would like to have her marry him. He is a good-natured but irresponsible fellow. He appears to be a partner of Ethan French, wanting an expert to race with the "Mercury" during the French family's annual events. He has engaged LeStrange, and at the French family's annual events, he recognizes the young racer. Dick French, who is a good-natured but irresponsible fellow, he will try to educate her indifferent cousin as an automobile expert.

CHAPTER V.

There was a change in the French affairs, a lightning of the atmosphere, a quickening and stir of beautiful cheer in the days that followed. The somber master of the house met it in Bailey's undisputed elation and pride when they discussed the successful business now taxing the factory's resources, met it yet again in Emily's pretty gaiety and content. But most strikingly was confronted with an alteration in Dick.

It was only a week after his first merriment ride with LeStrange, that Dick electrified the company at dinner, by turning down the glass at his plate.

"I've cut out claret, and that sort of thing," he announced. "It's bad for the nerves."

His three companions looked up in complete astonishment. It was Saturday night and by ancient custom Bailey was dining at the house.

"What has happened to you? Have you been attending a revival meeting?" the young man's uncle inquired with sarcasm.

"It's bad for the nerves," repeated Dick. "Remember the why shouldn't like to do anything other fellows do. Let that be, none of the men who drive cars ever touch that stuff, and look at the results."

Mr. French contemplated him with the irritation usually produced by the display of ostentatious virtues, but found no comment. Emily gazed at the table, her red mouth curving in spite of all effort at seriousness.

"You're right, Mr. Dick," said Bailey dryly. "Stick to it."

And Dick stuck without as much as a single lapse. Frenchwood was comparatively little of him, as time went on, the village, and Frenchwood much. He lost some weight, and acquired a coat of reddish tan.

Emily watched and admired in silence. She had seen LeStrange again, but it seemed to her that his influence over all the life of both house and factory. Sometimes this showed so plainly that she believed Mr. French must see, must feel the silent force at work. But either he did not see or chose to ignore. And Dick was insouciant.

"I'm going to buy one of our roadsters myself," he stated one day. "Can I have it at cost?"

Mr. French felt for his place-man. "You? Why do you not use the Mercury?"

"Because I don't want to go around in a box driven by a chauffeur. I want a clear car to run myself. I've been driving some of the stripped cars lately, and I like it."

"I will give you a car, if you want one," answered his uncle, quite kindly. "Go select any you prefer."

"Thank you," Dick sat up, beaming. "But I'll have to wait my turn, we've never been to the factory yet. I've no right to come in and make some other fellow wait."

Mr. French slowly stiffened. "We do not require licenses in either from this LeStrange," was the cold rebuke. "I shall telephone Bailey to send up your car at once."

Expect brought the car, however, or reader to the door, three hours later. And Emily appreciated that LeStrange was discreet as well as courteous, when she saw the sleek, sleek-eyed young mechanic was detailed to accompany Dick's maiden trip; which duty was fulfilled, incidentally, with the first test of a Roadster.

In May there was a still greater acquisition of vehicles to the factory. In addition, the first of June was to open with a Frenchwood race. The French track, and LeStrange was entered for it. Frenchwood was in the car; Dick came in the house only to eat and sleep.

French walked into the room where his niece was reading. "I want to see Bailey," he said briefly. "Do you wish to drive me down to the factory, or shall I have Anderson bring around the Mercury?"

"Please let us drive," she exclaimed, rising with alacrity. "I have not been to the factory for months."

"Very good. You are looking well, Emily, of late."

Surprised, a soft color swept the face she turned to him. "I should like to see the car, I think we are all better this spring."

"Perhaps," said Ethan French. His bitter gray eyes passed deliberately over the large room with all its traces of a family life extending back to pre-Colonial times, but he said no more.

It was an exquisite morning, too vivid for June, too richly warm for May. When the two exchanged the sunny road for the factory office, a north room none too light, it was a momentary dazzle of light. It was a momentary dazzle of light. It was a momentary dazzle of light.

"But Emily had already sat down, for the voice speaking beyond her perceived no one was present. This was Bailey's private office, and its owner had passed into the room beyond."

"Emily wait," conceded Mr. French, dismounting the boy who had ushered them in. "Sit down, Emily; Bailey will return directly, no doubt."

"It will not do," LeStrange was stating definitely. "It should be reinforced."

"It's always been strong enough," Bailey's slower tones objected. "For years. It's not a thing likely to break."

"Not likely to break? Look at last year's record, Mr. Bailey, and tell me that. A broken steering-knuckle killed Brook in Indiana, another sent Little to the hospital in Massachusetts, the same thing wrecked the leader at the last Beach race and dashed him through the fence. Do you know what it means to the driver of a machine hurtling itself along the narrow verge of destruction, when the steering-wheel suddenly turns useless in his grasp? Can you feel the sick helplessness, the confronting of death, the compressed second before the crash? Is it worth while to risk it for a bit of careless steel?"

The clear realism of the picture forced a pause, filled by the dull roar and throb through the machinery-crowded building.

"They were not our cars that broke, any of them," Bailey insisted.

"Not our cars, no. But the steering-knuckle of my own machine broke under my hands last March, on the road, and if I had been on a curve instead of a straight stretch there would have been a wreck. As it was, I brought her to a stop by the ditch. There is no other thing that may not leave a fighting chance after it breaks but this leaves absolutely none. I know you both know that the steering-wheel is the only weapon in the driver's grasp. If it fails him, he goes out and his mechanism with him."

Emily paled, shrinking. She remembered the road under the maples and LeStrange's laughing face as he leaned breathless across his useless wheel. That was what it had meant, then, the lightly treated episode!

"You'd better fix it like he wants it," advised Dick's disturbed tones. "Remember, he's got to drive the car Friday and Saturday, Bailey, not us."

"It's not alone for my racer I'm speaking, but for every car that leaves the factory," LeStrange caught him up. "I'm not fighting; I've driven the car before and I will again. It may hold for ever, that part, but I've tested it and it's a weak point—take the warning for what it's worth."

There was a movement as if he rose with the last word. Emily laid her hand on the arm of the chair.

Not it Yet Again in Emily's Pretty Gaiety and Content.

her hand on the arm of the chair, turning her smiling dark eyes on her uncle. Surely if ever Mr. French was to meet his manager, this was the moment; when LeStrange's ringing remark was still in their ears, his spoken old force of expression still vibrant in the atmosphere. And suddenly she wanted them to meet, passionately wanted Ethan French's liking for this man who was so sure of himself.

"Uncle," she began. "Uncle."

But it was not LeStrange's light that shone on the threshold.

"Wait," he went on. "It would be more difficult to share with a cool heart than a racer, but I don't think many men are tempted on that account to touch the car. It's a good one, as if the two years."

men left the next room. Bitterly disappointed, she sank back.

"That was your manager with you?" Mr. French friendly inquired.

"Yes; he went upstairs to see how the new drill is acting," Bailey pulled out a handkerchief and rubbed his brow. "He's a warm. Yes, he wants me to strengthen a knuckle—his spoken considerable about it. I guess he's right; better too much than too little."

"I do not see that follows. I should imagine that you understood building a chassis better than this racer," driver. You had best consult outside experts in construction before making a change."

"Uncle!" Emily cried.

"There's a twenty-four hour race starts tomorrow night," Bailey suggested uneasily. "It's easy fixed, and we might be wrong."

"We have always made them this way!"

"Yes, but—"

"Consult experts, then, I do not like your manager's tone; he is too assuming. Now let me see those papers."

Emily's parcel slipped to the floor with a sharp crash as she stood up, quite pale and shaken.

"Uncle, Mr. LeStrange knows," she appealed. "You heard him say what would happen—please, please let it be fixed."

Amazed, Mr. French looked at her, his face setting.

"You forget your dignity," he retorted in displeasure. "This is mere childishness. Emily. Men will be consulted more competently to decide than this LeStrange. That will do."

From one to the other she gazed, then turned away.

"I will wait out in the car," she said. "I would rather be outdoors."

Dick French was upstairs, standing with LeStrange in one of the narrow alleys between lines of grimly efficient machines that bit or cut their way through the steel and aluminum floor on wheels, when LeStrange came to him with a folded visiting card.

"Miss French sent it," was the explanation. "She's sitting out in her horse-drawn car, as she called me to the track to ask me to demand myself by acting like a messenger boy. All right?"

"All right," said Dick, running an astonished eye over the card.

"No answer?"

"No answer?"

"I'll send my back to my embroidery. I'll send my back to my embroidery. I'll send my back to my embroidery."

"See here, LeStrange," Dick began, the mechanic departed, sitting down on a rolling stool, and LeStrange steadily engaged in nothing else than to gear-wheels.

"Don't do that," LeStrange exclaimed sharply. "Get up, French."

"It's safe enough."

"It's nothing of the kind. The least slip—"

"Oh, well," he reluctantly rose, "if you're going to get hussy. Read what Emily sent up."

LeStrange accepted the card with a faint flicker of emotion.

"Dick, uncle is making the steering-knuckle wait for expert opinion," the legend ran, in pencil. "Have Mr. Bailey strengthen Mr. LeStrange's car, anyhow. Do not let him race so."

Near them two men were engaged in babbling terms, passing ladies' rules of mottled metal carefully back and forth, and splashing blinding drops over the car; at them LeStrange gazed in silence, after reading the card still in his hand.

Golf and a Prince.

Mr. R. H. Barlow, the golf champion, said at a recent luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia:

"Golf has its humors, and this LeStrange is particularly in evidence at a golf club that I once had with a Persian prince."

"The prince, as he sat on the club plant watching the various champions drive off, drawled:

"I don't see very much in golf. No object is to be gained by the depositing of a white ball in a subterranean cavity; and if any object were to be gained, the shortest and surest method would surely be to carry the ball in the hand from cavity to cavity."

"But, prince," I said, "the difficulty of getting the ball into the cavity, as you call it, is what constitutes the attraction of the game."

"The difficulty constitutes the attraction," said the prince frowned. "Well, he went on. It would be more difficult to share with a cool heart than a racer, but I don't think many men are tempted on that account to touch the car. It's a good one, as if the two years."

DEFEND THE COURTS

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM DEMANDS "UNTRAMMELED AND INDEPENDENT JUDICIARY."

RECALL IS NOT NECESSARY

Platform, However, Provides for Action to Simplify Removal of Delinquent Judges—Taft Universal Peace Idea Indorsed—Changes in Anti-Trust Law Favored.

The platform adopted by the Republican convention opens with a prearranged reaffirmation of allegiance to the party's principles and declares its "unflinching and unchanging faith in government" by the people, by the people and for the people.

The platform expresses in strong language a demand for the continuance of an "untrammelled and independent judiciary." It declares for a continuation of the constitution of the United States as it stands today.

It promises to continue to be a party of "advance and constructive statesmanship."

The platform promises to strive, not only in the nation, but in the several states, to enact legislation to safeguard the public health, limit activities by the labor of women and children, and to protect wage earners engaged in dangerous occupations and to enact workmen's compensation laws.

Upheld Court's Integrity. The platform reaffirms its intention to uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, both state and federal, and demands that the power of the courts to protect life, liberty and property, shall be held inviolate.

The platform favors legislation which will bring more hasty decisions by the courts in both civil and criminal cases, and less tedious and costly appeals.

While announcing that the party regards the recall of judges as unnecessary, the platform declares for such action as may simplify the removal from office of any judge who may be found derelict in his duty.

It indorses the Taft peace idea and the settlement of international disputes peacefully and the reference of justifiable controversies between nations to an international court of justice.

Anti-Trust Laws. It declares against special privilege and monopoly and recommends amendments to the present anti-trust laws, defining criminal offenses against the law, and providing for the punishment of the violators.

It recommends the creation of a federal trade commission for the administration and enforcement of federal laws governing interstate commerce and enterprises.

The platform reaffirms Republican belief in a protective tariff. It denounces the tariff for revenue only idea, as destructive to many industries. It recommends the reduction of some of the present import duties.

The Democratic party is censured for failure to provide funds for the continuance of the tariff board.

The Democratic tariff bills, passed by the present house of representatives, are condemned as sectional, injurious to public credit and destructive of business enterprise.

Provision to Lower "High Cost." There is a cost of living plank. It recommends a scientific inquiry into the causes, which are operative both in the United States and elsewhere, to increase the cost of living. When the exact facts are known the party pledges itself to enact legislation to remove the causes.

A more elastic currency law is demanded. The platform also asks for legislation which will give the farmers better facilities for borrowing money easily and cheaply. It urges on authoritative investigation of agricultural credit societies and corporations.

It favors the passage of state and federal laws for the supervision of organizations having for their purpose the loaning of money to farmers.

The platform urges the passage of a law enabling the president to extend civil service as far as practicable.

Prohibition of campaign contributions by corporations is urged.

The publication of campaign contributions is favored.

Favors Conservation. The platform favors the continuation of the conservation policy.

It favors the establishment of a parcels post, postal rates to be graduated under a new system in proportion to length of carriage.

It declares for the passage of an adequate navy and condemns the Democratic house of representatives for refusing to authorize the construction of additional battleships.

It urges a revival of the merchant marine.

It urges the federal government to assume a part of the burden of controlling the food waters of the Mississippi river.

True to Life. "What success have you had with the portrait of your mother-in-law?" Tremendous. It is such a speaking likeness that my brother, when he came to look at it, instinctively put his finger behind his back."—Fleegande Bleeter.

No Limit. "Gone with the Wind"—"Do you want me to show you my new dress?" I asked her. "You'd better go to the back of the house."—Fleegande Bleeter.

Mr. French friendly inquired.

"Yes; he went upstairs to see how the new drill is acting," Bailey pulled out a handkerchief and rubbed his brow. "He's a warm. Yes, he wants me to strengthen a knuckle—his spoken considerable about it. I guess he's right; better too much than too little."

BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in spotsches breaking out right in the edge of my hair on the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or eczema.

"For three years I had this terrible breaking out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them for two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) C. D. Tharrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 16, 1911.

"Itching Scalp—Hair Fell Out." "I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out and left me three bald spots the shape of a half dollar. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap, and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt relieved right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." "It might be well, but I am opposed to having a married man read the document. It does not do to allow them to encourage themselves too much."

Needed No More Help.

An American gentleman got acquainted with a Frenchman who was very anxious to acquire the English language. The American in order to help him said that if he would send his exercises to him he would willingly correct them.

Nothing was heard from the Frenchman for some time, but finally a letter came couched in the following choice English:

"In small time I can learn so many English from his text-book and her dictionary as I think I will come to the America and to go on the scaffold to lecture."

DOCTOR'S SHIFT.

Now Gets Along Without it.

A physician says: "Until last fall I used to eat meat for my breakfast and suffered with indigestion until the meat had passed from the stomach."

"Last fall I began the use of Grape-Nuts for breakfast and very soon found I could do without meat, for my body got all its nourishment from the Grape-Nuts and since then I have not had any indigestion and am feeling better and have increased in weight."

"Since finding the benefit I derived from Grape-Nuts I have prescribed the food for all my patients suffering from indigestion or over-feeding and also for those recovering from disease where I want a food easy to take and certain to digest and which will not overtax the stomach."

"I always find the results I look for when I prescribe Grape-Nuts. For ethical reasons please omit my name. Name given by mail to Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

The reason for the wonderful amount of nutriment, and the easy digestion of Grape-Nuts is not hard to find.

In the first place, the starchy part of the wheat and barley goes through various processes of cooking, to perfectly change the starch into dextrine or grape-sugar, in which state it is ready to be easily absorbed by the blood.

KEEPING BABIES IN HEALTH

Success of Tent Scheme Last Summer So Pronounced That It Will Be Repeated.

Mothers of little babies that suffered much from the intense heat in the early part of July last summer will be interested in the success of the "baby tent" scheme adopted in some of the big cities.

The tents are placed on flat roofs of tall buildings and in open lots, with eight, little cradles or cots in each tent. When all was ready mothers of babies under two years were invited to leave them at the nearest available tent over night, so that the youngsters, in addition to enjoying the privilege of sleeping out of doors, could also receive the attention of trained nurses and doctors free.

Some of the tents have a perforated iron pipe extending along the ridge pole and connected with the city water supply. On very hot nights the water was turned on and allowed to stream down over the canvas. By evaporation it greatly reduced the temperature inside the tents. Some of the tents were also kept cool by the use of large blocks of ice in tubs before the entrance. Electric fans blew the cold air from the ice into the tents sufficiently to keep the babies comfortably cool.

This is the way some of the poor babies are being cared for, but the ideas could be utilized by any one who had the welfare of the baby at heart.

The First Consideration.

At St. Andrews some years ago a old farmer and his plowman were carting sand from the seashore. They were behind the target on the rifle range, but hidden by a bank of sand from a party of volunteers, who were on foot, at practice. A stray ball struck the plowman on the leg, and he immediately dropped, exclaiming: "I'm shot!"

Without more ado the farmer scrambled up the bank and, waving his hands to the volunteers, shouted: "Hey, jads, stop that, will ye! You've shot a plowman, and it might have been the horse!"—London Tit-Bits.

Unwary.

"Why do you avoid Mrs. Wombat?"

"I think she's been talking about me."

"Nonsense, I'm with her constantly, and I've never heard her say a word."

"Well, there's no telling when she'll begin. She moved into the house we moved out of."

The Paxton Toilet Co. of Boston, Mass., will send a large trial box of Paxton Antiseptic, a delightful cleansing and germicidal toilet preparation to any woman, free, upon request.

Long Service.

"You say you were in one place for ten years. Why did you leave?"

"I was pardoned by the governor."

—Judge.

His Choice.

"This enterprise is a promising one," said Mr. B. But what I'm looking for is a paying proposition."

Make your failure tragical by the earnestness of your endeavor, and then it will not differ much from success.—Thornton.

It's difficult for the average man to understand why some women are jealous of their husbands.

A great deal in Goshall Tea Co., Boston, Mass., is doing for people will repay you.

Nothing succeeds like the efforts of some people to be disagreeable.

Some men think money can do anything. A certain rich man sent for the doctor, who looked him over and then pronounced judgment.

"You have been living too high."

"Maybe I have. There are many good things in the markets."

"No lefter. You have violated nature's laws and you must pay the penalty."

"Pay the penalty? Oh, come now, Doc. Can't you get me off on a technicality or something?"

Every time the wrong young man calls on a girl she always says to some other girl the next day "I thought he never would go home."

The best of all kitchen cabinets. It is a masterpiece of art and science. It is the only kitchen cabinet that is perfect in every way. It is the only kitchen cabinet that is perfect in every way. It is the only kitchen cabinet that is perfect in every way.

VALUE OF THE ONION.
The onion has wonderful properties and is both a food and a medicine. For colds and coughs it is a remedy popular through many generations.

A few onions sliced and sprinkled generously with sugar, put into the oven and baked until the onion and sirup is brown is a cough medicine hard to equal.

Raw onions are said to cure bronchitis and throat affections. The only drawback to the full enjoyment of this homely vegetable is the odor which it leaves on the breath. Fresh parsley eaten after eating onions is the best remedy to counteract the onion odor.

Raw onion is more stimulating than cooked ones and they are said to have a beneficial effect on the complexion, so the onion eaters have some compensation.

Creamed Onions on Toast. Peel onions all of one size and put to cook in a little stock with a blade of mace, and cook gently until tender. Drain and keep the onions hot, then add a half cup of milk to the onion liquid. Add a little flour and butter cooked to gether. Boil and season. Prepare a piece of toast for each onion. Add a onion on each piece of toast, pour over some of the sauce, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve hot.

Chopped onion seasoned with a bit of mustard, salt and olive oil and vinegar makes a very appetizing filling for sandwiches. Serve them for Sunday night lunch—after church.

The delicious flavor of the onion is used in countless dishes and eaten with relish by many who profess to dislike the flavor.

Stuffed Onions. Parboil large-sized onions and remove the centers. Fill with seasoned sausage or a filling of nuts and crumbs. Bake and serve with soup stock or butter and water. Serve as a garnish for pork roast, chops or steak.

Nellie Maxwell.

POETS HAVE HAD WRONG IDEA

Their Rhapsodies about the "Deep, Blue Sea" Shown to Have No Foundation in Fact.

The poet sings of the "deep, blue sea," but the sea is not always blue by any means. There are any number of colors to be observed in the oceans, and many interesting facts have been gathered with respect to them.

The Mediterranean and Caribbean seas present the true blue color. The extraordinary blueness of the first named has been assigned to two causes. One is that very few large rivers of fresh water enter it. The other is that the Mediterranean, practically landlocked and exposed to powerful sunlight, has the greatest evaporation of all seas. By actual test, it has been ascertained that the Mediterranean water is heavier and saltier than the water of the Atlantic ocean, which is an important circumstance in the consideration of the cause of its color.

Aside from blue and green, other colors are to be seen in the world's seas and oceans. In January, 1909, a river of yellow water, three miles wide and of enormous length was observed running parallel with the Gulf Stream, it stretched from Cape Florida to Cape Hatteras and was undoubtedly caused by some submarine upheaval, probably of a volcanic nature. It endured for some weeks.

In 1901, off the California coast, the sea turned almost black. The whole of Santa Cruz bay assuming this extraordinary inky hue, and fishing came to an end. In this case no definite reason was ascertained for the phenomenon.

The dull reddish tint that is seen in the Red sea, and which has given that body of water its name, is said to be due to the presence of millions upon millions of microscopic algae.

The Yellow sea of China is supposed to owe its color to the floods of muddy water that the great rivers pour into it, but many scientists are of opinion that the color is to be ascribed to the living organisms that flourish in the waters.

Generally speaking, the blueness of sea water is in constant ratio to its saltness. In the tropics the tremendous evaporation induced by the blazing sun causes the water to be much more salt than it is in more northern latitudes. For about thirty degrees both north and south of the equator the waters are of an exquisite saffron. Beyond these latitudes the blue fades and the color becomes green.

"Not Worth a Rap" Is Irish.
The hard to rap, an expression frequently heard to indicate something as being valueless, originated in Ireland. The rap was a counterfeit coin current in Ireland for a halfpenny in the time of George I.

My little boy stood open-mouthed, while a friend elaborated the details of a sudden death. The patient had not been considered very seriously ill, and his nurse entered, bringing a baked potato for which the sick man had expressed a wish. "But," said my friend, "before he had tasted it, he died." I deprecated the address of such recital before the child, but I need not have feared. His baby voice piped out: "And what became of the potato?"—Harper's Weekly.
